15 And Hezekiah prayed before the Lord, and said, O Lord God of Israel, which dwellest betweene the Cherubims, thou art very God alone over all the kingdomes of the earth: thou hast made the heaven and the earth.

^k Shew by effect that thou wilt not suffer thy Name to be blasphemed.

16 Lord, bow downe thine eare, and heare: Lord open thine eyes and behold, and heare the word of Saneherib, who hath sent to blaspheme the living God.

17 Truth it is, Lord, that the kings of Asshur have destroyed the nations and their lands.

18 And have set fire on their gods: for they were no gods, but the work of mans hands, even wood and stone: therefore they destroyed them.

19 Now therefore, O Lord our God, I beseech thee, save thou us out of his hand, that all the kingdomes of the earth may know, that thou, O Lord, art onely God.

^m He sheweth for what end the faithfull desire of God to be delivered: to wit, that he may be glorified by their deliverance.

20 ¶ Then Isaiah the sonne of Amoz sent to Hezekiah, saying, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, I have heard that which thou hast prayed me, concerning Saneherib king of Asshur.

ⁿ Because as yet Jerusalem had not beene taken by the enemy, therefore he calleth her virgin.

21 This is the word that the Lord hath spoken against him, O Virgin, daughter of Zion, he hath despised thee, and laughed thee to scorne: O daughter of Jerusalem, he hath shaken his head at thee.

22 Whom hast thou railled on? and whom hast thou blasphemed? and against whom hast thou exalted thy voice, and lifted up thine eyes on high? even against the holy one of Israel.

^o God commeth that injury done to him, and will revenge it, which is done to any of his saints.

23 By thy messengers thou hast railled on the Lord, and said, By the multitude of my charrets I am come up to the top of the mountaines, by the sides of Lebanon, and will cut downe the high Cedars thereof, and the faire firre trees thereof, and I will goe into the lodging of his borders, and into the forest of his Carmel.

24 I have digged, and drunk the waters of others, and with the plant of my feet have I dried all the fouds closed in.

25 Hast thou not heard, how I have of old time made it, and have formed it long agoe? and should I now bring it, that it should be destroyed, and layed on ruinous heapes, as cities defended?

^r Or, the waters of cities besieged. ^s He declareth that forasmuch as he is the author and beginning of his Church, he will never suffer it utterly to be destroyed, as other cities and kingdomes.

26 Whose inhabitants have small power, and are afraid, and confounded: they are like the grass of the field, and greene herbe, or grass on the house tops, or as corne blasted before it be growne.

^t Thus he describeth the wicked, which for a time flourish, and afterward fade and decay like flowers.

27 I know thy dwelling, yea, thy going out, and thy comming in, and thy fury against me.

28 And because thou ragest against me, and thy tumult is come up to mine eares, I will put mine hook in thy nostrils, and my bridle in thy lips, and will bring thee back againe the same way thou camest.

^u I will bridle thy rage, and turne thee to and fro at pleasure me.

29 And this shall be a signe unto thee, O Hezekiah, Thou shalt eat this yeare such things as grow of themselves, and the next yeare such as grow without sowing, and the third yeare sowe ye and reape, and plant vineyards, and eat the fruits thereof.

^v God did not only promise him the victory, but giveth him a signe to confirme his faith.

30 And the remnant that is escaped of the house of Judah, shall againe take root downward, and beare fruit upward.

^w The Lord will multiply in great number that small remnant of Iudah that is escaped.

31 For out of Jerusalem shall go a remnant, and some that shall escape out of mount Zion: the zeale of the Lord of hosts shall doe this.

^x The love that God beareth toward his Church shall overcome the counsels and enterprises of men.

32 Wherefore thus saith the Lord, concerning the king of Asshur, He shall not enter into this city, nor shoot an arrow there, nor come before it with shield, nor cast a mount against it:

33 But he shall returne the way he came, and shall not come into this city, saith the Lord.

34 For I will defend this citie to save it for mine owne sake, and for David my servants sake.

35 ¶ And the same night, the Angel of the Lord went out, and smote in the camp of Asshur, an hundred fourescore and five thousand: so when they arose early in the morning, behold, they were all dead corpses.

36 So Saneherib king of Asshur departed, and went his way, and returned, and dwelt in Nineveh.

^z This was the just judgement of God for his blasphemy, that he should be slain before that Idoles, whom he preferred to the living God, and by them, by whom he ought by name to have beene defended.

37 And as he was in the temple worshipping Nisroch his god, Adramelech and Sharezer his sonnes, slew him with the sword: and they escaped into the land of Ararat, and Esarhaddon his sonne reigned in his stead.

CHAP. XX.

About that time was Hezekiah sicke unto death: and the Prophet Isaiah the son of Amoz came to him, & said unto him, Thus saith the Lord, Put thine house in an order: for thou shalt die, and not live.

^a 2. Chron. 32. 24. Isa. 38. 1.

2 Then he turned his face to the wall, and prayed to the Lord, saying,

^b That his mind might not be troubled.

3 I beseech thee, O Lord, remember now, how I have walked before thee in truth, and with a perfect heart, and have done that which is good in thy sight: and Hezekiah wept sore.

4 ¶ And afore Isaiah was gone out into the middle of the court, the word of the Lord came to him, saying,

^d Not so much for his owne death, as for feare that Idolatry should be restored, which he had destroyed, and so Gods name be dishonoured.

5 Turne againe, and tell Hezekiah the captaine of my people, Thus saith the Lord God of David thy father, I have heard thy prayer, and seene thy teares: behold, I have healed thee, and the third day thou shalt goe up to the house of the Lord,

6 And I will adde unto thy dayes fiftene yeares, and will deliver thee and this citie out of the hand of the king of Aschur, and will defend this citie for mine owne sake, and for David my servants sake.

7 Then Isaiiah said, Take a lump of drie figs. And they took it, and laid it on the boile, and he recovered.

8 ¶ For Hezekiah had said unto Isaiiah, What shall be the signe that the Lord will heale me, and that I shall goe up into the house of the Lord the third day?

9 And Isaiiah answered, This signe shalt thou have of the Lord, that the Lord will doe that he hath spoken, Will thou that the shadow goe forward ten degrees, or goe back ten degrees?

10 And Hezekiah answered, It is a light thing for the shadow to passe forward ten degrees: not so then, but let the shadow goe back ten degrees.

11 And Isaiiah the Prophet called unto the Lord, and he brought againe the shadow ten degrees backe, by the degrees whereby it had gone down in the diall of Ahaz.

12 ¶ The same season Berodach Baladan the son of Baladan king of Babel, sent letters and a present to Hezekiah: for he had heard how that Hezekiah was sicke.

13 And Hezekiah heard them, and shewed them all his treasure-house, so wit, the silver, and the gold, and the spices, and precious ointment, and all the house of his armour, and all that was found in his treasures: there was nothing in his house, and in all his realme, that Hezekiah shewed them not.

14 Then Isaiiah the Prophet came unto king Hezekiah, and said unto him, What said these men? and from whence came they to thee? And Hezekiah said, They be come from a farre countrey, even from Babel.

15 Then said he, What have they seene in thine house? And Hezekiah answered, All that is in mine house have they seene: there is nothing among my treasures, that I have not shewed them.

16 And Isaiiah said unto Hezekiah, Heare the word of the Lord.

17 Behold, the dayes come, that all that is in thine house, and whatsoever thy fathers have layed up in store unto this day, shall be caried into Babel: Nothing shall be left, sayth the Lord.

18 And of thy sonnes, that shall proceed out of thee, and which thou shalt beget, shall they take away, and they shall be eunuches in the palace of the king of Babel.

19 Then Hezekiah said unto Isaiiah, The word of the Lord which thou hast spoken, is good: for said he, Shall it not be good, if peace and truth be in my dayes?

20 Concerning the rest of the acts of Hezekiah, and al his valiant deeds, and how he made a poole and a conduit, and brought water into the citie, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah?

21 And Hezekiah slept with his fathers: and Manasseh his sonne reigned in his stead.

CHAP. XXI.

3 King Manasseh restoreth idolatry. 14 and useth great cruelty. 18 He dieth, and Amon his sonne succeedeth. 23 Who is killed of his owne servants. 26 After him reigneth Josiah.

Manasseh * was twelve yeares old when he began to reigne, and reigned fifty and five yeares in Jerusalem: his mothers name also was Hephzi-bah.

2 And he did evill in the sight of the Lord after the abomination of the heathen, whom the Lord had cast out before the children of Israel.

3 For he went back and built the high places, * which Hezekiah his father had destroyed: and he erected up altars for Baal, and made a grove, as did Ahab King of Israel, and worshipped all the hoste of heaven, and served them.

4 Also he * built altars in the house of the Lord, of the which the Lord said, * In Jerusalem will I put my Name.

5 And he built altars for all the host of the heaven, in the two courts of the house of the Lord.

6 And he caused his sonnes to * passe thorow the fire, and gave himselfe to witchcraft and sorcerie, and he used them that had familiar spirits, and were sooth sayers, and did much evill in the sight of the Lord, to anger him.

7 And he set the image of the grove, that he had made, in the house, whereof the Lord had said to David, and to Salomon his son, * In this house and in Jerusalem, which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, will I put my Name for ever.

8 Neither will I make the feet of Israel move any more out of the land, which I gave their fathers: so that they will observe and doe all that I have commanded them, and according to all the Law that my servant Moses commanded them.

9 Yet they obeyed not: but Manasseh led them out of the way to doe more wickedly then did the heathen people, whom the Lord destroyed before the children of Israel.

10 Therefore the Lord spake by his servants the Prophets, saying,

11 * Be-

1 He acknowledge, that Isaiiah was the true Prophet of God, and therefore humbled himselfe to his word.

2 Seeing that God hath shewed me this favour, to grant me quietnes during my life: for he was afraid lest the enemies should have had occasion to rejoyce, if a Church had decayed in this time, because he had restored religion.

b Therefore saying they obeyed not the commandment of God, they were justly cast forth of the land, which they had but on condition.

d Because of his unfained repentance and prayer, God turned away his wrath, to give thanks for thy deliverance.

11 * Because that Manasseh king of Judah hath done such abominations, and hath wrought more wickedly then all that the Amorites (which were before him) did, and hath made Judah sinne also with his idoles:

12 Therefore thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Behold, I will bring an evill upon Jerusalem and Judah, that who so heareth of it, both his eares shall tingle.

13 And I will stretch over Jerusalem the line of Samaria, and the plummet of the house of Ahab: and I will wipe Jerusalem, as a man wipeth a dish, which he wipeth, and turneth it upside down.

14 And I will forsake the remnant of mine inheritance, and deliver them into the hand of their enemies, and they shall be robbed and spoiled of all their adversaries,

15 Because they have done evill in my sight, and have provoked me to anger, since the time their fathers came out of Egypt untill this day.

16 Moreover Manasseh shed innocent blood exceeding much, till he replenished Jerusalem from corner to corner, beside his sinne wherewith he made Judah to sinne, and to doe evill in the sight of the Lord.

17 Concerning the rest of the acts of Manasseh, and all that he did, and his sinne that he sinned, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah?

18 And Manasseh slept with his fathers, and was buried in the garden of his own house, even in the garden of Uzzah: and Amon his son reigned in his stead.

19 ¶ Amon was two and twentie year old, when he began to reigne, and he reigned two year in Jerusalem: his mothers name also was Meshullemeth the daughter of Haruz of Jotbah.

20 And he did evill in the sight of the Lord, as his father Manasseh did.

21 For he walked in all the way that his father walked in, and served the idoles that his father served, and worshipped them.

22 And he forlook the Lord God of his fathers, and walked not in the way of the Lord.

23 And the servants of Amon conspired against him, and slew the king in his own house.

24 And the people of the land slew all them that had conspired against King Amon, and the people made Josiah his sonne King in his stead.

25 Concerning the rest of the acts of Amon, which he did, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah?

26 And they buried him in his sepulchre in the garden of Uzza: and Josiah his sonne reigned in his stead.

C H A P. XXII.

1 Josiah repaireth the Temple. 2 Hilkiah findeth the booke of the Law, and causeth it to be presented to Josiah, 12 Who sendeth to Huldah the Prophetsse to enquire the Lords will.

1 Josiah was eight year old when he began to reigne, and he reigned one and thirty year in Jerusalem. His mothers name also was Jedidah the daughter of Adajah of Bozath.

2 And he did uprightly in the sight of the Lord, and walked in all the wayes of David his father, and bowed neither to the right hand, nor to the left.

3 ¶ And in the eighteenth year of king Josiah, the king sent Shaphan the sonne of Azalia the son of Meshullam the chancellor to the house of the Lord, saying,

4 Go up to Hilkiah the high Priest, that he may summe the silver which is brought into the house of the Lord, which the keepers of the doore have gathered of the people.

5 And let them deliver it into the hand of them that doe the work, and have the oversight of the house of the Lord: let them give it to them that worke in the house of the Lord, to repaire the decayed places of the house:

6 To wit, unto the artificers, and carpenters, and masons, and to buy timber, and hewed stone to repair the house.

7 Howbeit, let no reckoning be made with them of the money, that is delivered into their hand: for they deal faithfully.

8 And Hilkiah the high Priest said unto Shaphan the Chancellour, I have found the booke of the Law in the house of the Lord: and Hilkiah gave the booke to Shaphan, and he read it.

9 So Shaphan the chancellour came to the king, and brought him word againe, and said, Thy servants have gathered the money, that was found in the house, and have delivered it unto the hands of them that doe the worke, and have the oversight of the house of the Lord.

10 Also Shaphan the chancellour shewed the King, saying, Hilkiah the Priest hath delivered me a booke, And Shaphan read it before the King.

11 And when the King had heard the words of the booke of the Law, he rent his clothes.

12 Therefore the King commanded Hilkiah the Priest, and Ahikam the sonne of Shaphan, and Achbor the son of Michajah, and Shaphan the chancellor, and Asahiah the kings servant, saying,

13 Go ye, and inquire of the Lord for me, and for the people, & for all Judah concerning the words of this booke that is found: for great is the wrath of the Lord that is kindled against us, because our fathers have

15 And she answered them, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Tell the man that sent you to me,

16 Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will bring evil upon this place, and on the inhabitants thereof, even all the words of the booke which the king of Judah hath read, 17 Because they have forsaken me, and have burnt incense unto other gods, to anger me with all the ^h works of their hands: my wrath also shall be kindled against this place, and shall not be quenched.

18 But to the king of Judah, who sent you to enquire of the Lord, so shall ye say unto him, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, The words that thou hast heard, shall come to passe.

19 But because thine heart did ^h melt, and thou hast humbled thy selfe before the Lord, when thou heardest what I spake against this place, and against the inhabitants of the same, to wit, that it should be destroyed and accursed, and hast rent thy clothes, and wept before me, I have also heard it, saith the Lord.

20 Behold therefore, I will gather thee to thy fathers, and thou shalt be put in thy grave in ^k peace, and thine eyes shall not see all the evil, which I will bring upon this place. Thus they brought the king word again.

C H A P. XXIII.

2 Josiah readeth the Law before the people. 3 He maketh a covenant with the Lord. 4 He putteth down the idoles. after he had killed their Priests. 22 He keepeth the Passover. 24 He destroyeth the Conjurers. 29 He was killed in Megiddo. 30 And his son Jehoahaz reigneth in his stead. 33 After he was taken, his son Jehojakim was made king.

Then ^a the King ^a sent, and there gathered unto him all the Elders of Judah and of Jerusalem.

2 And the king went up into the house of the Lord, with all the men of Judah, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem with him, and the Priests, and Prophets, and all the people both small and great: and he read in their eares all the words of the booke of the covenant, which was found in the house of the Lord.

3 And the King stood by the ^b pillar, and made a ^c covenant before the Lord, that they should walke after the Lord, and keep his commandments, and his testimonies, and his statutes, with all their heart, and with all their soule, that they might accomplish the words of this covenant written in this booke. And all the people stood to the covenant.

4 Then the king commanded Hilkiah the high Priest, and the ^d Priests of the second order, and the keepers of the doore, to bring out of the Temple of the Lord all the vessels that were made for Baal, and for the grove, and for all the hoste of heaven, and he burnt them without Jerusalem in the fields of Kedron, and caried ^e the powder of them into Beth-el.

5 And he put down the ^f Chemarims, whom the Kings of Judah had founded to burn incense in the high places, and in the cities of Judah, and about Jerusalem, and also them that burnt incense unto Baal, to the sun, and to the moone, and to the planets, and to all the hoste of heaven.

6 And he brought out the ^g grove from the Temple of the Lord without Jerusalem unto the valley of Kedron, & burnt it in the valley of Kedron, and stampd it to powder, and cast the dust thereof upon the ^h graves of the children of the people.

7 And he brake down the houses of the Sodomites, that were in the house of the Lord, where the women wove hangings for the grove.

8 Also he brought all the Priests out of the cities of Judah, and defiled the high places where the Priests had burnt incense, even from Geba to Beer-sheba; and destroyed the high places of the gates, that were in the entring in of the gate of Joshua the governour of the citie, which was at the left hand of the gate of the citie.

9 Neverthelesse the Priests of the high places came not up to the Altar of the Lord in Jerusalem, save onely they did eat of the unleavened bread among their brethren.

10 He defiled also ^k Topheth, which was in the valley of the children of Hinnom, that no man should make his son or his daughter passe thorow the fire to Molech.

11 He put down also the ^l horses that the kings of Judah had given to the sun at the entring in of the house of the Lord, by the chamber of Nethan-melech the Euntich, which was ruler of the suburbs, and burnt the charers of the sun with fire.

12 And the altars that were on the top of the chamber of Ahaz, which the kings of Judah had made, and the altars which Manasseh had made in the two courts of the house of the Lord did the King brake down, hasted thence, and cast the dust of them in the ^m brooke Kedron.

13 Moreover the King defiled the high places that were before Jerusalem, and Kings of Judah?

29 ¶ ^{*} In his dayes Pharaoh Nechoh king of Egypt went up against the king of Ashur to the river Perath. And king Jofiah went against him, whom when Pharaoh saw, he slew him at Megiddo.

^{* 2 Chron. 35. 20.}

30 Then his servants caried him dead from Megiddo, and brought him to Jerusalem, and buried him in his own sepulchre. And the people of the land tooke Jehoahaz the son of Jofiah, and anointed him, and made him king in his fathers stead.

34 ¶ And Pharaoh Nechoh made Eliakim the son of Iofiah king in stead of Io-siah his father, and turned his name to Ieho-jakim, and tooke Jehoahaz away, which when he came to Egypt, died there.

35 And Jehoachim gave the silver and the gold to Pharaoh, and taxed the land to give the money, according to the commandement of Pharaoh: he levied of every man of the people of the land, according to his value, silver and gold to give unto Pharaoh Nechoh.

36 Jehoachim was five and twentie yeares

a In the end of the third year of his reigne, and in the beginning of the fourth. Dan. 1. 1.

IN his * dayes came Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel up, and Jehojakim became his servant three yeare: afterward he turned and rebelled against him.

2 And the Lord sent against him bands of the Caldees, and bands of the Aramites, and bands of the Moabites, and bands of the Ammonites, and he sent them against Judah to destroy it, * according to the word of the Lord, which he spake by his servants the Prophets.

3 Surely by the ^b commandement of the Lord came this upon Judah, that he might put them out of his sight for the sins of Manasseh, according to all that he did,

4 And for the innocent blood that he shed, (for he filled Jerusalem with innocent blood) therefore the Lord would not pardon it.

5 Concerning the rest of the acts of Jehojakim, & all that he did, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah?

6 So Jehojakim ^c slept with his fathers, & Jehojachin his son reigned in his stead.

7 ¶ And the king of Egypt came no more out of his land: for the king of Babel had taken from the river of Egypt, unto the river [†] Perath, all that pertained to the king of Egypt.

8 Jehojachin ^d was eighteen yeares old, when he began to reigne, and reigned in Jerusalem three moneths. His mothers name also ^e was Nehushta, the daughter of Elnathan of Jerusalem.

9 And he did evil in the sight of the Lord, according to all that his father had done.

10 * In that time came the servants of Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel up against Jerusalem: so the citie was besieged.

11 And Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel came against the citie, and his servants did besiege it.

12 Then Jehojachin the King of Judah ^d came out against the King of Babel, he, and his mother, and his servants, and his princes, and his Eunuches: and the king of Babel took him in the eight yeare ^e of his reigne.

13 * And he caried out thence all the treasures of the house of the Lord, and the treasures of the Kings house, & brake all the vessels of gold, which Salomon king of Israel had made in the Temple of the Lord, as the Lord had said.

14 And he caried away all Jerusalem, and all the princes, and all the strong men of warre, ^e even ten thousand into captivitie, and all the workemen, and cunning men: so none remained saving the poore people of the land.

15 * And he caried away Jehojachin into Babel, and the Kings mother, and the Kings wives, and his Eunuches, and the mighty of the land caried he away into captivitie from Jerusalem to Babel.

16 And all the men of war, ^e even seven thousand, and carpenters, and locksmiths a thousand: all that were strong and apt for warre, did the King of Babel bring to Babel captives.

17 ¶ * And the King of Babel made Mat-taniah his uncle king in his stead, and changed his name to Zedekiah.

18 Zedekiah was one and twentie yeare old, when he began to reigne, and he reigned eleven yeares in Jerusalem. His mothers name also was Hamutal the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah.

19 And he did evil in the sight of the Lord, according to all that Jehojakim had done.

20 Therefore certainly the wrath of the Lord was against Jerusalem and Judah, until he cast them out of his ^f sight. And Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babel.

CHAP. XXV.

1 Jerusalem is besieged of Nebuchad-nezzar, and taken. 7 The sons of Zedekiah are slaine before his eyes, and after are his own eyes put out. 21 Judah is brought to Babylon. 23 Gedaliah is slaine. 29 Jehojachin is exalted.

ANd ^a in the ^a ninth yeare of his reigne, the ^b tenth moneth, and tenth day of the moneth, Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel came, he, and all his host against Jerusalem, and pitched against it, and they built [†] forts against it round about.

2 So the citie was besieged unto the eleventh yeare of king Zedekiah.

3 And the ninth day of the moneth the famine was ^c sore in the citie, so that there was no bread for the people of the land.

4 Then the citie was broken up, & all the men of warre ^d fled by night, by the way of the ^d gate, which is between two walles that was by the kings garden: now the Caldees were by the citie round about: and the King went by the way of the wilderneffe.

5 But the army of the Caldees pursued after the king, and took him in the deserts of Jericho, and all his hoste was scattered from him.

6 Then they tooke the king, and caried him up to the king of Babel to Riblah, where they ^e gave judgement upon him.

7 And they slew the sons of Zedekiah before his eyes, and put out the eyes of Zedekiah, and bound him in chaines, and caried him to Babel.

8 ¶ And in the fift moneth, and ^f seventh day of the moneth, which was the nineteenth yeare of King Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel, came Nebuzar-adan [†] chiefe steward, and servant of the king of Babel, to Jerusalem:

11 And the rest of the people that were left in the city, and those that were fled and fallen to the king of Babel, with the remnant of the multitude, did Nebuzar-adan chief steward carry away captive.

19 And out of the city he took an Eunuch that had the oversight of the men of warre, and ^a five men of them that were in the kings presence, which were found in the citie, and Sopher captain of the host, who mustered the people of the land, and threescore men of the people of the land, that were found in the citie.

20 And Nebuzar-adan the chief steward took them, and brought them to the king of Babel to Riblah.

21 And the king of Babel smote them, and slew them at Riblah in the land of Hamath. So Judah was carried away captive out of his own land.

* Jer. 40. 5. 9.

22 * Howbeit there remained people in the land of Judah, whom Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel left, and made Gedaliah the son of Ahikam the son of Shaphan ruler over them.

23 Then when all the captaines of the host, and ^a there men heard, that the king of Babel had made Gedaliah governour, they came to Gedaliah to Mizpah, to wit, Iihmael the son of Nethaniah, and Johanan the son of Kareah, and Serajah the son of Tanhumeth the Netophathite, and Jaazaniah the sonne of Maachathi, they and their men.

24 And Gedaliah ¹ sware to them, and to their men, and said unto them, Feare not to be the servants of the Caldees: dwell in the land, and serve the king of Babel, and ye shall be well.

l That is, he did exhort them in the Name of the Lord according to Jeremies counsell, to submit themselves to Nebuchad-nezzar, seeing it was the revealed will of the Lord.
* Jer. 41. 1.

25 * But in the seventh moneth, Iihmael the son of Nethaniah the son of Elisama, of the kings seed, came, and ten men with him, and smote Gedaliah, and he died, and so did he the Jews, and the Caldees that were with him at Mizpah.

26 Then all the people both small and great, and the captaines of the army arose, and came to ^m Egypt: for they were afraid of the Caldees.

m Contrary to Jeremies counsell, Jer. 40. 4. 42. and 43. chapters.

27 Notwithstanding in the seven and thirtieh year after ⁿ Jehojachin king of Judah was carried away, in the twelfth moneth, and the seven & twentieth day of the month, Evilmerodach king of Babel in the yeare that he began to reigne, did lift up the head of Jehojachin king of Judah out of the prison, n Thus long was he, his wife, and his children in Babylon, whom Nebuchad-nezzar son after his fathers death preferred to honour: thus by Gods providence the seed of David was relieved even unto Christ.

28 And spake kindly to him, and set his throne above the throne of the kings that were with him in Babel, 29 And changed his prison garments: and he did continually eate bread before him, all the dayes of his life.

30 And his ^o portion was a continuall portion given him by the king, every day a certain, all the dayes of his life.

THE FIRST BOOKE OF THE + CHRONICLES, OR + PARALIPOMENON.

THE ARGUMENT.

THe Jewes comprehend both these bookes in one, which the Grecians, because of the length, divide into two: and they are called Chronicles, because they note briefly the histories from Adam to the return from their captivité in Babylon. But these are not those bookes of Chronicles, which are so oft mentioned in the bookes of the kings of Iudah and Israel, which did at large set forth the storie of both the Kingdomes, and afterward perished in the captivité: but an abridgement of the same, and were gathered by Ezra, as the Jewes write, after their return from Babylon. This first booke containeth a brieft rehearſall of the children of Adam unto Abraham, Iſhak, Jaakob, and the twelſe Patriarches, chiefly of Iudah, and of the reigne of David, because Christ came of him according to the fleſh. And therefore it ſetteth forth more amply his actes, both concerning civill government, and alſo the adminiſtration, and care of things concerning religion, for the good ſucceſſe whereof he rejoyceth, and giveth thanks to the Lord.

37 The sonne of Tahath, the son of Affir, the sonne of Ebiasaph, the sonne of Korah, 38 The son of Izhar, the son of Kohath, the son of Levi, the son of Israel.

39 And his brother Afaph stood on his right hand : and Afaph was the son of Berechiah, the son of Shimea, 40 The son of Michael, the son of Baasjah, the son of Malchiah, 41 The son of Ethni, the son of Zerah, the son of Adajah, 42 The son of Erhan, the son of Zimnah, the son of Shimei, 43 The son of Jahath, the son of Gershom, the son of Levi.

44 And their brethren the sons of Merari were on the left hand, even Ethan the son of Kilhi, the sonne of Abdi, the son of Malluch,

45 The son of Hashabiah, the son of Amaziah, the son of Hilkiah, 46 The son of Amzi, the son of Bani, the son of Shamar, 47 The son of Mahli, the son of Mulhi, the son of Merari, the son of Levi.

48 ¶ And their brethren the Levites were appointed unto all the service of the Tabernacle of the house of God.

49 But Aaron and his sons burnt incense upon the altar of burnt-offering, and on the altar of incense; for all that was to do in the most holy place, and to make an atonement for Israel, according to all that Moses the servant of God had commanded.

moth in Gilead with her suburbs, and Ma-hanaim with her suburbs,

81 And Heshbon with her suburbs, and Jaazer with her suburbs.

CHAP. VII.

The genealogie of Issachar, 6 Benjamin, 13 Naphtali, 14 Manasseh, 20 Ephraim, 30 and Aser.

† Or, Phuah, a Who also is called Job, Gen. 46:
13.

And the sonnes of Issachar were Tola, and † Puah, ^a Jashub, and Shimon, four.

b That is, their number was round thus great when David numbered the people, a Sam.
24. 1.

2 And the sons of Tola, Uzzi, and Rephajah, and Jeriel, and Jahmai, and Jisam, and Shemuel, heads in the households of their fathers. Of Tola were valiant men of warre in their generations, ^b whose number was in the dayes of David two and twenty thousand, and six hundred.

c Meaning, the four sons, and the father.

3 And the sonne of Uzzi was Izrahajah, and the sonnes of Izrahajah, Michael, and Obadiah, and Joel, and Issiah, ^c five men, all princes.

4 And with them, in their generations, after the household of their fathers were bands of men of war for battel, six and thirty thousand: for they had many wives and children.

† Or, kinmen.

5 And their † brethren among all the families of Issachar were valiant men of war, reckoned in all by their genealogies fourescore and seven thousand.

d Called also Ash-bel, Gen. 46. 21.
e Num. 26. 38.
f Which were the chief; for they were seven in all.
g As appears, Gen.
46. 21.

6 ¶ The sonnes of Benjamin were Bela, and Becher, and ^d Jedai, ^e three.

h Called also Ash-
bel, Gen. 46. 21.
i Num. 26. 38.
j Which were the chief; for they were seven in all.
k As appears, Gen.
46. 21.

7 And the sons of Bela, Ezbon, and Uzzi, and Uzziel, and Jerimoth, and Iri, five heads of the households of their fathers, valiant men of war, and were reckoned by their genealogies, two & twenty thousand and thirty and foure.

8 And the sons of Becher, Zemerah, and Joash, and Eliezer, and Elioenai, and Omri, and Jerimoth, and Abiah, and Anathoth, and Alameth: all these were the sons of Becher.

9 And they were numbred by their genealogies, according to their generations, and the chief of the houses of their fathers, valiant men of warre, twenty thousand and two hundred.

10 And the son of Jedaiel was Bilhan, and the sons of Bilhan, Jeush, and Benjamin, and Ehud, and Chenaanah, and Zethan, and Tharshish, and Ahishahar.

11 All these were the sons of Jedaiel, chief of the fathers, valiant men of war, seventeen thousand & two hundred, marching in battell array to the war.

12 And Shuppim, and Huppim were the sons of † Ir, ^f but Hushim was the sonne ^g of † another.

† Or, Iri.
f Meaning, that he was not the sonne of Benjamin, but of Dan, Gen. 46. 23.
† Or, of Aser, † Or, Shalem,
Gen. 46. 24.
g These came of Dan and Naphtali, which were the sons of Bilhan, † Or, Iser, Num.
26. 30.
Isa. 17. 1.

13 ¶ The sons of Naphtali, Jahziel, and Guni, and Jezer, and † Shallum ^h of the sons of Bilhan.

14 The son of Manasseh was Ashriel whom he bare unto him, ⁱ but his concubine of Aram bare Machir the ^j father of Gilead.

15 And Machir took to wife the sister of Huppim and Shuppim, and the name of their sister was Maachah. And the name of the second son was Zelophehad, and Zelophehad had daughters.

16 And Maachah the wife of Machir bare a son, and called his name † Pereh, and the name of his brother was Shereth: and his sons were Ulam and Rakem.

Gen. 46. 23, 24, 25.
† Num. 26. 39, 31.

17 And the son of Ulam was Bedan. These were the sons of Gilead the son of Machir, the son of Manasseh.

18 And ^k his sister Molecheth bare Ishod, and Abiezer, and Mahalah.

h Meaning, the sister of Gilead.

19 And the sons of Shemida were Ahian, and Shechem, and Likhi, and Aniam.

20 ¶ The sons also of Ephraim were Shuthelah, and Bered his son, and Tahath his son, and his son Eladah, and Tahath his sonne,

21 And Zabad his son, and Shuthelah his son, and Ezer, and Elead: and the men of Gath that were born in the land, slew them, because they came down to take away their cattell.

i Which were one of the five principal cities of the Philistines, the
the Ephraim.

22 Therefore Ephraim their father mourned many dayes, and his † brethren came to comfort him.

† Or, kinfolde.

23 And when he went to his wife, she conceived, and bare him a son, and he called his name Beriah, because affliction was in his house.

24 And his † daughter was Sherah, which built Beth-horon the nether, and the upper, and Uzzaen Sherah.

† Or, sister.

25 And Rephah was his ^k son, and Remeph, and Tola his son, and Tahan his sonne,

k To wit, of Ephraim.

26 Landan his son, Ammihud his son, Eliphaz his son,

27 Non his son, Jehoshua his son,

28 And their possessions and their habitations

tations were Beth-el, and the villages thereof, and Eastward Naaran, and Westward Gezer with the villages thereof, Shechem also and the villages thereof, unto \dagger Azzah, and the villages thereof.

29 And by the places of the children of Manasseh, Beth-shean and her villages, Taanach and her villages, Megiddo and her villages, Dor and her villages. In those dwelt the children of Joseph the son of Israel.

30 ¶ * The sons of Asher were Imnah, and Isuah, and Ishuai, and Beriah, and Serah their sister.

31 And the sons of Beriah, Heber, and Malchiel, which is the father of Birzavith.

32 And Heber begat Iaphlet and Shomer, and Horham, and Shua their sister.

33 And the sons of Iaphlet were Pasach, and \dagger Bimhal, and Ashuath: these were the children of Iaphlet.

34 And the sons of Shamer, Ahi, and Rohgah, Jehubbah, and Aram.

35 And the sons of his brother Helem were Zophah, and Jimna, and Sheleth, and Amal.

36 The sons of Zophah, Suah, and Harnepher, and Shual, and Beri, and Imrah, 37 Bezer, and Hod, and Shamma, and Shillhah, and Ithran, and Beera.

38 And the sons of Jether, Jephunneh, and Pispah, and Ara.

39 And the sons of Ulla, Harah, and Haniel, and Rizia.

40 All these were the children of Asher, the heads of their fathers houses, noble men, valiant men of warre, and chiefe princes, and they were reckoned by their genealogies for warre and for battell, to the number of six and twentie thousand men.

CHAP. VIII.

1 The sons of Benjamin. 33 And race of Saul.

Benjamin also ^a begat Bela his eldest son, Ashbel the second, and Aharah the third,

2 Nohah the fourth, and Rapha the fifth.

3 And the sons of Bela were Adder, and Gera, and Abihud,

4 And Abihua, and Naaman, and Ahoah,

5 And Gera, and Shephuphan, and Huram.

6 ¶ And these are the sons of Ehud: these were the chiefe fathers of those that inhabited Geba: and ^b they were carried away captives to Manahath:

7 And Naaman, and Ahiah, and Gera, he carried them away captives: and ^c he begate Uzza, and Ahihud.

8 And Shaharaim begate certaine in the country of Moab, after he had sent ^d away Hushim and Baara his wives.

9 He begat, I say, of Hodeh his wife, Jobab, and Zibia, and Melha, and Malcham, 10 And Jeuz, and Shachia, and Mirma: these were his sons, and chiefe fathers.

11 And of Hushim he begat Ahitub, and Elpaal.

12 And the sons of Elpaal were Eber, and Misham, and Shamed (which built Ono, and Lod, and the villages thereof)

13 And Beriah, and Shema (which were the chiefe fathers among the inhabitants of Ajalon: they drave away the inhabitants of Gath)

14 And Abio, Shashak, and Jerimoth, 15 And Sebadiah, and Arad, and Ader,

16 And Michael, and Ispah, and Ioha, the sons of Beriah, 17 And Zebadiah, and Meshullam, and Hizki, and Heber, 18 And Ishmerai, and Izliah, and Jobab, the sons of Elpaal, 19 Jakim also, and Zichri, and Sabdi,

20 And Elienai, and Zillerthai, and Eliel,

21 And \dagger Adajah, & Berajah, and Shim- ^e rath the sons of Shimei, 22 And Ishpan, and Eber, and Eliel,

23 And Abdon, and Zichri, and Hanan,

24 And Hananiah, and Elam, and Antothijah,

25 Iphedajah, and Penuel the sons of Shashak.

26 And Shamsherai, and Shehariah, and Athaliah,

27 And Jaareshiah and Eliah, and Zichri, the sons of Jeroham.

28 These were the chiefe fathers according to their generations, ^e even princes, which dwelt in Jerusalem.

29 Andat ^f Gibeon dwelt the father of Gibeon, and the name of his wife was Maachah. ^f Chap. 9. 35.

30 And his eldest son was Abdon, then Zur, and Kish, and Baal, and Nadab, 31 And Gidor, and Ahio, and Zacher:

32 And Mikloth begat Shimeah: these also dwelt with their bretheren in Jerusalem, ^g even by their bretheren.

33 And ^h Ner begate Kish, and Kish begate Saul, and Saul begate Jonathan, and Malchishua, and Abinadab, and ⁱ Eshbaal.

34 And the son of Jonathan was ^j Merib-baal, and Merib-baal begate Micah.

35 And the sons of Micah were Pithon, and Melech, and Tarea, and Ahaz:

36 And Ahaz begate Jehoadah, and Jehoadah begat Alemeth, and Azmaveth, and Zimri, and Zimri begate Moza, 37 And Moza begat Binea, whose son was Raphah, and his son Eleasah, and his son Azel.

38 And Azel had six sons, whose names are these, Azrikam, Bocheru, and Ithmael, and Sheariah, and Obadiah, and Hanan: all these were the sons of Azel.

39 And the sons of Eshek his brother

^a He continueth in the description of the tribe of Benjamin, because his purpose is to set forth the genealogie of Saul.

^b Meaning, the inhabitants of the citie of Geba.

^c Towir, Ehud.

^d After he had put away his two wives.

^e The chiefe of the tribe of Benjamin that dwelt in Jerusalem.

^f Chap. 9. 35.

^h He is also named Ishbosheth. 2 Sam. 2. 8.

ⁱ He is likewise called Mephibosheth. 2 Sam. 9. 6.

ther were Ulam his eldest son, Jehush, the second, and Eliphelet the third.

40 And the sons of Ulam were valiant men of warre which shot with the bow, and had many sons and nephewes, an hundreth and fiftie: all these were of the sons of Benjamin.

CHAP. IX.

¹ All Israel and Judah are numbred. ¹⁰ Of the Priests and Levites. ¹¹ 18 And of their offices.

THUS all Israel were numbred by their genealogies: and behold, they are written in the booke of the Kings of Israel and of Judah, and they were carried away to Babel for their transgression.

2 ¶ And the chiefe inhabitants that dwelt in their own possessions, and in their own cities, even Israel, the Priests, the Levites, and the ^b Nethinims.

3 And in Jerusalem dwelt of the children of Judah, and of the children of Benjamin, and of the children of Ephraim, and Manasseh.

4 Uthai the son of Ammihud, the son of Omri, the son of Imri, the son of Bani: of the children of Pharez, the son of Judah.

5 And of Shiloni, Asajah the eldest, and his sons.

6 And of the sons of Zerah, Javel, and their brethren six hundreth and ninetie.

7 And of the sons of Benjamin, Sallu the son of Meshullam, the son of Hodaviah, the son of Hafenuah,

8 And Ibneiah the son of Jeroham, and Elah the son of Uzzi, the son of Michri, and Meshullam the son of Shephatiah, the son of Revel, the son of Ibneiah.

9 And their brethren according to their generations, nine hundreth fiftie and six: all these men were [†] chiefe fathers in the households of their fathers.

10 ¶ And of the Priests, Jedajah, and Jehoharib, and Jachin,

11 And Azariah the son of Hilkiah, the son of Meshullam, the son of Zadok, the son of Merajoth, the son of Ahitub the ^c chiefe of the house of God,

12 And Adajah the son of Jeroham, the son of Pashtur, the son of Malchijah, and Maasai the son of Adiel, the son of Jahzerah, the son of Meshullam, the son of Meshillemith, the son of Immer.

13 And their brethren the chiefe of the households of their fathers, a thousand, seven hundreth and threescore valiant men, for the ^d worke of the service of the house of God.

14 ¶ And of the Levites, Shemajah the son of Hashtub, the son of Azrikam, the son of Hashabiah of the sons of Merari,

15 And Bakbakkar, Heresh, and Galal, and Mattaniah the son of Micha, the son of Zichri, the son of Asaph, 16 And Obadiah the son of Semajah, the son of Galal, the son of Jeduthun, and Berechiah, the son of Aza, the son of Elkannah, that dwelt in the villages of the Netophathites.

17 ¶ And the porters were Shallum, and Akkub, and Talmon, and Ahiman, and their brethren: Shallum was the chiefe.

18 For they were porters to this time by companies of the children of Levi unto the ^e kings gate Eastward.

19 And Shallum the son of Kore, the son of Ebiasaph the son of Korah, and his brethren the Korathites: (of the house of their father) were over the worke, and office to keep the gates of the ^f Tabernacle: so their families were over the hoste of the Lord, keeping the entrie.

20 And Phinehas the son of Eleazar was their guide, and the Lord was with him.

21 Zechariah the son of Meshelemiah was the porter of the doore of the Tabernacle of the Congregation.

22 All these were chosen for porters of the gates, two hundreth and twelve, which were numbred according to their genealogies by their towns. David established these and Samuel the Seer [†] in their perpetuall office.

23 So they and their children had the oversight of the gates of the house of the Lord, even of the house of the Tabernacle by wardes.

24 The porters were in foure quarters, Eastward, Westward, Northward, and Southward.

25 And their brethren which were in their townes, came at [‡] seven dayes from time to time with them.

26 For these foure chiefe porters were in perpetuall office, & were of the Levites, and had charge of the [†] chambers, and of the treasures in the house of God.

27 And they lay round about the house of God, because the charge was theirs, and they caused it to be opened every morning.

28 And certaine of them had the rule of the ministering vessels: for they brought them in by tale, and brought them out by tale.

29 Some of them also were appointed over the instruments, & over all the vessels of the Sanctuary, and of the ^h floure, and the wine, and the oyle, and the incense, and the sweet odours.

30 And certaine of the sons of the Priests made ointments of sweet odours.

31 And Mattithiah one of the Levites, which was the eldest son of Shallum the Korahite, had the charge of the things that were made in the frying pan.

32 And other of their brethren the sons of 39 And * Ner begate Kish, and Kish begate Saul, and Saul begate Jonathan, and Malchishua, and Abinadab, and Eshbaal.

40 And the son of Jonathan was Meribbaal: and Meribbaal begate Micah.

41 And the sons of Micah were Pithon, and Melech, and Tahrea.

k Who was also called Iehoudah Chap. 8. 36.

42 And Ahaz begate ^k Jarah, and Jarah begate Alemeth, and Azmaveth, and Zimri, and Zimri begate Moza.

43 And Moza begate Binea, whose son was Rephajah, and his son was Eleafah, and his son Azel.

44 And Azel had six sons, whose names are these, Azrikam, Bocheru, and Ismael, and Sheariah, and Obadiah, and Hanan: these are the sons of Azel.

CHAP. X.

1 The battell of Saul against the Philistims. * In which he dieth. 6 And his sons also. 13 The cause of Sauls death.

* 1. Sam. 31. 1.

Then * the Philistims fought against Israel: and the men of Israel fled before the Philistims, and fel down slaine in Mount Gilboa.

2 And the Philistims pursued after Saul, and after his sons, and the Philistims smote Jonathan, and Abinadab, and Malchishua the sons of Saul.

† Ebr. found.

3 And the battell was sore against Saul, and the archers † hit him, & he was wounded of the archers.

4 Then said Saul to his armour-bearer, Draw out thy sword, & thrust me thorow therewith, lest these uncircumcised come & mocke at me: but his armour-bearer would not, for he was sore afraid: therefore Saul tooke the sword and fell upon it.

5 And when his armour-bearer saw that Saul was dead, he fell likewise upon the sword, and died.

6 So Saul died and his three sons, and all his house, they died together.

7 And when all the men of Israel that were in the valley, saw how they fled, and that Saul and his sons were dead, they forooke their cities, and fled away, and the Philistims came and dwelt in them.

8 And on the morrow when the Philistims came to spoyle them that were slaine, they found Saul and his sons † lying in mount Gilboa. ^{† Ebr. fallen.}

9 And when they had stript him, they tooke his head, and his armour, and sent them into the land of the Philistims round about, to publish it unto their idoles, and to the people.

10 And they layd up his armour in the house of their god, and set up his head in the house of * Dagon.

11 ¶ When all they of Jabesh Gilead heard all that the Philistims had done to Saul, a Which was the idol of the Philistims, and from the belly downward had the forme of a fish, & upward of a man.

12 Then they arose (all the valiant men) and tooke the bodie of Saul, and the bodies of his sons, and brought them to Jabesh, and buried the bones of them under an oake in Jabesh, and fasted seven dayes.

13 So Saul died for his transgression, that he committed against the Lord, * even against the word of the Lord, which he kept not, and in that he fought and asked counsell of a † * familiar spirit,

CHAP. XI.

3 After the death of Saul is David anointed in Hebron. 5 The Iebusites rebell against David, from whom he taketh the tower of Zion. 6 Ioab is made captaine. 10 His valiant men.

Then * all Israel gathered themselves to David unto Hebron, saying, Behold, we are thy bones and thy flesh.

* 2. Sam. 5. 1.
a This was after the death of Ishbosheth Sauls son, when David had reigned over Iudah seven yeares and six moneths in Hebron 2. Sam. 5. 5.

2 And in time past, even when Saul was king, thou leddest Israel out and in: and the Lord thy God said unto thee, Thou shalt feed my people Israel, and thou shalt be captain over my people Israel.

3 So came all the Elders of Israel to the king to Hebron, and David made a covenant with them in Hebron before the Lord. And they anointed David king over Israel; * according to the word of the Lord by the hand of Samuel.

* 1. Sam. 16. 13.

4 ¶ And David and all Israel went to Ierusalem, which is Iebus, where were the Iebusites, the inhabitants of the land.

5 And the inhabitants of Iebus said to David, Thou shalt not come in hither. Nevertheless David tooke the tower of Zion, which is the citie of David.

6 And David said, * Whosoever smiteth the Iebusites first, shall be the chiefe and Captaine. So Ioab the son of Zeruiah went first up, and was captaine.

* 2. Sam. 5. 8.

7 And David dwelt in the tower there-

Hh 2

there-

therefore they called it the Citie of David.

* 2 Sam. 5. 9.

8 * And he built the city on every side, from Millo even round about: and Joab repaired the rest of the Citie.

9 And David prospered, and grew: for the Lord of hostes was with him.

* 2 Sam. 23. 8.

10 ¶ These also are the chiefe of the valiant men that were with David, and joyned their force with him in his kingdome with al Israel, to make him king over Israel, according to the word of the Lord.

11 And this is the number of the valiant men whom David had, Jashobeam the son of Hachmoni, the ^bchiefe among thirtie: he lift up his speare against three hundreth, whom he slew at one time.

b Meaning, the most excellent and best esteemed for his valiantnes: some reade, the chiefe of the Princes.
* Or, his uncle.

12 And after him was Eleazar the son of ‡ Dodo the Ahohite, which was one of the three valiant men.

13 He was with David at Pas-dammin, & there the Philistims were gathered together to bartel: and there was a parcel of ground full of barley, and the people fled before the Philistims.

14 And they stood in the middes of the field, and saved it, and slew the Philistims: so the Lord gave a great victory.

c This acte is referred to Shammah, 2 Sam. 23. 11. which seemeth was the chiefe of these.
d That is Eleazar and his two companions.

15 ¶ And three of the ^dthirtie Captaines went to a rocke to David, into the cave of Adullam. And the armie of the Philistims camped in the valley of Rephaim.

16 And when David was in the hold, the Philistims garison was at Beth-lehem.

* 2 Sam. 23. 15.

17 And David longed, and said, * Oh, that one would give me to drinke of the water of the well of Beth-lehem, that is at the gate.

18 Then these three brake thorow the hoste of the Philistims, and drew water out of the Well of Beth-lehem that was by the gate, and tooke it, and brought it to David: but David would not drinke of it, but powdered it for an oblation to the Lord.

e That is, this water, for the which they ventured their blood?

19 And said, Let not my God suffer me to do this: should I drinke the ^eblood of these mens lives? for they have brought it with the jeopardie of their lives: therefore he would not drinke it: these things did these three mightie men.

20 ¶ And Abishai the brother of Joab, he was chiefe of the three, and he lift up his speare against three hundred, & slew them, and had the name among the three.

* 2 Sam. 23. 19.

21 Among the three he was more honourable then the two, and he was their Captaine: * but he attained not unto the first three.

22 Benajah the son of Jehojada (the son of a valiant man) which had done many actes, and was of Kabzeel, he slew two ‡ strong men of Moab: he went down also and slew a Lion in the mids of a pit in time of snow.

‡ Or, lions.

23 And he shew an Egyptian, a man of great stature, even five cubits long, and in the Egyptians hand was a speare like a weavers beame: and he went down to him with a staffe, and plucked the speare out of the Egyptians hand, and slew him with his own speare.

24 These things did Benajah the son of Jehojada, and had the name among the three worthies.

25 Behold, he was honourable among thirtie, but he attained not unto the ^ffirst three. * And David made him of his counsel.

f Meaning, those three which brought the water to David.
* 2 Sam. 23. 23.

26 ¶ These also were valiant men of war, Asahel the brother of Joab, Elhanan the son of Dodo of Beth-lehem, 27 † Shammoth the Harodite, Helez the Pelonite,

C H A P. XII.

¹ Who they were that went with David when he fled from Saul.
²⁴ Their valiantheffe. ²³ They that came unto him unto Hebron out of every tribe to make him king.

THese also are they that came to David to ^a Ziklag, while he was yet kept close, because of Saul the son of Kish: and they were among the valiant, and helpers of the battel.

² They were weaponed with bowes, and could use the right and the left hand with stones, and with arrowes, and with bowes, and were of Sauls ^b brethren, even of Benjamin.

⁵ Eluzai, and Jerimoth, and Bealiath, and Shemariah, and Shephatiah the Haruphite,

⁶ Elkanah, and Jeshiah, and Azariel, and Joezer, and Jathobeam of Hakorehim, ⁷ And Joelah, and Zebadiah, the sons of Jeroham of [†] Gedor.

⁸ And of the Gadites there separated themselves some unto David into the hold of the wildernes, valiant men of war, ^c men of armes, and apt for battel, which could handle speare, and [†] shield, and their faces were like the faces of ^e Lions, and were like the Roes in the mountaines in swiftnesse,

⁹ Ezer the chiefe, Obadiah the second, Eliab the third,

¹⁰ [†] Mishmanah the fourth, Jeremiah the fift,

¹¹ Attai the sixt, Eliel the seventh,

¹² Johanan the eight, Elzabad the ninth,

¹³ Jeremiah the tenth, Machbannai the eleventh.

¹⁴ These were the sons of Gad, captaines of the host: one of the least could resist an hundred, and the greatest a thousand.

¹⁶ And there came of the children of Benjamin, and Judah to the hold unto David,

¹⁷ And David went out to meet them, & answered and said unto them, If ye be come peaceable unto me to helpe me, mine heart shall be knit unto you, but if you come to betray me to mine adversaries, seeing there is no wickednesse in mine hands, the God of our fathers behold it, and rebuke it.

¹⁸ And the ^e spirit came upon Amasai, which was the chiefe of thirtie, and he said, Thine are we, David, and with thee, O son of Ishai. Peace, peace be unto thee, and peace be unto thine helpers: for thy God helpeth thee. Then David received them, and made them captaines of the garison.

¹⁹ ¶ And of Manasseh some tell to David, when he came with the Philistims against Saul to battel, but they helped them not: for the princes of the Philistims ^f by advisement sent him away, saying, He will fall to his master Saul [†] for our heads.

²⁰ As he went to Ziklag, there fell to him of Manasseh, Adnah, and Jozabad, and Jedaiel, and Michael, and Jozabad, and Elihu, and Ziltay, heads of the thousands that were of Manasseh.

²¹ And they helped David against ^g that band: for they were all valiant men, and were captaines in the host.

²² For at that time day by day there came to David to helpe him, untill it was a great host, like the hoste of ^h God.

²³ And these are the numbers of the captaines that were armed to battel, and came to David to Hebron to turne the kingdome of Saul to him, according to the word of the Lord.

²⁴ The children of Judah that bare shield and [†] speare were fixe thousand and eight hundred armed to the warre.

²⁵ Of the children of Simeon valiant men of warre, seven thousand and an hundred.

²⁶ Of the children of Levi, foure thousand and six hundred.

²⁷ And Jehojada ⁱ was the chiefe of them of ⁱ Aaron: and with him three thousand and seven hundred.

²⁸ And Zadok a yong man very valiant, and of his fathers household came two and twentie captaines.

³⁰ And of the children of Ephraim twenty thousand, and eight hundred valiant men, and famous men in the household of their fathers.

³³ Of Zebulun that went out to battel, expert in warre, and in all instruments of warre, fiftie thousand [†] which could set the battell in aray: they were not of a [†] double heart.

37 And of the other side of Jordan of the Reubenites, and of the Gadites, and of the halfe tribe of Manasseh with all instruments of warre to fight with, an hundredth and twentie thousand.

38 ^m All these men of warre [†] that could leade an armie, came with [‡] upright heart to Hebron to make David King over all Israel: and all the rest of Israel ^{was} of one accord to make David King:

39 And there they were with David three dayes, eating and drinking: for their ⁿ brethren had prepared for them.

40 Moreover, they that were neere them untill Issachar, and Zebulun, and Naphtali brought bread upon asses, and on camels, and on mules, & on oxen, ^{even} meat, floure, figs, and raisons, and wine, and oyle, and beeves, and sheepe abundantly: for there was joy in Israel.

And David counselled with the captaines of thousands, and of hundredths, and with all the governours.

2 And David said to all the Congregation of Israel, if it seeme good to you, and that it procedeth of the Lord our God, we will send to and fro unto our brethren, that are left in all the land of Israel, (for with them are the Priests and the Levites in the cities and their suburbs (that they may assemble themselves unto us.

3 And we will bring againe the ^a Arke of our God to us: for we sought not unto it in the dayes of Saul.

4 And all the Congregation answered, Let us do so: for the thing seemed good in the eyes of all the people.

5 [¶] So David gathered all Israel together from [‡] Shihor in Egypt, even unto the entering of Hamath, to bring the Ark of God from ^b Kiriath-jearim.

6 And David went up and all Israel to [‡] Baalath, in Kiriath-jearim, that was in Judah, to bring up from thence the Arke of God the Lord, that dwelleth between the Cherubims, where his Name is called on.

7 And they caried the Arke of God in a new cart out of the house of Abinadab: & Uzza and Ahio ^g guided de cart.

8 And David and all Israel played before ^d God with all ^{their} might, both with songs, and with harps, and with violes, and with timbrels, and with cimbals, and with trumpets.

9 [¶] And when they came unto the threeishing floore of ^e Chidon, Uzza put forth his hand to hold the Arke, for the oxen did shake it.

10 But the wrath of the Lord was kindled against Uzza, and he smote him, because he layed his hand upon the Arke: so he died there ^f before God.

11 And David was angry, because the Lord had made a breach in Uzza, and he called the name of that place Perez-uzza unto this day.

12 And David feared God that day, saying, How shall I bring in to me the Arke of God?

13 Therefore David brought not the Arke to him into the citie of David, but caused it to turn into the house of ^g Obed Edom the Gittite.

14 So the Arke of God remained in the house of Obed Edom, ^{even} in his house three moneths: and the Lord blessed the house of Obed-Edom, and all that he had,

7 And Elishama, and [‡] Beeliada, and Eliphalet.

8 But when the Philistims heard that David was anointed King over Israel, all the Philistims came up to seek David. And when David heard, he went out against them.

9 And the Philistims came, and spread themselves in the valley of Rephaim.

10 Then David asked counsel at God, saying, Shall I goe up against the Philistims, and wilt thou deliver them into mine hand? And the Lord said unto him, Go up: for I will deliver them into thine hand.

13 Again the Philistims came and spread themselves in the valley.

14 And when David asked again counsel at God, God said to him, Thou shalt not go up after them, but turn away from them, that thou mayest come upon them over against the mulberry trees.

15 And when thou hearest the noise of one going in the tops of the mulberie trees, then go out to battell: for God is gone forth before thee, to smite the host of the Philistims.

16 So David did as God had commanded him: and they smote the host of the Philistims from Gibeon even to Gezer.

17 And the fame of David went out in to all lands: and the Lord brought the feare of him upon all nations.

CHAP. XV.

^a David prepareth an house for the Ark. ^b The number and order of the Levites. ^c The fingers are chosen out among them. ^d They bring again the ark with joy. ^e David dawning before it, is despised of his wife Michal.

And David made him houses in the city of David, and prepared a place for the ark of God, and pitched for it a tent.

2 Then David said, * none ought to cary the ark of God, but the Levites: for the Lord hath chosen them to beare the ark of the Lord, and to minister unto him for ever.

3 ¶ And David gathered all Israel together to Jerusalem to bring up the ^b ark of the Lord unto his place, which he had ordained for it.

4 And David assembled the sons of Aaron, and the Levites.

5 Of the sons of Kohath, Uriel the chief, and his brethren six score.

6 Of the sonnes of Merari, Asajah the chief, and his brethren two hundred and twenty.

7 Of the sonnes of Gerthom, Joel the chief, and his brethren an hundred and thirty.

8 Of the sons of ^c Elizaphan, Shemajah the chief, and his brethren two hundred.

9 Of the sonnes of ^d Hebron, Eliel the chief, and his brethren fourescore.

10 Of the sons of Uzziel, Amminadab the chief, and his brethren an hundred and twelve.

11 ¶ And David called Zadok and Abiathar the Priests, and of the Levites, Uriel, Asajah, and Joel, Shemajah, and Eliel, and Amminadab.

12 And he said unto them, Ye are the chief fathers of the Levites: * sanctifie yourselves, and your brethren, and bring up the ark of the Lord God of Israel unto the place that I have prepared for it.

13 For * because ye were not there at the first, the Lord our God made a breach among us: for we sought him not after ^e due order.

14 So the Priests and the Levites sanctified themselves to bring up the ark of the Lord God of Israel.

15 ¶ And the sonnes of the Levites bare the ark of God upon their shoulders with the barres, as Moses had commanded, * according to the word of the Lord.

16 And David spake to the chief of the Levites, that they should appoint certain of their brethren to sing with ^f instruments of musick, with viols, and harps, and cymbals, that they might make a sound, and lift up their voice with joy.

17 So the Levites appointed Heman the sonne of Joel, and of his bretheren, Asaph the son of Berechiah, and of the sons of Merari their brethren, Ethan the sonne of Kufhajah, 18 And with them their brethren in the ^h second degree, Zachariah, Ben, and Jazziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Vnni, Eliab, and Benajah, and Maasejah, and Mattithiah, and Elipheleh, and Mickneah, and Obed Edom, and Jeiel the porters.

19 So Heman, Asaph, and Ethan were fingers to make a sound with cymbals of brasse,

20 And Zachariah and Aziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Vnni, and Eliab, and Maasejah, and Benajah with viols on ⁱ Alamoth, 21 And Mattithiah, and Elipheleh, and Mickneah, and Obed Edom, and Jeiel, and Azaziah, with harps upon ^k Sheminith Je-nazzeah.

22 But Chenaniah the chief of the Levites had ^l the charge, bearing the burden in the charge, for he was able to instruct.

23 And Berechiah, and Elkanah were porters for the ark.

24 And Shecaniah, and Jehoshaphat, and Nathaneel, and Amasai, and Zachariah, and Benajah, and Elfezer the Priests did blow with trumpets before the ark of God, and Obed Edom and Jeijah were porters ^m for the ark.

25 * So David and the Elders of Israel, and the captains of thousands went to bring up the ark of the covenant of the Lord from the house of Obed Edom with joy.

27 And David had on him a linnen garment, as all the levites that bare the ark, and the fingers, and Chenaniah that had the chief charge of the fingers: and upon David was a linnen ^p Ephod.

28 Thus all Israel brought up the ark of the Lords covenant with shouting, and sound of cornet, and with trumpets, and with cymbals, making a sound with vials and with harps.

29 And when the ark of the ^q covenant of the Lord came into the city of David, Michael the daughter of Saul looked out at a window; and saw king David dancing and playing, and ^{*} she despised him in her heart.

SO ^{*} they brought in the ark of God, and set it in the mids of the Tabernacle that David had pitched for it, and they offered burnt-offerings and peace-offerings before God.

2 And when David had made an end of offering the burnt-offering & the peace offerings, he ^a blessed the people in the Name of the Lord.

3 And he dealt to every one of Israel both man and woman, to every one a cake of bread, and a piece of flesh, and a bottell of wine.

4 And he appointed certain of the Levites to minister before the ark of the Lord, and to ^b rehearse, and to thank and praise the Lord God of Israel:

5 Asaph the chief, and next to him Zechariah, Jeiel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Mattithiah, and Eliab, and Benajah, and Obed EDOM, even Jeiel with instruments, vials and harps, and Asaph to make a sound with cymbals,

3 David is forbidden to build an house unto the Lord. 12 Christ is promised under the figure of Salomon. 18 David groweth thanks. 23 And prayeth unto God.

NOW ^a afterward when David dwelt in his house, he said to Nathan the Prophet, Behold, I dwell in an house of cedar trees, but the ark of the Lords covenant remaineth under ^b curtaines.

2 Then Nathan said to David, Do all that is in thine heart: for God is with thee.

3 And the same ^d night even the word of God came to Nathan, saying,

4 Go, and tell David my servant, Thus saith the Lord, Thou shalt not build me an house to dwell in:

5 For I have dwelt in no house, since the day that I brought out the children of Israel unto this day, but I have been from tent to tent, and from habitation to habitation.

6 Wheresoever I have ^f walked with all Israel, spake I one word to any of the judges of Israel (whom I commanded to feed my people) saying, Why have ye not built me an house of cedar trees?

7 Now therefore thus shalt thou say unto my servant David, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, I took thee from the sheep-coate, ^g and from following the sheep, that thou shouldest be a prince over my people Israel.

8 And I have been with thee whithersoever thou hast walked, and have destroyed all thine enemies out of thy sight, and have ^h made thee a name, like the name of the great men that are in the earth.

12 He shall build me an house, and I will stablish his throne for ^k ever.

13 I will be his father, and he shall be my son, and I will not take my mercy away from him, as I took it from him that was before ^l thee.

14 But I will establish him in mine house, and in my kingdome for ever, and his throne shall be established for ever,

1 The battell of David against the Philistims 2 And against Moab, 3 Zobah, 5 Aram, 12 And Edom.

And after this, David smote the Philistims, and subdued them, and tooke Gath, and the villages thereof out of the hand of the Philistims.

2 And he smote Moab, and the Moabites became Davids servants, and brought gifts.

3 ¶ And David smote Hadarezer king of Zobah unto Hamath, as he went to stablish his border by the river Perath.

4 And David took from him a thousand charrets, and seven thousand horsemen, and twenty thousand footmen, and destroyed all the charrets, but he reserved of them an hundred charrets.

5 ¶ Then came the Aramites of Damascus to succour Hadarezer king of Zobah, but David slew of the Aramites two and twenty thousand.

6 And David put a garison in Aram of Damascus, and the Aramites became Davids servants, and brought gifts: and the Lord preserved David wheresoever he went.

7 And David took the shields of gold that were of the servants of Hadarezer, and brought them to Jerusalem.

8 And from Tibhath, and from Chun (cities of Hadarezer) brought David exceeding much brasse, wherewith Salomon made the brasen Sea, and the pillars, and the vessels of brasse.

9 ¶ Then Tou king of Hamath heard how David had smitten all the host of Hadarezer king of Zobah:

10 Therefore he sent Hadoram his son to king David, to salute him, and to rejoyce with him, because he had fought against Hadarezer, and beaten him (for Tou had war with Hadarezer) who brought all vessels of gold and silver and brasse.

11 And king David did dedicate them unto the Lord, with the silver and gold that he brought from all the nations, from Edom, and from Moab, and from the children of Ammon, and from the Philistims, and from Amaleck.

12 ¶ And Abihai the son of Zerviah smote of Edom in the salt valley eighteen thousand, 13 And he put a garison in Edom, and all the Edomites became Davids servants: and the Lord preserved David wheresoever he went.

14 So David reigned over all Israel, and executed judgement and justice to all his people.

15 And Joab the son of Zerviah was over the host, and Jehoshaphat the son of Ahilud Recorder,

16 And Zadok the son of Ahitub, and Abimelech the son of Abiathar were the Priests, and Shaulha the Scribe, 17 * And Benajah the sonne of Jehojada was over the Cherethites and the Pelethites: and the sons of David were chief about the king.

After this also Nahash the king of the children of Ammon died, and his son reigned in his stead.

2 And David said, I will shew kindnesse unto Hanun the son of Nahash, because his father shewed kindnesse unto me. And David sent messengers to comfort him for his father. So the servants of David came into the land of the children of Ammon to Hanun to comfort him.

3 And the princes of the children of Ammon said to Hanun, Thinkest thou that David doth honour thy father, that he hath sent comforters unto thee? Are not his servants come to thee to search, to seeke and to spie out the land?

4 Wherefore Hanun took Davids servants, and shaved them, and cut off their garments by the half unto the buttocks, and sent them away.

5 And there went certain and told David concerning the men: & he sent to meet them (for the men were exceedingly ashamed) and the king said, Tarry at Jericho, until your beards be grown: then return.

8 ¶ And when David heard it, he sent Joab and all the host of the valiant men.

9 And the children of Ammon came out, and set their battle in array at the gate of the city. And the kings that were come, were by themselves in the field.

10 When Joab saw that the front of the battle was against him before and behind, then he chose out of all the choise of Israel, and set himself in array to meet the Aramites.

11 And the rest of the people he delivered unto the hand of Abihai his brother, and they put themselves in array against the children of Ammon.

15 And when the children of Ammon saw that the Aramites fled, they fled also before Abihai his brother, and entred into the citie: so Joab came to Jerusalem.

16 ¶ And when the Aramites saw that they were discomfited before Israel, they sent messengers, and caused the Aramites to come forth that were beyond the [‡]river: and Shophach the captaine of the hoste of Hadarezer went before them.

17 And when it was shewed David, he gathered all Israel, and went over Jordan, and came unto them, & put himself in array against them: and when David had put himself in battle array to meet the Aramites, they fought with him.

18 But the Aramites fled before Israel, and David destroyed of the Aramites seven thousand charrets, and fourty thousand footmen, and killed Shophach the captaine of the host.

19 And when the servants of Hadarezer saw that they fell before Israel, they made peace with David, and served him. And the Aramites would no more succour the children of Ammon.

went thorow all Israel, and returned to Jerusalem.

^d Job partly for grief, and partly through negligence gathered not the whole sum, as it is here declared.

^e In Samuel is mention of thirtie thousand more: which was either by joyning to them some of the Beniamites, which were mixed with Judah, or as the E-brewes write, here the chief & princes are left out.

5 And Joab gave the number and sum of the people unto David: and all Israel were eleven hundred thousand men that drew sword: and Judah was ^e foure hundred and seventie thousand men that drew sword.

6 But the Levites and Benjamin counted he not among them: for the kings word was abominable to Joab.

9 And the Lord spake unto Gad Davids [†] Seer, saying,

10 Go and tell David, saying, Thus saith the Lord, I offer thee three things: chuse thee one of them, that I may do it unto thee.

12 Either three yeares famine, or three moneths to be destroyed before thine adversaries, and the sword of thine enemies [†] to take thee, or else the sword of the Lord and pestilence in the land three dayes, that the Angel of the Lord might destroy throughout all the coast of Israel: now therefore advise thee, what word I shall bring again to him that sent me.

13 And David said unto Gad, I am in a wonderfull strait: let me now fall into the hand of the Lord: for his mercies are exceeding great, and let me not fall into the hand of man.

14 So the Lord sent a pestilence in Israel, and there fell of Israel seventy thousand men.

16 And David lift up his eyes, and saw the Angel of the Lord stand between the earth and the heaven with his sword drawn in his hand, and stretched out toward Jerusalem. Then David and the Elders of Israel, which were clothed in sack, fell upon their faces.

17 And David said unto God, Is it not I that commanded to number the people? It is even I that have sinned and have committed evil, but these sheep what have they done? O Lord my God, I beseech thee, let thine hand be on me and on my fathers house, and not on ^h thy people for their destruction.

^h Thus, he both sheweth a true repentance, and a faithful care toward his people, which desireth God to spare them, and to punish him and his.

18 ¶ Then the Angel of the Lord commanded Gad to say to David, that David should go up, and set up an altar unto the Lord in the threshing floore of Ornan the Jebusite.

19 So David went up according to the saying of Gad, which he had spoken in the Name of the Lord.

20 And Ornan turned about and saw the Angel, and his foure sons, that were with him, ⁱ hid themselves, and Ornan threshed wheate.

ⁱ If a man hide himself at the sight of an Angel which is a creature, how much lesse is a sinner able to appeare before the face of God?

21 And as David came to Ornan, Ornan looked and saw David, and went out of the threshing floore, and bowed himself to David with his face to the ground.

22 And David said to Ornan, Give me the place of thy threshing floore, that I may build an ^k altar therein unto the Lord: give it me for sufficient money, that the plague may be stayed from the people.

^k Thus he did by the commandment of God, at ver. 18. for else it had been abominable, except he had either Gods word, or revelation.

23 Then Ornan said unto David, Take it to thee, and let my lord the king do that which seemeth him good: lo, I give thee bullocks for burnt-offerings, and threshing instruments for wood, and wheate for meat offering, I give it all.

24 And king David said to Ornan, Not so: but I will buy it for sufficient ^l money: for I wil not take that which is thine for the Lord, nor offer burnt-offrings without cost.

of Israel, and he set masons to hew and polish stones to build the house of God.

3 David also prepared much yron for the nailes of the doors and of the gates, and for the joynings, and abundance of brasse passing weight,

4 And cedar trees without number: for the Zidonians and they of Tyrus brought much cedar wood to David.

5 And David said, Salomon my son is yong and tender, and we must build an house for the Lord, magnificall, excellent, and of great fame and dignitie throughout all countreyes. I will therefore now prepare for him. So David prepared very much before his death.

6 Then he called Salomon his son, and charged him to build an house for the Lord God of Israel.

7 And David said to Salomon, My son, I purposed with my selfe to build an house to the Name of the Lord my God.

8 But the word of the Lord came to me, saying, Thou hast shed much blood, and hast made great battels: thou shalt not build an house unto my Name: for thou hast shed much blood upon the earth in my sight.

9 Behold, a son is borne to thee, which shall be a man of rest, for I will give him rest from all his enemies round about: therefore his name is Salomon: and I will send peace and quietnesse upon Israel in his dayes.

10 He shall build an house for my Name, and he shall be my son, and I will be his father, and I will establish the throne of his kingdome upon Israel for ever.

11 Now therefore my son, the Lord shall be with thee, and thou shalt prosper, and thou shalt build an house to the Lord thy God, as he hath spoken of thee.

12 Onely the Lord gave thee wisdom, and understanding, and gave thee charge over Israel, even to keep the Law of the Lord thy God.

13 Then thou shalt prosper, if thou take heed to observe the statutes and the judgments which the Lord commanded Moses for Israel: be strong and of good courage: feare not, neither be afraid.

14 For behold, according to my poverty have I prepared for the house of the Lord, an hundred thousand talents of gold, and a thousand thousand talents of silver, and of brasse and of yron passing weight: for there was abundance: I have also prepared timber and stone, and thou mayest provide more thereto.

15 Moreover thou hast workemen with thee enow, hewers of stone, and workemen for timber, and all men expert in every worke.

16 Of gold, of silver, and of brasse, and of yron there is no number: Up therefore, and be doing, and the Lord will be with thee.

17 David also commanded all the princes of Israel to helpe Salomon his son, saying,

18 Is not the Lord your God with you, and hath given you rest on every side? for he hath given the inhabitants of the land into mine hand, and the land is subdued before the Lord, and before his people.

19 Now set your hearts and your souls to seeke the Lord your God, and arise, and build the Sanctuary of the Lord God to bring the Arke of the covenant of the lord, and the holy vessels of God into the house built for the name of the Lord.

CHAP. XXIII.

David being old, ordaineth Salomon king. 3 He causeth the Levites to be numbred, 4 And assigneth them to their offices. Aaron and his sons are for the high Priest. 14 The sons of Moses.

SO when David was old and full of dayes, he made Salomon his son king over Israel.

2 And he gathered together all the princes of Israel with the Priests and the Levites.

3 And the Levites were numbred from the age of thirtie yeare and above, and their number according to their sum was eight and thirtie thousand men.

4 Of these, foure and twentie thousand were set to advance the worke of the house of the Lord, & six thousand were overseers and judges.

5 And foure thousand were porters, and foure thousand praised the Lord with instruments which he made to praise the Lord.

6 So David divided offices unto them, to wit, to the sons of Levi, to Gershon, Kohath and Merari.

7 Of the Gershonites were Laadan and Shimei.

8 The sons of Laadan, the chiefe was Jehiel, and Zetham, and Joel, three.

9 The sons of Shimei, Shelomith, and Haziel, and Haran, three: these were the chief fathers of Laadan.

10 Also the sons of Shimei were Jahath, Zina, Jeush, and Beriah: these foure were the sons of Shimei.

11 And Jahath was the chiefe, and Zizah the second, but Jeush and Beriah had not many sons: therefore they were in the families of their father, counted but as one.

12 The sons of Kohath were Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Vzziel, foure.

13 The sons of Amram, Aaron and Moses: and Aaron was separated to sanctifie the most holy place, he and his sons for ever to burne incense before the Lord, of the Tabernacle of the congregation, & the charge of the holy place, and the charge of the sons of Aaron their brethren in the service of the house of the Lord.

CHAP. XXIV.

David assigneth offices to the sons of Aaron.

These are also the ^{*} divisions of the sons of Aaron. The sons of Aaron were Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar.

* Levit. 10. 4. 6. num. 3. 4. and 26. 60.

2 But Nadab and Abihu died ^a before their father, and had no children: therefore Eleazar and Ithamar executed the Priests office.

^a Whiles their fathers yet lived.

3 And David distributed them, even Zadok of the [†] sons of Eleazar, and Ahimelech of the sons of Ithamar, according to their offices in their ministration.

[†] Or, Cousins.

4 And there were found moe of the sons of Eleazar by the [†] number of men, then of the sons of Ithamar, and they divided them, to wit, among the sons of Eleazar, sixteen heads, according to the household of their fathers, and among the sons of Ithamar, according to the household of their fathers, eight.

5 Thus they distributed them by lot the one from the other, and so the rulers of the Sanctuary, and the rulers of the house of God were of the sons of Eleazar, and of the sons of Ithamar.

6 And Shemajah the son of Nethaneel the scribe of the Levites, wrote them before the King and the Princes, and Zadok the priest, and Ahimelech the son of Abiathar, and before the chiefe fathers of the Priests and of the Levites, one family being reserved for Eleazar, and another reserved for Ithamar.

7 And the first ^b lot fell to Jehoiarib, and the second to Jedajah, ^b This lot was ordained to take away all occasion of envie or grudging of one against another.

8 The third to Harim, the fourth to Seorim,

9 The fifth to Malchijah, the sixth to Michajin,

10 The seventh to Hakkoz, the eighth to Abijah,

11 The ninth to Jeshua, the tenth to Shecaniah,

^c Zacharie the father of Iohann: this was of this course, or lot of Abie, Luke 1. 5.

12 The eleventh to Eliashib, the twelfth to Jakim;

13 The thirteenth to Huppah, the fourteenth to Jeshbeab,

14 The fifteenth to Bilgah, the sixteenth to Immer,

15 The seventeenth to Hezir, the eighteenth to Happizzer,

16 The nineteenth to Pethahiah, the twentieth to Jechezkel,

17 The one and twentieth to Jachin, the two and twentieth to Gamul, 18 The three and twentieth to Deliah, the the foure and twenty to Maaziah.

19 These were their orders according to their offices, when they entred into the house of the Lord according to their custome under^d the hand of Aaron their father, as the Lord God of Israel had commanded him.

20 ¶ And of the sons of Levi that remained of the sons of Amram, was Shubael, of the sons of Shubael, Jedejah.

21 Of Rehabiah, even of the sons of Rehabiah, the first Ishijah, 22 Of Izhari, Shelomoth, of the sons of Shelomoth, Jahath, 23 And his sons Jeriah the first, Amariah the second, Jahaziel the third, and Jekameam the fourth,

24 The sons of Uzziel was Michah, the son of Michah was Shamir, 25 The brother of Michah was Ishijah, the son of Ishijah, Zechariah, 26 The sons of Merari, were Mahly and Mushi, the son of Jaaziah was Beno, 27 The sons of Merari of Jaaziah, were Beno, and Shoham, and Zaccur, and Ibri.

28 Of Mahli came Eleazar, which had no sons.

29 Of Kish, the son of Kish, was Jerahmeel,

30 And the sons of^e Mushi were Mahli, and Eder, and Jerimoth: these were the sons of the Levites after the household of their fathers.

31 And these also cast^f lots with their brethren the sons of Aaron before King David, and Zadok and Ahimelech and the chiefe fathers of the Priests, and of the Levites, even the chiefe of the families, against their yonger brethren.

CHAP. XXV.

The fingers are appointed, with their places and lots.

SO David and the captaines of the army separated for the ministry the sons of Asaph, and Heman, and Jeduthun, who should sing propheties with harps, with viols, and, with cymbals, and their number was even of the men for the office of their ministry, to wit,

2 Of the sons of Asaph, Zaccur, and Joseph, and Nethaniah, and Asarelah the sons of Asaph were under the hand of Asaph, which sang propheties by the[†] commission of the King,

3 Of Jeduthun, the sons of Jeduthun, Gedaliah, and Zeri, and Jehajah, Ashabiah, and Mattithiah, ^b six, under the hands of their father: Jeduthun sang ^c propheties with an harpe, for to give thanks and to praise the Lord.

4 Of Heman, the sons of Heman, Bukkiah, Mattaniah, Uzziel, Shebuel, and Jerimoth, Hananiah, Hanani, Eliathah, Giddal-ti, and Romamti-ezer, Ioshebekashah, Mallothi, Hothir, and Mahazioth.

5 All these were the sons of Heman, the Kings[†] Seer in the words of God, to lift up the[†] horn: and God gave to Heman fourteen sons and three daughters.

6 All these were under the[†] hand of their father, singing in the house of the Lord with cymbals, viols and harps, for the service of the house of God, and Asaph, and Jeduthun, and Heman were at the kings[†] commandement.

7 So was their number with their brethren that were instructed in the songs of the Lord, even of all that were cunning, two hundred fourescore and eight.

8 And they cast lots, ^d charge against charge, as well^e small as great, the cunning man as the scholler.

9 And the first lot fell to^f Joseph which was of Asaph, the second, to Gedaliah, who with his brethren and his sons were twelve;

10 The third, to Zaccur, he, his sons, and his brethren were twelve;

11 The fourth, to[†] Izri, he, his sons and his brethren twelve;

12 The fifth to Nethaniah, he, his sons and his brethren twelve;

13 The sixth, to Bukkiah, he, his sons and his brethren twelve.

14 The seventh, to Jeharelah, he, his sons and his brethren twelve.

15 The eighth, to Jehajah, he, his sons and his brethren twelve.

16 The ninth, to Mataniah, he, his sons and his brethren twelve.

17 The tenth, to Shimei, he, his sons and his brethren twelve.

18 The eleventh, to Azareel, he, his sons and his brethren twelve.

19 The twelfth, to Ashabiah, he, his sons and his brethren twelve.

20 The thirteenth to Shubael, he, his sons and his brethren twelve.

21 The fourteenth to Mattithia, he, his sons and his brethren twelve.

22 The fifteenth to Jerimoth, he, his sons and his brethren twelve.

23 The sixteenth to Hananiah, he, his sons and his brethren twelve.

24 The seventeenth to Ioshebekashah, he, his sons and his brethren twelve.

25 The eighteenth to Hanani, he, his sons and his brethren twelve.

26 The nineteenth to Mallothi, he, his sons and his brethren twelve.

27 The twentieth to Eliathah, he, his sons and his brethren twelve.

28 The one and twentieth, to Hothir, he, his sons and his brethren twelve.

29 The two and twentieth, to Giddalti, he, his sons and his brethren twelve.

^d By the dignity that God gave to Aaron.

^f This is, every one had that dignity, which fell unto him by lot.

^a The fingers were divided into 24 courses, so that every course or order contained twelve, and in all there were 288 as vers. 7.

[†] Ebr. hands.

^b Whereof one is not here numbered.
^c Meaning, Psalmes and songs to praise God.

^d Who should be in every company and course.
^e Without respect to age or cunning.
^f So that he served in the first turn, and the rest every one as his turn followed orderly.

[†] Or, Zeri.

30 The three and twentieth, to Mahaziorh, he, his sons and his brethren twelve.
31 The four and twentieth, to Romamtiezer, he, his sons and his brethren twelve.

CHAP. XXVI.

The porters of the Temple are ordained, every man to the gate which he should keep: 20 and over the treasure.

Or, courses and turns.

Concerning the † divisions of the porters, of the Korhites, Melhelemiah the son of Kore of the sons of † Asaph.

a This Asaph was not the notable musician, but another of that name called also Ebiasaph, Chap. 6. 23. 37. and 9. 19. and also Asaph.

2 And the sons of Melhelemiah, Zechariah the eldest, Iediel the second, Zebadiah the third, Iathniel the fourth,

3 Elam the fifth, Iehohanan the sixth, and Elihoenai the seventh.

4 And of the sons of Obed Edom, Shemajah the eldest, Iehozabad the second, Ioah the third, and Sacar the fourth, and Nethaneel the fifth, b In giving him many children.

5 Ammiel the sixth, Issachar the seventh, Peulthai the eighth: for God had b blessed him.

c Or like their fathers house, meaning worthy men and valiant.

6 And to Shemajah his son, were sons borne, that c ruled in the house of their father, for they were men of might.

7 The sons of Shemajah were Othni, and Rephael, and Obed, Elzabad and his brethren, strong men: Elihu also, and Shemachia.

† Or Nephews.

8 All these were of the † sons of Obed Edom, they and their sons and their brethren mighty and d strong to serve, even threescore and two of Obed Edom.

d And meet to serve in the office of the porterhip.

9 And of Melhelemiah sons and brethren, eightene mighty men.

10 And of Hofah of the sons of Merari, the sons were Shuri the chiefe, and (though he was not the eldest, yet his father made him the chiefe)

† Or, cousins.

11 Helkiah the second, Tebaliah the third, and Zechariah the fourth: all the † sons and the brethren of Hofah were thirteen.

† Or, courses.

12 Of these were the † divisions of the porters of the chiefe men, e having the charge against their brethren, to serve in the house of the Lord.

e According to their times, as well the one as the other.

13 And they cast lots both small and great for the house of their fathers, for every gate.

† Or, Melhelemiah.

14 And the lot on the East side fell to † Shelemiah: then they cast lots for Zechariah his son, f a wise counseller, and his lot came out Northward:

f One expert and meet to keep that gate.

15 To Obed Edom Southward, and to his sons the house of † Asuppim:

g This was an house where they used to resort to consult of things concerning the Temple, as a Convocation house.
h Whereat they used to cast out the filth of the city.

16 To Shuppim, and to Hofah Westward with the gate h of Shallecheth by the paved street that goeth upward, ward over against ward.

17 Eastward were six Levites, and Northward four a day, and Southward four a day, and toward Asuppim i two and two.

i Meaning two one day, and two another. Which was an house where in they kept the instruments of the Temple.

18 In k Parbar toward the West were foure by the paved street, and two in Parbar.

19 These are the divisions of the porters of the sons of Kore, and of the sons of Merari.

20 ¶ And of the Levites: Ahijah was over the treasures of the house of God, and over the treasures of the dedicate things.

21 Of the sons of Laadan the sons of the Gershunnites descending of Laadan, the chief fathers of Laadan were Gershunni, and Iehieli.

22 The sons of Iehieli were Zethan and Joel his brother, appointed over the treasures of the house of the Lord.

l These also had charge over the treasures.

23 Of the † Amramites, of the Izharites, of the Hebronites, and of the Ozielites.

24 And Sebuel the son of Gershom, the son of Moses, a ruler over the treasures.

25 And of his † brethren which came of Eliezer, was Rehabiah his son, and Ielhajah his son, and Ioram his son, and Zichri his son, and Shelomith his son,

† Or, cousins.

26 Which Shelomith and his brethren were over all the treasures of the dedicate things, which David the king, and the chief fathers, the captaines over thousands, and hundreths, and the captaines of the armie had m dedicated.

m According to the Lord commanded, Num. 31. 28.

27 (For of the battels and of the spoiles they did dedicate to maintaine the house of the Lord)

28 And all that Samuel the Seer had dedicate, and Saul the son of Kish, and Abner the son of Ner, and Ioab the son of Zerviah, and whosoever had dedicate n any thing, it was under the hand of Shelomith, and his brethren.

n Meaning the things that were out of the city.

29 Of the Izharites was Chenaniah and his sons, for the businesse n without over Israel, for officers and for Iudges.

30 Of the Hebronites, Alhabiah, and his brethren, men of activity, a thousand and seven hundred were officers for Israel beyond Iorden Westward, in all the businesse of the Lord, and for the service o of the king.

o That is, for the kings house.

31 Among the Hebronites was Ierijah the chiefe, even the Hebronites by his generations according to the families. And in the fortieth year of the reigne of David they were sought for: and there were found among them men of activity at Jazer in Gilead.

p To wit, the cousins of Ierijah.

32 And his p brethren men of activitie, two thousand and seven hundred chiefe fathers, whom king David made rulers over the Reubenites, and the Gadites, and the halfe tribe of Manasseh, for every matter q pertaining to † God, and for the kings businesse.

q Both in spiritual and temporal things.

Of the princes and rulers that ministered unto the King.

THE children of Israel also after their number, even the chief fathers and captains of thousands and of hundreths, and their officers that served the king by divers courses, ^a which came in and went out, moneth by moneth, throughout all the months of the year: in every course were four and twenty thousand.

2 Over the first course for the first month was Jathobeam the son of Zabdiel: and in his course were foure and twenty thousand.

3 Of the sons of Perez was the chief over all the princes of the armies for the first month.

4 And over the course of the second month was Dodai, an Ahohite, and this was his course, and Mikloth was ^b a captain, and in his course were four and twenty thousand.

5 The captain of the third host for the third month was Benajah the son of Jehojada the chief Priest: and in his course were four and twenty thousand.

6 This Benajah was mighty among ^{*} thirty, and above the thirty: and in his course was Amizabad his son.

7 The fourth for the fourth month was Afahel the brother of Joab, and Zebadiah his son after him: and in his course were four and twenty thousand.

8 The fift for the fift month was Prince Shambhuth the Izrahite: and in his course four and twenty thousand.

9 The sixt for the sixt month was Ira the son of Ikkeih the Tekoite: and in his course four and twenty thousand.

10 The seventh for the seventh month was Helez the Pelonite, of the sons of Ephraim: and in his course four and twenty thousand.

11 The eight for the eight moneth was Sibbecai the Hushathite of the Zarhites: & in his course four and twenty thousand.

12 The ninth for the ninth month was Abiezzer the Anethothite of the sons of [†] Benjamin: and in his course foure and twenty thousand.

13 The tenth for the tenth month was Maharai the Netophathite of the Zarhites: and in his course four and twenty thousand.

14 The eleventh for the eleventh month was Benajah the Pirathonite of the sons of Ephraim: and in his course four and twenty thousand.

15 The twelfth for the twelfth month was Heldai the Netophathite, of Othniel: and in his course four and twenty thousand.

16 ¶ Moreover ^c the rulers over the tribes of Israel were these: over the Reubenites was ruler, Eliezer the son of Zichri: over the Shimeonites, Sephatiah the sonne of Maachah:

17 Over the Levites, Hahabiah the son of Remuel: over them of Aharon, and Zadok:

18 Over Judah Elihu of the brethren of David: over Issachar, Omri the sonne of Michael:

19 Over Zebulun, Ishmajah the son of Obadiah: over Naphtali, Jerimoth the son of Azriel:

20 Over the sons of Ephraim, Hoshea the son of Azazziah: over the halfe tribe of Manasseh, Joel the son of Pedajah:

21 Over the ^d other half of Manasseh in Gilead, Iddo the son of Zechariah: over Benjamin, Jaafiel the son of Abner:

22 Over Dan, Azariel the son of Jeroham: these are the Princes of the tribes of Israel.

23 ¶ But David took not the number of them from twenty yeares old and under, because the Lord had said that he would increase Israel like unto the stars of the heavens:

24 And ^{*} Joab the son of Zerviah began to number: but he finished it not, ^e because there came wrath for it against Israel, neither was the number put into the ^f Chronicles of King David.

25 And over the kings treasures was Azmaveth the son of Adiel: and over the treasures in the fields, in the cities, and in the villages, and in the towers, was Jehonathan the son of Uziah:

26 And over the workmen in the field that tilled the ground, was Ezri the son of Chelub:

27 And over them that dressed the vines, was Shimei the Ramathite: and over that which appertained to the vines, and over the store of the wine, was Sabdi the Shiphmite:

28 And over the Olive trees and mulberry trees that were in the valleyes, was Baal Hanan the Gederite: and over the store of the oyl was Joash:

29 And over the oxen that fed in Sharon, was Shetrai the Sharonite: and over the oxen in the valleyes, was Shaphat the son of Adlai.

30 And over the camels was Obil the Ishmaelite: and over the asses was Jehdejah the Meronothite:

31 And over the sheep was Jaziz the Hagerite: all these were the rulers of the substance that was King Davids.

32 And Jehonathan Davids uncle: a man of counsell and of understanding (for he was a scribe) and Jehiel the son of Hachmoni were with the Kings ^h sons.

33 And Abithophel was the kings counsellor, & Hushai the Archite the kings friend.

CHAP. XXVIII.

³ Because David was forbidden to build the Temple, he willeth Salomon and the people to performe it: ⁸ Exhorting him to feare the Lord.

NOW David assembled all the Princes of Israel: the Princes of the tribes, and the captaines of the bands that served the King, and the captaines of thousands, and the captaines of hundreths, and the Rulers of all the substance and possession of the king, and of his sons, with the [†] Eunuches, and the mighty, and all the men of power, unto Jerusalem.

2 And King David stood up upon his feet, and said, Hear ye me, my brethren, and my people: I purposed to have built an house of ^a rest for the Ark of the covenant of the Lord, and for a ^{*} footstool of our God, and have made ready for the building,

^a Wherein the Ark should remain, and remove no more too and fro.

[†] 2. Sam. 7. 5. 13. Chap. 22. 8.

3 But God said unto me, ^{*} Thou shalt not build an house for my name, because thou hast been a man of war, and hast shed blood.

4 Yet ^{as} the Lord God of Israel chose me before all the house of my father, to be King over Israel for ever (for in Iudah would he chuse a Prince, and of the house of ^b Iudah is the house of my father, and among the sons of my father, he delighted in me to make me King over all Israel.)

5 So of all my sons (for the Lord hath given me many sons) he hath even chosen Salomon my son to sit upon the throne of the kingdom of the Lord over Israel:

6 And he said unto me, Salomon thy son, he shall build mine house and my courts: for I have chosen him to be my son, and I will be his father.

7 I will establish therefore his kingdom for ever, if he endeavour himself to do my commandments, and my judgements, as at ^c this day.

^c If he continue to keep my Law and depart not therefrom, as he doeth hitherto.

8 Now therefore in the sight of all Israel the Congregation of the Lord, and in the audience of our God, keep and seek for all the commandments of the Lord your God, that ye may possesse this ^d good land, and leave it for an inheritance for your children after you ^e for ever.

^d To wit, of Canaan.

^e He declareth that nothing can separate them from the commodity of this land, both for themselves and their posteritie. But their sins and iniquitie.

^{*} 1. Sam. 16. 17.

9 And thou, Salomon my son, know thou the God of thy father, and serve him with a perfect heart, and with a willing mind: ^{*} For the Lord searcheth all hearts, and understandeth all the imaginations of thoughts: if thou seek him, he will be found of thee, but if thou forsake him, he will cast thee off for ever.

10 Take heed now, for the Lord hath chosen thee to build ^f the house of the Sanctuary: be strong therefore, and ^g do it.

^f Meaning, for his Ark.

11 ¶ Then David gave to Salomon his son the paterne of the porch and of the houses thereof, and of the closets thereof, and of the galleries thereof, and of the chambers thereof that are within, and of the house of the Mercy-seat,

12 And the patern of all that [†] he had in his mind for the Courts of the house of the Lord, and for all the chambers round about, for the treasures of the house of God, and for the treasures of the dedicate things, [†] Ebr. that were in his spirit with him.

13 And for the courses of the Priests, and of the Levites, and for all the work for the service of the house of the Lord, and for all the vessels of the ministry of the house of the Lord.

14 He gave of gold by weight, for the vessels of gold, for all the vessels of all manner of service, and all the vessels of silver by weight, for all manner of vessels of all manner of service.

15 The weight also of gold for the ^h candlesticks, and gold for their lampes, with the weight for every candlestick, and for the lampsthereof, and for the candlesticks of silver by the weight of the candlestick, and the lamps thereof, according to the use of every candlestick.

^h That is, the ten candlesticks, 1. King. 7. 49.

16 And the weight of the gold for the tables of shewbread, for every table, and silver for the tables of silver,

17 And pure gold for the fleshhooks, and the bowles, and [†] plates, and for basons, gold in weight for every bason, and for silver basons, by weight for every bason,

[†] Or, ming.

18 And for the altar of incense, pure gold by weight, and gold for the patern of ⁱ the chariot of the Cherubs that spread themselves, and covered the Ark of the covenant of the Lord:

ⁱ Meaning of the mercy-seat which covered the Ark, which was called the chariot, because the Lord declared himselfe there.

19 All, [†] said he, by writing sent to me ^k by the hand of the Lord, which made me understand al the workmanship of the patern.

^k For all this was left in writing in the book of the law, Exod. 35. 40. which booke the King was bound to put in execution. Deut. 17. 19

20 And David said to Salomon his son, Be strong, and of a valiant courage, and do it: fear not, nor be afraid: for the Lord God, ^{even} my God ^{is} with thee: he will not leave thee nor forsake thee till thou hast finished all the work for the service of the house of the Lord.

21 Behold also, the companies of the Priests and the Levites for all the service of the house of God, ^{even} they ^{shall} be with thee for the whole work, [†] with every free heart that is skilfull in any manner of service. CHAP. XXIX.

2 The offering of David and of the princes for the building of the Temple. 10 David giveth thanks to the Lord. 20 He exhorteth the people to doe the same. 22 Salomon is created King. 23 David dieth, and Salomon his son reigned in his stead.

More-

Moreover, David the king said unto all the congregation, God hath chosen Salomon mine only son young and tender, and the work is great: for this house is not for man, but for the ^a Lord God.

^a And therefore it ought to be excellent in all points.

2 Now I have prepared with all my power for the house of my God, gold for vessels of gold, and silver for them of silver, and brasse for things of brasse, iron for things of iron, and wood for things of wood, and Onix stones, and stones to be set, and carbuncle stones, and of divers colours, and all pretious stones, and marble stones in abundance.

^b His great zeale toward the furtherance of \S temple made him to spare no expences, but to bestow his own peculiar treasure.

3 Moreover, because I have ^b delight in the house of my God, I have of mine own gold and silver, which I have given to the house of my God, beside all that I have prepared for the house of the Sanctuary,

^c He sheweth what he had of his own store for the Lords house;

4 Even ^c threethousand talents of gold of the gold of Ophir, and seven thousand talents of fined silver to overlay the wals of the houses.

5 The gold for the things of gold, and the silver for the things of silver, and for all the work by the hands of artificers: and who is ^d willing \dagger to fill his hand to day unto the Lord?

^d He was not only liberall himself, but provoked others to set forth the works of God. \S Or. is offer.

6 So the Princes of the families, and the Princes of the tribes of Israel, and the captaines of thousands and of hundreths, with the rulers of the kings work, offered willingly,

7 And they gave for the service of the house of God five thousand talents of gold, and ten thousand pieces, and ten thousand talents of silver, and eighteen thousand talents of brasse, and one hundred thousand talents of iron.

^e Meaning, them that had any.

8 And they with whom pretious stones were ^e found, gave them to the treasure of the house of the Lord, by the hand of Jehiel the Gershunnite.

^f That is, with a good courage and without hypocrisie. \dagger Psal. 122. 1.

9 And the people rejoyced when they offered willingly: for they offered willingly unto the Lord, with a ^f perfect heart. And David the King also ^g rejoyced with great joy.

^g Which diddest reveal thy selfe to our father Iakob.

10 Therefore David blessed the Lord before all the Congregation, and David said, Blessed be thou, O Lord God of ^h Israel our father, for ever and ever.

11 Thine, O Lord, is greatnesse and power, and glory, and victory, and praise: for all that is in heaven and in earth, is thine; thine is the Kingdom, O Lord; and thou excellest as head over all.

12 Both riches and honour come of thee, and thou reignest over all, and in thine hand is power and strength; and in thine hand it is to make great, and to give strength unto all.

13 Now therefore, our God, we thank thee, and praise thy glorious Name.

14 But who am I, and what is my people, that we should be able to offer willingly after this sort? for all things ^h come of thee: and of thine own hand we have given thee.

^h Wee gave thee nothing of our owne, but that which we have received of thee: for whether the gifts be corporall or spiritual, we receive them all of God, and therefore must give him the glory. \dagger And therefore have this land but lent to us for a time. \dagger Ebr. waiting for them to return.

15 For we are ⁱ strangers before thee, and sojourners, like all our fathers: our dayes are like the shadow upon the earth, and there is none \dagger abiding.

16 O Lord our God, all this abundance that we have prepared to build thee an house for thine holy Name, is of thine hand and all is thine,

17 I know also, my God, that thou ^k tryest the heart, and hast pleasure in righteoufnesse: I have offered willingly in the uprightness of mine heart all these things: now also have I seen thy people which are found here, to offer unto thee willingly with joy.

18 O Lord God of Abraham, Izhak, and Israel our fathers, keep this for ever in the ^k purpose, and the thoughts of the heart of thy people; and prepare their hearts unto thee.

^k Continue them in this good mind, that they may serve thee willingly.

19 And give unto Salomon my son, a perfect heart to keep thy commandments, thy testimonies, and thy statutes, and to do all things, and to build the house which I have prepared.

20 ¶ And David said to all the congregation, Now blesse the Lord your God: And all the congregation blessed the Lord God of their fathers, and bowed down their heads, and worshipped the Lord and the ^l King.

20 And they offered sacrifices unto the Lord, and on the morrow after that day, they offered burnt offerings unto the Lord, even a thousand young bullocks, a thousand rams, and a thousand sheep, with their ^m drink offerings; and sacrifices in abundance for all Israel.

21 And they did eat and drink before the Lord the same day with great joy, and they made Salomon the son of David king the second time, and anointed him Prince before the Lord, and Zadok for the high Priest.

22 So Salomon sat on the ⁿ throne of the Lord, as King in stead of David his father, and prospered: and all Israel obeyed him.

THE SECOND BOOK OF THE CHRONICLES.

THE ARGUMENT.

THis second Book containeth briefly in effect that, which is comprehended in the two Books of the Kings: that is, from the reign of Salomon to the destruction of Jerusalem, and the carrying away of the people captive into Babylon. In this story are certain things declared and set forth more copiously then in the books of the kings, and therefore serve greatly to the understanding of the Prophets. But three things are here chiefly to be considered. First, that the godly kings, when they saw the plagues of God prepared against their countrey for sin, had recourse to the Lord, and by earnest prayer were heard, and the plagues removed. The second, how it is a thing that greatly offendeth God, that such as feare him and professe his religion, should joyne in amity with the wicked. And thirdly, how the good Rulers ever loved the Prophets of God, and were very zealous to set forth his religion throughout all their dominions, and contrariwise the wicked hated his ministers, deposed them, & for the true religion and word of God, set up Idolatry, and served God according to the fantasie of men. Thus have we hitherto the chief acts from the beginning of the world to the building again of Jerusalem, which was the two and thirtieth yeare of Darius, and contain in the whole, three thousand, five hundred, threescore and eighteen yeares, and six moneths.

CHAP. I.

⁶ The offering of Salomon at Gibeon. ⁸ He prayeth unto God to give him wisdom: ¹¹ Which he giveth him, and more, ¹⁴ The number of his charrets and horsemen. ¹⁵ and of his riches

Hen Salomon the son of David was confirmed in his kingdome: and the Lord his God was with him, and magnified him highly.

2 And Salomon spake unto all Israel, to the captaines of thousands, and of hundreds, & to the judges, and to all the governours in all Israel, even the chief fathers.

3 So Salomon and all the congregation with him went to the high place that was at Gibeon: for there was the Tabernacle of the congregation of God, which Moses the servant of the Lord had made in the wilderness.

4 But the ark of God had David brought up from Kiriath-jearim, when David had made preparation for it: for he had pitched a tent for it in Jerusalem.

5 Moreover the brazen altar ^{*} that Bezaleel the son of Uri, the sonne of Hur had made, did he set before the Tebernacle of the Lord: and Salomon and the congregation fought it.

6 And Salomon offered there before the Lord upon the brazen altar that was in the tabernacle of the congregation: ^{*} even a thousand burnt-offrings offered he upon it.

7 ¶ The same night did God appeare unto Salomon, and said unto him, Ask what I shall give thee.

8 And Salomon said unto God, Thou hast shewed great mercy unto David my father, and hast made me to reign in his stead.

9 Now therefore, O Lord God, let thy promise unto David my father be true: for thou hast made me King over a great people, like to the dust of the earth.

10 Give me now wisdom and knowledge, that I may go out and go in before this people: for who can judge this thy great people?

11 And God said to Salomon, Because this was in thine heart, and thou hast not asked riches, treasures, nor honour, nor the lives of thine enemies, neither yet hast asked long life; but hast asked for thee wisdom and knowledge, that thou mightest judge my people, over whom I have made thee King.

12 Wisdom and knowledge is granted unto thee, and I will give thee riches and treasures and honour, so that there hath not been the like among the kings which were before thee, neither after thee shall there be the like.

13 Then Salomon came from the high place that was at Gibeon, to Jerusalem from before the tabernacle of the congregation, and reigned over Israel.

14 And Salomon gathered the chariots and horsemen: and he had a thousand and foure hundred chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen, whom he placed in the charret-cities, and with the king at Jerusalem.

15 And the king made silver and gold at Jerusalem as stones, and made Cedar trees as the wild fig-trees, that are abundantly in the plain.

16 Also Salomon had horses brought out of Egypt, and fine linnen: the kings merchants received the fine linnen for a price.

17 They came up also and brought out of Egypt some charret, worth six hundred shekels of silver, that is, an horse for an hundred and fifty: and thus they brought horses to all the kings of the Hittites, and of the kings of of Aram by their means.

C H A P. II.

2 The number of Salomons workmen to build the Temple. 3 Salomon sendeth to Hiram the king of Tyrus for wood and workmen.

Then Salomon determined to build an house for the name of the Lord, and an house for his kingdom.

2 And Salomon told out seventy thousand that bare burdens, and fourescore thousand men to hew stones in the mountain, and three thousand and six hundred to oversee them.

3 And Salomon sent to Hiram the king of Tyrus, saying, as thou hast done to David my father, and didst send him cedar trees to build him an house to dwell in, so do to me.

4 Behold, I build an house unto the name of the Lord my God, to sanctifie it unto him, and to burn sweet incense before him, and for the continuall shewbread, and for the burnt-offerings of the morning and evening, on the sabbath dayes, and in the new moones, and in the tolemin feasts of the Lord our God: this is a perpetuall thing for Israel.

5 And the house which I build, is great: for great is our God above all gods.

6 Who is he then that can be able to build him an house, when the heaven, and the heaven of heavens cannot contain him? who am I then that I should build him an house? but I do it to burne incense before him.

7 Send me now therefore a cunning man that can work in gold, in silver, and in brasse, and in iron, and in purple, & crimson and blew silk, and that can grave in graven work with the cunning men that are with me in Judah and in Jerusalem, whom David my father hath prepared.

8 Send me also cedar trees, fir-trees and Alummim trees from Lebanon: for I know that thy servants can skill to hew timber in Lebanon: and behold, my servants shall be with thine, 9 That they may prepare me timber in abundance: for the house which I do build, is great and wonderfull.

10 And behold, I will give to thy servants the cutters and the hewers of timber twenty thousand measures of beaten wheate and twenty thousand measures of barley, and twenty thousand baths of wine, and twenty thousand baths of oyle.

11 Then Hiram king of Tyrus answered in writing which he sent to Salomon, Because the Lord hath loved his people, he hath made thee king over them.

12 Hiram said moreover, Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, which made the heaven and the earth, and that hath given unto David the king a wise son, that hath discretion, prudence and understanding to build an house for the Lord, and a palace for his kingdom.

13 Now therefore I have sent a wise man, and of understanding of my fathers Hiram,

14 The son of a woman of the daughters of Dan: and his father was a man of Tyrus, and he can skill to work in gold, in silver, in brasse, in iron, in stone, and in timber, in purple, in blue silk, and in fine linnen, and in crimson, and can grave in all graven works, and broider in all broidered work that shall be given him, with thy cunning men, and with the cunning men of my lord David thy father.

15 Now therefore the wheate, and the barley, the oyle and the wine, which my lord hath spoken of, let him send unto his servants.

16 And we will cut wood in Lebanon, as much as thou shalt need, and will bring it to thee in rafts by the sea to Japho, so thou mayest carry them to Jerusalem.

17 And Salomon numbred all the strangers that were in the land of Israel, after the numbring that his father David had numbred them: and they were found an hundred and three and fifty thousand, and six hundred.

18 And he set seventy thousand of them to the burden, and fourescore thousand to hew stones in the mountain, and three thousand and six hundred overseers to cause the people to work.

The building of the Temple. II. Chronicles. Ornaments for the Temple

CHAP. III.

¹ The Temple of the Lord, and the porch are builded with other things thereto belonging.

* 1 Kings 6. 1.

^a Which is the mountaine where Abraham thought to have sacrificed his son. Gen. 22. 2. * 2 Sam. 24. 16. 21.

SO * Salomon began to build the house of the Lord in Jerusalem, in ^a mount Moriah which had been declared unto David his father, in the place that David prepared in the threshing floore of * Ornan the Jebusite.

2 And he began to build in the second moneth, and the second day, in the fourth yeare of his reigne.

3 And these are the measures, whereon Salomon grounded to build the house of God: the length of cubits after the first ^b measure was threescore cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits:

^b According to the whole length of the temple, comprehending the most holy place with the rest. ^c It contained as much as did the breadth of the temple. 1 Kings 6. 3.

^d From the foundation to the top: for in the book of the kings, mention is made from the foundation to the first stage.

4 And the porch, that was before the length in the front ^e of the breadth was twenty cubits, and the height was an ^d hundred and twenty, and he overlaid it within with pure gold.

5 And the greater house he sieled with fir tree, which he overlaid with good gold, & graved thereon palme trees and chaines.

6 And he overlaid the house with precious stone for beauty: and the gold was gold ^e of Parvaim.

^e Some think it is that place which is called Parai.

7 The house, I say, the beames, posts, and walles thereof, and the doores thereof overlaid he with gold, and graved Cherubims upon the walles.

8 ¶ He made also the house of the most holy place: the length thereof was in the front of the breadth of the house, twenty cubites, and the breadth thereof twenty cubites: and he overlaid it with the best gold, of six hundred talents.

9 And the weight of the nailes was fifty shekels of gold, and he overlaid the chambers with gold.

10 ¶ And in the house of the most holy place he made two cherubims wrought like children, and overlaid them with gold.

* 1 Kings 6. 24.

11 * And the wings of the cherubims were twenty cubits long: the one wing was five cubites, reaching to the wall of the house, and the other wing five cubits, reaching to the wing of the other Cherub.

12 Likewise the wing of the other Cherub was five cubits, reaching to the wall of the house, and the other wing five cubites joyning to the wing of the other Cherub.

13 The wings of these Cherubims were spread abroad twenty cubits: they stood on their feet, and their faces were toward the house.

^f Which separated the Temple from the most holy place.

^g Every one was 18. cubits long, but the half cubite could not be seen for it was hid in the roundness of the chapter, and therefore he giveth to every one but 17. and an half.

14 ¶ He made also ^h the vail of blew silke and purple, and crimosin, and fine linnen, and wrought Cherubims thereon.

15 ¶ And he made before the house two pillars ⁱ of five and thirty cubits high: and the chapter that was upon the top of each of them was five cubits.

16 He made also chaines for the oracle, and put them on the heads of the pillars, and made an ^a hundredth pomgranates, and put them among the chaines.

^h For every pillar an hundredth, as 1 Kings 7. 19.

17 And he set up the pillars before the temple, one on the right hand, and the other on the left, and called that on the right hand Jachin, and that on the left hand Boaz.

CHAP. IV.

¹ The altar of brasse. 2 The molten Sea. 6 The Caldrons. 7 The Candlesticks, &c.

And he made an altar of brasse twenty cubits long, and twenty cubits broad, and ten cubits high.

2 And he made a molten ^a Sea of ten cubites from brim to brim, round in compass, and five cubites high: and a line of thirty cubites did compass it round about.

^a A great vessel of brasse, so called, because of the great quantitie of water, which it contained, 1 Kings 7. 23.

3 And under ^b it was the fashion of oxen, which did compass it round about, ten in a cubite compassing the sea about: two rowes of oxen were cast when it was molten.

^b Meaning, under the brim of the vessel, as 1 Kings 7. 24. ^c In the length of every cubite were ten heads or knops, which in all are 300.

4 It stood upon twelve oxen: three looked toward the North, & three looked toward the west, and three looked toward the South, and three looked toward the East, and the sea stood above upon them, and all their hinder parts were inward.

5 And the thicknes thereof was an hand bredth, & the brim thereof was like the work of the brim of a cup, with flowers of [†] lilies: it contained ^d three thousand baths.

[†] Or, Flowers-de-lis.

6 ¶ He made also ten caldrons, and put five on the right hand, and five on the left, to wash in them, and to cleanse in them that which appertained to the burnt-offerings: but the sea was for the Priests to wash in.

^d In the first book of Kings, chap. 7. 26. mention is only made of two thousand, but the lesse number was taken there, and here according as the measures proved afterward is declared.

7 ¶ And he made ten candlesticks of gold (according to their ^e forme) and put them in the Temple, five on the right hand, and five on the left.

^e Even as they should be made.

8 ¶ And he made ten tables, and put them in the Temple, five on the right hand, and five on the left: and he made an hundredth basons of gold.

9 And he made the court of the Priests, & the great ^f court, and doores for the court, & overlaid the doores thereof with brasse.

^f Called also the porch of Solomon, Acts 3. 11. It is also taken for the Temple where Christ preached, Math. 21. 23. [†] Or, caldrons.

10 And he set the sea on the right side eastward toward the south.

11 And Hiram made [†] pots and besoms and basons, and Hiram finished the work that he should make for king Salomon for the house of God.

12 To wit, two pillars, and the bowles, and the chapters on the top of the two pillars, and two grates to cover the two bowles of the chapters which were upon the top of the pillars, 17 In the plain of Jorden did the king cast them in clay between Succoth and Zeredathah.

18 And Salomon made all these vessels in great abundance: for the weight of brasfe could not be reckoned.

19 And Salomon made all the vessels that were for the house of God: the golden altar also, and the tables whereon the shewbread stood.

20 Moreover, the candlesticks with their lamps, to burn them after the manner, before the oracle of pure gold.

21 And the flowers, and the lamps, and the snuffers of gold, which was of fine gold:

1 The things dedicated by David are put in the temple. 2 The Arke is brought into the temple. 10 What was within it. 12 They sing praises to the Lord.

SO* was all the worke finished that Salomon made for the house of the Lord, and Salomon brought in the things that David his father had dedicated, with the silver & the gold, and all the vessels, & put them among the treasures of the house of God.

2 Then Salomon assembled the Elders of Israel, and all the heads of the tribes, the chief fathers of the children of Israel unto Jerusalem to bring up the ark of the covenant of the Lord from the \ddagger citie of David, which is Zion.

3 And all the men of Israel assembled unto the king at the \ddagger feast: it was in the seventh \ddagger moneth.

4 And all the Elders of Israel came, and the Levites took up the ark.

5 And they carried up the ark and the tabernacle of the congregation: and all the holy vessels that were in the tabernacle, those did the Priests and Levites bring up.

6 And king Salomon and all the congregation of Israel that were assembled unto him, were before the ark, offering sheep and bullocks, which could not be told nor numbered for multitude.

7 So the Priests brought the ark of the covenant of the Lord unto his place, into the Oracle of the house, into the most Holy place, even under the wings of the Cherubims.

8 For the Cherubims stretched out their wings over the place of the ark, and the Cherubims covered the ark, and the barres thereof above.

9 And they drew out the barres, that the ends of the barres might be seen out of the ark before the Oracle, but they were not seen \ddagger without: and there they are unto this day.

10 Nothing was in the ark, save \ddagger the two tables, which Moses gave at Horeb, where the Lord made a covenant with the children of Israel, when they came out of Egypt.

13 And they were as one, blowing trumpets, and singing, and made one sound to be heard in praising and thanking the Lord, and when they lift up their voice with trumpets and with cymbals, and with instruments of musick, and when they praised the Lord, singing, \ddagger For he is good, because his mercy lasteth for ever) then the house, even the house of the Lord was filled with a cloud,

14 So that the Priests could not stand to minister, because of the cloud: for the glory of the Lord had filled the house of God;

41 Now therefore arise, O Lord God, to come into thy ¹ rest, thou, and the Arke of thy strength: O Lord God, let thy Priests be clothed with ^m salvation, and let thy Saints rejoyce in goodnesse.

42 O Lord God, refuse not the face of ^a thine anointed: remember the mercies promised to David thy servant.

CHAP. VII.

1 The fire consumeth the sacrifice. 2 The glory of the Lord filleth the Temple. 12 he heareth his prayer. 17 and promiseth to exalt him and his throne.

And when Salomon had made an end of praying, a fire came downe from heaven, and consumed the burnt offering and the sacrifices: and the glory of the Lord filled the house,

2 So that the Priests could not enter into the house of the Lord, because the glory of the Lord had filled the Lords house.

3 And when all the children of Israel saw the fire, and the glory of the Lord come downe upon the house, they bowed themselves with ^{their} faces to the earth upon the pavement, and worshipped and praised the Lord, saying, For hee is good, because his mercy ^{lasteth} for ever.

4 * Then the king and all the people offered sacrifices before the Lord.

5 And king Salomon offered a sacrifice of two and twenty thousand bullocks, and an hundred and twenty thousand sheep: so the king and all the people dedicated the house of God.

6 And the Priests waited on their offices, and the Levites with the instruments of musick of the Lord, which king David had made to praise the Lord, because his mercy ^{lasteth} for ever: when David praised God [†] by them, the Priests also blew trumpets over against them, and all they of Israel stood by.

7 Moreover, Salomon halowed the middle of the court that was before the house of the Lord: for there he had prepared burnt offering, and the fat of the peace offerings; because the brazen altar which Salomon had made, was not able to receive the burnt offering, and the meat offering, and the fat.

8 And Salomon made ^a a feast at that time of seven dayes, and all Israel with him, a very great Congregation, from the entering in of Hamath, unto the river of Egypt.

9 And in the eight day they made a solemne assembly: for they had made the dedication of the altar seven dayes, and the feast seven dayes.

10 And the ^d three and twentieth day of the seventh moneth, he sent the people away into their rents, joyous and with glad heart, because of the goodnesse that the Lord had done for David and for Salomon, and for Israel his people.

11 * So Salomon finished the house of the Lord, and the kings house, and all that came into Salomons heart to make in the house of the Lord: and he prospered in his house.

12 ¶ And the Lord ^{*} appeared to Salomon by night, and said to him, I have heard thy prayer, and have chosen this place for my selfe to bee an house of sacrifice.

And^a when the Queen of Sheba heard of the fame of Salomon, she came to^a prove Salomon with hard questions at Jerusalem, with a very great traine, and camels that bare sweet odours, and much gold, and precious stones: and when shee came to Salomon, shee communed with him of all that was in her heart.

^b There was no question to hard that he did not resolve.

a After the death of Salomon.

Then Rehoboam went to Shechem: for to Shechem came all Israel to make him King.

2 And when Jeroboam the son of Nebat heard it, (which was in Egypt, whither he had fled from the presence of Salomon the King) he returned out of Egypt.

3 And they sent and called him: so came Jeroboam, and all Israel, and communed with Rehoboam, saying,

4 Thy father made our yoke grievous: now therefore make thou the grievous servitude of thy father, and his sore yoke, that he put upon us lighter, and we will serve thee.

5 And he said to them, Depart yet three dayes, then come againe unto mee. And the people departed.

6 And king Rehoboam tooke counsell with the old men that had stood before Salomon his father, while he yet lived, saying, What counsell give yee that I may answer this people?

7 And they spake unto him, saying, If thou bee kind to this people, and please them, and speake loving words to them, they will be thy servants for ever.

8 But he left the counsell of the ancient men that they had given him, and tooke counsell of the young men that were brought up with him, and waited on him.

9 And he said unto them, What counsell give yee, that we may answer this people, which have spoken to mee, saying, Make the yoke which thy father did put upon us lighter?

10 And the yong men that were brought up with him, spake unto him, saying, Thus shalt thou answer the people that spake to thee, saying, Thy father made our yoke heavy, but make thou it lighter for us: thus shalt thou say unto them, My least part shall be bigger then my fathers loynes.

11 Now whereas my father did burden you with a grievous yoke, I will yet increase your yoke: my father hath chastised you with rods, but I will correct you with scourges.

12 ¶ Then Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam the third day, as the King had appointed, saying, Come againe to mee the third day.

13 And the king answered them sharply: and king Rehoboam left the counsell of the ancient men, 14 And spake to them after the counsell of the young men, saying, My father made your yoke grievous: but I will increase it: my father chastised you with rods, but I will correct you with scourges.

15 So the king hearkned not unto the people: for it was the ordinance of God that the Lord might performe his saying, which he had spoken by Ahijah the Shilonite to Jeroboam the son of Nebat.

16 So when all Israel saw that the king would not hear them, the people answered the king, saying, What portion have we in David? for we have none inheritance in the son of Ishai. O Israel, every man to your tents: now see to thine owne house, David. So all Israel departed to their tents.

17 Howbeit Rehoboam reigned over the children of Israel, that dwelt in the cities of Judah.

18 Then king Rehoboam sent Hadoram that was over the tribute, and the children of Israel stoned him with stones, that he died: then king Rehoboam made speed to get him up to his charet, to flee to Jerusalem.

19 And Israel rebelled against the house of David unto this day.

Rehoboam is forbidden to fight against Jeroboam. 5 Cities which he built. 21 He hath eighteene wives, and threescore concubines, and by them eight and twenty sons and threescore daughters.

And when Rehoboam was come to Jerusalem, he gathered of the house of Judah & Benjamin nine score thousand chosen men of war to fight against Israel, and to bring the kingdome againe to Rehoboam.

2 But the word of the Lord came to Shemajah the man of God, saying,

3 Speake unto Rehoboam the son of Salomon king of Judah, and to all Israel that are in Judah, and Benjamin, saying,

4 Thus saith the Lord, Ye shall not goe up, nor fight against your brethren: return every man to his house: for this thing is done of mee. They obeyed therefore the word of the Lord, and returned from going against Jeroboam.

5 And Rehoboam dwelt in Jerusalem, and built strong cities in Judah.

10 Instead whereof King Rehoboam made shields of brasse, & committed them to the hands of the chief of the guard, that waited at the doore of the kings house.

11 And when the king entred into the house of the Lord, the guard came and bare them and brought them againe unto the guard chamber.

1 Abijah maketh war against Jeroboam. 4 He sheweth the occasion. 12 He trusteth in the Lord and overcometh Jeroboam. 21 Of his wives and children.

IN the eighteenth year of king Jeroboam began Abijah to reigne over ^a Judah.

^a He meaneth Judah and Benjamin.

2 He reigned three year in Jerusalem (his mothers name also was ^bMichaiah the daughter of ^cUriel of Gibeon) and there was war betweene Abijah and Jeroboam.

3 And Abijah set the battell in aray with the army of valiant men of war, ^eeven foure hundred thousand chosen men. Jeroboam also set the battell in aray against him with eight hundred thousand chosen men which were strong and valiant.

4 And Abijah stood up upon mount ^dZemeraim, which is in mount Ephraim, & said, O Jeroboam, & all Israel, hear you me.

5 Ought you not to know that the Lord God of Israel hath given the kingdom over Israel to ^eDavid for ever, ^eeven to him and to his sons by a covenant ^fof salt?

6 And Jeroboam the son of Nebat the servant of Salomon the son of David is risen up, and hath ^grebelled against his lord:

7 And there are gathered to him ^hvain men and ^hwicked, and made themselves strong against Rehoboam the son of Salomon: for Rehoboam was ⁱbut a child and ^jtender hearted, & could not resist them.

8 Now therefore ye thinke that ye be able to resist against the kingdome of the Lord, ^kwhich is in the hands of the sons of David, and yee bee a great multitude, and the golden calves ^lare with you which Jeroboam made you for Gods.

9 ^mHave ye not driven away the Priests of the Lord, the sons of Aaron, and the Levites, and have made you Priests like the people of ⁿother countries? whosoever commeth to ^oconsecrate with a ^oyoung bullock and seven rammes, the same may be a priest of them that are no gods.

10 But we belong unto the Lord our God, and have not forsaken him, and the priests the sons of Aaron minister unto the Lord, and the Levites in ^ptheir office.

11 And they burn unto the Lord every ^qmorning and every evening burnt offerings and sweet incense, and the bread is set in order upon the pure Table, and the candlestick of gold with the lamps thereof, to burn every evening: for we keep the watch of the Lord our God: but yee have forsaken him.

12 And behold, this God ^ris with us as a captaine, and his priests with the sounding trumpets, to cry an alarme against you. O yee children of Israel, fight not against the Lord God of your fathers: for yee shall not prosper.

13 ¶ But Jeroboam caused an ambushment ^sto compass, and come behind them, when they were before Judah, and the ambushment behind them.

14 Then Judah looked, and behold, the battell ^twas before and behind them, and they cried unto the Lord, and the Priests blew with the trumpets, 15 And the men of Judah gave a shout: and even as the men of Judah shouted, God ^usmote Jeroboam and also Israel before Abijah and Judah.

^u Or, gave him the overthrow.

16 And the children of Israel fled before Judah, and God delivered them into their hand.

17 And Abijah and his people slew a great slaughter of them, so that there fell downe wounded of Israel five hundred thousand chosen men.

18 So the children of Israel were brought under at that time: and the children of Judah prevailed, ^vbecause they stayed upon the Lord God of their fathers.

^v He sheweth that the stay of all kingdomes, and assurance of victories depend upon our trust and confidence in the Lord.

19 And Abijah pursued after Jeroboam, and tooke cities from him, ^weven Beth-el, and the ^xvillages thereof, and Jeshanah with her villages, and Ephron with her villages.

20 And Jeroboam recovered no strength againe in the dayes of Abijah, but the Lord plagued him, and he died.

21 So Abijah waxed mighty, and married fourteene wives, and begate two and twenty sons, and sixteen daughters.

22 The rest of the acts of Abijah and his manners, and his sayings, are written in the story of the Prophet Iddo.

5 And he took away out of all the cities of Judah the high places, and the images: therefore the kingdom was ^{ad}quiet before him.

^{ab} He sheweth that the rest and quietnesse of kingdomes standeth in abolishing idolatry, and advancing true religion.

6 He built also strong cities in Judah, because the land was in rest, and he had no war in those yeares: for the Lord had given him rest.

7 Therefore hee said to Judah, Let us build these cities and make walles about, and towres, gates, and barres, whiles the land is ^{ae}before us: because we have fought the Lord our God, we have fought him, and he hath given us rest on every side: so they built and prospered.

² The exhortation of Azariah. ³ Asa purgeth his countrey of idolatry. ¹¹ He sacrificeth with the people. ¹⁴ They sweare together to serve the Lord. ¹⁶ He deposeth his mother for her idolatry.

Then the Spirit of God came upon ^a Azariah the son of Obed.

2 And he went out to meet Asa, and said unto him, O Asa, and all Judah and Benjamin, heare yee mee. The Lord is with you, while yee be with him: and if yee seeke him, he will be found of you, but if yee forsake him, hee will forsake you.

3 Now for a long season Israel hath been without the true God, and without Priest to teach, and without Law.

4 But whosoever returned in his affliction to the Lord God of Israel, and fought him, he was found of them.

5 And in that time there was no peace to him, that did goe out and goe in: but great troubles were to all the inhabitants of the earth.

6 For nation was destroyed of nation, and city of city: for God troubled them with all adversity.

7 Bee yee strong therefore, and let not your hands bee weake: for your worke shall have a reward.

8 ¶ And when Asa heard these words, and the prophecy of Obed the prophet, he was encouraged, and tooke away the abominations out of all the land of Judah, and Benjamin, and out of the cities which he had taken of mount Ephraim, and hee renewed the altar of the Lord, that was before the porch of the Lord.

9 And he gathered all Judah and Benjamin, and the strangers with them out of Ephraim, and Manasseh, and out of Simeon: for there fell many to him out of Israel, when they saw that the Lord his God was with him.

10 So they assembled to Jerusalem in the third moneth, in the fifteenth yeare of the reigne of Asa.

11 And they offered unto the Lord the same time of the spoile, which they had brought, even seven hundred bullocks, and seven thousand sheep.

12 And they made a covenant to seek the Lord God of their fathers, with all their heart, and with all their soule.

13 And whosoever will not seeke the Lord God of Israel, shall be slain, whether he were small or great, man or woman.

14 And they sware unto the Lord with a loud voice, and with shouting, and with trumpets, and with cornets.

15 And all Judah rejoyced at the oath: for they had sworne unto the Lord with all their heart, and sought him with a whole desire, and he was found of them. And the Lord gave them rest round about.

16 ¶ And King Asa deposeth Maachah his mother from her regency, because she had made an idole in a grove: and Asa brake downe her idole, and stamped it, and burnt it at the brooke Kidron.

17 But the high places were not taken away out of Israel: yet the heart of Asa was perfect all his dayes.

18 Also he brought into the house of God the things that his father had dedicate, and that he had dedicate, silver, and gold, and vessels.

19 And there was no warre unto the five and thirtieth yeare of the reigne of Asa.

5 And when Baasha heard it, he left building of Ramah, and let his work cease.

6 Then Afa the king took all Judah & caried away the stones of Ramah, and the timber therof, wherwith Baasha did build, and he built therewith Geba and Mizpah.

7 ¶ And at that same time Hanani the † Seer came to Afa king of Judah and said unto him, Because thou hast rested upon the king of Aram, and not rested in the Lord thy God, therefore is the host of the king of Aram escaped out of thine hand.

9 For the eyes of the Lord beheld all the earth to shew himself strong with thee that are of perfit heart toward him: thou hast then done foolishly in this: therefore from henceforth thou shalt have warres.

5 Jehoshaphat trusting in the Lord, prospereth in riches and honour. 6 He aboliseth idolatry. 7 And causeth the people to be taught. 11 He receiveth tribute of strangers. 13 His munitions, and men of warre.

And Jehoshaphat his son reigned in his stead, and prevailed against Israel.

9 And they taught in Judah, and had the booke of the Law of the Lord with them, and went about throughout all the cities of Judah, and taught the people.

10 And the feare of the Lord fell upon all the kingdomes of the lands that were round about Judah, and they † fought not against Jehoshaphat.

And ^{*} Jehoshaphat had riches and honour in abundance, but he was joyned in ^a affinity with Ahab.

2 And after certaine ^b yeares he went down to Ahab to Samaria: and Ahab slew sheep and oxen for him in great number, and for the people that he had with him, and entised him to goe up unto ^c Ramoth Gilead.

3 And Ahab king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat king of Judah, Wilt thou go with mee to Ramoth Gilead? And he answered him, I am as thou art, and my people as thy people, and we will joyne with thee in the warre.

4 And Jehoshaphat said unto the king of Israel, Aske counsell, I pray thee, at the ^d word of the Lord this day.

5 Therefore the King of Israel gathered of ^e prophets four hundred men, and said unto them, Shall we goe to Ramoth Gilead to battell, or shall I cease? And they said, Goe up: for God shall deliver it into the kings hand.

6 But Jehoshaphat said, Is there here never a Prophet more of the Lord that we might enquire of him?

7 And the King of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat, There is yet one man, by whom we may aske counsell of the Lord, but I ^f hate him: for he doeth not prophecy good unto mee, but alway evill: it is Michaiah the son of Imla. Then Jehoshaphat said, Let not the King say ^g so.

8 And the King of Israel called an eunuch, and said, Call quickly Michaiah the son of Imla.

9 ¶ And the King of Israel, and Jehoshaphat King of Judah sate either of them on his throne, clothed in ^h their apparell: they sate even in the threshing floore at the entering in of the gate of Samaria: and all the prophets prophesied before them.

10 And Zidkiah the son of Chenaanah made him ⁱ hornes of yron, and said, Thus saith the Lord, With these shalt thou push the Aramites untill thou hast consumed them.

11 And all the Prophets prophesied so, saying, Goe up to Ramoth Gilead, and prosper: for the Lord shall deliver it into the hand of the King.

12 ¶ And the messenger that went to call Michaiah, spake to him, saying, Behold, the words of the Prophets declare good to the king with one ^k accord: let thy word therefore, I pray thee, be like one of theirs, and speake thou good.

13 And Michaiah said, As the Lord liveth, whatsoever my God saith, that will I speake.

14 ¶ So he came to the king, and the king said unto him, Michaiah, shall we goe to Ramoth Gilead to battell, or shal I leave off? And he said, ^l Goe ye up, and prosper, and they shal be delivered into your hand.

15 And the king said to him, How oft shal I charge thee, that thou tell me nothing but the truth in the Name of the Lord?

16 Then he said, I saw all Israel scattered in the mountaines, as sheep that have no shepherd: and the Lord said, ^m These have no master: let them returne every man to his house in peace.

17 And the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, Did I not tell thee, that he would not prophesie good unto mee, but evill?

18 Again he said, Therefore heare ye the word of the Lord: I saw the Lord sit upon his throne, and all the ⁿ host of heaven standing at his right hand, and at his left.

19 And the Lord said, Who shall ^o persuade Ahab king of Israel, that he may go up, and fall at Ramoth Gilead? And one spake and said thus, and another said that.

20 Then there came forth a spirit and stood before the Lord, and said, I will persuade him. And the Lord said unto him, Wherein?

21 And he said, I will go out, and be a false spirit in the mouth of all his Prophets. And ^p he said, Thou shalt persuade, and shalt also prevail: go forth, and do so.

22 Now therefore behold, the Lord hath put a ^q false spirit in the mouth of these thy Prophets, and the Lord hath determined evill against thee.

23 Then Zidkiah the son of Chenaanah came neere, and smote Michaiah upon the ^r cheek, and said, By what way went the spirit of the Lord from mee, to speak with thee?

24 And Michaiah said, Behold, thou shalt see that day when thou shalt go from chamber to chamber to hide thee.

25 And the king of Israel said, Take yee Michaiah, & cary him to Amon the governor of the city, & to Joash the Kings son, 26 And say, Thus saith the King, Put this man in the prison house, and feed him with bread of ^s affliction and with water of affliction, untill I returne in peace.

27 And Michaiah said, If thou returne in peace, the Lord hath not spoken by me. And ^t he said, Heare all yee people.

32 For when the captaines of the chariots saw that he was not the king of Israel, they turned back from him.

33 Then a certaine man drew a bow mightily, and smote the king of Israel betwene the joynts of his brigandine: Therefore hee said to his chariot-man, Turne thine hand, and cary mee out of the host: for I am hurt.

34 And the battell increased that day: and the King of Israel stood still in his chariot against the Aramites untill even, and died at the time of the Sun going down.

CHAP. XIX.

^a After Iehoshaphat was rebuked by the Prophet, he called againe the people to the honouring of the Lord. ⁵ Hee appointed judges and ministers, ⁹ And exhorteth them to feare God.

And Jehoshaphat the king of Judah returned safe to his house in Jerusalem.

2 And Jehu the son of Hanani the Seer went out to meet him, and said to King Jehoshaphat, ^a Wouldst thou helpe the wicked, and love them that hate the Lord? therefore for this thing the wrath of the Lord is upon thee.

3 Neverthelesse good things are found in thee, because thou hast taken away the groves out of the land, and hast prepared thine heart to seeke God.

4 ¶ So Jehoshaphat dwelt at Jerusalem, and returned and went through the people from Beerseba to mount Ephraim, and brought them again unto the Lord God of their fathers.

5 And he set judges in the land throughout all the strong cities of Judah, city by city,

6 And said unto the Judges, Take heed what ye do: for ye execute not the judgments of man, but of the Lord, and he will be with you in the cause and judgement.

7 Wherefore now let the feare of the Lord be upon you: take heed, and doe it: for there is no iniquity with the Lord our God, neither respect of persons, nor receiving of reward.

8 Moreover in Jerusalem did Jehoshaphat set of the Levites, & of the Priests, and of the chiefe of the families of Israel, for the judgement and cause of the Lord: and they returned to Jerusalem.

9 And he charged them, saying, Thus shall ye doe in the feare of the Lord faithfully and with a perfect heart.

10 And in every cause that shall come to you of your brethren that dwell in their Cities betwene bloud, and bloud, betwene law and precept, statutes and judgments, ye shall judge them, and admonish them that they trespass not against the Lord, that their wrath come not upon you and upon your brethren. Thus shall ye doe and trespass not.

11 And behold, Amariah the Priest shall be the chiefe over you in all matters of the Lord, and Zebadiah the son of Ihmael, a ruler of the house of Judah, shall be for all the kings affaires, and the Levites shall be officers before you. Be of good courage, and doe it, and the Lord shall bee with the good.

After this also came the children of Moab, and the children of Ammon, and with them of the Ammonites against Jehoshaphat to battell.

2 Then there came that told Jehoshaphat, saying, There commeth a great multitude against thee from beyond the sea, out of Aram: and behold, they be in Hazzon Tamar, which is Engedi.

3 And Jehoshaphat feared, and set himselfe to seeke the Lord, and proclaimed a fast throughout all Judah.

4 And Judah gathered themselves together to aske counsell of the Lord: they came even out of all the cities of Judah to enquire of the Lord.

5 And Jehoshaphat stood in the Congregation of Judah and Jerusalem in the house of the Lord before the new court,

6 And said, O Lord God of our fathers, art not thou God in heaven? and reignest not thou over all the kingdoms of the heathen? and in thine hand is power and might, and none is able to withstand thee.

7 Diddest not thou our God cast out the inhabitants of this land before thy people Israel, and gavest it to the seed of Abraham thy friend for ever?

8 And they dwelt therein, and have built thee a Sanctuary therein for thy Name, saying,

9 * If evill come upon us, as the sword of judgement, or pestilence, or famine, we will stand before this house and in thy presence (for thy Name is in this house) and will cry unto thee in our tribulation, and thou wilt heare and helpe.

10 And now behold, the children of * Ammon and Moab, and mount Seir, by whom thou wouldest not let Israel goe, when they came out of the land of Egypt: but they turned aside from them, and destroyed them not:

11 Behold, I say, how they reward us, in coming to cast us out of thine inheritance, w^{ch} thou hast caused us to inherite.

12 O our God, wilt thou not judge them? for there is no strength in us to stand before this great multitude that commeth against us, neither doe we know what to doe: but our eyes are toward thee.

13 And all Judah stood ^b before the Lord with their young ones, their wives, and their children.

14 And Jehaziel the son of Zechariah, the son of Benajah, the son of Jeiel, the son of Mattaniah, a Levite of the sons of Asaph, was there, upon whom came ⁱ the Spirit of the Lord in the mids of the congregation.

15 And he said, Harken ye, all Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jerusalem, and thou, king Jehoshaphat: thus saith the Lord unto you, Feare you not, neither be afraid for this great multitude: for the ^k battell is not yours, but Gods.

16 To morrow goe yee downe against them: behold, they come up by the cleft of Ziz, & ye shall find them at the end of the brooke before the wilderness of Jeruel.

18 ¶ Then Jehoshaphat ^l bowed down with his face to the earth, and all Judah & the inhabitants of Jerusalem fell downe before the Lord, worshipping the Lord.

19 And the Levites of the children of the Kohathites, and of the children of the Korhites stood up to praise the Lord God of Israel with a loud voyce on high.

20 And when they arose early in the morning, they went forth to the wilderness of Tekoa: and as they departed, Jehoshaphat stood and said, Heare ye me, O Judah, and yee inhabitants of Jerusalem: put your trust in the Lord your God, and yee shall bee assured: beleve his ^m Prophets, and yee shall prosper.

21 And when he had consulted with the people, and appointed singers unto the Lord, and them that should praise him ⁿ that is in the beautifull Sanctuary, in going forth before the men of armes, and saying, Praise yee the Lord, for his mercy lasteth for ever.

22 And when they began to shout, & to praise, the Lord laid ambushments against the children of Ammon, Moab, and ^o mount Seir, which were come against Judah, and they slew one another.

23 For the children of Ammon & Moab rose against the inhabitants of mount Seir, to slay and to destroy them: and when they had made an end of the inhabitants of Seir, every one helped to destroy another.

24 And when Judah came toward Mizpah in the wilderness, they looked unto the multitude, and behold the carcases were fallen to the earth, and none escaped.

25 And when Jehoshaphat and his people came to take away the spoile of them; they found among them in abundance both of substance and also of bodies laden with precious jewels, which they tooke for themselves, till they could cary no more: they were three dayes in gathering of the spoile: for it was much.

26 And in the fourth day they assembled themselves in the valley of Berachah: for there they blessed the Lord: therefore they called the name of that place, The valley of Berachah unto this day.

27 Then every man of Judah and Jerusalem returned with Jehoshaphat their head, to go againe to Jerusalem with joy: for the Lord had made them to rejoyce over their enemies.

28 And they came to Jerusalem with viols, and with harps, and with trumpets, even unto the house of the Lord.

29 And the ^p feare of God was upon all the kingdomes of the earth, when they had heard that the Lord had fought against the enemies of Israel.

30 So the kingdom of Jehoshaphat was quiet; and his God gave him rest on every side.

31 ¶ And * Jehoshaphat reigned over Judah, & was five and thirty year old, when he began to reigne: and reigned five and twenty year in Jerusalem, and his mothers name was Azubah the daughter of Shilhi.

32 And he walked in the ^q way of Asa his father, and departed not therefrom, doing that which was right in the sight of the Lord.

33 Howbeit the high places were not taken away; for the people had not yet prepared their hearts unto the God of their fathers.

34 Concerning the rest of the acts of Jehoshaphat, first and last, behold they are written in the booke of Jehu the son of Hanani, which ^r is mentioned in the booke of the kings of Israel.

35 ¶ Yet after this did Jehoshaphat king of Judah joyne himselfe with Ahaziah king of Israel, who was given to do evill:

36 And he joyned with him to make ships to goe to Tarshish: and they made the ships in Ezion-Gaber:

37 Then Eliezer the son of Dodavah of Marebath prophesied against Jehoshaphat saying, Because thou hast joyned thy selfe with Ahaziah, the Lord hath broken thy workes: and the ships were broken, that they were not able to goe to Tarshish.

CHAP. XXI.
1 Jehoshaphat dieth. 3 Jehoram succedeth him. 4 which killeth his brethren. 6 He was brought to idolatrie, and seduceth the people. 16 He is oppressed of the Philistims. 18 His miserable end.

Jehoshaphat then slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David: and Jehoram his son reigned in his stead.

2 And he had brethren the sons of Jehoshaphat, Azariah, and Jehiel, and Zechariah, and Azariah, and Michael, and Shephatiah. All these were the sons of Jehoshaphat king of Israel.

3 And their father gave them great gifts of silver and of gold, and of precious things, with strong cities in Judah, but the kingdome gave he to Jehoram: for he was the eldest.

4 And Jehoram rose up upon the kingdome of his father, and made himselfe strong, and slew all his brethren with the sword, and also of the Princes of Israel.

5 Jehoram was two and thirty years old, when he began to reigne, and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem.

6 And hee walked in the way of the kings of Israel, as the house of Ahab had done: for he had the daughter of Ahab to a wife, and he wrought evil in the eyes of the Lord.

7 Howbeit the Lord would not destroy the house of David, because of the covenant that hee had made with David, and because hee had promised to give a light to him, and to his sons for ever.

8 In his dayes Edom rebelled from under the hand of Judah, and made a king over them.

9 And Jehoram went forth with his princes, and all his chariots with him: and he rose up by night and smote Edom, which had compassed him in, and the captaines of the chariots.

10 But Edom rebelled from under the hand of Judah unto this day, then did Libnah rebell at the same time from under his hand, because he had forsaken the Lord God of his fathers.

11 Moreover he made high places in the mountaines of Judah, and caused the inhabitants of Jerusalem to commit fornication, and compelled Judah thereto.

12 And there came a writing to him from Elijah the Prophet, saying, Thus saith the Lord God of David thy father, Because thou hast not walked in the wayes of Jehoshaphat thy father, nor in the wayes of Asa king of Judah,

13 But hast walked in the way of the kings of Israel, and hast made Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem to go a whooring, as the house of Ahab went a whooring, and hast also slaine thy brethren of thy fathers house, which were better then thou,

14 Behold, with a great plague will the Lord smite thy people, and thy children, and thy wives, and all thy substance, 15 And thou shalt be in great diseases in the disease of thy bowels, untill thy bowels fall out for the disease, day by day.

16 ¶ So the Lord stirred up against Jehoram the spirit of the Philistims, and the Arabians that were beside the Ethiopians.

17 And they came up into Judah, and brake into it, and caried away all the substance that was found in the kings house, and his sons also, and his wives, so that there was not a son left him, save Jehozabab, the yongest of his sons.

18 And after all this, the Lord smote him in his bowels with an incurable disease.

19 And in proceesse of time, even after the end of two yeares, his guts fell out with his disease: so he died of sore diseases: and his people made no burning for him like the burning of his fathers.

20 When he began to reigne, he was two and thirty years old, and reigned in Jerusalem eight years, and lived without being desired: yet they buried him in the city of David, but not among the sepulchres of the kings.

CHAP. XXII.

1 Ahaziah reigneth after Jehoram. 9 Jeho king of Israel killeth Ahaziah. 10 Athaliah putteth to death all the kings issue. 11 Joash escapeth.

And the inhabitants of Jerusalem made Azaziah his yongest son King in his stead: for the army that came with the Arabians to the camp, had slaine all the eldest: therefore Ahaziah the son of Jehoram king of Judah reigned.

2 Two and forty year old was Ahaziah when he began to reigne, and he reigned one year in Jerusalem, and his mothers name was Athaliah the daughter of Omri.

3 He walked also in the wayes of the house of Ahab: for his mother counselled him to doe wickedly.

4 Wherefore he did evil in the sight of the Lord, like the house of Ahab: for they were his counsellors after the death of his father, to his destruction.

5 And he walked after their counsell, and went with Jehoram the son of Ahab king of Israel to fight against Hazael king of Aram, at Ramoth Gilead: and the Aramites smote joram.

6 ¶ And he returned to be healed in Izreel, because of the wounds wherewith they had wounded him at Ramah; when he fought with Hazael king of Aram. Now Azariah the son of Jehoram king of Judah went down to see Jehoram the son of Ahab at Izreel, because he was diseased.

7 And the destruction of Ahaziah came of God in that he went to Joram: for when he was come, he went forth with Jehoram against Jehu the son of Nimshi, * whom the Lord had anointed to destroy the house of Ahab.

8 Therefore when Jehu ‡ executed judgment upon the house of Ahab, and found the princes of Judah, and the sons of the brethren of Ahaziah that waited on Ahaziah, he slew them also.

9 And he fought Ahaziah: and they caught him where he was hid in Samaria, and brought him to Jehu, and slew him, and buried him, because said they, he is the son of † Jehoshaphat, which fought the Lord with all his heart. So the house of Ahaziah was not able to retain the kingdom.

10 ¶ * Therefore when Athaliah the mother of Ahaziah saw that her son was dead, she arose and † destroyed all the kings seed of the house of Judah.

11 But Jehoshabeath the daughter of the King, took Joash the son of Ahaziah, and stole him from among the Kings sons that should be slaine, and put him and his nurse in the bed chamber: so Jehoshabeath the daughter of King Jehoram the wife of Jehojada the Priest (for she was the sister of Ahaziah) hid him from Athaliah: so she slew him not.

12 And he was with them hid in the house of God six years, whiles Athaliah reigned over the † land.

2 And they went about in Judah, and gathered the Levites out of all the cities of Judah, and the chiefe fathers † of Israel: and they came to Jerusalem.

3 And all the congregation made a covenant with the King in the house of God and he said unto them, Behold, the kings son must reign, * as the Lord hath said of the sons of David.

6 But let none come into the house of the Lord, save the Priests and the Levites that minister, they shall go in, for they are holy: but all the people shall keep the watch of the Lord.

7 And the Levites shall compass the king round about, and every man with his weapon in his hand, and he that entreth † into the house, shall be slain, and be you with the king, when he commeth in, and when he goeth out.

8 ¶ So the Levites and all Judah did according to all things that Jehojada the Priest had commanded, and took every man his men that came on the Sabbath, with them that † went out on the Sabbath: for Jehojada the Priest did not discharge the courses.

9 And Jehojada the Priest delivered to the Captains of hundreds, spears, and shields, and bucklers, which had bin kings Davids, and were in the house of God.

10 And he caused all the people to stand (every man with his weapon in his hand) from the right side of the house, to the left side of the house by the altar, and by the † house round about the king.

11 Then they brought out the kings son, and put upon him the crown, and gave him the † testimony, and made him King. And Jehojada and his sons anointed him, and said, God save the King.

12 ¶ But when Athaliah heard the noyse of the people running and praising the king, she came to the people into the house of the Lord.

14 Then Jehojada the Priest brought out the captaines of hundreds that were governors of the host, and said unto them, Have her forth of the ranges, and he that followeth her, let him die by the sword: for the Priest had said, Slay her not in the house of the Lord.

15 So they laid hands on her: and when she was come to the entring of the horse-gate by the kings house, they slew her there.

CHAP. XXIV.

⁴ Joash repaireth the house of the Lord. 17 After the death of Jehojada, he falleth to idolatry. 21 He stoneth to death Zechariah the Prophet. 25 Joash is killed of his own servants, 27 After him reigneth Amaziah.

Joash ^{*} was seven year old, when he began to reign, and he reigned fourty year in Jerusalem: and his mothers name was Zibiah of Beer-sheba.

2 And Joash did uprightly in the sight of the Lord, all the dayes of ^{*} Jehojada the Priest.

3 And Jehojada [‡] took him two wives, and he begat sons and daughters.

4 ¶ And afterward it came into Joash mind, to renew the house of the Lord.

5 And he assembled the Priests and the Levites, and said to them, Go out unto the cities of Judah, and gather of all ^b Israel money to repaire the house of your God, from year to year, and haste the thing: but the Levites hastned not.

6 Therefore the king called Jehojada the ^c chief, and said unto him, Why hast thou not required of the Levites to bring in out of Judah and Jerusalem, ^{*} the taxe of Moses the servant of the Lord, and of the Congregation of Israel, for the Tabernacle of the Testimony?

7 For ^d wicked Athaliah, and her children brake up the house of God: and all the things that were dedicate for the house of the Lord, did they bestow upon Baalim.

8 Therefore the king commanded, ^{*} and they made a chest, and set it at the gate of the house of the Lord without.

9 And they made proclamation thorow Judah and Jerusalem, to bring unto the Lord ^{*} the taxe of Moses the servant of God, ^e layed upon Israel in the wildernesse.

10 And all the princes, and all the people rejoyced, and brought in, and cast into the chest, untill they had finished.

11 And when it was time, ^{*} they brought the chest unto the kings officer, by the hand of the Levites: and when they saw that there was much silver, then the Kings Scribe, (and one appointed by the high Priest) came and emptied the chest, and took it, and caryed it to his place again: thus they did day by day, and gathered silver in abundance.

12 And the King and ^f Jehojada gave it to such as did the labour and work in the house of the Lord, and hired masons and carpenters to repair the house of the Lord: ^g they gave it also to workers of yron and brasse, to repair the house of the Lord.

13 So the workmen wrought, and the work [‡] amended through their hands: and they restored the house of God to his state, and strengthened it.

14 And when they had finished it, they brought the rest of the silver before the King and Jehojada, and he made thereof ^h vessels for the house of the Lord, even vessels to minister, both morters and incense cups, and vessels of gold, and of silver: and they offered burnt offerings in the house of the Lord continually all the dayes of Jehojada.

15 ¶ But Jehojada waxed old, and was full of dayes, and dyed. An hundreth and thirty year old ⁱ was he when he dyed.

16 And they buried him in the City of David with the ^j Kings, because he had done good in Israel, and toward God and his house.

17 ¶ And after the death of Jehojada, came the ^k princes of Judah, and did reverence to the King, and the king hearkned unto them.

18 And they left the house of the Lord God of their fathers, and served groves and idols: and wrath came upon Judah and Jerusalem, because of this their trespasse.

19 And God sent Prophets among them, to bring them again unto the Lord: and they ^l made protestation among them, but they would not hear.

20 And the Spirit of God came upon Zechariah the son of Jehojada the Priest, which stood ^m above the people, & said unto them, Thus saith God, Why transgresse ye the commandements of the Lord? surely ye shall not prosper: because ye have forsaken the Lord, he also hath forsaken you.

22 Thus Joash the King remembered not the kindness which Jehojada his father had done to him, but slew his son. And when he died, he said, The Lord ^a look upon it, and require it.

23 ¶ And when the year was out, the host of Aram came up against him, and they came against Judah and Jerusalem, and destroyed all the Princes of the people from among the people, and sent all the spoil of them unto the King of Damascus.

24 Though the army of Aram came with a small company of men, yet the Lord delivered a very great army into their hand, because they had forsaken the Lord God of their fathers: and they ^o gave sentence against Joash.

25 And when they were departed from him, (for they left him in great diseases) his own servants conspired against him for the blood of the ^p children of Jehojada the Priest, and slew him on his bed, and he dyed, & they buried him in the city of David: but they buried him not in the sepulchres of the Kings.

26 And these are they that conspired against him, Zabad the son of Shimrath an Ammonitess, and Jehozabad the son of Shimrath a Moabitess.

27 But ^q his sons, and the sum of the tax gathered by him, and the ^r foundation of the house of God, behold, they are written in the story of the booke of the Kings. And Amaziah his son reigned in his stead.

CHAP. XXV.

3 Amaziah putteth them to death which slew his father. 10 He sendeth backe them of Israel. 11 He overcometh the Edomites. 14 He falleth to idolatrie. 17 And Joash King of Israel overcometh Amaziah. 27 He is slaine by a conspiracy.

Amaziah was five and twenty yeare old when he began to reigne, & he reigned nine and twenty yeare in ^{*} Jerusalem; and his mothers name was Jehoaddan of Jerusalem.

2 And he did ^a uprightly in the eyes of the Lord, but not with a perfect heart.

3 And when the Kingdom was established unto him, he slew his servants, that had slain the King his father.

4 But he slew not their children, but did as it is written in the Law, and in the book of Moses, where the Lord commanded; saying, ^{*} The fathers shall not die for the ^b children, neither shall the children die for the fathers, but every man shall die for his own sin.

5 ¶ And Amaziah assembled Judah, and made them Captains over thousands, and Captains over hundredths, according to the houses of their fathers, thoroughout all Judah and Benjamin: and he numbred them from ^c twenty year old and above, and found among them three hundred thousand chosen men, to go forth to the war, and to handle spear and shield.

6 He hired also an hundred thousand valiant men ^d out of Israel for an hundred talents of silver.

7 But a man of God came to him, saying, O King, let not the army of Israel goe with thee: for the LORD is not ^e with Israel, neither with all the house of Ephraim.

8 If ^f not, go thou on, do it, make thy selfe strong to the battell, but God shall make thee fall before the enemy: for God hath power to help, and to cast down.

9 And Amaziah said to the man of God, What shall we do then for the hundred talents, which I have given to the host of Israel? Then the man of God answered, The Lord is able to ^g give thee more than this.

10 So Amaziah separated them, to wit, the army that was come to him out of Ephraim, to return to their place: wherefore their wrath was kindled greatly against Judah, and they returned to their places with great anger.

11 Then Amaziah was encouraged, and led forth his people, and went to the salt valley, and smote of the children of ^h Seir, ten thousand.

12 And other ten thousand did the children of Judah take alive, & carried them to the top of a ⁱ rock, & cast them down from the top of the rock, and they all burst to pieces.

13 But the men of the ^k army, which Amaziah sent away, that they should not go with his people to battell, fell upon the cities of Judah from Samaria unto Beth-horon, and smote three thousand of them, and took much spoil.

14 Now after that Amaziah was come from the slaughter of the Edomites, he brought the gods of the children of Seir, and set them up to be his gods, and ^l worshipped them, & burnt incense unto them.

15 Wherefore the Lord was wroth with Amaziah, and sent unto him a Prophet, which said unto him, why hast thou sought the gods of the people, which were not able to ^m deliver their own people out of thine hand?

16 And as he talked with him, ⁿ he said unto him, Have they made thee the Kings Counsellor? cease thou: why should they ^o smite thee? And the Prophet ceased, but said: I know that God hath determined to destroy thee, because thou hast done this, and hast not obeyed my counsell.

17 ¶ Then

Joash overcommeth Amaziah. II. Chronicles. Vzziah obeyeth the Lord.

17 ¶ Then Amaziah king of Judah took counsell, and sent to Joash the son of Jehoahaz, the son of Jehu king of Israel, saying, Come, ^p let us see one another in the face.

^p That is, let us trie the matter hand to hand: for he was offended, that the army of the Israelites, whom he had in wages, and dimitted by the counsell of the Prophet, had destroyed certaine of the cities of Judah.
* 2 King. 14. 9.

18 But Joash king of Israel sent to Amaziah king of Judah, saying, The thistle that is in Lebanon, sent to the cedar that is in Lebanon, saying, * Give thy daughter to my son to wife: and the wilde beast that was in Lebanon went and trode down the thistle.

19 Thou thinkest: loe, thou hast smitten Edom, and thine heart listeth thee up to brag: abide now at home, ^q why dost thou provoke to thine hurt, that thou shouldest fall, and Judah with thee?

^q Thus God oftentimes plagueth by those means wherein men most trust, to teach them to have their recourse onely to him: and to shew his judgements, mooveth their hearts to follow that which shalbe their destruction.

20 But Amaziah would not hear: for it was of God, that he might deliver them into his hand, because they had fought the gods of Edom.

21 So Joash the king of Israel went up: and he, and Amaziah king of Judah saw one another in the face at Beth-shehem, which is in Judah.

22 And Judah was put to the worse before Israel, and they fled every man to his tents.

23 But Joash the king of Israel took Amaziah king of Judah, the son of Joash, the sonne of Jehoahaz in Beth-shehem, and brought him to Jerusalem, and brake down the wall of Jerusalem, from the gate of Ephraim unto the corner gate, four hundred cubites.

24 And he tooke all the gold and the silver, and all the vessels that were found in the house of God with Obed Edom, and in the treasures of the kings house, and the children that were in hostage, and returned to Samaria.

^r Meaning, the successours of Obed Edom: for the house bare the name of the chiefe father.

25 ¶ And Amaziah the son of Joash king of Judah lived after the death of Joash son of Jehoahaz king of Israel, fifteen year.

27 Now after the time that Amaziah did turn away from the Lord, * they wrought treason against him in Jerusalem: and when he was fled to Lachish, they sent to Lachish after him, and slew him there.

4 And he did uprightly in the sight of the Lord, according to all that his father Amaziah did.

5 And he sought God in the dayes of Zechariah (which understood the Visions of God) and when as he^d sought the Lord, God made him to prosper.

^c This was not that Zechariah that was the son of Jehoiada, but some other Prophet of that name. ^d For God never forsaketh any that seeketh unto him, and therefore man is the cause of his own destruction.

6 For he went forth and fought against the Philistims, and brake down the wall of Gath, and the wall of Jabneth, and the wall of Ashdod, and built cities in Ashdod, and among the Philistims.

7 And God helped him against the Philistims, and against the Arabians that dwelt in Gur-baal, and Hammeunim.

8 And the Ammonites gave^e gifts to Vzziah, and his name spread to the entring in of Egypt: for he did most valiantly.

^e That is, they payed tribute in signe of subjection.

9 Moreover, Vzziah built towers in Jerusalem at the corner gate, and at the valley gate, and at the^f turning, and made them strong.

^h That is, in mount Carmel, or as the word signifieth, in the fruitful field, it is also taken for a greene ear of corne, when it is full, as Levit. 2. 14.

11 Vzziah had also an hoste of fighting men that went out to warre by bands, according to the count of their number under the hand of Ieiel the Scribe, and Maasejah the ruler, and under the hand of Hananiah, one of the kings captaines.

12 the wholeⁱ number of the chiefe of the families of the valiant men were two thousand and six hundreth.

13 And under their hand was the armie for warre, three hundred and seven thousand, and five hundred that fought valiantly to helpe the King against the enemy.

14 And Vzziah prepared them thorow-out all the host, shields, and spears, and helmets, and brigandines, and bowes, and stones to sling.

15 He made also very[†] artificiall engines in Jerusalem, to be upon the towers and upon the corners, to shoot arrowes and great stones: and his name spread far abroad, because God did help him marvelously, till he was mighty.

into the Temple of the Lord to burne incense upon the altar of incense.

17 And Azariah the Priest went in after him, and with him fourscore Priests of the Lord, valiant men.

18 And they withstood Uziah the king, and said unto him, * It pertaineth not to thee, Uziah, to burne incense unto the Lord, but to the Priests the sons of Aaron, that are consecrated for to offer incense: go forth of the Sanctuary: for thou hast transgressed, and thou shalt have none honour of the Lord God.

19 Then Uziah was wroth, and had incense in his hand to burn it: and while he was wroth with the Priests, the leprosie rose up in his forehead before the priests in the house of the Lord beside the incense altar.

20 And when Azariah the chief Priest withall the Priests looked upon him, behold, he was leprous in his forehead, and they caused him hastily to depart thence: and he was even compelled to go out, because the Lord had smitten him.

21 * And Uziah the king was a leper unto the day of his death, and dwelt as a leper in an¹ house apart, because he was cut off from the house of the Lord: and Jotham his son ruled over the Kings house, and judged the people of the land.

22 Concerning the rest of the acts of Uziah, first and last, did Isaiah the prophet the son of Amoz write.

23 So Uziah slept with his fathers, and they buried him with his fathers in the field of the buriall, which pertained to the kings: for they said, He ^mis a leper. And Jotham his son reigned in his stead.

CHAP. XXVII.

1 Jotham reigneth, and overcommeth the Ammonites. 2 His reign and death. 3 Ahaz his son reigneth in his stead.

Jotham * was five and twenty yeares old when he began to reign, and reigned sixteen yeares in Jerusalem, and his mothers name was Jerushah the daughter of Zadok.

2 And he did uprightly in the sight of the Lord, according to all that his father Uziah did, save that he entred not into the Temple of the Lord, and the people did yet^b corrupt their ways.

3 He built the high^c gate of the house of the Lord, and he built very much on the wall of the Castle.

4 Moreover he built cities in the mountains of Judah, and in the forrests he built places and towers.

5 And he fought with the king of the children of Ammon, and prevailed against them. And the children of Ammon gave him the same year an hundred talents of silver, and ten thousand † measures of wheat, and ten thousand of barley: this did the children of Ammon give him ‡ both in the second year and the third.

6 So Jotham became mighty^d because he directed his way before the Lord his God.

7 Concerning the rest of the acts of Jotham, and all his wars and his wayes, loe, they are written in the book of the Kings of Israel, and Judah.

8 He was five and twenty yeares old, when he began to reign, and reigned sixteen yeares in Jerusalem.

9 And Jotham slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the City of David: and Ahaz his son reigned in his stead.

CHAP. XXVIII.

1 Ahaz an idolater is given into the hands of the Syrians, and the king of Israel. 2 The Prophet reproveth the Israelites cruelty. 3 Judah is molested with enemies. 4 Ahaz increaseth his idolatry. 5 His death and successour.

Ahaz * was twenty year old, when he began to reigne, and reigned sixteen yeares in Jerusalem, and did not uprightly in the sight of the Lord, like David his † father:

2 But * he walked in the wayes of the kings of Israel, and made even molten images for^b Baalim.

3 Moreover he burnt incense in the valley of Ben-hinnom, and ‡ burnt his sons with fire, after the abominations of the heathen whom the Lord had cast out before the children of Israel.

4 He sacrificed also and burnt incense in the high places, and on hills, and under every green tree.

5 Wherefore the Lord his God delivered him into the hand of the king of the Aramites, and they smote him, and took of his † many prisoners, and brought them to Damascus: and he was also delivered into the hand of the king of Israel, which smote him with a great slaughter.

6 For^c Pekah the son of Remaliah slew in Judah six score thousand in one day, all † valiant men, because they had forsaken the Lord God of their fathers.

10 And now ye purpose to keep under the children of Judah and Jerusalem, as servants and handmaids unto you: but are not you such, that^e sins are with you before the Lord your God?

11 Now therefore hear me, and deliver the captives againe, which ye have taken prisoners of your brethren: for the fierce wrath of the Lord is toward you.

12 Wherefore certain of the chief of the children of Ephraim, Azariah the son of Jehohanan, Berechiah the son of Meshillemoth, and Jehizkiah the son of Shalum, and Amasa the son of Hadlay, stood up against them that came from the war,

13 And said unto them, Bring not in the captives hither: for this shall be^a a sin upon us against the Lord: ye intend to adde more to our sins and to our trespasses: though our trespass be great, and the fierce wrath of God is against Israel.

14 So the army left the captives and the spoil, before the Princes and all the Congregation.

15 And the men that wereⁱ named by name, rose up and took the prisoners, and with the spoil clothed all that were naked among them, and arrayed them, and shod them, and gave them meat, and gave them drink, and^k anointed them, and caryed all that were feeble of them upon asses, and brought them to Jericho the City of Palm trees to their brethren: so they returned to Samaria.

16 ¶ At that time did King Ahaz send unto the^m kings of Ashur, to help him.

17 (For the Edomites came moreover, and slew of Judah: and caryed away captives.

18 The Philistims also invaded the cities in the low countrey, and toward the South of Judah, and took Bethhemesh, and Ajalon, and Gederot, and Shocho, with the villages thereof, and Timnah, with her villages, and Gimzo, with her villages, and they dwelt there.

19 For the Lord had humbled Judah, because of Ahaz King of Israel: for he had brought vengeance upon Judah, and had grievously transgressed against the Lord.)

20 And Tilgath Pilnezer King of Ashur came unto him, who troubled him, and did not strengthen him.

21 For Ahaz[†] took a portion^{*} out of the house of the Lord, and out of the kings house, and of the Princes, and gave unto the King of Ashur: yet he helped him not.

22 And in the time of his tribulation did he yet trespass more against the Lord, (this is king Ahaz.)

23 For he sacrificed unto the gods of Damascus, which^o plagued him, and he said, Because the gods of the kings of Aram helped them, I will sacrifice unto them, and they will^p helpe me: yet they were his ruine, and of all^q Israel.

24 And Ahaz gathered the vessels of the house of God, and brake the vessels of the house of God, and shut up the doors of the house of the Lord, and made him altars in every corner of Jerusalem.

25 And in every city of Judah he made high places, to burne incense unto other gods, and provoked to anger the Lord God of his fathers.

26 Concerning the rest of his acts, and all his wayes first and last, behold, they are written in the book of the Kings of Judah, and Israel.

27 And Ahaz slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the City[‡] of Jerusalem, but brought him not unto the[§] sepulchres of the kings of Israel: and Hezekiah his son reigned in his stead.

2 And he did uprightly in the sight of the Lord, according to all that David his father had done.

3 He opened the^a doors of the house of the Lord in the first year, and in the^b first month of his reign, and repaired them.

4 And he brought in the Priests and the Levites, and gathered them into the East street,

5 And said unto them, Hear me, ye Levites: sanctifie now your selves, and sanctifie the house of the Lord God of your fathers, and cary forth^c the filthinesse out of the Sanctuary.

6 For our fathers have trespassed, and done evill in the eyes of the Lord our God, and have forsaken him, and turned away their faces from the Tabernacle of the Lord, and turned their backs.

7 They have also shut the doors of the porch, and quenched the lamps, and have neither burnt incense, nor offered burnt offerings in the Sanctuary unto the God of Israel.

14 And of the sons of Heman, Jehiel, and Shimei: and of the sons of Jeduthun, Shemajah and Uzziel.

15 And they gathered their brethren, and sanctified themselves, and came according to the commandment of the king, and ‡ by the words of the Lord, for to cleanse the house of the Lord.

16 And the Priests went into the inner parts of the house of the Lord, to † cleanse it, and brought out all the uncleanness that they found in the Temple of the Lord, into the court of the house of the Lord: and the Levites took it, to carry it out unto the brook Kidron.

17 They began the first day of the 8 first month to sanctify it, and the eight day of the month came they to the porch of the Lord: so they sanctified the house of the Lord in eight days, and in the sixteenth day of the first month, they made an end.

18 ¶ Then they went in to Hezekiah the king, & said, We have cleansed all the house of the Lord, and the altar of burnt-offring, with all the vessels thereof, and the ‡ shewbread table, with all the vessels thereof:

19 And all the vessels which king Ahaz had cast aside when he reigned, and transgressed, have we prepared and sanctified: and behold, they are before the altar of the Lord.

20 ¶ And Hezekiah the king^h rose early, and gathered the Princes of the city, and went up to the house of the Lord.

21 And they brought seven bullocks, and seven rams, and seven lambs; and seven Hee-goats, for a * sin-offring for the kingdom, and for the Sanctuary, and for Judah. And he commanded the Priests the sonnes of Aaron, to offer them on the altar of the Lord.

22 So they slew the bullocks, and the Priests received the blood, and † sprinkled it upon the altar: they slew also the rams and sprinkled the blood upon the altar, and they slew the lambs, and they sprinkled the blood upon the altar.

23 Then they brought the Hee-goats for the sin-offring before the king and the congregation, † and they laid their hands upon them.

24 And the Priests slew them, and with the blood of them they cleansed the altar to reconcile all Israel: for the King had commanded for all Israel the burnt-offring and the sin-offring.

45 He appointed also the Levites in the house of the Lord with cymbals, with viols, and with harps, * according to the commandment of David, and Gad the kings Seer, and Nathan the Prophet: for the † commandment was by the hand of the Lord, & by the hand of his Prophets.

26 And the Levites stood with the instruments of David, and the Priests with the trumpets.

27 And Hezekiah commanded to offer the burnt-offring upon the altar: and when the burnt-offring began, the song of the † Lord began with the trumpets, and the instrumentsⁿ of David king of Israel.

28 And all the congregation worshipped, singing a song, and they blew the trumpets: all this continued untill the burnt offering was finished.

29 And when they had made an end of offering, the king and all that were present with him, bowed themselves, and worshipped.

30 ¶ Then Hezekiah the king, and the Princes commanded the Levites to praise the Lord with the ° words of David, and of Asaph the Seer: so they praised with joy, and they bowed themselves, and worshipped.

31 And Hezekiah spake, and said, Now ye have † consecrated your selves to the Lord: come neer, and bring the sacrifices and offerings of praise into the house of the Lord. And the congregation brought sacrifices, and offerings of praises, and every man that was willing in heart, offered burnt-offerings:

32 And the number of the burnt-offerings, which the congregation brought, was seventy bullocks, an hundred rams, and two hundred lambs: all these were for a burnt-offering to the Lord.

33 And for † sanctification six hundred bullocks, and three thousand sheep.

34 But the Priests were too few, and were not able to slay all the burnt-offerings: therefore their brethren the Levites did help them, till they had ended the work, and

CHAP. XXX

1. 1; The keeping of the Passeeover by the kings commandment. 6 He exhorteth Israel to turn to the Lord. 18 He prayeth for the people. 24 His oblation and the princes. 27 The Levites blasse the people.

^a Meaning, all Israel, whom Tiglath Pileeser had not taken away into the captivity. 2 King. 15, 29.

AND Hezekiah sent to all Israel and Judah, and also wrote letters to ^a Ephraim and Manasseh, that they should come to the house of the Lord at Jerusalem, to keep the Passeeover unto the Lord God of Israel.

2 And the king and his princes and all the congregation had taken counsell in Jerusalem to keep the Passeeover in the ^b second moneth.

^b Though they ought to have done it in the first moneth, as Exod. 12, 18. Num. 9, 3. yet if any were not cleane, or else had a long journey, they might deferre it unto the second moneth, as Numb. 9, 10, 11.

3 For they could not keep it at this time because there were not Priests enough sanctified, neither was the people gathered to Jerusalem.

4 And the thing pleased the king, and all the congregation.

^c From one end of the land to the other. North and South.

5 And they decreed to make Proclamation throughout all Israel from ^c Beer-sheba even to Dan, that they should come to keep the Passeeover unto the Lord God of Israel at Jerusalem: for they had not done it of a great time, ^d as it was written.

^d In such sort and perfection, as God had appointed.

6 ¶ So the posts went with letters by the commission of the king, and his princes, thorowout all Israel and Judah, and with the commandment of the king, saying, Ye children of Israel, turn againe unto the Lord God of Abraham, Izhak, and Israel, and ^e he will return to the remnant that are escaped of you, out of the hands of the kings of Ashur.

^e Hee will have compassion on them, and preserve them.

7 And be not ye like your fathers, and like your brethren, which trespassed against the Lord God of their fathers: and therefore he made them desolate, as ye see.

^f Submit your selves to the Lord, and rebell no more.

8 Be not ye now stiffnecked like your fathers, ^f but give the hand to the Lord, and come unto his Sanctuary, which he hath sanctified for ever, and serve the Lord your God, and the fiercenesse of his wrath shall turn away from you.

^g God will not only preserve you, but through your repentance restore your brethren, which for their sins hee gave into the hands of the enemies.

9 For if ye return unto the Lord, your brethren and your children shall find mercy before them that led them captives, and they shall return unto this land: for the Lord your God is gracious and mercifull, and will not turn away his face from you, if ye convert unto him.

10 ¶ So the posts went from city to city thorow the land of Ephraim and Manasseh, even unto Zebulun: but they ^h laughed them to scorn, and mocked them.

^h Though the wicked mocke at the servants of God by whom he calleth them to repentance, as Gen. 19, 14. yet the wo d ceaseth not to fructifie in the hearts of Gods elect.

11 Nevertheless divers of Asher, and Manasseh, and of Zebulun submitted themselves, and came to Jerusalem.

12 And the hand of God was in Judah, so that he gave them ⁱ one heart to do the commandment of the king, and of the rulers, according to the word of the Lord.

ⁱ He sheweth the cause why some obey, & some mock at Gods calling, to wit, because his Spirit is with the one for, & moveth their heart, and the other are left to themselves, 13 And there assembled to Jerusalem much people, to keepe the feast of the unleavened bread in the second month, a very great assembly.

14 ¶ And they arose, and took away the ^k altars that were in Jerusalem: and all those for incense took they away, and cast them into the brook Kidron.

^k Which declareth that wee must put away those things wherewith God is offended, before we can serve him aright.

15 Afterward they slew the passeeover the fourteenth day of the second moneth: and the Priests and Levites were ^l ashamed, and sanctified themselves, and brought the burnt-offrings into the house of the Lord.

^l Seeing their own negligence (who should have beene most prompt) and the readinesse of the people, Chap. 29, 36.

16 And they stood in their place after their manner, according to the law of Moses the man of God: and the Priests sprinkled the ^m bloud, received of the hands of the Levites.

17 Because there were many in the congregation that were not sanctified, therefore the Levites had the charge of the killing of the Passeeover for all that were not cleane, to sanctifie it to the Lord.

18 For a multitude of the people, ⁿ even a multitude of Ephraim, and Manasseh, Issachar and Zebulun had not cleansed themselves, yet did eat the Passeeover, but not as it was written: wherefore Hezekiah prayed for them, saying, The ⁿ good Lord be mercifull toward him.

ⁿ Hee knew, that faith and sincerity of heart was more agreeable to God, then the observation of these ceremonies, and therefore he prayed unto God to pardon this fault unto the people, which did not offend of malice, but of ignorance.

19 That prepareth his whole heart to seek the Lord God, the God of his fathers, though he be not ^o cleansed, according to the purification of the Sanctuary.

20 And the Lord heard Hezekiah, and ^o healed the people.

^o That is, did accept them as purified.

21 And the children of Israel that were present at Jerusalem, kept the feast of the unleavened bread seven dayes with great joy: and the Levites, and the Priests praised the Lord, day by day, singing with loud instruments unto the Lord.

22 And Hezekiah ^p spake comfortably unto all the Levites that had good knowledge to sing unto the Lord: and they did eat in that feast seven dayes, and offered peace-offrings, and praised the Lord God of their fathers.

^p Ebr. spoke with heart.

23 And the whole assembly took counsell to keep it other seven dayes. So they kept it seven dayes with joy.

24 For Hezekiah King of Judah had given given to the congregation a ^p thousand bullocks, and seven thousand sheep. And the princes had given to the Congregation a thousand bullocks, and ten thousand sheep: and many Priests were sanctified.

25 And all the congregation of Judah rejoiced with the Priests and the Levites, and all the congregation that came out of Israel, and the strangers that came out of the land of Israel, and that dwelt in Judah.

26 So there was great joy in Jerusalem: for since the time of Solomon the sonne of David King of Israel, there was not the like thing in Jerusalem.

^q According to that which is written Num. 6. 23. when they should dismiss the people

27 Then the Priests and the Levites arose, and ^q blessed the people, and their voice was heard, and their prayer came up unto heaven, to his holy habitation.

CHAP. XXXI.

^a According to the commandment of the Lord, Deut. 25. 10th. 7. 1.

AND when all these things were finished, all Israel that were found in the cities of Judah, went out and ^a brake the images, and cut down the groves, and brake down the high places, and the altars thoroughout all Judah and Benjamin, in Ephraim also and Manasseh, untill they had made an end: afterward all ^b the children of Israel returned every man to his possession, into their own cities.

^b That is, all they which came to the Passover.

2 And Hezekiah appointed the courses of the Priests and Levites by their turnes, every man according to his office, both priests and Levites, for the burnt-offerings, and peace-offerings, to minister, and to give thanks, and to praise in the gates of the ^c tents of the Lord.

^c That is, in the temple where they assembled as in a tent.

3 (And the kings portion was of his own substance for the burnt-offrings, even for the burnt-offrings of the morning, and of the evenings, and the burnt-offrings for the Sabbaths, and for the new moons, and for the solemn feasts, ^{*} as it is written in the law of the Lord.)

^{*} Num. 28. 3. 9.

4 He commanded also the people that dwelt in Jerusalem, to give a ^d part to the Priests and Levites, that they might be ^e encouraged in the law of the Lord.

^d The tythes and first fruits for the maintenance of the Priests and Levites.

5 ¶ And when the commandment was ^f spread, the children of Israel brought abundance of first fruits, of corn, wine, and oyl, and hony, and of all the increase of the field, and the tythes of all things brought they abundantly.

^e That their minds might not be entangled with provision of worldly things, but that they might wholly and cheerfully serve the Lord.

6 And the children of Israel and Judah that dwelt in the cities of Judah, they also brought the tythes of bullocks and sheep, and the holy tythes ^g which were consecrate unto the Lord their God, and laid them on ^h many heaps.

^f Which they had dedicated to the Lord by a vow.

7 In the third moneth they began to lay the foundation of the heapes, and finished them in the seventh month.

8 ¶ And when Hezekiah and the Princes came, and saw the heaps, they ^h blessed the Lord and his people Israel.

^h They praised the Lord, and prayed for all prosperity to his people.

9 And Hezekiah questioned with the Priests and the Levites, concerning the heapes.

10 And Azariah the chief Priest of the house of Zadok answered him, & said, Since the people began to bring the offerings into the house of the Lord, we have ⁱ eaten and have been satisfied, and there is left in abundance: for the Lord hath blessed his people, and this abundance that is left.

ⁱ He sheweth that this plenteous liberality is expedient for the maintenance of the ministers, and that God therefore prospereth his people, and increaseth by his blessing that which is given.

11 ¶ And Hezekiah commanded to prepare chambers in the house of the Lord: and they prepared them, 12 And caried in the first fruits, and the tythes, & the dedicate things faithfully: and over them was Cononiah the Levite, the chief, and Shimei his brother the second.

13 And Jehiel, and Azariah, and Nahath, and Afahel, and Jerimoth, and Uzabab, and Eliel, and Ismachiah, and Mahan, and Benajah, were overseers [†] by the appointment of Cononiah and Shimei his brother, and by the commandment of Hezekiah the king, and of Azariah the chiefe of the house of God.

[†] Ebr. by the hands.

14 And Kore the son of Imnah the Levite, porter toward the East, was over the things that were willingly offred unto God, to distribute the oblations of the Lord, and the holy things that were consecrate.

15 And at his hand were Eden, and Miniamin, and Jeshua, and Shemajah, Amariah, & Shecaniah, in the cities of the Priests, to distribute with fidelity to their brethren by courses, both to the great and small,

16 Their dayly portion: beside their generation being males ^k from three year old and above, even to all that entred into the house of the Lord to their office in their charge, according to their courses.

^k Who had also a portion and allowance in this distribution.

17 Both to the generation of the Priests after the house of their fathers, and to the Levites from twenty year old and above, according to their charge in their courses:

18 And to the generation of all their children, their wives, and their sons, and their daughters throughout all the congregation: for by their ^l fidelity are they partakers of the holy things.

^l Meaning, that either by the faithful distributions of the officers, every one had their part in the things that were offered, or else that their wives and children were relieved because the Levites were faithful in their office, and so depended on them.

19 Also, the sons of Aaron, the Priests: which were in the fields and suburbs of their cities, in every city the men that were appointed by names, should give portions to all the males of the Priests, and to all the generation of the Levites.

20 And thus did Hezekiah throughout all Judah, and did well, and uprightly, and truly before the Lord his God.

5 And † he took courage, and built all the broken wall, and made up the towers, and another wall without, and repaired a Millo in the^b city of David, and made many^c darts and shields.

6 And he set Captains of war over the people, and assembled them to him in the broad place of the gate of the city, & † spake comfortably unto them, saying,

7 Be strong and couragious: fear not, neither be afraid for the king of Ashur, neither for all the multitude that is with him: * for there be more with us, then ^u with him.

8 With him ^u is an^d arm of flesh, but with us ^u is the^e Lord our God for to help us, and to fight our battels. Then the people were confirmed by the words of Hezekiah king of Judah.

9 * After this, did Saneherib king of Ashur send his servants to Jerusalem (while he was^f against Lachish, and all his dominion with him) unto Hezekiah king of Judah, and unto all Judah that were at Jerusalem, saying,

10 Thus saith Saneherib the king of Ashur, Wherein do ye trust, that ye will remain in Jerusalem, during the siege?

g Thus the wicked put no difference between true religion and false, God and idols: for Hezekiah onely destroyed idolatry, & placed true religion, thus the Papists slander ^g servants of God: for when they destroy idolatry, they say that they abolish Religion.

11 Doth not Hezekiah entice you to give over your selves unto death, by famine and by thirst, saying, The Lord our God shall deliver us out of the hand of the king of Ashur?

12 Hath not the same Hezekiah taken away his high places and his altars, and commanded Judah and Jerusalem, saying, Ye shall worship before one altar, and burn incense upon it?

13 Know ye not what I and my fathers have done unto all the people of other countries? were the gods of the nations of other lands able to deliver their land out of mine hand?

14 Who is he of all the^h gods of those nations (that my fathers have destroyed) that could deliver his people out of my hand? that your God should be able to deliver you out of mine hand?

h This is his blasphemy, that he will compare the living God to vile idols.

15 Now therefore let not Hezekiah deceive you, nor seduce you after this sort, neither believe ye him: for none of all the gods of any nation or kingdom was able to deliver his people out ofⁱ mine hand, and out of the hand of my fathers: how much lesse shall your gods deliver you out of mine hand?

i When man hath prosperity, he swelleth in pride, and thinketh himselfe able to resist and overcome even God himself.

16 And his servants spake yet more against the Lord God, and against his^k servant Hezekiah.

k Herein wee see that when the wicked speake evill of the servants of God, they care not to blaspheme God himself: for if they feared God, they would love his servants.

17 He wrote also letters, blaspheming the Lord God of Israel, and speaking against him, saying, As the gods of the nations of other Countries could not deliver their people out of mine hand, so shall not the God of Hezekiah deliver his people out of mine hand.

18 Then they^l cryed with a loud voice in the Jews speech unto the people of Jerusalem that were on the wall, to fear them and to astonish them, that they might take the City.

l Their words are written, 2 Kings 18. 19.

19 Thus they spake against the God of Jerusalem, as against the gods of the people of the earth, even the^m workes of mans hands.

m Which were invented, made, and authorized by man.

20 But Hezekiah the king, and the prophet Isaiah the son of Amozⁿ prayed against this, and cryed to heaven.

n This sheweth what is the best refuge in all troubles and dangers.

21 And the Lord sent an Angel which destroyed all the valiant men, and the princes and^o captains of the host of the king of Ashur: so he returned † with shame to his own land. And when he was come into the house of his god, they that came forth of his^p own bowels, slew him there with the sword.

o To the number of an hundred, foure score and five thousand, 2 Kings 19. 35. 36. † Ebr. with shame of face.

p Meaning, Adramelech and Sennacherib his sons.

22 So the Lord saved Hezekiah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem from the hand of Saneherib king of Ashur, and from the hand of all other, and † maintained them on every side.

† Or, governed.

23 And many brought offerings unto the Lord to Jerusalem, and presents to Hezekiah king of Judah, so that he was^q magnified in the sight of all Nations from thenceforth.

q Thus after trouble, God sendeth comfort to a chiefe that patiently wait on him, and constantly put their trust in his mercies.

24 * In those dayes Hezekiah was sick unto the death, & prayed unto the Lord, who spake spake unto him, and gave him ^a sign.

25 But Hezekiah did not render according to the reward bestowed upon him: for his heart ^f was lift up, and wrath came upon him, and upon Judah and Jerusalem.

26 Notwithstanding Hezekiah humbled himself (after that his heart was lifted up) he and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and the wrath of the Lord came not upon them in the dayes of Hezekiah.

27 Hezekiah also had exceeding much riches and honour, and he gate him treasures of silver, and of gold, and of precious stones, and of sweet odours, and of shields, and of all pleasant vessels:

28 And of store-houses for the increase of wheat, and wine and oyl, and stals for all beasts, and ^g rows for the ^h stables.

29 And he made him cities, and had possession of sheep, and oxen in abundance: for God had given him substance exceeding much.

30 This same Hezekiah also stopped the upper water springs of ⁱ Gihon, and led them straight underneath toward the City of David Westward: so Hezekiah prospered in all his works.

31 But because of the ambassadours of the Princes of Babel, which sent unto him to enquire of the wonder that was done in the land, God left him to ^j try him, and to know all that was in his heart.

32 Concerning the rest of the acts of Hezekiah, and his goodnesse, behold, they are written in the vision of Iſaiah the Prophet, the son of Amoz, in the book of the Kings of Judah and Israel.

33 So Hezekiah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the highest Sepulchre of the sons of David: and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem did him honour at his death: and Manasseh his son reigned in his stead.

CHAP. XXXIII.

2 Manasseh an idolater. 9 He causeth Judah to erre. 11 He is led away prisoner into Babylon. 12 He prayeth to the Lord, and is delivered. 14 He aboliseth idolatry. 16 and setteth up true religion. 20 He dieth, and Amon his son succeedeth. 24 Whom his own servants slay.

Manasseh was twelve year old, ^k when he began to reign, and he reigned five and fifty year in Jerusalem:

2 And he did evill in the sight of the Lord, like the abominations of the heathen, ^l whom the Lord had cast out before the children of Israel.

3 For he went back and built the high places, ^m which Hezekiah his father had broken down: ⁿ and he set up altars for Baalim, and made groves, and worshipped all the host of the heaven, and served them.

4 Also he built altars in the house of the Lord, whereof the Lord had said, ^o In Jerusalem shall be my name for ever.

5 And he built altars for all the host of the heaven in the two courts of the house of the Lord.

6 ^p And he caused his sons to passe through the fire in the valley of Ben-hinnom: he gave himself to witchcraft, and to charming, and to sorcery, and he used them that had familiar spirits, and soothsayers: he did very much evill in the sight of the Lord to anger him.

7 He put also the carved image, which he had made, in the house of God: whereof God had said to David and to Salomon his son, ^q In this house and in Jerusalem, which I have chosen before all the tribes of Israel, will I put my Name for ever.

8 Neither will ^r I make the foot of Israel to remove any more out of the land which I have appointed for your fathers, so that they take heed, and do all that I have commanded them, according to the Law and statutes and judgements by the ^s hand of Moses.

9 So Manasseh made Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem to erre, and to do worse then the heathen, whom the Lord had destroyed before the children of Israel.

10 ¶ And the Lord spake ^t to Manasseh & to his people, but they would not regard.

11 Wherefore the Lord brought upon them the captains of the host of the king of Ashur, which took Manasseh and put him in fetters, and bound him in chains, and caryed him to Babel.

12 And when he was in tribulation, he prayed to the Lord his God, and humbled himself greatly before the God of his fathers, 13 And prayed unto him: and God was ^u entreated of him, and heard his prayer, and brought him again to Jerusalem into his Kingdom: then Manasseh knew that the Lord was God.

14 Now after this he built a wall without the city of David, on the West side of ^v Gihon in the valley, even at the entry of the filth-gate, and compassed about ^w Ophel, and raised it very high, and put captains of war in all the strong cities of Judah.

15 And he took away the strange gods, and the image out of the house of the Lord, and all the altars that he had built in the mount of the house of the Lord, and in Jerusalem, and cast them out of the city.

16 Also he prepared the ^x altar of the Lord, and sacrificed thereon peace offerings, and of thanks, and commanded Judah to serve the Lord God of Israel.

17 Nevertheless the people did sacrifice still in the high places, but unto the ^y Lord their God.

18 ¶ Concerning the rest of the acts of Manasseh, and his ^z prayer unto his God, and

^a To confirme his faith in Gods promise, who declared to him by his Prophet that his life should be prolonged fifteen years. ^b He was lifted up with the pride of his victory and victories: & shewed them for an occasion to the ambassadors of Babylon.

^c Or, ranges, and partitions. ^d Or, racks.

^e Which also was called Siloe, whereof mention is made, Iſa. 8. 6. Iohn. 9. 7.

^f Here we see the cause, why the faithfull are tempted, which is to try whether they have faith or no, and that they may feeble the presence of God, who suffereth them not to be overcome by temptations, but in their weakness minister strength.

1 Iosiah destroyeth the Idols, 8 And restoreth the Temple. 14 The book of the law is found. 21 He sendeth to Huldah the Prophetesse for counsell. 27 God heareth his prayer. 31 He maketh a covenant with God.

Iosiah \ast was eight year old when he began to reign, and he reigned in Jerusalem one and thirty year.

2 And he did uprightly in the sight of the Lord, and walked in the wayes of \dagger David his father, and bowed neither to the right hand nor to the left.

3 And in the eight year of his reigne (when he was yet a \dagger child) he began to seek after the God of David his father: and in the twelfth year he began to purge Judah, and Jerusalem from the high places, and the groves, and the carved images, and molten images.

4 And they brake down \dagger in his sight the altars of Baalim, and he caused to cut down the images that were on high upon them: he brake also the groves, and the carved images, and the molten images, and stampd them to powder, and strowed it upon the graves of them that had sacrificed unto them.

5 Also he burnt the \dagger bones of the priests upon their altars, and purged Judah and Jerusalem.

6 And in the cities of Manasseh, and Ephraim, & Simeon, even unto Naphtali, with their maules they brake all round about.

7 And when he had \dagger destroyed the altars and the groves, and had broken and stamped to powder the images, and had cut down all the idols throughout all the land of Israel, he returned to Jerusalem.

8 ¶ \ast Then in the eighteene year of his reign, when he had purged the land and the Temple, he sent Shaphan the son of Azaliah, and Maasejah the governour of the citie, and Joah the son of Joahaz the recorder, to repair the house of the Lord his God.

9 And when they came to Hilkiah the high Priest, they delivered the money that was brought into the house of God, which the Levites that kept the door, had gathered at the hand of Manasseh, and Ephraim, and of all the residue of Israel, and of all Judah and Benjamin, and \dagger of the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

10 And they put it in the hands of them that should do the work, and had the oversight in the house of the Lord, and they gave it to the workmen that wrought in the house of the Lord, to repair and amend the house.

11 Even to the workmen and to the builders gave they it, to buy hewed stone, and timber for couples, and for beams of the \dagger houses, which the kings of Judah had destroyed.

12 And the men did the work \dagger faithfully, and the overseers of them were Jahath and Obadiah the Levites, of the children of Merari, and Zechariah, and Meshullam, of the children of the Kohathites, to set it forward: and of the Levites all that could skill of instruments of musick.

13 And they were over the bearers of burdens, and them that set forward all the workmen in every work: and of the Levites were Scribes, and officers, and porters.

14 ¶ And when they brought out the money that was brought into the house of the Lord, Hilkiah the Priest found the \dagger book of the law of the Lord given by the hand of Moses.

15 Therefore Hilkiah answered and said to Shaphan the Chancellor, I have found the book of the Law in the house of the Lord: and Hilkiah gave the book to Shaphan.

16 And Shaphan carried the book to \dagger the king, and brought the king word again, saying, All that is committed to the hand of thy servants, that do they.

17 For they have gathered the mony that was found in the house of the Lord, & have delivered it into the hands of the overseers, and to the hands of the workmen.

18 Also Shaphan the Chancellor declared to the king, saying, Hilkiah the Priest hath given me a book, and Shaphan read it before the king.

23 And she answered them, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Tell yee ^o the man that sent you to mee,

24 Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will bring evill upon this place, and upon the inhabitants thereof, ^{even} all the curses, that are written in the booke which they have read before the king of Judah:

25 Because they have forsaken me, and burnt incense unto other gods, to anger mee with all the workes of their ^p hands, therefore shall my wrath fall upon this place, and shall not be quenched.

26 But to the king of Judah, who sent you to enquire of the Lord, so shall yee say unto him, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, The words which thou hast heard, shall come to passe.

27 But because thine heart did ^a melt, & thou diddest humble thy selfe before God, when thou heardest his words against this place, and against the inhabitants thereof, and humbledst thy selfe before mee, and tarest thy clothes, and weptst before mee, I have also heard it, saith the Lord.

28 Behold, I will gather thee to thy fathers, and thou shalt be put in thy grave in peace, and thine eyes shall not see all the evill, which I will bring upon this ^r place, and upon the inhabitants of the same. Thus they brought the king word againe.

29 ¶ Then the king sent and gathered all the Elders of Judah and Jerusalem.

30 And the king went up into the house of the Lord, and all the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and the Priests, and the Levites, and all the people from the greatest to the ^s smallest, and he read in their eares all the words of the booke of the covenant that was found in the house of the Lord.

31 And the king stood by his pillar, and made a covenant before the Lord, to walk after the Lord, and to keep his commandments, and his testimonies, and his statutes, with all his heart, and with all his soule, and that hee would accomplish the words of the covenant written in the same booke.

32 And he caused all that were found in Jerusalem, and Benjamin to stand to it: and the inhabitants of Jerusalem did according to the covenant of God, ^{even} the God of their fathers.

33 So Iosiah tooke away all the abominations out of all the countries that pertained to the children of Israel, and compelled all ^t that were found in Israel, to serve the Lord their God: so all his dayes they turned not back from the Lord God of their fathers.

13 And * they roasted the Passeeover with fire, according to the custome, but the sanctified things they sod in pots, pans, and cauldrons, and distributed them quickly to all the people.

14 Afterward also they prepared for themselves, and for the Priests: for the Priests the sons of Aaron were occupied in offering of burnt offerings, and the fat untill night: therefore the Levites prepared for themselves, and for the Priests the sons of Aaron.

15 And the singers the sons of Asaph stood in their standing, * according to the commandment of David, and Asaph, and Heman, and Jeduthun the kings^b Seer: and the porters at every gate, who might not depart from their service: therefore their brethren the Levites prepared for them.

16 So all the service of the Lord was prepared the same day, to keep the Passeeover, and to offer burnt offerings upon the altar of the Lord, according to the commandment of King Josiah.

17 And the children of Israel that were present kept the Passeeover the same time, and the feast of the unleavened bread seven days.

18 And there was no Passeeover kept like that in Israel, from the dayes of Samuel the Prophet: neither did all the kings of Israel keep such a Passeeover as Josiah kept, and the Priests and the Levites, and all Judah, and Israel, that were † present, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

19 This Passeeover was kept in the eighteenth year of the reigne of Josiah.

14 All the chiefe of the Priests also, and of the people trespassed wonderfully, according to all the abominations of the heathen, and polluted the house of the Lord which he had sanctified in Jerusalem.

15 Therefore the Lord God of their fathers sent to them [†] by his messengers, [†] rising early, and sending: for he had compassion on his people, and on his habitation.

THE ARGUMENT.

As the Lord is ever mercifull unto his Church, and doeth not punish them, but to the intent they should see their own miseries, and be exercised under the crosse, that they might contemn the world and aspire unto the heavens: so after that he had visited the Jewes, and kept them now in bondage seventy yeares in a strange countrey among insidels and idolaters, he remembered his tender mercies and their infirmities, and therefore for his own sake raised them up a deliverer, and moved both the heart of the chiefe ruler to pittie them, and also by him punished such, which had kept them in servitude. Notwithstanding, lest they should grow into a contempt of Gods great benefit, he keepeth them still in exercise, and raiseth domesticall enemies, which endeavour as much as they can to hinder their most worthy enterprises: yet by the exhortation of the Prophets they went forward by little and little till their worke was finished. The authour of this booke was Ezra, who was Priest, and Scribe of the Law, as Chap. 7. 6. He returned to Ierusalem the sixth yeare of Darius, who succeeded Cyrus, that is, about fifty yeares after the return of the first under Zerubbabel, when the Temple was built. He brought with him a great company, and much treasures, with letters to the Kings officers for all such things as should be necessary for the Temple: and at his comming he redressed that which was amisse, and set the things in good order.

¹ They build the altar of God. ⁶ They offer to the Lord. ⁷ They prepare for the temple. ¹¹ And sing unto the Lord.

And when the^a seventh moneth was come, and the children of Israel were in their cities, the people assembled themselves as one man unto Jerusalem.

2 Then stood up Jeshua the son of Jozadak, and his brethren the priests, and Zerubbabel, the^b son of Shealtiel, and his brethren, and builded the altar of the God of Israel, to offer burnt offerings thereon, as it is writte in the law of Moses the man of God.

3 And they set the altar upon^c his bases (for feare was among them, because of the people of those countries) therefore they offered burnt-offerings thereon unto the Lord even burnt-offerings in the morning, and at even.

4 They kept also the feast of the Tabernacles, as it is written, and the burnt-offering^{*} daily, by number according to the custome day by day,

5 And afterward^d the continuall burnt-offering, both in the new moons, and in all the feast dayes that were consecrate unto the Lord, and in all the oblations willingly offered unto the Lord.

6 From the first day of the seventh month began they to offer burnt-offerings unto the Lord: but the foundation of the temple of the Lord was not laid.

7 They gave money also unto the masons, and to the workmen, & meat and drink, & oyle unto them of Zidon and of Tyrus, to bring them cedar wood from Lebanon to the sea unto[†] Japhio, according to the grant that they had of Cyrus king of Persia.

8 ¶ And in the second year of their coming unto the house of God in Jerusalem, in the second moneth, began Zerubbabel the sonne of Shealtiel, and Jeshua the sonne of Jozadak, and the remnant of their brethren the Priests and the Levites, and all they that were come out of the captivity unto Jerusalem, and appointed the Levites from twenty yeare old and above, to set forward the work of the house of the Lord.

9 And Jeshua^f stood with his sons, and his brethren, and Kadmiel with his sons, and the sons of Judah together, to set forward the workmen in the house of God, and the sons of Henadad with their sons, and their brethren the Levites.

10 And when the builders laid the foundation of the Temple of the Lord, they appointed the Priests in their apparell with trumpets, and the Levites the sons of Asaph with cymbales, to praise the Lord, ^{*} after the ordinance of David king of Israel.

11 Thus they sang when they gave praise, and when they gave thanks unto the Lord, For he is good, for his mercy endureth for ever toward Israel. And all the people shouted with a great shout, when they praised the Lord, because the foundation of the house of the Lord was laid.

2 The building of the temple is hindered, and how. 11 Letters to Artaxerxes, and the answer.

BUt ^a the adversaries of Judah and Benjamin heard, that the children of the captivity builded the temple unto the Lord God of Israel.

2 And they came to Zerubbabel, and to the chief fathers, and said unto them, We will build with you: for we seek the Lord your God as ye do, and we have sacrificed unto him since the time of Esar-Haddon king of Aschur, which brought us up hither.

3 Then Zerubbabel, and Jeshua, and the rest of the chief fathers of Israel, said unto them, It is not for you, but for us to build the house unto our God: ^b for we our selves together will build it unto the Lord God of Israel, as king Cyrus the king of Persia hath commanded us.

4 Wherefore the people of the land [†] discouraged the people of Judah, and troubled them in building,

5 And they ^c hired counsellors against them, to hinder their devise, all the dayes of Cyrus king of Persia, even unto the reign of Darius king of Persia.

6 And in the reigne of ^d Ahashuerosh (in the beginning of his reigne) wrote they an accusation against the inhabitants of Judah and Jerusalem.

7 And in the dayes of ^e Artahshashtē, Mithredath, Tabeel, and the rest of their companions wrote when it was peace, unto Artahshashtē king of Persia, and the writing of the letter was the Aramites writing, and the thing declared was in the language of the Aramites.

8 Rehum the [‡] chancellor, and Shimshai the Scribe wrote a letter against Jerusalem to Artahshashtē the king, in this sort.

9 Then wrote Rehum the Chauncellour, and Shimshai the scribe, and their companions ^f Dinai, and Apharathcaie, Tarpelaie, Apharfaie, Archevaie, Bablaie, Shulhanchaie, Dehave, Elmaie, 10 And the rest of the people whom the great and noble ^g Asnapper brought over, and set it in the cities of Samaria, and other that are beyond the ^h River and ⁱ Cheeneth.

11 ¶ This is the copy of the letter that they sent unto king Artahshashtē, THEY SERVANTS the men beyond the River and Cheeneth, salute thee.

12 Be it known unto the king that the Jews, which came up from thee to us, are come unto Jerusalem (a city rebellious and wicked) and build, and lay the foundations of the wals, & have joyned the foundations

13 Be it known now unto the king, that if this city be built, and the foundations of the wals laid, they wil not give toll, tribute, nor ^k custome: so shalt thou hinder the kings tribute.

14 Now therefore because [†] we have been brought up in the king's palace, it was not meet for us to see the kings dishonour: for this cause have we sent and certified the king,

15 That one may search in the book of the Chronicles of thy fathers, & thou shalt find in the book of the Chronicles, and perceive that this city is rebellious & noysome unto kings and provinces, and that they have moved sedition of old time, for the which cause this city was destroyed.

16 We certifie the king therefore, that if this city be builded, and the foundation of the wals laid, by this meanes the portion beyond the River shall not be thine.

17 ¶ The king sent an answer unto Rehum the chancellor, and Shimshai the scribe, and to the rest of their companions that dwelt in Samaria, and unto the other beyond the River, ^l Shelam and ^m Cheeth.

18 ¶ The letter which ye sent unto us hath been openly reade before me, 19 And I have commanded and they have searched, and found, that this citie of old time hath made insurrection against kings, and hath rebelled, and rebellion hath been committed therein.

20 There have been mighty kings also over Jerusalem, which have ruled over all beyond the River, and toll, tribute, and custome was given unto them.

21 Make ye now a decree, that those men may cease, and that the citie be not built, till I have given another commandment.

22 Take heed now that ye fail not to do this: why should doimage grow to hurt the king?

23 When the copy of king Artahshashtē's letter was reade before Rehum and Shimshai the Scribe, and their companions, they went up in all the haste to Jerusalem unto the Jews, and caused them to cease by force and power.

24 Then ⁿ ceased the work of the house of God, which was in Jerusalem, and did stay unto the second yeare of Darius king of Persia.

a Wherein were the acts of the kings of Media, and Persia.

3 IN THE FIRST yeare of king Cyrus, king Cyrus made a decree for the house of God in Jerusalem, Let the house be built, even the place where they offered sacrifices, and let the walls thereof be joyned together: let the height thereof be threescore cubits, and the breadth thereof threescore cubits,

4 Three † orders of † great stones, and one order of timber, and let the expences be given of the kings house.

7 Suffer ye the work of this house of God, that the captain of the Jewes and the Elders of the Jewes may build this house of God in his place.

the renewes of the king, which is of the tribute beyond the River, there be incontinently expences given unto these men that they cease not.

9 And that which they shall have need of, let it be given unto them day by day, whether it be young bullocks, or rams, or lambs, for the burnt-offerings of the God of heaven, wheate, salt, wine, and oyle, according to the appointment of the Priests that are in Jerusalem, that there be no fault;

10 That they may have to offer sweet odours unto the God of heaven, and pray for the kings life, and for his sons.

11 And I have made a decree, that whosoever shall alter this sentence, the wood shall be pulled down from his house, and shall be set up, and he shall be hanged thereon, and his house shall be made a dung-hill for this.

12 And the God that hath caused his Name to dwell there, destroy all kings and people that shall put to their hand to alter and to destroy this house of God, which is in Jerusalem, I Darius have made a decree, let it be done with speed.

13 ¶ Then Tatnai the captain beyond the River, and Shethar-Boznai and their companions, according to that which Darius had sent, so they did speedily.

14 So the Elders of the Jewes builded, and they prospered by the prophecy of Haggai the Prophet, and Zechariah the son of Iddo, and they builded and finished it, by the appointment of the God of Israel, and by the commandment of Cyrus and Darius, and Artahshashtes king of Persia.

15 And this house was finished the third day of the moneth Adar, which was the first yeare of the reigne of king Darius.

16 ¶ And the children of Israel, the Priests, and the Levites, and the residue of the children of the captivity kept the dedication of this house of God with joy,

17 And offered at the dedication of this house of God an hundred bullocks, two hundred rams, foure hundred lambes, and twelve goats, for the sin of all Israel, according to the number of the tribes of Israel,

18 And they set the Priests in their order, and the Levites in their courses over the service of God in Jerusalem, as it is written in the book of Moses.

19 And the children of the captivity kept the Pasſeover on the fourteenth day of the first moneth.

20 (For the Priests and the Levites were purified altogether) & they killed the Pasſeover for all the children of the captivity, and for their brethren the Priests, and for themselves.

21 So the children of Israel which were come again out of captivity, and all such as had separated themselves unto them, from the filthiness of the heathen of the land, to seek the Lord God of Israel, did eat,

3 The son of Amariah, the son of Azariah, the son of Merajoth,

4 The son of Zerajah, the son of Vzzi, the son of Bukki,

5 The son of Abishhua, the son of Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the chief Priest.

6 This Ezra came up from Babel, and was a Scribe, prompt in the law of Moses, which the Lord God of Israel had given, and the king gave him all his request according to the hand of the Lord his God which was upon him.

7 And there went up certain of the children of Israel, and of the Priests, & the Levites, and the singers, and the porters, and the Nethinims unto Jerusalem, in the seventh yeare of king Artahshashtes.

8 And he came to Jerusalem in the fifth moneth, which was in the seventh yeare of the king.

9 For upon the first day of the first moneth began he to go up from Babel, and on the first day of the fifth moneth came he to Jerusalem, according to the good hand of his God that was upon him.

10 For Ezra had prepared his heart to seek the law of the Lord, and to do it, and to teach the precepts & judgements in Israel.

21 And there at the River, by Ahava, I proclaimed a fast, that we might humble our selves, before our God, and seeke of him a right way for us, and for our children, and for all our substance.

^f He sheweth that the end of fasting is to humble the body to the spirit, which must proceed of the heart lively touched, or else it is but hypocrisie.
^g Hee thought it better to commit himselfe to the protection of God, then by seeking these ordinary meanes, to give an occasion to others to thinke that hee did doubt of Gods power.

22 For I was ^h ashamed to require of the king an army and horsemen, to help us against the enemy in the way, because we had spoken to the king, saying, The hand of our God is upon all them that seeke him in goodnesse, but his power and his wrath is against all them that forsake him.

23 So we fasted, and besought our God for this: and he was intreated of us.

24 Then I separated twelve of the chiefe of the Priests, Sherebiah, and Hashabiah, and ten of their brethren with them.

25 And weighed them the silver and the gold, and the vessels, even the offering of the house of our God, which the king and his counsellors, and his Princes, and all Israel that were present had offered.

27 And twenty basons of gold, of a thousand ^j drams, and two vessels of shining brasse, very good, and precious as gold.

28 ¶ And I said unto them, Yee are consecrate unto the Lord, and the vessels are consecrate, and the gold and the silver are freely offered unto the Lord God of your fathers.

29 Watch yee, and keep them untill yee weigh them before the chiefe Priests and the Levites, and the chiefe fathers of Israel in Jerusalem, in the chambers of the house of the Lord.

30 So the Priests and the Levites received the weight of the silver, and of the gold, and of the vessels to bring them to Jerusalem, unto the house of our God.

31 ¶ Then we departed from the river of Ahava on the twelfth day, of the first month, to go unto Jerusalem, and the hand of our God was upon us, and delivered us from the hand of the enemy, and of such as laid ^k wait by the way.

^k This declared that their journey was full of danger, and yet God delivered them according to their prayer.

32 And we came to Jerusalem, and abode there three dayes.

33 And on the fourth day was the silver weighed, and the gold, and the vessels in the house of our God, by the hand of Meremoth the son of Uriah the Priest, and with him was Eleazar the son of Phinehas, and with them was Jozabad the son of Jeshua, and Noadiah the son of Binnui the ^l Levites.

^l This was a token of a good conscience, and of his integrity, that hee would have witness of his honesty.

34 By number and by weight of every one, and all the weight was written at the same time.

35 Also the children of the captivity, which were come out of captivity, offered burnt-offerings unto the God of Israel, twelve bullocks for all Israel, ninety and six rams, seventy and seven lambs, and twelve He-goats for sin: all was a burnt-offering unto the Lord.

36 And they delivered the kings commission unto the Kings officers, and to the captaines beyond the River: and they promoted the people, and the house of God.

¹ Ezra complaineth on the people that had turned themselves from God and married with the Gentiles. ² He prayeth unto God.

WHEN as these things were done, the rulers came to mee, saying, The people of Israel, and the Priests and the Levites, are not ^a separated from the people of the lands (as touching their abominations) to wit, of the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Jebusites, the Ammonites, the Moabites, the Egyptians, and the Ammorites.

^a From this time they came home under Zerubbabel untill the coming of Ezra, they had degenerate contrary to the law of God, and married where it was not lawfull, Deut. 7. 3.

2 For they have taken their daughters to themselves, and to their sons, and they have mixed the holy seed with the people of the lands; and the hand of the ^b princes and rulers have beene chiefe in this trespass.

W^hiles Ezra prayed thus, and ^a confessed himself, weeping, and falling down before the house of God, there assembled unto him of Israel a very great congregation of men, & women, and children: for the people wept with a great lamentation.

^a He confessed his sins, and the sins of the people.

² Then Shechaniah the son of Jehiel one of the sons of Elam, answered, and said to Ezra, We have trespassed against our God, and have taken strange wives of the people of the land: yet now there is ^b hope in Israel concerning this.

^b Meaning, that God would receive them to mercy.

³ Now therefore let us make a covenant with our God, to put away ^c all the wives (and such as are born of them) according to the counsel of the Lord, and of those that feare the commandments of our God, and let it be done according to the law.

⁶ And Ezra rose up from before the house of God, and went into the chamber of Johanan the son of Eliahb: he went even thither, but he did eat neither bread, nor drunk water: for he mourned, because of the transgression of them of the captivity.

⁷ And they caused a proclamation to go throughout Judah and Jerusalem, unto ^e all them of the captivity, that they should assemble themselves unto Jerusalem.

⁹ ¶ Then all the men of Judah and Benjamin assembled themselves unto Jerusalem within three dayes, which was the twentieth ^g day of the ninth moneth, and all the people sate in the street of the house of God, trembling for this matter, and for the ^h raine.

¹⁰ And Ezra the Priest stood up, and said unto them, Ye have transgressed; and have taken strange wives, to ⁱ increase the trespass of Israel.

ⁱ For the season was given to rain, and so the weather was more sharp and cold, and also their consciences touched them.

⁵ And at the evening sacrifice I arose up from mine heaviness, and when I had rent my clothes, and my garment, I fell upon my knees, and spread out mine hands unto the Lord my God, ⁶ And said, O my God, I am confounded and ashamed, to lift up mine eyes unto thee my God: for our iniquities are increased over ^d our head, and our trespass is growne up unto ^e the heaven.

^d That is, wee are drowned in sin.
^e They so exceed that they cannot grow greater.

⁷ From the dayes of our fathers have we beene in a great trespass unto this day, and for our iniquities have we, our kings, and our Priests beene delivered into the hand of the kings of the lands, unto the sword, into captivity, into a spoile, and into confusion of face, as appeareth this day.

⁸ And now for a little space grace hath beene shewed from the Lord our God in causing a remnant to escape, and in giving us a ^f naile in his holy place, that our God may light our eyes, and give us a little reviving in our servitude.

^f In giving us a resting place. It is a similitude taken of them that remaine still in a place, which smite nailes to hang things upon, Isa. 22. 23.

⁹ For though we were bondmen, yet our God hath not forsaken us in our bondage, but hath inclined mercy unto us in the sight of the kings of Persia, to give us life, and to erect the house of our God, and to redresse the desolate places thereof, and to give us a wall in Judah and in Jerusalem.

¹⁰ And now, our God, what shall wee say after this? for wee have forsaken thy commandments, ¹⁰ Ezra. 23. 32. and 34. 12. 15. 16. Deut. 7. 23.

¹³ And after all that is come upon us for our evill deeds, and for our great trespasses, (seeing that thou our God hast stayed us from being beneath ^h for our iniquities, and hast given us such deliverance)

^h Hast not utterly cast us downe and destroyed us for our sins, Deut. 28. 13.

¹⁴ Should wee returne to breake thy commandments, and joyne in affinity with the people of such abominations? wouldest not thou be angry toward us till thou hadst consumed us, so that there should be no remnant nor any escaping?

ⁱ He sheweth that God is just in punishing his people, and yet merciful in reserving a residue to whom hee sheweth favour.

do according to thy words unto us.

13 But the people are many, and it is a rainy weather, and wee are not able to stand without, neither is it the worke of one day or two: for we are many that have offended in this thing.

^l Let them be appointed to examine this matter.

14 Let our rulers stand thereforeⁱ before all the Congregation, and let all them which have taken strange wives in our cities, come at the time appointed, and with them the Elders of every city, and the Judges thereof, till the fierce wrath of our God for this matter turne away from us.

15 Then were appointed Jonathan the son of Asah-el, and Jahaziah the son of Tikuah over this matter, and Meshullam & Shabberthai the Levites helped them.

^k They went to the chiefe cities to sit on this matter which was three months in finishing.

16 And they of the captivity did so, and^k departed, even Ezra the Priest, and the men that were chiefe fathers to the family of their fathers by name, and sate downe in the first day of the tenth moneth to examine the matter.

NEHEMIAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

God doth in all ages and at all times set up worthy persons for the commodity and profit of his Church, as now within the compasse of seventy yeares, hee raised up divers excellent men for the preservation of his people, after their returne from Babylon, as Zerubbabel, Ezra, and Nehemiah. Whereof the first was their captaine to bring them home, and provided that the Temple was builded: the second reformed their manners and planted Religion: and the third builded up the walles, delivered the people from oppression, and provided that the Law of God was put in execution among them. He was a godly man, and in great authority with the king, so that the king favoured him greatly, and gave him most ample letters for the accomplishment of all things which he could desire. This booke is also called of the Latines the second booke of Ezra, because he was the writer thereof.

⁴ And when I heard these words, I fate downe and wept, and mourned certaine dayes, and I fasted and prayed before the God of heaven,

⁵ And said, ^{*} O Lord God of heaven, the great and terrible God, that keepeth covenant and mercy for them that love him, and observe his commandements,

⁶ I pray thee let thine eares bee attent, and thine eyes open, to heare the prayer of thy servant, which I pray before thee daily, day and night for the children of Israel thy servants, and confesse the sins of the children of Israel, which we have sinned against thee, both I and my fathers house have sinned:

⁷ We have [†] grievously sinned against thee, and have not kept the commandements, nor the statutes, nor the judgments, which thou commandedst thy servant Moses.

⁹ But if ye return unto me, & keep my commandements, and do them, ^{*} though your scattering were to the uttermost part of the heaven, yet will I gather you from thence, and will bring you unto the place that I have chosen to place my Name there.

¹⁰ Now these are thy servants, and thy people, whom thou hast redeemed by thy great power, and by thy mighty hand.

[†] That is, to worship thee.

¹¹ O Lord, I beseech thee, let thine ear now hearken to the prayer of thy servant, and to the prayer of thy servants, who desire to [†] feare thy Name, and I pray thee, cause thy servant to prosper this day, and give him favour in the presence of ^e this man: for I was the kings butler.

^e To wit, the king Artahshastue.

C H A P. II.

¹ After Nehemiah had obtained letters of Artaxerxes, ¹⁷ hee came to Ierusalem, ¹⁷ and builded the walles.

Now in the month ^a Nisan in the twentieth year of king ^b Artahshastue, the wine stood before him, and I tooke up the wine, and gave it unto the king. Now I was not before time sad in his presence.

^a Which was the first moneth of the yeare, and containeth part of March, and part of April.
^b Who is also called Darius: read Ezra 7. 1. and was the son of Hythaspis.

² And the king said unto mee, Why is thy countenance sad, seeing thou art not sick? this is nothing, but sorrow of heart. Then was I fore afraid, ³ And I said to the king, God save the king for ever: why should not my countenance be sad, when the city and house of the sepulchres of my fathers lieth wast, & the gates thereof are devoured with fire?

⁴ And the King said unto me, For what thing doest thou require? Then I prayed ^c to the God of heaven, ^c I desired God in mine heart to prosper mine enterprise.

⁵ And said unto the king, If it please the king, and if thy servant have found favour in thy sight, I desire that thou wouldest send mee to Judah unto the city of the sepulchres of my fathers, that I may build it.

⁶ And the king said unto mee, (the Queene also sitting by him) How long shall thy journey be? and when wilt thou come againe? So it pleased the king, and he sent mee, and I set him a time.

⁷ After, I said unto the king, If it please the king, let them give mee letters to the captains beyond the [†] River, that they may convey mee over, till I come into Judah,

[†] Or, Euphrates.

⁸ And letters unto Asaph the keeper of the kings [†] parke, that hee may give mee timber to build the gates of the palace (which appertained to the house) and for the wals of the city, and for the house that I shall enter into. And the king gave me according to the ^d good hand of my God upon mee.

^d As God moved mee to aske, and as hee gave mee good successe therein.

⁹ ¶ Then came I to the captaines beyond the River, and gave them the Kings letters. And the king had sent captaines of the army and horsemen with me.

¹⁰ But ^e Sanballat the Horonite, and Tobiah a servant an Ammonite heard it, and it grieved them sore, that there was come a man which sought the wealth of the children of Israel.

^e These were great enemies to the Jewes, and laboured alwayes both by force and subtilty to overcome them; and Tobiah, because his wife was a Jewesse, had avertisement ever of their affaires, and so wrought them great trouble.

¹¹ So I came to Ierusalem, and was there three dayes.

¹² And I rose in the night, I, and a few men with me: for I told no man, what God had put in mine heart to doe at Ierusalem, and there was not a beast with mee, save the beast whereon I rode.

¹³ And I went out by night by the gate of the valley, & came before the dragon well, & to the dung port, & viewed the wals of Ierusalem, how they were broken down, and and the ports thereof devoured with the fire.

14 Then I went forth unto the gate of the fountain, and to the kings fishpooles, and there was no roome for the beast that was under mee to passe.

15 Then went I up in the night by the brooke, and viewed the wall, and turned back, and comming back, I entred by the gate of the valley and returned.

16 And the rulers knew not whither I was gone, nor what I did, neither did I as yet tell it unto the Jewes, nor to the Priests, nor to the noble men, nor to the rulers, nor to the rest that laboured in the worke.

17 Afterward I said unto them, Yee see the misery that wee are in, how Jerusalem lyeth wast, and the gates thereof are burnt with fire: come and let us build the wall of Jerusalem, that we be no more a reproach.

18 Then I told them of the hand of my God, (which was good over mee) and also of the kings words that he had spoken unto mee. And they said, Let us rise, and build. So they strengthened their hand to good.

19 But when Sanballat the Horonite, and Tobiah the servant an Ammonite, and Gelhem the Arabian heard it, they mocked us, and despised us, and said, What a thing is this that yee doe? Will yee rebell against the king?

20 Then answered I them, and said to them, The God of heaven, he will prosper us, and we his servants will rise up & build: but as for you, yee have no portion nor right, nor memoriall in Jerusalem.

CHAP. III.

The number of them that builded the walles.

Then arose Eliashib the high Priest with his brethren the Priests, and they built the sheep gate: they repaired it, and set up the doores thereof: even unto the towre of Meah repaired they it, and unto the towre of Hananeel.

2 And next unto him builded the men of Jericho, and beside him Zaccur the son of Imri.

3 But the fishport did the sons of Senah build, which also laid the beams thereof, and set on the doores thereof, the locks thereof, and the barres thereof.

4 And next unto them fortified Merimoth, the son of Vrijah, the son of Hakkoz: and next unto them fortified Meshullam, the son of Berechiah, the son of Meshezabeel: and next unto them fortified Zadok the son of Baana:

5 And next unto them fortified the Tekoites: but the great men of them put not their necks to the work of their Lords.

6 And the gate of the old fishpooles fortified Jehojada the son of Paseah, and Meshullam the son of Besodajah: they laid the beams thereof, & set on the doors thereof, & the locks thereof, and the bars thereof.

7 Next unto them also fortified Melatiah the Gibeonite, and Jadon the Merothite, men of Gibeon, and of Mizpah, unto the throne of the Duke, which was beyond the River.

8 Next unto him fortified Uzziel the son of Harhaiah of the goldsmiths: next unto him also fortified Hananiah, the son of Harakkahim, and they repaired Jerusalem unto the broad wall.

9 Also next unto them fortified Rephajah, the son of Hur, the ruler of the half part of Jerusalem.

10 And next unto him fortified Jedajah, the son of Harumaph, even over against his house, and next unto him fortified Hattush, the son of Hashabniah.

11 Malchijah the son of Harim, and Hashub the son of Pahath Moab fortified the second portion, and the tower of the furnaces.

12 Next unto him also fortified Shallum, the son of Halloesh, the ruler of the half part of Jerusalem, he, & his daughters.

13 The valley gate fortified Hanun, and the inhabitants of Zanuah: they built it, & set on the doors thereof, the locks thereof, and the bars thereof, even a thousand cubites on the wall unto the dung port.

14 But the dung port fortified Malchiah, the son of Rechab, the ruler of the fourth part of Beth-haccarem: he built it, and set on the doors thereof, the locks thereof, and the bars thereof.

15 But the gate of the fountain fortified Shallun, the son of Col-hozeh, the ruler of the fourth part of Mizpah: hee builded it, & covered it, and set on the doors thereof, the locks thereof, and the bars thereof, & the wall unto the fishpool of Siloah by the Kings garden, and unto the steps that goe downe from the city of David.

16 After him fortified Nehemiah the son of Azbuk, the ruler of the half part of Beth-zur, untill the other side over against the sepulchres of David, and to the fishpool that was repaired, and unto the house of the mighty.

17 After him fortified the Levites, Rehum the son of Bani, and next unto him fortified Hashabiah the ruler of the half part of Keilah in his quarter.

18 After him fortified their brethren: Bavai, the son of Henadad the ruler of the half part of Keilah:

19 And next unto him fortified Ezer, the son of Jeshua the ruler of Mizpah, the other portion over against the going up to the corner of the armour.

Thus is, contemned of other nations, as though God had forsaken us.

They were incouraged, and gave themselves to doe well, and to travell in this worthy enterprise.

These were three chiefe governors under the King of Persia beyond Euphrates.

Thus the wicked when they will burthen the children of God, ever lay reason unto their charge, both because it maketh them most odious to the world, and also stirreth the hatred of princes most against them. Neither are yee of the number of the children of God (to whom he hath appointed this city onely,) neither did any of your Predecessors ever feare God.

In Hebrew, they sanctified it, that is, they finished it, and so dedicated it to the Lord by prayer, in desiring him to maintaine it.

The rich and mighty would not obey them, which were appointed officers in this worke, neither would they help thereunto.

CHAP. IV.

ⁱ The building of Jerusalem is hindered, 15 but God breaketh their enterprise. 17 The Jews build with one hand, and hold their weapons in the other.

^a Of his companions that dwell in Samaria.
^b Thus the wicked, that consider not that Gods power is ever in a readinesse for the defence of his, mock them, as though they were weak and feeble.

BUt when Sanballat heard that we built the wall, then was he wroth and sore grieved, and mocked the Jews,

2 And said before his brethren and the army of Samaria, thus he said, What doe these ^b weak Jews? will they fortifie themselves? will they sacrifice? will they finish it in a day? wil they make the stones whole again out of the heaps of dust, seeing they are burnt?

3 And Tobiah the Ammonite ^c was beside him, and said, Although they build, yet if a foxe goe up, he shall even breake down their stony wall.

4 ^c Hear, O our God (for we are despised) and turn their shame upon their own head, and give them unto a prey ^d in the land of their captivity,

5 And cover not their ^e iniquity, neither let their sin be put out in thy presence: for they have provoked ^e before the builders.

6 So we built the wall, and all the wall was joynted unto the ^f half thereof, and the heart of the people was to worke.

7 ¶ But when Sanballat, and Tobiah, and the Arabians, and the Ammonites, and the Ashdodims heard that the walles of Jerusalem were repaired, (for the breaches began to be stopped) then they were very wroth,

8 And conspired altogether to come and to fight against Jerusalem, and to hinder them.

^c This is the remedy that the children of God have against the derision & threatening of their enemies, to flee to God by prayer.
^d Let them be spoiled and led away captive.
^e Let thy plagues declare to the world that they set themselves against thee, and against thy Church: thus bee pruned, only having respect to Gods glory, and not for any private affection or grudge.
^f Or shall be single.

^g Ebr. make to flee, meaning the people.

9 Then we prayed unto our God, and set watchmen by them, day and night, because of them.

10 And Judah said, The strength of the bearers is weakned, & there is much earth, so that we are not able to build the wall.

11 Also our adversaries had said, They shall not know, neither see, till we come into the mids of them, and slay them, and cause the worke to cease.

12 But when the Jewes (which dwell beside them) came, they told us ^f ten times, ^g From all places, whence yee shall return, they will be upon us.

^f That is, often times.
^g They which brought the tidings, said thus. When you leave your worke, and go either to eat or to rest, your enemies will assault you.

13 Therefore set I in the lower places behind the wall upon the tops of the stones, and placed the people by their families, with their swords, their spears and their bowes.

14 Then I beheld, and rose up, and said unto the Princes, and to the rulers, and to the rest of the people, Bee not afraid of them: ^h remember the great Lord, and fearefull, and fight for your brethren, your sons, and your daughters, your wives, and your houses.

^h Who is ever at hand to deliver his out of danger, and therefore seeing they should fight for the maintenance of Gods glory, and for the preservation of their owne lives, and of others, he encouraged them to play the valiant men.

15 And when our enemies heard that it was knowen unto us, then God brought their counsell to nought, and we turned all againe to the wall, every one unto his worke.

16 And from that day, half of the yong men did the labour, and the other half part of them held the spears, and shields, and bows, and habergeons: and the rulers stood ⁱ behind all the house of Judah.

ⁱ To oversee them, and encourage them to their worke.

17 They that builded on the wall, and they that bare burdens, and they that laded, did did the worke with one hand; and with the other held the sword.

18 For every one of the builders had his sword girded on his loins, and so builded: & he that blew the trumpet, was beside me.

19 Then said I unto the Princes, and to the rulers; and to the rest of the people, The work is great & large, & we are separated upon the wall, one far from another.

20 In what place therefore yee heare the sound of the trumpet, *re*sort yee thither unto us: our God shall fight for us.

21 So we laboured in the worke, and halfe of them held the spears, from the appearing of the morning, till the stars came forth.

22 And at the same time said I unto the people, Let every one with his servant lodge within Jerusalem, that they may be a watch for us in the night, and labour in the day.

23 So neither I, nor my brethren, nor my servants, nor the men of the ward (which followed me) none of us did put off our clothes, save every one put them off for washing.

CHAP. V.

1 The people are oppressed, and in necessity. 6 Nehemiah remedieth it. 14 He tooke not the portion of others that had ruled before, lest he should grieve the people.

NOW there was a great cry of the people, and of their wives a against their brethren the Jewes.

2 For there were that said; We, our sons and our daughters are many, therefore we take up b corne, that we may eat and live.

3 And there were that said, Wee must gage our lands, and our vineyards, and our houses, and take up corne for the famine.

4 There were also that said, We have borrowed mony for the kings tribute, upon our lands and our vineyards.

5 And now our flesh is as d the flesh of our brethren, and our sons as their sons: & loe, we bring into subjection our sons and our daughters as servants, and there be of our daughters now in subjection; and there is no power e in our hands: for other men have our lands and our vineyards.

6 Then was I very angry when I heard their cry and these words.

7 And I thought in my mind, and I rebuked the princes, and the rulers, and said unto them, You lay f burthens every one upon his brethren: and I set a great g assembly against them;

8 And I said unto them, We (according to our ability) have redeemed our brethren the Jewes, which were sold unto the heathen, & will you sell your brethren again, or shall they be h sold unto us? Then held they their peace, and could not answer.

9 I said also, That which yee doe, is not good. Ought yee not to walke in the feare of our God, for the k reproch of the heathen our enemies?

10 For even I, my brethren, and my servants doe lend them mony, and corne: I pray you, let us leave off this l burden.

11 Restore, I pray you, unto them this day their lands, their vineyards, their olives, and their houses, and remit the hundredth part of the silver and of the corne, of the wine, and of the oyle that yee exact of them.

12 Then said they, We will restore it, and will not require it of them: we will do as thou hast said. Then I called the Priests, and caused them to sweare, that they should doe according to this promise.

13 So I shooke my lap, and said, So let God shake out every man that will not performe this promise, from his house, and from his labour: even thus let him be shaken out, & emptied. And all the Congregation said, Amen, and praised the Lord: & the people did according to this promise.

14 And from the time that the king gave me charge to be governour in the land of Judah, from the twentieth yeare, even unto the two and thirtieth yeare of king Artahashste, that is, twelve yeare, I, and my brethren have not eaten the m bread of the governour.

15 For the former governours that were before me, had beene chargeable unto the people, and had taken of them bread and wine, besides fourty shekels of silver: yea, and their servants bare rule over the people: but so did not I, because of the feare of God.

16 But rather I fortified a portion in the work of this wal, and we bought no land, and all my servants came thither together unto the worke.

17 Moreover there were at my table an hundred and fifty of the Jewes, and rulers, which came unto us from among the heathen that are about us.

18 And there was prepared dayly an ox, and six chosen sheep, and birds were prepared for me, and l within ten dayes wine for all n in abundance. Yet for all this I required not the bread of the governour: for the bondage was grievous unto this people.

19 Remember me, O my God, in goodnesse, according to all that I have done for this people.

and that there were no more^a breaches therein, (though at that time I had not set up the doores upon the gates)

3 Therefore I sent messengers unto them, saying, I have a great worke to doe, and I cannot come downe: ^b why should the worke cease, whiles I leave it, and come downe to you?

4 Yet they sent unto mee foure times after this sort. And I answered them after the same manner.

5 Then sent Sanballat his servant after this sort unto mee the fift time, with an open letter in his hand,

6 Wherein was written, It is reported among the heathen, and [†] Gashmu hath said it, that thou and the Jewes thinke to rebell, for the which cause thou buildest the wall, and thou wilt bee their king according to these^c words.

7 Thou hast also ordained^d the Prophets to preach of thee at Jerusalem, saying, There is a King in Judah: and now according to these words it shall come to the Kings eares: come now therefore, and let us take counsell together.

8 Then I sent unto him, saying, It is not done according to these words that thou sayest: for thou faintest them of thine owne heart.

9 For all they afayed us, saying, Their hands shall be weakened from the worke, and it shall not bee done: now therefore [†] encourage thou mee.

10 ¶ And I came to the house of She-majah the son of Delajah the son of Mehe-tabeel, and he was^e shut up, and he said, Let us come together into the house of God in the mids of the Temple, and shut the doores of the Temple: for they will come to slay thee: yea, in the night will they come to kill thee.

11 Then I said, ^f Should such a man as I flee? Who is he being as I am, that would goe into the Temple to live? I will not goe in.

12 And loe, I perceived, that God had not sent him, but that he pronounced this prophecy against me: for Tobiah and Sanballat had hired him.

13 Therefore was he hired, that I might be afraid, and doe thus, and sin, and that they might have an evill report that they might reproch mee.

14 My God, remember thou Tobiah, and Sanballat according unto these their workes, and Noadiah the^g Prophetesse also, and the rest of the Prophets that would have put mee in feare.

15 ¶ Notwithstanding the wall was finished on the five and twentieth day of^h Elul, in two andⁱ fifty dayes.

16 And when all our enemies heard thereof, even all the heathen that were about us, they were afraid, and their courage failed them: for they knew that this worke was wrought by our God.

17 And in these dayes were there many of the Princes of Judah, whose^k letters went unto Tobiah, and those of Tobiah came unto them.

18 For there were many in Judah, that were sworne unto him: for he was the son in law of Shechaniah the son of Arah: and his son Jehonathan had the daughter of Meshullam, the son of Berechiah.

19 Yea, they spake in his prayse before mee, and told him my words, and Tobiah sent letters to put me in feare.

CHAP. VII.

1 After the wall once builded, is the watch appointed. 6 They that returned from the captivity are numbred.

NOW^{*} when the wall was builded, and I had set up the doores, and the porters, and the fingers, and the Levites were appointed,

2 Then I commanded my brother Hanani, and Hananiah the prince of the palace in Jerusalem (for he was doubtlesse a faithfull man, and feared God above many.)

3 And I said unto them, Let not the gates of Jerusalem bee opened, untill the heate of the sun: and while^a they stand by, let them shut the doors, and [†] make them fast: and I appointed wards of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, every one in his ward, and every one over against his house.

4 Now the city was large and great, but the people were few therein, and the houses were not builded.

5 And my God put into mine heart, and I gathered the Princes, and the Rulers, and the people, to count their genealogies: and I found a booke of the genealogy of them, ^{*} which came up at the first, and found written therein,

6 These are the^b sons of the province that came up from the captivity that was caried away (whom Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel had caried away) and they returned to Jerusalem, and to Judah, every one unto his city.

CHAP. VIII.

^a Ezra gathered together the people, and readeth to them the Law. ¹² They rejoyce in Israel for the knowledge of the word of God. ¹⁵ They keepe the feast of the Tabernacles or booths.

† Ebr. as one man.

And all the people assembled themselves [†] together, in the street that was before the water-gate, and they spake unto Ezra the ^a Scribe, that he would bring the booke of the Law of Moses, which the Lord had commanded to Israel.

a Read Ezra 7. 6.

2 And Ezra the Priest brought the Law before the Congregation both of men and women, and of all that ^b could heare and understand it, in the first day of the seventh moneth.

b Which had age and discretion to understand.

3 And he read therein in the street that was before the water-gate (from the morning untill the ^c midday) before men and women, and them that understood it, and the eares of all the people ^{hearkened} unto the booke of the Law.

c This declareth the great zeale that the people had to heare the word of God.

4 And Ezra the Scribe stood upon a pulpit of wood which he had made for the preaching, and beside him stood Mattithiah, and Shema, and Ananiah, and Urijah, and Hilkiah, and Maasejah, on his right hand, and on his left hand Pedajah, and Misael, and Malchiah, and Hasum, and Hasbadana, Zechariah, and Meshullam.

5 And Ezra opened the booke before all the people : for he was ^d above all the people : and when he opened it, all the people stood up.

d To the intent that his voyce might be the better heard.

6 And Ezra praised the Lord the great God, and all the people answered, Amen, Amen, with lifting up their hands : & they bowed themselves, and worshipped the Lord with their faces toward the ground.

7 Also Jeshua, and Bani, and Sherebiah, Jamin, Akkub, Shabbethai, Hodijah, Maasejah, Kelita, Azariah, Jozabad, Hanan, Pelajah, and the Levites caused the people to understand the Law, and the people stood in their place.

8 And they read in the booke of the Law of God distinctly, and gave the sense, and caused them to understand the reading.

9 Then Nehemiah (which is Tirshatha) and Ezra the Priest and Scribe, and the Levites that instructed the people, said unto all the people, This day is holy unto the Lord your God : mourne not, neither weep : for all the people ^e wept, when they heard the words of the Law.

e In considering their offences against the Law, therefore the Levites doe not reprove them for mourning, but assure them of Gods mercies, for as much as they are repentant.
f That is, remember the poore.
g Rejoyce in the Lord, and he will give you strength.

10 He said unto them, Goe, and eat of the fat, and drinke the sweet, and send part unto them, for whom none ^f is prepared : for this day is holy unto our Lord : bee yee not sory therefore : for the ^g joy of the Lord is your strength.

11 And the Levites made silence throughout all the people, saying, Hold your peace : for the day is holy, be not sad therefore.

12 Then all the people went to eat and to drinke, and to send away part, and to make great joy, because they had understood the words that they had taught the.

13 And on the second day the chiefe Fathers of all the people, the Priests and the Levites were gathered unto Ezra the Scribe, that he also might instruct them in the words of the Law.

14 And they found written in the Law, (that the Lord had commanded by Moses) that the children of Israel should dwell in ^{*} booths in the feast of the seventh month :

* Levit. 23. 34.

15 And that they should cause it to be declared and proclaimed in all their cities, and in Jerusalem, saying, Goe forth unto the mount, and bring olive branches, and pine branches, and branches of [†] myrtus, and palme branches, and branches of thick trees, to make boothes, as it is written.

† Or, goodly trees, as Levit. 23. 40.

16 So the people went forth and brought

16 So the people went forth and brought them, and made them booths, every one upon the ^h roofe of his house, and in their courts, and in the courts of the house of God, and in the street by the water-gate, and in the street of the gate of Ephraim.

17 And all the Congregation of them that were come againe out of the captivity made booths, & sate under the booths: for since the ⁱ time of Ieshua the son of Nun unto this day, had not the children of Israel done so, and there was very great joy.

18 And hee read in the booke of the Law of God every day, from the first day unto the last day. And they kept the feast seven dayes, and on the eight day a solemn assembly, according unto the manner.

CHAP. IX.

¹ The people repent, and forsake their strange wives. ⁵ The Levites exhort them to praise God, ⁶ Declaring his wonders, ²⁶ And their ingratitude, ³⁰ And Gods great mercies toward them.

IN the four and twentieth day of this ^a moneth the children of Israel were assembled with fasting, and with sackcloth, and earth upon them.

2 (And they that were of the seed of Israel were separated from all the [†] strangers) and they stood and confessed their sins, and the iniquities of their fathers:

3 And they stood up in their place and read in the booke of the Law of the Lord their God four times on the day, and they ^b confessed and worshipped the Lord their God four times.

4 Then stood up upon the stairs of the Levites, Ieshua, and Bani, Kadmiel, Shebaniah, Bunni, Sherebiah, Bani, and Chenani, and cryed with a loud voyce unto the Lord their God.

5 And the Levites said, even Ieshua and Kadmiel, Bani, Hashabnia, Sherebiah, Hodijah, Shebaniah and Pethahiah, Stand up, and praise the Lord your God for ever, and ever, and let them praise thy glorious Name, O God, which excelleth above all thanksgiving and praise.

6 Thou art Lord alone: thou hast made heaven, and the heaven of al heavens, with all their hoste, the earth, and all things that are therein, the seas, and all that are in them, and thou preservest them all, and the hoste of the heaven worshippeth thee.

7 Thou art, O Lord, the God that hast chosen Abram, and broughtest him out of ^{} Ur in Caldea, ^{} and madest his name Abraham,

8 And foundest his heart faithfull before thee, ^{*} and madest a covenant with him, to give unto his seed the land of the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, and Perizzites, & Jebusites, and Girgashites, and hast perform'd thy words, because thou art just.

9 ^{*} Thou hast also considered the affliction of our fathers in Egypt, and heard their cry by the red Sea,

10 And shewed tokens and wonders upon Pharaoh, and on all his servants, and on all the people of his land: for thou knewest that they dealt proudly against them: therefore thou madest thee a Name, as appeareth this day.

11 ^{*} For thou diddest break up the Sea before them, and they went through the mids of the Sea on drie land: & those that pursued them, hast thou cast into the bot-toms as a stone, in the mighty waters:

12 ^{*} And leddest them in the day with a pillar of a cloud, and in the night with a pillar of fire to give them light in the way that they went.

13 ^{*} Thou camest downe also upon mount Sinai, and spakest unto them from heaven, and gavest them right judgements, and true laws, ordinances, and good commandements;

14 And declaredst unto them thine ho-ly Sabbath, and commandedst them pre-cepts, and ordinances, and lawes, by the hand of Moses thy servant.

15 ^{} And gavest them bread from hea-ven for their hunger, ^{} & broughtest forth water for them out of the rock for their thirst: and ^{*} promisedst them that they should goe in, and take possession of the land; for the which thou haddest lift up thine hand for to give them.

16 But they and our fathers behaved themselves proudly, and hardned their neck, so that they hearkned not unto thy commandements, 17 But refused to obey, and would not remember thy marvellous workes that thou haddest done for them, but hardened their necks, & had in their heads to return to their bondage by their rebellion: but thou, O God of mercies, gracious and full of compassion, of long suffering, and of great mercy, yet forsookest them not.

18 Moreover, when they made them a molten calf (and said, This is thy God that brought thee up out of the land of Egypt) and committed great blasphemies, 19 Yet thou for thy great mercies for-sookest them not in the wilderness ^{*} the pillar of the cloud departed not from them by day to lead them the way, neither the pillar of fire by night to shew them light, and the way wherby they should go.

20 Thou gavest also thy good Spirit to instruct them, and withheldest not thy M ^a n from their mouth, and gavest them water for their thirst.

21 Thou didst also feed them forty years yearcs in the wildernesse: they lacked nothing: * their clothes waxed not old, and their feet^c swelled not.

22 And thou gavest them kingdomes and people, &^d scatteredst them into corners: so they possessed * the land of Sihon, and the land of the king of Heshbon, and the land of Og king of Bashan.

23 And thou didst multiply their children, like the starres of the heaven, and broughtest them into the land, whereof thou haddest spoken unto their fathers, that they should goe, and possesse it.

24 So the children went in, and possessed the land, and thou subduedst before them the inhabitants of the land, even the Canaanites, and gavest them into their hands, with their kings and the people of the land, that they might doe with them what they would.

25 And they tooke their strong cities and the fat land, and possessed houses, full of all goods, cisternes digged out, vineyards, and olives, and trees for food in abundance, and they did eate, and were filled, and became fat, and lived in pleasure through thy great goodnesse.

26 Yet they were disobedient, and rebelled against thee, and cast thy Law behind their backs, and slew thy Prophets (which^e protested among them to turne them unto thee) and committed great blasphemies.

e Taking heaven and earth to witness: that God would destroy them, except they returned, as 2 Chro. 24. 19.

27 Therefore thou deliveredst them into the hand of their enemies that vexed them: yet in the time of their affliction, when they cryed unto thee, thou heardest them from the heaven, and through thy great mercies thou gavest them saviours, who saved them out of the hands of their adversaries.

f Hee declareth how Gods mercies ever contended with the wickednesse of the people, who ever in their prosperity forgate God.

28 But when they had^f rest, they returned to doe evill before thee: therefore ledest thou them in the hand of their enemies, so that they had the dominion over them; yet when they converted and cried unto thee, thou heardest them from heaven, and deliveredst them according to thy great mercies many times,

29 And protestedst among them that thou mightest bring them again unto thy Law: but they behaved themselves proudly, and hearkned not unto thy commandments, but sinned against thy judgements (* which a man should do & live in them) and^g pulled away the shoulder, and were stiffnecked, and would not^h heare.

30 Yet thou[†] diddest forbearc them many yeares, and protestedst among them by thy Spirit; even by the hand of thy Prophets, but they would not heare: therefore gavest thou them into the hand of the people of the lands.

31 Yet for thy great mercies thou hast not consumed them, neither forsaken thee: for thou art a gracious and mercifull God.

32 Now therefore our God, * thou great God, mighty & terrible, that keepest covenant and * mercy, let not all the affliction that hath come unto us, seeme a little before thee, that is to our Kings, and to our Princes, and to our Priests, and to our Prophets, and to our fathers, and to all thy people since the time of the kings ofⁱ Asshur unto this day.

i By whom we were led away into captivity, and have been appointed to be slain, as Ezra 3. 13.

k Hee confesseth that all these things came to them justly for their sins, but hee appealeth from Gods justice to his mercies. l That thou wouldest destroy them, except they would returne to thee, as verse 36.

35 And they have not served thee in their kingdom, and in thy great goodnesse that thou shewedst unto them, and in the large and fat land which thou diddest set before them, and have not converted from their evill workes.

36 Behold, we are servants this day, and the land that thou gavest unto our fathers, to eat the^m fruit thereof, & the goodnesse thereof, behold, we are servants therein.

m That is, to be the lords thereof.

37 And it yeeldeth much fruit unto the kings, whom thou hast set over us, because of our sins: and they have dominion over our bodies, and over our cattell at their pleasure, and we are in great affliction.

38 Now because of all this we makeⁿ a sure covenant, and write it, and our Princes, our Levites and our Priests seal unto it.

n Thus by affliction they promise to keepe Gods commandments, wherunto they could not be brought by Gods great benefits.

28 And the rest of the people, the Priests, the Levites, the porters, the singers, the ^bNethinims, and all that were ^cseparated from the people of the lands unto the Law of God, their wives, their sons, and their daughters, all that could understand.

29 The chiefe of them ^dreceived it for their brethren, and they came to the ^ecurse, and to the oath to walke in Gods law, which was given by Moses the servant of God, to observe and do all the Commandements of the Lord our God, and his judgements and his statutes:

30 And that wee would not give our daughters to the people of the land, neither take their daughters for our sons.

31 And if the people of the land brought ware on the Sabbath, or any victuals to sell, ^fthat we would not take it of them on the Sabbath & on the holy dayes: ^gand that we would let the seventh yeare be free, and the debts of every ^hperson.

32 And we made statutes for our selves to give by the year, the third part of a shekel for the service of the house of our God,

33 For the ⁱshewbread, and for the dayly offering, and for the dayly burnt offering, the Sabbaths, the new Moones, for the solemne feasts, and for the things that were sanctified, and for the sin offerings; to make an atonement for Israel, and for all the worke of the house of our God.

34 We cast also lots for the offering of the wood, even the Priests, the Levites, and the people to bring it into the house of our God, ^jby the house of our fathers, yearly at the times appointed, to burne it upon the altar of the Lord our God, as it is written in the Law,

35 And to bring the first fruits of our land, & the first of all the fruits of all trees, year by year, into the house of the Lord,

36 And the first borne of our sons, and of our cattell, as it is ^kwritten in the Law, and the first borne of our bullocks and of our sheepe, to bring it into the house of our God, unto the Priests that minister in the house of our God,

37 And that wee should bring the first fruit of our dough, & our offerings, & the fruit of every tree, of wine, and of oyle, unto the Priests, to the chambers of the house of our God: and the tithes of our land unto the Levites, that the Levites might have the tithes in all the cities of our ^ltravell.

38 And the Priest, the son of Aaron shall be with the Levites, when the Levites take tithes, and the Levites shall ^mbring up the tenth part of the tithes unto the house of our God, unto the chambers of the treasure house.

39 For the children of Israel, and the children of Levi shall bring up the offering of the corne, of the wine, and of the oyle, unto the chambers; and there shall be the vessels of the sanctuary, and the Priests that minister, and the porters, and the singers, and ⁿwee will not forsake the house of our God.

CHAP. XII.

^k The Priests and the Levites which came with Zerubbabel unto Jerusalem, are numbered, 27 and the wall is dedicated.

THESE also are the Priests and the Levites that ^l went up with Zerubbabel, the son of Shealtiel, and Jeshua: to wit, Serajah, Jeremiah, Ezra, ^k From Babylon unto Jerusalem.

2 Amariah, Malluch, Hattush,

3 Shecaniah, Rehum, Merimoth,

4 Iddo, Ginnetho, Abijah,

5 Miamin, Maadiah, Bilgah,

6 Shemajah, and Jojarib, Jedajah,

7 Sallu, Amok, Hilkiah, Jedajah: these were the ^m chiefe of the Priests, and of their brethren in the dayes of Jeshua.

^m Next in dignity to the high Priests, and which were of the stock of Aaron.

8 And the Levites, Jeshua, Binnui, Kadmiel, Sherebiah, Judah, Mattaniah ⁿ were over the thanksgivings, he, and his brethren.

ⁿ Had charge of them that sang the Psalms.

9 And Bakbukiah, and Unni, and their brethren were about them in the ^o watches.

^o They kept the wards & watches according to their turns, as 1 Chron. 23. 6.

10 And Jeshua begat Jojakim: Jojakim also begat Eliahib, and Eliahib begat Joadah, 11 And Joadah begat Jonathan, and Jonathan begat Jaddua.

12 And in the dayes of Jojakim were these the chiefe fathers of the Priests: under ^p Serajah was Merajah, under Jeremiah, Hananiah, ^p That is, next to Serajah, or rather of the order which was called after the name of Serajah.

13 Under Ezra, Meshullam, under Amariah, Jehohanan, 14 Under Melicu, Jonathan, under Shebaniah, Joseph.

15 Under Harim, Adna, under Merajoth, Helkai,

16 Under Iddo, Zechariah, under Ginnithon, Meshullam, ^q Whereof was Zacharie John Baptists father.

17 Under ^r Abijah, Zichri, under Miamin, and under Moadiah, Piltai, 18 Under Bilgah, Shammua, under Shemajah, Jehonathan,

19 Under Jojarib, Mattenai, under Jedajah, Uzzi, 20 Under Sallai, Kallai, under Amok, Eber,

21 Under Hilkiah, Hashabiah, under Jedajah, Nethaneel.

22 In the dayes of Eliahib, Joadah, and Johanan

Johanen and Jaddua were the chiefe fathers of the Levites written, and the Priests in the reigne of Darius the Persian.

23 The sons of Levi, the chiefe fathers were written in the booke of the Chronicles, even unto the dayes of Johanen the son of Eliafhib.

24 And the chiefe of the Levites were Hashabiah, Sherebiah, and Jeshua the son of Kadmiel, and their brethren about them to give praise and thanks, according to the ordinance of David the man of God, ward over against ward.

25 Mattaniah, and Bakbukiah, Obadiah, Meshullam, Talmon, and Akkub were porters keeping the ward, at the thresholds of the gates.

26 These were in the dayes of Jojakim the son of Jeshua, the son of Jozadak, and in the dayes of Nehemiah the captaine, and of Ezra the Priest and Scribe.

27 And in the dedication of the wall at Jerusalem, they sought the Levites out of all their places, to bring them to Jerusalem, to keepe the dedication and gladnesse, both with thanksgivings and with songs, cymbales, viols, and with harpes.

28 Then the singers gathered themselves together, both from the plaine countrey about Jerusalem, and from the villages of Netophathi, 29 And from the house of Gilgal, and out of the countreys of Geba, and Asmaveth: for the singers had built them villages round about Jerusalem.

30 And the Priests and Levites were purified, and cleansed the people, and the gates, and the wall.

31 And I brought up the princes of Judah upon the wall, and appointed two great companies to give thanks, & the one went on the right hand of the wall toward the dung gate,

32 And after them went Hoshajah, and halfe of the princes of Judah,

33 And Azariah, Ezra, and Meshullam,

34 Judah, Benjamin, and Shemajah, and Jeremiah,

35 And of the Priests sons with trumpets, Zechariah the son of Jonathan, the son of Shemajah, the son of Mattaniah, the son of Michajah, the son of Zaccur, the son of Asaph.

36 And his brethren, Shemajah, and Azareel, Milalai, Gilalai, Maai, Nethaneel, and Judah, Hanani, with the Musickall instruments of David the man of God: and Ezra the Scribe went before them.

37 And to the gate of the fountaine, even over against them went they up by the stairs of the citie of David, at the going up of the wall beyond the house of David, even unto the water gate Eastward.

38 And the second company of them that gave thanks, went on the other side, and I after them, and the halfe of the people was upon the wall, and upon the tower of the tounaces, even unto the broad wall.

39 And upon the gate of Ephraim, and upon the old gate, and upon the fish gate, and the tower of Hananeel, and the tower of Meah, even unto the sheep gate: and they stood in the gate of the ward.

40 So stood the two companies of them that gave thanks, in the house of God, and I and the halfe of the rulers with me.

41 The Priests also, Eliakim, Maasejah, Miniamin, Michajah, Elioenai, Zechariah, Hanniah, with trumpets.

42 And Maasejah, and Shemajah, and Eleazar, and Uzzi, and Jehohanan, and Malchijah, and Elam, and Ezer: and the singers sang loud, having Izrahiah which was the overseer.

43 And the same day they offered great sacrifices, and rejoyced: for God had given them great joy, so that both the women, & the children were joyfull: and the joy of Jerusalem was heard farre off.

44 Also at the same time were men appointed over the chambers of the store for the offerings, for the first fruits, and for the tithes, to gather into them out of the fields of the cities, the portions of the Law for the Priests, and the Levites: for Judah rejoyced for the Priests, and for the Levites, that served.

45 And both the singers and the Levites kept the ward of their God, and the ward of the Purification, according to the commandement of David, and Salomon his son.

46 For in the dayes of David and Asaph, of old were chiefe singers, and songs of praise and thanksgiving unto God.

47 And in the dayes of Zerubbabel, and in the dayes of Nehemiah, did all Israel give portions unto the singers and porters every day his portion, and they gave the holy things unto the Levites, and the Levites gave the holy things unto the sons of Aaron.

3 Now when they had heard the Law, they separated from Israel ^a all those that were mixed.

4 ¶ And before ^b this had the Priest Eliashib the oversight of the chamber of the house of our God, being ^c kinsman to Tobiah:

5 And he had made him a great chamber, and there had they aforetime laid the offerings, the incense, and the vessels, and the tithes of corn, of wine, and of oyle (appointed for the Levites, and the singers, & the porters) and the offerings of the Priests.

6 But in all this time was not I in Jerusalem: for in the two and thirtieth year of ^d Artahasthne King of Babel, came I unto the King, and ^e after certaine dayes, I obtained of the King.

7 And when I was come to Jerusalem, I understood the evill that Eliashib had done for Tobiah, in that he had made him a chamber in the court of the house of God,

8 And it grieved me sore: therefore I cast forth all the vessels of the house of Tobiah out of the chamber.

9 And I commanded them to cleanse the chambers: and thither brought I againe the vessels of the house of God, with the meate offering and the incense.

10 And I perceived that the portions of the Levites had not been given, and that every one was fled to his land, ^e even the Levites and the singers that executed the worke.

11 Then reprov'd I the rulers, and said, Why is the house of God forsaken? And I assembled them, and set them in their place.

12 Then brought all Judah the tithes of corn, and of wine, and of oyle unto the treasures.

13 And I made treasurers over the treasures, Shelemiah the Priest, and Zadok the scribe, and of the Levites, Pedajah, and under their hand Hanan the son of Zaccur the son of Mattaniah: for they were counted faithfull, and their office was to distribute unto their brethren.

14 Remember me, O my God, herein, and wipe not out my ^f kindnesse that I have shewed on the house of my God, and on the offices thereof.

15 In those dayes saw I in Judah them, that trode wine presses on the Sabbath, and that brought in sheaves, and which laded asses also with wine, grapes, and figges, and all burdens, and brought them into Jerusalem upon the Sabbath day: and ^g I protested to them in the day that they sold victuall.

16 There dwelt men of Tyrus also therein, which brought fish, and all wares, and sold on the Sabbath unto the children of Judah, even in Jerusalem.

17 Then reprov'd I the rulers of Judah, and said unto them, What evill thing is this that ye doe, and breake the Sabbath day?

18 Did not your fathers ^h thus, and our God brought all this plague upon us, and upon this citie? yet ye increase the wrath upon Israel, in breaking the Sabbath.

19 And when the gates of Jerusalem began to be darke before the Sabbath, I commanded to shut the gates, and charged that they should not be opened til after the Sabbath day, and ⁱ some of my servants set I at the gates, that there should no burden be brought in on the Sabbath day.

20 So the chapmen and merchants of all merchandise remained once or twice all night without Jerusalem.

21 And I protested among them, and said unto them, Why tary ye all night about the wall? If ye doe it once againe, I will lay hands upon you. From that time came they no more on the Sabbath.

22 ¶ And I said unto the Levites, that they should cleanse themselves, and that they should come and ^k keep the gates, to sanctifie the Sabbath day. Remember me, O my God, concerning this, and pardon me according to thy great mercy.

23 In those dayes also I saw Jewes that married wives of Ashdod, of Ammon, and of Moab.

24 And their children spake halfe in the speech of Ashdod, and could not speake in the Jewes language, and according to the language of the ^l one people, and of the ^l other people.

25 Then I reprov'd them, and ^m cursed them, and smote certaine of them, and pulled of their haire, and rooke an oath of them by God, Ye shall not give your daughters unto their sons, neither shall ye take of their daughters unto your sons, nor for your selves.

26 * Did not Salomon the king of Israel sin by these things? yet among many nations was there no king like him: for he was ⁿ beloved of his God, and God had made him King over Israel: ⁿ yet strange women caused him to sin.

27 Shall we then obey unto you, to do all this great evill, and to transgresse against our God, ^o even to marrie strange wives?

28 And ^o one of the sons of Jojada, the son of Eliashib the high Priest, was the son in law of Sanballat the Horonite: but I charged him from me.

^g He protesteth that he did his duty with a good conscience, yet he doth not justify himselfe herein, but desireth God to favour him, and to be mercifull unto him for his own goodnesse sake, as ver. 22. & 31.

^h I declared unto them, that God would not suffer such transgressors of his Law to be unpunished.

^h Was not this a great cause, why God plagued us in times past? reasoning, that if they transgressed now in the same againe, their plague should be greater.

THE ARGUMENT,

Because of the diversitie of names, whereby they used to name their Kings, and the supputation of yeares wherein the Ebrewes, and the Grecians doe varie, divers Authors write diversly as touching this Ahashuerosh, but it seemeth, Dan. 6. 1. and 9. 1. that he was Darius King of the Medes, and son of Astyages, called also Ahashuerosh, which was a name of honour, and signified great and chiefe, as chiefe head. Herein is declared the great mercies of God toward his Church: who never faileth them in their greatest dangers, but when all hope of wordly helpe faileth, he ever stirreth up some, by whom he sendeth comfort, and deliverance. Herein also is described the ambition, pride and cruelty of the wicked, when they come to honour, and their sudden fall when they are at the highest: and how God preserveth, and preferreth them which are zealous of his glory, and have a care and love toward their brethren.

IN the daies of ^a Ahashuerosh: (this is Ahashuerosh that reigned from India even unto Erhiochia, over an ^b hundred, and seven and twenty provinces)

² In those dayes when the King Ahashuerosh ^c sate on his throne, which was in the palace of Shushan

⁴ That hee might shew the riches and glorie of his kingdome, and the honour of his great majestie many dayes, even an hundred and fourescore dayes.

⁶ Under an hanging of white, Greene, and blue clothes, fastened with cordes of fine linnen and purple, in silver rings, and pillars of marble: the ^d beds were of gold and of silver upon a pavement of porphyre, and marble, and alabaster, and blue colour.

⁷ And they gave them drinke in vessels of gold, and changed vessel after vessel, and royall wine in abundance, according to the ^e power of the King.

⁸ And the drinking was by an order, none might ^f compell: for so the King had appointed unto all the officers of his house, that they should doe according to every mans pleasure.

⁹ ¶ The Queen Vashti made a feast also for the women in the royall house of King Ahashuerosh.

¹³ Then the King said to the wise men, ⁱ that knew the times (for so was the Kings manner towards all that knew the law and the judgement:

¹⁵ What shall we doe unto the Queen Vashti according to the law, because shee did not according to the word of the king

^e As was becoming for so magnificent a king. ^f None might be compelled to drink more then it pleased him.

^g Which was the last day of the feast that the king made for the people, as verse 5.

^h Which was on the hand of the eunuches.

ⁱ That had experience of things, as they had learned by diligent marking, in continuance of time.

^j Which were his chiefe counselors, that might have always access to him.

^d Which they used in those countreys in stead of tables.

O O z Aha-

Ahashueroth by the commission of the eunuchs?

k By her disobedience she hath given an example to all women to doe the like to their husbands.

l That is, her disobedience.

m Meaning, that they would take first occasion hereof to do the like, and that the rest of women would by continuance do the same.

n Let her be divorced, and another made queen.

o For he had under him an hundred twenty and seven countreys.

p That is, that the wife should be subject to the husband, and at his commandment.

16 Then Memucan answered before the King and the Princes, The Queen Vashti hath not onely done^k evill against the King, but against all the Princes, and against all the people that are in all the provinces of King Ahashueroth.

17 For the^l acte of the Queen shall come abroad unto all women, so that they shall despise their husbands in their own eyes, & shall say, the King Ahashueroth commanded Vashti the Queen to be brought in before him, but she came not.

18 So shall the^m Princesses of Persia and Media this day, say unto all the Kings princes, when they heare of the acte of the Queen: thus shall there be much despitfulnesse and wrath.

19 If it please the King, let a royall decree proceed from him, and let it be written among the statutes of Persia, and Media, (and let it not be transgressed) that Vashti come no more before King Ahashueroth: and let the King give her royall estate unto her companion that is better then shee.

20 And when the decree of the king which shall be made, shall be published throughout all his kingdome (though it be^o great) all the women shall give their husbands honour, both great and small.

21 And this saying pleased the King and the Princes, and the King did according to the word of Memucan.

22 For he sent letters into all the provinces of the King, into every province according to the writing thereof, and to every people after their language, that every man should^p beare rule in his owne house, and that he should publish it in the language of that same people.

C H A P. II.

2 After the queen is put away, certaine yong maidens are brought to the King. 17 Esther pleaseth the King, and is made queen. 22 Mordecai discloseth unto the King those that would betray him.

a That is, hee called the matter againe into communication.

b By the seven wise men of his counsell.

c The abuse of these countreys was so great, that they invented many meanes to serve the lusts of princes: and therefore, as they ordained wicked lawes that the King might have whole daughters he would, for they had divers houses appointed, as one for them, whiles they were virgins, another when they were concubines, and for the queenes another.

d Reade what this purification was, verſe 12.

After these things, when the wrath of King Ahashueroth was appeased, he^a remembered Vashti, and what shee had done, and what was decreed^b against her.

2 And the Kings servants that ministred unto him, said, Let them seeke for the King beautifull yong virgins,

3 And let the king appoint officers through all the provinces of his kingdom, and let them gather all the beautifull yong virgins unto the palace of Shushan, into the house of the women, under the hand of Hege the Kings eunuch, ^c keeper of the women, to give them their things^d for purification.

4 And the maide that shall please the King, let her reigne in the stead of Vashti.

And this pleased the King, and he did so.

5 ¶ In the citie of Shushan, there was a certaine Jew, whose name was Mordecai, the son of Jair, the son of Shimei, the son of Kish, a man of Jemini,

6 Which had been caried away from Jerusalem^{*} with the captivity that was caried away with Jeconiah King of Judah (whom Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel had caried away)

* 2 King. 24. 15

7 And he nourished Hadassah, that is Esther, his uncles daughter: for she had neither father nor mother, and the maide was faire, and beautifull to looke on: and after the death of her father, and her mother, Mordecai took her for his own daughter.

8 And when the Kings commandment, and his decree was published, and many maidens were brought together to the palace of Shushan, under the hand of Hege, Esther was brought also unto the Kings house under the hand of Hege the keeper of the women.

9 And the maide pleased him, and she found favour in his sight: therefore he caused her things for purification to be given her speedily, and her[†] state, and seven comely maidens to be given her out of the Kings house, and hee gave change to her and to her maidens, of the best in the house of the women.

† Ebr. portion.

10 But Esther shewed not her people and her kinred: for Mordecai had charged her, that shee should not tell it.

11 And Mordecai walked^e every day before the court of the womens house, to know if Esther did well, and what should be done with her.

e For though shee was taken away by a cruell law, yet he ceased not to have a fatherly care over her, and therefore did so for oft times to heare of her.

12 And when the course of every maide came, to goe in to king Ahashueroth, after that she had bin twelve moneths according to the manner of the women (for so were the dayes of their purifications accomplished, six moneths with oile of myrrhe, and six moneths with sweet odours, and other things for the purifying of the women:

13 And thus went the maidens unto the King) whatsoever shee required, was^f given her, to goe with her out of the womens house unto the Kings house.

f What apprell shee asked of the eunuch, that was he bound to give her.

14 In the evening she went, and on the morrow she returned into the second house of the women under the hand of Shaaahgaz the kings eunuch, which kept the concubines: she came in to the King no more, except she pleased the King, and that she were called by name.

15 Now when the course of Esther the daughter of Abihail the uncle of Mordecai (which had taken her as his own daughter) came, that shee should go in to the King, shee desired nothing, but what[‡] Hege the Kings eunuch the keeper of the women

^g Wherein her modesty appeared, because shee sought not apparell to commend her beauty, but stood to the Eunuchs appointment. ^h Which contained part of December, and part of January.

⁸ said: and Esther found favour in the sight of all them that looked upon her.

16 ¶ So Esther was taken unto king Ahasuerosh into his house royal in the tenth moneth, which is the moneth ^b Tebeth, in the seventh yeare of his raigne.

17 And the king loved Esther above all the women, and she found grace and favour in his sight more then all the virgins: so that he set the crowne of the kingdome upon her head, and made her Queen in stead of Valhti.

18 Then the King made a great feast unto all his Princes, and his servants, ^{which was} the feast of Ester, and gave rest ^k unto the provinces, and gave gifts, according to the ^l power of a king.

19 And when the virgins were gathered the ^m second time, then Mordecai fate in the kings gate.

20 Ester had not yet shewed her kined, nor her people, as Mordecai had charged her: for Ester did after the word of Mordecai, as when she was nourished with him.

21 ¶ In those dayes when Mordecai fate in the kings gate, two of the kings eunuchs, Bigthan and Teresh, which kept the doore, were wroth, and sought to lay ⁿ hand on the king Ahasuerosh.

22 And the thing was knowen to Mordecai, and he told it unto queen Esther, & Esther certified the king thereof in Mordecais name: and when inquisition was made, it was found so: therefore they were both hanged on a tree: and it was written in the booke of the ^o Chronicles before the king.

CHAP. III.

¹ Haman after he was exalted, obtained of the king, that all the Jewes should be put to death, because Mordecai had not done him worship as others had.

After these things did King Ahasuerosh promote Haman the son of Hammedatha the Agagite, and exalted him, and set his seate above all the princes that were with him.

2 And all the Kings servants that were at the Kings gate, bowed their knees, and revered Haman: for the King had so commanded concerning him: but Mordecai ^a bowed not the knee, neither did reverence

3 Then the Kings servants which were at the kings gate, said unto Mordecai, Why transgressest thou the Kings commandement?

4 And albeit they spake dayly unto him, yet he would not heare them: therefore they ^b told Haman, that they might see how Mordecais matters would stand: for he had told them, that he was a Jew.

5 And when Haman saw that Mordecai bowed not the knee unto him, nor did reverence unto him, then Haman was full of wrath.

6 Now he [†] thought it too little to lay hands only on Mordecai: and because they had shewed him the people of Mordecai, Haman sought to destroy all the Jewes, that were throughout the whole kingdome of Ahasuerosh, ^{even} the people of Mordecai.

7 In the first moneth (that is the moneth ^c Nisan) in the twelfth yeare of King Ahasuerosh, they cast Pur (that is a lot) ^d before Haman, from day to day, & from moneth to moneth, ^{unto} the twelfth moneth, that is the moneth, ^e Adar.

8 Then Haman said unto King Ahasuerosh, There is a people scattered, and dispersed among the people, in all the provinces of thy kingdome, and their lawes ^{are} divers from all people, and they doe not observe the ^f Kings lawes, therefore it is not the kings profit to suffer them.

9 If it please the king, let it be written that they may be destroyed, & I will [†] pay ten thousand talents of silver by the hands of them that have the charge of this businesse to bring it into the kings treasure.

13 Then the king took his ring from his hand, and gave it unto Haman the son of Hammedatha the Agagite the Jewes adversary.

11 And the King said unto Haman, Let the silver be thine, and the people to doe with them as it pleaseth thee.

12 Then were the kings [‡] scribes called on the thirteenth day of the first moneth, & there was written (according to all that Haman commanded) unto the kings officers, and to the captaines that were over every Province, and to the rulers of every people, and to every province, according to the writing thereof, and to every people according to their language: in the name of king Ahasuerosh was it written, and sealed with the kings ring.

13 And the letters were sent [†] by posts into all the kings provinces, to root out, to kill, and to destroy all the Jewes, both young and old, children and women, in one day, upon the thirteenth day of the twelfth moneth (which is the moneth Adar) and to spoile them as a prey.

14 The contents of the writing ^{was} that there should be given a commandement in all provinces, and published unto all people, that they should be ready against the same day.

15 And the postes compelled by the Kings commandement went forth, and the commandement was given in the palace at Shushan: and the King and Haman fate drinking, but the ^{city} of Shushan was in perplexitie.

^o In the Chronicles of the Medes and Persians, as Chap. 10. 2.

^a The Persians manner was to kneele down and reverence their Kings, and such as he appointed in chiefe authority, which Mordecai would not doe to this ambitious and proud man.

^b Thus we see that there is none so wicked, but they have their flatterers to excuse the godly.

NOW when Mordecai perceived all that was done, Mordecai rent his clothes, and put on sackcloth, and ashes, and went out into the middes of the citie, and cried with a great crie, and a bitter.

2 And he came even before the kings gate, but he might not enter within the kings gate, being clothed with sackcloth.

3 And in every province, and place, whither the kings charge, and his commission came, there was great sorrow among the Jewes, and fasting, and weeping and mourning, and many lay in sackcloth and in ashes.

4 ¶ Then Esthers maids and her eunuches came and told it her: therefore the Queene was very heaue, and shee sent raiment to clothe Mordecai, and to take away his sackcloth from him, but he received it not.

5 Then called Esther Hatach one of the kings eunuches, whom he had appointed to serue her, and gave him a commandement to Mordecai, to know what it was, and why it was.

6 So Hatach went forth to Mordecai unto the street of the citie, which was before the kings gate.

7 And Mordecai told him of all that which had come unto him, and of the sum of the silver that Haman had promised to pay unto the kings treasures, because of the Jewes, for to destroy them.

8 Also he gave him the copie of the writing and commission, that was given at Shulhan, to destroy them, that he might shew it unto Esther, and declare it unto her, and to charge her, that she should go in to the king, and make petition and supplication before him for her people.

9 ¶ So when Hatach came, he told Esther the words of Mordecai.

10 Then Esther said unto Hatach, and commanded him to say unto Mordecai, 11 All the kings servants and the people of the kings provinces do know, that whosoever, man or woman, that cometh to the king into the inner court, which is not called, there is a law of his, that he shall die, except him to whom the king holdeth out the golden rod, that he may liue. Now I have not bene called to come unto the king these thirtie dayes.

12 And they certified Mordecai of Esthers words.

13 And Mordecai said, that they should answer Esther thus, Thinke not with thy self that thou shalt escape in the kings house, more then all the Jewes.

14 For if thou holdest thy peace at this time, comfort and deliverance shall appeare to the Jewes out of another place, but thou and thy fathers house shall perish: and who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdome for such a time?

15 Then Esther commanded to answer Mordecai,

16 Go, and assemble all the Jewes that are found in Shulhan, and fast ye for me, & eate not, nor drink in three dayes, day nor night. I also and my maides will fast likewise, and so wil I go in to the king, which is not according to the law: and if I perish, I perish.

17 So Mordecai went his way, and did according to all that Esther had commanded him.

1 Esther entereth in to the King, and biddeth him and Haman to a feast. 14 Haman prepareth a gallows for Mordecai.

AND on the third day, Esther put on her royall apparell, and stood in the court of the kings palace within, over against the kings house: and the king sat upon his royal throne in the kings palace over against the gate of the house.

2 And when the king saw Ester the queene standing in the court, shee found fauour in his sight: and the king held out the golden scepter that was in his hand: so Ester drew nere, and touched the top of the scepter.

3 Then said the king unto her, What wilt thou, Queene Esther? and what is thy request? it shall be even given thee to the halfe of the kingdome.

4 Then said Esther, If it please the king, let the king and Haman come this day unto the banquet, that I have prepared for him.

5 And the king said, Cause Haman to make hast, that he may doe as Esther hath said. So the king and Haman came to the banquet that Esther had prepared.

6 And the King said unto Esther at the kanket of wine, What is thy petition, that it may be given thee? and what is thy request? it shall even be performed unto the halfe of the kingdome.

7 Then answered Esther, and said, My petition, and my request is,

8 If I have found fauour in the sight of the king, and if it please the king to give me my petition, and to performe my request, let the King and Haman come to the banquet that I shall prepare for them, and I will do to morrow according to the Kings saying.

9 ¶ Then went Haman forth the same day joyfull, and with a glad heart. But when Haman saw Mordecai in the Kings gate, that he stood not up, nor moved for him, then was Haman full of indignation at Mordecai.

10 Nevertheless Haman refrained himselfe: and when he came home, he sent, and called for his friends and Zeresh his wife.

11 And Haman told them of the glory of his riches, & the multitude of his children, and all the things wherein the king had promoted him, and how that he had set him above the princes and servants of the king.

12 Haman said moreover, Yea, Esther the Queen did let no man come in with the king to the banquet that she had prepared, save me: and to morrow am I bidden unto her also with the king.

13 But all this doth nothing availe me, as long as I see Mordecai the Jew sitting at the kings gate.

14 Then said Zeresh his wife, and all his friends unto him, Let them make a tree of fifty cubites high, and to morrow speake thou unto the king, that Mordecai may be hanged thereon: then shalt thou go joyfully with the king unto the banquet. And the thing pleased Haman, and he caused to make the tree.

CHAP. VI.

1 The king turneth over the Chronicles, and findeth the fidelity of Mordecai, 10 and commandeth Haman to cause Mordecai to be had in honour.

THe same night the king slept not, and he commanded to bring the book of the Records, and the Chronicles: and they were read before the king.

2 Then it was found written that Mordecai had told of Bigthana, and Teresh two of the kings Eunuches, keepers of the doore, who sought to lay hands on the king Ahasueros.

3 Then the king said, What honour and dignitie hath been given to Mordecai for this? And the kings servants that ministered unto him, said, There is nothing done for him.

4 And the king said, Who is in the court? (Now Haman was come into the inner court of the kings house, that he might speake unto the king, to hang Mordecai on the tree that he had prepared for him)

5 And the kings servant said unto him, Behold, Haman standeth in the court. And the king said, Let him come in.

6 And when Haman came in, the king said unto him, What shall be done unto the man whom the king will honour? Then Haman thought in his heart, To whom would the king do honor more then to me?

7 And Haman answered the king, The man whom the king would honour,

8 Let them bring for him royall apparel, which the king useth to weare, & the horse that the king rideth upon, and that the crown royall may be set upon his head.

9 And let the raiment and the horse be delivered by the hand of one of the kings most noble princes, and let them apparell the man (whom the king will honour) and cause him to ride upon the horse thorow the street of the citie, and proclaim before him, Thus shall it be done unto the man, whom the king wil honour.

10 Then the king said to Haman, Make hast, take the raiment, and the horse, as thou hast said, and do so unto Mordecai the Jew, that sitteth at the kings gate: let nothing faile of all that thou hast spoken.

11 So Haman took the raiment and the horse, and arrayed Mordecai, and brought him on horseback thorow the street of the citie, and proclaimed before him, Thus shall it be done to the man whom the king will honour.

12 And Mordecai came again to the kings gate, but Haman hastened home mourning, and his head covered.

13 And Haman told Zeresh his wife, and all his friends, al that had befallen him. Then said his wisemen, and Zeresh his wife unto him, If Mordecai be of the seed of the Jews, before whom thou hast begun to fall, thou shalt not prevail against him, but shalt surely fall before him.

14 And while they were yet talking with him, came the kings Eunuches, and hastened to bring Haman unto the banquet that Ester had prepared.

SO the king and Haman came to banquet with the Queen Esther.

2 And the king said again unto Esther on the second day at the banquet of wine, What is thy petition, Queen Esther; that it may be given thee? & what is thy request? It shall be even performed unto the half of the kingdome.

3 And Esther the Queen answered, and said, If I have found favour in thy sight, O king, and if it please the king, let my life be given me at my petition, and my people at my request.

4 For we are sold, I, and my people, to be destroyed, to be slain, and to perish: but if we were sold for servants, and for handmaids, I would have held my tongue: although the adversary could not recompence the kings losse.

5 Then king Ahasueros answered, and said unto Queen Esther, Who is he? and where is he that presumeth to do thus?

6 And Esther said, The adversary and enemy is this wicked Haman. Then Haman was afraid before the king and the Queen.

7 And the king arose from the banquet of wine in his wrath, and went into the palace garden: but Haman stood up, to make request for his life to the Queen Ester: for he saw that there was a mischief prepared for him of the king.

8 And when the king came again out of 10 So they hanged Haman on the tree, that he had prepared for Mordecai: then was the kings wrath pacified.

CHAP. VIII.

1 After the death of Haman was Mordecai exalted. 14 Comfortable letters are sent unto the Jewes.

THe same day did king Ahasueros^h give the house of Haman the adversary of the Jewes unto the queen Ester: and Mordecai^a came before the king: for Ester told what he was^b unto her.

2 And the king took off his ring, which he had taken from Haman, and gave it unto Mordecai: and Ester set Mordecai over the house of Haman.

3 And Ester spake yet more before the king, and fell down at his feet weeping, and besought him that he would put away the wickednesse of Haman the Agagite, and his device that he had imagined against the Jewes.

4 And the king held out the golden scepter toward Ester. Then arose Ester, and stood before the king,

5 And said, If it please the king, and if I have found favour in his sight, and the thing be acceptable before the king, and I please him, let it be written, that the letters of the device of Haman the son of Hammedatha the Agagite may be called again, which he wrote to destroy the Jewes, that are in all the kings provinces.

6 For how can I suffer and see the evil, that shall come unto my people? or how can I suffer & see the destruction of my kinsred?

7 And the king Ahasueros^h, said unto the queen Ester, and to Mordecai the Jew, Behold, I have given Ester the house of Haman, whom they have hanged upon the tree, because he[†] laid hand upon the Jewes.

8 Write ye also for the Jewes, as it liketh you in the kings name, and seal it with the kings ring (for the writings written in the kings name, and sealed with the kings ring, may no^{*} man revoke.)

9 Then were the kings scribes called at the same time, even in the third moneth, that is the moneth^f Sivan, on the three and twentieth day thereof: and it was written, according to all as Mordecai commanded, unto the Jewes, and to the princes, and capitaines, and rulers of the provinces, which were from India even unto Ethiopia, an hundred and seven and twenty provinces, unto every province, according to the writing thereof, and to every people after their speech, and to the Jewes, according to their writing, and according to their language.

10 And he wrote in the king Ahasueros^h name, and sealed it with the kings ring: and he sent letters by posts on horseback, and that rode on beasts of price, as dromedaries, and † colts of mares.

11 Wherein the king granted the Jewes (in what cities soever they were) to gather themselves together, and to stand for^h their life, and to root out, to slay, and to destroy all the power of the people and of the province that vexed them, both children and women, and to spoile their goods:

12 Upon one day in all the provinces of king Ahasueros^h, even in the thirteenth day of the twelfth moneth, which is the monethⁱ Adar.

13 The copy of the writing was, how there should be a commandment given in all and every province, published among all the people, and that the Jewes should be ready against that day to^k avenge themselves on their enemies.

14 So the posts rode upon beasts of price, and dromedaries, and went forth with speed, to execute the kings commandment, and the decree was given at Shushan the palace.

15 And Mordecai went out from the king in royall apparell of blue, and white, and with a great crown of gold, and with a garment of fine linnen, and purple, and the city of Shushan rejoyced and was glad.

16 And unto the Jewes was come light, and^l joy, and gladnesse, and honour.

17 Also in all and every province, and in all and every citie and place, where the kings commandment and his decree came, there was joy and gladnesse to the Jewes, a feast and good day, and many of the people of the land^m became Jewes: for the feare of the Jewes fell upon them.

2 The Jewes gathered themselves together into their cities throughout all the provinces of the king Ahasueros, to lay hand on such as sought their hurt, and no man could withstand them: for the feare of them fell upon all people.

^b Did them honour, and shewed them friendship.

3 And all the rulers of the provinces, and the princes, and the captaines, and the officers of the king ^b exalted the Jewes: for the feare of Mordecai fell upon them.

4 For Mordecai was great in the kings house, and the report of him went through all the provinces: for this man Mordecai waxed greater and greater.

^c Which had conspired their death, by the permission of wicked Haman.

5 Thus the Jewes smote all their ^c enemies with strokes of the sword, and slaughter, and destruction, and did what they would unto those that hated them.

6 And in Shushan the palace, the Jewes slew and destroyed ^d five hundred men,

7 And Parshandatha, and Dalphon, and Alpatha,

8 And Poratha, and Adalia, and Aridatha,

9 And Parimashtra, and Arisai, and Aridai, and Vajezatha, ^e Whereby they declared that this was Gods just judgment upon the enemies of his Church, so much as they sought not their own gain, but to execute his vengeance.

10 The ten sons of Haman, the sonne of Hammedatha, the adversary of the Jews slew they: but they laid not their hand ^e on the spoyle.

11 On the same day came the number of those that were slain, unto the palace of Shushan before the king.

12 And the king said unto the queen Esther, The Jewes have slain in Shushan the palace, and destroyed five hundred men, and the ten sonnes of Haman: what have they done in the rest of the kings provinces? and what is thy petition, that it may be given thee? or what is thy request moreover, that it may be performed?

^f This the requireth not for desire of vengeance, but with zeale to see Gods iudgements executed against his enemies.

13 Then said Esther, If it please the king, let it be granted also to morrow to the Jewes that are in Shushan, to do according ^f unto this dayes decree, that they may hang upon the tree Hamans ten sons.

14 And the king charged to do so, and the decree was given at Shushan, and they hanged Hamans ten sons.

15 ¶ So the Jewes that were in Shushan, assembled themselves upon the fourteenth day of the moneth Adar, and slew three hundred men in Shushan, but on the spoyle they laid not their hand.

16 And the rest of the Jewes that were in the kings provinces assembled themselves, and stood for ^g their lives, and had rest from their enemies, and slew of them that ^h hated them, seventy and five thousand: but they laid not their hand on the spoyle.

^g Reade Chap. 8. 11.

^h Meaning, that they laid hands on none that were not the enemies of God.

ⁱ Meaning, in all places having in Shushan.

27 This they did on the ⁱ thirteenth day of the moneth Adar, and rested the fourteenth day thereof, and kept it a day of feasting and joy.

18 But the Jewes that were in Shushan assembled themselves on the thirteenth day, and on the fourteenth thereof, and they rested on the fifteenth of the same, and kept it a day of feasting and joy.

19 Therefore the Jewes of the villages that dwelt in the unwalled townes, ^k kept the fourteenth day of the moneth Adar: with joy and feasting, even a joyfull day, and every one sent presents unto his neighbour, ^k As the Jewes do even to this day, calling it in the Persians language Purim, that is, the day of lots.

20 ¶ And Mordecai wrote ^l these words, and sent letters unto all the Jewes that were through all the provinces of the king Ahasueros, both neere and farre, ^l The Jewes gather thereof, that Mordecai wrote this story, but it seemeth that he wrote but onely these letters, and decrees that follow.

21 Injoyning them that they should keep the fourteenth day of the moneth Adar, and the fifteenth day of the same every yeare.

22 According to the dayes wherein the Jewes rested from their enemies, and the moneth which was turned unto them from sorrow to joy, and from mourning into a joyfull day, to keep them the dayes of feasting, and joy, and ^m to send presents every man to his neighbour, and gifts to the poore.

^m He setteth before our eyes the use of this feast, which was for the remembrance of Gods deliverance, the maintenance of mutuall friendship, and relief of the poore.

23 And the Jewes promised to do as they had begun, and as Mordecai had written unto them.

24 Because Haman the sonne of Hammedatha the Agagite all the Jewes adversary, had imagined against the Jewes, to destroy them, and had ⁿ cast Pur (that is a lot) to consume and destroy them.

ⁿ Reade chap. 3. 7.

25 And when ^o he came before the king, he commanded by letters, Let his wicked ^p devise (which he imagined against the Jewes) turn upon his own head, and let them hang him and his sons on the tree.

^o That is, Esther.

^p These are the words of the kings commandment to destroy Hamans wicked enterprise.

26 Therefore they called these dayes Purim, by the name of Pur, and because of all the words of this letter, and of that which they had seen besides this, and of that which had come unto them.

27 The Jewes also ordained, and promised for them, and for their seed, and for all that joynd unto them, that they would not ^q faile to observe those ^q two dayes every yeare, according to their writing, and according to their season.

^q Or, transgress. ^q Meaning, the fourteenth and the fifteenth day of the moneth Adar.

28 And that these dayes should be remembered, membred, and kept throughout every generation, and every family, and every province, and every citie: even these dayes of Purim should not faile among the Jewes, and the memoriall of them should not perish from their seed.

† Or, strength, or efficacy.

29 And the queen Esther the daughter of Abihail, and Mordecai the Jew, wrote with all † authority (to confirm this letter of Purim the second time.)

30 And he sent letters unto all the Jewes, to the hundred and seven and twenty provinces of the kingdome of Ahashuerosh, with words of peace and trueth:

† Which were letters declaring unto them quietnes, and assurance, & putting them out of doubt & feare. † Ebr. soules. † That they would observe this feast with fasting and earnest prayer, which in Hebrew is signified by this word (their crie)

31 To confirme these dayes of Purim, according to their seasons; as Mordecai the Jew, and Esther the queen had appointed them, and as they had promised for themselves and for their seed, with fasting and prayer.

32 And the decree of Esther confirmed these words of Purim, and was written in the book.

CHAP. X.

The estimation and authority of Mordecai.

And the king Ahashuerosh laid a tribute upon the land, and upon the Isles of the Sea.

2 And all the acts of his power, and of his might, and the declaration of the dignity of Mordecai, wherewith the king magnified him, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Media and Persia?

3 For Mordecai the Jew was the second unto king Ahashuerosh, and great among the Jewes, and accepted among the multitude of his brethren, who procured the wealth of his people, and spake peaceably to all his seed.

• These three points are here set forth as commendable and necessary for him that is in authority: to have the favour of the people, to procure their wealth, and to be gentle, and loving toward them.

I O B.

THE ARGUMENT.

IN this history is set before our eyes the example of a singular patience. For this holy man Job was not onely extreamely afflicted in outward things, and in his body, but also in his minde and conscience, by the sharp temptations of his wife, and chief friends: which by their vehement words, and subtill disputations brought him almost to despair: for they set forth God as a severe Judge, and mortal enemy unto him, which had cast him off, therefore in vain he should seek unto him for succour. These friends came unto him under pretence of consolation, and yet they tormented him more then did all his affliction. Notwithstanding he did constantly resist them, and at length had good successe. In this story we have to marke, that Job maintained a good cause, but handleth it evill: againe, his adversaries have an evill matter, but they defend it craftily. For Job held that God did not alway punish men according to their sinnes, but that he had secret Judgements, whereof man knew not the cause, and therefore man could not reason against God therein, but he should be convicted. Moreover, he was assured that God had not rejected him, yet through his great torments and afflictions he bursteth forth into many inconveniences both of words and sentences, and sheweth himself as a desperate man in many things, and as one that would resist God: and this is his good cause which he doth not handle well. Again, the adversaries maintain with many goodly arguments, that God punisheth continually according to the trespassse, grounding upon Gods providence, his justice, and mans sinnes, yet their intention is evill: for they laboured to bring Job into despair, and so they maintain an evill cause. Ezekiel commendeth Job as a iust man, Ezek. 14. 14. and James setteth out his patience for an example, James 5. 11.

CHAP.

C H A P. I.

1 The holynesse, riches, and care of Job for his children. 10 Satan hath permission to tempt him. 13 He tempteth him by taking away his substance, and his children. 20 His faith and patience.

Here was a man in the land of Uz called Job, & this man was an upright and just man, one that feared God, and eschewed evil.

2 And he had seven sons, & three daughters.

3 His substance also was seven thousand sheep, and three thousand camels, and five hundred yoke of oxen, and five hundred asses, and his family was very great, so that this man was the greatest of all the men of the East.

4 And his sons went and banqueted in their houses, every one his day, and sent, and called their three sisters to eat and to drink with them.

5 And when the dayes of their banqueting were gone about, Job sent, and sanctified them, & rose up early in the morning, & offered burnt-offerings according to the number of them all. For Job thought, It may be that my sons have sinned, and blasphemed God in their hearts: thus did Job every day.

6 ¶ Now on a day when the children of God came and stood before the Lord, Satan came also among them.

7 Then the Lord said unto Satan, Whence comest thou? And Satan answered the Lord, saying, From compassing the earth to and fro, and from walking in it.

8 And the Lord said unto Satan, Hast thou not considered my servant Job, how none is like him in the earth? an upright and just man, one that feareth God, and escheweth evil?

9 Then Satan answered the Lord, and said, Doth Job feare God for nought?

10 Hast thou not made an hedge about him, and about his house, and about all that he hath on every side? thou hast blessed the work of his hands, and his substance is increased in the land.

11 But stretch out now thine hand, and touch all that he hath, to see if he will not blaspheme thee to thy face.

12 Then the Lord said unto Satan, Lo all that he hath, is in thine hand: onely upon himself shalt thou not stretch out thine hand. So Satan departed from the presence of the Lord.

13 ¶ And on a day when his sons and his daughters were eating, and drinking wine in their eldest brothers house,

14 There came a messenger unto Job, and said, the oxen were plowing, and the asses feeding in their places,

15 And the Shabeans came violently, and took them: yea, they have slain the servants with the edge of the sword: but I onely am escaped alone to tell thee.

16 And whiles he was yet speaking, another came, and said, The fire of God is fallen from the heaven, and hath burnt up the sheepe, and the servants, and devoured them: but I onely am escaped alone to tell thee.

17 And whiles he was yet speaking, another came, and said, The Chaldeans set out three bands, and fell upon the Camels, and have taken them, and have slain the servants with the edge of the sword: but I onely am escaped alone to tell thee.

18 And whiles he was yet speaking, came another, and said, Thy sons, and thy daughters were eating, and drinking wine in their eldest brothers house, 19 And behold, there came a great winde from beyond the wilderness, and smote the four corners of the house, which fell upon the children, and they are dead, and I onely am escaped alone to tell thee.

20 Then Job arose, and rent his garment, and shaved his head, and fell down upon the ground, and worshipped, 21 And said, Naked came I out of my mothers wombe, and naked shall I return thither: the Lord hath given, and the Lord hath taken it: blessed be the name of the Lord.

22 In all this did not Job sin, nor charge God foolishly.

q Meaning, the grace of God, which served Job as a rampart against all temptations.

r This signifieth, that Satan is not able to touch us, but it is God that must do it.

s Satan noteth the vice whereunto men are commonly subject: that is, to hide their rebellion, and to be content with God in the time of prosperity, which vice is disclosed in the time of their adversity.

t God giveth not Satan power over man to grudge him, but to declare y he hath no power over man, but that which God giveth him.

c He proveth Iobs integrity by this, that he ceased not to feare God when his plagues were grievously upon him.

d That is, when thou hadst nought against him, or when thou wast not able to bring thy purpose to passe.

e Heteby he meēt that a mans own skin is dearer unto him then any other mans.

f Meaning, his own person.

g Thus Satan can go no further in punishing, then God hath limited him.

h This soare was most vehement, wherewith also God plagued the Egyptians, Exod. 9. 9. and threatneth to punish the rebellious people. Deut. 28. 27. So that this temptation was most grievous: for if Job had measured Gods favour by the vehemencie of his disease, he might have thought that God had cast him off.

i As desitute of all other help and meanes, and wonderfully afflicted with the sorrow of his disease.

k Satan useth the same instrument against Iob, as he did against Adam.

l Meaning, what gainest thou to serve God, seeing he thus plagueth thee, as though he were thine enemy? This is the most grievous temptation of the faithfull, when their faith is assailed, and when Satan goeth about to perwade them, that they trust in God in vain.

m For death was appointed to the blasphemers, and so he meant, that he should be soon rid out of his pain.

n That is, to be patient in adversity, as we rejoyce when he sendeth prosperity, and so to acknowledge him to be both mercifull and iust.

o He forbiddeth his affections, that his tongue through impatience did not murmur against God.

p Which were men of authority, wise and learned, and as the Septuagints write, kings, and came to comfort him, but when they saw how he was visited, they conceived an evil opinion of him, as though he had been but an hypocrite, and so iustly plagued of God for his sins.

q This was also a ceremony, which they used in those Countreys, as the renting of their clothes in signe of sorrow, &c.

r And therefore thought that he would not have hearkned unto their counsell.

and iust man, one that feareth God, and cheweth evill? for yet he continueth in his uprightnesse, although thou movedst me against him, to destroy him without cause.

4 And Satan answered the Lord, and said, Skin for skin, and all that ever a man hath will he give for his life.

5 But stretch now out thine hand, and touch his bones and his flesh, to see if he will not blaspheme thee to thy face.

6 Then the Lord said unto Satan, Lo, he is in thine hand, but save his life.

7 ¶ So Satan departed from the presence of the Lord, and smote Job with sore boyles, from the sole of his foot unto his crown.

8 And he took a potsheard to scrape him, and he sat down among the ashes.

9 Then said his wife unto him, Dost thou continue yet in thine uprightnesse? Blaspheme God, and die.

10 But he said unto her, Thou speakest like a foolish woman: what shall we receive good at the hand of God, and not receive evill? in all this did not Job sin with his lips.

11 Now when Iobs three friends heard of all this evill that was come upon him, they came, every one from his own place, to wit, Eliphaz the Temanite, and Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite: for they were agreed together to come to lament with him, and to comfort him.

12 So when they lift up their eyes a far off, they knew him not: therefore they lift up their voices and wept, and every one of them rent his garment, and sprinkled dust upon their heads toward the heaven.

13 So they sat by him upon the ground seven dayes, and seven nights, and none spake a word unto him: for they saw that the grief was very great.

¶ And therefore thought that he would not have hearkned unto their counsell.

CHAP. III.

Iob complaineth and curseth the day of his birth. 1. He desireth to die, as though death were the end of all mans misery.

Afterward Job opened his mouth, and cursed his day.

2 And Job cried out, and said,

3 Let the day perish, wherein I was born, and the night when it was said, There is a man child conceived.

¶ Iob my 2. com. 13. 14. 15. 16. 17. 18. 19. 20. 21. 22. 23. 24. 25. 26. 27. 28. 29. 30. 31. 32. 33. 34. 35. 36. 37. 38. 39. 40. 41. 42. 43. 44. 45. 46. 47. 48. 49. 50. 51. 52. 53. 54. 55. 56. 57. 58. 59. 60. 61. 62. 63. 64. 65. 66. 67. 68. 69. 70. 71. 72. 73. 74. 75. 76. 77. 78. 79. 80. 81. 82. 83. 84. 85. 86. 87. 88. 89. 90. 91. 92. 93. 94. 95. 96. 97. 98. 99. 100.

4 Let that day be darknesse, let not God regard it from above, neither let the light shine upon it,

5 But let darknesse, and the shadow of death stain it: let the cloud remain upon it, and let them make it fearfull as a bitter day.

6 Let darknesse possesse that night, let it not be joynd unto the dayes of the yeare, nor let it come into the count of the moneths.

7 Yea, desolate be that night, and let no joy be in it.

8 Let them that curse the day (being ready to renew their mourning) curse it.

9 Let the starres of that twilight be dim through darknesse of it: let it look for light, but have none: neither let it see the dawning of the day,

10 Because it shut not up the doores of my mothers wombe, nor hid sorrow from mine eyes.

11 Why died I not in the birth? or why died I not, when I came out of the wombe?

12 Why did the knees prevent me? and why did I suck the breasts?

13 For should I now have lien and been quiet, I should have slept then, and been at rest,

14 With the kings and counsellors of the earth, which have builded themselves in desolate places:

15 Or with the Princes that had gold, and have filled their houses with silver.

16 Or why was I not hid, as an untimely birth, either as infants, which have not seen the light?

17 The wicked have there ceased from their tyranny, and there they that laboured valiantly, are at rest.

18 The prisoners rest together, and heare not the voyce of the oppressour.

19 There are small and great, and the servant is free from his master.

20 Wherefore is the light given to him that is in misery? and life unto them that have heavie hearts?

21 Which long for death, and if it come not, they would even search it more then treasures:

22 Which joy for gladnesse, and rejoyce, when they can finde the grave.

23 Why is the light given to the man whose way is hid, and whom God hath hedged in?

24 For my sighing cometh before I eat, and my roarings are powred out like the water.

25 For the thing I feared, is come upon me, and the thing that I was afraid of, is come unto me.

26 I had no peace, neither had I quietnesse, d Let it be put out of the number of dates, and let it not have the light of the sun to separate it from the night. e That is, most obscure darknesse, which maketh them afraid of death that are in it.

f Which curse the day of their birth, let them say that curse upon this night. g Let it be always night, and never see day. h Eke, the eyes of the mourning.

i This, and that which followeth declareth that when man giveth place to his passions, he is not able to stay, nor keep measure, but runneth headlong into all evill, except God call him back.

j The vehemencie of his affections made him to utter these words, as though death were the end of all miseries, and as if there were nothing after this, which he speaketh notwithstanding it were so, but the infirmities of his flesh caused him to burst out into this error of the wicked.

k He noteth the ambition of them, which for their pleasure, as it were change the order of nature, and build in most barren places, because they would hereby make their names immortal.

l That is, by death the cruelty of the tyrants hath ceased.

m Altho the faithful may have some kind of calmness and security in this world, which helpeth them after the judgement of the flesh. n He sheweth that the benefits of God are not comfortable, except the heart be full, and the conscience quiet.

o That teacheth how to come out of his miseries, because he dependeth not on Gods providence.

p In my prosperity I looked ever for a fall, as now come to passe.

ness, neither had I rest, yet trouble is come.

CHAP. V.

CHAP. IV.

Job is reprehended of impatiencie, 7 and uniuersity, 17 and of the presumption of his owne righteousness.

Then Eliphaz the Temanite answered, and said,

2 If we assay to commune with thee, wilt thou be grieved? but who can withhold himselfe from speaking?

3 Behold, thou hast taught many, and hast strengthened the weary hands.

4 Thy words have confirmed him that was falling, and thou hast strengthened the weake knees.

5 But now it is come upon thee, and thou art grieved: it toucheth thee, and thou art troubled.

6 Is not this thy feare, thy confidence, thy patience, and the uprightnesse of thy wayes?

7 Remember, I pray thee: who ever perished, being an innocent? or where were the upright destroyed?

8 As I have seene; they that plow iniquitie, and sow wickednesse, reape the same.

9 With the blast of God they perish, and with the breath of his nostrils are they consumed.

10 The roaring of the Lion, and the voice of the Lionesse, and the teeth of the Lions whelpes are broken.

11 The Lion perisheth for lack of prey, and the Lions whelps are scattered abroad.

12 But a thing was brought to me secretly, and mine care hath received a little thereof.

13 In the thoughts of the visions of the night, when sleepe falleth on men, 14 Feare came upon me, and dread, which made all my bones to tremble.

15 And the wind passed before me, and made the haire of my flesh to stand up.

16 Then stood one, and I knew not his face: an image was before mine eyes, and in silence heard I a voyce, saying,

17 Shall man be more just then God? or shall a man be more pure then his maker?

18 Behold, he found no stedfastnesse in his servants, and laid folly upon his Angels.

19 How much more in them that dwell in houses of clay, whose foundation is in the dust, which shall be destroyed before the moth?

20 They be destroyed from the morning unto the evening: they perish for ever, without regarde.

21 Doth not their dignitie goe away with them? doe they not die, and that without wisdom?

22 They see death continually before their eyes, and daily approaching toward them. No man for all this doeth consider it. That is, before that any of them were so wise as to thinke on death.

1.2 Eliphaz sheweth the difference betwene the children of God and the wicked. 3 The fall of the wicked. 9 Gods power who destroyeth the wicked, and deliuereth his.

Cal now, if any will answer thee, & to which of the Saints wilt thou turne?

2 Doubtlesse anger killeth the foolish, and enuie slayeth the idiot.

3 I have seene the foolish well rooted, & suddenly I cursed his habitation, saying,

4 His children shall be farre from salvation, and they shall be destroyed in the gate, and none shall deliver them.

5 The hungry shall eate up his harvest: yea, they shall take it from among the thorns, and the thirstie shall drink up their substance.

6 For miserie commeth not forth of the dust, neither doth affliction spring out of the earth:

7 But man is borne unto travell, as the sparkes flie upward.

8 But I would enquire at God, and turne my talke unto God:

9 Which doeth great things and unsearchable, and marvellous things without number.

10 He giveth raine upon the earth, and powreth water upon the streets, 11 And setteth up on high them that be low, that the sorrowfull may be exalted to salvation.

12 He scattereth the devises of the craftie: so that their hands cannot accomplish that which they doe enterprise.

13 He taketh the wife in their craftinesse, and the counsell of the wicked is made foolish.

14 They meete with darkenesse in the day time, and grope at noone day, as in the night.

15 But he saveth the poore from the sword, from their mouth, and from the hand of the violent man.

16 So that the poore hath hope, but iniquitie shall stop her mouth.

17 Behold, blessed is the man whom God correcteth: therefore refuse not thou the chastising of the Almighty.

18 For he maketh the wound, & bindeth it up: he smiteth, and his hands make whole.

19 He shall deliver thee in six troubles, & in the seventh the evill shall not touch thee.

20 In famine he shall deliver thee from death: and in battel from the power of the sword.

21 Thou shalt be hid from the scourge of the tongue, and thou shalt not be afraid of destruction when it commeth.

22 But thou shalt laugh at destruction and death, and shalt not be afraid of the beast of the earth.

and the last, which is here called the seventh. Wherewith the wicked haile in their troubles, thou shalt have occasion to reioyce.

a He will let Job to consider the example of all them that have lived, or doe live godly, whether any of them be like unto him, in raging against God as he doth.

b Murmuring against God in afflictions increaseth the paine, and uttereth mans folly.

c That is, the sinner that hath not the feare of God.

d I was not moved with his prosperitie, but knew that God had cured him and his.

e Though God sometime suffer the fathers to passe in this world, yet his iudgments will light upon their wicked children.

f By publike judgement they shall be condemned, and none shall pittie them.

g Though there be but two or three eares left in the hedges, yet these shall be taken from him.

h That is, the earth is not the cause of barrennesse and mans miserie, but his owne sinne.

i Which declareth that sinne is ever in our corrupt nature, for before sinne it was not subject to paine and affliction.

k If I suffered as thou dost, I would seeke unto God.

l He counsaileth Job to humble himselfe unto God, to whom all creatures are subject, and whose workes declare y^e ma is inexcusable, except he glorifie God in all his workes.

m He sheweth by particular examples what the workes of God are.

n In things plaine and evident, they shew themselves fooles in stead of wises men.

o This declareth y^e God punisheth the worldly wile, as he threatned Deut. 32.29.

p That is, he that humbleth himselfe before God.

q He compareth the slander of the wicked to sharpe swords.

r If the wicked be compelled to Gods workes to stop their mouths.

s Such more they that profane God.

t He will send trouble after trouble, that his children may not see one time, but continually travaile in him: but they shall have a comfortable issue, even in the greatest.

seeing this thine impatiencie.

b Thou hast comforted others in their afflictions, and canst not now comfort thy selfe. c This he concludeth that Job was but an hypocrite & had no true teare nor trust in God. d He concludeth that Job was reproved, seeing that God handled him so extremely, which is the argument that the carull men make against the children of God. e They that doe evil, cannot but receive evil. f He sheweth that God needeth no great preparation to destroy his enemies: for he can do it with the blast of his mouth. g Though men according to their sinne doe not punish tyrants, (whom for their cruelty he compareth to Lions, and their children to their whelpes) yet God both is able, and his justice will punish them. h A thing that I knew not before, was declared unto me by visions, that is, that whosoever thinketh himselfe just, shall be found a sinner. i When he cometh before God. j In these visions which God sheweth to his creatures, there is ever a certaine feare joynt, that the authoritie thereof might be had in greater reverence. k When all things were quiet, or when the feare was somewhat abated, as God appeared to Elijah. l King. 19. 12. m He proveth that if God did punish the innocent, the creature should be more just then the Creator, which were a blasphemie. n If God finde imperfection in his Angels, when they are not maintained by his power, how much more shall he lay folly to mans charge. when he would justifie himselfe against God? o That is, in this mortall body, subject to corruption. p No man for all this doeth consider it. q That is, before that any of them were so wise as to thinke on death.

^v When we are in Gods favour, all creatures shall serve us.

^x God shall so bleſſe thee, that thou ſhalt have occaſion to rejoyce in all things, and not to be offended.

^y Though the children of God have not always this promiſe performed, yet God doeth recompence it otherwiſe to their advantage.

^z We have learned theſe points by experience, & God puniſheth not the innocent, that man cannot compare in juſtice with him, that the hypocrites ſhall not long proſper, & that the affliction which man ſuſtaineth, cometh for his own ſin.

23 For the ſtones of the field ^v ſhall be in league with thee, and the beaſts of the field ſhall be at peace with thee.

24 And thou ſhalt know, that peace ſhall be in thy tabernacle, and thou ſhalt viſite thine habitation, and ſhalt not ^z ſin.

25 Thou ſhalt perceive alſo, that thy ſeed ſhall be great, and thy poſteritie as the graſſe of the earth.

26 Thou ſhalt go to thy grave in ^v a full age, as a ricke of corne commeth in due ſeaſon into the barne.

27 Lo, ^z thus have we enquired of it, and ſo it is: hear this, and know it for thy ſelf.

^v When we are in Gods favour, all creatures shall serve us.

CHAP. VI.

¹ Job answereth, that his pain is more grievous then his fault.

⁸ He wilheth death. ¹⁴ He complaineth of his friends.

BUt Job answered, and ſaid, Oh that my grief were wel weighed, and my miſeries were layed together in the ^a ballance!

3 For it would be now heavier then the ſand of the ſea: therefore my words are ^b ſwallowed up.

4 For the arrows of the Almighty are in me: the venime whereof doth drink up my ſpirit, & the terrors of God ^c fight againſt me.

5 Doeth the ^d wild aſſe bray when he hath graſſe? or loweth the oxe when he hath fodder?

6 That which is ^e unſavorie, ſhall it be eaten without ſalt? or is there any taſte in the white of an egge?

7 Such things as my ſoul reſuſed to touch, as were ſorrows, are my meat.

8 Oh that I might have my ^f deſire, and that God would grant me the thing that I long for!

9 That is, that God would deſtroy me: that he would let his hand go, & cut me off.

10 Then ſhould I yet have comfort, (though I burn with ſorrow, let him not ſpare) ^g becauſe I have not denied the words of the holy Orie.

11 What power have I that I ſhould endure? or what is mine ^h end, if I ſhould prolong my life?

12 Is my ſtrength the ſtrength of ſtones? or is my fleſh of braſſe?

13 Is it not ſo, that there is in me no ⁱ help? and that ^j ſtrength is taken from me?

14 He that is in miſerie ought to be comforted of his neighbour: but men have forſaken the fear of the Almighty.

15 My brethren have deceived me as a brook, and as the riſing of the rivers they paſſe away.

16 Which are blackiſh with ice, and wherein the ſnow is hid.

17 But in time they are dreyed up with heat and are conſumed: & when it is hote, they fail out of their places.

^a To know whether I complain without juſt cauſe.

^b My grief is ſo great, that I lack words to expreſſe it.

^c Which declarereth that he was not onely afflicted in body, but wounded in conſcience, which is the greateſt bartel that the faithfull can have.

^d Think you that I cry without cauſe, ſeeing the brute beaſts do not complain when they have what they would?

^e Can a mans taſte delight in that that hath no favour? meaning, that none take pleaſure in affliction, ſeeing they cannot away with things that are unſavorie to the mouth.

^f Herein he ſineth double, both in wiſhing thorough impatience to die, and alſo in deſiring of God a thing which was not agreeable to his will.

^g That is, let me die at once, before I come to diſtruſt in Gods promiſe through mine impatience.

^h He ſearcheth leaſt he ſhould be brought to inconveniences, if his ſorrows ſhould continue.

ⁱ Have I not ſought to help my ſelf as much as was poſſible?

^j Or, inſolence or law.

^k He comparerth thoſe friends which comfort us now in miſery, to a brook, which in ſummer, when we need waters is dry, in winter is hard froſen, and in the time of rain, when we have no need overfloweth with water.

18 Or they depart from their way and courſe, yea, they vaniſh and periſh.

19 They that go to Tema, ^l conſidered them, and they that go to Sheba, waited for them.

20 But they were confounded: when they hoped, they came thither, and were aſhamed.

21 Surely now are ye like ^m unto it: ye have ſeen my fear full plague, and are afraid.

22 Was it becauſe I ſaid, Bring unto me? or give a reward to me of your ⁿ ſubſtance?

23 And deliver me from the enemies hand, or ranſome me out of the hand of tyrants?

24 Teach me, and I wil hold my tongue: and cauſe me to underſtand, wherein I have erred.

25 How ^p ſtedfaſt are the words of righteouſneſſe? and what can any of you juſtly reprove?

26 Do ye imagine to reprove ^q words, that the talke of the afflicted ſhould be as the wind?

27 Ye make your wrath to fall upon the fatherleſſe, and dig a pit for your friend.

28 Now therefore be content to look upon me: for I will not lie before your face.

29 Turn, I pray you, let there be none iniquitie: return, I ſay, and ye ſhall ſee yet my righteouſneſſe in that behalf. Is there iniquitie in my tongue? doeth not my mouth feel ſorrows?

CHAP. VII.

¹ Job ſheweth the ſhortneſſe and miſery of mans life.

IS there not an appointed time to man upon earth? and are not his dayes as the dayes of an ^a hireling?

2 As a ſervant longeth for the ſhadow, and as a hireling looketh for the end of his worke:

3 So have I had as an inheritance the ^b months of vanity, and painfull nights have been appointed unto me.

4 If I laid me down, I ſaid, When ſhall I ariſe? and meaſuring the evening, I am even full with toſſing too and fro, unto the dawning of the day.

5 My fleſh is ^c clothed with worms and filthineſſe of the duſt: my ſkin is rent, and become horrible.

6 My dayes are ſwifter then ^d a weavers ſhuttle, and they are ſpent without hope.

7 Remember that my life is but a wind, and that mine eye ſhall not return to ſee pleaſure.

8 The eye that hath ſeen me, ſhall ſee me no more: thine eyes are upon me, and I ſhall be no longer.

9 ^e As the cloud vaniſheth and goeth away, ſo be that goeth downe to the grave, ſhall ^f come up no more.

^l They that piſſe thereby to go into the hote countries of Arabia, think to find water there to quench their thirſt, but they are deceived.

^m That is, like to this brook, which deceiveth them that thinke to have water there in their need, as I looked for conſolation at your hands.

ⁿ He toucheth the worſhipping, which yet no neceſſitie will give part of their goods, and much more theſe men, which would not give him comfortable words, oſhew me wherein I have erred, & I will confeſſe my fault.

^p He that hath a good conſcience doeth not thinke at the ſharpe words or reaſonings of others, except they be able to perſwade him by reaſon.

^q Do you cavil at my words becauſe I ſhould be thought to ſpeak ſoothly, which am now in miſery. Conſider whether I ſpeak as one that is diſturb'd by this impatience through very ſorrow, or as an hypocrite, as you condemne me.

^a Hath not an hired ſervant ſome reſt and eaſe? then in this my continuall torment I am worſe then in hireling.

^b My ſorrow hath continued from month to month, & I have looked for hope in vain.

^c This ſignifieth that his diſeaſe was rare and moſt horrible.

^d Thus he ſpeaketh in reſpect of the brevity of mans life, which paſſeth without hope of returning, in conſideration whereof he deſireth God to have compaſſion on him.

^e If thou behold me in thine eyes, I ſhall not be able to ſtand in thy preſence.

^f Shall no more enjoy this mortal life.

^g Seeing I can by no other meanes comfort my selfe, I will declare my griefe by words: and this he speake as one overcome with griefe of minde.

^h Am not I a poore wretch: what needest thou then to ly so much paine on me?

ⁱ So that I can have no rest night nor day.

^k He speaketh as one overcome with sorrow, and not of judgement, or of the examination of his faith. I seeing my terme of life is so short, let me have some rest and ease.

^m Seeing that man of himselfe is so vile, why doest thou give him that honour to contend against him? Iob useth all kindes of persuasion with God, that he might stay his hand.

ⁿ After all temptations, faith bursteth forth, and leadeth Iob to repentance: yet it was not in such perfection, that he could bridle himselfe from reasoning with God, because that he still tried his faith.

^o That is, I shall be dead.

^a He declareth that their words which would diminish any thing from the justice of God, is but as a puffe of wind that vanissheth away.

^b That is, hath rewarded them according to their iniquity, meaning that Iob ought to be warned by the example of his children, that he offend not God.

^c That is, if thou turne betime whiles God calleth thee to repentance: though the beginnings be not to please, as thou wouldest desire, yet in the end thou shalt have sufficient occasion to contrite thy selfe.

^d He willeth Iob to examine all antiquities, and he shall find it true which he heareth.

^e Meaning, that it is not enough to have the experience of our selves, but to be confirmed by the examples of them that went before us.

^f As a rush cannot grow without moisture, so cannot the hypocrite, because he hath no faith, which is moistened with Gods Spirit.

10 He shall returne no more to his house, neither shall his place know him any more.

11 Therefore I will not spare my mouth, but will speake in the trouble of my spirit, and muse in the bitternesse of my minde.

12 Am I a sea, ^h or a whalefish, that thou keepest me in ward?

13 When I say, My couch shall relieve me, and my bed shall bring comfort in my meditation, 14 Then fearest thou me ⁱ with dreames, and astonishest me with visions.

15 Therefore my soule ^k chuleth rather to be strangled, to die, then to be in my bones.

16 I abhorre it, I shall not live alway: I spare me then, for my dayes are but vanitie

17 What is man that thou doest magnifie him, and that thou settest thine heart upon him?

18 And doest visit him every morning, and triest him every moment?

19 How long will it be ere thou depart from me? thou wilt not let me alone whiles I may swallow my spittle.

20 I have ⁿ sinned, what shall I doe unto thee? O thou preserver of men, why hast thou set me as a marke against thee, so that I am a burden unto my selfe?

21 And why doest thou not pardon my trespasses, and take away mine iniquities? for now shall I sleepe in the dust, & if thou seekest me in the morning, I shall not be found.

CHAP. VIII.

¹ Bildad sheweth that Iob is a sinner, because God punisheth the wicked, and preserveth the good.

Then answered Bildad the Shuhite, and said,

2 How long wilt thou talke of these things? and how long shall the words of thy mouth ^a be as a mighty winde?

3 Doth God pervert judgement? or oeth the Almighty subvert justice?

4 If thy sonnes have sinned against him, and he hath sent them into the place of their iniquities,

5 Yet if thou ^c wilt early seeke unto God, and pray to the Almighty,

6 If thou be pure and upright, then surely hee will awake up unto thee, and he will make the habitation of thy righteousness prosperous.

7 And though thy beginning ^d be small, yet thy latter end shall greatly increase,

8 ^e Inquire therefore, I pray thee, of the former age, and prepare thy selfe to search of their fathers.

9 (For we are but ^f of yesterday, and are ignorant: for our dayes upon earth are but a shadow)

10 Shall not they teach thee and tell thee, and utter the words of their heart?

11 Can a rush ^g grow without myre? or can the grasse grow without water?

12 Though it were in greene, and not cut downe, yet shall it wither before any other herbe.

13 So are the pathes of all that forget God, and the hypocrites hope shall perish.

14 His confidence also shall be cut off, and his trust ^h shall be as the house of a spider.

15 He shall leane upon his house, but it shall not stand: he shall hold him fast by it, yet shall it not endure.

16 The ⁱ tree is green before the sun, and the branches spread over the garden thereof.

17 The roots thereof are wrapped about the fountaine, and are folded about the house of stones:

18 If any plucke it from his place, and it ^k deny, saying, I have not seene thee, 19 Behold, it will rejoyce ^l by this meanes, that it may grow in another mold.

20 Behold, God will not cast away an upright man, neither will he take the wicked by the hand, 21 Till he have filled thy mouth with ^m laughter, and thy lips with joy.

22 They that hate thee, shall be clothed with shame, & the dwelling of the wicked shall not remaine.

CHAP. IX.

¹ Iob declareth the mightie power of God, and that mans righteousness is nothing.

Then Job answered, and sayd, 2 I know verily that it is so: for how should man ^a compared unto God be justified?

3 If he would dispute with him, he could not answer him one thing of a ^b thousand.

4 He is wise in heart, and mighty in strength: who hath bene fierce against him, and hath prospered?

5 He removeth the mountaines, and they feelee not when he overthroweth them in his wrath.

6 He ^c removeth the earth out of her place, that the pillars thereof doe shake.

7 He commandeth the sunne, and it riseth not: he closeth up the starres, as under a signet.

8 He himselfe alone spreadeth out the heavens, & walketh upon the height of the Sea.

9 He maketh the starres ^d Arcturus, Orion, and Pleiades, and the climates of the South.

10 He doeth great things, & unsearchable: yea, marvellous things without number.

11 Lo, when he goeth ^e by me, I see him not: and when he passeth by, I perceive him not.

12 Behold, when he taketh a prey, ^f who can make him to restore it? who shall say unto him, What doest thou?

13 God ^g will not withdraw his anger, and the most mighty helps ^h do stoop under him.

^h Which is to day and to morrow swept away.
ⁱ He compareth the just to a tree, which although it be removed out of one place unto another, yet flourisheth: so the affliction of the godly runneth to their profit.
^k That is, so that there remaine nothing there to prove whether the tree had grown there or no.
^l To be planted in another place, wher it may grow at pleasure.

^m If thou be godly, he will give thee occasion to rejoyce, and if not, thine affliction shall increase.

a Iob here answereth to that point of Eliphaz and Bildads Oracion, touching the justice of God, and his innocencie, confessing God to be infinit in justice, & man to be nothing in respect b Of a thousand things which God could lay to his charge, man cannot answer him one.

c He declareth what is the infinitie of man, by the mightie and incomprehensible power that is in God, shewing what he could doe if he would see forth his power.

d These are the names of certaine starres; whereby he meaneth that all starres both known and unknown, are at his appointment.

e I am not able to comprehend his workes, which are common and daily before mine eyes; much lesse in those things, which are hid and secret.

f He sheweth that when God doeth execute his power he doeth it justly, forasmuch as none can controule him.

g God will not be appeased, for ought that man can say for himselfe, for his justification.

h That is, all the reasons that men can lay to approve their cause.

i How should I be able to answer him by eloquence wherby he noreth his friends, that albeit they were eloquent in talke, yet they felt not in heart that which they spake.

k Meaning, in his own opinion, signifying that man will sometime flatter himself to be righteous, which before God is abomination. l Whiles I am in my pangs, I cannot but burst forth into many inconveniences, although I know still that God is just. m I am not able to feel my sins so great, as I feel the weight of his plagues: and thus he speaketh to condemn his dullness, and to justify the God.

n After he hath accused his own weakness, he committeth to justify God & his power. o If I would stand in mine own defence, yet God hath just cause to condemne me, if he examine mine heart and conscience.

p If God punish according to his justice, he will destroy as well them that are counted perfect, as them that are wicked. q To wit, the wicked.

r This is spoken according to our apprehension, as though he would say, If God destroy but the wicked, as Chap. 3. why should he suffer the innocents to be so long tormented by them. That they cannot see to do justice.

s That can chew the contrary. v I think not to fall into these afflictions, but my sorrows bring me to these manifold infirmities, & my conscience condemneth me.

x Why doth not God destroy me at once, thus he speaketh according to the infirmities of the flesh. y Though I seem never so pure in mine own eyes, yet all is but corruption before God. z Whatsoever I would use to cover my filthiness with, shall disclose me so much more.

14 How much lesse shall I answer him? or how shall I find out my words with him?

15 For though I were just, yet could I not answer, but I would make supplication to my judge.

16 If I cry, and he answer me, yet would I not beleve, that he heard my voice.

17 For he destroyeth me with a tempest, and woundeth me without a cause.

18 He will not suffer me to take my breath, but filleth me with bitterness.

19 If we speake of strength, behold, he is strong: if we speake of judgment, who shall bring me in to plead?

20 If I would justify my self, mine own mouth shall condemn me: if I would be perfite, he shall judge me wicked.

21 Though I were perfite, yet I know not my soule; therefore abhorre I my life.

22 This is one point: therefore I said, He destroyed the perfite and the wicked.

23 If the scourge should suddenly slay, should God laugh at the punishment of the innocent?

24 The earth is given into the hand of the wicked: he covereth the faces of the judges thereof: if not, where is he? or who is he?

25 My dayes have been more swift then a post: they have fled, and have seen no good thing.

26 They are passed as with the most swift ships, & as the eagle that fleeth to the prey.

27 If I say, I will forget my complaint, I will cease from my wrath, and comfort me, 28 Then I am afraid of al my sorrows, knowing that thou wilt not judge me innocent.

29 If I be wicked, why labour I thus in vain?

30 If I wash my selfe with snow water, and purge my hands most clean, 31 Yet shalt thou plunge me in the pit, & mine own clothes shall make me filthy.

32 For he is not a man as I am, that I should answer him, if we come together to judgment.

33 Neither is there any umpire that might lay his hand upon us both.

34 Let him take his rod away from me, and let not his feare astonish me:

35 Then will I speak, and fear him not: but because I am not so, I hold me still.

36 Which might make an accord between God and me, speaking of impudencie, and yet confessing God to be just in punishing him.

b Signifying that Gods judgements keep him in awe.

CHAP. X.

1 Iob is wearie of his life, and fasteth out his fragilitie before God. 20 He desireth him to stay his hand. 22 A description of death.

MY soul is cut off though I live: I will leave my complaint upon my selfe, and will speak in the bitterness of my soul.

2 I will say unto God, Condemn me not: shew me, wherefore thou contendest with me.

3 He would not that God should proceed against him by his secret iustice, but by the ordinance means that he punisheth others.

3 Thinkest thou it good to oppress me, and to cast off the labour of thine hands, and to favour the counsell of the wicked?

4 Hast thou carnall eyes? or doest thou see as man seeth?

5 Are thy dayes as mans dayes? or thy years as the time of man,

6 That thou inquirest of mine iniquitie, and searchest out my sin?

7 Thou knowest that I cannot do wickedly: for none can deliver me out of thy hand.

8 Thine hands have made me, and fashioned me wholly round about, and wilt thou destroy me?

9 Remember, I pray thee, that thou hast made me as the clay, and wilt thou bring me into dust againe?

10 Hast thou not powred me out as milk? and turned me to cruds like cheefe?

11 Thou hast clothed me with skin and flesh, and joined me together with bones and sinews, 12 Thou hast given me life, and grace: and thy visitation hath preserved my spirit.

13 Though thou hast hid these things in thine hart, yet I know that it is so with thee.

14 If I have sinned, then thou wilt straitly look unto me, and wilt not hold me guiltlesse of mine iniquitie.

15 If I have done wickedly, woe unto me: If I have done righteously, I will not lift up mine head, being full of confusion, because I see mine affliction.

16 But let it increafe: hunt thou me as a lyon: return and shew thy selfe marvelous upon me.

17 Thou renewest thy plagues against me, and thou increapest thy wrath against me: changes & armies of sorrows are against me.

18 Wherefore then hast thou brought me out of the womb? Oh that I had perished, and that none eye had seen me!

19 And that I were as I had not been, but brought from the womb to the grave!

20 Are not my dayes few? let him cease and leave off from me, that I may take a little comfort,

21 Before I go & shall not return, even to the land of darknesse, and shadow of death:

22 Into a land, I say, dark as darknesse it self, and into the shadow of death, where is none order, but the light is there as darknesse.

prehend in that state the mercies of God and comfort of the resurrection. between light and darknesse, but where all is very darknesse it self.

CHAP. XI.

1 Iob is unjustly reprehended of Zophar. 7 God is incomprehensible. 14 He is mercifull to the repentant. 18 Their assurance that live godly.

Then answered Zophar the Naamathite, and said,

2 Should not the multitude of words be answered? or should a greater talker be justified?

3 Should men hold their peace at thy lies? and when thou mockest others, shall none make thee ashamed?

d Is it agreeable to thy iustice to doe me wrong? e Wilt thou be without compassion?

f Wilt thou gratifie the wicked and condemne me?

g Doest thou this of ignorance? h Art thou inconsistent and changeable, as the times, to day a friend, to morrow an enemy?

i By affliction thou keepst me as in a prison, and restrainest me from doing evil, neither can any set me at libertie.

k In these verses following he describeth the mercie of God in the wonderful creation of man: and thereon pronounceth that God should not be reviled against him.

l As brittle as a pot of clay.

m That is, reason & understanding, and many other gifts wherby man excelleth all earthly creatures.

n That is, thy fatherly care and providence, wherby thou preservest me, and without the which I should perish straightway.

o Though I be not fully able to comprehend these things, yet I must needs confesse that it is so.

p I will always walk in fear and humilitie, knowing that none is just before thee.

q Job being sore afflicted in this battell between flesh & the spirit, bursteth out into these afflictions, withing rather short dayes then long pain.

r That is, diversitie of diseases, and in great abundance: shewing that God hath infinite means to punish man.

s He wisheth that God would leave off his affliction, considering his great miserie, and the brevitye of his life.

t He speaketh thus in the person of a sinner, that is overcome w passions, & with feeling of Gods judgements, and therefore cannot apprehend in that state the mercies of God and comfort of the resurrection.

b He chargeth Job with this, that he should say that the thing which he spake was true, and that he was without sin in the sight of God. c Which is not to stand in justifying of thy self: he signifieth that man will never be overcome, while he reasoneth with another, & therefore God must break off the conversation, and stop mans mouth.

d That is, this perfection of God, and if man be not able to comprehend the height of the heaven, the depth of hell, the length of the earth, the breadth of the sea, which are but creatures: how can he attain to the perfection of the Creator.

e If God should run the frame of things, and establish a new order in nature, who could controul him. f That is, without understanding: so that whatsoever gifts he hath bestowed, come of God and not of nature.

g If thou repent, say unto him. h Renounce thine own evil works, and see that they offend not God. i He declareth what quietnesse of conscience & successe in all things such shall have, which turne to God by true repentance.

* Lev. 26. 5. 9.

k He sheweth that contrary things shall come unto them that do not repent.

a Because you feel not that which you speak, you think the whole standeth in words, and so flatter your selves as though none knew any thing, or could know but you.

* Prov. 14. 2. b He reproveth these his friends of two faults: the one that they thought they had better knowledge than indeed they had, & the other that in stead of true consolation, they did deride, & despise their friend in his adversitie.

c The which neighbour being a mocker and a wicked man, thinketh that no man is in Gods favour but he, because he hath all things that he desireth. d As the rich esteeme not a light, or torch that goeth out, so is he despised that fallath from prosperitie, to adversitie.

4 For thou hast said, ^b My doctrine is pure, and I am clean in thine eyes.

5 But, oh that God would speake and open his lips against thee!

6 That he might shew thee the secrets of wisdom, how thou hast ^cdeserved double, according to right: know therefore that God hath forgotten thee for thine iniquity.

7 Canst thou by searching find out God? canst thou find out the Almighty to his perfection?

8 The heavens are high, what canst thou do? ^dit is deeper then the hell, how canst thou know it?

9 The measure thereof is longer then the earth, and it is broader then the sea.

10 If he cut off, and shut up, or gather together, who can turn him back?

11 For he knoweth vain men, & seeth iniquity, and him that understandeth nothing.

12 Yet vain man would be wise, though man new born is like a wild asse ^ecolt, 13 If thou ^fprepare thine heart, and stretch out thine hands towards him:

14 If iniquity be in thine ^hhand, put it far away, and let no wickednesse dwell in thy Tabernacle.

15 Then truly shalt thou lift up thy face without spot, and shalt be stable, and shalt not fear.

16 But thou shalt forget thy misery, and remember it as waters that are past.

17 Thine age also shall appear more clear then the noon day: thou shalt shine and be as the morning.

18 And thou shalt be bold, because there is hope: and thou shalt dig pits, and shalt lie down safely.

19 * For when thou takest thy rest, none shall make thee afraid: yea, many shall make sure unto thee.

20 But the eyes ^kof the wicked shall fail, and their refuge shall perish, and their hope shall be sorrow of minde.

CHAP. XII.

^a Job accuseth his friends of ignorance. ^b He declareth the might, and power of God, ^c 17 and how he changeth the course of things.

Then Job answered, and said, ^d 2 Indeed because that yee are the people ^eonly, ^f a wisdom must die with you.

3 But I have understanding as well as you, and am not inferior unto you: yea, who knoweth not such things?

4 * I am ^b as one mocked of his neighbour, who calleth upon God, and he heareth him: the just and the upright is laughed to scorne.

5 ^d He that is ready to fall, ^e as a lamp despised in the opinion of the rich.

6 The tabernacles of robbers doe prosper, and they are in safety, that provoke neighbour being a mocker and a wicked man, thinketh that no man is in Gods favour but he, because he hath all things that he desireth. ^d As the rich esteeme not a light, or torch that goeth out, so is he despised that fallath from prosperitie, to adversitie.

God, ^f whom God hath enriched with his hand.

7 Aske now the beasts, ^g and they shall teach thee, and the fowles of the heaven, and they shall tell thee:

8 Or speak to the earth, and it shall shew thee: or the fishes of the sea, and they shall declare unto thee.

9 Who is ignorant of all these, but that the hand of the Lord hath made these?

10 In whose hand is the soul of every living thing, and the breath of all ^h mankind.

11 Doth not the ears ⁱ discern the words? and the mouth tasteth meat for it self?

12 Among the ^j ancient wisdom, and in the length of daies ^k understanding.

13 With him ^l wisdom and strength: he hath counsell and understanding.

14 Behold, he will break down, and it cannot be built: he shattereth a man up, and he cannot be loosed.

15 Behold, he withholdeth the waters, and they dry up: but when hee sendeth them out, they destroy the earth.

16 With him ^m strength and wisdom: he that is deceived, & that ⁿ deceiveth, are his.

17 He causeth the counsellers to goe as spoiled, and maketh the judges fooles.

18 ^o He looseth the collar of kings, and girdeth their loynes with a girdle.

19 He leadeth away the princes as a prey, and overthroweth the mighty.

20 He taketh away the speech from the ^p faithfull counsellers, and taketh away the judgement of the ancient.

21 He powreth contempt upon princes, & maketh the strength of the mighty weak.

22 He discovereth the deep places from their darknesse, and bringeth forth the shadow of death to light.

23 He ^q increaseth the people, and destroyeth them: he enlargeth the nations, and bringeth them in again.

24 He taketh away the hearts of them that are the chief over the people of the earth, and maketh them to wander in the wilderness out of the way.

25 They grope in the darke without light: and he maketh them to stagger like a drunken man.

CHAP. XIII.

^a Job compareth his knowledge with the experience of his friends.

^b The penitent shall be saved, and the hypocrite condemned.

^c He prayeth unto God that he would not handle him rigorously.

Loe, mine eye hath seen all ^d this: mine Leare hath heard, and understood it.

2 I know also as much as you know: I am not inferior unto you.

3 But I will speak to the Almighty, and I desire ^e a to dispute with God.

4 For indeed ye forge lies, and all you

God, because he was not able to understand the cause why he did thus.

^f Ebr. to whom God hath brought in with his hand. e He declareth to them that did dispute against him that their wisdom is common to all, and such as the very brute beasts do daily teach.

^g Or, He. f He exhorteth them to be wise in judging, and as well to know the right use why God hath given them ears, as he hath done a mouth.

^h Though men by age, and continuance of time attain to wisdom, yet it is not comparable to Gods wisdom, nor able to comprehend his judgments, wherein he answereth to that which was alledged. Chap. 9. 5.

ⁱ He sheweth that there is nothing done in this world without Gods will, and ordinance: for effect he should not be almighty. f He taketh wisdom from them. k He abasheth the honor of princes, & bringeth them into the subject of of others. l He causeth that their words have no credit, which is when he will punish them.

^m In this discourse of Gods wonderful works Job sheweth that whatsoever is done in this world both in the order and change of things, is by Gods will and appointment: where in he declareth that he thinketh well of God, and is as able to set forth his power in words, as they that reasoned against him, were.

ⁿ For although he knew that God had a justice, which was manifest in his ordinarie working: and another in his secret counsell, yet he would utter his affection to punish him.

b You doe not well apply your medicine to the disease.

are physicians of no value,

5 Oh, that you would hold your tongue, that it might be imputed to you for wildome!

6 Now heare my disputation, and give care to the arguments of my lips.

7 Will ye speake wickedly for Gods defence, and talke deceitfully for his cause?

8 Will ye accept his person? or will ye contend for God?

9 Is it well that he should seeke of you? will you make a lie for him, as one lieth for a man?

10 He will surely reprove you, if ye doe secretly accept any person.

11 Shal not his excellencie make you afraid? and his feare fall upon you?

12 Your memories may be compared unto ashes, & your bodies to bodies of clay

13 Hold your tongues in my presence, that I may speake, and let come upon what will.

14 Wherefore doe I take my flesh in my teeth, and put my soule in mine hand?

15 Lo, though he slay me, yet will I trust in him, and I will reprove my waies in his sight.

16 He shall be my salvation also: for the hypocrite shall not come before him.

17 Heare diligently my words, and marke my talke.

18 Behold now: if I prepare me to judgement, I know that I shal be justified.

19 Who is he that will pleade with me? for if I now hold my tongue, I die.

20 But doe not these two things unto me: then will I not hide my selfe from thee.

21 Withdraw thine hand from me, and let not thy feare make me afraid.

22 Then call thou, and I will answer: or let me speake, and answer thou me.

23 How many are mine iniquities and finnes? shew me my rebellion and my sinne.

24 Wherefore hidest thou thy face, and takest me for thine enemy?

25 Wilt thou breake a leafe driven to and fro? and wilt thou pursue the drie stubble?

26 For thou writest bitter things against me, and makest me to possesse the iniquities of my youth.

27 Thou puttest my feet also in the stocks, and lookest narrowly unto all my pathes, and makest the print thereof in the heels of my feet.

28 Such a one consumeth like a rotten thing, and as a garment that is motheaten.

CHAP. XIV.

1 Iob describeth the shortnesse and miserie of the life of man.

24 Hope sustineth the godly. 22 The condition of mans life.

Man that is borne of a woman, is of short continuance, & full of trouble.

2 He shooteth forth as a flowre, and is cut downe: he vanisheth also as a shadow, and continueth not.

3 And yet thou openest thine eyes upon such one, and causest me to enter into judgement with thee.

4 Who can bring a cleane thing out of filthinesse? there is not one.

5 Are not his daies determined? the number of his moneths are with thee: thou hast appointed his bounds which he cannot passe.

6 Turne from him that he may cease untill his desired day, as an hireling.

7 For there is hope of a tree, if it be cut downe, that it will yet sprout, and the branches thereof will not cease.

8 Though the root of it waxe old in the earth, and the stock thereof be dead in the ground,

9 Yet by the sent of water it will bud, and bring forth boughes like a plant.

10 But man is sicke, and dieth, and man perisheth, and where is he?

11 As the waters passe from the Sea, and as the flood decayeth and drieth up, 12 So man sleeperth and riseth not: for he shall not wake againe, nor be raised from his sleepe, till the heaven be no more.

13 Oh that thou wouldest hide me in the grave, and keepe me secret, untill thy wrath were past, and wouldest give me terme, and remember me!

14 If a man die, shall he live againe? All the dayes of mine appointed time will I waite, till my changing shall come.

15 Thou shalt call me, and I shall answer thee: thou lovest the worke of thine owne hands.

16 But now thou numberest my steps, and dost not delay my finnes.

17 Mine iniquitie is sealed up, as in a bag, and thou addest unto my wickednes.

18 And surely as the mountaine that falleth, commeth to nought, and the rocke that is removed from his place:

19 As the water breaketh the stones, when thou overflowest the things which grow in the dust of the earth, so thou destroyest the hope of man.

20 Thou prevailest alway against him, so that he passeth away: he changeth his face when thou castest him away.

21 And he knoweth not if his sonnes shal be honourable, neither shall he understand concerning them, whether they shal be of low degree.

22 But while his flesh is upon him, hee shal be sorrowfull, and while his soule is in him, it shal mourne.

c He condemneth their zeale, which had not knowledge, neither regarded they to comfort him, but alway grated on Gods iustice, as though it was not evidently seene in Iob, except they had undertaken the probation thereof.

d Your faith shall come to nothing, as though I should teare mine owne flesh, and put my life in danger: f Whereby he declares that he is not an hypocrite, as they charged him.

g That is cleared, and not cast off for my finnes, as you reason. h To prove that God doth thus punish me for my finnes. i If I defend not my cause, every man will condemne me. k He sheweth what these two things are.

l His pangs thus move him to reason with God, not denying but that he had sinned; but he desired to understand what were his great finnes that had deserved such rigour, wherein he offended, that he would know a cause of God why he did punish him.

m Thou punishest me now for the faults that I committed in my youth.

n Thou makest me thy prisoner, and dost to presse me, that I cannot stir hand nor foote, f Mr. Rogers.

o Taking occasion of his adversaries words, he describeth the state of mans life from his birth to his death.

* Chap. 8.9. Psal. 144.4.

b His meaning is, that seeing that man is so frail a creature, God should not handle him so extremely, wherein Iob describeth the wickednesse of the flesh, when it is not subject to the Spirit. * Psal. 91.7.

c Untill the time that thou hast appointed for him to die, which he desireth, as the hireling waiteth for the end of his labour to receive his wages.

d He speaketh not here, as though he had not hope of the immortality, but as a man in extreme paine, whose reason is overcome by affliction and sorrows.

e Hereby he declares that the fear of God judgment was the cause why he desired to die. f That is, release my paines, and take me to mercie.

g Meaning, unto the day of the resurrection, when he would be changed and renewed. h Though I be afflicted in this life, yet in the resurrection I shall feel thy mercies, and answer: when thou callest me. * Prov. 11.21.

i Thou layest them all together, and sufferest none of my sins unpunished. k He murmureth through the impatience of his flesh against God, as though he were a great severitie against him, as against the hard rockes, or waters that overflow, so that hereby all the occasion of his hope is taken away.

l Yet while he liveth, he shall be in paine and affliction.

CHAP. XV.

Eliphaz reprehendeth Job, because he ascribeth wisdom, and pueresse to himselfe. 18 Hee describeth the curse that falleth on the wicked, reckoning Job to be one of the number.

Then answered Eliphaz the Temanite, and said,

2 Shall a wife man speake words of the wind, and fill his belly with the East wind?

3 Shall he dispute with words not comely? or with talke that is not profitable?

4 Surely thou hast cast off feare, and restrainest prayer before God.

5 For thy mouth declareth thine iniquitie, seeing thou hast chosen the tongue of the crafty.

6 Thine own mouth condemneth thee, and not I, and thy lips testifie against thee.

7 Art thou the first man that was born? and wast thou made before the hills?

8 Hast thou heard the secret counsell of God, and doest thou restraints wisdom, to thee?

9 What knowest thou that wee know not, and understandest that is not in us?

10 With us are both ancient and very aged men, farre older then thy father.

11 Seeme the consolations of God final unto thee? is this thing strange unto thee?

12 Why doth thine heart take thee away, and what doth thine eyes meane?

13 That thou answerest to God at thy pleasure, and bringest such words out of thy mouth?

14 What is man, that he should be cleane? and he that is borne of woman that he should be just?

15 Behold he found no stedfastnesse in his Saints: yea the heavens are not cleane in his sight.

16 How much more is man abominable, and filthy, which drinketh iniquity like water?

17 I will tell thee, heare me, and I will declare that which I have seene:

18 Which wife men have told, as they have heard of their fathers, and have not kept it secret:

19 To whom alone the land was given and no stranger passed through them.

20 The wicked man is continually as one that travelleth with child, & the number of yeares is hid from the tyrant.

21 A sound of feare is in his eares, and in his prosperity the destroyer shall come upon him.

22 He beleeveth not to returne out of darknes: for he seeth the sword before him.

23 He wandreth too and fro for bread where he may: he knoweth that the day of darknesse is prepared at hand.

24 Affliction and anguish shall make him affraid: they shall prevaile against him as a king ready to the battell.

25 For he hath stretched out his hand against God, and made himselfe strong against the Almighty.

26 Therefore God shall runne upon him, even upon his necke, against the most thick part of his shield, 27 Because he hath covered his face with his fatnesse, and hath collops in his flanke.

28 Though he dwell in desolate cities, and in houses which no man inhabiteth, but are become heapes.

29 He shall not be rich, neither shall his substance continue, neither shall he prolong the perfection thereof in the earth.

30 He shall never depart out of darknesse: the flame shall drie up his branches, and he shall go away with the breath of his mouth.

31 He beleeveth not that he erreth in vanity: therefore vanity shall be his change.

32 His branch shall not be greene, but shall be cut off before his day.

33 God shall destroy him as the vine her fowre grape, and shall cast him off, as the Olive doth her flower.

34 For the congregation of the hypocrite shall be desolate, and fire shall devour the houses of bribes.

35 For they conceive mischief, and bring forth vanity, and their belly hath prepared deceit.

CHAP. XVI.

Job moved by the importunacie of his friends, 7 Counteth in what extremitie he is, 19 And taketh God to witnesse of his innocencie.

But Job answered, and said,

2 I have oftentimes heard such things: miserable comforters are ye all.

3 Shall there be non end of words of wind? or what maketh thee bold so to answer?

4 I could also speake as ye doe: (but would God your soules were in my soules stead) I could keepe you company in speaking, and could shake mine head at you.

5 But I would strengthen you with my mouth, and the comfort of my lips should assuage your sorrow.

6 Though I speake, my sorrow cannot be asswaged: though I cease, what release have I?

7 But now, he maketh me weary: O God, thou hast made all my Congregation desolate,

8 And hast made me full of wrinkles, which is a witness thereof, and my leanness riseth up in me, testifying the same in my face.

9 His wrath hath torne me, and he hateth me, and gnasheth upon me with his teeth: mine enemy hath sharpened his eyes against me.

a That is, vaine words & without consolation:

b Meaning, with matters that are of note importance, which are forgotten as soone as they are uttered, as the East wind drieth up the moisture of the earth as it falleth.

c He chargeth Job as though his talke caused men to cast off the feare of God and prayer.

d Thou speakest as doe the mortall men and contentment of God.

e That is, the most ancient, and so by reason the most wise.

f Art thou ouerly wise? g He accuseth Jobs pride and ingratitude, that will not be comforted by God, nor by their counsell.

h Why doest thou stand in thine owne conceits?

i Eke in thy spirit.

i His purpose is to prove that Job as an unjust man and an hypocrite is punished for his sin, like as he did before Chap. 4. 18 k Which hath a desire to sinne, as he that is thirsty to drinke.

l Who by their wisdom so governed, that no stranger invaded them, and so the land seemed to be given to them alone. m The cruel man is ever in danger of death and never quiet in conscience.

n Out of that misery whereinto he once falleth, o God doth not onely impoverish the wicked oftentimes: but even in their prosperitie he punisheth them with a greedinesse evermore to gather: which is as a beggerie.

p He sheweth what weapons God useth against the wicked, which lift up themselves against him, so wit, terror of conscience, and outward afflictions.

q That is, he was so puffed up with great prosperitie and abundance of all things, that he forgate God: noting, that Job in his felicitie, had not the true feare of God.

r Though he build and repaire ruinous places to get him fame, yet God shall bring off to nought, and turne his great prosperitie into extreme misery.

s Meaning, that his sumptuous buildings should never come to perfection.

t He standeth so in his own conceit, that he will give no place to good counsell, therefore his owne pride shall bring him to destruction.

u As one that gathereth grapes before they be ripe. x Which were built or maintained by pawning and bribery.

y And therefore all their vaine devices shall turne to their owne destruction.

a Which serves for vaine ostentation, and for no true comfort.

b For Eliphaz did reply against Jobs answer.

c I would you felt that which I doe.

d That is, mocke at your miserie, as you doe at mine.

e If this were in my power, yet would I comfort you, and not doe as ye do to me.

f If they would say, Why doest thou not then.

g Meaning, God.

h That is, destroyed most of my families.

i In token of sorrow and grief.

k That is, God by his wrath, and in this diversitie of words and high stile, he expresseth how grievous the hand of God was upon him.

1 That is, hath handed me most contemptuously:
for so smiting on the cheek, signified. 1 King. 22. 24

m They have led me whither they would.

n His manifold afflictions.

o I am wounded to the heart.

p Meaning, his glory was brought low.

q Signifying, that he is not able to comprehend the cause of this his grievous punishment.

r That is, unfained, and without hypocrisie.

s Let my sinne be known, if I be such a sinner as mine adversaries accuse me, and let me find no favor.

t Though man
condemne me, yet
God is witness of my cause.

v I've painted words in stead of true consolation.

x Thus by his great torments, he is carried away, and braeth out into passions, and speakes unadvisedly, as though God should in-treat man more gently, seeing he hath but a short time here to live.

1 In stead of comfort, being now at death's doore, he hath but them that mocked at him, and discouraged him.

b I see still that they seek but to wexe me.

c He reasoneth with God as a man beside himself, to the intent that his cause might be brought to light.

d And answer for thee.

e That these mine afflictions are thy just judgements, though man know not the cause.

f He that flatter-eth a man, and only judgeth him happy in his prosperity, shall judge himself only,
but in his posterity he shall be punished.

g God hath made all the world to speak of me, because of mine afflictions.

h That is, as a continuall sound in the eares.

i To wit, when they see the godly punished;
but in the end they shall come to understanding, and know what shall be the reward of the hypocrite.

10 They have opened their mouths upon me, and smitten me on the cheek in reproach: they gather themselves together against me.

11 God hath delivered me to the unjust, and hath made me to turn out of the way
by the hands of the wicked.

12 I was in wealth, but he hath brought me to nought: he hath taken me by the neck, and beaten me, and set me as a marke for himself.

13 His archers compass me round about: he cutteth my reins, & doth not spare, and powreth my gall upon the ground.

14 He hath broken me with one breaking upon another, and runneth upon me like a Giant.

15 I have sowed a sackcloth upon my skin, and have abased mine home unto the dust.

16 My face is withered with weeping,
& the shadow of death upon mine eyes.

17 Though there be no wickednesse in mine hands, and my prayer be pure.

18 O earth, cover not thou my blood, and let my crying find no place.

19 For loe, now my witness is in the heaven, and my record on high.

20 My friends speak eloquently against me: but mine eye powreth out teares unto God.

21 Oh that a man might plead with God, as man with his neighbour.

22 For the years accounted come, and I shall go the way, whence I shall not return.

CHAP. XVII.

1 Job saith that he consumeth away, and yet doth patiently abide
it. 10 He exhorteth his friends to repentance, 13 shewing that he looketh but for death.

MY breath is corrupt: my dayes are cut off, and the grave is ready for me.

2 There are none but mockers with me, and mine eye continueth in their bitterneffe.

3 Lay down now and put me in sure-tie for thee: who is he, that will touch mine hand?

4 For thou hast hid their heart from understanding: therefore shalt thou not set them up on high.

5 For the eyes of his children shall fail, that speaketh flattery to his friends.

6 He hath also made me a byword of the people, and I am as a Tabret before them.

7 Mine eye therefore is dimme for grief, and all my strength like a shadow:

8 The righteous shall be astonished at this, and the innocent shall be moved against the hypocrite

9 But the righteous will hold his way, and he whose hands are pure, shall increase his strength.

10 All you therefore turne you, and come now, and I shall not find one wise among you.

11 My dayes are past, mine enter prises are broken, and the thoughts of mine heart.

12 They have changed the night for the day, and the light that approached, for the darkenesse.

13 Though I hope, yet the grave shall be mine house, and I shall make my bed in the darke.

14 I shall say to corruption, Thou art my father, and to the worm, Thou art my mother and my sister.

15 Where is then now mine hope? or who shall consider the thing that I hoped for?

16 They shall go down into the bottom of the pit: surely it shall lie together in the dust.

CHAP. XVIII.

8 Bildad rehearseth the pains of the unfaithefull and wicked.

Then answered Bildad the Shuhite, and said,

2 When will ye make an end of your words? cause us to understand, and then we will speak.

3 Wherefore are we counted as beasts, and are vile in your sight?

4 Thou art as one that teareth his soul in his anger. Shall the earth be forsaken for thy sake? or the rock removed out of his place?

5 Yea, the light of the wicked shall be quenched, and the spark of his fire shall not shine.

6 The light shall be dark in his dwelling, and his candle shall be put out with him.

7 The steps of his strength shall be restrained, and his own counsell shall cast him down.

8 For he is taken in the net by his feet, and he walketh upon the snares.

9 The grenne shall take him by the heel, and the thief shall come upon him.

10 A snare is laid for him in the ground, and a trap for him in the way.

11 Fearfulnesse shall make him afraid on every side, and shall drive him to his feet.

12 His strength shall be as famine: and destruction shall be ready at his side.

13 It shall devour the inner parts of his skin, and the first born of death shall devour his strength.

14 His hope shall be rooted out of his dwelling, and shall cause him to go to the King of fear.

15 Fear shall dwell in his house (because it is not his) and brimstone shall be scattered upon his habitation.

things perish, let life everlasting.

wise then he doth with all men.

e When the wigged is in his prosperity, then God
changeth his state: and this is his ordinarie working for these sinners.

f Meaning, that the wicked are in continall danger.

g That which should nourish him, shall be consumed by famine.
h That is, some strong and violent death shall consume his strength, or as the Hebrew word signifieth, his members or parts.

i That is, with most great fear.
k Meaning, not truly come by.
l Though all the world would favor him yet God would destroy him and his.

16 His roots shall be dried up beneath, and above shall his branch be cut down.

17 His remembrance shall perish from the earth, and he shall have no name in the street.

18 They shall drive him out of the light unto darknes, and chase him out of the world.

19 He shall neither have son nor nephew among his people, nor any posteritie in his dwellings.

20 The posteritie shall be astonied at his day, and fear shall come upon the ancient.

21 Surely such are the habitations of the wicked, and this is the place of him that knoweth not God.

CHAP. XIX.

2 Job reproveth his friends, 15 And reciteth his miseries and grievous pains. 25 He assureth himself of the generall resurrection.

BUt Job answered, and said, 2 How long will ye vex me with words, and torment me with words?

3 Ye have now ten times reproched me, and are not ashamed: ye are impudent toward me.

4 And though I had indeed erred, mine error remaineth with me.

5 But indeed if ye wil advance your selves against me, and rebuk me for my reproach,

6 Know now, that God hath overthrowen me, and hath compassed me with his net.

7 Behold, I crie out of violence, but I have none answer: I crie, but there is no judgement.

8 He hath hedged up my way that I cannot passe, and he hath set darknesse in my pathes.

9 He hath spoiled me of mine honour, and taken the crown away from mine head.

10 He hath destroyed me on every side, and I am gone: and he hath removed mine hope like a tree.

11 And he hath kindled his wrath against me, and counteth me as one of his enemies.

12 His armies came together, and made their way upon me, and camped about my tabernacle.

13 He hath removed my brethren farre from me, and also mine acquaintance were strangers unto me.

14 My neighbours have forsaken me, and my familiars have forgotten me.

15 They that dwell in mine house, and my maids took me for a stranger: for I was a stranger in their sight.

16 I called my servant, but he would not answer, though I prayed him with my mouth.

17 My breath was strange unto my wife, though I prayed her for the childrens sake of mine own body.

18 The wicked also despised me, and when I rose, they spake against me.

19 All my secret friends abhorred me, and they whom I loved, are turned against me.

20 My bone cleaveth to my kin, and to my flesh, and I have escaped with the skin of my teeth.

21 Have pitie upon me: have pitie upon me, (O ye my friends) for the hand of God hath touched me.

22 Why do ye persecute me, as God, and are not satisfied with my flesh?

23 Oh that my words were now written! oh that they were written even in a book, 24 And graven with an iron pen in lead, or in stone for ever!

25 For I am sure, that my redeemer liveth, and he shall stand the last on the earth.

26 And though after my skin worms destroy this body, yet shall I see God in my flesh.

27 Whom I my self shall see, and mine eyes shall behold, and none other for me, though my reines are consumed within me.

28 But ye said, Why is he persecuted? And there was a deep matter in me.

29 Be ye afraid of the sword: for the sword will be avenged of wickednesse, that ye may know that there is a judgement.

that he was but persecuted of God for his finnes, yet he declareth that there was a deeper consideration: to wit, the trial of his faith and patience, and so to be an example for others. t God will be revenged of this hastie judgement, whereby you condemne me.

CHAP. XX.

1 Zophar sheweth, that the wicked and the covetous shall have a short end. 22 though for a time they flourish.

THen answered Zophar the Naamathite, and said,

2 Doubtlesse my thoughts cause me to answer, and therefore I make haste.

3 I have heard the correction of my reproach: therefore the spirit of mine understanding causeth me to answer.

4 Knowest thou not this of old? and since God placed man upon the earth,

5 That the rejoycing of the wicked is short, and that the joy of hypocrites is but a moment?

6 Though his excellencie mount up to the heaven, and his head reach unto the clouds,

7 Yet shall he perish for ever, like his dung, and they which have seen him shall say, where is he?

8 He shall flee away as a dream, and they shall not find him, and shall passe away as a vision of the night.

9 So that the eye which hath seen him, shall do so no more, and his place shall see him no more.

10 His children shall flatter the poor, and his hand shall restore his substance.

m He shall fall from prosperitie to adversitie.

n When they shall see what came unto him.

a That is, many times, as Nehe. 4. 12.

b That is, I my self shall be punished for it, or you have not yet comforted it. c He breatheth out again into his passions, and declareth still that his affliction cometh of God, though he be not able to feel the cause in himself.

d Meaning, out of his afflictions.

e Meaning his children, & whatsoever was dear unto him in this world.

f Which is plucked up, and hath no more hope to grow.

g His manifold afflictions.

h Mine household servants: by all these losses Job sheweth that touching the flesh he had great occasion to be moved.

i Which were hers and mine. k Besides these great losses and most cruell unkindnes, he was touched in his own person as followeth.

l All my flesh was consumed. m Seeing I have these just causes to complaine, condemne me not as an hypocrite, specially ye which should comfort me.

n Is it not enough that God doeth punish me, except you by reproches increase my sorrow.

o To see my bodie punished, except ye trouble my mind.

p He protesteth, that notwithstanding his sore passions, his religion is perfect, and that he is not a blasphemer; as they judged him.

q I do not justify my self before the world, but I know that I shall come before the great Judge, who shall be my deliverer and Saviour.

r Heerein Job declareth plainly that he had a full hope, that both the soul and body should enjoy the presence of God in the last resurrection.

s Though his friends thought that he was but persecuted of God for his finnes, yet he declareth that there was a deeper consideration: to wit, the trial of his faith and patience, and so to be an example for others.

t God will be revenged of this hastie judgement, whereby you condemne me.

ai To see my bodie punished, except ye trouble my mind.

aj He protesteth, that notwithstanding his sore passions, his religion is perfect, and that he is not a blasphemer; as they judged him.

^e Meaning that he shall carry nothing away with him, but his sin. f As poison that is sweet in mouth bringeth destruction when it commeth into the body: so all vice at the first is pleasant, but afterward God turneth it to destruction.

11 His bones are full of the sin of his youth, and it shall lie downe with him in the dust.

12 When wickednesse^f was sweet in his mouth, and he hid it under his tongue,

13 And favoured it, and would not forsake it, but kept it close in his mouth, 14 Then his meate in his bowels was turned: the gall of Aspes was in the mids of him.

15 He hath devoured substance, and he shall vomit it: for God shall draw it out of his belly.

16 He shall sucke the gall of Aspes, and the vipers tongue shall slay him.

17 He shall not see the rivers, nor the foulds and streames of hony and butter.

18 He shall restore the labour, and shall devoure no more: even according to the substance shall be his exchange, and he shall enjoy it no more.

19 For he hath undone many: he hath forsaken the poore, and hath spoiled houses which he builded not.

20 Surely he shall feelee no quietnesse in his body, neither shall he reserve of that which he desireth.

21 There shall none of his meate be left: therefore none shall hope for his goods.

22 When he shall be filled with his abundance, he shall be in paine, and the hand of all the wicked shall assaile him, 23 He shall be about to fill his belly, but God shall send upon him his fierce wrath, and shall cause to raine upon him, even upon his meate.

24 He shall flee from the iron weapons, and the bow of steel shall strike him thorow.

25 The arrow is drawn out, and cometh forth of the body, and shineth of his gall, so feare cometh upon him.

26 All darkenesse shall be hid in his secret places: the fire that is not blowen, shall devoure him, and that which remaineth in his Tabernacle shall be destroyed.

27 The heaven shall declare his wickednes, and the earth shall rise up against him.

28 The increase of his house shall go away: it shall flow away in the day of his wrath.

29 This is the portion of the wicked man from God, and the heritage that he shall have of God, for his words.

CHAP. XXI.

^g Job declareth how the prosperitie of the wicked maketh them proud. 15. In somuch that they blaspheme God. 16 Their destruction is at hand. 23 None ought to be judged wicked for affliction, neither good for prosperitie.

BUt Job answered, and said,

2 Heare diligently my words, and this shall be instead of your consolations.

3 Suffer me, that I may speake, and when I have spoken, mocke on.

4 Doe I direct my talke to man? If it were so, how should not my spirit be troubled?

5 Marke me, and be abashed, and lay your hand upon your mouth.

6 Even when I remember, I am afraid, and feare taketh hold on my flesh,

7 Wherefore doe the wicked live, and waxe old, and grow in wealth?

8 Their seed is established in their sight with them, and their generation before their eyes.

9 Their houses are peaceable without feare, and the rod of God is not upon them.

10 Their bullock gendreth, and faileth not: their cow calveth, and casteth not her calfe.

11 They send forth their children like sheep, and their sonnes dance.

12 They take the tabret and harpe, and rejoyce in the sound of the organs.

13 They spend their dayes in wealth, and suddenly they goe downe to the grave.

14 They say also unto God, Depart from us: for we desire not the knowledge of thy wayes:

15 Who is the Almighty, that we should serve him? and what profit should we have, if we should pray unto him?

16 Loe, their wealth is not in their hand: therefore let the counsell of the wicked be farre from me.

17 How oft shall the candle of the wicked be put out? and their destruction come upon them? he will divide their lives in his wrath.

18 They shall be as stubble before the wind, and as chaffe that the storme carrieth away.

19 God will lay up the sorrow of the father for his children: when he rewardeth him, he shall know it.

20 His eyes shall see his destruction, and he shall drinke of the wrath of the Almighty.

21 For what pleasure hath he in his house after him, when the number of his moneths is cut off?

22 Shall any teach God knowledge, who judgeth the highest things?

23 One dieth in his full strength, being in all ease and prosperitie.

24 His breasts are full of milke, and his bones runne full of marrow.

25 And another dieth in the bitternesse of his soule, and never eateth with pleasure.

26 They shall sleepe both in the dust, and the wormes shall cover them.

27 Behold, I know your thoughts, and the enterprises, wherewith ye doe me wrong.

28 For ye say, Where is the princes house? and where is the Tabernacle of the wicked dwelling?

26 May ye not aske them that goe by b As though he would say, I doe not talke with man, but with God, who will not soe were me, and therefore my mind must needs be troubled.

c He chargeth them as though they were not able to comprehend this his feeling of Gods judgement, and exhorteth them therefore to silence.

d Job proveth against his adversaries, that God punisheth not straightwayes the wicked, but oftentimes giveth them long life and prosperitie: so that we must not judge God just or unjust by the things that appeare to our eyes.

e They have hope of children, lusty and healthful, and in these points he answereth to that, which Zophar alleged before.

f Not being troubled with long sicknesse.

g They desire nothing more then to be exempt from all subjection that they should beare to God: this Job the weath his adversaries, that if they reason only by that which is seen by common experience, the wicked that hate God, are better dealt withal, then they that love him: it is not their own, but God only lendeth it unto them.

i God keepe me from their prosperitie.

k When God recompenseth this wickednesse, he shall know that his prosperitie was but vanitie.

l Who sendeth to the wicked prosperitie, and punisheth the godly.

30 But the wicked is kept unto the day of destruction, and they shall be brought forth to the day of wrath.

31 Who shall declare his way to his face? and who shall reward him for that he hath done?

32 Yet shall he be brought to the grave, and remain in the heap.

33 The slimie valley shall be sweet unto him, and every man shall draw after him, as before him there were innumerable.

34 How then comfort ye me in vain, seeing in your answeres there remain but lies?

CHAP. XXII.

2 Eliphaz affirmeth that Job is punished for his sins. 6 He accuseth him of unmercifulnesse. 13 And that he denied Gods providence. 21 He exhorteth him to repentance.

Then Eliphaz the Temanite answered, and said,

2 May a man be profitable unto God, as he that is wise may be profitable to himself?

3 Is it any thing unto the Almighty, that thou art righteous? or is it profitable to him, that thou makest thy wayes upright?

4 Is it for fear of thee that he will accuse thee? or go with thee into judgement?

5 Is not thy wickednesse great, and thine iniquities innumerable?

6 For thou hast taken the pledge from thy brother for nought, and spoiled the clothes of the naked.

7 To such as were wearie, thou hast not given water to drink, and hast withdrawn bread from the hungry.

8 But the mighty man had the earth, and he that was in authoritie, dwelt in it.

9 Thou hast cast out widows empty, and the armes of the fatherlesse were broken.

10 Therefore snares are round about thee, and fear shall suddenly trouble thee:

11 Or darkenesse that thou shouldest not see, and abundance of waters shall cover thee.

12 Is not God on high in the heaven? and behold the height of the stars, how high they are.

13 But thou sayst, How should God know? can he judge through the darke cloud?

14 The clouds hide him that he cannot see, and he walketh in the circle of heaven.

15 Hast thou marked the way of the world, wherein wicked men have walked?

16 Which were cut down before the time, whose foundation was as a river that overflowed:

17 Which said unto God, Depart from us, and asked what the Almighty could do for them.

18 Yet he filled their houses with good things: but let the counsell of the wicked be far from me.

19 The righteous shall see them, and shall rejoyce, and the innocent shall laugh them to scorne.

20 Surely our substance is hid: but the fire hath devoured the remnant of them.

21 Therefore acquaint thy self, I pray thee with him, and make peace: thereby thou shalt have prosperity.

22 Receive, I pray thee, the law of his mouth, and lay up his words in thine heart.

23 If thou return to the Almighty, thou shalt be built up, and thou shalt put iniquitie far from thy Tabernacle.

24 Thou shalt lay up gold for dust, and the gold of Ophir, as the flints of the rivers.

25 Yea, the Almighty shall be thy defence, and thou shalt have plentie of silver.

26 And thou shalt then delight in the Almighty, and lift up thy face unto God.

27 Thou shalt make thy prayer unto him, and he shall hear thee, and thou shalt render thy vows.

28 Thou shalt also decree a thing, and he shall establish it unto thee, and the light shall shine upon thy wayes.

29 When others are cast down, then shalt thou say, I am lifted up: and God shall save the humble person.

30 The innocent shall deliver the Island, and it shall be preserved by the purenesse of thine hands.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 Job affirmeth, that he both knoweth and feareth the power and sentence of the Judge. 10 And that he is not punished onely for his sinnes.

But Job answered, and said, 2 Though my talke be this day in bitterness, and my plague greater then my groning,

3 Would God yet I knew how to finde him, I would enter unto his place.

4 I would plead the cause before him, and fill my mouth with arguments.

5 I would know the words that he would answer me, and would understand what he would say unto me.

6 Would he plead against me with his great power? No, but he would put strength in me.

7 There the righteous might reason with him, so I should be delivered for ever from my Judge.

8 Behold, if I go to the East, he is not there: if to the West, yet I cannot perceive him:

9 If to the North where he worketh, yet I cannot see him: he will hide himself in the South, and I cannot behold him.

13 But he knoweth my way, and tryeth me, and I shall come forth like the gold.

11 My foot hath followed his steps: his way have I kept, and have not declined.

12 Neither have I departed from the com-n The iust rejoyce at the destruction of the wicked for two causes: first, because God sheweth himself Judge of words, and by this means continueth his honour and glory. Secondly, because God sheweth that he hath care over his, in that he punisheth their enemies. o That is, the state and preservation of the godly is hid under Gods wings. p Meaning of the wicked. q He exhorteth Job to repentance, and to return to God. r God will restore to thee all thy substance. f Which shalbe in abundance like dust.

t That is, the favour of God. v God will deliver his when the wicked are destroyed round about them, as in the flood, and in Sodom. x God will deliver a whole country from perill, even for the just mans sake.

a He sheweth the just cause of his complaining, & as touching that Eliphaz had exhorted him to return to God, Chap. 22. 31. he declareth that he desireth nothing more: but it seemeth God would not be found of him. b Vising his absolute power, and saying, Because I am God, I may do what I will. c Of his mercy he would give me power to answer him. d When he of his mercy hath given strength to maintain their cause. e Meaning, that if he consider Gods iustice, he is not able to comprehend his iudgements, on what side or part soever he turneth himself. f God hath this preeminence above me, that he knoweth my way to wit, that I am not able to misdeed of his works: he sheweth also his confidence, that God doeth visit him for his present.

r Though the wicked flourish here, yet God will punish him in the last day. s Though men doe flatter him, & none dare reprove him in this world, yet death is a token that God will bring him to an account. t He shalbe glad to lie in a slimie pit, which before could not be content with a royall palace. v Saying, that the iust in this world have prosperitie, and the wicked adversitie.

a Though man were iust, yet God could have no profit of this his iustice: and therefore when he punished him, he hath no regard to his iustice, but to his sinne. b Chap. 31. 7. c Left thou shouldest reprove or chastise him. d Thou hast bin cruel, & without charity, & wouldest do nothing for the poore, but for thine own advantage. e When thou wast in power and authority, thou didst not iustice, but wrong. f Thou hast not only not shewed pittie, but oppressed them. g That is, manifold afflictions. h He accuseth Job of impietie & contempt of God, as though he would say, if thou passe not for men, yet consider the height of Gods majesty. i That is, much the more by that excellent worke, thou mayst fear God, and reverence him. j He reproveth Job as though he denied Gods providence, and that he could not see the things that were done in this world. k How God hath punished them from the beginning. l He proveth Gods providences by the punishment of the wicked, whom he taketh away before they can bring their wicked purposes to passe. m He answereth to that which Job said, Chap. 21. 7. that the wicked have prosperitie in this world: desiring that he might not be partaker of the same.

g His word is more precious unto me, then the meat wherewith the body is sustained.
 h Job confesseth that at this present he felt not Gods favour, and yet was assured, that he had appointed him to a good end.
 i In many points man is not able to attain to Gods judgements.
 k That I should not be without fear.
 l He sheweth the cause of his fear, which is, that he being in trouble, feeth none end, neither yet knoweth the cause.

commandement of his lips, and I have esteemed the words of his mouth, more then mine appointed food.

13 Yet he is in one minde, and who can turn him? yea, he doeth what his mind desireth.

14 For he will performe that, which is decreed of me, and many such things are with him.

15 Therefore I am troubled at his presence, and in considering it, I am afraid of him.

16 For God^k hath softened mine heart, and the Almighty hath troubled me.

17 For I am not cut off in^l darknesse, but he hath hid the darknesse from my face.

CHAP. XXIV.

a Job describeth the wickednesse of men, and sheweth what curse belongeth to the wicked. 12 How all things are governed by Gods providence. 17 And the destruction of the wicked.

a Thus Job speaketh in his passions, and after the judgement of the flein: that is, that he feeth not the things that are done at times, neither yet hath a peculiar care over all, because he punisheth not the wicked, nor reuengeth^b godly.
 b When he punisheth the wicked and rewardeth the good.
 c And for cruelty and oppression dare not shew their faces.
 d That is, spare no diligence.
 e He and his live by robbing and murdering.
 f Meaning, the poore mans.
 g Signifying: y one wicked man will not spoile another, but for necessity.
 h The poore are driven by y wicked into rocks & holes, where they cannot lie drie for therein.
 i That is, they to powle and pill the poore widow, that she cannot have to sustain her self, that she may be able to give her child suck.
 k That is, his garment wherewith he should be covered or clad.
 l In such places which are appointed for that purpose: meaning that those that labour for the wicked, are pined for hunger.
 m For the great oppression and extortion.
 n Cry out and call for vengeance.
 o God doth not condempne the wicked, but seemeth to passe over it by his long silence.
 p That is, Gods word, because they are reproveth thereby.
 y God punisheth

HOW should not the times^a be hid from the Almighty, seeing that they which know him, see not his^b dayes?

2 Some remove the land marks, that rob the flocks, and feed thereof.

3 They lead away the asse of the fatherlesse: and take the widows ox to pledge.

4 They make the poore to turne out of the way, so that the poore of the earth hide themselves together.

5 Behold, others as wild asses in the wilderness, go forth to their businesse, and rise early for a prey: the wilderness^c giveth him and his children food.

6 They reap his^d provision in the field, but they gather the late^e vintage of the wicked.

7 They cause the naked to lodge without garment, and without covering in the cold.

8 They are wet with the showers of the mountains: and they embrace the rock for want of a covering.

9 They pluck the fatherlesse^f from the breast, and take the pledge^g of the poore.

10 They cause him to go naked without clothing, and take the gleanings from the hungry.

11 They that make oyle^h between their wals, and tread their wine-presses, suffer thirst.

12 Menⁱ crie out of the citie, and the soules of the slain^j crie out: yet God doth not charge them with folly.

13 These are they that abhorre the light: they know not the wayes thereof, nor continue in the paths thereof.

14 The murderer riseth early and killeth the poore and the needie: and in the night he is as a thief.

15 The eye also of the adulterer waiteth for the twilight, and faith, No eye shall see me, and disguiseth his face.

eth for the twilight, and faith, No eye shall see me, and disguiseth his face.

16 They dig through houses in the dark, which they marked for themselves in the day: they know not the light.

17 But the morning is even to them as the shadow of death: if one know them, they are in the terrors of the shadow of death.

18 He is swift upon the waters: their portion shall be cursed in the earth: he will not behold the way of the vineyards.

19 As the drie ground and heat consume the snow waters, so shall the grave the sinners.

20 The pitifull man shall forget him: the worm shall feel his sweetnesse: he shall be no more remembred, and the wicked shall be broken like a tree.

21 He^k doeth evill intreat the barren, that doeth not bear, neither doeth he good to the widow.

22 He draweth also the mighty by his power, and when he riseth up, none is sure of life.

23 Though men give him assurance to be in safety, yet his eyes are upon their wayes.

24 They are exalted for a little, but they are gone, and are brought low as all others: they are destroyed, and cut off as the top of an eare of corne.

25 But if it be not^l so, where is he? or who will prove me a liar, and make my words of no value?

CHAP. XXV.

Bildad proveth that no man is clean, nor without sin before God.

THEN answered Bildad the Shuhite, and said,

2 Power and fear^a is with him, that maketh peace in his high places.

3 Is there any number in his armies? and upon whom^b shall not his light arise?

4 And how may a man^c be justified with God? or how can he be clean, that is born of a woman?

5 Behold, he will give no light to the moon, and the^d starres are unclean in his sight.

6 How much more man, a worm, even the son of man, which is but a worm?

CHAP. XXVI.

Job sheweth that man cannot help God, and proveth it by his miracles.

BUT Job answered, and said,

2 Whom helpest thou? him that hath no power? savest thou the arme that hath no strength?

3 Whom counellest thou? him that hath no wisdom? thou^b shewest right well as the thing is.

4 To whom dost thou declare these words? or whose spirit^c commeth out of thee?

r He fleeth to the waters for his succour.
 s They think that all the world is bent against them, and dare not go by the high way.
 t As the dry ground is never full with waters, so will they never cease sinning, till they come to the grave.
 v Though God suffer the wicked for a time, yet their end shall be most vile destruction, and in this point Job commeth to himself, and sheweth his confidence.
 x He sheweth why the wicked shall not be lamented, because he did not pite others.

y He declareth that after that the wicked have destroyed the weak, they will do like to the stronger, and therefore they are justly prevented by Gods judgements.

z That is, that contrary to your reasoning no man can give a perfect reason of Gods judgements, let me be reproveth.

a His purpose is to prove that albe it God try and afflict the just, yet soon after he sendeth prosperitie, &c. because he did not so to Job, he concludeth, that he is wicked.
 b Who can hide him from his presence?
 c That is, be just in respect of God.
 d If God shew his power, the moon and stars cannot have that light which is given them: much lesse can man have any excellencie, but of God.

a Thou concludest nothing: for neither thou helpest me, which am destitute of all help, neither yet speakest sufficiently on Gods behalf, who have need of thy defence.
 b But thou doest not apply it to the purpose.
 c That is, moveth thee to speak this

^d Iob beginneth to declare y^e force of Gods power &c providence. in the mines and metals in the deep places of the earth.
^e There is nothing hid in the bottom of the earth, but he seeth it.
^f Meaning, the grave wherein things putrifie.
^g He causeth the whole heaven to turn about the North pole.
^h That is, he hideth the heavens, which are called his throne.
ⁱ So long as this world endureth.
^k Not that heaven hath pillars to uphold it, but he speaketh by a similitude, as though he would say, The heaven it self is not able to abide his reproch.
^m If these few things which we see daily with our eyes, declare his great power and providence, how much more would they appeare if we were able to comprehend all his works.

5 The^d dead things are formed under the waters, and neere unto them.

6 The grave is^e naked before him, and there is no covering for^f destruction.

7 He stretcheth out the^g North over the emprise place, and hangerth the earth upon nothing.

8 He bindeth the waters in his clouds, and the cloud is not broken under them.

9 He holdeth back the face of his throne: and spreadeth his cloud upon it.

10 He hath set bounds about the waters, untill theⁱ day and night come to an end.

11 The^k pillars of heaven tremble and quake at his reproof.

12 The sea is calm by his power, and by his understanding he smiteth the pride thereof.

13 His spirit hath garnished the heavens, and his hand hath formed the crooked^l serpent.

14 Lo, these are part of his wayes: but how little a portion heare we of him? and who can understand his fearfull power?

CHAP. XXVII.

³ The constancie and perfectness of Iob. ²³ The reward of the wicked, and of the tyrants.

Moreover Iob proceeded and continued his parable, saying,

2 The living God hath taken away my judgement: for the Almighty hath put my soul in bitterness.

3 Yet so long as my breath is in me, and the Spirit of God in my nostrils, 4 My lips surely shall speake no wickednesse, and my tongue shall utter no deceit.

5 God forbid, that I should^e justify you: untill I die, I will never take away mine^d innocencie from my self.

6 I will keep my righteousness, and will not forsake it: mine heart shall not reprove me of my^e dayes.

7 Mine enemy shall be as the wicked, and he that riseth against me, as the unrighteous.

8 For what^f hope hath the hypocrite when he hath heaped up riches, if God take away his soul?

9 Will God heare his cry, when trouble cometh upon him?

10 Will he set his delight on the almighty? will he call upon God at all times?

11 I will teach you what is in the hand of God, and I will not concale that which is with the almighty.

12 Behold, all ye your selves^h have seen it: why then do you thus vanishⁱ in vanitie?

13 This is the^k portion of a wicked man with God, and the heritage of tyrants, which they shall receive of the Almighty.

14 If his children be in great number, the sword shall destroy them, and his posterity shall not be satisfied with bread.

15 His remnant shall be buried in death, and his widows^l shall not weep.

16 Though he should heape up silver as the dust, and prepare raiment as the clay, 17 He may prepare it, but the just shall put it on, and the innocent shall divide the silver.

18 He buildeth his house as the^m moth, and as a lodge that the watchman maketh.

19 When the rich man sleepeth, he shall not be gathered to his fathers: they opened their eyes, and he was gone.

20 Terrours shall take him as waters, and a tempest shall cary him away by night.

21 The east wind shall take him away, and he shall depart: and it shall hurle him out of his place.

22 And God shall cast upon him, and not spare: though he would faine flee out of his hand.

23 Every man shall clap their hands at him, and hisse at him out of their place.

CHAP. XXVIII.

¹ Iob sheweth that the wisdom of God is unsearchable.

The silver surely hath his vein, and the gold his place, where they take it.

2 Iron is taken out of the dust, and brasse is molten out of the stone.

3 God putteth an end to darknesse, and he trieth the perfection of all things: he setteth a bond of darknesse, and of the shadow of death.

4 The flood breaketh out against the inhabitant, and the waters^d forgotten of the foot, being higher then man, are gone away.

5 Out of the same earth cometh^e bread, and under it as it were, fire is turned up.

6 The stones thereof are a place^f of Saphirs, and the dust of it is gold.

7 There is a path which no fowle hath knownen, neither hath the kites eye seen it.

8 The lions whelps have not walked in it, nor the lion passed thereby.

9 He putteth his hand upon the^g rocks, and overthroweth the mountaines by the roots.

10 He breaketh rivers in the rocks, and his eye seeth every precious thing.

11 He bindeth the floods, that they do not overflow, and the thing that is hid bringeth he to light.

12 But where is the wisdom found? and where is the place of understanding?

13 Man knoweth not the^h price thereof: for it is not found in the land of the living.

14 The depth saith, It is not in me: the sea also saith, It is not with me.

15 Gold shall not be given for it, neither

^l None shall lament him.

^m Which breedeth in an other mans possession or garment, but is soon shaken out.
ⁿ He meaneth that the wicked tyrants shall not have a quiet death, nor be buried honourably.

^a His purpose is to declare that man may attain in this world to divers secrets of nature, but man is never able to comprehend the wisdom of God.
^b There is nothing but it is compassed within certain limits, and hath an end, but Gods wisdom.
^c Meaning, him y dwelleth thereby.
^d Which man cannot wade thorough.

^e That is, corn, and other things which are brought forth out of the earth, which are easily conceived.
^f He alludeth to the mines and secrets of nature, which are hidden in the earth, where into neither fowls nor beasts can come.

^g After that he hath declared the wisdom of God in the secrets of nature, he describeth his power.

^h Though Gods power and wisdom may be understood in earthly things, yet his heavenly wisdom cannot be attained.

ⁱ It is too high a thing for man to attain unto in this world.
^k It is as much as to say, that the price of wisdom is not gold, nor precious stones, but it is only the gift of God.

ther shall silver be weighed for the price thereof.

16 It shall not be valued with the wedge of gold of Ophir, nor with the precious Onix, nor the Saphir.

17 The gold nor the crysell shall be equall unto it, nor the exchange shall be for plate of fine gold.

18 No mention shall be made of corall, nor of the gabish: for wisdom is more precious then pearls.

19 The Topaz of Ethiopia shall not be equall unto it, neither shall it be valued with the wedge of pure gold.

20 Whence then cometh wisdom? and where is the place of understanding, 21 Seeing it is hid from the eyes of all the living, and is hid from the fowles of the heaven?

22 Destruction and death say, We have heard the fame thereof with our eares.

23 But God understandeth the way thereof, and he knoweth the place thereof.

24 For he beholdeth the ends of the world, and seeth all that is under heaven, 25 To make the weight of the winds, and to weigh the waters by measure.

26 When he made a decree for the rain, and a way for the lightning of the thunders, 27 Then did he see it, and counted it: he prepared it, and also considered it.

28 And unto man he said, Behold, the feare of the Lord is wisdom, and to depart from evill is understanding.

CHAP. XXIX.

1 Job complaineth of the prosperitie of the time past. 7. 11 His authority. 12 justice and equity.

SO Job proceeded and continued his parable, saying,

2 Oh that I were as in times past, when God preserved me!

3 When his light shined upon mine head, and when by his light I walked thorow the darknesse,

4 As I was in the dayes of my youth: when Gods providence was upon my tabernacle:

5 When the Almighty was yet with me, and my children round about me:

6 When I washed my pathes with butter, and when the rock powred me out rivers of oyle:

7 When I went out to the gate, even to the judgement seat, and when I caused them to prepare my seat in the street.

8 The young men saw me, and hid themselves, and the aged arose, and stood up.

9 The princes stayed talk, and laid their hand on their mouth.

10 The voice of princes was hid, and their tongue cleaved to the roof of their mouth.

11 And when the teare heard me, it blessed me: and when the eye saw me, it gave witness to me.

12 For I delivered the poore that cryed, and the fatherlesse, and him that had none to help him.

13 The blessing of him that was ready to perish, came upon me, and I caused the widows heart to rejoyce.

14 I put on justice, and it covered me: my judgement was as a robe, and a crown.

15 I was the eyes to the blind, and I was the feet to the lame.

16 I was a father unto the poore, and when I knew not the cause, I sought it out diligently.

17 I brake also the chaws of the unrighteous man, and pluckt the prey out of his teeth.

18 Then I said, I shall die in my nest, and I shall multiply my dayes as the sand.

19 For my root is spread out by the water, and the dew shall lie upon my branch.

20 My glory shall renew toward me, and my bow shall be restored in mine hand

21 Unto me men give eare, and waited, and held their tongue at my counsell.

22 After my words they replied not, and my talk dropped upon them.

23 And they waited for me, as for the rain, and they opened their mouth as for the latter rain.

24 If I laughed on them, they beleaved it not: neither did they cause the light of my countenance to fall.

25 I appointed out their way, and did sit as chief, and dwelt as a king in the army, and like him that comforteth the mourners

CHAP. XXX.

1 Job complaineth that he is contemned of the most contemptible. 11. 21 Because of his adversity and affliction. 23 Death is the house of all flesh.

BUT now they that are yonger then I, mock me: yea, they whole fathers I have refused to set with the dogs of my flocks.

2 For whereto should the strength of their hands have served me, seeing age perished in them?

3 For poverty and famine they were solitary, fleeing into the wilderness, which is dark, desolate and wast.

4 They cut up nettles by the bushes, and the juniper roots was their meat.

5 They were chased forth from among men: they shouted at them as at a thief.

6 Therefore they dwelt in the cliffs of rivers, in the holes of the earth and rocks.

7 They roared among the bushes, and under the thistles they gathered themselves

8 They were the children of fooles, and the children of villaines, which were more vile then the earth.

9 And

1 Which is thought to be a kind of precious stone.

m Meaning, that there is no natural means, whereby man might attain to the heavenly wisdom: which he meaneth by the fowles, that fly high. n He maketh God only the author of this wisdom, and the giver thereof.

* Prov. 1. 7. He declareth that man hath so much of this heavenly wisdom, as he sheweth by fearing God, & departing from evill.

† He commeth before.

a When I felt his favour.

b I was free from affliction.

c That is, seemed by evident tokens to be more present with me.

d By these similitudes he declareth the great prosperitie that he was in, so that he had none occasion to be such a sinner as they accounted him.

e Being ashamed of their likeness, and afraid of my f Acknowledging my wisdom.

g All that heard me, praised me.

h Testifying, that I did good justice. i Because his adversaries did so much charge him with wickedness, he is compelled to render account of his life. k That is, I did succour him that was in distress, and so he had cause to praise me. l I delighted to do justice, as others did to wear costly apparel.

m That is, at home in my bed, without all trouble and inquietnesse. n My felicity doth increase.

o That is, was pleasant unto them.

p As the dry ground thirsteth for the rain.

q That is, they thought it not to be a jest, or they thought not that I would condescend unto them. r They were afraid to offend me, and cause me to be angry. s I had them at commandment.

a That is, mine estate is changed, and whereas before the ancient men were glad to do me reverence, the young men now contemne me. b Meaning, to be my shepherds, or to keep my dogs. c That is, their fathers died for famine before they came to age. d Or, malediction.

e Job therewith sheweth that mocked him in his affliction. f were like to their fathers, who were like to the wild-fowles, such as he here denoteth.

g Job therewith sheweth that mocked him in his affliction. f were like to their fathers, who were like to the wild-fowles, such as he here denoteth.

9 And now am I their *song, and I am their talke.

10 They abhorre me, and flee farre from me, and spare not to spit in my face.

11 Because that God hath loosed my *cord, and humbled me, * they have loosed the bridle before me.

12 The youth rise up at my right hand: they have pusht my feet, and have trod on me as on the^h paths of their destruction.

13 They have destroyed my pathes: they tooke pleasure at my calamitie, they had noneⁱ helpe.

14 They came as a great breach of waters, and^k under this calamitie they come on heaps.

15 Feare is turned upon me: and they persue my soule as the wind, and mine health passeth away as a cloud.

16 Therefore my soule is now^l powred out upon me, and the dayes of affliction have taken hold on me.

17^m It pierceth my bones in the night, and my sinewes take no rest.

18 For the great vehemencie is my garment changed, which compasseth me about as the collar of my coat.

19ⁿ He hath cast me into the myre, and I am become like ashes and dust.

20 When I crie unto thee, thou doest not heare me, neither regardest me^{when} I stand up.

21 Thou turnest thy selfe^o cruelly against me, and art enimie unto me with the strength of thine hand.

22 Thou takest me up and caufest me to ride upon^p the wind, and makest my strength to faile.

23 Surely I know that thou wilt bring me to death, and to the house appointed for all the living.

24 Doubtlesse none can stretch his hand^q unto the grave, though they crie in his destruction.

25 Did not I weepe with him that was in trouble? was not my soule in heavinesse for the poore?

26 Yet when I looked for good, * evill came unto me: and when I waited for light, there came darknesse.

27 My bowels did boile without rest: for the dayes of affliction are come upon me.

28 I went mourning^r without sunne: I stood up in the congregation^s and cried.

29 I am a brother to the^t dragons, and a companion to the ostriches.

30 My skinne is blacke upon mee, and my bones are burnt with^u heat.

31 Therefore mine harpe is turned to mourning, and mine organs into the voice of them that weepe.

C H A P. XXXI.

1 Job reciteth the innocencie of his living, and number of his vertues, which declareth what ought to be the life of the faithfull.

I Made a covenant with mine^a eyes: why then should I thinke on a^b maid?

2 For what portion should I have of God from above? and what inheritance of the Almighty from on high?

3 Is not destruction to the wicked, & strange punishment to the workers of iniquity?

4 Doeth not he behold my wayes, and tell all my steps?

5 If I have walked in vanity, or if my foot hath made hast to deceit,

6 Let God weigh me in the just balance, and he shall know mine^d uprightnesse.

7 If my step hath turned out of the way, or mine heart hath walked after mine eye, or if any blot hath cleaved to mine hands,

8 Let me sowe, and let another^e cate: yea, let my plants be rooted out.

9 If mine heart hath been deceived by a woman, or if I have laid wait at the door of my neighbour,

10 Let my wife grind unto another man, and let other men bow downe upon her:

11 For this is a wickednesse, and iniquity to be condemned:

12 Yea, this is a fire that shall devoure^h to destruction, and which shall root out all mine increase,

13 If I did contemne the judgement of my servant, and of my maid, when theyⁱ did contend with me, 14 What then shall I doe when^k God standeth up? and when he shall visite me, what shall I answer?

15 He that hath made me in the wombe, hath he not made^l him? hath not he alone fashioned us in the wombe?

16 If I restrained the poore of their^m desire, or have caused the eyes of the widowⁿ to faile,

17 Or have eaten my morsels alone, and the fatherlesse hath not eaten thereof,

18 (For from my youth he hath grown up with me^o as with a father, and from my mothers wombe I have been a guide unto her)

19 If I have seene any perishe for want of clothing, or any poore without covering,

20 If his loynes have not blessed me, because he was warmed with the fleece of my sheepe,

21 If I have lift^p up mine hand against the fatherlesse, when I saw that I might helpe him in the gate,

22 Let mine^q arm fall from my shoulder, and mine arme be broken from the bone:

23 For Gods punishment was^r fearefull unto me, and I could not be delivered from his highnesse.

a I kept mine eyes from all wanton looks.
b Would not God then have punished me?

c Job declared that the feare of God was a bridle to stay him from all wickednesse.

d He sheweth wherein his uprightnesse standeth, that is, inasmuch as he was blameles before men, & sinned not against the second table.
e That is, hath accomplished the lust of mine eye.

q I restrained not from sinning for feare of men, but because I feared God.

e They make songs of me, and mocke at my misery.

f God hath taken from me the force credit and authority, wherewith I kept them in subjection.

g He said that the young men when they saw him, hid themselves, as Chap. 29. 8. and now in his misery they were impudent and licentious.

h That is, they fought by all means how they might destroy me. i They need none to helpe them.
k By my calamitie they tooke an occasion against me.

l My life faileth me, and I am as halfe dead.

m Meaning, sorrow.

n That is, God hath brought me into contempt.

o He speaketh not thus to accuse God, but to declare the vehemencie of his affliction, whereby he was carried beside himselfe.
p He compareth his afflictions to a tempest, or whirlwinde.
q Or, wisdom, or law.

q None can deliver me thence, though they lament at my death.

r In stead of comfort, seeing they mocked at me.

s Not delighting in any wordly thing, no not so much as in the use of the sunne.

t Lamenting them that were in affliction, and moving others to pitty them.

u I am like the wilde beasts that desire most solitary places.

v With the heare of affliction.

24 If I made gold mine hope, or have said to the wedge of gold, Thou art my confidence:

25 If I rejoyced because my substance was great, or because mine hand had gotten much:

^r If I was proud of my wordly prosperity and felicity, which is meant by the shining of the sun and the brightnesse of the moone.

^f If mine own doings delighted me.

^t By putting confidence in any thing but in him alone.

26 If I did behold the sun, when it shined, or the moone walking in her brightness:

27 If mine heart did flatter me in secret, or if my mouth did kisse mine hand:

28 (This also had been an iniquitie to bee condemned: for I had denied the God ^t above)

29 If I rejoyced at his destruction that hated me, or was moved to joy when evill came upon him:

30 Neither have I suffered my mouth to sin, by wishing a curse unto his soule.

^v My servants moved me to be revenged of mine enemy, yet did I never wish him hurt.

31 Did not the men of my ^v tabernacle say, Who shall give us of his flesh? we cannot be satisfied.

32 The stranger did not lodge in the street, but I opened my doores unto him, that went by the way.

^{*} And not confessed it freely: whereby it is evident that he justified himselfe before men, and not before God.

^y That is, I revenged the most weake and condemned, and was afraid to offend them.

^z I suffered them to speake evill of me, and went not out of my house to revenge it.

^a This is a sufficient token of my righteousness, that God is my witnesse and will justify my cause.

^b Should not this booke of his accusations be a praise and commendation to me?

^c I will make him account of all my life, without feare.

^d As though I had withholden their wages that laboured in it.

^e Meaning: that he was no briber nor extortioner.

^f That is, the talke which he had with his three friends.

33 If I have hid my sin, as Adam, concealing mine iniquity in my bosome, 34 Though I could have made afraid a great multitude, yet the most contemptible of the families did ^v feare me: so I kept ^{*} silence, and went not out of the doore.

35 Oh that I had some to heare me! behold my ^a signe that the Almighty will witness for mee: though mine adversary should write a booke against me.

36 Would not I take it upon my shoulder, and bind it as ^a a crown unto me?

37 I will tel him the number of my goings, and goe unto him as to a ^a Prince.

38 If my land ^d crie against me, or the furrowes thereof complaine together:

39 If I have eaten the fruits thereof without silver: or if I have grieved ^{*} the soules of the masters thereof:

40 Let thistles grow instead of wheat, and cogle in stead of barley.

THE WORDS OF JOB ARE ENDED.

CHAP. XXXII.

2 Elihu reproveth them of folly. 3 Age maketh not a man wise, but the spirit of God.

SO these three men ceased to answer Job, because he ^e esteemed himselfe just.

⁺ Ebr. was just in his own eyes.

2 Then the wrath of Elihu the son of Barachel the ^a Buzite of the family of ^b Ram, was kindled: his wrath, I say, was kindled against Job, because he justified himselfe ^c more then God.

^a Which came of Buz, the son of Nahor, Abrahams brother.

^b Or, as the Chalde paraphrast readeth, Abram.

^c By making himselfe innocent, and by charging God of rigour.

3 Also his anger was kindled against his three friends, because they could not finde an answer, and yet condemned Job.

4 (Now Elihu had waited till Job had spoken: for ^d they were more ancient in yeares then he)

^d That is, the three mentioned before.

5 So when Elihu saw, that there was none answer in the mouth of the three men, his wrath was kindled.

6 Therefore Elihu the son of Barachel, the Buzite answered, and said, I am young in yeares, and ye are ancient: therefore I doubted, and was afraid to shew you mine opinion.

7 For I said, The ^e dayes shall speake, and the multitude of yeares shall teach wisdom.

^e Meaning, the ancient, which have experience.

8 Surely there is a spirit in man, but the inspiration of the almightie giveth understanding.

^f It is a speciall gift of God that man hath understanding, and cometh neither of nature, nor by age.

9 Great men are not alway wise, neither do the aged alway understand judgement.

10 Therefore I say, heare me, and I will shew also mine opinion.

11 Behold, I did waite upon your words, and hearkened unto your knowledge, whiles you sought out ^g reasons.

^g To prove that Jobs affliction came for his sins.

12 Yea, when I had considered you, loe, there was none of you that reproveth Job, nor answered his words:

13 Left ye should say, We have ^h found wisdom: for God hath cast him downe, and no man.

^h And flatter your selves, as though you had overcome him.

14 Yet hath ⁱ he not directed his words to me, neither will I answer ^k him by your words.

ⁱ To wit, Job.

15 Then they fearing, answered no more, but left off their talk.

16 When I had waited (for they spake not, but stood still and answered no more)

17 Then answered I in my turne, and I shewed mine opinion.

18 For I am full of ^l matter, and the spirit within me compelleth me.

^l I have conceived in my minde great store of reasons.

19 Behold, my belly ^m as the wine, which hath no vent, and like the new bottels that brast.

20 Therefore will I speake, that I may take breath: I will open my lips, and will answer.

21 I will not now accept the person of man, ⁿ neither will I give titles to man.

^m I will neither have regard to riches, credit, nor authority, but will speake the very truth.

22 For I may not give ⁿ titles, lest my Maker should take me away suddenly.

ⁿ The Hebrew word signifieth to change the name as to call a foole a wise man: meaning, that he would not cloke the truth to flatter men.

CHAP. XXXIII.

5 Elihu accuseth Job of ignorance. 14 He sheweth that God hath divers meanes to instruct man, and to draw him from sin. 19 22 He afflicteth man and suddenly delivereth him. 26 Man being delivered giveth thanks to God.

W Herefore, Job, I pray thee, heare my talke, and hearken unto all my words.

2 Behold now, I have opened my mouth: my tongue hath spoken in my mouth.

3 My words are in the uprightness of mine heart, and my lips shall speake pure knowledge.

^a I confesse the power of God: and am one of his, therefore thou oughtest to heare me.

4 The ^{*} Spirit of God hath made me, and b Because Job had wished to dispute his cause with God Chap. 16. 21. so he might do without feare, Elihu saith he will reason in Gods stead, whom he needeth not to feare, because he is a man made of the same matter that he is.

c I will not handle thee so roughly as these others have done.
d He repeateth Jobs words, whereby he protested his innocency in divers places, but especially in the 13. 16. and 30. chap.
e The cause of his judgements is, not always declared to man.
f Though God by sundry examples of his judgements speake unto man, yet the reason thereof is not known: yea and though God should speake, yet he is not understood.
g God, faith he, speaketh commonly, either by viſions to reach us the cause of his judgements, or else, by afflictions, or by his messengers.
h That is, determined to send upon them.
i He sheweth for what end God sendeth afflictions: to beat down mans pride, and to turn him from evil.
k That is, his painfull and miserable life.
l To them that shall bury him.
m A man sent of God to declare his will.
n A singular man, and as one chosen out of a thousand, which is able to declare great mercies of God unto sinners: and wherein mans righteousness standeth, which is through the justice of Iesus Christ and faith therein.
o He sheweth that it is a sure token of Gods mercy toward sinners, when he causeth his word to be preached unto them.
p That is, the minister shall by the preaching of the word pronounce unto him the forgiveness of his finnes.
q He shall feel Gods favour and joy: declaring hereby, wherein standeth the true joy of the faithful, and that God will restore him to health of body, which is a token of his blessing.
r God will forgive his finnes, and accept him, as just.
s That is, done wickedly.
t But my sin hath been the cause of Gods wrath toward me.

and the breath of the Almighty hath given me life.

5 If thou canst give me answer, prepare thy self, and stand before me.

6 Behold, I am according to thy wish in Gods stead: I am also formed of the clay.

7 Behold, my terrour shall not feare thee, neither shall mine hand be heavy upon thee.

8 Doubtlesse thou hast spoken in mine eares, and I have heard the voice of thy words:

9 I am clean, without sin: I am innocent, and there is none iniquity in me.

10 Lo, he hath found occasions against me, and counted me for his enemy.

11 He hath put my feet in the stocks, and looketh narrowly unto all my paths.

12 Behold, in this hast thou not done right: I will answer thee, that God is greater than man.

13 Why dost thou strive against him? for he doth not give account of all his matters.

14 For God speaketh once or twice, and one seeth it not.

15 In dreames and visions of the night, when sleep falleth upon men, and they sleep, upon their beds,

16 Then he openeth the eares of men, even by their corrections, which he had sealed,

17 That he might cause man to turn away from his enterprise, and that he might hide the pride of man,

18 And keep back his soul from the pit, and that his life should not passe by the sword.

19 He is also stricken with sorrow upon his bed, and the grief of his bones is sore, 20 So that his life causeth him to abhorre bread, and his soul dainty meat.

21 His flesh faileth that it cannot be seen, and his bones which were not seen, clatter.

22 So his soul draweth to the grave, and his life to the buriers.

23 If there be a messenger with him, or an interpreter, one of a thousand to declare unto man his righteousness,

24 Then will he have mercy upon him, and will say, deliver him, that he go not down into the pit: for I have received a reconciliation.

25 Then shall his flesh be as fresh as a childes, and shall return as in the dayes of his youth.

26 He shall pray unto God, and he will be favourable unto him, and he shall see his face with joy: for he will render unto man his righteousness.

27 He looketh upon men, and if one say, I have sinned, and perverted righteousness, and it did not profit me, 28 He will deliver his soul from going into the pit, and his life shall see the light.

29 Lo, all these things will God work twice or thrise with a man,

30 That he may turn back his soul from the pit, to be illuminate in the light of the living.

31 Mark well, O Job, and heare me: keep silence, and I will speake.

32 If there be matter, answer me, and speake: for I desire to justify thee.

33 If thou hast not heare me: hold thy tongue, and I will teach thee wisdom.

CHAP. XXXIV.

5 Elihu chargeth Job, that he calleth himself righteous. 12 He sheweth that God is just in his judgements. 24 God doth reprove the mighty. 30 By him the bypocrite reigneth.

Moreover Elihu answered, and said, Heare my words, ye wise men, and hearken unto me, ye that have knowledge.

3 For the eare trieth the words, as the mouth tasteth meat.

4 Let us seek judgement among us, and let us know among our selves what is good.

5 For Job hath said, I am righteous, and God hath taken away my judgement.

6 Should I lie in my right? my wound of the arrow is grievous without my sin.

7 What man is like Job, that drinketh scornfulnesse like water?

8 Which goeth in the company of them that work iniquitie, and walketh with wicked men?

9 For he hath said, It profiteth a man nothing that he should walk with God.

10 Therefore hearken unto me, ye men of wisdom, God forbid that wickednesse should be in God, and iniquity in the Almighty.

11 For he will render unto man according to his worke, and cause every one to finde according to his way.

12 And certainly God will not do wickedly, neither will the Almighty pervert judgement.

13 Whom hath he appointed over the earth beside himself? or who hath placed the whole world?

14 If he set his heart upon man, and gather unto himself his spirit & his breath, 15 All flesh shall perish together, and man shall return unto dust.

16 And if thou hast understanding, heare this: and hearken to the voice of my words.

17 Shall he that hateth judgement, govern? and wilt thou judge him wicked that is most just?

18 Wilt thou say unto a King, Thou art wicked? or to princes, Ye are ungodly?

19 How much lesse to him that accepteth not the persons of princes, and regardeth v God will forgive the penitent sinner.

x Meaning, oftentimes, even as oft as a sinner doth repent.

y If thou doubt of anything, or see occasion to speake against it.
z That is, to shew thee wherein mans justification consisteth.

a Which are esteemed wise of the world.

b Let us examine the matter uprightly.

c That is, hath afflicted me without measure.

d Should I say, I am wicked, being an innocent?

e I am fower punished then my sinne deserves.

f Which is compelled to receive the reproach and scorn of many for his foolish words.

g Meaning, that Job was like to the wicked, because he seemed not to glorifie God and submitt himself to his judgements.

h He willeth Jobs words, who said that Gods children are oftentimes punished in this world, and the wicked go free.

i That is, live godly, as Gen. 5. 22.

j Chap. 36. 23.

k To destroy him.

l The breath of life which he gave man.

n If man of humane sense so speaketh, will hee say such things?

o More ought he to be afraid to speake evil of God.

not the rich, more then the poore? for they be all the work of his hands.

20 They shall die suddenly, and the people shall be troubled at midnight, and they shall passe forth, and take away the mighty without hand.

21 For his eyes are upon the wayes of man, and he seeth all his goings.

22 There is no darknesse nor shadow of death, that the workers of iniquity might be hid therein.

23 For he will not lay on man so much, that he should enter into judgement with God.

24 He shall break the mighty without seeking, and shall set up other in their stead.

25 Therefore shall he declare their works: he shall turn the night, and they shall be destroyed.

26 He striketh them as wicked men in the places of the seers:

27 Because they have turned back from him, and would not consider all his wayes:

28 So that they have caused the voice of the poore to come unto him, and he hath heard the cry of the afflicted.

29 And when he giveth quietnesse, who can make trouble? and when he hideth his face, who can behold him, whether it be upon nations, or upon a man onely?

30 Because the hypocrite doth reigne, and because the people are snared.

31 Surely it appertaineth unto God to say, I have pardoned, I will not destroy.

32 But if I see not, teach thou me: if I have done wickedly, I will do no more.

33 Will he perform the thing through thee? for thou hast reproved it, because that thou hast chosen, and not I: now speake what thou knowest.

34 Let men of understanding tell me, and let a wise man hearken unto me.

35 Job hath not spoken of knowledge, neither were his words according to wisdom.

36 I desire that Job may be tried unto the end, touching the answers for wicked men.

37 For he addeth rebellion unto his sin: he clappeth his hands among us, and multiplieth his words against God.

CHAP. XXXV.

Neither doth godliness profite, or ungodlines hurt God, but man.

13 The wicked cry unto God, and are not heard.

14 Lihu spake moreover, and said,

15 Thinkest thou this right, that thou hast said, I am more righteous then God?

16 For thou hast said, What profiteth it thee, and what availeth it me, to purge me from my sinne?

17 Therefore will I answer thee, and thy companions with thee.

5 Look unto the heaven, and see and behold the clouds which are higher then thou.

6 If thou sinnest, what doest thou against him, yea, when thy finnes be many, what dost thou unto him?

7 If thou be righteous, what givest thou unto him? or what receiveth he at thine hand?

8 Thy wickednesse may hurt a man as thou art: and thy righteousness may profite the son of man.

9 They cause many that are oppressed, to cry, which cry out for the violence of the mighty.

10 But none saith, Where is God that made me, which giveth songs in the night?

11 Which teacheth us more then the beasts of the earth, and giveth us more wisdom then the fowles of the heaven.

12 Then they cry because of the violence of the wicked, but he answereth not.

13 Surely God will not heare vanitie, neither will the Almighty regard it.

14 Although thou sayest to God, Thou wilt not regard it, yet judgement is before him: trust thou in him.

15 But now because his anger hath not visited, nor called to count the evill with great extremitie, 16 Therefore Job openeth his mouth in vain, and multiplieth words without knowledge.

CHAP. XXXVI.

1 Elihu sheweth the power of God, 6 And his justice, 9 And wherefore he punisheth. 13 The property of the wicked.

Elihu also proceeded, and said, 2 Suffer me a little, and I will instruct thee: for I have yet to speake on Gods behalf.

3 I will fetch my knowledge a farre off, and will attribute righteousness unto my Maker.

4 For truly my words shall not be false, and he that is perfect in knowledge speaketh with thee.

5 Behold, the mighty God casteth away none that is mighty and valiant of courage.

6 He maintaineth not the wicked, but he giveth judgement to the afflicted.

7 He withdraweth not his eyes from the righteous, but they are with kings in the throne, where he placed them for ever: thus they are exalted.

8 And if they be bound in fetters, and tied with the cords of affliction, 9 Then will he shew them their work, and their finnes, because they have been proud.

10 He openeth also their ears to discipline,

o When they look not for it.
p The messengers or visitation that God shall send.

q God doth not afflict man above measure, so that he should have occasion to contend with him.
r For all his creatures are at hand to serve him, so that he needeth not to seek for any other armie.
f Make them manifest, that they are wicked.
t Declare the things that were hid.
v Meaning openly in the sight of all men.

x By their cruelty and extortion.

y When tyrants sit in the throne of justice, which under pretence of executing justice are but hypocrites, and oppress the people, it is a sign that God hath drawn back his countenance and favour from that place.
z Onely it belongeth to God to moderate his corrections, and not unto man.
a Thus Elihu speaketh in the person of God, as it were, mocking Job: because he would be wiser then God.
b Will God use thy counsel in doing his works?
c Thus he speaketh in the person of God, as though Job should chafe and refuse affliction at his pleasure.
d That he may speake as much as he can, that we may answer him and all the wicked that shall use such arguments.
e He standeth stubbornly in the maintenance of his cause.

f Job never spake these words, but because he maintained his innocency as seemed as though he would say, that God rewarded him with our just cause.
g Such as are in the like error.

e If thou canst not control the clouds wilt thou presume to instruct God? d Neither doth thy sin hurt God nor thy justice profit him: for he will be glorified without thee.

e The wicked may hurt man, & cause him to cry, who if he sought to God, which sendeth comfort, should be delivered.

f Because they pray not in faith, as feeling Gods mercies.

g God is full howsoever thou judgest of him.

h For if he did punish thee as thou deservest, thou shouldst not be able to open thy mouth.

a He sheweth that when we speake of God, we must lift up our spirits more high, then our natural sense is able to reach.
b Thou shalt perceive that I am a faithful instructor, & that I speak to thee in the name of God.
c Strong and constant, and of understanding: for these are the gifts of God, and he loveth them in man: but forasmuch as God punisheth now Job, it is a sign that these are not in him.
d Therefore he will not preserve the wicked: but to the humble afflicted heart, he will shew grace.
e He preferreth the godly to honour. f He will move their hearts to feel their sinne, that they may come to him by repentance, as he did Manasseh.

C H A P. XXXVII.

2 Elihu proveth that the unsearchable wisdom of God is manifest by his works. 4 As by the thunders, 6 The snow, 2 The whirlwinds, 11 and the rain.

AT this also mine heart is^a astonished, and is moved out of his place.

2 Heare the^b sound of his voice, and the noyse that goeth out of his mouth.

3 He directeth it under the whole heaven, and his light unto the ends of the world.

4 After it a noyse foundeth: he thundreth with the voice of his majestie, and he will not stay^c them when his voyce is heard.

5 God thundreth marvellously with his voyce: he worketh great things, which we know not.

6 For he saith to the snow, Be thou upon the earth: ^dlikewise to the small rain, and to the great rain of his power.

7 With the force thereof he^e shurterth up every man, that all men may know his work.

8 Then the beasts go into the den, and remain in their places.

9 The whirlewinde cometh out of the South, and the cold from the^f Northwind.

10 At the breath of God the frost is given, and the breadth of the waters^g is made narrow.

11 He maketh also the clouds to^h labour, to water the earth, and scattereth the cloud ofⁱ his light.

12 And it is turned about by his government, that they may do whatsoever he commandeth them upon the whole world:

13 Whether it be for^k punishment, or for his land, or of mercy, he causeth it to come.

14 Hearken unto this, O Job: stand and consider the wonderous works of God.

15 Diddest thou know when God disposed them? and caused the^l light of his cloud to shine?

16 Hast thou known^m the variety of the cloud, and the wonderous works of him, that is perfect in knowledge?

17 Or how thy clothes areⁿ warm, when he maketh the earth quiet through the South wind?

18 Hast thou stretched out the heavens, which are strong, and as a molten^o glasse?

19 Tell us what we shall say unto him: for we cannot dispose our master because of^p darkness.

20 Shall it be^q told him when I speake? or shall man speake when he shall be^r destroyed?

21 And now men see not the light which be not able to attain to the knowledge of these things, how much lesse of Gods judgement a At the marveling of the thunder and lightnings: whereby he declareth that the faithful are lively touched with the majesty of God, when they behold his works.

b That is, the thunder, whereby he speaketh to men to waken their dulnesse, and to bring them to the consideration of his works.
c Meaning, the raines and thunders.

d So that neither small rain, nor great, snow, nor any thing else cometh without Gods appointment.
e By raines and thunders God causeth men to keep themselves within their houses.

f In Hebrew it is called the scattering winde, because it driveth away the clouds, and purgeth the ayre.
g That is, is frozen up and dried.
h Gather the vapours, and move to and fro to water the earth.
i That is, the cloud that hath lightning in it.

k Rain, cold, heat, tempests and such like are sent of God, either to punish man, or to profit the earth, as to declare his favour toward man, as Chap. 36. 31.

l That is, the lightning to break forth in the clouds.
m Which is sometime changed into rain, snow, or hail, or such like.
n Why thy clothes should keep thee warm when the South wind bloweth, rather than when any other winde bloweth?
o For their clearnesse.

p That is, our ignorance, signifying that Job was so presumptuous, that he would controule the works of God.
q That God needeth say should tell him: when man murmureth against him.
r If God would destroy a man, should he require of him? The cloud receiveth the shining of the sun, the man cannot see it: the winde have chafed away the cloud: and if man pline, and commandeth them that they return from iniquity.

11 * If they obey and serve him, they shall end their dayes in prosperity, and their yeares in pleasures.

12 But if they will not obey, they shall passe by the sword, and perish without knowledge.

13 But the hypocrites^a of heart increase the wrath: for they^b call not when he bindeth them.

14 Their soul dieth in youth, and their life among the whoremongers.

15 He delivereth the poore in his affliction, and openeth their care in trouble.

16 Even so would he have taken thee out of the straight place into a broad place, and not shut up beneath: and^c that which resteth upon thy table, had been full of fat.

17 But thou art full of the^d judgement of the wicked, though judgement and equity maintain all things.

18 * For Gods wrath is, lest he should take thee away in thine abundance: for no multitude of gifts can deliver thee.

19 Will he regard thy riches? he regardeth not gold, nor all them that excell in strength.

20 * Be not carefull in the night, how he destroyeth the people out of their place.

21 Take thou heed: look not to^e iniquity: for thou hast chosen it rather than affliction.

22 Behold, God exalteth by his power: what reacher is like him?

23 Who hath appointed to him his way? or who can say, Thou hast done wickedly?

24 Remember that thou magnific his work, which men behold.

25 All men see it, and men behold it farre off.

26 Behold, God is excellent, and we know him not, neither can the number of his yeares be searched out.

27 When he restraineth the drops of water, the rain^f powreth down by the vapour thereof, 28 Which rain the clouds do drop, and let fall abundantly upon man.

29 Who can know the divisions of the clouds, and the thunders of his^g tabernacle?

30 Behold, he spreadeth his light upon it, and covereth the^h bottome of the sea.

31 For thereby he judgeth the people, and giveth meate abundantly.

32 He covereth the light with the clouds, and commandeth them to goⁱ against it.

33 * His companion sheweth him thereof, and there is anger in rising up.

* Isa. 1. 19.

a That is, in their folly or obstination, and so shall be cause of their own destruction.

b Which are maliciously bent against God, and flatter themselves in their vices.

c When they are in affliction, they seek not to God for succour, as Ala.

d Chron. 16. 12. Revel. 16. 11.

e They die of some vile death, and that before they come to age.

f If thou hadst been obedient to God, he would have brought thee to libertie and wealth.

g Thou art altogether after the manner of the wicked: for thou dost murmur against the iustice of God.

h God doth punish thee, lest thou shouldst forget God in thy wealth and so perish.

i Be not thou curious in seeking the cause of Gods judgements, when he destroyeth any.

p And so murmur against God through impatience.

q The works of God are so manifest, that a man may see them afar off, and know God by the same.

r Our infirmity hindereth us so that we cannot attain to the perfect knowledge of God.

s That is, the rain cometh of those drops of water, which he keepeth in the clouds.

t Meaning, of the clouds, which he calleth the Tabernacle of God.

u Upon the cloud.

x That men cannot come to the knowledge of the springs thereof.

y He sheweth that the rain hath double use: the one, that it declareth Gods judgements when it doth shower.

z The other, that it maketh the land fruitful.

aa That is one cloud to dash against another.

ab The cold vapour sheweth him: that is, the cloud of the hot exhalation, which being taken in the cold cloud, mounteth up toward the place where the fire is, and so anger is kindled, that is, noyse and thunder-claps.

shineth in the clouds; but the winde passeth and cleanseth them.

22 The brightnesse cometh out of the North: the praise thereof is to God, which is terrible.

23 It is the Almighty: we cannot finde him out: he is excellent in power and judgment, and abundant in justice: he afflicteth not.

24 Let men therefore feare him: for he will not regard any that are wise in their own conceit.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

1 God speaketh to Job, and declareth the weaknesse of man in the consideration of his creatures, by whose excellencie the power, justice, and providence of the Creatour is known.

Then answered the Lord unto Job out of the whirlwind, and said,

2 Who is this that darkneth the counsell by words without knowledge?

3 Gird up now thy loynes like a man: I will demand of thee, and declare thou unto me.

4 Where wast thou when I laid the foundations of the earth? declare, if thou hast understanding,

5 Who hath laid the measures thereof, if thou knowest, or who hath stretched the line over it?

6 Whereupon are the foundations thereof set: or who hath laid the corner stone thereof?

7 When the stars of the morning praised me together, and all the children of God rejoiced:

8 Or who hath shut up the sea with doores, when it issued but and came forth as out of the wombe:

9 When I made the clouds and covering thereof, and darknesse as the swadling bands thereof:

10 When I stablished my commandment upon it, and set barres and doores, 11 And said, Hitherto shalt thou come, but no farther, and heere shall it stay thy proud waves.

12 Hast thou commanded the morning since thy dayes? hast thou caused the morning to know his place, 13 That it might take hold of the corners of the earth, & that the wicked might be shaken out of it?

14 It is turned as clay to fashion, and all stand up as a garment.

15 And from the wicked their light shall be taken away, and the high arme shall be broken.

16 Hast thou entred into the bottomes of the sea? or hast thou walked to seek out the depth?

17 Have the gates of death been opened unto thee? or hast thou seen the gates of the shadow of death?

18 Hast thou perceived the breadth of the earth? tell if thou knowest all this.

19 Where is the way where light dwelleth? and where is the place of darknesse, 20 That thou shouldest receive it in the bounds thereof, and that thou shouldest know the paths to the house thereof?

21 Knewest thou it, because thou wast then born? and because the number of thy dayes is great?

22 Hast thou entred into the treasures of the snow? or hast thou seen the treasures of the haile, 23 Which I have hid against the time of trouble, against the day of war and battle?

24 By what way is the light parted, which scattereth the East winde upon the earth?

25 Who hath divided the spoutes for the rain? or the way for the lightning of the thunders, 26 To cause it to rain on the earth where no man is, and in the wilderness where there is no man?

27 To fulfill the wilde and wast place, and to cause the bud of the herbe to spring forth?

28 Who is the father of the rain? or who hath begotten the drops of the dew?

29 Out of whose wombe came the ice? who hath ingendred the frost of the heaven?

30 The waters are hid as with a stone: and the face of the deep is frozen.

31 Canst thou restrain the sweet influences of the Pleiades? or loose the bands of Orion?

32 Canst thou bring forth Mazzaroth in their time? Canst thou also guide Arcturus with his sons?

33 Knowest thou the course of heaven? or canst thou set the rule thereof in the earth?

34 Canst thou lift up thy voice to the cloudes, that the abundance of waters may cover thee?

35 Canst thou send the lightnings that they may walk, and say unto thee, Lo, here we are?

36 Who hath put wisdom in the reins? or who hath given the heart understanding?

37 Who can number clouds by wisdom? or who can cause to cease the bottles of heaven?

38 When the earth groweth into hardness, and the clods are fast together?

CHAP. XXXIX.

28 Behold, ^p his hope is in vain: for shal not one perish even at the sight of him?

CHAP. XLII.

¹ By the greatness of this monster Liviathan, God sheweth his greatness, and his power, which nothing can resist.

NOne ^a is so fierce that dare stir him up. Who is he then that can stand ^b before me?

2 Who hath prevented me that I should make an end? All under heaven is mine.

3 I will not keep silence concerning ^c his parts; nor ^d his power, nor his comely proportion.

5 Who shall ^f open the doores of his face? his teeth are fearfull round about.

7 One is set to another, that no winde can come between them.

8 One is joyned to another: they stick together, that they cannot be sundred.

9 His niesings ^h make the light to shine, and his eyes are like the eye-lids of the morning.

10 Out of his mouth goe lamps, and sparks of fire leap out.

11 Out of his nostrils cometh out smoke, as out of a boyling pot or cauldron.

12 His breath maketh the coales burn: for a flame goeth out of his mouth.

13 In his neck remaineth strength, and ^h labour is rejected before his face.

14 The members of his body are joyned: they are strong in themselves, and cannot be moved.

15 His heart is as strong as a stone, and as hard as the nether mil-stone.

16 The mighty are afraid of his Majesty, and for feare they faint in themselves.

17 When the sword doth touch him he will not rise up, nor for the speare, dart, nor habergeon.

18 He esteemeth iron as straw, and brasse as rotten wood.

19 The archer cannot make him flee: the stones of the sling are turned into stubble unto him.

20 The darts are counted as straw: and he laugheth at the shaking of the speare.

21 Sharp stones ⁱ are under him, and he spreadeth sharp things upon the myre.

22 He maketh the depth to ^k boile like a pot, and maketh the sea like a pot of ointment.

23 He maketh a path to ^l shine after him: one would think the depth as an hoare head.

24 In the earth there is none like him: he is made without feare.

25 He beholdeth ^m all high things: he is a King over all the children of pride.

CHAP. XLII.

⁶ The repentance of Job. ⁹ He prayeth for his friends. ¹² His goods are restored double unto him. ¹³ His children, age, and death.

Then Job answered the Lord, and said, 2 I know that thou canst do all things, and that there is no ^a thought hid from thee.

3 who is he that hideth counsell without ^b knowledge? therefore have I spoken that I understood not, even things too wonderfull for me, and ^c which I knew not.

4 Heare,

^d That is, who dare pull off his skin?

^e Who dare put a bridle in his mouth? ^f Who dare look in his mouth?

^g That is, casteth out flames of fire.

^h Nothing is painfull or hard unto him.

ⁱ His skin is so hard that he lieth with as great ease on the stones as in the myre.
^k Either he maketh the sea to seem as it boileth by his wallowing, or else he spoureth water in such abundance as it would seem that the sea boyled.

^l That is, a white froth, and shining stream before him.
^m He despiseth all other beasts and monsters, and is the proudest of all others.

^a No thought so secret, but thou dost see it, nor any thing that thou thinkest, but thou canst bring it to passe.
^b Is there any but I? for this God I laid to his charge.
Chap. 38. 2. ^c I confesse herein mine ignorance, and that I spake I wist not what.

4 Heare, I beseech thee, and I will speak: I will demand of thee, ^d and declare thou unto me.

5 I have ^e heard of thee by the hearing of the eare, but now mine eye seeth thee.

6 Therefore I abhorre myself, and repent in dust and ashes.

7 ¶ Now after that the Lord had spoken these words unto Job, the Lord also said unto Eliphaz the Temanite, My wrath is kindled against thee, and against thy two friends: for ye have not spoken of me the thing that is ^f right, like my servant ^g Job.

8 Therefore take unto you now seven bullocks, and seven rams, and go to my servant Job, and offer up for your selves a burnt offering, and my servant Job shall ^h pray for you: for I will accept him, lest I should put you to shame, because ye have not spoken of me the thing which is right, like my servant Job.

9 So Eliphaz the Temanite, and Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite, went and did according as the Lord had said unto them, and the Lord accepted Job.

10 ¶ Then the Lord turned the ⁱ captivity of Job, when he prayed for his friends:

also the Lord gave Job twise so much as he had before.

11 Then came unto him all his ^k brethren, and all his sisters, and all they that had been, of his acquaintance before, & did eat bread with him in his house, and had compassion of him, and comforted him for all the evil, that the Lord had brought upon him, and every man gave him a ^l piece of money, and every one an earring of gold.

12 So the Lord blessed the last dayes of Job more then the first: for he had ^m fourteen thousand sheep, and six thousand camels, and a thousand yoke of oxen, and a thousand shee asses.

13 He had also seven sons, and three daughters.

14 And he called the name of one ⁿ Jemimah, and the name of the second ^o Keziah, & the name of the third ^p Keren-happuch.

15 In all the land were no women found so faire as the daughters of Job, and their father gave them inheritance among their brethren.

16 And after this lived Job an hundred and forty yeares, and saw his sons, and his sons sons, ^q even foure generations.

17 So Job died, being old, & full of daies.

^d He sheweth that he will be Gods scholar, to learn of him.

^e I knew thee only before by hearing, but now thou hast taught me to feel what thou art to me, that I may reigne my self over unto thee.

^f You took in hand an evil cause, in that you condemned him by his outward afflictions, and comforted him not with my mercies.

^g Who had a good cause, but handled it evil.

^h When you have reconciled your selves to him for the faults that you have committed against him, he shall pray for you, and I will hear him.

ⁱ He delivered him out of the affliction wherein he was.

^k That is, all his kinsred, read chap. 19. 13

THE PSALMES OF DAVID.

THE ARGUMENT.

His booke of Psalmes is set forth unto us by the holy Ghost, to bee esteemed as a most precious treasure, wherein all things are contained that appertaine to true felicity, as well in this life present, as in the life to come. For the riches of true knowledge and heavenly wisdom are set open for us, to take thereof most abundantly. If wee would know the great and high Majesty of God, here wee may see the brightnesse thereof shine most cleerely. If wee would seeke his incomprehensible wisdom, here is the schoole of the same profession. If wee would comprehend his inestimable bounty, and approach neere thereunto, and fill our hands with that treasure, here wee may have a most lively and most comfortable tast thereof. If we would know wherein standeth our salvation, and how to attaine to life everlasting, here is Christ our onely Redeemer, and Mediator, most evidently described. The rich man may learne the true use of Riches. The poore man may find full contentation. Hee that will rejoyce, shall know the true joy, and how to keepe measure therein. They that are afflicted and oppressed, shall see wherein standeth their comfort, and how they ought to praise God when hee sendeth them deliverance. The wicked and the persecuters of the children of God, shall see how the hand of God is ever against them, and though hee suffer them to prosper for a while, yet he bridleth them, in so much as they cannot touch an haire of ones head, except hee permit them, and how in the end their destruction is most miserable. Briefly, here wee may have most present remedies against all tentations, and troubles of mind and conscience, so that, being well practised herein, we may be assured against all dangers in this life, live in the true feare and love of God, and at length attaine to that incorruptible crowne of glory, which is laid up for all them that love the coming of our Lord JESUS CHRIST.

PSALME I.

Whether it was Esaias, or any other that gathered the Psalmes into a booke, it seemeth he did set this Psalm first in manner of a Preface, to exhort all godly men to study, and meditate the heavenly wisdom. For the effect thereof is, 1 That they bee blessed which give themselves wholly all their life to the holy Scriptures. 2 And that the wicked contenters of God, though they seeme for a while happy, yet at length shall come to miserable destruction.

Blessed is the man that doth not walk in the counsell of the wicked, nor stand in the way of sinners, nor sit in the seat of the scornful:

2 But his delight is in the Law of the Lord, and in his Law doth he meditate day and night.

3 For he shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of waters, that will bring forth her fruit in due season: whose lease shall not fade: so whatsoever he shall do, shall prosper.

4 The wicked are not so, but as the chaffe which the wind driveth away.

5 Therefore the wicked shall not stand in the judgement, nor sinners in the assembly of the righteous.

6 For the Lord knoweth the way of the righteous, and the way of the wicked shall perish.

PSALME II.

The Prophet David rejoyceth that notwithstanding his enemies rage, yet God will continue his kingdom for ever, and adventure is even to the end of the world. 10. And therefore exhorteth Kings and Rulers, that they would humbly submit themselves under Gods yoke, because it is in vaine to resist God. Herein is figured Christs kingdom.

Why doe the heathen rage, and the people murmur in vaine?

2 The kings of the earth band themselves, and the princes are assembled together against his Christ.

3 Let us breake their bands, and cast their cordes from us.

4 But he that dwelleth in the heaven, shall laugh: the Lord shall have them in derision.

5 Then shall he speake unto them in his wrath, and vexe them in his sore displeasure, saying,

6 Even I have set my king upon Zion mine holy mountaine.

a When a man hath once given place to evil counsell, or to his owne concupiscence, hee beginneth to forget himselfe in his sin, and so falleth into contempt of God, which contempt is called the seat of the scornful.

^{of their purposes, then shall destruction suddenly come. 1 Theff. 5. 3.}

PSAL. III.

¹ David driven forth of his Kingdome, was greatly tormented in mind for his finnes against God, and therefore calleth upon God, and waceth bold through his promises against the great railings and terrours of his enemies, yea, against death itself, which he saw present before his eyes. Finally, he rejoyceth for the good successe that God gave him, and all the Church.

² A Psalme of David, when he fled from his sonne Absalom.

Lord, how are mine adverlaries increased? how many rise against mee?

2 Many say to my soule, There is no helpe for him in God. Selah.

3 But thou Lord art a Buckler for me: my glory, and the lifter up of mine head.

4 I did call unto the Lord with my voice, and he heard mee out of his holy mountaine. Selah.

5 I laid mee downe and slept, and rose up againe: for the Lord sustained mee.

6 I will not be afraid for ten thousand of the people, that should beset me round about.

7 O Lord, arise: helpe mee, my God: for thou hast smitten all mine enemies upon the cheek bone: thou hast broken the reeth of the wicked.

8 Salvation belongeth unto the Lord, and thy blessing is upon thy people. Selah.

PSAL. IV.

¹ When Saul persecuted him, bee called upon God, trusting most assuredly in his promise, and therefore boldly reprooveth his enemies who wilfully resisted his dominion. 7 And finally, preferreth the service of God before all worldly treasures.

² To him that excelleth on Neginoth.

A Psalme of David.

Hear me when I call, O God of my righteousness: thou hast fet mee at liberty, when I was in distresse: have mercy upon me, and hearken unto my prayer.

2 O ye sons of men, how long will ye turne my glory into shame, loving vanity, and seeking lies? Selah.

^b Thou that art the defender of my just cause. ^c Both of mind and body. ^d Ye that think your selves noble in this world. ^e Though your enterprises please you never so much, yet God will bring them to nought.

3 For bee yee sure that the Lord hath chosen himselfe a godly man: the Lord will heare when I call unto him.

4 Tremble, and sin not: examine your owne heart upon your bed, and bee still. Selah.

5 Offer the sacrifices of righteousness, and trust in the Lord.

6 Many say, Who will shew us any good? but Lord, lift up the light of thy countenance upon us.

7 Thou hast given mee more joy of heart, then they have had, when their wheat and their wine did abound.

8 I will lay mee downe, and also sleepe in peace: for thou, Lord, onely makest me dwell in safety.

P. A. L. V.

¹ David oppressed with the cruelty of his enemies, and fearing greater dangers, calleth to God for succour, shewing how ready he is that God should punish the malice of his adversaries.

² After being assured of prosperous successe, hee conceiveth comfort.

³ Concluding that when God shall deliver him, others also shall be partakers of the same mercies.

⁴ To him that excelleth upon Neginoth.

A Psalme of David.

Hear my words, O Lord: understand my meditation.

2 Hearken unto the voice of my cry, my King and my God: for unto thee doe I pray.

3 Heare my voice in the morning, O Lord: for in the morning will I direct mee unto thee, and I will waite.

4 For thou art not a God that loveth wickednesse: neither shall evill dwell with thee.

5 The foolish shall not stand in thy sight: for thou hatest all them that worke iniquity.

6 Thou shalt destroy them that speake lies: the Lord will abhorre the bloodie man and deceitfull.

7 But I will come into thine house in the multitude of thy mercy: and in thy feare will I worship toward thine holy Temple.

8 Lead mee, O Lord, in thy righteousness, because of mine enemies, make thy way plaine before my face.

9 For no constancy is in their mouth: within they are very corruption: their throat is an open sepulchre, and they flatter with their tongue.

10 Destroy them, O God, let them fall from their counsels: cast them out for the multitude of their iniquities, because they have rebelled against thee.

11 And let all them that trust in thee, rejoyce and triumph for ever, and cover thou them: and let them that love thy name rejoyce in thee.

PSAL. VI.

1 When David by his finnes had provoked Gods wrath, and now fele not onely his hand against him, but also conceived the horrors of death everlasting, hee desired forgiveness.
6 Bewailing that if God tooke him away in his indignation, hee should lack occasion to praise him as hee was wont to doe whilst hee was among men. 9 Then suddenly feeling Gods mercie, hee sharply rebuketh his enemies which rejoyced in his affliction.

To him that excelleth on Neginoth upon the eight tune. A Psalme of David.

O Lord, rebuke me not in thine anger, neither chastise me in thy wrath.

2 Have mercy upon mee, O Lord, for I am weake: O Lord heale mee, for my bones are vexed.

3 My soule is also sore troubled: but Lord how long wilt thou delay?

4 Returne, O Lord: deliver my soule:
save mee for thy mercies sake.

5 For in death there is no remembrance of thee; in the grave who shall praise thee?

6 I fainted in my mourning: I cause my bed every night to swim, and water my couch with my teares.

7 Mine eye is dimmed for despight, and funke in because of all mine enemies.

8 Away from mee all yee workers of iniquity: for the Lord hath heard the voice of my weeping:

9 The Lord hath heard my petition:
the Lord will receive my prayer.

10 All mine enemies shall be confounded and fore vexed: they shall bee turned back, and put to shame suddenly.

PSAL. VII.

1 Being falsely accused by Chush one of Sauls kinsmen, hee calleth to God to bee his defender. 3 To whom hee commendeth his innocencie: 9 First shewing that his conscience did not accuse him of any evill towards Saul: 10 Next, that it touched Gods glory to award sentence against the wicked. 12 And so entering into the consideration of Gods mercies and promises, hee waxeth bold, & derideth the vaine enterprises of his enemies.
16 Threatning that it shall fall on their owne neck that which they have purposed for others.

To him that excelleth on the Lute, concerning the words of Chush the sonne of Jemini.

O Lord my God, in thee I put my trust: save mee from all that persecute mee, and deliver mee,

2 Left hee devour me like a lion, and teare it in peeces, while there is none to helpe.

3 O Lord my God, if I have done this thing, if there be any wickednesse in mine hands,

4 If I have rewarded evill unto him that had peace with mee, (yea, I have delivered him that vexed me without cause)

5 Then let the enemy persecute my soule and take it: yea, let him tread my life downe upon the earth, and lay mine honour in the dust. Selah.

6 Arise, O Lord, in thy wrath, and lift up thy selfe against the rage of mine enemies, and awake for mee according to the judgement that thou hast appointed.

7 So shall the Congregation of the people compasse thee about: for their sakes therefore returne on high.

8 The Lord shall judge the people:
judge thou me, O Lord, according to my righteoufneffe, and according to mine innocency, that is in mee.

9 Oh let the malice of the wicked come to an end: but guide thou the just:
for the righteous God trieth the hearts and reins.

10 My defence is in God, who preserveth the upright in heart.

11 God judgeth the righteous, and him that contemneth God, every day.

12 Except he turne, he hath whet his sword: he hath bent his bowe, and made it ready.

13 He hath also prepared him deadly weapons: he will ordaine his arrowes for them that persecute me.

14 Behold, he shall travell with wickednesse: for he hath conceived mischief, but he shall bring forth a lie.

15 He hath made a pit, and digged it, and is fallen into the pit that he made.

16 His mischief shall returne upon his owne head, and his cruelty shall fall upon his owne pate.

17 I will praise the Lord according to his righteoufneffe, and will sing praise to the Name of the Lord most high.

PSAL. VIII.

The Prophet considering the excellent liberality and fatherly providence of God towards man, whom hee made: as it were but is astonied with the admiration of the same, as one no-

2 I will be glad and rejoyce in thee : I will sing praise to thy Name, O most High.

3 For that mine enemies are turned back : they shall fall and perish at thy presence.

4 For ^b thou hast maintained my right and my cause : thou art set in the throne, and judgest right.

5 Thou hast rebuked the heathen : thou hast destroyed the wicked : thou hast put out their name for ever and ever.

6 O enemy, destructions are come to a perpetuall end, and thou hast destroyed the cities : their memoriall is perished with them.

7 But the ⁺ Lord shall sit for ever : hee hath prepared his throne for judgement.

8 For he shall judge the world in righteousnesse, and shall judge the people with equity.

9 The Lord also will bee a refuge for the ^d poore, a refuge in due time, even in affliction.

10 And they that know thy Name, will 11 Sing praises to the Lord, which dwelleth in Zion : shew the people his Selah.

P S A L. X.

1 He complaineth of the fraud, rapine, tyranny, and all kinds of wrong, which worldly men use, ascribing the cause thereof to the wicked men, being as it were drunken with worldly prosperity, and therefore setting apart all feare and reverence towards God, thinks they may doe all things without controuling.
13 Therefore he calleth upon God to send some remedy against these desperate evils, 16 And as length comforteth himselfe with hope of deliverance.

Why standest thou far off, O Lord, and hidest thee in ^a due time, even in 2 The wicked with pride doth perfecute the poore : let them bee taken in the crafts that they have imagined.

3 For the ^b wicked hath made boast of blesseth himselfe : he contemneth the Lord.

4 The wicked is so proud, that he seeketh not for God : hee thinketh alwayes,
There is no God.

5 His wayes alway prosper : thy judgements are high above his sight : therefore ⁺ deseth he all his enemies.

6 He saith in his heart, I shall ⁺ never

7 His mouth is full of cursing, and deceit, & fraud : under his tongue is mischief and iniquitie.

nocent : his eies are bent against the poore.

9 Hee lieth in waite secretly, even as a the poore : he doth spoile the poore when he draweth him into his net.

10 He croucheth and boweth : therefore heaps of the ^e poore do fall by his might.

11 He hath said in his heart, God hath forgotten, he hideth away his face, and will never see.

12 ^f Arise, O Lord God : lift up thine

13 Wherefore doth the wicked contemne God ? hee saith in his heart, Thou

PSAL. XI.

This Psalme containeth two parts. In the first, David sheweth how hard assaults of tentations he sustained, and in how great anguish of mind he was, when Saul did persecute him. 4 Then next hee rejoiceth that God sent him succour in his necessity, declaring his justice as well in governing the good and the wicked men, as the whole world.

To him that excelleth. A Psalme of David.

IN the Lord put I my trust: how say yee then to my soule, Flee to your mountaine as a bird?

2 For loe, the wicked bend their bow, and make ready their arrowes upon the string, that they may secretly shoot at them, which are upright in heart.

3 For the foundations are cast downe: what hath the righteous done?

4 The Lord is in his holy palace: the Lords throne is in the heaven: his eyes will consider: his eye-lids will trie the children of men.

5 The Lord will try the righteous: but the wicked, and him that loveth iniquity, doth his soule hate.

6 Upon the wicked hee shall raine snares, fire and brimstone, and stormy tempest: this is the portion of their cup.

7 For the righteous Lord loveth righteousness: his countenance doth behold the just.

PSAL. XII.

The Prophet lamenting the miserable estate of the people, and the decay of all good order, desired God speedily to send succour to his children. 7 Then comforting himselfe and others with the assurance of Gods helpe, he commendeth the constant verity that God observeth in keeping his promises.

To him that excelleth upon the eight tune. A Psalme of David.

HELP Lord, for there is not a godly man left: for the faithfull are failed from among the children of men.

2 They speake deceitfully every one with his neighbour, flattering with their lips, and speake with a double heart.

3 The Lord cut off all flattering lips, and the tongue that speaketh proud things:

4 Which have said, With our tongue will we prevaile: our lips are our owne: who is Lord over us?

5 Now for the oppression of the needy, and for the sighs of the poore, I will up, faith the Lord, and will set at liberty him, whom the wicked hath snared.

6 The words of the Lord are pure words, as the silver, tryed in a fornace of earth, fined seven fold.

7 Thou wilt keepe them, O Lord: thou wilt preserve him from this generation for ever.

8 The wicked walke on every side: when they are exalted, it is a shame for the sonnes of men.

PSAL. XIII.

David as it were overcome with sundry and new afflictions, fleeth to God as his onely refuge. 3 And so at the length being encouraged through Gods promises, he converteth most sure confidence against the extreame horrors of death.

To him that excelleth.

A Psalme of David.

HOW long wilt thou forget mee, O Lord, for ever? how long wilt thou hide thy face from mee?

2 How long shall I take counsell within my selfe, having heavinesse dayly in mine heart: how long shall mine enemy be exalted above mee?

3 Behold, and heare mee, O Lord my God: lighten mine eyes, that I sleep not in death:

4 Lest mine enemy say, I have prevailed against him: and they that afflict mee, rejoyce when I slide.

5 But I trust in thy mercy: mine heart shall rejoyce in thy salvation. I will sing to the Lord, because hee hath dealt lovingly with mee.

PSAL. XIV.

Hee describeth the perverse nature of men, which were so growne to licentiousness, that God was brought to utter contempt. 7 For the which thing, although he was greatly grieved, yet being perswaded that God would send some present remedy, hee comforteth him, selfe and others.

To him that excelleth. A Psalme of David.

THE foole hath said in his heart, There is no God: they have corrupted, and done an abominable worke: there is none that doth good.

2 The Lord looked downe from heaven upon the children of men, to see if there were any that would understand, and seeke God.

3 All are gone out of the way: they are all corrupt: there is none that doeth good, no not one.

4 Doe not all the workers of iniquity know that they eat up my people, as they eat bread? they call not upon the Lord.

5 There they shall be taken with feare, because God is in the generation of the just.

6 You have made a mock at the counsell of the poore, because the Lord is his trust.

c Because the Lords word & promise is true & unchangeable, hee will performe it, and preserve the poore from this wicked generation. f That is, thine, though hee were but one man.

g For they suppress the godly, and maintaine the wicked.

a Hee declareth that his afflictions lasted a long time, and that his faith faimed not. b Changing my purpose, as the sick man doth his place.

c Which might turne to Gods dishonour, if hee did not defend his. d The mercy of God is the cause of our salvation. e Both by the benefits past, and by others to come.

a He sheweth that the cause of all wickednesse is to forget God. b There is nothing but disorder and wickednesse among them.

c David here maketh comparison betweene the faithfull and the reprobate, but S. Paul speaketh the same of all men naturally. Rom. 3. 10.

d Where they think themselves most sure.

e You mock them that put their trust in God.

1 This Psalme teacheth on what condition God did chuse the Iewes for his peculiar people, and wherefore he placed his Temple among them, which was to the intent that they by living uprightly and godly, might witness that they were his special and holy people.

¶ A Psalme of David.

Lord, who shall dwell in thy Tabernacle? who shall rest in thy holy Mountaine?

a First, God required uprightnesse of life, next, doing well to others, and thirdly truth and simplicity in our words.

2 Hee that ^a walketh uprightly, and worketh righteousness, and speaketh the truth in his heart.

3 Hee that slandereth not with his tongue, nor doth evil to his neighbour, nor receiveth a false report against his neighbour.

b Hee that flattereth not the ungodly in their wickednesse.

4 ^b In whose eyes a vile person is contemned, but he honoureth them that feare the Lord: he that sweareth to his owne hinderance and changeth not.

c To the hinderance of his neighbour.

5 Hee that ^c giveth not his money unto usury, nor taketh reward against the innocent: hee that doth these things, ^d shall never be moved.

d That is, shall not be cast forth of the Church as hypocrites.

PSALM. XVIII.

^r This Psalm is the first beginning of his gratulation, and thanksgiving in the entering into his Kingdom, wherein he extollet and praiseth most highly the marvellous mercies and grace of God, who hath thus preferred and defended him. ^s Also hee satisfieth forth the image of Christs Kingdom, that the faithful may be assured that Christ shall alwayes conquer and overcome: by the unspeakable power of his Father, though all the whole world should strive there against.

^t To him that excelleth.

^u A Psalm of David the servant of the Lord, which spake unto the Lord the words of this song (in the day that the Lord delivered him from the hand of all his enemies, and from the hand of Saul) and said,

I Will love thee dearly, O Lord, my strength.

2 ^a The Lord is my rock, and my fortress, and he that delivereth me, my God, and my strength: in him will I trust, my shield, the horn also of my salvation, and my refuge.

3 I will call upon the Lord, which is worthy to be ^b praised: so shall I be safe from mine enemies.

4 The ^c sorrowes of death compassed mee, and the floods of wickednesse made mee afraid.

5 The ^d sorrowes of the grave have compassed mee about: the snares of death overtook mee.

6 But in my trouble did I call upon the Lord, and cried unto my God: he heard my voice out of his Temple, and my cry did come before him, ^e even into his eares.

7 ^f Then the earth trembled and quaked: the foundations also of the mountaines moved and shooke, because he was angry.

8 Smoke went out at his nostrils, and a ^g consuming fire out of his mouth: coales were kindled thereat.

9 Hee bowed the heavens also and came downe, and ^h darknesse was under his feet.

10 And hee rode upon ⁱ Cherub and did flie, and hee came flying upon the wings of the wind.

11 Hee made darknesse his ^j secret place, and his pavilion round about him, ^k even darknesse of waters, and clouds of the aire.

12 At the brightnesse of his presence his clouds passed, haile-stones, and coales of fire.

13 The Lord also thundred in the heaven, and the highest gave ^l his voice, haile-stones and coales of fire.

14 Then hee sent out ^m his arrowes and scattered them, and hee increased lightnings and destroyed them.

15 And the chanel of waters were scene, and the ⁿ foundations of the world were discovered at thy rebuking, O Lord, at the blasting of the breath of thy nostrils.

16 Hee hath sent downe from above and taken mee: he hath drawne mee out of many ^o waters.

17 He hath delivered mee from my ^p strong enemy, and from them which hate mee: for they were ^q too strong for mee.

18 They prevented mee in the day of my calamity: but the Lord was my stay.

19 He brought mee forth also into a large place: ^r he delivered mee because he favoured mee.

20 The Lord rewarded me according to my ^s righteousness: according to the purenesse of mine hands he recompenced mee.

21 Because I kept the wayes of the Lord, and did not wickedly against my God.

22 For all his Lawes were before mee, and I did not cast away his ^t commandments from mee.

23 I was upright also with him, and have kept mee from my ^u wickednesse.

24 Therefore the Lord rewarded mee according to my righteousness, and according to the purenesse of mine hands in his sight.

25 With the ^v godly thou wilt shew thy selfe godly: and with the upright man thou wilt shew thy selfe upright.

26 With the pure thou wilt shew thy selfe pure, and with the froward thou wilt shew thy selfe froward.

27 Thus thou wilt save the poore people, and wilt ^w cast down the proud looks.

28 Surely thou wilt light my candle: the Lord my God will lighten my darkness.

29 For by thee I have ^x broken through an host, and by my God I have leaped over a wall.

30 The way of the Lord is uncorrupt: the ^y word of the Lord is tried in the fire: he is a shield to all that trust in him.

31 For who is God besides the Lord? and who is mighty save our God?

32 God girdeth mee with strength, and maketh my ^z way upright.

33 Hee maketh my feet like Hindes feet, and setteth mee upon mine ^a high places.

34 He teacheth mine hands to fight: so that a bow of ^b brass is broken with mine armes.

3 Hee ^b restoreth my soule, and leadeth me in the ^c path of righteousness for his Names sake.

4 Yea, though I should walk through the valley of the ^d shadow of death, I will feare no evill: for thou art with me: thy rod and thy staffe, they comfort me.

5 Thou dost prepare a ^e table before me in the sight of mine adversaries: thou dost ^f annoint mine head with oile, and my cup runneth over.

6 Doubtlesse kindnesse and mercie shall follow me all the daies of my life,

P S A L. XXIV.

³ Albeit the Lord God hath made, and governeth all the world, yet toward his chosen people his gracious goodnesse doth most abundantly appeare, in that among them hee will have his dwelling place. Which though it was appointed among the children of Abraham, yet onely they doe enter a right into this ^{Sanctuarie}, which are the true worshippers of God, purged from the sinfull filth of this world. ⁷ Finally, he magnifieth Gods grace for the building of the Temple, to the end hee might stirre up all the faithfull to the true service of God.

A Psalme of David.

THE earth ^{*} is the Lords, and all that therein is: the world and they that dwell therein.

2 For hee hath founded it upon the ^a seas: and established it upon the floods.

3 Who shall ascend into the mountaine of the Lord, and who shall stand in his holy place?

4 ^r Even hee that hath innocent hands, and a pure heart: which hath not lift up his minde unto vanitie, nor sworne deceitfully.

A Psalme of David.

UNto thee, ^a O Lord, lift I up my soule.

3 ^{*} So all that hope in thee, shall not be ashamed: but let them be confounded, that transgresse without cause.

P S A L. XXVI.

^a David oppressed with many injuries, finding no helpe in the world, calleth for aide from God: and assured of his integrity toward Saul, desireth God to be his judge, and to defend his innocencie. ^b Finally, he maketh mention of his sacrifice, which he will offer for his deliverance, and desireth to bee in the company of the faithfull in the Congregation of God, whence he was banished by Saul, promising integrity of life, and open praises and thanksgivings.

A Psalme of David.

P S A L. XXVII.

^a David maketh this Psalme, being delivered from great perils, as appeareth by the praises and thanksgivings annexed: ^b Wherein we may see the constant faith of David against the assaults of all his enemies. ^c And also the end wherefore he desireth to live and to be delivered, only to worship God in his Congregation.

A Psalme of David.

THE Lord is my ^a light and my salvation, whom shall I feare? the Lord is the strength of my life, of whom shall I be afraid?

2 When the wicked, ^b even mine enemies and my foes came upon me to cate up my flesh, they stumbled and fell.

^a Because he was assured of good success in all his dangers, and that his salvation was surely hid up in God, he feared not the envious of his enemies.

^c The losse of country, wife, and all worldly commodities, grieve me not in respect of this one thing, that I may not praise thy name in the midst of the congregation.

13 I should have fainted, except I had beleaved to see the goodnesse of the Lord in the land of the living.

h In this present life before I die, as I have 38. 11. f Hee exhorteth himself to depend on the Lord, seeing he never failed in his promises.

14 Hope in the Lord: be strong, and he shall comfort thine heart, and trust in the Lord.

P S A L. XXVIII.

Being in great feare and heavinesse of heart to see God dishonoured by the wicked, hee desireth to be rid of them, and crieth for vengeance against them, and at length assureth himselfe that God hath heard his prayer. Unto whose tuition, he commendeth all the faithfull.

A Psalm of David.

Unto thee, O Lord, doe I crie: O my strength, bee not deafe toward mee, lest, if thou answer mee not, I bee like them that go downe into the pit.

a Hee counteth himselfe as a dead man, till God shew his favour toward him, and grant him his petition.

2 Heare the voice of my petitions, when I cry unto thee, when I hold up mine hands toward thine holy Oracle.

b He desired this earnestly, because hee was the weaknesse of his faith: for in this place was the arke, and there God promised to shew the tokens of his favour.

3 Draw me not away with the wicked, and with the workers of iniquitie: which speake friendly to their neighbours, when malice is in their hearts.

c Destroy not the good with the bad. d He thus praieeth in respect of Gods glory, and not for his own cause, being assured that God would punish the persecutors of his Church.

4 Reward them according to their deeds, and according to the wickednesse of their inventions: recompense them after the worke of their hands, render them their reward.

e Let them be utterly destroyed, as Malac. 1. 4.

5 For they regard not the workes of the Lord, nor the operation of his hands: therefore breake them downe, and build them not up.

f Because hee felt the assurance of Gods helpe in his heart, his mouth was opened to sing his praises.

6 Praised be the Lord, for hee hath heard the voice of my petitions.

7 The Lord is my strength and my shield, mine heart trusted in him, and I was helped: therefore mine heart shall rejoyce, and with my song will I praise him.

g Meaning his soldiers, who were as meenes, by whom God declared his power.

8 The Lord is their strength, and hee is the strength of the deliverances of his annointed.

9 Save thy people, and blesse thine inheritance: feed them also, and exalt them for ever.

P S A L. XXIX.

The Prophet exhorteth the Princes and Rulers of the world, (which for the most part, thinke there is no God.) At the least to feare him for the thunders and tempests, for feare whereof all creatures tremble. And though thereby God threateneth sinners, yet is he alwayes mercifull to his, and moveth them thereby to praise his Name.

A Psalm of David.

Give unto the Lord, ye sonnes of the mighty: give unto the Lord glorie, and strength.

a Hee exhorteth the proud tyrants to humble themselves under Gods hand, and not to bee inferiour to bruite beasts and dumb creatures.

2 Give unto the Lord glory due unto his Name: worship the Lord in the glorious Sanctuary.

3 The voice of the Lord is upon the waters: the God of glory maketh it to thunder: the Lord is upon the great waters.

b The thunder-clappes, that are heard out of the clouds, ought to make the wicked to tremble for feare of Gods anger.

4 The voice of the Lord is mighty: the voice of the Lord is glorious.

5 The voice of the Lord breaketh the cedars: yea, the Lord breaketh the cedars of Lebanon.

c That is, the thunderbolt breaketh the most strong trees, and shall men thinke their power to be able to resist God? d Called also Barmion.

6 Hee maketh them also to leape like a calfe: Lebanon also and Shirion like a young unicorn.

7 The voice of the Lord divideth the flames of fire.

e It causeth the Lightnings to shoot and glide. f In places most desolate, where it seemeth there is no presence of God.

8 The voice of the Lord maketh the wilderness to tremble: the Lord maketh the wilderness of Kadeth to tremble.

g For feare maketh them to cast their calves. h Maketh the trees bare, or plucketh the most tender places.

9 The voice of the Lord maketh the hinds to calve, and discovereth the forrests, therefore in his Temple doth everie man speake of his glory.

i Though the wicked are nothing moved with these signes, yet the faithfull praise God.

10 The Lord sitteth upon the flood, and the Lord doth remaine King for ever.

k To moderate the rage of the tempest and waters, that they destroy not all.

11 The Lord shall give strength unto his people: the Lord shall blesse his people with peace.

P S A L. XXX.

When David was delivered from great danger, he rendered thanks to God, exhorting others to doe the like, and to learne by his example, that God is rather mercifull than severe and rigorous towards his children. And also that the fall from prosperitie to adversitie is sudden. This done, he returneth to prayer, promising to praise God for ever.

A Psalm of David.

a After that Abimeon had polluted it with most filthy fornication, b Hee condemneth them of great ingratitude, which do not praise God for his benefits.

2 O Lord my God, I cried unto thee, and thou hast restored me.

c Restored from the rebellion of Abimeon.

3 O Lord, Thou hast brought up my soule out of the grave, thou hast revived mee from them that goe downe into the pit.

1 After David had eſcaped Achish, according as it is written in the 1 Sam. 21. 11. whom in this title hee calleth Abimelech (which was a generall name to all the Kings of the Philiftines) hee praiſeth God for his deliverance, 3 Provoking all others by his example to truſt in God, to feare him and ſerve him; 7 Who defendeth the godly with his Angels, 16 and utterly deſtroyeth the wicked in their ſinnes.

A Pſalme of David, when he changed his behaviour before Abimelech, who drove him away, and he departed.

I Will alway give thanks unto the Lord: his praiſe ſhall bee in my mouth continually.

2 My ſoule ſhall glory in the Lord: the humble ſhall heare it, and be glad.

3 Praise yee the Lord with me, and let us magnifie his Name together.

4 I fought the Lord, and he heard me: yea, he delivered me out of all my feare.

5 They ſhall looke unto him, and run to him: and their faces ſhall not bee aſhamed, ſaying,

6 This poore man cried, and the Lord heard him, and ſaved him out of all his troubles.

7 The Angel of the Lord pitcheth round about them, that feare him, and delivereth them.

8 Taſte yee, and ſee how gracious the Lord is: bleſſed is the man that truſteth in him.

9 Feare the Lord yee his Saints: for nothing wanteth to them that feare him.

10 The lions doe lacke, and ſuffer hunger, but they, which ſeeke the Lord, ſhall want nothing that is good.

11 Come children, hearken unto me: I will teach you the feare of the Lord.

12 What man is he that deſireth life, and loveth long dayes for to ſee good?

13 Keepe thy tongue from evil, and thy lips, that they ſpeake no guile.

14 Eſchew

k Therefore hee knoweth their wicked enterprises.

l If Kings and the mightie of the world cannot be ſaved by worldly means, but only by Gods providence, what have others to truſt in, that have not like means? m God ſheweth, that toward his mercy, which man by no means is able to compaſſe.

n Thus he ſpeaketh in the name of the whole Church, which onely depend on Gods providence.

a Hee promiſeth never to become unmindefull of Gods great benefit for his deliverance.

b They that are beaten down with the experience of their own evils.

c Which I conceived for the dangers wherewith I was.

d They ſhall be bold to ſee to thee for ſuccour, when they ſhall ſee thy mercie toward me.

e Though Gods power be ſufficient to governe us, yet for mans infirmities hee appointeth his Angels to watch over us.

f The godly by their patient obedience, profit more than they which ravine and ſpoile.

g If they abide the laſt triall.

h That is, the true religion and worſhip of God.

i 1 Pet. 3. 10.

j Seeing all men naturally deſire felicitie, hee wondereth why they caſt themſelves willingly into miſerie.

a It is the duty of the godly to ſet forth the praiſes of God for his mercy and power ſhewed toward them.

b To ſing on instruments, was a part of the ceremoniall ſervice of the temple, which doth no more appertaine unto us, then the ſacrifices, cenſings, and lights.

c That is, counſell, or commandement in governing the world.

d That is, the effect and execution.

e Howſoever the world judgeth of Gods workes, yet hee doth all things, according to juſtice and mercy.

f By the creation of the heavens & beautifull ornament, with the gathering alſo of the waters, he ſet forth the power of God, that all creatures might feare him.

g Or, was created.

h No counſell can prevail againſt God, but hee deſtroyeth it; and it ſhall have evil ſucceſſe.

i He ſheweth that all our felicitie ſtandeth in this, that the Lord is our God.

j He proveth that all things are governed by Gods providence, and not by fortune.

14 Eschew euill, and doe good: seeke peace, and follow after it.

15 The eyes of the Lord are upon the righteous, and his cares are open unto their crie.

16 But the face of the Lord is against them that doe euill, to cut off their remembrance from the earth.

17 The righteous crie, and the Lord heareth them, and delivereth them out of all their troubles.

18 The Lord is neare unto them that are of a contrite heart, and will save such as be afflicted in spirit.

19 Great are the troubles of the righteous: but the Lord delivereth him out of them all.

20 Hee keepeth all his bones: not one of them is broken.

21 But malice shall slay the wicked: and they that hate the righteous, shall perish.

22 The Lord redeemeth the soules of his servants: and none, that trust in him, shall perish.

P S A L M. XXXV.

So long as Saul was enemy to David, all that had any authority under him, to flatter their King (as is the course of the world) did also most cruelly persecute David: against whom hee prayeth God to please and to avenge his cause. 8 That they may be taken in their nets and snares, which they laid for him, that his innocencie may be declared. 27 And that the innocent which taketh part with him, may rejoyce and praise the Name of the Lord, that thus delivereth his servant: 28 And so he promisseth to speake forth the justice of the Lord, and to magnifie his Name all the dayes of his life.

A Psalme of David.

Lead thou my cause, O Lord, with them that strive with me: fight thou against them, that fight against me.

2 Lay hand upon the shield and buckler, and stand up for mine helpe.

3 Bring out also the speare, and stop the way against them, that persecute me: say unto my soule, I am thy salvation.

4 Let them bee confounded and put to shame, that seeke after my soule: let them bee turned backe, and brought to confusion, that imagine my hurt.

5 Let them bee as chaffe before the winde, and let the Angel of the Lord scatter them.

6 Let their way bee darke and slipperie: and let the Angel of the Lord persecute them.

7 For without cause they have hid the pit and their net for me: without cause they have digged a pit for my soule.

8 Let destruction come upon him at unawares, and let his net that hee hath laid privily, take him: let him fall into the same destruction.

9 Then my soule shall be joyfull in the Lord: it shall rejoyce in his salvation.

10 All my bones shall say, Lord, Who is like unto thee, which deliverest the poore from him that is too strong for him: yea, the poore and him that is in misery, from him that spoileth him!

11 Cruell witnesses did rise up: they asked of me things that I knew not.

12 They rewarded me euill for good, to have spoiled my soule.

13 Yet I, when they were sicke, I was clothed with a sacke: I humbled my soule with fasting, and my prayer was turned upon my bosome.

14 I behaved my selfe as to my friend, or as to my brother: I humbled my selfe, mourning as one that bewaileth his mother.

15 But in mine adversitie they rejoyced, and gathered themselves together: the abjects assembled themselves against mee: and I knew not: they tare me and ceased not.

16 With the false scoffers at banquetes, gnashing their teeth against me.

17 Lord how long wilt thou behold this? deliver my soule from their tumult, even my desolate soule from the lions.

18 So will I give thee thanks in a great Congregation: I will praise thee among much people.

19 Let not them that are mine enemies, unjustly rejoyce over mee, neither let them wink with the eye, that hate me without a cause.

20 For they speake not as friends: but they imagine deceitfull words against the quiet of the land.

21 And they gaped upon mee with their mouthes, saying, Aha, aha, our eye hath seene.

22 Thou hast seene it, O Lord: keepe not silence: bee not farre from mee, O Lord.

23 Arise and wake to my judgement, even to my cause, my God, and my Lord.

24 Judge mee, O Lord my God, according to thy righteousness: and let them not rejoyce over me.

25 Let them not say in their hearts, Our soule rejoyce: neither let them say, Wee have devoured him.

26 Let them bee confounded, and put to shame together, that rejoyce at mine hurt: let them be clothed with confusion and shame, that lift up themselves against mee.

27 But let them bee joyfull and glad, that love my righteousness: yea, let them say alway, let the Lord bee magnified, which loveth the prosperitie of his servant.

28 And my tongue shall utter thy righteousness, and thy praise every day.

P S A L M.

h He attributeth his deliverance onely to God, praising him therefore both in soule and body.

i That would not suffer mee to purge my selfe.

k To have taken from me all comfort, and brought me into deaire.

l I prayed for them with inward affection: as I would have done for my selfe: or, I declared mine affection with bowing downe mine head.

m When they saw me ready to slip, and as one that halted for infirmie.

n With their railing words.

o The word significeth cakes, meaning, that the proud countiers at their daintie feasts scoffe, taile and conspire his death.

p In token of contempt and mocking.

q Or, clefs of the earth: meaning, himselfe and others in their miserie.

r They rejoyced as though they had not seene David overthrowne.

s It is the justice of God, to give to the oppressors affliction and torment, and to the oppressed, aid and reliefe.

t Because wee have that which wee fought for, seeing hee is destroyed.

u That is, at once, were they never so many or mightie.

v This prayer shall alwayes bee verified against them that persecute the faithfull.

x That at least favour my right, though they bee not able to helpe mee.

y Hee exhorted the Church, to praise God for the deliverance of his servants, and for the destruction of his adversaries.

k The anger of God doth not onely smite the wicked, but also doth hee their name for ever.

l When they seem to bee swallowed up with afflictions, then God is at hand to deliver them.

m And as Christ seeth all the haire of his head.

n Their wicked enterprises shall turne to their owne destruction.

o For when they seeme to be overcome with great danger, and death is seene, then God sheweth himselfe their redeemer.

a Hee delivereth God to undertake his cause against them that did persecute him and slander him.

b Albeit God can with his breath destroy all his enemies, yet the holy Ghost attributeth unto him these outward weapons to assure us of his present power.

c Assure mee against these temptations, that thou art the author of my salvation.

d Smite them with the spirit of giddinesse, that their enterprises may bee foolish, and they receive just reward.

e Shewing, that wee may not call God to be a revenger, but onely for his glory, and when our cause is just.

f When hee promisseth to himselfe peace.

g Which he prepared against the children of God.

P S A L M. XXXVI.

1 The Prophet grievously vexed by the wicked, doth complain of their malicious wickedness. 6 Then he turneth to consider the unspeakable goodness of God toward all creatures. 9 But specially towards his children, that by the faith thereof, he may be comforted and assured of his deliverance, by this ordinary course of Gods worke. 13 who in the end destroyeth the wicked, and saveth the just.

¶ To him that excelleth. A Psalm of David, the servant of the Lord.

Wickednesse faith to the wicked man,^a even in mine heart, that there is no feare of God before his eyes.

2 For he^b flattereth himselfe in his owne eyes, while his iniquitie is found worthy to be hated.

3 The words of his mouth are iniquitie and^c deceit: he hath left off to understand and to doe good.

4 He^d imagineth mischief upon his bed: hee setteth himselfe upon a way, that is not good, and doth not abhorre evill.

5 Thy^e mercy, O Lord, reacheth unto the heavens, and thy faithfulnesse unto the clouds.

6 Thy righteousness is like^f the mighty mountaines: thy judgements are like a great^g deepe: thou, Lord, dost save man and beast.

7 How excellent is thy mercie, O God! therefore the children of men trust under the shadow of thy wings.

8 They shall be^h satisfied with the fatnesse of thine house, and thou shalt give them drinke out of the river of thy pleasures.

9 For with thee is the well of life, and in thy light shall we see light.

10 Extend thy loving kindnesse unto them thatⁱ know thee, and thy righteousness unto them that are upright in heart.

11 Let not the^j foot of pride come against mee, and let not the hand of the wicked men move me.

12^k There they are false that worke iniquitie: they are cast downe, and shall not be able to rise.

That is, in their pride wherein they flatter themselves.

C H A P. XXXVII.

1 This Psalm containeth exhortation and consolation for the weak, that are grieved at the prosperitie of the wicked: and the affliction of the godly. 7 For how prosperously forever the wicked doe live for the time, he doth assure their felicitie to be vaine and transitorie, because they are not in the favour of God, but in the end they are destroyed as his enemies. 11 And how miserably that the righteous seemeth to live in the world, yet his end is peace, and hee is in the favour of God, he is delivered from the wicked, and preserved.

¶ A Psalm of David.

Ret not^a thy selfe because of the wicked men, neither be envious for the evill doers.

2 For they shall soone be^b cut down like grasse, and shall whither as the greene hearbe.

3^c Trust thou in the Lord, and doe good: dwell in the land, and thou shalt be fed assuredly.

4 And delight thy selfe in the Lord, and he shall give thee thine hearts desire.

5^d Commit thy way unto the Lord, and trust in him, and hee shall bring it to passe.

6 And he shall bring forth thy righteousness as the light, and thy^e judgement as the noone day.

7 Wait patiently upon the Lord, and hope in him: fret not thy selfe for him^f which prospereth in his way: nor for the man that bringeth his enterprises to passe.

8 Cease from anger, and leave off wrath: fret not thy selfe^g also to doe evill.

9 For evill doers shall be cut off, and they that wait upon the Lord, they shall inherit the Land.

10^h Therefore yet a little while, and the wicked shall not appeare, & thou shalt look after his place, and he shall not be found.

11 Butⁱ meeke men shall possesse the earth, and shall have their delight in the multitude of peace.

12^j The wicked practiseth against the just, and gnasheth his teeth against him.

13 But the Lord shall laugh him to scorn: for he seeth that his day is comming.

14 The wicked have drawne their sword, and have bent their bow, to cast downe the poore and needie, and to slay such as be of upright conversation.

15 But their sword shall enter into their owne heart, and their bowes shall be broken.

16^k A small thing unto the just man, is better then great riches to the wicked and mighty.

17 For the armes of the wicked shall be broken: but the Lord upholdeth the just men.

18 The Lord^l knoweth the dayes of upright men, and their inheritance shall be perpetuall.

19 They shall not bee confounded in the perilous time, and in the daies of famine they shall have^m enough.

20 But the wicked shall perish, and the enemies of the Lord shall be consumed as theⁿ fat of lambes: even with the smoke shall they consume away.

21 The wicked borroweth and payeth not againe: but the righteous is mercifull and^o giveth.

22 For such as be blessed of God, shall inherit the Land, and they that bee cursed of him, shall be cut off.

b For Gods judgement current downe their state in a moment.

c Trust in God, and doe according to his will, are sure to know, that his providence will never faile.

d Bee not led by thine owne wisdom, but obey God, and he will finish his worke in thee.

e As the hope of the day-light cometh us not to be offended with the darkness of the night: so ought we patiently to trust that God will cleare our cause, and restore us to our right.

f When God suffereth the wicked to prosper a season, he savoureth their doings. Job. 1. 7. &c.

g Meaning, except hee moderate his afflictions, hee shall be led to doe as they doe.

*h Bee content with the impatience of our name, which cannot abide till the fulnes of Gods time be come. * Math. 5. 5.*

i The godly are assured that the power and care of the wicked shall not prevaile against them, but fall on their own neckes, and therefore ought patiently to abide Gods time, and in the meane while bewaile their sinnes, and offer up their teares as a sacrifice of their obedience.

k For they are daily fed, as with Manna from heaven, and have sufficient, when the wicked have hunger, but are hungry.

l God knoweth what diggers hang over his, and by what means to deliver them.

m For God will give them contented mindes, and that which shall be necessary.

n They shall vanish away suddenly: for they are fed for the day of slaughter.

o God so furnisheth him with his blessing, that he is able to help others.

a I see evidently by his deeds, that sinne pulseth forward the reprobate from wickednesse to wickednesse, albeit he goe about to cover his impietie. b Though all other delect his vile sinne, yet he himselfe seeth it not. c The reprobates mocke at whole some doctrine, and put not difference between good and evill. d By describing at large the nature of the reprobate, hee admonisheth the godly to beware of these vices. e Though wickednesse seemeth to overflow all the world, yet by thine heavenly providence thou governest heaven & earth. f Ebr. the mountaines of God: for whatsoever is excellent is thus called. g The depth of thy providence governeth all things, and disposeth the, albeit the wicked seeme to overwhelm the world. h Onely Gods children have enough of all things both concerning this life, and the life to come. i He sheweth who are Gods children, to wit, they that know him, and leade their lives uprightly. j Let not the proud advance himselfe against mee, neither the power of the wicked drive mee away. k That is, in their pride wherein they flatter themselves.

a He admonisheth us neither to vex ourselves for the prosperous estate of the wicked, neither to desire to bee like them to make our state the better.

^r God prospereth the faithful, because they walke in his waies with an upright conscience.

^q When God doth exercise his faith with diuers tentations.

^r Though the iust man die, yet Gods blessings are extended to his posterity, and though God suffer some iust man to lacke temporall benefites, yet hee recompeneth him with spiritual treasures.

^f They shall continually bee preserved under Gods wings, and have as fast, inward rest.

^t These three points are required of the faithful, that their walke be godly, that Gods law be in their heart, and that their life be upright.

^v For though it be sometime so expedient both for Gods glory, and their salvation, yet hee will approve their cause, and revenge their wrong.

^x So that the property of the wicked is but as a cloud, which vaniseth away in a moment.

^y Hee exhorteth the faithful to make diligently the examples both of Gods mercies, and also of his judgements.

^z Hee sheweth that the patient hope of the godly is never in vaine, but in the end, hath good successe, though for a time God prove them by sundry tentations.

23 ^p The paths of man are directed by the Lord: for he loveth his way.

24 Though he ^q fall, he shall not be cast off, for the Lord putteth under his hand.

25 I have beene young, and am old: yet I saw never the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging bread.

26 But hee is ever mercifull and lendeth, and his seed enjoyeth the blessing.

27 Flee from evill and doe good, and dwell for ever.

28 For the Lord loveth judgement, and forsaketh not his Saints: they shall be preserved for evermore: but the seed of the wicked shall be cut off.

29 The righteous men shall inherit the land, and dwell therein ^c for ever.

30 The ^t mouth of the righteous will speake of wisdom, and his tongue will talke of judgement.

31 For the Law of his God ^u is in his heart, and his steps shall not slide.

32 The wicked watcheth the righteous, and seeketh to slay him.

33 But the Lord will not leave him in his hand, nor condemne him, when he is ^v judged.

34 Waite thou on the Lord, and keep his way, and he shall exalt thee, that thou shalt inherit the land: when the wicked men shall perish thou shalt see.

35 I have seene the wicked strong, and spreading himselfe like a greene Bay tree.

36 Yet he ^x passed away, and loe, hee was gone, and I sought him, but he could not be found.

37 ^y Mark the upright man, and behold the iust: for the end of ^z that man is peace.

38 But the transgressors shall be destroyed together, and the end of the wicked shall be cut off.

39 But the ^z salvation of the righteous men shall be of the Lord: he shall be their strength in the time of trouble.

40 For the Lord shall help them, and deliver them: he shall deliver them from the wicked, and shall save them, because they trust in him.

PSAL. XXXVIII.

¹ David being sicke of some grievous disease, acknowledgeth himselfe to be chastised of the Lord for his finnes, and therefore prayeth God to turne away his wrath. ² Hee uttereth the greatnesse of his griefe by many words and circumstances, as wounded with the arrowes of Gods ire, forsaken of his friends, evill entreated of his enemies. ³ But in the end, with firme confidence he commendeth his cause to God, and hopeth for speedie helpe at his hand.

[¶] A Psalme of David for ^a remembrance.

^O Lord, rebuke me not in thine ^b anger, neither chastise me in thy wrath.

2 For thine ^c arrowes have light upon me, and thine hand lieth upon me.

3 There ^d is nothing found in my flesh, because of thine anger: neither ^e is there rest in my bones, because of my ^d sinne.

4 For ^e mine iniquities are gone over mine head, and as a weighty burden they are too heaue for me.

5 My wounds are putrified, and corrupt, because of ^f my foolishnesse.

6 I am bowed, and crooked very sore: I go ^g mourning all the day.

7 For my reines are full of burning, and there ^h is nothing found in my flesh.

8 I am weakned and sore broken: I ⁱ roare for the very griefe of mine heart.

9 Lord, I ^j poure my whole desire before thee, and my sighing is not hid from thee.

10 Mine heart ^k panteth: my strength faileth me, and the light of mine eyes, even ^l they are not mine owne.

11 My lovers and my friends stand aside from my plague, and my ^m kinsmen stand a farre off.

12 They also, that seeke after my life, lay snares, and they that goe about to do me evill, talke wicked things, and imagine deceit continually.

13 But I as ⁿ a deafe man heard not, and am as a dumbe man, which openeth not his mouth.

14 Thus am I as a man that heareth not, and in whose mouth are no reproofs.

15 For on thee, O Lord, doe I waite: thou wilt heare me, my Lord, my God.

16 For I said, Heare me, lest they ^o rejoice over me, for ^p when my foot slippeth, they extoll themselves against me.

17 Surely I am ready to ^q halt, and my sorrow ^r is ever before me.

18 When I declare my paine, and am sorry for my sinne, 20 They also that reward evill for good are mine adversaries, because I follow ^t goodnesse.

21 Forsake me not, O Lord: be not thou farre from me, my God.

22 Hasten thee to help me, O my Lord, my ^u salvation.

PSAL. XXXIX.

¹ David uttereth with what great griefe and bitterness of minde he was driven to these outrageous complaints of his infirmities. ² For he confesseth that when he had determined silence, hee brast forth yet into words that he would not, through the greatnesse of his griefe. ³ Then he rehearseth certaine requests which coste of the infirmities of man. ⁴ And minceh with them many prayers: but all doe shew a minde wonderfully troubled, that it may plainly appeare how he did strive mightily against death and desperation.

[¶] To the excellent Musician ^a Jeduthun.

A Psalme of David.

I Thought, ^b I will take heede to my waies, that I sinne not with my tongue:

Gods leisure, yet the vehemency of his paine caused him to break his promise.

^d David acknowledgeth God to be iust in his punishments, because his sinne had deserved much more.

^e Hee confesseth his sinne. Gods justice, and maketh prayer his refuge. ^f That rather give place to mine owne iust, then to the will of God. ^g Or, ^h as one that is distressed and consumed with sickness.

ⁱ This example warneth us never to despair, be the torment never so great: but alwaies to cry unto God with sure trust for deliverance.

I will keep my mouth bridled, while the wicked is in my sight.

2 I was dumbe and spake nothing: I kept silence even from good, and my sorrow was more stirred.

3 Mine heart was hot within me, and while I was musing the fire kindled, and I spake with my tongue, saying,

4 Lord, let mee know mine end, and the measure of my daies, what it is: let me know how long I have to live.

5 Behold, thou hast made my dayes as an hand breadth, and mine age as nothing in respect of thee: surely, every man in his best state is altogether vanity. Selah.

6 Doubtlesse man walketh in a shadow, and disquieteth himselfe in vaine: he heapeth up riches, and cannot tell who shall gather them.

7 And now Lord, what wait I for? mine hope is even in thee.

8 Deliver me from all my transgressions, and make me not a rebuke unto the foolish.

9 I should have been dumbe, and not have opened my mouth, because thou diddest it.

10 Take thy plague away from mee: for I am consumed by the stroke of thine hand.

11 When thou with rebukes dost chastise man for iniquitie, thou as a moth makest his beauty to consume: surely every man is vanity. Selah.

12 Heare my prayer, O Lord, and hearken unto my cry: keep not silence at my teares, for I am a stranger with thee, and a sojourner as all my fathers were.

13 Stay thine anger from me, that I may recover my strength, before I goe hence and be not.

P S A L. XL.

David delivered from great danger, doth magnifie and praise the grace of God for his deliverance, and commendeth his providence towards all mankind. 5 Then doth he promise to give himselfe wholly to Gods service, and so declareth how God is truly worshipped. 14 Afterward he giveth thanks, and praiseth God, and having complained of his enemies, with good courage hee calleth for aide and succour.

¶ To him that excelleth. A Psalm of David.

I waited patiently for the Lord, and he inclined unto me, and heard my cry.

2 Hee brought mee also out of the horrible pit, out of the miry clay, and set my feet upon the rocke, and ordered my goings.

3 And hee hath put in my mouth a new song of praise unto our God: many shall see it and feare, and shall trust in the Lord.

4 Blessed is the man that maketh the Lord his trust, and regardeth not the proud, nor such as turne aside to lies.

5 O Lord my God, thou hast made thy wonderfull works so many, that none can count in order to thee thy thoughts toward us: I would declare, and speake of them, but they are more then I am able to expresse.

6 Sacrifice and offering thou didst not desire: (for mine eares hast thou prepared) burnt-offering and sinne-offering hast thou not required.

7 Then said I, Loe, I come: for in the roll of the booke it is written of me.

8 I desired to doe thy good will, O my God: yea, thy Law is within mine heart.

9 I have declared thy righteousness in the great Congregation: loe, I will not refraine my lips, O Lord, thou knowest.

10 I have not hid thy righteousness within mine heart, but I have declared thy truth and thy salvation: I have not concealed thy mercy and thy truth from the great Congregation.

11 Withdraw not thou thy tender mercy from me, O Lord: let thy mercy and thy truth alway preserve me.

12 For innumerable troubles have compassed mee: my sinnes have taken such hold upon mee, that I am not able to looke up: yea, they are more in number then the haire of mine head: therefore mine heart hath failed me.

13 Let it please thee, O Lord, to deliver me: make haste, O Lord, to help me.

14 Let them be confounded and put to shame together, that seek my soule to destroy it: let them be driven backward and put to rebuke, that desire mine hurt.

15 Let them bee destroyed for a reward of their shame, which say unto me, Aha, aha.

16 Let all them, that seek thee, rejoyce and bee glad in thee: and let them that love thy salvation, say alway, The Lord be praised.

17 Though I be poore and needy, the Lord thinketh on me: thou art mine helper and my deliverer: my God make no tarying.

David being grievously afflicted, blest them that pierce his case. 9 And complaineth of the treason of his owne friends and familiars, as came to passe in Iudas. Ioh. 13. 18. After, hee feeling the great mercies of God gently chastising him, and not suffering his enemies to triumph against him, 13 Giveth most hearty thanks unto God.

^a Though when the wicked ruled, hee thought to have kept silence, yet his zeale caused him to change his minde.
^d Hee confesseth that he grudged against God, considering the greatness of his sorrows, and the thornes of his life.

^e Yet David offended in that, that hee reasoned with God, as though that hee were too severe toward his weak creature.
^f Make me not a mocking stock to the wicked, wrap me not up with the wicked, when they are put to shame.

^g Seeing my troubles came of thy providence, I ought to have endured them patiently.

^h Though thine open plagues light not evermore upon them, yet thy secret curse continually fretteth them.

ⁱ The word signifieth all that he desireth, as, health, force, strength, beauty, and in whatsoever hee hath delight, so that the rodde of God taketh away all that is desired in this world.

^k For his sorrow caused him to thinke that God would destroy him utterly: whereby wee see how hard it is for the very Saints to keep a measure in their words, when death and despair affaile them.

^e David goeth first one kind of Gods favour, to the contemplation of his providence over all, and confesseth that his counsels towards us are far above our capacities: we cannot so much as tell them in order.

^f Thou hast opened mine eares to understand the spiritual meaning of the sacrifices: and here David describeth the ceremonies of the Law nothing in respect of the spiritual service.

^g What thou hadst opened mine eares and heart, I was ready to obey thee, being assured that I was written in the booke of thine elect for this end.

^h In the Church, assembled in the Sanctuary.
ⁱ David here numbeth three degrees of our salvation: Gods mercy, whereby he pierceth us: his righteousness, which signifieth his continual protection: and his truth, whereby appeareth his constant favour: so that here of proceedeth our salvation.

^k As touching the judgement of the flesh, I was utterly destitute of all counsel: yet faith inwardly moved my heart to pray. I He desired that Gods mercy may contend for him against the rage of his enemies.
^m Let the same shame and confusion light upon them, which they intended to have brought upon me.

ⁿ As the faithful alwaies praise God for his benefits: so be wicked mocke God children in their afflictions.

^a Though God deferred his helpe, yet hee patiently abode, till he was heard.
^b Hee hath delivered mee from most great dangers.
^c That is, a speciall occasion to praise him: for Gods benefits are so many occasions for us to praise his name.
^d To follow their example, which he must needs do, that trusteth not only in the Lord.

the earth, and thou wilt not deliver him unto the will of his enemies.

3 The Lord will strengthen him upon the^b bed of sorrow: thou hast turned all his^c bed in his sicknesse.

4 Therefore I said, Lord have mercy upon me: heale my soule, for I have sinned against thee.

5 Mine enemies^d speak evill of me, saying, When shall he die, and his name perish?

6 And if hee come to see me, hee speaketh^e lies, but his heart heapeth iniquitie within him, and when he commeth forth, he telleth it.

7 All they that hate me, whisper together against me: even against me doe they imagine mine hurt.

8 A mischief is light upon him, and he that lieth, shall no more rise.

9 Yea, my^f familiar friend, whom I trusted, which did eate of my bread,^g hath lifted up the heele against me.

10 Therefore, O Lord, have mercy upon me, and raise me up: so shall I reward thee.

11 By this I know that thou favourest mee, because mine enemy doth not triumph against me.

12 And as for me, thou upholdest me in mine integrity, and doest set me before thyⁱ face for ever.

13 Blessed be the Lord God of Israel world without end. ^k So bee it, even so bee it.

¹ The Prophet grievously complaineth that being tested by his persecutors, hee could not bee present in the Congregation of Gods people, protesting that although hee was separated in body from them, yet his heart was thitherward affectioned. 7 And last of all, he sheweth that hee was not so far overcome with these sorrows and thoughts, 8 But that he continually put his confidence in the Lord.

As the Hart brayeth for the rivers of water, so^b panteth my soule after thee, O God,

2 My soule thirsteth for God, even for the living God: when shall I come and appeare before the presence of God?

3 My teares have beene my meat day and night, while they daily say unto me, Where is thy God?

4 When I remembered^d these things, I powred out my very heart, because I had gone with the multitude, and led them into the house of God with the voice of singing, and praise, as a multitude that keepeth a feast.

5 Why art thou cast down, my soule, and unquiet within me? ^e wait on God:

for I will yet give him thanks for the help of his presence.

6 My God, my soule is cast downe within me, ^f because I remember thee, from the land of Jorden, and Hermonim, and from the mount Misar.

7 One^g deep calleth another deep by noise of the water spouts: all thy waves and thy floods are gone over me.

8 The Lord^h will grant his loving kindnesse in the day, and in the night shall I sing of him, even a praier unto the God of my life.

9 I will say unto God, whichⁱ is my rock, Why hast thou forgotten me? why goe I mourning, when the enemy oppresseth me?

10 My^j bones are cut in sunder, while mine enemies reproach mee, saying daily unto me, Where is thy God?

11 Why art thou cast downe, my soule? and why art thou disquieted within mee? waite on God: for I will yet give him thanks: he^k is my present helpe, and my God.

P S A L. XLIII.

3 Send thy^c light and thy truth: let them lead me: let them bring me unto thine holy Mountaine and to thy Tabernacles.

4 Then^d will I goe unto the altar of God, even unto the God of my joy and gladnesse: and upon the harpe will I give thanks unto thee, O God, my God.

5 Why art thou cast down, my soule? and why art thou disquieted within me? ^e wait on God: for I will yet give him thanks, hee^f is my present helpe, and my God.

⁹ I will take no bullocke out of thine house, nor goats out of thy folds.

¹⁰ For all the beasts of the forest are mine, and the beasts on a thousand mountaines.

¹¹ I know all the fowles on the mountaines: and the wilde beasts of the field are mine.

¹ Who was either the Author, or a chiefe finger, to whom it was committed. ² To pleade against his dissimbling people before heaven and earth.

³ Because God had chosen it to have his Name there called upon, and also his image shined there in the doctrine of the law.

⁵ As witnesses against the hypocrites. ⁶ God in respect of his elect callen the; whole hoste holy Saints, and his people.

⁷ Which should know that sacrifices are seales of the covenant between God & his people, and not his religion therein.

⁸ For I passe not for sacrifices except the true be there, which is to confirm your faith in my promises.

⁹ Though he did delight in sacrifice, yet had he no need of mans help thereunto.

¹⁰ Though mans life for the immitie thereof hath need of food, yet God, whose life quickeneth all the world, hath no need of such meanes.

^a He will intreat how God governeth the world by his providence, which cannot be perceived by the judgement of the flesh.

^b Though wickednesse reigneth, and enemies rage, seeing God will execute his judgements against the wicked in time convenient.

^c To trull in riches is meer madnesse, seeing they can neither restore life, nor prolong it.

^d That is, so rare, or not to be found, as prophesie was precious in the dayes of Eli, 1 Sam. 3. 1.

^e Meaning, it is impossible to live for ever: also, that life and death are onely in Gods hands.

^f In that that death maketh no difference between the persons.

^g That is, not to their children, but to strangers. Yet the wicked profit not by these examples, but still dreame an immortallitie in earth.

^h Or, labour, that their name may be famous in earth.

ⁱ As touching the death of the body. ^j They speake and do the same thing that their fathers did.

14 Offer unto God praise, and pay thy vows unto the most High.

15 And call upon mee in the day of trouble: so will I deliver thee, and thou shalt glorifie me.

16 But unto the wicked said God, What hast thou to doe to declare mine ordinances, that thou shouldest take my covenant in thy mouth, 17 Seeing thou hatest to bee reformed, and hast cast my words behind thee?

18 For when thou seeest a thief, thou runnest with him, and thou art partaker with the adulterers.

19 Thou givest thy mouth to evill, and with thy tongue thou forgeest deceit.

20 Thou sittest, and speakest against thy brother, and slanderest thy mothers sonne.

21 These things hast thou done, and I held my tongue: therefore thou thoughtest that I was like thee: but I will reprove thee, and set them in order before thee.

22 Oh consider this, yee that forget God, lest I teare you in pieces, and there be none that can deliver you.

23 He that offereth praise, shall glorifie me: and to him that disposeth his way aright, will I shew the salvation of God.

When David was rebuked by the Prophet Nathan for his great offences, he did not onely acknowledge the same to God with protestation of his naturall corruption and iniquity, but also left a memoriall thereof to his posterity. 7 Therefore first he desired God to forgive his finnes, 10 And to renew in him his holy spirit, 13 With promise that he will not be unmindefull of those great graces. 18 Finally, fearing lest God would punish the whole Church for his faults, he requirerth that he would rather increase his graces towards the same.

To him that excelleth. A Psalme of David, when the Prophet Nathan came unto him, after he had gone in to Bath-sheba.

Have mercy upon me, O God, according to thy loving kindnesse: according to the multitude of thy compassions put away mine iniquities.

2 Wash mee thoroughly from mine iniquitie, and cleanse me from my sinne.

3 For I know mine iniquities, and my sinne is ever before me.

4 Against thee, against thee onely have I sinned, and done evill in thy sight, that thou maist be just when thou speakest, and pure when thou judgest.

5 Behold, I was borne in iniquitie, and in sin hath my mother conceived me.

6 Behold, thou lovest truth in the inward affections: therefore hast thou taught me wisdom in the secret of mine heart.

7 Purge mee with hyssope, and I shall be clean: wash me, and I shall bee whiter than snow.

8 Make mee to heare joy and gladnesse, that the bones, which thou hast broken may rejoyce.

9 Hide thy face from my finnes, and put away all mine iniquities.

10 Create in mee a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me.

11 Cast me not away from thy presence, and take not thine holy Spirit from me.

12 Restore to me the joy of thy salvation, and stablish me with thy free Spirit.

13 Then shall I teach thy wayes unto the wicked, and sinners shall be converted unto thee.

14 Deliver me from blood, O God, which art the God of my salvation, and my tongue shall sing joyfully of thy righteousness.

15 Open thou my lips, O Lord, and my mouth shall shew forth thy praise.

16 For thou desirest no sacrifice, though I would give it: thou delightest not in burnt offering.

17 The sacrifices of God are a contrite spirit: a contrite and a broken heart, O God, thou wilt not despise.

18 Be favourable unto Zion for thy good pleasure: build the walles of Jerusalem.

19 Then shalt thou accept the sacrifices of righteousness, even the burnt offering and oblation, then shall they offer calves upon thine altar.

David describeth the arrogant tyrannie of his adversarie Doeg: who by false surmises caused Ahimelech with the rest of the Priests to be slaine. 5 David propheseth his destruction. 6 And encourageth the faithfull to put their confidence in God, whose judgments are most sharp against his adversaries. 9 And finally, he rendereth thanks to God for his deliverance. In this Psalme is lively set forth the kingdome of Antichrist.

To him that excelleth. A Psalme of David to give instruction. When Doeg the Edomite, came and shewed Saul, and said to him, David is come to the house of Ahimelech.

Why boastest thou thy selfe in thy wickednesse, O man of Power? the loving kindnesse of God endureth daily.

2 Thy tongue imagineth mischief, and is like a sharpe rasor, that cutteth deceitfully.

3 Thou dost love evil more than good, and lyes more than to speak the truth. Selah.

4 Thou lovest all words that may destroy, O deceitfull tongue!

5 So shall God destroy thee for ever: he shall take thee and plucke thee out of thy tabernacle, and root thee out of the land of the living. Selah.

6 The righteous also shall see it, and feare, and shall laugh at him, saying, g Hee remembereth Gods comfortable mercies towards repentant sinners.

7 Behold

h By the bones he understandeth all strength of soule and body, which by cares & mourning are consumed.

i Hee confesseth that when Gods Spirit is cold in us, to have it againe revived, is as a new creation, k Which may assure me that I am drawn out of the slaverie of sinne.

p He prayeth for the whole Church, because through his sinne it was in danger of Gods judgement.

q That is just and lawfull, applied to their right end, which is the exercise of faith and repentance.

a O Doeg, which hath credit with the tyrant Saul, and hath power to murder the Saints of God.

b Thy malice moveth thee by crafty flatteries, &c. lies, to accuse and destroy the innocents.

c Though God forbear, for a time, yet at length hee will recompense thy falshood.

d Albeit thou seeme to be never so sure sealed.

e For the eyes of the reprobate are shut up at Gods judgements.

f With joyfull reverence, seeing that hee taketh their part against the wicked.

7 Behold the man that took not God for his strength, but trusted unto the multitude of his riches, and put his strength [†] in his malice.

8 But I shall be like a ^g greene Olive tree in the house of God: for I trusted in the mercy of God for ever and ever.

9 I will alway praise thee, for that thou hast done ^h this, and I will [†] hope in thy Name, because it is good before thy Saints.

to them that feare thee, that it maybe displayed because of thy truth. Selah.

5 That thy beloved may be delivered, helpe with thy right hand and heare me.

6 God hath spoken in his holinesse: therefore I will reioice, I will divide Shechem, and measure the valley of Succoth.

7 Gilead shall be mine, and Manasseh shall be mine: Ephraim also shall be the strength of mine head: Judah is my law-giver.

8 Moab shall be my wash pot: over Edom will I cast out my shoe: Palestina shew thy selfe joyfull for me.

9 Who will lead me into the strong citie? who will bring me unto Edom?

10 Wilt not thou, O God, which hadst cast us off, and didst not goe forth, O God, with our armies?

11 Give us helpe against trouble: for vaine is the help of man.

12 Through God wee shall doe valiantly: for he shall tread downe our enemies.

Whether that he were in danger of the Ammonites, or being pursued of Absalom, here he cryeth to bee heard and delivered. And confirmed in his kingdome, & hee promisseth perpetual prayes.

To him that excelleth on Neginoth.
A Psalme of David.

Hear my cry, O God: give eare unto my praier.

2 From the ends of the earth will I crie unto thee: when mine heart is oppressed, bring mee upon the rocke that is higher then I.

3 For thou hast been my hope, and a strong tower against theemie.

4 I will dwell in thy Tabernacle for ever, and my trust shall be under the covering of thy wings. Selah.

5 For thou, O God, hast heard my desires: thou hast given an heritage unto those that feare thy Name.

6 Thou shalt give the King a long life: his yeares shall be as many ages.

7 Hee shall dwell before God for ever: prepare mercy and faithfulness that they may preserve him;

8 So will I alway sing praise unto thy Name, in performing daily my vowes.

P S A L. LXII.

This Psalme partly containeth meditations, whereby David encourageth himselfe to trust in God against the assaults of temptation. And because our minds are easily drawne from God by the allurements of the world, he sharply reproveth this vanity, to the intent hee might cleave fast to the Lord.

To the excellent Musician Ieduthun.
A Psalme of David.

Y Et my soule keepeth silence unto God: of him commeth my salvation.

and resting upon Gods promise, beareth his crosse patiently.

2 Yet he is my strength and my salvation, and my defence: therefore I shall not much be moved.

3 How long will yee imagine mischief against a man? yee shall be all flaine: ye shall be as a bowed wall, or as a wall shaken.

4 Yet they consult to cast him down from his dignitie: their delight is in lies, they blesse with their mouthes, but curse with their hearts. Selah.

5 Yet my soule keepeth thou silence unto God: for mine hope is in him.

6 Yet is hee my strength and my salvation, and my defence, therefore I shall not be moved.

7 In God is my salvation, and my glory, the rock of my strength: in God is my trust.

8 Trust in him alway, yee people: powre out your hearts before him, for God is our hope. Selah.

9 Yet the children of men are vanity, the chiefe men are lies: to lay them upon a balance they are altogether lighter then vanity.

10 Trust not in oppression, nor in robbery: be not vaine: if riches increase, set not your heart thereon.

11 God spake once or twice, I have heard it, that power belongeth unto God,

P S A L. LXIII.

David after he had been in great danger by Saul in the desert of Ziph, made this Psalme. Wherein hee giveth thanks to God for his wonderfull deliverance, in whose mercies he trusted even in the mids of his miseries. Prophecying the destruction of Gods enemies: And contrariwise, happiness to all them that trust in the Lord.

A Psalme of David. When he was in the wilderness of Iudah.

O God, thou art my God, early will I seeke thee: my soule thirsteth for thee: my flesh longeth greatly after thee in a barren and dry land without water.

2 Thus I behold thee as in the Sanctuary, when I behold thy power and thy glory.

3 For thy loving kindness is better then life: therefore my lips shall praise thee.

4 Thus will I magnifie thee all my life, and lift up my hands in thy Name.

5 My soule shall be satisfied, as with marow and fatnesse, and my mouth shall praise thee with joyfull lips,

6 When I remember thee on my bed, and when I thinke upon thee in the night watches.

7 Because thou hast been my helper, therefore under the shadow of thy wings will I reioice

It appeareth by the oft repetition of this word, that the Prophet abode manifold tentations, but by resting on God, and by patience he overcame them all. Hee meaneth himselfe, being the man whom God had appointed to the kingdome. Though yee seeme to bee in honour, yet God will suddenly destroy you. David was greatly moved with these troubles, therefore hee stirreth up himselfe to trust in God.

These vehement and often repetitions were necessary to strengthen his faith against the horrible assaults of Satan.

Hee admonisheth us of our wicked nature, which rather hide our sorrow, and bite on the bridle, than utter our griefe to God, to obtaine remedy.

Give your selves wholly to God by putting away all things that are contrary to his Law.

He hath plainly borne witness of his power, so that none needeth to doubt thereof.

So that the wicked shall feeble thy power, and the godly thy mercie.

To wit, of Ziph. 1 Sam. 23. 14.

Though he was both hungry and in great distresse, yet he made God his sufficiency, & above all meat and drinke.

In this miserie I exercise my self in the contemplation of thy power and glory, as if I were in thy Sanctuary.

The remembrance of thy favour is more sweet unto mee then all the pleasures and dainties of the world.

e He assureth himselfe by the spirit of God to have the gift of constancie.

Hee prophesieth of the destruction of Saul, and them that take his part, whose bodies shall not be buried, but be devoured with wild beastes.

g All that sweare by God aright, or professe him, shall rejoyce in this worthy King.

8 My soule^e cleaveth unto thee: for thy right hand upholdeth mee.

9 Therefore they that seeke my soule to destroy it, they shall go into the lowest parts of the earth.

10^f They shall cast him downe with the edge of the sword, and they shall bee a portion for foxes.

11 But the King shall rejoyce in God, and all that^g sweare by him shall rejoyce in him: for the mouth of them that speake lies shall be stopped.

7 Hee appeaseth the^f noise of the seas, and the noise of the waves thereof, and the tumults of the people.

8 They also that dwell in the uttermost parts of the earth, shall bee afraid of thy signes: thou shalt make the^g East and the West to rejoyce.

9 Thou^h visitest the earth, and waterest it: thou makest it very rich: theⁱ River of God is full of water: thou preparest them corne: for so thou^j appointest it.

10 Thou^k waterest abundantly the furrowes thereof: thou causest the raine to descend into the valleys thereof: thou makest it soft with showres, and blestest the bud thereof.

PSAL. LXVII.

1 A prayer of the Church to obtaine the fauour of God, and to be lightened with his countenance, 2 To the end that his way and iudgements may be knowne throughout the earth. 7 And finally, is declared the kingdome of God, which should be universally erected at the comming of Christ.

PSAL. LXVIII.

In this Psalme David setteth forth, as in a glasse, the wonderfull mercies of God toward his people: 5 Who, by all meanes and most strange sorts, declareth himselfe to them. 25 And therefore Gods Church by reason of his promises, graces and victories, doth excell without comparison all worldly things, 34 Hee exhorteth therefore all men to praise God for ever.

To him that excelleth. A Psalme or song of David.

GOD will arise, and his enemies shall bee scattered: they also that hate him, shall flee before him.

2 As the smoke vanisheth, so shalt thou drive them away: and as waxe melteth before the fire, so shall the wicked perish at the presence of God.

3 But the righteous shall bee glad, and reioice before God: yea, they shall leape for joy.

4 Sing unto God, and sing praises unto his Name: exalt him that rideth upon the heavens, in his name Jah, and reioice before him.

5 He is a Father of the fatherlesse, and a Judge of the widowes, even God in his holy habitation.

6 God maketh the solitary to dwell in families, and delivereth them that were prisoners in stocks: but the rebellious shall dwell in a dry land.

He proveth that God will extend his grace also to the Gentiles, because he punitisheth among them, such as will not obey his calling.

Hee signifieth some speciall benefit, that God had shewed to his Church of the Jewes, in delivering them from some great danger, whereof, or of the like, he promisseth that the Gentiles shall be partakers.

The condition of the Church is here described, which is to be led by Gods providence into troubles, to be subject under tyrants, and to enter into manifold dangers. The doctrine of the faithful is here described, which are never unfaithful to render God praise for his benefits.

It is not enough to have received Gods benefits, and to be mindefull thereof, but also wee are bound to make others to profit thereby, and praise God. If I delight in wickednesse, God will not heare me: but if I confesse it, hee will receive mee.

When they feel his great benefits both spiritall and corporall toward them.

The Prophet sheweth that albeit God suffereth wicked tyrants to oppress his Church for a time, yet at length hee will be revenged of them.

He sheweth that when God declareth his power against the wicked, that it is for the commodity & salvation of his Church, which praise him therefore.

Jah and Jehovah are the names of God, which do signifie his essence and majestie incomprehensible, so that thereby is declared, that all idols are but vanitie, and that the God of Israel is the only true God. He giveth children to them that be childlesse, and increaseth their families.

Which is barren of Gods blessings, which before they had abused.

He teacheth that Gods favour peculiarly belongeth to his Church, as appeareth by their wonderfull deliverance out of Egypt.

God blessed the land of Canaan because he had chosen that place for his Church.

The fashion that was, that women sang songs after the victorie, as Miriam, Deborah, and others.

The prey was so great, that not only the souldiers, but women also, had part thereof.

Though God suffer his Church for a time to lie in black darkness, yet he will restore it, and make it most shining and white. In the land of Canaan, where his Church was.

That is, move our hearts with his holy Spirit, that we may feele his favour toward us. That both Jewes and Gentiles may know Gods covenant made with them. By these oft repetitions, hee sheweth that the people can never reioice sufficiently, & give thanks for the great benefits that they shall receive under the kingdome of Christ. He sheweth that where God favoureth, there shall be abundance of all other things.

a Of Shoshannim, read Psal. 45.

S Ave me, O God: for the ^b waters are sentred even to my soule.

b David signifieth by the waters, in what great dangers hee was, out of which God did deliver him.

2 I stick fast in the deepe mire, where no ^c stay is: I am come into deepe waters, and the streames run over me.

c No infirmities or habitude to fetter my feet.

3 I am weary of crying: my throat is drie: mine ^d eyes faile, whiles I wait for my God.

d Though his senses failed him, yet his faith was constant, and encouraged him still to pray.

4 They that hate me without a cause, are more than the haire of mine head: they that would destroy me, and are mine enemies ^e falsly, are mighty, so that I restored that which I ^f tooke not.

e Condemning me guiltlesse. f They judged mee poore innocent, as a thiefe, & gave my goods to others, as though I had stolne them.

5 O God, thou knowest my ^g foolishnesse, and my faults are not hid from thee.

g Though I bee guiltie to thee, yet am I innocent toward them. h Let not mine evil intencie of the enemies be an occasion that the faithfull fall from thee.

6 Let not them that trust in thee, O Lord God of hostes, be ashamed for ^h me: let not those that seeke thee, be confounded through me, O God of Israel.

7 For thy sake have I suffered reproof: shame hath covered my face.

8 I am become a stranger unto my brethren, even an aliant unto my mothers sonnes.

i When I saw thine enemies pretend thy Name only in mouth, and in their life deny the same. j Thine holy Spirit thrust me forward to reprove them, and defend thy glory.

9 ^j For the zeale of thine house hath eaten mee, and the rebukes of them that rebuked thee, are false upon me.

10 I ^k wept, and my soule fasted, but that was to my reproofe.

k My zeale moved me to lament and pray for my salvation.

11 I put on a sacke also: and I became a proverbe unto them.

12 They that ^l fate in the gate, spake of me, and the drunkards sang of me.

l The more hee sought to winne them to God, the more they were against him, both poore and rich. m Knowing that albeit I suffer now trouble, yet thou hast a time wherein thou hast appointed my deliverance.

13 But Lord, I make my praier unto thee in an ⁿ acceptable time, even in the multitude of thy mercie: O God, heare me in the truth of thy salvation.

14 Deliver me out of the mire, that I sinke not: let me be delivered from them that hate me, and out of the deep ⁿ waters.

n He sheweth a lively faith, in that hee assured himself, that God is favourable to him, when hee seemeth to be angry: and at hand, when he seemeth to be farre off.

16 Heareme, O Lord, for thy loving kindnesse is good: turne unto me according to the multitude of thy tender mercies.

17 And ° hide not thy face from thy servant, for I am in trouble: make haste and heare me.

18 Draw neere unto my soule and redeeme it: deliver me because of mine enemies.

19 Thou hast knowne my reprove and my shame, and my dishonour: all mine adversaries are before thee.

20 Rebuke hath broken mine heart, and I am full of heavinesse, and I looked for some to have pitie on me, but there was none: and for comforters, but I found none.

21 For they gave me gall in my meat, and in my thirst they gave mee vinegar to drinke.

22 Let their table bee a snare before them, and their prosperitie their ruine.

23 Let their eyes be blinded that they see not: and make their loines alway to tremble.

24 Powre out thine anger upon them, and let thy wrathfull displeasure take them.

25 * Let their habitation be voide, and let none dwell in their tents.

26 For they persecute him whom thou hast smitten: and they adde unto the sorrow of them, whom thou hast wounded.

27 Lay iniquitie upon their iniquitie, and let them not come into thy righteousness.

28 Let them be put out of the * booke of life, neither let them be written with the righteous.

29 When I am poore and in heaviness, thine helpe, O God, shall exalt me.

30 I will praise the Name of God with a song, and magnifie him with thanksgiving.

31 This also shall please the Lord better than a yong Bullock, that hath horns and hooves.

32 The humble shall see this, and they that seeke God, shall bee glad, and your heart shall live.

33 For the Lord heareth the poor, and despiseth not his prisoners.

34 Let heaven and earth praise him: the seas, and all that moveth in them.

35 For God will save Zion, and build the cities of Judah, that men may dwell there, and have it in possession.

36 The * seed also of his servants shall inherit it: and they that love

7 I am become as it were a ° monster unto many: but thou art my sure trust.

8 Let my mouth be filled with thy praise, and with thy glory every day.

9 Cast me not off in the time of ° age: forsake me not when my strength faileth.

10 For mine enemies speak of me, and they that lay waite for my soul, take their counsell together, saying, he is dead.

11 Saying, ° God hath forsaken him: pursue and take him: for there is none to deliver him.

12 Goe not farre from me, O God: my God, haste thee to helpe me.

foraken them, if hee suffer them to fall into their hands. God, he purrETH backe the false reports of the adversaries, that said, God hath forsaken him.

a Which might put him in remembrance of his deliverance.

* Psal. 40. 13.

b He teacheth us to bee earnest in prayer, though God seem to stay: for at his time, he will heare us.

c He was assured that the more they raged, the nearer they were to destruction, and hee the nearer to his deliverance.

d Hereby we are taught not to mock at others in their miserie, lest the same fall on our owne neckes.

e Because he had felt Gods helpe before, he groundeth on experience, and boldly seeketh unto him for succour.

* Psal. 31. 1.

a Hee prayeth to God with full assurance of faith: that he will deliver him from his adversaries.

b By declaring thy selfe true of promise.

c Thou hast infinite merces, and all creatures are at thy commandment: therefore shew some signe whereby I shall be delivered.

d That is, from Absalom, Achitophel, and that conspiracy.

e Hee strengtheneth his faith by the experience of Gods benefits, who did not only preserve him in his mothers belly, but tooke him thence, and ever since hath preserved him.

f All the world wondereth at me, because of my miserie, as well they in authority, as the common people, yet being assured of thy favor, I remained steadfast.

g Thou that didst helpe mee in my youth, when I had more strength, help mee now, so much the more in mine old age and weakness.

h Thus the wicked both blaspheme God, and triumph against his Saints, as though he had forsaken them.

i In calling him his God, he purrETH backe the false reports of the adversaries, that said, God hath forsaken him.

13 Let them be confounded and consumed that are against my soule : let them be covered with reproofe and confusion, that seeke mine hurt.

14 But I will waite continually, and will praise thee more and more.

15 My mouth shall daily rehearse thy righteousness, and thy salvation : ^k for I know not the number.

16 I will ^l goe forward in the strength of the Lord God, and will make mention of thy righteousness, even of thine onely.

17 O God, thou hast taught mee from my youth even untill now : therefore will I tell of thy wondrous workes.

18 ^m Yea, even unto mine old age and gray head, O God : forsake me not, untill I have declared thine arme unto this generation, and thy power to all them, that shall come.

19 And thy ⁿ righteousness, O God, I will exalt on high : for thou hast done great things : ^o O God, who is like unto thee !

20 Which hast shewed me great troubles and adversities, but thou wilt return and revive me, and wilt come againe, and take me up from the depth of the earth.

21 Thou wilt increase mine honour, and returne and comfort me.

22 Therefore will I praise thee for thy ^q faithfulness, O God, upon instrument and viole : unto thee will I sing upon the harpe, O Holy one of Israel.

23 My lips will reioice when I sing unto thee, and my ^r soule, which thou hast delivered.

24 My tongue also shall talke of thy righteousness daily : for they are confounded and brought unto shame, that seeke mine hurt.

¹ Hee prayeth for the prosperous estate of the kingdome of Salomon, who was the figure of Christ. ⁴ Under whom shall be righteousness, peace and felicitie. ¹⁰ Unto whom all Kings and nations shall doe homage. ¹⁷ Whose name and power shall endure for ever, and in whom all nations shall be blessed.

A Psalme of ^a Salomon.

Give thy ^b judgements to the King, O God, and thy righteousness to the Kings ^c sonne.

2 Then shall hee judge thy people in righteousness, and thy poore with equitie.

3 The ^d mountaines and the hills shall bring peace to the people by justice.

4 He shall ^e judge the poore of the people : hee shall save the children of the needy, and shall subdue the oppressour.

5 They shall ^f feare thee as long as the sunne and moone endureth, from generation to generation.

6 He shall come ^g down like the raine upon the founteyne of life, and shall be like the dew upon the founteyne of life. ^g As this is true in all godly Kings, so is it chiefly verified in Christ, who with his heavenly dew, maketh his Church ever to flourish.

7 In his dayes shall the righteous flourish, and abundance of peace shall bee so long as the moone endureth.

8 His dominion shall bee also from ^h sea to sea, and from the river unto the ends of the land.

9 They that dwell in the wilderness, shall kneele before him, and his enemies shall lick the dust.

10 The Kings of ⁱ Tarshish and of the Isles shall bring presents : the Kings of ^k Sheba and Seba shall bring gifts.

11 Yea, all kings shall worship him : all nations shall serve him.

12 For he shall deliver the poor when he crieth : the needy also, and him that hath no helper.

13 He shall be mercifull to the poore and needy, and shall preserve the soules of the poore.

14 He shall redeeme their soules from deceit and violence, and ^l deare shall their blood be in his sight.

15 Yea, he shall live, and unto him shall they give of the ^m gold of Sheba : and they shall also pray for him continually, and daily blesse him.

16 An handfull of corne shall be ⁿ sowne in the earth, even in the top of the mountains, and the ^o fruit thereof shall shake like the trees of Lebanon : and the children shall flourish out of the citie like the grasse of the earth.

17 His name shall be for ever : his name shall endure as long as the sun : all nations shall blesse ^p him, and be blessed in him.

18 Blessed be the Lord God, even the God of Israel which doth only ^q wondrous things.

19 And blessed be his glorious Name for ever : and let all the earth be filled with his glory. So be it, even so be it.

Here end the ^r praises of David, the sonne of Ithai.

P S A L. LXXIII.

¹ The Prophet teacheth by his example, that neither the worldly prosperitie of the ungodly, ¹⁴ Nor the affliction of the good, ought to discourage Gods children : but rather ought to move us to consider our Fathers providence, and to cause us to reverence Gods judgements. ¹⁹ For as much as the wicked vanish away. ²⁴ And the godly enter into life everlasting : ²⁸ In hope whereof, hee resigneth himselfe into Gods hands.

A Psalme committed to Asaph.

Yet ^a God is good to Israel, even to the pure in heart.

2 As for mee, my feete were almost gone : my steps had wel neere slipt.

3 For I fretted at the foolish, when I saw the prosperitie of the wicked.

4 For there are ^b no bands in their death, but they are lustie and strong.

death like prisoners : that is, by sickness, which is deaths messenger.

5 They

^k Because thy benefits toward mee are innumerable, I cannot but continually meditate & rehearse them. I will remaine steadfast, being upholden with the power of God.

^m Hee desireth that as hee hath begun, he would so continue his benefits, that his liberalitie may have perfit praise.

ⁿ The just performance of thy promise.

^o His faith breaketh through all tentations, and by this exclamation hee praiseth the power of God. ^p As hee confesseth that God is the onely Author of his deliverance, so he acknowledgeth that these evils were sent unto him by Gods providence.

^q Hee confesseth that his long patience was well recompensed, when God performed his promise.

^r For there is no true praising of God, except it come from the heart : & therefore hee promiseth to delight in nothing but wherein God may be glorified.

^a Composed by David, as touching the reign of his son Salomon. ^b Endure the King with the spirit of wisdom and justice, that hee reign not as doe the worldly tyrants. ^c To wit : to his posteritie. ^d When justice reigneth, even the places most barren, shall be enriched with thy blessings. ^e Hee sheweth wherefore the sword is committed to Kings : to wit, to defend the innocent, and suppress the wicked. ^f The people shall embrace thy true religion, when thou givest a King that ruleth according to thy word. ^g As this is true in all godly Kings, so is it chiefly verified in Christ, who with his heavenly dew, maketh his Church ever to flourish.

^h That is, from the red sea to the sea called Syriacum, and from Euphrates forward : meaning, that Christs Kingdome should be large and universal. ⁱ Of Cilicia, and of all other countries beyond the sea, which hee meaneth by the Isles. ^k That is, of Arabia that rich countrie, whereof Sheba was a part bordering upon Ethiopia.

^l Though tyrants passe not to shed blood, yet this godly king shall preserve his subjects from all kind of wrong. ^m God will both prosper his life, and also make the people most willing to obey him.

ⁿ Under such a king there will be most great plenty, both of fruit, and also of the increase of mankind.

^o They shall pray to God for his continuance, and know that God doth prosper this for his sake. ^p Hee confesseth that except God miraculously preserve his people, that neither the king, nor the kingdome can continue. ^q Concerning his sonne Salomon.

^a As it were betweene hope and despair hee stretcheth forth into this affection, being assured that God would continue his favour toward such as were godly in deed, and not hypocrites. ^b The wicked in this life live as pleasure, and are not drawne to death like prisoners : that is, by sickness, which is deaths messenger.

5 They are not in trouble as other men, neither are they plagued with other men.

6 ^c Therefore pride is as a chaine unto them, and cruelty covereth them as a garment.

7 Their eyes stand out for fatnesse: [†] they have more then heart can with.

8 They are licentious, and speake wickedly of their oppression: they talke presumptuously.

9 They ^d set their mouth against heaven, and their tongue walketh through the earth.

10 Therefore his ^e people turne hither: for waters of a full cup are wrung out to them.

11 And they ^f say, How doeth God know it? or is there knowledge in the most High?

12 Lo, these are the wicked, yet prosper they alway, and increase in riches.

13 Certainly I have cleansed mine heart in vaine, and washed mine hands in innocency.

14 For dayly I have beene punished, and chastened every morning.

15 If I say, ^g I will judge thus, behold the generation of thy children: I have trespassed.

16 Then thought I to know this, but it was too painefull for mee, 17 Untill I went into the ^h Sanctuary of God: then understood I their end.

18 Surely thou hast set them in slippery places, and castest them downe into desolation.

19 How suddenly are they destroyed, perished, and ⁱ horribly consumed, 20 As a dreame when one awaketh! O Lord, when ^k thou raisest us up, thou shalt make their image despised.

21 Certainly mine heart was vexed, and I was pricked in my reines:

22 So foolish was I and ignorant: I was a ^l beast before thee.

23 Yet I was alway ^m with thee: thou hast holden mee by my right hand.

24 Thou wilt guid me by thy counsell, and afterward receive mee to glory.

25 Whom have I in ⁿ heaven but thee? and I have desired none in the earth with thee.

26 My flesh faileth, and mine heart ^o faileth: but God is the strength of mine heart, and my ^p portion for ever.

27 For loe, they that withdraw themselves from thee shall perish: thou destroyest all them that ^q goe a whoring from thee.

28 As for mee, it is good for mee ^r to draw neere to God: therefore I have put my trust in the Lord God, that I may declare all thy workes.

PSAL. LXXIV.

¹ The faithfull complaine of the destruction of the Church, and true religion, ² Under the name of Zion, and the Temple destroyed: ¹¹ And trusting in the might and free mercies of God, ²⁰ By his covenant, ²¹ They require helpe and succour for the glory of Gods holy Name, for the salvation of his poore afflicted servants, ²³ And the confusion of his proud enemies.

¶ A Psalm to give instruction, committed to Asaph.

O God, ^a why hast thou put us away for ever? ^b why is thy wrath kindled against the sheepe of thy pasture?

2 Thinke upon thy Congregation, which thou hast possessed of old, and on the ^b rod of thine inheritance, which thou hast redeemed, and on this mount Zion wherein thou hast dwelt.

3 Lift up thy [†] strokes, that thou mayest for ever destroy every enemy that doth evill to the Sanctuary.

4 Thine adversaries roare in the mids of thy Congregation, and ^c set up their banners for signes.

5 He that ^d lifted the axes upon the thick trees, was renowned, as one that brought a thing to perfection:

6 But now they breake downe the carved worke thereof with axes and hammers.

7 They have cast thy Sanctuary into the fire, and razed it to the ground, and have defiled the dwelling place of thy Name.

8 They said in their ^e hearts, Let us destroy them altogether: they have burnt all the Synagogues of God in the land.

9 Wee see not our signes: there is not one Prophet more, nor any with us that knoweth ^f how long.

10 O God, how long shall the adversary reproch thee? shall the enemy blaspheme thy Name for ever?

11 Why withdrawest thou thine hand, even thy right hand? draw it out of thy bosome, and ^g consume them.

12 Even God is my King of old, working salvation ^h in the mids of the earth.

13 Thou didst divide the sea by thy power: thou brakest the heads of the ⁱ dragons in the waters.

14 Thou brakest the head of ^k Leviathan in pieces, and gavest him to bee ^l meat for the people in the wilderness:

15 Thou brakest up the fountaine and river: thou driedst up mighty rivers.

16 The ^m day is thine, and the night is thine: thou hast prepared the light and the sun.

17 Thou hast set all the borders of the earth: thou hast made summer and winter.

^a The Church of God being oppressed by the tyranny either of the Babylonians, or of Antiochus, prayeth to God, by whose hand this yoke was laid upon them for their sins. ^b Which inheritance thou hast measured out for thy selfe, as with a line or rod. [†] Or, a spear.

^c They have destroyed thy true religion, and spread their banners in signe of defiance. ^d Hee commended the temple for the costly matter, the excellent workmanship and beauty thereof, which notwithstanding the enemies did destroy.

^e They encouraged one another to cruelty, that not onely Gods people might bee destroyed, but also his religion utterly in all places suppressed. ^f They lamented that they have no Prophet among them, to shew them how long their miseries should endure.

^g They joyne their deliverance with Gods glory and power, knowing that the punishment of the enemy should bee their deliverance. ^h Meaning in the fight of all the world. ⁱ To wit, Pharaohs army. ^k Which was a great monster of the sea, or whales, meaning Pharaoh. ^l His destruction did rejoyce them, as meat refresheth the body. ^m Seeing that God by his providence governeth and disposeth all things, hee gathereth that hee will take care chiefly for his children.

18 Remember this, that the enemy hath reproached the Lord, and the foolish people have blasphemed thy Name.

19 Give not the soule of thy ⁿ turtle dove unto the beast, and forget not the Congregation of thy poore for ever.

20 Consider thy Covenant: for ^o the darke places of the earth are full of the habitations of the cruell.

21 Oh let not the oppressed returne ashamed, but let the poore and needy praise thy Name.

22 Arise, O God: maintaine thine owne cause: remember thy dayly reproach by the foolish man.

23 Forget not the voice of thine enemies: for the tumult of them that rise against thee, [†] ascendeth continually.

P S A L. LXXVIII.

He sheweth how God of his mercie chose his Church of the posteritie of Abraham, 8 Reproaching the stubborn rebellion of their fathers, that the children might not onely understand, 10 That God of his free mercie made his covenant with their ancestors, 17 But also seeing them so malicious and perverse, might be ashamed, and so turne wholly to God. In this Psalme the holy Ghost hath comprehended, as it were, the summe of all Gods benefits, to the intent, the ignorant and grosse people might see in few words the effect of the whole historie of the Bible.

A Psalme to give instruction, committed to Asaph.

Hear my doctrine, O my people: incline your eares unto the words of my mouth.

2 I will open my mouth in parables: I will declare high sentences of old,

3 Which we have heard and known, and our fathers have told us.

4 We will not hide them from their children, but to the generation to come we will shew the praises of the Lord, his power also, and his wonderfull workes that he hath done:

5 How he established a testimony in Jaakob, and ordained a Law in Israel, which hee commanded our fathers, that they should teach their children:

6 That the posteritie might know it, and the children which should bee borne, should stand up, and declare it to their children:

7 That they might set their hope on God, and not forget the workes of God, but keepe his commandments:

8 And not to be as their Fathers, a disobedient and rebellious generation: a generation that set not their heart aright, and whose spirit was not faithfull unto God.

9 The children of Ephraim being armed, and shooting with the bow, turned back in the day of battel.

10 They kept not the covenant of God, but refused to walke in his Law:

11 And forgat his Acts, and his wonderfull workes that he had shewed them.

12 Hee did marvellous things in the fight of their fathers in the land of Egypt, even in the field of Zoan.

13 He divided the sea, and led them through: hee made also the waters to stand as an heape.

14 In the day time also hee led them with a cloud, and all the night with a light of fire.

15 He clave the rocks in the wilderness, and gave them drink as of the great depths.

16 He brought floods also out of the stony rocke, so that hee made the waters to descend like the rivers.

17 Yet they sinned still against him, and provoked the Highest in the wilderness.

18 And tempted God in their hearts: in requiring meat for their lust.

19 They spake against God also, saying, Can God prepare a table in the wilderness?

20 Behold, he smote the rocke, that the water gushed out, and the streames overflowed: can hee give bread also? or prepare flesh for his people?

21 Therefore the Lord heard, and was angry, and the fire was kindled in Jaakob, and also wrath came upon Israel:

22 Because they beleevd not in God, and trusted not in his helpe.

23 Yet he had commanded the clouds above, & had opened the doors of heaven:

24 And had rained downe MAN upon them for to eat, and had given them of the wheat of heaven.

25 Man did eat the bread of Angels: he sent them meat enough.

26 Hee caused the Eastwind to passe in the heaven: and through his power hee brought in the Southwind.

27 Hee rained flesh also upon them as dust, and feathered fowle as the sand of the Sea.

28 And he made it fall in the mids of their campe, even round about their habitations:

f Hee sheweth wherein the use of this doctrine standeth, in faith, in the meditation of Gods benefits, and in obedience.

g Though these Fathers were the seed of Abraham, and the chosen people, yet hee sheweth by their rebellion, provocation, falsehood, and hypocrisie, that the children ought not to follow their examples.

h By Ephraim, he meaneth also the rest of the tribes, because they were most in number: whose unpunished declaret, that they were unfaithfull to God, and by their multitude and authoritie had corrupted all others.

i Hee prooveth that not only the posterity, but also their forefathers were wicked and rebellious to God.

31 When the wrath of God came even upon them, and slew the strongest of them, and smote downe the chosen men in Israel.

32 For all this, they sinned still, and beleevd not his wondrous workes.

33 Therefore their daies did hee consume in vanitie, and their yeares hastily.

34 And when hee slew them, they fought him, and they returned, and fought God earlly.

35 And they remembred, that God was their strength, and the most high God their redeemer.

36 But thy flattered him with their mouth, and dissembled with him with their tongues.

37 For their heart was not upright with him: neither were they faithfull in his covenant.

38 Yet, he being mercifull, forgave their iniquitie, and destroyed them not, but oft times called backe his anger, and did not stirre up all his wrath.

39 For he remembred that they were flesh: yea, a winde that passeth and cometh not againe.

40 How oft did they provoke him in the wilderness? and grieve him in the desert?

41 Yea, they returned and tempted God, and limited the holy one of Israel.

42 They remembred not his hand; nor the day when he delivered them from the enimie.

43 Nor him that set his signes in Egypt, and his wonders in the field of Zoan:

44 And turned their rivers into bloud, and their floods that they could not drink.

45 He sent a swarme of flies among them, which devoured them, and frogges, which destroyed them.

46 He gave also their fruits unto the caterpillar, and their labour unto the grasshopper.

47 He destroyed their vines with haile, and their wilde figge-trees with the haile-stone.

48 He gave their cattell also to the hail, and their flocks to the thunderbolts.

49 He cast upon them the fiercenes of his anger, indignation and wrath, and vexation by the sending out of evill Angels.

50 He made a way to his anger: he spared not their soule from death, but gave their life to the pestilence, 51 And smote all the first borne in Egypt, even the beginning of their strength in the tabernacles of Ham.

52 But he made his people to goe out like sheep, and led them in the wilderness like a flock.

53 Yea, he carried them out safely, and they feared not, and the sea covered their enemies.

54 And he brought them unto the borders of his Sanctuary: even to this Mount, which his right hand purchased.

55 He cast out the heathen also before them, and caused them to fall to the lot of his inheritance, and made the tribes of Israel to dwell in their Tabernacles.

56 Yet they tempted and provoked the most high God, and kept not his testimonies, 57 But turned back, and dealt falsely, like their fathers: they turned like a deceitfull bow.

58 And they provoked him to anger with their high places, and moved him to wrath with their graven images.

59 God heard this, and was wroth, and greatly abhorred Israel,

60 So that he forooke the habitation of Shilo, even the Tabernacle where he dwelt among men, 61 And delivered his power into captivity, and his beauty into the enemies hand.

62 And he gave up his people to the sword, and was angry with his inheritance.

63 The fire devoured their chosen men, and their maides were not praised.

64 Their Priests fell by the sword, and their widows lamented not.

65 But the Lord awaked as one out of sleep, and as a strong man that after his wine crieth out.

66 And smote his enemies in the hinder parts, and put them to a perpetuall shame.

67 Yet he refused the Tabernacle of Joseph, and chose not the Tribe of Ephraim:

68 But chose the tribe of Judah, and Mount Zion which he loved.

69 And he built his Sanctuary as an high palace, like the earth, which he stablished forever.

70 He chose David also his servant, and tooke him from the sheep-folds.

71 Even from behind the Ewes with young, brought he him to feed his people in Jaakob, and his inheritance in Israel.

72 So he fed them according to the simplicitie of his heart, and guided them by the discretion of his hands.

The Israelites complaint to God for the great calamities and oppression that they suffered by Gods enemies.

q Such is the nature of concupiscence, that the more it hath, the more it lusteth. r Though other were not spared, yet chiefly they suffered, which trusted in their strength against God. s Thus sinne by continuance maketh men insensible, so that by no plagues they can be amended. t Such was their hypocrisie, that they fought unto God for feare of punishment, though in their heart they loved him not.

v Whatsoever cometh not from the pure fountain of the heart, is hypocrisie. x Because hee would ever have some remnant of a Church to praise his Name in earth, hee suffered not their sins to overcome his mercie.

y That is, they tempted him oft-times. z As they all doe, that measure the power of God by their capacitie. a The forgetfulness of Gods benefits is the roote of rebellion and all vice.

b This word signifieth a confused mixture of flies & venomous worms. Some take it for all sorts of serpents: some for all wilde beasts. c Hee repented not heere all the miracles that God did in Egypt, but certaine which might bee sufficient to convince the people of malice and ingratitude. d So called, either of the effect, that is, of punishing the wicked: or else, because they were wicked spirits whom God permitted to vex men. e The first borne are so called, as Gen. 49. 3. f That is, Egypt: for it was called Mizraim, or Egypt, of Mizraim, that was the sonne of Ham.

g That is, they had none occasion to feare, for as much as God destroyed their enemies, and delivered them safely. h Meaning, Canaan, which God had consecrated to himselfe, and appointed to his people. i Nothing more displeaseth God in the children, then when they continue in that wickedness, which their fathers had begun. k By serving God otherwise then he had appointed. l For their ingratitude he suffered the Philistines to take the Arke, which was the signe of their presence from among them. m The Arke is called his power and beauty, because thereby hee defended his people, and beautifully appeared unto them. n They were suddenly destroyed, 1 Sam. 4. 10. o They had no marriage songs, that is, they were not married. p Either they were slain before, or taken prisoners of their enemies, and so were forbidden. q Because they were drunken in their finnes, they judged Gods patience to be a flatterie, as though he were drunken: therefore he answering their beastly judgement, saith, he will awake, and take sudden vengeance.

r Shewing that he spared not altogether the Israelites, though hee punished their enemies.

s By building the Temple, and establishing the kingdom, he declared that the signes of his favour were among them.

they promise to be thankfull.

¶ A Psalme committed to Asaph.

O God, the^a heathen are come into thine inheritance: thine holy Temple have they defiled, and made Jerusalem heaps of stones.

2 The^b dead bodies of thy servants have they given to be meat unto fowls of the heaven, and the flesh of thy Saints unto the beasts of the earth.

3 Their blood have they shed like waters round about Jerusalem, and there was none to^c bury them.

4 We are a reproach to our^d neighbours, even a scorn and derision unto them that are round about us.

5 Lord how long wilt thou be angry, for ever? shall thy jealousy^e burn like fire?

6 Powre out thy wrath upon the heathen that have not known thee, and upon the kingdoms that have not called upon thy Name.

7 For they have devoured Jaakob, and made his dwelling place desolate.

8 Remember not against us the^f former iniquities, but^g make haste and let thy tender mercies prevent us: for we are in great miserie.

9 Help us, O God of our^h salvation, for the glory of thy Name, and deliver us, and be mercifull unto our sinnes for thy Name sake.

10 Wherefore should the heathen say,
Where is their God? Let him be known among the heathen in our fight by the vengeance of the blood of thy servants that is shed.

11 Let the fighting of theⁱ prisoners come before thee: according to thy mighty arm preserve^k the children of death.

12 And render to our neighbours seven fold into their bosome their reproach, wherewith they have reproached thee, O
Lord.

13 So we thy people, and sheepe of thy pasture, shall praise thee for ever: and from generation to generation^l we will set forth thy praise.

shined toward them, so the intent that he might finish that work which he had begun.

¶ To him that excelleth on Shoshannim Eduth.
A Psalme committed to Asaph.

Hear, O thou Shepheard of Israel, thou that leadest Joseph like a sheep:
shew thy brightnesse, thou that sittest between the^m Cherubims.

2 Before Ephraim and Benjamin, and Manasseh, stirre up thy strength, and come to helpe us.

3 Turne us again, O God, and cause thy face to shine that we may be saved.

4 O Lord God of hosts, how long wilt thou be^a angry against the prayer of thy people?

5 Thou hast fed them with the bread of teares, and given them teares to drinke with great measure.

6 Thou hast made us a^b strife unto our neighbours, and our enemies laugh at us among themselves.

7 Turne us againe, O God of hosts:
cause thy face to shine, and wee shall be saved.

8 Thou hast brought a^c vine out of Egypt: thou hast cast out the heathen, and planted it.

9 Thou madeest roome for it, and diddest cause it to take root, and it filled the land.

10 The mountains were covered with the shadow of it, and the boughes thereof were like the^d goodly cedars:

11 She stretched out her branches unto the Sea, and her boughes unto^e the River.

12 Why hast thou^f then broken down her hedges, so that all they which passe by the way have plucked her?

13 The wilde^g bore out of the wood hath destroyed it, and the wilde beasts of the field have eaten it up.

14 Returne we beseech thee, O God of hosts: look down^h from heaven, and behold and visit this vine:

15 And the vineyard, that thy right hand hath planted, and the young vine, which thou madeestⁱ strong for thy self.

16 It is burnt with fire, and cut down:
and they perish at the^j rebuke of thy countenance.

17 Let thine hand be upon the^k man of thy right hand, and upon the sonne of man, whom thou madeest strong for thine own selfe.

18 So will not we go back from thee:
revive thou us, and we shall call upon thy Name.

19 Turne us againe, O Lord God of hosts: cause thy face to shine and we shall be saved.

e God speaketh in the person of the people, because he was their leader.

f If they were never able to give sufficient thanks to God for this deliverance from corporall bondage, how much more are wee indebted to him for our spirituall deliverance from the tyranny of Satan and sin?

g By a strange and wonderfull fashion.

h Or, contention.

i Exod. 17. 7. He condemneth all assemblies, where the people are not attentive to heare Gods voice, and to give obedience to the same.

j God accuseth their incredulity, because they opened not their mouths to receive Gods benefits in such abundance as he powreth them out.

k God by his word calleth all, but his secret election appointeth who shall heare with fruit.

l If their finnes had not letted.

n That is, with most fine wheat and abundance of hony.

2 Take the song and bring forth the timbrell, the pleasant harpe with the violl.

3 Blow the trumpeter in the new moon, even in the time appointed at our feast day.

4 For this is a statute for Israel, and a Law of the God of Jaakob.

5 He set this in Joseph for a testimony, when he came out of the land of Egypt, where I heard a language, that I understood not.

6 I have withdrawn his shoulder from the burden, and his hands have left the pots.

7 Thou calledst in affliction and I delivered thee, and answered thee in the secret of the thunder: I proved thee at the waters of Meribah. Selah.

8 Hear, O my people, and I will protest unto thee: O Israel, if thou wilt hearken unto me,

9 And wilt have no strange god in thee, neither worship any strange god,

10 (For I am the Lord thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt:) open thy mouth wide, and I will fill it.

11 But my people would not hear my voice, and Israel would none of me.

12 So I gave them up unto the hardnes of their heart, and they have walked in their own counsels.

13 Oh that my people had hearkened unto me, and Israel had walked in my wayes!

14 I would soone have humbled their enemies, and turned mine hand against their adversaries.

1 The Prophet declaring God to be present among the Judges and Magistrates, 2 Reproveth their partialitie. 3 And exhorteth them to do iustice. 5 But seeing none amendment, 8 He desireth God to undertake the matter, and execute justice himselfe.

A Psalme committed to Asaph.

a The Prophet sheweth, that if princes & judges doe not their dutie, God, whose authority is above them, will take vengeance on them.

b For thieves and murderers finde favour in judgement, when the cause of the godly cannot be heard.

c Not only when they cry for help, but when their cause requireth aid and support.

GOD standeth in the assembly of gods: he judgeth among gods.

2 How long will ye judge unjustly, and accept the persons of the wicked? Selah.

3 Do right to the poor and fatherlesse: doe justice to the poore and needy.

4 Deliver the poore and needy: save them from the hand of the wicked.

5 They know not and understand nothing: they walke in darknesse, albeit all the foundations of the earth bee moved.

6 I have said, Ye are Gods, and ye all are children of the most High.

7 But ye shall die as a man, and yee princes, shall fall like others.

8 O God, arise, therefore judge thou the earth: for thou shalt inherite all nations.

PSAL. LXXXIII.

1 The people of Israel pray unto the Lord to deliver them from their enemies, both at home and a farre off, which imagined nothing but their destruction. 9 And they desire that all such wicked people may, according as God was accustomed, be stricken with the stormy tempest of Gods wrath. 18 That they may know that the Lord is most high upon the earth.

A Song, or Psalme committed to Asaph.

Keep not thou silence, O God: be not still, and cease not, O God.

2 For loe, thine enemies make a tumult: and they that hate thee have lifted up the head.

3 They have taken crafty counsell against thy people, and have consulted against thy secret ones.

4 They have said, Come, and let us cut them off from being a Nation: and let the name of Israel be no more in remembrance.

5 For they have consulted together in heart, and have made a league against thee.

6 The Tabernacles of Edom, and the Ishmaelites, Moab, and the Agarims:

7 Gebal, and Ammon, and Amalech, the Philistims with the inhabitants of Ty-rus:

8 Asshur also is joyned with them: they have been an arm to the children of Lot. Selah.

9 Doe thou to them as unto the Midianites: as to Sifera, and as to Jabin, at the River of Kishon.

10 They perished at En-dor, and were dung for the earth.

11 Make them, even their princes like Oreb, and like Zeeb: yea all their princes like Zebah, and like Zalmunna, 12 Which have said, Let us take for our possession the habitations of God.

13 O my God, make them like unto a wheel: and as the stubble before the winde.

14 As the fire burneth the forest, and as the flame setteth the mountains on fire:

15 So persecute them with thy tempest, and make them afraid with thy storm.

16 Fill their faces with shame: that they may seek thy Name, O Lord.

17 Let them be confounded and troubled for ever: yea, let them bee put to shame and perish, 18 That they may know that thou, which art called Jehovah, art alone, even the most High over all the earth.

d That is, all things are out of order, either by their tyranny, or careless negligence. e No title of honour shall excuse you, but you shall be subject to Gods judgement, and render account as well as other men. f Therefore no tyrant shall plucke thy righte authority from thee.

a This Psalme seemeth to have been composed as a forme of prayer against the danger that the Church was in, in the daies of Iehoshaphat. b He calleth them Gods enemies, which are enemies to his Church.

c The elect of God are his secret ones: for he hideth them in the secret of his tabernacle, & preserveth them from all dangers. d They were not content to take the Church as prisoner, but sought utterly to destroy it.

e By all these means. f They thought to have subverted thy counsell, wherein the perpetuity of the Church was established.

g Or, Zeeb.

h The wickednes of the Ammonites and Moabites is described in that they provoked these other nations to fight against Israel their brethren.

i By these examples, they were confirmed that God would not suffer his people to bee utterly destroyed.

j Troden under feet as mire.

k That is, Judas: for where his Church is, there dwelleth hee among them.

l Because the reprobate could by no means be amended, he prayeth that they may bee utterly destroyed, & led with all windes.

m That is, bee compelled by thy plagues to confesse thy power.

n Though they believe not, yet they may prove by experience, that it is in vain to resist against thy counsell in establishing thy Church.

P S A L. LXXXIV.

1 David driven forth of his countrey. 2 Desireth most ardently to come againe to the Tabernacle of the Lord, and the assembly of the Saints to praise God. 4 Pronouncing them blessed that may so doe. 6 Then he praiseth the courage of the people, that passe through the wilderness to assemble themselves in Zion. 10 Finally, with praise of this matter, and confidence of Gods goodnesse, he endeth the Psalme.

¶ To him that excelleth upon Gittith. A Psalm committed to the sonnes of Korah.

O Lord of hostes, how amiable are thy Tabernacles!

2 My soule longeth, yea, and fainteth for the courts of the Lord: for mine heart and my flesh rejoyce in the living God.

3 Yea, the sparrow hath found her an house, and the swallow a nest for her, where she may lay her yong: even by thine altars, O Lord of hostes, my King and my God.

4 Blessed are they that dwell in thine house: they will ever praise thee. Selah.

5 Blessed is the man, whose strength is in thee, and in whose heart are thy wayes.

6 They going through the vale of Baca, make Welles therein: the raine also covereth the pooles.

7 They go from strength to strength, till every one appeare before God in Zion.

8 O Lord God of hostes: heare my prayer: hearken, O God of Jaakob. Selah.

9 Behold, O God, our shield, and look upon the face of thine Anointed.

10 For a day in thy Courts is better than a thousand other where: I had rather bee a doore-keeper in the house of my God, than to dwell in the Tabernacles of wickednesse.

11 For the Lord God is the sun and shield unto us: the Lord will give grace and glory, and no good thing will hee withhold from them that walke uprightly.

12 O Lord of hostes, blessed is the man that trusteth in thee.

P S A L. LXXXV.

1 Because God withdrew not his rods from his Church after their returne from Babylon, first they put him in mind of their deliverance, to the intent that he should not leave the worke of his grace unperfected. 5 Next, they complaine of their long affliction. 8 And thirdly, they rejoyce in hope of felicity promised. 9 For their deliverance was a figure of Christs kingdome, under the which should be perfect felicity.

¶ To him that excelleth. A Psalm committed to the sons of Korah.

Lord, thou hast beene a favourable unto thy land: thou hast brought againe the captivity of Jaakob.

2 Thou hast forgiven the iniquity of thy people, and covered all their finnes. Selah.

3 Thou hast withdrawne all thine anger, and hast turned back from the fiercenesse of thy wrath.

4 Turne us, O God of our salvation, and release thine anger towards us.

5 Wilt thou bee angry with us for ever? and wilt thou prolong thy wrath from one generation to another?

6 Wilt thou not turne againe and quicken us, that thy people may rejoyce in thee?

7 Shew us thy mercy, O Lord, and grant us thy salvation.

8 I will hearken what the Lord God will say: for he will speake peace unto his people, and to his Saints, that they turne not againe to folly.

9 Surely his salvation is neere to them that feare him, that glory may dwell in our land.

10 Mercy and truth shall meet: righteousness and peace shall kisse one another.

11 Truth shall bud out of the earth, and righteousness shall looke down from heaven.

12 Yea, the Lord shall give good things, and our land shall give her increase.

13 Righteousnesse shall goe before him, and shall set her steps in the way.

P S A L. LXXXVI.

1 David sore afflicted and forsaken of all, prayeth fervently for deliverance: sometime rehearsing his miseries, 5 Sometime the mercies received. 11 Desiring also to be instructed of the Lord, that he may feare him, and glorifie his Name. 14 Hee complaineth also of his adversaries, and requireth to be delivered from them.

¶ A prayer of David.

Incline thine eare, O Lord, and heare mee: for I am poore and needy.

2 Preserve thou my soule, for I am mercifull: my God, save thou thy servant that trusteth in thee.

3 Bee mercifull unto me, O Lord: for I crie upon thee continually.

4 Rejoyce the soule of thy servant: for unto thee, O Lord, doe I lift up my soule.

5 For thou, Lord, art good and mercifull, and of great kindnesse unto all them that call upon thee.

6 Give eare, Lord, unto my prayer, and hearken to the voice of my supplication.

7 In the day of my trouble I will call upon thee: for thou hearest mee.

8 Among the gods there is none like thee, O Lord, and there is none that can doe like thy workes.

9 All nations whom thou hast made, shall come and worship before thee, O Lord, and shall glorifie thy Name.

10 For thou art great, and doest wonderful things: thou art God alone.

11 Teach mee thy way, O Lord, and I will walke in thy truth: knit mine heart unto thee, that I may feare thy Name.

12 I will praise thee, O Lord my God, with all mine heart: yea, I will glorifie thy Name for ever.

13 For great is thy mercy toward me, and d As in times past they had felt Gods mercies: so now being oppressed by the long continuance of evils, they pray unto God that according to his nature he would bee mercifull unto them.

e Hee confesseth that our salvation cometh onely of Gods mercy.

f Hee will send all prosperity to his Church, when hee hath sufficiently corrected them: also by his punishments the faithfull shall learne to beware that they returne not to like offences.

g Though for a time God thus exerciseth them with his rods, yet under the kingdom of Christ they should have peace and joy.

b I am not enemy to them, but pity them, though they bee cruell toward mee.

c Which was a sure token that hee believed that God would deliver him.

d Hee doth confess that God is good to all, but onely mercifull to poore sinners.

e By crying and calling continually, hee sheweth how wee may not be weary, though God grant not forthwith our request, but that wee must earnestly and often call upon him.

f Hee condemneth all idols forasmuch as they can doe no workes, to declare that they are gods.

g This proveth, that David prayed in the Name of Christ the Messias, of whose kingdom he doth here prophesie.

h Hee confesseth himselfe ignorant till God hath taught him, and his heart variable and separate from God, till God joyn it to him, and confirme it in his obedience.

h Hee confesseth himselfe ignorant till God hath taught him, and his heart variable and separate from God, till God joyn it to him, and confirme it in his obedience.

a David complaineth that he cannot have access to the Church of God to make profession of his faith, and to profit in religion. b For none but the Priests could enter into the Sanctuary, and the rest of the people into the courts. c So that the poore birds have more liberty, then I.

15 But thou, O Lord, art a pitifull God and mercifull, flow to anger, and great in kindnesse and truth.

16 Turne unto mee, and have mercy upon me: give thy strength unto thy servant, and save the son of thine handmaid.

17 Shew a token of thy goodnesse toward me, that they which hate mee, may see it, and bee ashamed, because thou, O Lord, hast holpen me, and comforted me.

PSAL. LXXXVII.

^a The holy Ghost promiserh that the condition of the Church which was in misery after the captivity of Babylon, should be restored to great excellency. ⁴ So that there should be nothing more comfortable, than to be numbered among the members thereof.

¶ A Psalme or song committed to the sons of Korah.

God laid his foundations among the holy mountaines.

2 The Lord loveth the gates of Zion above all the habitations of Jaakob.

3 Glorious things are spoken of thee, O city of God. Selah.

4 I will make mention of Rahab and Babel among them that know mee: behold Palestina and Tyrus with Ethiopia, there is he borne.

5 And of Zion it shall be said: Many are borne in her: and he even the most High shall stablish her.

6 The Lord shall count when he writeth the people, Hee was borne there. Selah.

7 Aswell the fingers, as the players on instruments shall praise thee: all my springs are in thee.

The Prophet setteth his whole affections and comfort in the Church.

PSAL. LXXXVIII.

^a A grievous complaint of the faithfull, sore afflicted by sickness, persecutions and adversity. ⁷ Being as it were left of God without any consolation: ¹³ Yet he calleth on God by faith, and striveth against desperation. ¹⁸ Complaining himselfe to be forsaken of all earthly helpe.

¶ A song or Psalme of Heman the Ezrahite to give instruction, committed to the sons of Korah; for him that excelleth upon Malleth Leannoth.

O Lord God of my salvation, I crie day and night before thee:

2 Let my prayer enter into thy presence: incline thine eare unto my cry.

3 For my soule is filled with evils, and my life draweth neare to the grave.

4 I am counted among them that goe downe unto the pit, and am as a man without strength:

5 Free among the dead, like the

^a That is, to humble. It was the beginning of a song, by the tune whereof this Psalme was sung.
^b Though many cry in their sorrows, yet they cry not earnestly to God for remedy as hee did: whom hee confessed to be the author of his salvation.
^c For hee that is dead is free from all cares and businesse of this life, and thus he faith, and as it were cut off from this world.

slaine lying in the grave, whom thou rememberest no more, and they are cut off from thine hand.

6 Thou hast laid me in the lowest pit, in darknesse, and in the deepe.

7 Thine indignation lieth upon mee: and thou hast vexed mee with all thy waves. Selah.

8 Thou hast put away mine acquaintance far from mee, and made mee to bee abhorred of them: I am shut up, and cannot get forth.

9 Mine eye is sorrowfull, through mine affliction: Lord, I call dayly upon thee: I stretch out mine hands unto thee.

10 Wilt thou shew a miracle to the dead? or shall the dead rise and praise thee? Selah.

11 Shall thy loving kindnesse bee declared in the grave? or thy faithfulness in destruction?

12 Shall thy wonderous workes bee knowne in the darke? and thy righteousness in the land of oblivion?

13 But unto thee have I cried, O Lord, & early shall my prayer come before thee.

14 Lord, why dost thou reject my soul, and hidest thy face from mee?

15 I am afflicted and at the point of death: from my youth I suffer thy troubles, doubting of my life.

16 Thine indignations goe over mee, and thy feare hath cut mee off.

17 They came round about mee dayly like water, and compassed mee together.

18 My lovers and friends hast thou put away from me, and mine acquaintance hid themselves.

PSAL. LXXXIX.

¹ With many words doth the Prophet praise the goodnesse of God. ²³ For his testament and covenant, that hee had made betweene him and his elect by Iesus Christ the Son of David. ³⁸ Then doth he complaine of the great ruine and desolation of the kingdome of David, so that to the outward appearance, the promise was broken. ⁴⁶ Finally, hee prayeth to bee delivered from his afflictions, making mention of the shortnesse of mans life, and confirming himselfe by Gods promises.

¶ A Psalme to give instruction, of Ethan the Ezrahite.

I will sing the mercies of the Lord for ever: with my mouth will I declare thy truth from generation to generation.

2 For I said, Mercy shall bee set up for ever: thy truth shalt thou establish in the very heavens.

3 I have made a covenant with my chosen: I have sworn to David my servant,

4 Thy seed shall I establish for ever, and set up thy throne from generation to generation. Selah.

5 O Lord, even the heavens shall praise thy wonderous worke: yea, thy truth the promise of God, whereon he grounded his faith. ^e The Angels shall praise thy power and faithfulness in delivering thy Church.

^d That is, from thy providence & care, which is meant according to the judgement of the flesh.

^e The stormes of thy wrath have overwhelmed mee.

^f Hee attributeth the losse and displeasure of his friends to Gods providence, whereby hee partly punisheth and partly trieth his.

^g I see none end of my sorrows.

^h Mine eyes and face declare my sorrows.

ⁱ He sheweth that the time is more convenient for God to helpe, when men call unto him in their dangers, then to tarry till they bee dead, and then raise them up againe.

^k That is, in the grave, where one by the body lieth, without all sense & remembrance.

^l I am ever in great dangers and sorrows, as though my life should continually be cut off every moment.

^m Eternity in darkness.

^a Though the horrible confusion of things might cause them to despair of Gods favour, yet the manifold examples of his mercies, cause them to trust in God, though to mans judgement they saw none occasion.
^b As he that surely beleeveth in heart.
^c As thine invisible heaven is not subject to any alteration and change: so shall the truth of thy promise bee unchangeable.
^d The Prophet sheweth what was the promise of God, whereon he grounded his faith.
^e The Angels shall praise thy power and faithfulness in delivering thy Church.

^f That is, in the heavens.

in the ^f Congregation of the Saints.

6 For who is equall to the Lord in the heaven? and who is like the Lord among the ^g sonnes of the gods?

7 God is very terrible in the assembly of the ^h Saints, and to be revered above all that are about him.

8 O Lord God of hosts, who is like unto thee, which art a mighty Lord, and thy truth is about thee?

9 Thou rulest the raging of the sea: when the waves thereof arise, thou stillest them.

10 Thou hast beaten downe Rahab as a man slaine: thou hast scattered thine enemies with thy mighty arme.

11 The heavens are thine, the earth also is thine: thou hast laid the foundation of the world, and all that therein is.

12 Thou hast created the North and the South: ^k Tabor and Hermon shall rejoyce in thy Name.

13 Thou hast a mighty arme: strong is thine hand, and high is thy right hand.

14 ^l Righteousnesse and equitie are the stablishment of thy throne: mercy and truth goe before thy face.

15 Blessed is the people that can ^m rejoyce in thee: they shall walke in the light of thy ⁿ countenance, O Lord.

16 They shall rejoyce continually in thy Name, and in thy righteousness shall they exalt themselves.

17 For thou art the ^o glory of their strength, and by thy favour our hornes shall be exalted.

18 For our ^p shield appertaineth to the Lord, and our King to the Holy one of Israel.

19 Thou spakest then in a vision unto ^q thine Holy one, and saidst, I have laid helpe upon one that is ^r mighty: I have exalted one chosen out of the people.

20 I have found David my servant: with mine holy oile have I anointed him.

21 Therefore mine hand shall be established with him, and mine arme shall strengthen him.

22 The enemy shall not oppress him, neither shall the wicked hurt him.

23 But I will ^s destroy his foes before his face, and plague them that hate him.

24 My truth also and my ^t mercy shall be with him, and in my Name shall his ^u horne be exalted.

25 I will set his hand also in the sea, and his right hand in the ^v fouds.

26 He shall cry unto me, Thou art my Father, my God, and the rocke of my salvation.

27 Also I will make him my first borne, higher then the Kings of the earth.

28 My mercy will I keepe for him for evermore, and my covenant shall stand fast with him.

29 His seed also will I make to endure for ^z ever, and his throne as the daies of heaven.

30 But if his children forsake my Law, and walke not in my judgements:

31 * If they breake my statutes, and keepe not my commandements:

32 Then will I visit their transgression with the rod, and their iniquitie with stroakes.

33 ^a Yet my loving kindnesse will I not take from him, neither will I falsifie my truth.

34 My covenant will I not breake, nor ^b alter the thing that is gone out of my lippes.

35 I have sworne once by mine holinesse, ^c that I will not faile David, saying, 36 His seed shall endure for ever, and his throne shall bee as the Sunne before mee.

37 Hee shall bee established for evermore as the Moone, and as a faithful ^d witness in the heaven. Selah.

38 But thou hast rejected and abhorred, thou hast been angry with thine Anointed.

39 Thou hast ^e broken the covenant of thy servant, and profaned his ^f crowne casting it on the ground.

40 Thou hast broken downe all his walles: thou hast laid his fortresses in ruine.

41 All that goe by the way spoile him: he is a rebuke unto his neighbours.

42 Thou hast set up the right hand of his enemies, and made all his adversaries to rejoyce.

43 Thou hast also turned the edge of his sword, and hast not made him to stand in the battle.

44 Thou hast caused his dignitie to decay, and cast his throne to the ground.

45 The dayes of his ^g youth hast thou shortened, and covered him with shame. Selah.

46 ^h Lord, how long wilt thou hide thy selfe, for ever? shall thy wrath burne like fire?

47 Remember ⁱ of what time I am: wherefore shouldst thou create in vaine all the children of men?

48 What man liveth and shall not see death? shall he deliver his soule from the hand of the grave? Selah.

49 Lord, where are thy former mercies which thou swarest unto David in thy truth?

50 Remember, O Lord, the rebuke of thy servants, which I beare in my ^j bosome of all the mighty people.

^z Though for the finnes of the people, the state of this kingdome decayed, yet God reserved still a root, till hee had accomplished this promise in Christ ^{2 Sam. 7. 14.}

^a Though the faithfull answer not in all points to their profession, yet God will not breake his covenant with them.

^b For God in promising hath respect to his mercy, and not to mans power in performing.

^c Ebr. if I ly unto David, which is a manner of oath.

^d As long as the sunne and moone endure, they shall be witnesses to mee of his promise.

^e Because of the horrible confusion of things, the Prophet complaineth to God, as though hee saw not the performance of his promise. And thus discharging his cares on God, he resisteth doubt and impatientie.

^f By this he meaneth, the horrible dissipation & renting of the kingdome, which was under Jeroboam: or els by the Spirit of Prophecie, Ethan speaketh of those great miseries which came soone afterward to passe at the captivitie of Babylon.

^g He sheweth that the kingdome fell before it came to perfection, or was ripe.

^h The Prophet in joyning prayer with his complaint, sheweth that his faith never failed.

ⁱ Seeing mans life is short, and thou hast created man to bestow thy benefits upon him, except thou haste to helpe, death will prevent thee.

^j Hee meaneth, that Gods enemies did not only slander him behind his back, but also mocked him to his face, and as it were, cast their injuries in his bosome.

^g Meaning, the Angels.

^h If the Angels tremble before Gods majestie and infinite justice, what earthly creature by oppressing the Church, dare set himself against God?

ⁱ For as he delivered the Church by the red sea, and by destroying Rahab, that is, the Egyptians: so will hee effoone deliver it when the dangers be great.

^k Tabor is a mountain Westward from Jerusalem, and Hermon Eastward: to the Prophet signifieth, that all parts and places of the world shall obey Gods power for the deliverance of his Church.

^l For hereby hee judgeth the world, and sheweth himselfe a mercifull father, and faithful protector unto his.

^m Feeling in their conscience that God is their Father.

ⁿ They shall be preferred by thy fatherly providence.

^o In that they are preferred & continue, they ought to give the praise and glory onely to thee.

^p In that, that our King, hath power to defend us, it is the gift of God.

^q To Sammel and to others, to assure that David was thy chosen one.

^r Whom I have both chosen and give him strength to execute his office, as verse 21.

^s Though there shall be evermore enemies against Gods kingdome, yet he promisseth to overcome them. I will mercifully performe my promises to him, notwithstanding his iniquities and offences.

^t His power, glory and estate.

^u He shall enjoy the land round about.

^v His excellent dignitie shall appere herein, that hee shall be named the Sonne of God, and the first borne, wherein he is a figure of Christ.

k So hee calleth them that persecute the Church.

l They laugh at us, which patiently wait for the comming of thy Christ.

51 For^k thine enemies have reproached thee, O Lord, because they have reproached the^l foot-steps of thine Anointed.

52 Praised be the Lord for evermore. So be it, even so be it.

L ord, thou hast been our^b habitation from generation to generation.

2 Before the^c mountaines were made, and before thou hadst formed the earth, and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art our God.

3 Thou^d turnest man to destruction: againe thou saiest, Returne, yee sonnes of Adam.

W Ho so dwelleth in the^a secret of the most High, shall abide in the shadow of the Almighty.

2 I will say unto the Lord, O mine hope, and my fortress: he is my God, in him will I trust.

3 Surely he will deliver thee from the^b snare of the hunter, and from the noisome pestilence.

4 He will cover thee under his wings, and thou shalt be sure under his feathers: his^c truth shall be thy shield and buckler.

5 Thou shalt not bee afraid of the feare of the night, nor of the arrow that flieth by day:

6 Nor of the pestilence that walketh in the darknesse, nor of the plague that destroyeth at noone day.

7 A thousand shall fall at thy side, and ten thousand at thy right hand, but it shall not come neere thee.

8 Doubtlesse with thine^d eyes shalt thou behold and see the reward of the wicked.

9 For thou hast said, The Lord is mine hope: thou hast set the most High for thy refuge.

10 There shall none evill come unto thee, neither shall any plague come neere thy Tabernacle.

11 For he shall give his Angels charge over thee, to keepe thee in all thy waies.

12 They shall beare thee in their hands, that thou hurt not thy foot against a stone.

13 Thou shalt walke upon the lion and aspe: the^e young lion and the dragon shalt thou tread under feet.

P S A L. XCII.

1 This Psalm was made to be sung on the Sabbath, to stirre up the people to acknowledge God, and to praise him in his worke: the Prophet rejoiceth therein. 6 But the wicked is not able to consider that the ungodly, when he is most flourishing, shall most speedily perishe. 12 In the end, is described the felicity of the just, planted in the house of God to praise the Lord.

¶ A Psalm

p Meaning, That it was obscured, when hee ceased to doe good to his Church.

q For except thou guide us with thine holy good successe, a He that maketh God his defence and trust, shall perceive his protection to bee a most sure safeguard.

b Being assured of this protection, hee praiceth unto the Lord.

c That is, Gods help is more ready for us, whether Satan assaile us secretly, which he calleth a snare: or openly, which is here, meant by the pestilence.

d That is, his faithfull keeping of promise to helpe thee in thy necessity.

e The care that God hath over his, is most sufficient to defend them from all dangers.

f The godly shall have some experience of Gods judgments against the wicked, even in this life, but fully they shall see it at that day, when all things shall be revealed.

g God hath not appointed every man one Angel, but many to be ministers of his providence to keepe him, and defend them in their vocation, which is the way to walke in without tempting God.

h Thou shalt not onely bee preserved from all evill, but overcome it, whether it be secret or open.

i To assure the faithfull of Gods protection, hee bringeth in God to consume the same.

¶ A Psalme or song for the^a Sabbath day.

IT is a good thing to praise the Lord, and to sing unto thy Name, O most High.

2 To declare thy loving kindnesse in the^b morning, and thy truth in the night,

3 Upon an^c instrument of tenne strings, and upon the viole, with the song upon the harpe.

4 For thou, Lord, hast made me glad by thy^d works, and I will reioice in the works of thine hands.

5 O Lord, how glorious are thy works! and thy thoughts are very deepe.

6 An^e unwise man knoweth it not,
and a foole doth not understand this,

7 (When the wicked grow as the grasse, and all the workers of wickednesse doe flourish) that they shall bee destroied for ever.

8 But thou, O Lord, art^f most High for evermore.

9 For loe; thine enemies, O Lord:
for loe, thine enemies shall perish: all the workers of iniquitie shall be destroyed.

10 But thou shalt exalt mine horne, like the Unicornes, and I shall be annoin-ted with fresh oyle.

11 Mine eyes also shall see my desire against mine enemies: and mine eares shall heare my wish against the wicked, that rise up against me.

12 The righteous shall^h flourish like a palme-tree, and shall grow like a Cedar in Lebanon.

13 Such as be planted in the house of the Lord, shall flourish in the Courts of our God.

14 They shall still bring forth fruit in theirⁱ age: they shall be fat and flourishing:

15 To declare that the Lord my rocke is righteous, and that none iniquitie is in him.

P S A L. XCIII.

¹ He praiseth the power of God in the creation of the world, and beareth downe all people which lift them up against his ma-jestie. 5 And provoketh to consider his promises.

THe Lord^a reigneth, and is clothed with majestie: the Lord is clothed, and girded with power: the world also shall be established, that it cannot be moved.

2 Thy^b throne is established of old:
thou art from everlasting.

3^c The floods have lifted up, O Lord:
the floods have lifted up their voice: the floods lift up their waves:

4 The waves of the Sea are marvellous through the noise of many waters, yet the Lord on High is more mighty.

5 Thy^d testimonies are very sure: ho-linesse becommeth thine House, O Lord, for ever.

P S A L. XCIV.

¹ He praiseth unto God against the violence and arrogancie of tyrants. 10 Warning them of Gods judgements. 12 Then doth he comfort the afflicted by the good issue of their afflictions, as he felt in himselfe, and did see in others, and by the ruine of the wicked. 23 Whom the Lord will destroy.

O Lord God^a the avenger, O God the avenger, shew thy selfe^b clearly.

2 Exalt thy selfe, O Judge of the world, and render a reward to the proud.

3 Lord, how long shall the wicked, how long shall the wicked^c triumph?

4 They prate and speake fiercely: all the workers of iniquity vaunt themselves.

5 They^d smite downe thy people, O
Lord, and trouble thine heritage.

6 They slay the widow and the stranger, and murder the fatherlesse.

7 Yet they say, the Lord shall not see: neither will the God of Jaakob regard it.

8 Understand yee unwise among the people: and yee fooles, when will yee be wise?

9 He that^e planted the eare, shall hee not heare? or he that formed the eyes, shall he not see?

10 Or he that^f chastiseth the nations, shall he not correct? he that teacheth man knowledge, shall he not know?

11 The Lord knoweth the thoughts of man, that they are vanity.

12 Blessed is the man whom thou^g chastifest, O Lord, and teachest him in thy Law,

13 That thou maist give him rest from the daies of evill, whiles the pit is digged for the wicked.

14 Surely the Lord will not faile his people, neither will he forsake his inheritance.

15 For^h judgement shall returne to justice, and all the upright in heart shall follow after it.

16 Who will rise up with mee against the wicked? or who will take my part against the workers of iniquitie?

17 If the Lord had not^k holpen mee, my soule had almost dwelt in silence.

18 When I said, My foot slideth, thy mercy, O Lord, stayed me.

19 In the multitude of my^l thoughts in mine heart, thy comforts have rejoyced my soule:

20 Hath the throne of iniquitie^m a fellowship with thee, which forgeth wrong for a law?

¹ An earnest exhortation to praise God, ⁴ For the government of the world, and the election of his Church. ⁸ An admonition not to follow the rebellion of the old Fathers, that tempted God in the wilderness: ¹¹ For the which they might not enter into the land of promise.

^a He sheweth that Gods service standeth not in dead ceremonies, but chiefly in the sacrifice of praise & thanksgiving.

Come, let us rejoyce unto the Lord: let us sing ^a aloud unto the rocke of our salvation.

² Let us come before his face with praise: let us sing loud unto him with Psalmes.

³ Declare his glory among all nations, and his wonders among all people.

⁴ For the Lord ^a is great and much to be praised: he is to bee feared above all gods.

⁵ For all the gods of the people ^a are [‡] idols: but the Lord ^c made the heavens.

⁷ Give unto the Lord, ye families of the people: give unto the Lord glory and ^c power.

⁸ Give unto the Lord the glory of his Name: bring ^f an offering, and enter into his courts.

⁹ Worship the Lord in the glorious Sanctuary: tremble before him all the earth.

¹¹ Let the heavens rejoyce, and let the earth be glad: let the sea roare, and all that therein is.

1 An earnest exhortation to all creatures to praise the Lord for his power, mercie and fidelitie in his promise by Christ, 10 By whom hee hath communicated his salvation to all nations.

¶ A Psalme.

Sing^a unto the Lord a new song: for he hath done marvailous things: * his right hand and his holy^b arme hath gotten him the victorie.

2 The Lord declareth his^c salvation: his righteousnesse hath he revealed in the fight of the nations.

3 He hath^d remembered his mercie and his truth toward the house of Israel: all the ends of the earth have seene the salvation of our God.

4 All the earth, sing ye loud unto the Lord: cry out and reioice, and sing praises.

5 Sing praise to the Lord upon the harpe, even upon the harpe with a singing voice.

6 With^e shalmes and sound of trumpets, sing loud before the Lord the King.

7 Let the sea roare, and all that therein is, the world, and they that dwell therein.

8 Let the flouds clap their hands, and let the mountaines reioice together.

9 Before the Lord: for he is come to judge the earth: with righteousnesse shall he judge the world, and the people with equitie.

P S A L. XCIX.

1 He commendeth the power, equitie, and excellencie of the kingdom of God by Christ over the Jewes and Gentiles, 5 And provoketh them to magnifie the same and to serve the Lord, 6 Following the example of the ancient Fathers, Moses, Aaron, Samuel, who calling upon God, were heard in their prayers.

THE Lord reigneth, let the^a people tremble: hee sitteth betweene the^b Cherubims, let the earth be moved.

2 The Lord is great in Zion, and hee is high above all the people.

3 They shall^b praise thy great and fearefull Name (for it is holy.)

4 And the Kings power that loveth judgement: for thou hast prepared equitie: thou hast executed judgement and justice in Jaakob.

5 Exalt the Lord our God, and fall downe before his^c footstool: for hee is holy.

6 Moses and Aaron were among his Priests,^d and Samuel among such as call upon his Name: these called upon the Lord, and he heard them.

7 He spake unto them in the cloudie pillar: they kept his testimonies, and the Law that he gave them.

8 Thou heardest them, O Lord our God: thou wast a favourable God unto them, though thou diddest take vengeance for their inventions;

9 Exalt the Lord our God, and fall downe before his holy Mountaine: for the Lord our God is holy.

1 David describeth what government he will observe in his house and kingdom, 5 He will punish and correct by rooting forth the wicked, 6 And cherishing the godly persons.

¶ A Psalme of David.

I Will^a sing mercie and judgement: unto thee, O Lord, will I sing.

2 I will do wisely in the perfect way, ^b till thou comest to me: I will walke in the uprightness of mine heart in the midst of mine house.

3 I will set no wicked thing before mine eyes: I hate^c the worke of them that fall away: it shall not cleave unto me.

4 A froward heart shall depart from me: I will know none evill.

5 Him that privily^d slandereth his neighbour, will I destroy: him that hath a proud looke and high heart, I cannot suffer.

6 Mine eyes shall be unto the^e faithfull of the land, that they may dwell with me: he that walketh in a perfect way, he shall serve me.

7 There shall no deceitfull person dwell within mine house: he that telleth lies shall not remaine in my sight.

8 ^f Betimes will I destroy all the wicked of the land, that I may cut off all the workers of iniquitie from the cite of the Lord.

P S A L. CII.

1 It seemeth that this psalm was appointed to the faithfull to pray in the captivitie of Babylon, 16 A consolation for the building of the Church, 18 Whereof followeth the praise of God to be published unto all posteritie, 22 The conversion of the Gentiles, 28 And the stability of the Church.

¶ A Praier^a of the afflicted, when he shall be in distresse, and poure forth his meditation before the Lord.

F 3

O Lord

^a That is, some song newly made in token of their wonderful, deliverance by Christ. ^b Hee preserveth his Church miraculously. ^c For the deliverance of his Church. ^d God was moved by none other means to gather his Church of the Jewes and Gentiles, but because hee would performe his promise.

^e By this repetition and earnest exhortation to give praises with instruments, and also of the dumb creatures, he signifieth, that the world is never able to praise God sufficiently for their deliverance.

^a When God delivereth his Church, all the enemies that have cause to tremble. ^b Ezra. 3. 11.

^b Though the wicked rage against God, yet the godly shall praise his Name & mighty power.

^c That is, before his Temple or Arke, where hee promised to heare when they worshipped him, as now he promiseth his spirituall presence, where ever his Church is assembled.

^d Under these three he comprehendeth the whole people of Israel, with whom God made his promise. ^e For the more liberally that God dealeth with his people, the more doth hee punish them that abuse his benefits.

^a He prophesieth that Gods benefit in calling of Gentiles, shall bee so great, that they shall have wonderful occasion to praise his mercie, and reioice.

^b He chiefly meaneth, touching spiritual regeneration, whereby we are his sheepe and people.

^c He sheweth that God will not bee worshipped, but by that means, which hee hath appointed.

^d Hee declareth that we ought never to bee wearie in praising him, seeing his mercies toward us, last for ever.

^a David considereth what manner of King he would bee when God should place him in the throne, promising openly that he would be mercifull and just. ^b Though as yet thou deferrest to place mee in the Kingly dignitie, yet will I give my selfe to wisdom & uprightness being a private man.

^c He sheweth that Magistrates doe not their duties, except they bee enemies to all vices.

^d In promising to punish these vices, which are most pernicious in them that are about Kings, he declareth that he will punish all.

^e Hee sheweth what is the true use of the sword, to punish the wicked, and to maintaine good.

^f Magistrates must immediately punish vice, lest it grow to further inconvenience: & if heathen Magistrates are bound to doe this, how much more they that have the charge of the Church of God.

^a Whereby is signified, that albeit wee be never so great sinners, yet there is ever place left for praier.

O Lord, heare my praier, and let my b Hee declareth that in our praier
we multively feel that, which wee desire, and sted-fastly beleve to obtaine.

2 Hide not thy face from mee in the time of my trouble: incline thine eares unto mee: when I call, make haste to heare me.

3 For my daies are c consumed like smoke, and my bones are burnt like an herth.

4 Mine heart is smitten, and wither-eth like grasse: because I forgate d to eate my bread.

5 For the voice of my groaning, my bones doe cleave to my skin.

6 I am like a e pelicane of the wilderneffe: I am like an owle of the deserts.

7 I watch, and am as a sparrow alone upon the house top.

8 Mine enemies revile me daily, and they that rage against me, have f sworne against me.

9 Surely, I have s eaten ashes as bread, and mingled my drinke with weeping.

10 Because of thine h indignation, and thy wrath: for thou hast heaved mee up, and cast me downe.

11 My daies are like a shadow that fa-deth, and I am withered like grasse.

12 But thou, O Lord, dost i remaine forever, and thy remembrance from generation to generation.

13 Thou wilt arise and have mercie upon Zion: for the time to have mercie thereon, for the k appointed time is come.

14 For thy servants delight in the l stones thereof, and have pitie on the dust thereof.

15 Then the heathen shall feare the Name of the Lord, and all the Kings of the earth thy glory,

16 When the Lord shall build up Zion, and shall appeare m in his glory,

17 And shall turne unto the praier of the desolate, and not despise their praier.

18 This shall be written for the generation to come: and the people, which shall be n created, shall praise the Lord.

19 For hee hath looked downe from the height of his Sanctuary: out of the heaven did the Lord behold the earth,

20 That he might heare the mourning of the prisoner, and deliver the o children of death:

21 That they may declare the Name of the Lord in Zion, and his praise in Jerusalem,

22 When the people shall be gathered p together, and the kingdomes to serve the Lord.

23 Hee q abated my strength in the way, and shortened my daies.

c These excessive kinds of speech, shew how much the affliction of the Church ought to wound the hearts of the piously.

d My sorowes were so great, that I passed not for gaine ordinarie bod.

e Ever mourning and solitary, calling out fearfull cries.

f Have conspired
my death.

g I have not risen out of my mourning, to take my refection.

h He sheweth that the afflictions did not onely thus move him, but chiefly the feeling of Gods displeasure.

i Howsoever wee be fraile, yet thy promise is sure, and the remembrance thereof shall confirm us for ever.

k That is, the seventy years, which by the Prophet Jeremy thou didst appoint, Jer. 29.
12.

l The more that the Church is in misery and desolation, the more ought the faithful to love & pitie it.
m That is, when he shall have drawn his Church out of the dark-nesse of death.

n The deliverance of the Church is a most excellent benefit, and therefore he compareth
it to a new creation: for in their banishment,
the body of the Church seemed to have been dead, which by deliverance was as it were created a new.

o Who now in their banishment could look for nothing but death.

p He sheweth that Gods name is never more praised,
thē when religion
flourisheth, and y Church increaseth:
which thing is chiefly accomplished under the kingdome of Christ.

q The Church lament that they see not the time of Christ, which was promised, but have but few years and short daies.

24 And I said, O my God, take mee not away in the mids of my daies: thy yeares endure from generation to generation.

25 Thou hast afore-time laid the foundation of the earth, and the heavens are the worke of thine hands.

26 r They shall perish, but thou shalt endure: even they all shall waxe old, as doth a garment: as a vesture shalt thou change them, and they shall bee changed.

27 But thou art the same, and thy yeares shall not faile.

28 The children of thy servants shall continue, and their seed shall stand s fast in thy fight.

P S A L. CIII.

t He provoketh all to praise the Lord, which hath pardoned his sinnes, delivered him from destruction, and given him sufficient of all good things: 10 Then, he addeth the tender mercies of God, which he sheweth like a most tender Father toward his children. 14 The frailtie of mans life, 20 An exhortation to men and Angels to praise the Lord.

A Psalme of David.

MY soule, a praise thou the Lord; and all that is within me, praise his holy Name.

2 My soule, praise thou the Lord, and forget not all his benefits.

3 Which b forgiveth all thine iniquities, and healeth all thine infirmities.

4 Which redeemeth thy life from the c grave, and crowneth thee with mercie and compassions.

5 Which satisfieth thy mouth with good things: and thy d youth is renewed like the Eagles.

6 The Lord executeth righteousness and judgement to all that are oppressed.

7 Hee made his waies knowne unto e Moses, and his works unto the children of Israel.

8 The Lord is full of compassion and mercies, slow to anger, and of great kind-nesse.

9 He will not alway f chide, neither keepe his anger for ever.

10 He hath not s dealt with us after our sinnes, nor rewarded us according to our iniquities.

11 For as high as the heaven is above the earth, so great is his mercie toward them that feare him.

12 As farre as h the East is from the West: so farre hath he removed our sinnes from us.

13 As a father hath compassion on his children, so hath the Lord compassion on them that feare him.

14 For hee knoweth whereof wee be made: hee remembreth that wee are but dust.

r If heaven and earth perish, much more man shall perish: but the Church by reason of Gods promise,
endureth for ever.

s Seeing thou hast chosen thy Church out of the world, and joined it to thee, it cannot but continue for ever:
for thou art everlasting.

a Hee wakeneth his dunesse to praise God, shew-ing that both understanding and affections, minde and heart, are too little to set forth his praise.

b This is the beginning and chiefest of all benefits:
remission of sinne.

c For before that we have remission of our sinnes, wee are as dead men in the grave.

d As the Eagle,
when her beake over-groweth, she keth blood, and so is renewed in strength, even so God miraculously giveth strength to his Church above all mans expectation.

e As to his chief minister, and next to his people.

f He sheweth first his severe judgement, but so soone
as the sinner is humbled, he receiveth him to mercies.

g Wee have proved by continuall experience, that his mercie hath ever prevailed against our offences.

h As great as the world is, so full is it of signes of Gods mercies toward his faithful,
when he hath removed their sinnes.

ⁱ Hee declareth that man hath nothing in himselfe to move God to mercie, but only the confession of his iniquity and misery.

^k His iust and faithful keeping of his promise.

^l To whom hee giveth grace to know him, and to obey his word.

^m In that, that we which naturally are slow to praise God, exceed the Angels, which willingly do it, we stir up our selves to consider, our duties, and awake out of our sluggishness.

15 The daies of ⁱ man are as grasse: as a flower of the field, so flourisheth he.

16 For the winde goeth over it, and it is gone, and the place thereof shall know it no more.

17 But the loving kindnes of the Lord endureth for ever and ever upon them that feare him: and his ^k righteousnesse upon childrens children.

18 Unto them that keepe his ^l covenant, and thinke vpon his commandments to doe them.

19 The Lord hath prepared his throne in heaven, and his kingdome ruleth over all.

20 Praise the Lord, yee ^m his Angels, that excell in strength, that doe his commandment in obeying the voice of his word.

21 Praise the Lord, all yee his hostes, ye his servants that doe his pleasure.

22 Praise the Lord, all ye his workes, in all places of his dominion: my soule, praise thou the Lord.

P S A L M CIV.

¹ An excellent Psalme to praise God for the creation of the world, and the governance of the same by his marvelous providence.
³⁵ Wherin the Prophet praieth against the wicked, who are occasions that God diminisheth his blessings.

MY soule, praise thou the Lord: O Lord my God, thou art exceeding great, thou art ^a clothed with glorie and honour.

2 Which covereth himselfe with light as with a garment, and spreadeth the heavens like a curtaine.

3 Which laieth the beames of his chambers in the waters, and maketh the clouds his chariot, and walketh upon the wings of the winde.

4 Which ^b maketh the spirits his messengers, and a flaming fire his ministers.

5 He set the earth upon her foundations, so that it shall never move.

6 Thou coverest it with the ^c deepe as with a garment: the ^d waters would stand above the mountaines.

7 But at thy rebuke they flee: at the voice of thy thunder they haste away.

8 And the mountaines ascend, and the valleyes descend to the place which thou hast established for them.

9 But thou hast set them a bound, which they shall not passe: they shall not returne to cover the earth.

10 He sendeth the springs into the valleyes which run between the mountains.

11 They shall give drinke to all the ^e beasts of the field, and the wilde asses shall quench their thirst.

12 By these ^f springs shall the fowles of the heaven dwell, and sing among the branches.

13 He watereth the mountaines from his ^g chambers, and the earth is filled with the fruit of thy workes.

14 He causeth grasse to grow for the cattell, and hearbe for the use of ^h man, that he may bring forth bread out of the earth:

15 And wine that maketh glad the heart of man, and oile to make the face to shine, and bread that strengtheneth mans heart.

16 The high trees are satisfied, even the cedars of Lebanon which he hath planted, 17 That the birds may make their nests there: the storke dwelleth in the firre trees.

18 The high mountaines are for the ⁱ goates: the rocks are a refuge for the conies.

19 He appointed the ^j moone for certaine seasons: ^k the sunne knoweth his going downe.

20 Thou makest darknesse, and it is night, wherein all the beasts of the Forrest creepe forth.

21 The lions roare after their prey, and seeke their meat ^l at God.

22 When the sunne riseth they retire, and couch in their dennes.

23 ^m Then goeth man forth to his work, and to his labour untill the evening.

24 O Lord, how ⁿ manifold are thy workes! in wisdome hast thou made them all: the earth is full of thy riches.

25 So is this sea great and wide: far therein are things creeping innumerable, both small beasts and great.

26 There goe the ships; yea that ^o Leviathan, which thou hast made to play therein.

27 ^p All these waite upon thee, that thou maist give them food in due season.

28 Thou givest it to them, and they gather it: thou openest thine hand, and they are filled with good things.

29 But if thou ^q hide thy face, they are troubled: if thou take away their breath, they die and returne to their dust.

30 Again, if thou ^r send forth thy spirit, they are created, and thou renewest the face of the earth.

31 Glory be to the Lord for ever: let the Lord reioice in his workes.

32 Hee looketh on the earth and it trembleth: he toucheth the mountaines, and they smoke.

33 I will sing unto the Lord all my life: I will praise my God, while I live.

34 Let my words be acceptable unto him: I will reioice in the Lord.

35 Let the sinners be ^s consumed out of the earth, and the wicked till there be no more: O my soule, praise thou the Lord. Praise yee the Lord.

^g From the clouds.

^h Hee describeth Gods provident care over man, who doth not onely provide necessary things for him, as herbs and other meat: but also things to reioice and comfort him, as wine and oile, or ornaments.

ⁱ Or, does, rest, and such like.

^j As to separate the night from the day, and to note daies, monthes, &c. years.

^k That is, by his course, either faire or neere, it noteth summer, winter, and other seasons.

^l That is, they onely finde meat according to Gods providence, who careth even for the brute beasts.

^m To wit, when the day springeth, for the light is as it were a shield to defend us against the tyrannie and fiercenes of beasts.

ⁿ Hee confesseth that no tongue is able to expresse Gods workes, nor minde to comprehend them.

^o Or, whales.

^p God is a most nourishing Father, who provideth for all creatures their daily food.

^q As by thy presence all things have life: so if thou withdraw thy blessings, they all perish.

^r As the death of creatures sheweth that wee are nothing of our selves: so their generation declareth that wee receive all things of our Creatour.

^s Gods mercifull face giveth strength to the earth, but his severe countenance burneth the mountaines.

^t Who infect the world, & so can God that he cannot reioice in his workes.

C H A P. CV.

¹ He praiseth the singular grace of God, who hath of all the people of the world chosen a peculiar people to himselfe, and having chosen them, never ceaseth to doe them good, even for his promise sake.

Praise the Lord, and call upon his Name: ^a declare his workes among the people.

^a Forasmuch as the Israelites were exempted from the common condemnation of the world, and were elected to be Gods people, the Prophet willeth them to shew themselves mindfull by thanksgiving.

² Sing unto him, sing praise unto him, and talke of all his wondrous workes.

^b By the strength and face he meaneth the Ark, where God declared his power and his presence.

³ Rejoice in his holy Name: let the heart of them that seeke the Lord, rejoice.

^c Which he hath wrought in the deliverance of his people.

⁴ Seek the Lord and his ^b strength: seeke his face continually.

^d Because his power was thereby as lively declared, as if he should have declared it by mouth.

⁵ Remember his ^c marvellous workes, that he hath done, his wonders, and the ^d judgements of his mouth.

⁶ Yee seed of Abraham his servant, yee children of Jaakob, which are his elect.

⁷ He is the Lord our God: his judgements are through all the earth.

⁸ He hath alway remembered his covenant and promise, that hee made to a thousand generations, ^e The promise which God made to Abraham to be his God, and the God of his seed after him, hee renewed and repeated again to his seed after him.

⁹ Even that which he made with ^e Abraham, and his oath unto Izhak:

¹⁰ And since hath confirmed it to Jaakob for a Law, and to Israel for an everlasting covenant, ¹¹ Saying, ^f Unto thee will I give the land of Canaan, the lot of your inheritance.

^f He sheweth that they should not enjoy the land of Canaan by any other meanes, but by reason of his covenant made with their fathers.

¹² Albeit, they were few in number: yea, very few, and strangers in the land,

¹³ And walked about from nation to nation, from ^g one kingdome to another people;

^g That is, the king of Egypt, and the King of Gerar, Gen. 12. 17. and 20. 3.

¹⁴ Yet suffered he no man to doe them wrong, but reprov'd ^h Kings for their sakes, saying,

^h Those whom I have sanctified to be my people.

¹⁵ Touch not mine ^h anointed, and doe my ⁱ Prophets no harme.

ⁱ Meaning, the old fathers, to whom God shewed himselfe plainly, and who were setters forth of his word.

¹⁶ Moreover, he called a famine upon the land, and utterly brake the ^k staffe of bread.

^k Either by sending scarcitie, or by taking away the strength and nourishment thereof.

¹⁷ But he sent a man before them: Joseph was sold for a slave.

¹⁸ They held his feet in the stocks, and he was laid in irons,

^l So long hee suffered adversity, as God had appointed, and till he had tried sufficiently his patience.

¹⁹ Untill ^l his appointed time came, and the counsell of the Lord had tried him.

²⁰ The King sent and loosed him: even the Ruler of the people delivered him.

²¹ He made him lord of his house, and ruler of all his substance,

^m That the very princes of the countie should be at Josephs commandement, and learne wisdom at him.

²² That he should binde his ^m princes unto his will, and teach his Ancients wisdom.

²³ Then Israel came to Egypt: and Jaakob was a stranger in the land of Ham.

²⁴ And hee increased his people exceedingly, and made them stronger then their oppressours.

²⁵ He turned their heart to hate his people, and to deale craftily with his servants.

ⁿ So is it in God, either to move the heart of the wicked to love, or to hate Gods children.

²⁶ Then sent he Moses his servant, and Aaron whom he had chosen.

²⁷ They shewed among them the message of his signes, and wonders in the land of Ham.

²⁸ Hee sent darknesse, and made it darke: and they were not ^o disobedient unto his commission.

^o Meaning, Moses and Aaron.

²⁹ Hee turned their waters into blood and slew their fish.

³⁰ Their land brought forth frogs, even in their kings chambers.

^q Exod. 8. 6.

³¹ Hee spak, and there came swarms of flies, and lice in all their quarters.

^p So that this vermine came not by forme, but as God had appointed, and his Prophet Moses spake, q It was strange to see raine in Egypt, much more it was fearefull to see haile.

³² He gave them ^q haile for raine, and flames of fire in their land.

³³ He smote their vines also and their figge-trees, and brake downe the trees in their coasts.

^r He sheweth that all creatures are armed against him, when God is his enemy: as at his commandement the grasshoppers destroyed the land.

³⁴ Hee spak, and the grasshoppers came, and caterpillers innumerable,

³⁵ And did eate up all the grasse in their land, and devoured the fruit of their ground.

^s Exod. 12. 29.

³⁶ Hee smote also all the first borne in their land, even the beginning of all their strength.

³⁷ He brought them forth also with silver and gold, and there was ^t none feeble among their tribes.

^t When their enemies felt Gods plagues, his children by his providence were exempted.

³⁸ Egypt was ^u glad at their departing: for the feare of them had falne upon them.

^u For Gods plagues caused them rather to depart with the Israelites, then with their lives.

³⁹ He spread a cloud to be a covering, and fire to give light in the night.

⁴⁰ They ^v asked, and hee brought quails, and he filled them with the bread of heaven.

^v Not for necessity, but for satisfying of their lust.

⁴¹ He opened the rocke, and the waters flowed out, and ranne in the drie places like a river.

⁴² For he remembered his holy ^x promise to Abraham his servant.

^x Which he confirmeth to the posteritie, in whom after a sort the dead live and enjoy the promises.

⁴³ And hee brought forth his people with ^y joy, and his chosen with gladnesse:

^y When the Egyptians lamented and were distressed.

⁴⁴ And gave them the lands of the heathen, and they tooke the labours of the people in possession.

^z This is the end why God preserveth his Church, because they should worship, and call upon him in this world.

⁴⁵ That they might keepe ^z his statutes, and observe his Lawes. Praise yee the Lord.

P S A L. CVI.

¹ The people dispersed under Antiochus, doe magnifie the goodness of God among the just and repentant: Desiring

⁴ Desiring to be brought again into the land by Gods mercifull visitation. ⁸ And after the manifold marvels of God wrought in their deliverance forth of Egypt: and the great ingratitude of the people rebewled, ⁴⁷ They doe pray and desire to be gathered from among the heathen, to the intent they may praise the Name of the God of Israel.

¶ Praise yee the Lord.

Praise a yee the Lord, because he is good for his mercy endureth for ever.

² Who can expresse the noble acts of the Lord, or shew forth all his praise?

³ Blessed are they that ^b keep judgement, and doe righteousness at all times.

⁴ Remember me, O Lord, with the ^c favour of thy people: visit me with thy salvation:

⁵ That I may see the felicity of thy chosen, and reioice in the joy of thy people, and glory with thine inheritance.

⁶ We have ^d finned with our fathers: wee have committed iniquity, and done wickedly.

⁷ Our fathers understood not thy wonders in Egypt, neither remembered they the multitude of thy mercies, but rebelled at the Sea, even at the red Sea.

⁸ Nevertheless, he ^e saved them for his Names sake, that hee might make his power to be knowne.

⁹ And he rebuked the red Sea, and it was dried up, and he led them in the deep, as in the wilderness.

¹⁰ And he saved them from the adversaries hand, and delivered them from the hand of the enemy.

¹² Then ^f beleved they his words, and sang praise unto him.

¹³ But incontinently they forgot his works: they waited not for his ^g counsel,

¹⁴ But lusted with concupiscence in the wilderness, and tempted God in the desert.

¹⁵ Then he gave them their desire, but he sent ^h leanness into their soule.

¹⁶ They envied Moses also in the tents, and Aaron the holy one of the Lord.

¹⁷ Therefore the earth opened and ⁱ swallowed up Dathan, and covered the company of Abiram.

¹⁸ And the fire was kindled in their assembly: the flame burnt up the wicked.

¹⁹ They made a calfe in Horeb, and worshipped the molten image.

²⁰ Thus they turned their ^k glory into the similitude of a bullock, that eateth grasse.

²¹ They forgot God their Saviour, which had done great things in Egypt, ²² Wondrous works in the land of Ham, and fearefull things by the red Sea.

²³ Therefore hee minded to destroy them, had ^l not Moses his chosen stood in the breach before him, to turne away his wrath, lest he should destroy them.

²⁴ Also they contemned that ^m pleasant land, and beleved not his word:

²⁵ But murmured in their tents, and hearkned not unto the voice of the Lord.

²⁶ Therefore ⁿ hee lifted up his hand against them, to destroy them in the wilderness, ²⁷ And to destroy their seed among the nations, and to scatter them throughout the countries.

²⁸ They joynd themselves also unto ^o Baal-peor, and did eat the offerings of the ^p dead.

²⁹ Thus they ^q provoked him unto anger with their ^r owne inventions, and the plague brake in upon them.

³⁰ But ^s Phinehas stood up, and executed judgement, and the plague was staid.

³¹ * And it was ^t imputed unto him for righteousness, from generation to generation for ever.

³² They angered him also at the waters of ^u Meribah, so that ^v Moses was punished for their sakes:

³³ Because they vexed his spirit, so that he spake unadvisedly with his lips.

³⁴ Neither destroyed they the people, as the Lord had commanded them:

³⁵ But were mingled among the heathen, and learned their works;

³⁶ And they served their Idols, which were their ruine.

³⁷ Yea, they offered their ^w sonnes, and their daughters unto devils, ³⁸ And shed innocent blood, even the blood of their sonnes, and of their daughters, whom they offered unto the idols of Canaan, and the land was defiled with blood.

³⁹ Thus were they stained with their owne works, and went ^x a whoring with their owne inventions.

⁴⁰ Therefore was the wrath of the Lord kindled against his people, and hee abhorred his owne inheritance.

⁴¹ And he gave them into the hand of the heathen: and they that hated them, were Lords over them.

⁴² Their enemies also oppressed them, and they were humbled under their hand.

⁴³ Many ^y a time did he deliver them, but they provoked him by their counsels: therefore they were brought downe by their iniquitie.

⁴⁴ Yet he saw when they were in affliction, and he heard their crie.

⁴⁵ And hee remembered his covenant toward them, and ^z repented according to the multitude of his mercies.

46 And

^l If Moses by his intercession had not obtained Gods favour against their rebellious.

^m That is, Canaan, which was as it were an earnest penny of the heavenly inheritance.

ⁿ That is, hee swore. Sometime also, it meaneth to punish.

^o Which was the idol of the Moabites.

^p Sacrifices offered to the dead idols.

^q Signifying, that whatsoever man inventeth of himselfe to serve God by, is detestable and provoketh his anger.

^r When all other neglected Gods glory, he in his zeale killed the adulterers, and prevented Gods wrath.

^t This act declared his lively faith, and for his faiths sake was accepted.

^u Nam, 20. 12.

^v Nam, 20. 12.

^w If so, notable a Prophet of God, escape not punishment, though others provoked him to fight, how much more shall they be subject to Gods judgement, which cause Gods children to sin?

^x Hee sheweth how monstrous a thing idolatry is, which can winne us to things abhorring to nature, whereas Gods word cannot obtaine most small things.

^y Then the children of Israel, to cleave wholly and give themselves up unto God.

^z Nam, 25. 13.

^z Not that God is changeable in himselfe, but that then hee seemeth to us to repent, when he altereth his punishments and forgiveth us.

^a The Prophet exhorteth the people to praise God for his benefits past, that thereby their mindes may be strengthened against all present troubles and desires.

^b Hee sheweth that it is not enough to praise God with mouth, except the whole heart agree thereto, and all our life be thereunto framed.

^c Let the good will that thou bearest to thy people, extend unto mee, that thereby I may be received into the number of thine.

^d By earnest confession of all of their owne, as of their fathers sins, they shew that they had hope, that God according to his promise would punish them.

^e The ineffable goodness of God appeared in this, that he would change the order of nature, rather than his people should not be delivered, although they were wicked.

^f Nam, 14. 27.

^g The wonderful works of God caused them to believe for a time, and to praise him.

^h They would prevent his wisdom and providence.

ⁱ The abundance that God gave them, provoked not, but made them pine away, because God cursed it.

^j By the greatness of the punishment, the heinous offence may be considered, for they that rise against Gods ministers, rebel against him.

^k Hee sheweth that all idolaters renounce God to bee their glory, when in stead of him they worship any creature, much more wood, stone, metal, or calves.

46 And gave them favour in the fight of all them that led them captives.

^a Gather thy Church which is dispersed, and give us constancy under the crosse, that with one consent wee may all praise thee.

47 Save us, O Lord our God, and gather us from among the heathen, that we may praise thine holy Name, and glory in thy praise.

48 Blessed be the Lord God of Israel for ever and ever, and let all the people say, So be it. Praise ye the Lord.

P S A L. CVII.

¹ The Prophet exhorteth all those that are redeemed by the Lord, and gathered unto him, to give thanks. ² For this mercifull providence of God governing all things at his good pleasure. ²⁰ Sending good and evill, prosperity and adversitie, to bring men unto him. ⁴² Therefore as the righteous thereat rejoice, so shall the wicked have their mouths stopped.

^a This notable sentence was in the beginning used, as the foote or tenor of the song which was oftentimes repeated.

^b As this was true in the Jews, so is there none of Gods elect, that feele not his helpe in their necessitie.

^c Or, from the sea: meaning the red sea, which is on the South part of the land.

^c Hee sheweth that there is none affliction so grievous, out of the which God will not deliver his, and also exhorteth them that are delivered, to bee mindefull of so great a benefit.

Praise the Lord, because he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever.

2 Let them, ^b which have bin redeemed of the Lord, shew how he hath delivered them from the hand of the oppressor,

3 And gathered them out of the lands, from the East, and from the West, from the North, and from the [†] South.

4 When they wandred in the desert and wilderness out of the way, and found no city to dwell in.

5 ^c Both hungry and thirsty, their soules fainted in them.

6 Then they cried unto the Lord in their trouble, and he delivered them from their distresse,

7 And led them forth by the right way, that they might go to a city of habitation.

8 Let them therefore confesse before the Lord his loving kindnesse, and his wonderfull works before the sons of men.

9 For he satisfied the thirsty soule, and filled the hungry soule with goodnesse.

10 They that dwell in darknesse and in the shadow of death, being bound in miserie and iron.

^d Then the true way to obey God, is to follow his expresse commandment: also hereby all are exhorted to defend into themselves, for as much as none are punished, but for their finnes.

^e Hee sheweth that the cause why God doth punish us extremely, is, because wee can be brought unto him by no other means.

^f When there seemeth to mans judgement no recovery, but all things are brought to despair, then God chiefly sheweth his mighty power.

^g They that have no feare of God, by his sharp rods are brought to call upon him, and so find mercy.

11 Because they ^d rebelled against the words of the Lord, and despised the counsell of the most High:

12 When he humbled their heart with heavinesse, then they fell downe and there was no helper.

13 Then they ^e cried unto the Lord in their trouble, and he delivered them from their distresse.

14 He brought them out of darkenes, and out of the shadow of death, and brake their bands asunder.

15 Let them therefore confesse before the Lord his loving kindnes, and his wonderfull works before the sons of men.

16 For hee hath broken the ^f gates of brasse, and brast the bars of iron asunder.

17 ^g Fooles by reason of their transgression, and because of their iniquities are afflicted.

18 Their soule abhorreth all meat, and they are brought to deaths doore.

19 Then they cry unto the Lord in their trouble, and he delivereth them from their distresse, 20 ^h He sendeth his word and healeth them, and delivereth them from their graves.

^h By healing them he declareth his good will toward them. ⁱ Meaning, their diseases, which had almost brought them to the grave and corruption.

21 Let them therefore confesse before the Lord his loving kindnes, and his wonderfull works before the sonnes of men.

22 And let them offer sacrifices of ^k praise, and declare his works with rejoicing.

^k Praise and confession of Gods benefits are the true sacrifices of the godly.

23 They that goe downe to the ^l sea in ships, and occupie by the great waters, ^l He sheweth by the sea what care God hath over man: for in that, that he delivereth them from the great danger of the sea, he delivereth them as it were from a thousand deaths.

24 They see the workes of the Lord, and his wonders in the deepe.

25 For he commandeth and raiseth the stormy winde, and it lifteth up the waves thereof.

26 They mount up to the heaven, and descend to the deepe, so that their soules ^m melteth for trouble.

^m Their feare and danger is so great.

27 They are tossed to and fro, and stagger like a drunken man, and all their ⁿ cunning is gone.

ⁿ When their art and meynes faile them, they are compelled to confesse that onely Gods providence doth preleve them.

28 Then they cry unto the Lord in their trouble, and he bringeth them out of their distresse.

29 He turneth the storme to calme, so that the waves thereof are still.

30 When they are ^o quieted, they are glad, and he bringeth them unto the haven where they would be.

^o Though before every drop seemed to fight one against another, yet at his commandment they are as still as though they were frozen.

31 Let them therefore confesse before the Lord his loving kindnes, and his wonderfull workes before the sons of men.

32 And let them exalt him in the ^p Congregation of the people, and praise him in the assembly of the Elders.

^p This great benefit ought not onely to be considered particularly, but magnified in all places and assemblies.

33 He turneth the floods into a wilderness, and the springs of waters into drines, ^q Or, saltless.

34 And a fruitfull land into [†] barrennesse, for the wickednesse of them that dwell therein.

35 ^q Again, he turneth the wilderness into pooles of water, and the drie land into water springs.

^q For the love that he beareth to his Church hee changeth the order of nature for their commoditie.

36 And there he placeth the hungry, and they build a city to dwell in,

37 And sow the fields, and plant vineyards, which bring forth fruitfull increase.

^r Continually increase, & yearly.

38 For hee blesteth them, and they multiply exceedingly; and he diminisheth not their cattell.

39 ^r Again, men are diminished, and brought low by oppression, evill & sorrow.

40 He powreth contempt upon Princes, and causeth them to erre in desert places out of the way.

^s As God by his providence doth exalt men, so doth hee also humble them by afflictions to know themselves.

41 Yet he raiseth up the poore out of miserie, and maketh him families like a flocke of sheepe.

^t For their wickednesse and tyranny hee causeth the people and subjects to condemn them.

v They, whoſe faith is lightened by Gods Spirit, ſhall reioyce to ſee Gods iudgements againſt the wicked and ungodly.

42 The righteous ſhall ſee it, and reioyce, and all iniquity ſhall ſtop her mouth.

43 Who is wiſe that he may obſerve theſe things? for they ſhall underſtand the loving kindeſſe of the Lord.

PSAL. CVIII.

^x This Pſalme is compoſed of two other Pſalmes before, the ſeven and fiftieth, and the ſixtieth. The matter heere contained, is, ⁱ That David giueth himſelfe with heart and voice to praiſe the Lord. ⁷ And aſſureth himſelfe of the promiſe of God concerning his kingdome over Iſrael, and his power againſt other nations: ¹¹ Who though he ſeeme to forſake us for a time, yet he alone will in the end caſt downe our enemies.

¶ A Pſalme or ſong of David.

O God, mine heart ^a is prepared, ſo is [†] my tongue: I will ſing and give praiſe.

2 Awake viole and harpe: I will awake earely.

3 I will praiſe thee, O Lord, among the ^b people, and I will ſing unto thee among the nations.

4 For thy mercy is great above the heavens, and thy truth unto the clouds.

5 ^c Exalt thy ſelfe, O God, above the heavens, and let thy glory be upon all the earth;

6 That thy beloved may be delivered: ^d helpe with thy right hand and heare me.

7 God hath ſpoken in his holineſſe: therefore I will reioyce, I will divide Shechem, and meaſure the valley of Succoth.

8 Giliad ſhall be mine, and Manaſſeh ſhall be mine: Ephraim alſo ſhall be the ſtrength of mine head: Iuda is my law-giver.

9 ^e Moab ſhall be my waſh-pot: over Edom will I caſt out my ſhooe: upon Paleſtina will I triumph.

10 Who will lead mee into the ſtrong citie? who will bring me unto Edom?

11 ^f Wilt not thou, O God, which haſt forſaken us, and diſt not goe forth, O God, with our armies?

12 Give us helpe againſt trouble: for vaine is the helpe of man.

13 Through God we ſhall doe valiantly: for he ſhall tread downe our enemies.

PSAL. CIX.

¹ David being faulſely accuſed by flatterers unto Saul, praiſeth God to helpe him, and to deſtroy his enemies. ⁸ And under them hee ſpeaketh of Iudas the traitor unto Ieſus Chriſt, and of all the like enemies of the children of God: ²⁷ And deſireth ſo to be delivered, that his enemies may know the worke to be of God. ³⁰ Then doth he promiſe to give praiſes unto God.

¶ To him that excelleth. A Pſalme of David.

H^ald not thy tongue, O God of my praiſe.

^a Though all the world condemne me, yet thou wilt approve mine innocencie, and that is a ſufficient praiſe to me.

2 For the mouth of the wicked, and the mouth full of deceit are opened upon mee: they have ſpoken unto me with a lying tongue.

3 They compaſſed mee about alſo with words of hatred, and fought againſt me without a cauſe.

4 For my friendſhip they were mine adverſaries, ^b but I gave my ſelfe to praiſe.

5 And they have rewarded me evil for good, and hatred for my friendſhip.

6 ^c Set thou the wicked over him, and let the adverſarie ſtand at his right hand.

7 When he ſhall be judged, let him be condemned, and let his ^d praiſe be turned into ſinne.

8 Let his daies be few, and let another take his ^e charge.

9 Let his children be fatherleſſe, and his wiſe a widow.

10 Let his children be vagabonds, and beg: and ſeeke bread, coming out of their places deſtroied.

11 Let the ^f extortioner catch all that he hath, and let the ſtrangers ſpoile his labour.

12 Let there be none to extend mercy unto him: neither let there be any to ſhew mercy upon his fatherleſſe children.

13 Let his poſteritie be deſtroied, and in the generation following let their name be put out.

14 ^g Let the iniquitie of his fathers be had in remembrance with the Lord: and let not the ſinne of his mother be done away.

15 But let them alway be before the Lord, that he may cut off their memoriall from the earth.

16 Becauſe ^h hee remembred not to ſhew mercy, but persecuted the afflicted and poore man, and the ſorrowfull hearted to ſlay him.

17 As hee loved curſing, ⁱ ſo ſhall it come unto him, and as hee loved not bleſſing, ſo ſhall it be farre from him.

18 As hee clothed himſelfe with curſing like raiment, ſo ſhall it come into his bowels like water, and like oyle into his bones.

19 Let it be unto him as a garment to cover him, and for a girdle wherewith hee ſhal be always girded.

20 Let this be the reward of mine adverſarie ^k from the Lord, and of them that ſpeake evil againſt my ſoule.

21 But thou, O Lord my God, deale with me according unto thy ^l Name: deliver me, (for thy mercy is good)

22 Becauſe I am poore and needy, and mine heart is wounded within me.

23 I depart like the ſhadow that declineth,

^b To declare that I had none other refuge but thee, in whom my conſcience was at reſt.

^c Whether it were Doeg or Saul, or ſome familiar friend that had betrayed him, hee praiſeth not of private affection, but moved by Gods Spirit: that God would take vengeance upon him.

^d As to the elect all things turne to their profit: ſo to the reprobates, even thoſe things that are good turne to their damnation.

^e This was chiefly accompliſhed in Iudas, Act. 1. 30.

^f Hee declareth that the curſe of God lieth upon the extortioners, who thinking to enrich their children by their unlawfull gotten goods, are by Gods juſt judgement deprived of all.

^g Thus puniſheth the Lord to the third and fourth generation, the wickedneſſe of the parents in their wicked children.

^h Hee ſheweth that God accuſtome to plague the after a ſtrange ſort, that ſheweth themſelves cruell toward other.

ⁱ Thus giveth the Lord to every man the thing, wherein he delighteth, that the reprobate cannot accuſe God of wrong, when they are given up to their luſts and rebroate minds.

p They shall gain nothing by cursing me.

q Not onely in confessing it secretly in my selfe, but also in declaring it before all the congregation. r Hereby he sheweth that hee had not to doe with them that were of little power, but with the judges and princes of the world.

neth : and am shaken off as the^m grasse-hopper.

24 My knees are weake through fasting, and my flesh hath^a lost all fatnesse.

25 I became also a rebuke unto them: they that looked upon mee shooked their heads.

26 Helpe me, O Lord my God: ^o save me according to thy mercie, 27 And they shall know that this is thine hand: and that thou, Lord, hast done it.

28 Though they^r curse, yet thou wilt blesse: they shall arise, and be confounded, but thy servant shall rejoyce.

29 Let mine adversaries bee clothed with shame, and let them cover themselves with their confusion, as with a cloake.

30 I will give thanks unto the Lord greatly with my^s mouth, and praise him among the multitude.

¹ David prophesieth of the power and everlasting kingdome given to Christ: ⁴ And of his Priesthood which should put an end to the Priest-hood of Levi.

¶ A Psalme of David.

THe^a Lord said unto my Lord, Sit thou at my right hand, untill I make thine enemies thy footstool.

2 The Lord shall send the rod of thy power out of^b Sion: bee thou ruler in the mids of thine enemies.

3 Thy people shall come willingly at the time of assembling^c thine armie in holy beauty: the youth of thy wombe shall be as the morning dew.

4 The Lord sware, and will not repent, Thou art a Priest for ever after the order of^d Melchi-zedek.

5 The Lord, that is at thy right hand, shall wound kings in the day of his wrath.

6 Hee shall be judge among the heathen: hee shall fill all with dead bodies, and smite the^e head over great countries.

7 He shall^f drinke of the brooke in the way: therefore shall he lift up his head.

¹ He giveth thanks to the Lord for his mercifull works toward his Church. ¹⁰ And declareth wherein true wisdom and right knowledge consisteth.

¶ Praise yee the Lord.

I Will^a praise the Lord with my whole heart, in the assembly and Congregation of the just.

^a The Prophet declareth that hee will praise God both privately and openly, and that from the heart, as hee that consecrateth himselfe wholly and onely unto God.

2 The workes of the Lord are^b great, and ought to bee fought out of all them that love them.

3 His worke is beautifull and glorious, and his righteousnesse endureth for ever.

4 Hee hath made his wonderfull workes to be had in remembrance: the Lord is mercifull and full of compassion.

5 He hath given^c a portion unto them that feare him: he will ever be mindfull of his covenant.

6 He hath shewed to his people the power of his workes, in giving unto them the heritage of the heathen.

7 The^d workes of his hands are truth and judgement: all his statutes are true.

8 They are established for ever and ever, and are done in truth and equitie.

9 He sent redemption unto his people, he hath commanded his covenant for ever: holy and fearefull is his Name.

10 The beginning of wisdom is the feare of the Lord: all they that observe^f them, have good understanding: his praise endureth for ever.

P S A L. C X I I.

¹ Hee praiseth the felicitie of them that feare God, ¹⁰ And condemneth the cursed state of the contemners of God.

¶ Praise yee the Lord.

Blessed is the man^a that feareth the Lord, and delighteth greatly in his commandements.

2 His seed shall bee mightie upon earth: the generation of the righteous shall be blessed.

3 Riches and treasures shall bee in his house, and his righteousnesse endureth for ever.

4 Unto the^c righteous ariseth light in darkenesse: hee is mercifull and full of compassion, and righteous.

5 A good man is mercifull and^d lendeth, and will measure his affaires by judgement.

6 Surely he shall never bee moved: but the righteous shall be had in everlasting remembrance.

7 He will not be afraid of evill tidings: for his heart is fixed, and beleeveeth in the Lord.

8 His heart is established: therefore he will not feare, untill he see his desire upon his enemies.

9 He hath^e distributed and given to the poore: his righteousnesse remaineth for ever: his^f horne shall be exalted with glorie.

10 The wicked shall see it, and be angry: hee shall gnash with his teeth, and^g consume away: the desire of the wicked shall perish.

^b He sheweth that Gods workes are a sufficient cause, wherefore wee should praise him, but chiefly his benefits towards his Church.

^c God hath given to his people all that was necessarie for them, and will doe still even for his covenantes sake, and in this sense, the Hebrew word is taken, Prov. 30.8. and 31.15.

^d Or, pray and find. As God promised to take the care of his Church, so in effect, doth he declare himselfe just & true in the government of the same.

^b The godly shall have abundance, and contentment, because their heart is satisfied in God onely.

^c The faithfull in all their adversities know that all shall goe well with them, for God will be mercifull and just.

^d Hee sheweth what is the fruit of mercie, to lend freely and not for gaine, and so to measure his doings, that he may bee able to helpe where need requireth, and not to bestow all on himselfe.

^e The godly pinch not niggardly, but distribute liberally, as the necessitie of the poore requireth, and as his power is able. ^f His power and prosperous estate. ^g The blessing of God upon his children, shall cause the wicked to die for envie.

PSAL. CXIII.

1 An exhortation to praise the Lord for his providence, 7 In this, that contrary to the course of nature, he worketh in his Church.

¶ Praise yee the Lord.

Praise, O yee servants of the Lord, praise the Name of the Lord.

2 Blessed be the Name of the Lord from henceforth and for ever.

3 The Lords Name is praised from the rising of the sunne, unto the going downe of the same.

4 The Lord is high above all^b nations, and his glorie above the heavens.

5 Who is like unto the Lord our God, that hath his dwelling on high?

6 Who abaseth himselfe to behold things in the heaven and in the earth?

7 Hee raiseth the needie out of the dust, and lifteth up the^c poore out of the dung,

8 That hee may set him with the princes, even with the princes of his people.

9 He maketh the barren woman to dwell with a familie, and a joyfull mother of children. Praise yee the Lord.

PSAL. CXIV.

1 How the Israelites were delivered forth of Egypt, and of the wonderfull miracles that God wrought at that time, which put us in remembrance of Gods great mercie toward his Church, who, when the course of nature faileth, preserve his miraculously.

When^a Israel went out of Egypt, and the house of Jaakob from the^a barbarous people,

2 Judah was^b his sanctuary, and Israel his dominion.

3 The sea saw it and fled: Jordan was turned backe.

4 The mountaines leaped like Rams, and the hils as Lambes.

5 What ailed thee, O Sea, that thou fleddest? O Jordan, why wast thou turned backe?

6 Yee mountaines, why leaped yee like Rams, and yee hils as Lambes?

7 The^d earth trembled at the presence of the Lord, at the presence of the God of Jaakob.

8 Which^e turneth the rocke into water-pooles, and the flint into a fountaine of water.

PSAL. CXV.

1 A prayer of the faithfull oppressed by idolatrous tyrants, against whom they desire that God would succour them, 9 Trusting most constantly that God will preserve them in this their need, seeing that he hath adopted and received them to his favour, 18 Promising finally, that they will not be unmindefull of so great a benefit, if it would please God to heare their prayer, and deliver them by his omnipotent power.

NOT^a unto us, O Lord, not unto us, but unto thy Name give the glorie, for thy loving mercie, and for thy truths sake.

2 Wherefore shall the heathen say,

^b Where is now their God?

3 But our God is in heaven: he doth whatsoever he^c will.

4 Their idols are^d silver and gold, even the worke of mens hands.

5 They have a mouth, and speak not: they have eyes, and see not.

6 They have eares, and heare not: they have noses, and smell not.

7 They have^e hands, and touch not: they have feet, and walke not: neither make they a sound with their throat.

8 They that make them are^f like unto them: so are all that trust in them.

9 O Israel, trust thou in the Lord: for he is their helpe and their shield.

10 O house of Aaron, trust yee in the Lord: for he is their helpe, and their shield.

11 Ye that feare the Lord, trust in the Lord: for he is their helper, and their shield.

12 The Lord hath bene mindefull of us: he will blesse, he^h will blesse the house of Israel, he will blesse the house of Aaron.

13 He will blesse them that feare the Lord, both small and great.

14 The Lord will increase his graces toward you, even toward you, and toward your children.

15 Ye are blessed of the Lord, which made the heaven and the earth.

16 The^k heavens, even the heavens are the Lords: but he hath given the earth to the sonnes of men.

17 The dead praise not the Lord, neither any that^l goe downe into the place of silence.

18 But wee will praise the Lord from henceforth and for ever. Praise yee the Lord.

PSAL. CXVI.

1 David being in great danger of Saul in the desert of Maon, perceiving the great and inestimable love of God, toward him, magnified such great mercies, 13 And protesteth that he will be thankfull for the same.

I Love the Lord, because he hath heard my voice and my prayers.

2 For he hath inclined his eare unto mee, when I did call upon him^b in my daies.

3 When the snares of death compassed me, and the griefes of the grave caught mee: when I found trouble and sorrow.

4 Then I called upon the Name of the Lord, saying, I beseech thee, O Lord, deliver my soule.

5 The Lord is^c mercifull and righteous, and our God is full of compassion.

^b When the wicked see that God accomplisheth not his promise as they imagine, they thinke there is no God.

^c No impediments can let his worke, but he hath even the impediments to serve his will. d Seeing that neither the matter, nor the forme can commend the idols, it followeth that there is nothing, why they should be esteemed.

^e Hee sheweth what great vanitie it is to aske helpe of them, which not onely have no helpe in them, but lacke sense and reason. f As much without fence as blocks and stones. g For they were appointed by God as instructors and teachers of faith and religion for others to follow.

^h That is, hee will continue his graces toward his people.

ⁱ And therefore doth still governe and continue all things therein.

^k And they declare enough his sufficiency, so that the world serveth him nothing, but to shew his fatherly care toward men.

^l Though the dead set forth Gods glorie, yet hee meaneth heere, that they praise him not in his Church and Congregation.

^a Hee granteth that no pleasure is so great as to seeke Gods helpe in our necessitie, neither that any thing more stirreth up our love toward him. b That is, in convenient time to seeke help, which was when hee was in distress.

^c Hee sheweth forth the fruit of his love, in calling upon him, confessing him to be just and mercifull, and to helpe them that are destitute of aide and counsell.

^a By this often repetition be stirred up our cold dulnesse to praise God, seeing his workes are so wonderful, and that we are created for the same cause.

^b If Gods glorie shine through all the world, and therefore of all ought to be praised, what great commendation were it to his people, among whom chiefly it shineth, if they should not earnestly extol his Name?

^c By preferring the poore to high honour, & giving the barren children, he sheweth that God worketh not onely in his Church by ordinary means, but also by miracles.

^a Exod. 13. 3.

^a That is, from the^a that were of a strange language. b The whole people were witnesses of his holy spirit, in adopting them, and of his mighty power in delivering them. c Seeing that the dead creatures felt Gods power, and after all that saw it, much more his people ought to consider it, & glorifie him for the same. d Ought then his people to be insensible, when they see his power and majesty? e That is, caused miraculously water to come out of the rocke in most abundance, Exod. 17. 6.

^a Because God promised to deliver them, not for their sakes, but for his Name. Isa. 48. 11, therefore they ground their prayer upon this promise.

6 The Lord preserveth the simple :
I was in misery, and he saved me.

^a Which was unquieted before,
now rest upon the Lord, for he hath been beneficiall towards thee.

7 Returne unto thy rest, O^d my soul :
for the Lord hath beene beneficiall unto thee.

8 Because thou hast delivered my soule from death, mine eies from teares, and my feet from falling.

^e The Lord will preserve me, and save my life.

9 I shall * walke before the Lord in the land of the living.

^f I felt all these things, & therefore was moved by faith to confesse them, 2 Cor. 4. 13.
^g In my great di-stresse I thought God would not regard man, which is but lies and vanities, yet I overcame this tentation, and felt the contrary.

10 I beleaved, therefore did I speak :
for I was sore troubled.

^h In the Law,

they gave solemn thanks to God, & to take the cup & drinke in signe of thanksgiving.

11 I said in my * feare, All men are liars.

12 What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits toward me ?

ⁱ I perceive that God hath a care over his, so that he both disposeth their death, and taketh an account.

13 I will ^h take the cup of salvation, and call upon the Name of the Lord.

14 I wil pay my vows unto the Lord, even now in the presence of all his people.

15 Precious in the sight of the Lord ^{is} the ⁱ death of his Saints.

16 Behold, Lord : for I am thy servant, I am thy servant, and the sonne of thine handmaid : thou hast broken my bonds.

17 I will offer to thee a sacrifice of praise, and will call upon the Name of the Lord.

^k I will thanke him for his benefits ; for that is a just payment, to confesse that wee owe all to God.

18 I will pay my * vows unto the Lord, even now in the presence of all his people :

19 In the courts of the Lords house, even in the mids of thee, O Jerusalem.
Praise yee the Lord.

PSAL. CXVII.

monies of his fatherly grace.

^a David rejected of Saul and of the people, at the time appointed obtained the Kingdome. * For the which, hee biddeth all them, that feare the Lord, to be thankfull. And under his person, in all this was Christ lively set forth, who should be of his people rejected.

^a Because God by creating David King, sheweth his mercie toward his afflicted Church,
the Prophet doth not only himselfe thanke God, but exhorteth all the people to do the same.

Praise * ye the Lord, because hee is 2 Let Israel now say, that his mercie

endureth for ever.

3 Let the house of Aaron now say, that his mercie endureth for ever.

4 Let them that feare the Lord, now say, that his mercie endureth for ever.

^b Wee are heere

5 I called upon the Lord in ^b trouble, and the Lord heard mee, and set me at large.

6 The Lord ^{is} with mee : therefore I will not feare what * man can doe unto mee.

7 The Lord ^{is} with me among them that helpe me : therefore shall I see ^{my} defire upon mine enemies.

8 It is better to trust in the Lord, then to have confidence ^d in man.

9 It is better to trust in the Lord, then to have confidence in Princes.

10 All nations have compassed mee :
but in the Name of the Lord I shall destroy them.

11 They have compassed me : yea, they have compassed me : but in the Name of the Lord I shall destroy them.

12 They came about mee like bees, but they were quenched as a fire of thorns :
for in the Name of the Lord, I shall destroy them.

13 * Thou hast thrust sore at me that I might fall : but the Lord hath holpen mee.

14 The Lord ^{is} my strength and ^e song :
for he hath beene my deliverance.

15 The * voice of joy and deliverance shall be in the tabernacles of the righteous, saying, The right hand of the Lord hath done valiantly.

16 The right hand of the Lord is exalted : ^h the right hand of the Lord hath done valiantly.

17 I shall not dye but live, and declare the workes of the Lord.

18 The Lord hath chastened me sore, but he hath not delivered me to death,

19 Open yee unto mee the ⁱ gates of righteousnesse, that I may goe into them, and praise the Lord.

20 This is the gate of the Lord : the righteous shall enter into it.

21 I will praise thee, for thou hast heard me, and hast been my deliverance.

22 * The stone which the builders ^k refused, is the head of the corner.

23 This was the Lords doing, and it is marvellous in our eies.

24 This is the ⁱ day, which the Lord hath made : let us rejoyce and bee glad in it.

25 * O Lord, I pray thee, save now :
O Lord, I pray thee now give prosperity.

26 Blessed be hee that commeth in the Name of the Lord : * we have blessed you out of the house of the Lord.

27 The Lord ^{is} mightie, and hath given us * light : binde the sacrifice with cords unto the hornes of the altar.

28 Thou art my God, and I will praise thee, even my God : therefore I will exalt thee.

29 Praise yee the Lord, because hee is good : for his mercie endureth for ever.

^c Being exalted this estate, hee sured himselfe to have man ever to be his enemy. Yet he doubted not,
but God would maintain him, because he had placed him.
^d He sheweth that he had trusted in vaine, if hee had put his confidence in man, to have beene preferred to the kingdome, & therefore hee put his trust in God, and obtained.

^e He noteth Saul his chiefe enemy.

^f In that hee was delivered, it came not of himselfe,
nor of the power of man, but only of Gods favour,
therefore he will praise him.

^g Hee promitteth both to render graces himselfe, and to cause others to doe the same, because that in his person the Church was restored.
^h So that all, that are both faire and neare, may see his mighty power.

they may declare

a Here they are not called blessed, which think their selves wise in their owne judgement, nor which imagine to themselves a certain holines, but they whose conversation is without hypocrisie.

Blessed are ^a those that are upright in their way, and walke in the Law of the Lord.

² Blessed are they that keepe his testimonies, and seeke him with their whole heart.

³ Surely they worke ^b none iniquity, but walke in his waies.

⁴ Thou hast commanded to keepe thy precepts diligently.

⁵ O that my waies were directed to keepe thy statutes!

⁶ Then should I not be confounded, when I have respect unto all thy commandements.

⁷ I will praise thee with an upright heart, when I shall learne the ^c judgements of thy righteousness.

⁸ I will keepe thy statutes: forsake me not ^d overlong.

B E T H.

⁹ Wherewith shall a ^a yong man redresse his way? in taking heed thereto according to thy word.

¹⁰ With my whole heart have I sought thee: let me not wander from thy commandements.

¹¹ I have ^b hid thy promise in mine heart, that I might not sinne against thee.

¹² Blessed art thou, O Lord: teach me thy statutes.

¹³ With my lips have I declared all the judgements of thy mouth.

¹⁴ I have had as great ^c delight in the way of thy testimonies, as in all riches.

¹⁵ I will meditate in thy precepts, and consider thy waies.

¹⁶ I will delight in thy statutes, and I will not forget thy word.

¹⁷ Bee beneficiall unto thy servant, that I may ^a live and keepe thy word.

¹⁸ Opon mine eies, that I may see the wonders of thy Law.

¹⁹ I am ^b a stranger upon earth: hide not thy commandements from me.

²⁰ Mine heart breaketh for the desire to thy judgements alway.

²¹ Thou ^c hast destroyed the proud: cursed are they that doe erre from thy commandements.

²² Remove from me shame and contempt: for I have kept thy testimonies.

²⁹ Take from me the ^d way of lying, and grant me graciously thy Law.

³⁰ I have chosen the way of truth, and thy judgements have I laid before me.

⁴² So shall I ^b make answer unto my blasphemers: for I trust in thy word.

⁴³ And take not the word of truth utterly out of my mouth: for I waite for thy judgements.

⁴⁴ So shall I alway keepe thy Law for ever and ever.

⁴⁵ And I will ^c walke at libertie: for I seeke thy precepts.

⁴⁶ I will speake also of thy testimonies

d When the powers of the world gave false sentence against mee, thy word was a guide and counsellor to teach me what to doe, and to comfort me.

a That is, it is almost brought to the grave, and without thy word I cannot live. b I have confessed mine offences, & now depend wholly on thee.

c If God did not maintaine us by his Word, our life would drop away like water. d Instruct mee in thy Word, whereby my mind may be purged from vanitie and taught to obey thy will.

e By this he sheweth, that wee can neither chuse good, cleave to Gods word, nor runne forward in his way, except he make our hearts large to receive his grace, and willing to obey.

a He sheweth that he cannot follow on to the end, except God reach him oftentimes, and leade him forward.

c Hereby meaning all other vices, because that coverousnes is the root of all evill. d Meaning, all his senses.

e Let mee not fall to thy dishonor, but let mine heart still delight in thy gracious Word. f Give me strength to continue in thy Word even to the end.

a Hee sheweth that Gods mercie and love is the first cause of our salvation.

b By trusting in Gods word, he sheweth himselfe to be able to confute the slanderers of his adversaries.

c They that simply walke after Gods word have no lets so intangle them: whereas they that doe contrary, are ever in nets and snares.

^d He sheweth that the children of God ought not to suffer their fathers glory to be obscured by the vain pompe of princes.

58 I made my supplication in thy presence with my whole heart: be mercifull unto me according to thy promise.

^b He sheweth that none can embrace the word of God, except hee consider his owne imperfections and wayes.

59 I have considered my ^b waies, and turned my feet into thy testimonies.

^c They have gone about to draw me into their company.

60 I made haste, and delaied not to keepe thy commandements.

^d Not onely in mutuall consent, but also with aide and succour.

61 The bands of the wicked have ^c robbed me: but I have not forgotten thy Law.

^e For the knowledge of Gods word is a singular token of his favour.

62 At midnight will I rise to give thanks unto thee, because of thy righteous judgements.

63 I am ^d a companion of all them that feare thee, and keepe thy precepts.

64 The earth, O Lord, is full of thy mercie: ^e teach me thy statutes.

o T E T H.

^a Having proved by experience that God was true in his promise, hee desireth that hee would increase in him knowledge and judgement.

65 O Lord, thou hast dealt ^a graciously with thy servant according unto thy word.

66 Teach mee good judgement and knowledge: for I have beleevd thy commandements.

^b So Jeremy saith, that before the Lord touched him, hee was like a calfe untamed, so that the use of Gods rods is to call us home to God.

67 Before I was ^b afflicted, I went astray: but now I keepe thy word.

68 Thou art good and gracious: teach me thy statutes.

69 The proud have imagined a lie against me: but I will keepe thy precepts with my whole heart.

70 ^c Their heart is fat as grease: but my delight is in thy Law.

^c Their heart is indurate and hardened, puffed up with prosperitie and vaine estimation of themselves. ^d He confesseth, that before that he was chastened, he was rebellious, as man by nature is.

71 It is ^d good for mee that I have beene afflicted, that I may learne thy statutes.

72 The Law of thy mouth is better unto me, then thousands of gold & silver.

, J O D.

73 Thine hands have ^a made me and fashioned mee, give mee understanding therefore, that I may learne thy commandements,

^a Because God leaveth not his worke that hee hath begun, hee desireth a new grace, that is, that hee would continue his mercies. ^b When God sheweth his grace toward any, he testifieth to others that hee faileth not them that trust in him.

74 So they that ^b feare thee, seeing me shall reioice, because I have trusted in thy word.

75 I know, O Lord, that thy judgements are right, and that thou hast afflicted me ⁺ justly.

76 I pray thee, that thy mercie may comfort me, according to thy promise unto thy servant.

77 Let thy tender mercies come unto me, that I may ^c live: for thy Law ⁺ my delight.

^c Hee declareth, that when hee feel not Gods mercies, hee was as dead.

78 Let the proud be ashamed: for they have dealt wickedly and falsly with mee: but I meditate in thy precepts.

^d That is, be comforted by mine example.

79 Let such as feare thee ^d turne unto me, and they that know thy ^e testimonies.

^e He sheweth that there can bee no true feare of God without the knowledge of his word.

80 Let mine heart bee upright in thy statutes, that I be not ashamed.

u C A P H.

81 My soule ^a fainteth for thy salvation, yet I waite for thy word.

^a Though my strength faile me, yet my soule groweth, and fighteth, resting still in thy word.

82 Mine eies faile for thy promise, saying, When wilt thou comfort me?

83 For I am like a ^b bottle in the smoke: yet doe I not forget thy statutes.

^b Like a skinned bottle, or bladder, that is parched in the smoke.

84 How many are the ^c daies of thy servant? When wilt thou execute judgement on them that persecute me?

^c How long wilt thou afflict thy servants?

85 The proud have ^d digged pits for me, which is not after thy Law.

^d They have not onely oppressed me violently, but also craftily conspired against me.

86 All thy commandements are true: they persecute me falsly: ^e helpe me.

^e He assureth himself, that God will deliver him, and destroy such as unjustly persecute them.

87 They had almost consumed ^f mee upon the earth: but I forooke not thy precepts.

95 The wicked have waited for me to destroy me : but I will consider thy testimonies.

96 I d have seene an end of all perfection : but thy commandment is exceeding large.

97 Oh how love I thy Law ! a it is my meditation continually.

98 By thy commandments thou hast made me wiser then mine enemies : for they are ever with me.

99 I have had more b understanding then all my teachers : for thy testimonies are my meditation.

100 I understood more then the ancient, because I kept thy precepts.

101 I have refrained my feet from every evill way , that I might keepe thy word.

102 I have not declined from thy judgements : for c thou didst teach me.

108 O Lord, I beseech thee accept the c free offrings of my mouth , and teach me thy judgements.

109 My d soule is continually in mine hand : yet doe I not forget thy Law.

110 The wicked have laid a snare for me : but I swerved not from thy precepts.

111 Thy testimonies have I taken as an e heritage for ever : for they are the joy of mine heart.

112 I have applied mine heart to fulfill thy statutes alway, even unto the end.

113 I hate a vaine inventions : but thy law doe I love.

114 Thou art my refuge and shield, and I trust in thy word.

115 b Away from me, ye wicked : for I will keepe the commandments of my God.

116 Stablish me according to thy promise , that I may live , and disappoint me not of mine hope.

117 c Stay thou mee , and I shall bee safe, and I will delight continually in thy statutes.

118 Thou hast troden downe all them that depart from thy statutes : for their d deceit is vaine.

119 Thou hast taken away all the wicked of the earth like e drosse : therefore I love thy testimonies.

120 My flesh f trembleth for feare of thee, and I am afraid of thy judgements.

A I N.

121 I have executed judgement and justice : leave me not to mine oppressors.

122 a Answer for thy servant in that which is good , and let not the proud oppress me.

123 Mine eies have failed in waiting for thy salvation, and for thy just promise.

124 Deale with thy b servant according to thy mercy , and teach me thy statutes.

125 I am thy servant: grant me therefore understanding, that I may know thy testimonies.

126 It is c time for thee, Lord, to work: for they have destroyed thy Law.

127 Therefore love I thy commandments above gold, yea, above most fine gold.

128 Therefore I esteeme all thy precepts most just, and hate all false d waies.

P E.

129 Thy testimonies are a wonderfull: therefore doth my soule keepe them.

130 The entrance into thy b words sheweth light , and giveth understanding to the simple.

131 I opened my mouth and c panted, because I loved thy commandments.

132 Looke upon me and be mercifull unto me, as thou usest to doe unto those that love thy Name.

133 Direct my steps in thy word , and let none iniquity have dominion over me.

134 Deliver me from the oppression of men, and I will keepe thy precepts.

135 Shew the light of thy countenance upon thy servant , and teach mee thy statutes.

Lord, ^a mine heart is not haughtie, neither are mine eies loftie, neither have I walked in great ^b matters, and hid from me.

2 Surely I have behaved my selfe, like one wanted from his mother, and kept silence: I am in my selfe as one that is ^c wanted.

¹ The faithfull grounding on Gods promise made unto David, desire that he would establish the same, both as touching his posteritie, and the building of the Temple, to pray there as was fore-spoken, Deut. 12. 5.

¶ A song of Degrees.

LORD remember David with all his ^a affliction.

^a That is, with how great difficulty he came to the kingdome, &c with how great zeale and care hee went about to build the Temple.

2 Who sware unto the Lord, and vowed unto the mightie God of Jaakob, saying,

3 I ^b will not enter into the Tabernacle of mine house, nor come upon my pallet or bed.

4 Nor suffer mine eies to sleepe, nor mine eye-lids to slumber,

5 Untill I finde out a place for the ^c Lord, an habitation for the mighty God of Jaakob.

^b That is, the Arke, which was a signe of Gods presence.

6 Loe, we heard of it in ^d Ephratah, and found it in the fields of the forest.

^d The common bruit was that the Arke should remaine in Ephratah: that is, in Beth-le-hem, a plentifull place: but after wee perceived that thou wouldst place it in Ierusalem, which was barren as a forest, and compassed about only with hills.

7 We will enter into his Tabernacles, and worship before his foot-stoole.

8 Arise, O Lord, to come into thy ^e rest, thou, and the Arke of thy strength.

^e That is, Ierusalem, because that afterward his Arke should remove to none other place.

9 Let thy Priests bee clothed with ^f righteousnesse, and let thy Saints rejoyce.

^f Let the effect of thy grace, both appeare in the Priests, and in the people.

10 For thy ^g servant Dauids sake refuse not the face of thine Anointed.

11 The Lord hath sworne in truth unto David, and he will not shrinke from it, saying, Of the fruit of thy bodie will I set upon thy throne.

12 If thy sonnes keepe my covenant, and my testimonies, that I shall teach them, their sonnes also shall sit upon thy throne, for ^h ever.

13 For the Lord hath chosen Zion, and loved to dwell in it, saying, ^g As thou first madest promise to David, so continue it to his posteritie, that whatsoever they shall aske for their people, it may bee granted.

14 This is my rest for ever: here will 16 And will clothe her Priests with ^k salvation, and her Saints shall shout for joy.

ⁱ Meaning, for his own sake, and not for the plentifulnesse of the place: for hee promisseth to blesse it, declaring before, that it was barren.

¹ This Psalme containeth the commendation of brotherly amitie among the servants of God.

¶ A song of Degrees, or Psalme of David.

BEhold, how good and how comely a thing it is, for brethren to dwell ^a together.

^a Because the greatest part were against David, though some favoured him, yet when he was established King, an length they joined altogether like brethren: and therefore he sheweth by these similitudes the commoditie of brotherly love.

2 It is like to the precious ^b ointment upon the head, that runneth downe upon the beard, even unto Aarons beard, which went downe on the borders of his garments:

3 And as the dew of ^c Hermon, which falleth upon the mountaines of Zion: for ^d there the Lord appointed the blessing and life for ever.

^a Ye Levites that are in his Sanctuary.

3 Praise ye the Lord: for the Lord is good: sing praises unto his Name, for it is a comely thing.

^b Meaning, the people: for the people & Levites had their courts which were places of the Temple separate.

4 For the Lord hath ^c chosen Jaakob to himselfe, and Israel for his chiefe treasure.

e Hee sheweth what fruit the godly conceive of Gods power, whereby they see how he destroyeth his enemies, and delivereth his people.

f That is, govern and defend his people.

g By shewing what punishment God appointeth for the heathen idolaters, he warneth his people to beware the like offences, seeing that idols have neither power nor life, and that their deliverance came not by idols, but by the mighty power of God. Reade Psalm 115. vers. 4.

a By this repetition he sheweth, that the least of Gods benefits binde us to thanksgiving: but chiefly his mercie which is principally declared toward his Church.

b This was a common kinde of thanksgiving, which the whole people used when they had received any benefit of God, as 2 Chron. 7. 6. and 20. 21. Meaning, that God was not onely mercifull to their fathers, but also continued the same to their posteritie.

1 The people of God in their banishment seeing Gods true religion decay, lived in great anguish and sorrow of heart: the which grieve the Chaldeans did so little pittie, 3 That they rather increased the same daily with taunts, reproches, and blasphemies against God. 7 Wherefore the Israelites desire God, first to punish the Edomites, who provoked the Babylonians against them, 8 And moved by the spirit of God, prophesie the destruction of Babylon, where they were handled so tyrannously.

BY the rivers of Babel we * fate, and there we wept, when we remembred Zion.

2 We hanged our harpes upon the willowes in the mids ^b thereof.

cular griefs, yet the common sorrow of the Church, is most grievous unto them, and is such as they cannot but remember and lament.

c Gods mercifull providence toward man, appeareth in all his creatures, but chiefly in that, that he delivered his Church from the thralldome of their enemies. d In doing such a worke as was never done before nor that any other could doe.

e Where for the space of foure years, he shewed infinite and most strange wonders.

f Declaring hereby, that no power nor authority was so dear unto him, as the love of his Church.

g In our greatest affliction and servitude, when we looked for nothing lesse then to have had any favour. h Seeing that God provideth even for the beasts, much more hath he care over his. i Seeing that all ages have had most plaine testimonies of Gods benefits.

a That is, we bode a long time: and albeit that the countrey was pleasant, yet could it not stay our teares, nor turn us from the true service of our God. b To wit, of that countrey. c The Babylonians spake thus in mocking us, as though by our silence wee should signifie that wee hoped no more in God. d Albeit the faithful are touched with their particular griefs, yet the common sorrow of the Church, is most grievous unto them, and is such as they cannot but remember and lament.

let my right hand forget to play.

6 If I doe not remember thee, let my tongue cleave to the roofof my mouth: yea, if I preferre not Jerusalem to my chiefe joy.

7 Remember the children of Edom, O Lord, in the day of Jerusalem, which said, Rase it, rase it to the foundation thereof.

8 O daughter of Babel, worthe to be destroyed, blessed shall bee that rewardeth thee, as thou hast served us.

9 Blessed shall be that taketh and dalheth thy children against the stones.

^e The decay of Gods religion in their country was so grievous, that no joy could make them glad, except it were restored.

^f According as Ezek. 25. 13. and Jeremie 49. 7. verse, prophesied: and Obadiah, verse 10. sheweth, that Edomites which came of Esau, conspired with the Babylonians against their brethren and kind-folke.

¶ A Psalme of David.

I Will praise thee with my whole heart: even before the gods will I praise thee.

2 I will worship toward thine holy Temple, and praise thy Name, because of thy loving kindnesse and for thy truth: for thou hast magnified thy Name above all things by thy word.

3 When I called, then thou heardest mee, and hast increased strength in my soule.

4 All the Kings of the earth shall praise thee, O Lord: for they have heard the words of thy mouth.

5 And they shall sing of the waies of the Lord, because the glory of the Lord is great.

6 For the Lord is high: yet hee be- holdeth the lowly, but the proud hee knoweth afarre off.

7 Though I walke in the mids of trouble, yet wilt thou revive mee: thou wilt stretch forth thy hand upon the wrath of mine enemies, and thy right hand shall save me.

ⁱ David to cleanse his heart from all hypocrisie, sheweth, that there is nothing so hid, which God seeth not; ¹³ Which hee confirmeth by the creation of man. ¹⁴ After, declaring his zeale and feare of God, he protesteth to be enemy to all them that contemne God.

¶ To him that excelleth. A Psalme of David.

O Lord, thou hast tried mee and known mee.

2 Thou knowest my sitting and my rising, thou understandest my thoughts a farre off.

3 Thou compassest my pathes, and my lying downe, and art accustomed to all my waies.

4 For there is not a word in my tongue, but lo, thou knowest it wholly, O Lord.

5 Thou holdest me strait behinde and before, and layest thine hand upon me.

6 Thy knowledge is too wonderfull for me: it is so high, that I cannot attaine unto it.

7 Whither shall I goe from thy spirit? or, whither shall I flee from thy presence?

8 If I ascend into heaven, thou art there: if I lie downe in hell, thou art there.

9 Let me take the wings of the morning, and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea:

10 Yet thither shall thine hand leade me, and thy right hand hold me.

11 If I say, Yet the darknesse shall hide me, even the night shall be light about me.

12 Yea, the darknesse hideth not from thee: but the night shineth as the day: the darknesse and light are both alike.

13 For thou hast possessed my reins: thou hast covered mee in my mothers wombe.

14 I will praise thee, for I am fearfully and wonderously made: marvellous are thy workes, and my soule knoweth it well.

15 My bones are not hid from thee, though I was made in a secret place, and fashioned beneath in the earth.

16 Thine eies did see me, when I was without forme: for in thy booke were all things written, which in continuance were fashioned, when there was none of them before.

17 How deare therefore are thy thoughts unto me, O God! how great is the summe of them!

18 If I should count them, they are more then the sand: when I awake, I am still with thee.

19 Oh that thou wouldest slay, O God, the wicked and bloodie men, to whom I say, Depart ye from me:

20 Which speake wickedly of thee, and being thine enemies are lifted up in vaine.

21 Doe not I hate them, O Lord, that hate thee? and doe not I earnestly contend with those that rise up against thee?

22 I hate them with an unfeigned hatred, as they were mine utter enemies.

^a Hee confesseth that neither our actions, thoughts or any part of our life can bee hid from God, though he seeme to bee farre off.

^b So that they are evidently knowne to thee.

^c Thou knowest my meaning before I speake.

^d Thou so guidest mee with thine hand, that I can turne no way, but where thou appointest me.

^e From thy power and knowledge.

^f Thy power doth so fast hold mee, that I can escape by no means from thee.

^g Though darknesse bee an hinderance to mans sight, yet it seeth thine eies as well as the light.

^h Thou hast made me in all parts, and therefore mult needs know me.

ⁱ Considering thy wonderfull works in forming mee, I cannot but praise thee, and feare thy mightie power.

^k That is, in my mothers wombe: which hee compar- eth to the inward parts of the earth. ^l Seeing that thou didst know mee before I was com- posed of either flesh or bone, much more now must thou know mee, when thou hast fashioned me. ^m How ought we to esteeme the ex- cellent declaration of thy wisdom in the creation of man. ⁿ I continually see new occasions to meditate in thy wisdom, and to praise thee.

5 ^a Bow thine heavens, O Lord, and come downe : touch the mountaines and they shall smoke.

6 ^b Cast forth the lightening, and scatter them : shoot out thine arrowes, and consume them.

7 Send thine hand from above: deliver me, and take me out of the great ^c waters, and from the hand of strangers,

8 Whose mouth talketh vanitie, and their right hand ^d is a right hand ^e of falsehood.

9 I will sing a ^f new song unto thee, O God, and sing unto thee upon a viole, and an instrument of ten strings.

10 It ^g is he that giveth deliverance unto kings, and rescueth David his ^h servant from the hurtfull sword.

11 Rescue me, and deliver mee from the hand of strangers, whose mouth talketh vanitie, and their right hand ⁱ is a right hand of falsehood:

12 That our ^k sons ^l may be as the plants growing up in their youth, and our daughters as the corner stones graven after the similitude of a palace:

13 That our ^m corners ⁿ may be full and abounding with divers sorts, and that our sheep may bring forth thousands, and ten thousand in our streets:

14 That our ^o oxen may be strong to labour: that there be none invasion, nor going out, nor no crying in our streets.

15 Blessed are the people that be ^p so, yea, blessed are the people, whose God is the Lord.

^m He attributeth not onely the great commodities, but even the least also to Gods favour, ⁿ And if God give not to all his children all these blessings, yet he accompeneth them with better things.

P S A L. CXLV.

This Psalme was composed when the kingdome of David flourisheth. ^a Wherein he describeth the wonderfull providence of God, as well in governing man, as in preserving all the rest of his creatures. ^b He praiseth God for his justice and mercy. ^c But especially for his loving kindnesse toward those that call upon him, that feare him, and love him. ^d For the which he promiseth to praise him for ever.

¶ A Psalme of David, of praise.

O My God and King, ^a I will extoll thee, and will blesse thy Name for ever and ever.

2 I will blesse thee daily, and praise thy name for ever and ever.

3 ^b Great ^c is the Lord, and most worthy to be praised, and his greatnesse ^d is incomprehensible.

4 Generation shall praise thy works unto ^e generation, and declare thy power.

5 I will meditate of the beauty of thy glorious Majestie, and thy wonderfull works.

creation, and of his preservation in this life is to praise God, therefore not onely we our selves doe this, but cause all other to doe the same.

I 6 And

^d Hee desireth God to continue his graces, and to send helpe for the present necessitie. ^e By these manner of speeches he sheweth that all the lets in the world cannot hinder Gods power, which he apprehended by faith. ^f That is, deliver me from the tumults of the world that should bee my people, but are corrupt in their judgement and enterprises, as though they were strangers.

^g For though they shake hands yet they keep not promise.

^h That is a rare & excellent song, as thy great benefits deserve.

ⁱ Though wicked kings be called Gods servants, as Cyrus, Isa. 45. 1. forasmuch as he useth them to execute his judgements: yet David because of Gods promise, and they that rule godly, are properly so called, because they serve not their owne affections, but set forth Gods glorie.

^k Hee desireth God to continue his benefits toward his people, counting the procreation of children, and their good education, among the chiefest of Gods benefits.

^l That the very corners of our houses may be full of store for the great abundance of thy blessings.

^m Hee sheweth what sacrifices are pleasant and acceptable unto God: even praise and thanksgiving, and seeing that God still continueth his benefits towards us, we ought never to be weary in praising him for the same.

ⁿ Hereby hee declares, that all power is subject unto God, and that no worldly promotion ought to obscure Gods glory.

^o Forasmuch as the end of mans

^a That is, as thou hast promised to be faithful in thy promise to all that trust in thee.

^b That is, according to thy free goodnesse whereby thou defendest thine.

^c He knew that his afflictions were Gods messengers to call him to repentance for his finnes, though toward his enemies hee was innocent, and that in Gods fight all men are sinners.

^d Hee acknowledged that God is the onely and true Physician to heale him: and that he is able to raise him to life, though hee were dead long agoe, and turned to ashes.

^e So that onely by faith, and by the grace of Gods spirit he was upheld.

^f To wit, thy great benefits of old, and the manifold examples of thy favour toward thine.

^g That is, speedily, and in due season.

^h Let thine holy Spirit counsell me how to come forth of these great cares and troubles.

ⁱ I hid my selfe under the shadow of thy wings, that I might bee defended by thy power.

^k Hee confesseth that both the knowledge and obedience of Gods will cometh by the spirit of God, who teacheth us by his word, giveth understanding by his spirit, and frameth our hearts by his grace to obey him.

^l That is, justly, and aright: for, so soone as we decline from Gods will, we fall into error.

^m Which shall be a signe of thy fatherly kindnesse toward me.

ⁿ Relinquishing my selfe wholly unto thee, and trusting in thy protection.

^a Who of a poore shepherd hath made mee a valiant warrior and mighty conqueror.

^b For my deliverer who mee: for the Prophet cannot satisfie himselfe with any words.

^c Hee confesseth that neither by his owne authority, power, nor policie, his kingdome was quiet, but by the lecture grace of God.

^d To give unto God just praise, is to confesse our selves to be unworthy of so excellent benefits, and that he bestoweth them upon us of his free mercy.

14 For hee hath exalted the^h horne of his people, which is a praise for all his Saints, even for theⁱ children of Israel,

^a Because they are members of the same body, he setteth them before our eyes, which are most willing hereunto, and by their prompt obedience teach us to doe ourdutie.

^b In that Gods glory shineth in these insensible creatures, this their beauty is as a continuall praising of God.

^c Not that there are divers heavens, but because of the spheres and of the situation of the fixed stars and planets, hee comprehendeth by this word the whole heaven.

THE * PROVERBS OF SALOMON.

THE ARGUMENT.

THE wonderfull love of God toward his Church, is declared in this Booke: forasmuch as the summe and effect of the whole Scripture is here set forth in these brieve sentences, which partly containe doctrine, and partly manners, and also exhortations to both: whereof the nine first Chapters, are as a Preface, full of grave sentences and deepe mysteries, to allure the hearts of men to the diligent reading of the Parables that follow: which are left as a most precious jewell to the Church, of those three thousand Parables mentioned, 1 King. 4. 32. and were gathered and committed to writing, by Salomons servants, and indited by him.

CHAP. I.

1 The power and use of the word of God. 7 Of the feare of God, and knowledge of his Word. 10 We may not consent to the entisings of sinners. 20 Wisdome complaineth that she is contemned. 24 The punishment of them that contemne her.

HE Parables of Salomon the sonne of David King of Israel.

2 To know wisdome, and instruction, to understand the words of knowledge,

3 To receive instruction to doe wisely, by justice, and judgement, and equitie,

4 To give unto the simple, sharpnesse of wit, and to the childe knowledge and discretion.

5 A wise man shall heare, and increase in learning, and a man of understanding shall attaine unto wise counsels,

6 To understand a parable, and the interpretation, the words of the wise, and their darke sayings.

7 ¶ * The feare of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge: but fooles despise wisdome and instruction.

8 My sonne heare thy fathers instruction, & forsake not thy mothers teaching.

9 For they shall bee a comely ornament unto thine head, and as chaines for thy necke.

10 ¶ My sonne, if sinners doe entise thee, consent thou not.

11 If they say, Come with us, wee will lay waite for blood, and lie privily for the innocent without a cause:

12 Wee will swallow them up alive like a grave, even whole, as those that goe downe into the pit.

13 We shall finde all precious riches, and fill our houses with spoile.

14 Cast in thy lot among us: we will all have one purse:

15 My sonne, walke not thou in the way with them: refraine thy foot from their path.

16 For their feet runne to evill, and make haste to shed blood.

17 Certainly, as without-cause the net is spread before the eyes of all that hath wing:

18 So they lay wait for blood, and lie privily for their lives.

19 Such are the waies of every one that is greedie of gaine: hee would take away the life of the owners thereof.

20 ¶ Wisdome crieth without: she uttereth her voice in the streets.

21 She calleth in the high street, among the preasse in the entrings of the gates, and uttereth her words in the Citie, saying,

22 O ye foolish, how long will yee love foolishnesse? and the scornfull take their pleasure in scorning, and the fooles hate knowledge?

23 (Turne you at my correction: loe, I will powre out my minde unto you, and make you understand my words)

24 Because I have called and ye refused: I have stretched out mine hand, and none would regard, 25 But ye have despised all my counsell, and would none of my correction.

26 I will also laugh at your destruction, and mock when your feare commeth.

27 When a That is, what wee ought to know and follow, and what wee ought to refuse.

b Meaning, the word of God, wherein is the only true knowledge.

c To learne to submit our selves to the correction of those that are wise.

d By living justly, and rendering to every man that which appertaineth unto him.

e To such as have no discretion to rule themselves.

f As hee sheweth that these Parables containing the effect of religion, as touching manners and doctrine, doe appertaine to the simple people: so doth hee declare that the same is also necessarie for them that are wise and learned.

* Psalm 111. 10. Ecclesi. 1. 16.

g He speaketh this in the name of God, which is the universal father of all creatures, or in the name of the Father, who is as a Father.

h That is, of the Church, wherein the faithfull are begotten by the incorruptible seed of Gods word.

i To wit, the wicked which have not the feare of God. k He speaketh not onely of the shedding of blood with hand, but of all crafty practises which tend to the detriment of our neighbour.

l At the grave is never satize, so the avarice of the wicked and their cruelty hath no end.

m Hee sheweth whereby the wicked are allured to joyn together, because they have every one part of the spoile of the innocent.
n That is, have nothing at all to doe with them.

o Hee sheweth that there is no cause to move these wicked to spoile the innocent, but their avarice and cruelty.

p Whereby hee concludeth that the covetous man is a murderer.

q This wisdome is the eternall Word of God.

r So that none can pretend ignorance.

s Wisdome reproveth three kinds of men, the foolish or simple, which erre of ignorance, and the mockers that cannot suffer to bee taught, and the fooles, which are drowned in worldly lulls, and have the knowledge of godlinesse.

t This is spoken according to our capacite, signifying, that the wicked which mock and jest at Gods word, shall have the just reward of their mocking.

^v That is, your destruction, which thing you feared.

27 When ^v your feare commeth like sudden defolation, and your destruction shall come like a whirlewinde: when affliction and anguish shall come upon you,

28 Then shall they fall upon me, but I will not answer: they shall seeke me early, but they shall not ^x finde me;

29 Because they hated knowledge, and did not chuse the feare of the Lord.

30 They would none of my counsell, but ^y despised all my correction.

31 Therefore shall they eate of the ^z fruit of their owne way, and bee filled with their owne devices.

32 For ^a ease slayeth the foolish, and the prosperitie of fooles destroyeth them.

33 But he that obeyeth me, shall dwell safely, and be quiet from feare of evil.

CHAP. II.

¹ Wisdom exhorteth to obey her. ³ Shee teacheth the feare of God. ⁶ She is giuen of God. ¹⁰ She preserveth from wickednesse.

2 And cause thine cares to hearken unto wisdom, and incline ^b thine heart to understandings,

3 (For if thou callest after knowledge, and ^c criest for understanding:

4 If thou seekest her as silver, and searchest for her as for ^d treasures,

5 Then shalt thou understand the feare of the Lord, and finde the ^e knowledge of God.

6 For the Lord giveth wisdom, out of his mouth commeth knowledge and understanding.

7 Hee ^f preserveth the state of the righteous: he is a shield to them that walk uprightly,

8 That they may keepe the waies of judgement: and he preserveth the way of his Saints)

9 Then shalt thou understand righteousness, and judgement, and equitie, and every good path.

10 ¶ When wisdom entrencheth into thine heart, and knowledge delighteth thy soule,

11 Then shall ^g counsell preserve thee, and understanding shall keepe thee,

12 And deliver thee from the evill way, and from the man that speaketh froward things,

13 And from them that leave the ^h waies of righteousness, to walke in the waies of darknesse:

14 Which reioice in doing evill, and delight ⁱ in the frowardnes of the wicked, 15 Whose waies are crooked, and they are lewd in their pathes.

16 And it shall deliver thee from the strange ⁱ woman, even from the stranger, which flattereth with her words:

18 Surely her ^m house tendeth to death, and her paths unto ⁿ the dead.

19 All they that goe unto her, returne not againe, neither take they hold of the waies of life.

20 Therefore walke thou in the way of good men, and keepe the waies of the righteous.

21 For the just shall dwell in the ^o land, and the upright men shall remaine in it.

22 But the wicked shall bee cut off from the earth, and the transgressors shall be rooted out of it.

CHAP. III.

¹ The word of God giveth life. ⁵ Trust in God. ⁷ Feare him. ⁹ Honour him. ¹¹ Suffer his correction. ²² To them that follow the word of God, all things shall succeed well.

MY sonne, forget not thou my Law, but let thine heart ^{*} keepe my commandments.

2 For they shall increase the length of thy ^a daies, and the yeares of life, and thy prosperitie.

3 Let not ^b mercie and truth forsake thee: binde them on thy ^c necke, and write them upon the table of ^d thine heart.

4 So shalt thou finde favor and good understanding in the sight of God and man.

5 ¶ Trust in the Lord with all thine heart, and leane not unto thine owne wisdom.

6 In all thy waies acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy waies.

7 ¶ Be not wise in thine owne eyes: but feare the Lord, and depart from evill.

8 So health shall be unto thy ^e navell, and marrow unto thy bones.

9 ^f Honor the Lord with thy riches, and with the first fruits of all thine increase.

10 So shall thy barnes bee filled with abundance, and thy presses shall ^g burst with new wine.

11 ¶ My sonne, refuse not the chastening of the Lord, neither be grieved with his correction.

12 ^{*} For the Lord correcteth him, whom he loveth, even as the father doth the child, in ^h whom he delighteth.

13 Blessed ⁱ is the man that findeth wisdom, and the man that getteth understanding.

14 For the merchandise thereof is better then the merchandise of silver, and the gaine thereof ^j is better then gold.

ⁱ Meaning, that wisdom which is the word of God, shall preserve us from all vices: naming this vice of whoredome, whereunto man is most prone. ^k That is, her husband, which is her head & guide to govern her, from whom she ought not to depart, but remaine in his subjection. ^l Which is the promise made in marriage. ^m Her acquaintance with her familiars and them that haunt her. ⁿ To them that are dead in bodie and soule. ^o They shall enjoy the temporall and spirituall promises of God, as the wicked shall bee void of them.

^{*} Deut. 8. 1. and 30. 16.

^a Long life is the blessing of God, which he giveth to his, so farre forth as it is expedient for them. ^b By mercie and truth, he meaneth, the commandments of the first and second Table: or else the mercie and faithfulness that wee ought to use toward our neighbors. ^c Keepe them as a most precious jewell. ^d Have them ever in remembrance. ^e By this part he comprehendeth the whole bodie, as by health he meaneth all the benefits promised in the Law, both corporall and spirituall.

^f As was commanded in the Law. Exod. 23. 19. Deut. 26. 2. and by this they acknowledged, that God was the giver of all things, and that they were ready to bestow all at his commandment. ^g For to the faithfull distributor God giveth in greater abundance. ^h Heb. 12. 5. & 12. 3. 19.

15 It is more precious then pearles :
and all things that thou canst desire , are not to be compared unto her.

16 Length of daies ^h in her right hand,
^h and in her left hand riches and glorie.

17 Her waies ^{are} waies of pleasure, and all her paths prosperitie.

18 She is a tree ⁱ of life to them that lay hold on her , and blessed ^{is} he that retaineth her.

19 The Lord by wisedome hath laid the ^k foundation of the earth : and hath stablished the heavens through understanding.

20 By his knowledge the depths are broken up , and the clouds drop downe the dew.

21 My sonne , let not ^{these things} depart from thine eies, ^{but} observe wisedome, and counsell.

22 So they shall bee life to thy soule, and grace unto thy [†] necke.

23 Then shalt thou walke safely by thy way : and thy foot shall not stumble.

24 If thou sleepest , thou shalt not bee afraid : and when thou sleepest , thy sleepe shall be sweet.

25 Thou shalt not feare for ^{any} sudden feare, neither for the ⁱ destruction of the wicked, when it commeth.

26 For the Lord shall bee for thine affurance , and shall preserve thy foot from taking.

27 ¶ With-hold not the good from ^m the owners thereof , though there bee power in thine hand to doe it.

28 Say not unto thy neighbour, Goe and come againe , and to morrow will I give thee, if thou ^{now} have it.

29 ¶ Intend none hurt against thy neighbour , seeing he doth dwell ⁿ without feare by thee.

30 ¶ Strive not with a man causelesse, when he hath done thee no harme.

31 ¶ Be not ^o envious for the wicked man, neither chuse any of his waies.

32 For the froward ^{is} abomination unto the Lord : but his ^p secret is with the righteous.

33 The curse of the Lord ^{is} in the house of the wicked : but hee blesteth the habitation of the righteous.

34 With the scornfull ^q he scorneth, but he giveth grace unto the humble.

35 The wise shall inherit glorie : but fooles dishonour, ^{though} they be exalted.

CHAP. IV.

^r Wisedome and her fruits ought to be searched. ^r The way of the wicked must be refused. ^s By the Word of God, the heart, eyes, and course of life must be guided.

HEare, O yee children, the instruction of a ^a father, and give care to learne understanding.

2 For I do give you a good doctrine :
^{therefore} forsake ye not my law.

3 For I was my fathers sonne, tender and ^b deare in the sight of my mother.

4 When ^c he taught me , and said unto me, Let thine heart hold fast my words :
keepe my commandements, and thou shalt live.

5 Get wisedome : get understanding:
forget not, neither decline from the words of my mouth.

6 Forsake her not , and she shall keep thee : love her , and shee shall preserve thee.

7 ^d Wisedome ^{is} the beginning : get wisedome ^{therefore} : and above all thy possession get understanding.

8 Exalt her , and she shall exalt thee:
she shall bring thee to honour if thou im-brace her.

9 She shall give a comely ornament unto thine head , ^{yea}, shee shall give thee a crowne of glorie.

10 ¶ Heare, my sonne, and receive my words, and the yeaes of thy life shall bee many.

11 I have ^e taught thee in the way of wisedome , and led thee in the pathes of righteousnesse.

12 When thou goest , thy gate shall not be ^f strait, and when thou runnest, thou shalt not fall.

13 Take hold of instruction , and leave not : keepe her, for she is thy life.

14 ¶ Enter not into the way of the wicked , and walke not in the way of evill men.

15 Avoid it, and goe not by it : turne from it, and passe by.

16 For they cannot ^g sleepe, except they have done evill , and their sleepe departeth except they cause ^{some} to fall.

17 For they eat the bread of ^h wickednesse, and drinke the wine of violence.

18 But the way of the righteous shineth as the light, that ⁱ shineth more and more unto the perfit day.

19 The way of the wicked ^{is} as the darknesse : they know not wherein they shall fall.

20 ¶ My sonne , hearken unto my words, incline thine eare unto my sayings,

21 Let them not depart from thine eies, ^{but} keep them in the mids of thine heart.

22 For they are life unto those that find them, and health unto all their ^k flesh.

23 Keep thine heart with all diligence:
for thereout commeth ^l life.

24 Put away from thee a froward mouth , and put wicked lips farre from thee.

25 Let thine eies behold the right , and let

^h Meaning , that hee that seeketh
wisedome, that is,
suffereth himselfe to be governed by the word of God,
shall have all prosperitie both spi-
rituall , and tem-porall.

ⁱ Which bringeth forth such fruit , that they that eate
thereof, have life:
and he alludeth to the tree of life in Paradise.

^k Whereby hee sheweth that this wisedome, whereof hee speaketh, is everlasting, because it was before all creatures, and that all things,
even the whole world were made by it.

[†] Or, throat, read
Chap. 1.9.

^l For when God destroyeth the wicked, hee will save his as he did Lot in Sodome.

^m Not only from them to whom the possession belongeth , but also thou shalt not keepe it from them, which have need of the use thereof.

ⁿ That is, putteth his trust in thee.

^o Desire not to be like unto him.

^p That is, his covenant and fatherly affection, which is hid and secret from the world.

^q He will shew by his plagues , that their scorn shall turne to their owne destruction, as Chap. 1.26.

^a He speaketh this in the person of a Preacher or Minister , which is as a father unto the people, read c. 1.8.

^b In Ebrew it is,
Only: for though she had three or thers, as 1 Chron.
3.5. yet so render-ly the loved Salomon, that he was unto her , as her only sonne.

^c Meaning, David his father.

^d Hee sheweth that we must first begin at Gods word, if so be we will that other things prosper with us, contrary to the judgement of the world, which make it their last studie, or else, care not for it at all.

^e Solomon decla-reth, what care his father had to bring him up in the true feare of God: for this was Davids
protestation.
^f Thou shalt walk at libertie, without offence.

^g Meaning, that to doe evil , is more proper and natural to the wicked , then to sleepe , eate , or drinke.

^h Gotten by wicked means and cruell oppression.
ⁱ Signifying, that the goodly increase daily in knowledge and perfection , till they come to full perfection, which is when they shall be joined to their head in the heavens.

^k That is , they shall have health of bodie : under the which all other blessings promised in the law are contained.
^l For as the heart is either pure or corrupt , so is the whole course of mans life.

let thine eye-lids direct thy way before thee.

26 ^m Ponder the path of thy feet, and let all thy waies be ordered aright.

27 Turne not to the right hand, nor to the left, but remove thy foot from evill.

CHAP. V.

3 Whoredome forbidden. 9 And prodigality. 15 Hee willet a man to live on his labours, and to helpe others. 18 To love his wife. 22 The wicked taken in their owne wickednesse.

MY sonne, hearken unto my wife-dome, and incline thine eare unto my [†] knowledge,

2 That thou maist regard counsell, and thy lips observe knowledge.

3 For the lips of a ^a strange woman drop as an honey combe, and her mouth is more soft then ^b oile.

4 But the end of her is bitter as worme-wood, and sharpe as a two-edged sword.

5 Her ^c feet goe downe to death, and her steps take hold on hell.

6 She weigheth not the way of life: her paths are ^d moveable: thou canst not know them.

7 Heare yee me now therefore; O children, and depart not from the words of my mouth.

8 Keepe thy way farre from her, and come not neere the doore of her house,

9 Left thou give thine ^e honour unto others, and thy yeares to the cruell:

10 Left the stranger should bee filled with thy strength, and thy ^f labours bee in the house of a stranger,

11 And thou mourne at thine end, (when thou hast consumed thy flesh and thy body)

12 And say, how have I hated instruction, and mine heart despised correction!

13 And have not obeyed the voice of them that taught me, nor inclined mine eare to them that instructed me!

14 I was almost brought into all evill in the mids of the Congregation and ^g assembly.

15 ¶ Drink the water of ^h thy cisterne, and of the rivers out of the mids of thine owne Well.

16 Let thy fountaines flow forth, and the rivers of waters in the streets.

17 But let them be thine, even ⁱ thine only, and not the strangers with thee.

18 Let thy ^k fountaine be blessed, and rejoyce with the wife of thy ^l youth.

19 Let her be as the loving hinde and pleasant roe: let her breasts satisfie thee at all times, and delight in her love continually.

20 For why shouldest thou [†] delight, my sonne, in a strange woman, or embrace the bosome of a stranger?

21 For the waies of man are before the ^m eyes of the Lord, and he pondereth all his paths.

22 His owne iniquities shall take the wicked himselfe, and he shall bee holden with the cords of his owne sinne.

23 He shall ⁿ die for fault of instruction, and shall go astray through his great folly.

CHAP. VI.

1 Instruction for sureties. 6 The slothfull and sluggish is stirred to worke. 12 He describeth the nature of the wicked. 16 The things that God hateth. 20 To observe the Word of God. 24 To flee adulterie.

MY sonne, if thou be suretie for thy neighbour, and hast stricken hands with the stranger,

2 Thou art ^a snared with the words of thy mouth: thou art even taken with the words of thine owne mouth.

3 Doe this now, my sonne, and deliver thy selfe: seeing thou art come into the hand of thy neighbour, goe and humble thy selfe, and sollicite thy friends.

4 Give no sleepe to thine eyes, nor slumber to thine eye-lids.

5 Deliver thy selfe as a Doe from the hand of the hunter, and as a bird from the hand of the fowler.

6 ¶ Goe to the ^b pismire, O sluggard: behold her waies, and be wise.

7 For she having no guide, governor, nor ruler,

8 Prepareth her meate in the summer, and gathereth her food in harvest, 9 How long wilt thou sleepe, O sluggard? when wilt thou arise out of thy sleepe?

10 * Not a little sleepe, a little slumber, a little folding of the hands to sleepe.

11 Therefore thy povertie commeth as one that ^d travaileth by the way, and thy necessitie like ^e an armed man.

12 The unthrifte man and the ^f wicked man walketh with a froward mouth.

13 He maketh a signe with his eyes: he [†] signifieth with his feet: he ^g instructeth with his fingers,

14 Lewd things are in his heart: hee imagineth evill at all times, and raiseth up contentions, 15 Therefore shall his destruction come speedily: hee shall be destroyed suddenly without recoverie.

16 ¶ These sixe things doth the Lord hate: yea, his soule abhorreth seven:

17 The haughtie eyes, a lying tongue, and the hands that shed innocent blood,

18 An heart that imagineth wicked enterprises, ^h feet that be swift in running to mischief, 19 A false witnes that speaketh lies, and him that raiseth up contentions among [†] brethren.

^m Hee declareth that except man doe joine to his wife both in heart and outward conversation, that he shall not escape the judgements of God.

ⁿ Because he will not give eare to Gods word and be admonished.

^a Hee forbiddeth us not to become suretie for an other, according to the rule of charity, but that wee consider for who and after what sort, so that the creditor may not be defrauded.

^b If the word of God cannot instruct thee, yet learne at the little pismire to labour for thy selfe, and not to burthen others.

* Chap. 24. 33.

^c Hee expresseth lively the nature of the sluggards, which, though they sleepe never so long, yet have never enough, but ever seeke occasions thereunto.

^d That is, suddenly, and when thou lookest not for it.

^e It shall come in such sort as thou art not able to resist it.

^f Hee sheweth to what inconvenience the idle persons and sluggards come by calling them unthrifte.

^g Thus all his gesture tendeth to wickednesse.

^h Meaning, the raging affections, which carrie a man away in such sort, that he cannot tell what he doth.

[†] Or neighbour.

20 ¶ My

20 ¶ My sonne, keepe thy fathers commandement, and forsake not thy mothers instruction.

i Reade Chap. 3.3.

21 Binde them alway uponⁱ thine heart, and tie them about thy necke.

22 It shall leade thee, when thou walkest: it shall watch for thee when thou sleepest, and when thou wakest, it shall talke with thee.

k By the commandement, hee meaneth the word of God, and by the instruction, the preaching and declaration of the same, which is committed to the Church.

l And reprehensions when the word is preached bring us to life.

23 For the^k commandement is a lanterne, and instruction a light: and^l corrections for instruction are the way of life,

24 To keep thee from the wicked woman, and from the flatterie of the tongue of a strange woman.

m With her wanton looks and gesture.

25 Desire not her beautie in thine heart, neither let her take thee with her eye-lids.

26 For because of the whorish woman, a man is brought to a morsell of bread, and a woman will hunt for the precious life of a man.

n Meaning, that shee will never cease till she have brought thee to beggary, and then seeke thy destruction.

27 Can a man take fire in his bosome, and his clothes not be burnt?

28 Or, can a man goe upon coales, and his feet not be burnt?

29 So hee that goeth into his neighbours wife, shall not be innocent, who-soever toucheth her.

o Hee reproveth not theft, but sheweth that it is not so abominable as whoredome, forasmuch as theft might be redeemed: but adultery was a perpetuall infamie, and death by the Law of God.

p Meaning, for very necessity.

q Ebr. faileth in heart.

30 Men do not^o despise a thiefe, when hee stealeth, to satisfie his^p soule, because he is hungry.

31 But if he be found, he shall restore seven fold, or he shall give all the substance of his house.

32 But hee that committeth adulterie with a woman, he^q is destitute of understanding: he that doth it, destroyeth his owne soule.

q That is, death appointed by the Law.

33 He shall finde^r a wound and dishonour, and his reproach shall never be put away.

r He sheweth, that man by nature seeketh his death, that hath abused his wife, and so concludeth, that neither Gods Law, nor the Law of nature, admitteth any ranfome for the adulterie.

34 For jealousie is the rage of a man: therefore he will not^s spare in the day of vengeance.

35 Hee cannot beare the sight of any ranfome: neither will he consent, though thou augment the gifts.

CHAP. VII.

1 An exhortation to wisdom and to the word of God, 5 Which will preserve us from the Harlot, 6 Whose manners are described.

MY sonne, keep my words, and hide my commandements with thee.

a By this diversitie of words hee meaneth, that nothing ought to be so deare unto us, as the word of God, nor that we look on any thing more, nor minde any thing so much.

2 Keepe my commandements, and thou shalt live, and mine instruction as the^a apple of thine eyes.

3 Binde them upon thy fingers, and write them upon the Table of thine heart.

4 Say unto wisdom, Thou art my sister: and call understanding thy kinswoman,

5 That they may keep thee from the strange woman, even from the stranger that is smooth in her words.

6 ¶ As I was in the window of mine house, I looked through my window, b Salomon useth this parable, to declare their folie, that suffer themselves to be abused by harlots.

7 And I saw among the fooles, and considered among the children a young man destitute of understanding,

8 Who passed through the street by her corner, and went toward her house,

9 In the twilight in the evening, when the night began to be^c blacke, and darke.

c He sheweth, that there was almost none so impudent, but they were afraid to be seene, and also their owne consciences did accuse them, which caused them to seeke the night to cover their hiddenesse.

10 And behold, there met him a woman with an harlots^d behaviour, and^e subtil in heart.

d Or, garment.

e Or, hid.

11 (She^f is babling and loud: whose feet cannot abide in her house.

12 Now she is without, now in the streets, and lieth in waite at every corner)

f Hee describeth certaine conditions, which are peculiar to harlots.

13 So she caught him and kissed him, and^g with an impudent face said unto him, g Ebr. she brought forth her face.

14 I have^h peace offerings: thisⁱ day have I payed my vows:

h Because that in peace offerings, a portion returned to them that offered, she sheweth him that she hath meat at home to make good cheere with: or else she would use some cloke of holines, till she had gotten him in her snare.

15 Therefore came I forth to meet thee, that I might seeke thy face: and I have found thee.

i Which declareth, that harlots outwardly will seeme holy and religious: both because they may the better deceive others, and also thinking by observing of ceremonies and offerings, to make sacrifices for their sinnes.

16 I have deckt my bed with ornaments, and carpets, and laces of Egypt.

17 I have perfumed my bed with myrrhe, aloes, and cynamon.

j Or, carved worke.

18 Come, let us take our fill of love untill the morning: let us take our pleasure in dalliance.

19 For mine husband is not at home: he is gone a journey farre off.

20 He hath taken^k with him a bag of silver, and will come home at the day appointed.

k Ebr. is in hand.

21 Thus with her great craft shee caused him to yeeld, and with her flattering lips she enticed him.

22 And he followed her straightwaies, as an^l oxe that goeth to the slaughter, and^m as a foole to the stocks for correction.

l Which thinking hee goeth to the pasture, goeth willingly to his own destruction.

23 Till a dart strike through his liver, as a bird hasteth to the snare, not knowing thatⁿ he is in danger.

m Which goeth cheerfully, not knowing that he shall be chastised.

24 ¶ Hear me now therefore, O children, and hearken to the words of my mouth.

25 Let not thine heart decline to her waies: wander thou not in her pathes.

26 For she hath caused many to fall downe wounded, and the^o strong men are all slaine by her.

o Neither wir not strength can deliver them that fall into the hands of the harlot.

27 Her house is the way^p unto the grave, which goeth downe to the chambers of death.

p Chap. 2.18.

CHAP. VIII.

1. Wisdom declareth her excellency. 11. Riches. 15. Power. 22. Eternity. 32. She exhorteth all to love, and follow her.

DOth not a wisdom cry? and understanding utter her voyce?

2 She standeth in the top of the high places by the way in the place of the paths.

3 She crieth beside the gates before the city: at the entry of the doores,

4 O men, I call unto you, and utter my voice to the children of men.

5 O ye foolishmen, understand wisdom, and ye, O fooles, be wise in heart.

6 Give eare, for I will speake of excellent things, and the opening of my lips shall teach things that be right.

7 For my mouth shall speak the truth, and my lips abhor wickednesse.

8 All the words of my mouth are righteous: there is no lewdnesse, nor frowardnesse in them.

9 They are all plaine to him that will understand, and straight to them that would find knowledge.

10 Receive mine instruction, and not silver, and knowledge rather then fine gold.

18 For wisdom is better then precious stones: and all pleasures are not to be compared unto her.

12 I wisdom dwell with a prudence, and I find forth knowledge and counsels.

13 The feare of the Lord is to hate evil: as pride, and arrogancy, and the evil way: and a mouth that speaketh lewd things I doe hate.

14 I have counsell and wisdom: I am understanding, and I have strength.

15 By me Kings reigne, and Princes decree justice.

16 By mee Princes rule, and the Nobles, and all the Judges of the earth.

17 I love them that love me: and they that seeke mee early shall find mee.

18 Riches and honour are with mee: even durable riches and righteousness.

19 My fruit is better then gold, even then fine gold, and my revenues better then fine silver.

20 I cause to walke in the way of righteousness, and in the mids of the paths of judgement.

21 That I may cause them that love me, to inherite substance, and I will fill their treasures.

22 The Lord hath possessed me in the beginning of his way: I was before his works of old.

23 I was set up from everlasting, from the beginning, and before the earth.

24 When there were no depths, was I begotten, when there were no fountaines abounding with water.

25 Before the mountaines were settled: and before the hills, was I begotten.

26 He had not yet made the earth, nor the open places, nor the height of the dust in the world.

27 When he prepared the heavens, I was there, when he set the compass upon the deepe:

28 When he established the clouds above, when he confirmed the fountains of the deepe:

29 When he gave his decree to the Sea, that the water should not passe his commandement, when he appointed the foundations of the earth:

30 Then was I with him as a nourisher, and I was dayly his delight, rejoycing alway before him:

31 And tooke my solace in the compass of his earth: and my delight with the children of men.

32 Therefore now hearken, O children, unto me: for blessed are they that keep my wayes.

33 Heare instruction, and be ye wise, and refuse it not: blessed is the man that heareth mee, watching dayly at my gates, and giving attendance at the posts of my doores.

34 For he that findeth me, findeth life, and shall obtaine favour of the Lord.

35 But he that sinneth against me, hurreth his owne soule: and all that hate mee love death.

CHAP. IX.

1. Wisdom calleth all to her feast. 7. The scorner will not be corrected. 10. The feare of God. 13. The conditions of the lowly.

Wisdom hath built her house, and hewen out her seven pillars.

2 She hath killed her victuals, drawne her wine, and prepared her table.

3 She hath sent forth her maidens, and crieth upon the highest places of the city, saying,

4 Who so is simple, let him come hither, and to him that is destitute of wisdom, shee saith,

5 Come, and eat of my meat, and drinke of the wine that I have drawne.

6 For sake your way, ye foolish, and ye shall live: and walke in the way of understanding.

7 Hee that reproveth a scorner, purchaseth to himselfe shame: and hee that rebuketh the wicked, getteth himselfe a blot.

8 Rebuke not a scorner, lest he hate thee: but rebuke a wise man, and he will love thee.

gible, which Christ calleth dogs and swine: or he speaketh this in comparison, not that the wicked should not be rebuked, but he sheweth their malice, and the final hope of profit.

K

* Chap. 1. 20. a Salomon declarereth that man is made of his owne perdition, and that hee can pretend no ignorance, for as much as God calleth to all men by his word, and by his works, to follow vertue and to flee from vice. b Where the people did most refuse, and which was the place of justice.

c Meaning, that the word of God is easie unto all, that have a desire unto it, and which are not blinded by the prince of this world.

d This is, except a man have wisdom, which is the true knowledge of God, hee can neither be prudent, nor good counsellor. e So that he that doth not have evil, heareth not God.

f Whereby he declareth, that honour, dignity, or riches, come not of mans wisdom, or industry, but by the providence of God.

g This is study the word of God diligently, and with a desire to profit. h Signifying, that he chiefly meaneth the spirittual treasures, and heavenly riches.

i For there can be no true justice or judgement, which is not directed by this wisdom. k Hee declarereth hereby the divinity and eterny of this Wisdom, which hee magnifieth and praiseth through this booke: meaning thereby the eternall son of God, Jesus Christ our Saviour, whom Saint John calleth, the Word that was in the beginning, Joh. 1. 1.

l He declarereth the eterny of the Son of God, which is, meaning by this word Wisdom, who was before all times, and ever present with the Father. m Some read, a chiefe Worker signifying, that this Wisdom, even Christ Jesus, was equall with God his Father, and created, preferred, and still worketh with him, as Joh. 1. 17.

n Whereby is declared, that the worke of the creation was no pain, but a solace unto the Wisdom of God.

o By earth, hee meaneth man, which is the worke of God, in whom Wisdom tooke pleasure: in so much as for mans sake, the Divine wisdom tooke mans nature, and dwelt among us, and filled us with unpeakeable treasures, and this is that solace and pastime whereof is here spoken.

a Christ hath prepared him a Church. b That is, many chiefe states and principall parts of his Church, as were the Patriarchs, Prophets, Apostles, Pastours, and Doctours.

c Hee comparerth Wisdom with great Princes, that keep open house, for all that come. d Meaning, true preachers, which are not infected with mans wisdom.

e Hee that knoweth his owne ignorance, and is void of malice.

f By the meat and drinke is meant, the word of God, and the ministrations of the Sacraments, whereby God nourisheth his servants in his house, which is the Church.

g For the wicked will contemne him, and labour to defame him.

h Meaning, them that are incorrigible.

9 Give admonition to the wife, and he will be the wiser: teach a righteous man, and he will increase in learning.

10 The beginning of wisdom is the feare of the Lord; and the knowledge of holy things, is understanding.

11 For thy dayes shall be multiplied by me, and the yeares of thy life shall be augmented.

12 If thou be wise, thou shalt be wise for thy selfe, and if thou be a scorner, thou alone shalt suffer.

13 ¶ A foolish woman is troublesome: shee is ignorant and knoweth nothing.

14 But she sitteth at the doore of her house on a seat in the high places of the city.

15 To call them that passe by the way, that goe right on their way, saying,

16 Who so is simple, let him come hither, and to him that is destitute of wisdom, she saith also,

17 Stollen waters are sweet, and hid bread is pleasant.

18 But he knoweth not, that the dead are there, and that her guests are in the depth of hell.

CHAP. X.

In this Chapter, and all that follow unto the thirtieth, the wife man exhorteth by diuers sentences, which hee calleth Parables, to follow vertue, and flee vice: and also sheweth what profit cometh of wisdom, and what hinderance proceedeth of foolishnesse.

THE PARABLES OF SALOMON.

A Wife * son maketh a glad father: but a foolish son is an heaviness to his mother.

2 The treasures of * wickednesse profit nothing: but righteousness delivereth from death.

3 The Lord will ^b not famish the soule of the righteous: but he casteth away the substance of the wicked.

4 A ‡ slothfull hand maketh poore: but the hand of the diligent maketh rich.

5 He that gathereth in summer, is the son of wisdom: but hee that sleepeth in harvest, is the son of confusion.

6 Blessings are upon the head of the righteous: but iniquity shall cover the mouth of the * wicked.

7 The memoriall of the just shall be blessed: but the name of the wicked shall ^d rot.

8 The wife in heart will receive commandements: but the foolish in ‡ talke shall be beaten.

9 Hee that walketh uprightly, walketh ‡ boldly: but hee that perverteth his wayes, shall be knowne.

10 Hee that * wincketh with the eye, workerh sorrow, and he that is ^f foolish in talke, shall be beaten.

11 The mouth of a righteous man is a well-spring of life: but iniquity covereth the mouth of the wicked.

12 Hatred stirreth up contentions: * but love covereth all trespasses.

13 In the lips of him that hath understanding, wisdom is found, and a rod shall be for the back of him that is destitute of wisdom.

14 Wise men lay up knowledge: but the mouth of the foole is a present destruction.

15 The rich mans goods are his ^b strong city: but the feare of the needy is their poverty.

16 The labour of the righteous tendeth to life: but the revenues of the wicked to sin.

17 He that regardeth instruction, is in the way of life: but he that refuseth correction goeth out of the way.

18 Hee that dissembleth hatred with lying lips, and he that inventeth slander, is a foole.

19 In many words there cannot want iniquity: but he that refraineth his lips, is wise.

20 The tongue of the just man is as fined siluer: but the heart of the wicked is little worth.

21 The lips of the righteous do ⁱ feed many: but fools shall die for want of wisdom.

22 The blessing of the Lord, it maketh rich, and hee doth adde no * sorrowes with it.

23 It is as a pastime to a foole to doe wickedly: but wisdom is understanding to a man.

24 That which the wicked feareth, shall come upon him: but God will grant the desire of the righteous.

25 As the whirle-wind passeth, so is the wicked no more: but the righteous is as an everlasting foundation.

26 As vineger is to the teeth, and as smoke to the eyes, so is the slothfull to them that ⁱ send him.

27 The feare of the Lord increaseth the dayes: but the yeares of the wicked shall be ^m diminished.

28 The patient abiding of the righteous shall be gladnesse: but the hope of the wicked shall perish.

29 The way of the Lord is strength to the upright man: but feare shall be for the workers of iniquity.

30 The righteous shall * never be removed: but the wicked shall not dwell in the land.

31 The mouth of the just shall be fruitful in wisdom: but the tongue of the froward shall be cut out.

32 The

ⁱ He sheweth what true understanding is, to know the will of God in his word, which is meant by holy things.

^k Thou shalt have the chiefe profit and commodity thereof.

^l By the foolish woman, some understand the wicked preachers, who counterfeite the word of God, as appeareth ver. 16. which were the words of the true preachers, as ver. 4. but their doctrine is but as stollen waters, meaning that they are but mens traditions, which are more pleasant to the flesh then the word of God: and therefore they themselves boast thereof.

* Chap. 15. 20.

a That is, wickedly gotten.

b Though he suffer the just to want for a time, yet hee will send him comfort in due season.

‡ Or, desirous.

c When their wickednesse shall be discovered, they shall be as dumbe, and not know what to say.

d Shall be vile and abhorred both of God and man, contrary to their own expectation, which thinke to make their name immortal.

‡ Ebr. lips.

‡ Or, surely.

e He that beareth a faire countenance, and imagineth mischief in his heart, as Chap. 6. 13.

f For the corruption of his heart is knowne by his talke.

* 1 Cor. 13. 4. 1 Pet. 4. 1.

g That is, God will find him out to punish him.

h And so maketh him bold to doe evil, whereas poverty bridlen the poore from many evil things.

i For they speake truth, and edifie many by exhortations, admonitions, and counsell.

k Meaning, that all worldly things bring care and sorrow, whereas they that feele the blessings of God, have none.

l He is but a trouble and griefe to him that sendeth him about any businesse.

m The time of their prosperity shall be short because of their great fall, though they seeme to live long.

n They enjoy in this life by faith and hope, their everlasting life.

32 The lips of the righteous know what is acceptable: but the mouth of the wicked speaketh froward things.

C H A P. X I.

False ^aballances are an abomination unto the Lord: but a perfect [†]weight pleaseth him.

2 When pride commeth, then cometh ^bshame: but with the lowly is wisdom.

3 The uprightnesse of the just shall guide them: but the frowardnesse of the transgressours shall destroy them.

4 ^{*}Riches availe not in the day of wrath: but righteousness delivereth from death.

5 The righteousness of the upright shall direct his way: but the wicked shall fall in his owne wickednesse.

6 The righteousness of the just shall deliver them: but the transgressours shall be taken in their owne wickednesse.

7 When a wicked man dieth, his hope periseth, and the hope of the unjust shall perish.

8 The righteous escapeth out of trouble, and the wicked shall come in his ^cstead.

9 An ^dhypocrite with his mouth hurteth his neighbour: but the righteous shall be delivered by knowledge.

10 In the prosperity of the righteous, the city ^erejoiceth: and when the wicked perish, there is joy.

11 By the [†] blessing of the righteous, the city is exalted: but it is subverted by the mouth of the wicked.

12 Hee that despiseth his neighbour, is destitute of wisdom: but a man of understanding will ^fkeepe silence.

13 He that goeth about as a slanderer, discovereth a secret: but hee that is of a faithfull heart, concealeth a matter.

14 Where no counsell is, the people fall: but where many ^gcounsellors are, there is health.

15 He shall be fore vexed, that is surety for a ^hstranger, and hee ⁱthat hateth suretiship, is sure.

16 A [†]gracious woman attaineth honour, and the strong men attaine riches.

17 Hee that is mercifull, ^krewardeth his owne soule: but he that troubleth his owne [†]flesh is cruell.

18 The wicked worketh a deceitfull worke: but he that soweth righteousness, shall receive a sure reward.

19 As righteousness leadeth to life: so he that followeth evill, seeketh his owne death.

20 They that are of a froward heart, are abomination to the Lord: but they that are upright in their way, are his delight.

21 ^lThough hand joyne in hand, the wicked shall not be unpunished: but the seed of the righteous shall escape.

22 As a jewell of gold in a swines snout: so is a faire woman which [†]lacketh discretion.

23 The desire of the righteous is only good: but the hope of the wicked ^mis indignation.

24 There is that scattereth, ⁿand is more increased: but he that spareth more ^othen is right, surely commeth to poverty.

25 The [†]liberall person shall have plenty: and he that watereth, shall also have raine.

26 He that withdraweth the corne, the people will curse him: but blessing shall be upon the head of him that ^pselleth corne.

27 He that seeketh good things, getteth favour: but hee that seeketh evill, it shall come to him.

28 He that trusteth in his riches, shall fall: but the righteous shall flourish as a lease.

29 He that troubleth his own ^qhouse, shall inherit the wind, and the foole shall be ^rservant to the wife in heart.

30 The fruit of the righteous is as a tree of life, and he that ^swinneth souls, is wise.

31 Behold, the righteous shall be ^trecompensed in the earth: how much more the wicked and the sinner?

C H A P. X I I.

Hee that loveth instruction, loveth knowledge: but hee that hateth correction, is a foole.

2 A good man getteth favour of the Lord: but the man of wicked imaginations will be condemne.

3 A man cannot be established by wickednesse: but the ^aroot of the righteous shall not be moved.

4 A [†]vertuous woman is the crowne of her husband: but she that maketh him ashamed, is as corruption in his bones.

5 The thoughts of the just are right: but the counsels of the wicked are deceitfull.

6 The talking of the wicked is to lie in wait for blood: but the mouth of the righteous will ^bdeliver them.

7 God overthroweth the wicked, and they are not: but the house of the righteous shall stand.

8 A man shall be commended for his wisdom: but the froward of heart shall be despised.

9 He that is despised, ^cand is his owne servant, is better then hee that boasteth himselfe and lacketh bread.

^a Under this word hee condemneth all false weights, measure and deceit.

^b When man forgetteth himselfe, and thinketh to be exalted above his vocation, then God bringeth him to confusion.

^c Eccl. 7. 19.

^d This is, shall enter into trouble.

^e Will not make light report of others.

^f Where God giveth store of men of wisdom and counsel.

^g Whose conversation hee knoweth not.

^h Hee that doeth not without judgment, and consideration of the circumstances put himselfe in danger, as Chap. 6. 1.

ⁱ Or, model.

^j Is both good to himselfe, and to others.

^k Or, neighbour.

^l Though they make never so many friends, or thinke themselves never so sure, yet they shall not escape.

^m Or, is of uncomely behaviour.

ⁿ They can look for nothing but Gods vengeance.

^o Meaning, them that give liberally, whom God blest.

^p That is, the niggard.

^q Or, the souls of blessing shall be made fat.

^r That provideth for the use of them that are in necessity.

^s The covetous men that spare their riches to the hinderance of their families, shall be deprived thereof miserably.

^t For though the wicked be rich, yet are they but slaves to the godly, which are the true possessors of the gifts of God.

^u That is, bringeth them to the knowledge of God.

^v Shall be punished as hee deserveth, 1 Pet. 4. 18.

^a They are so grounded in the favour of God, that their roots shall prosper continually.

^b Or, strong, or painfull.

^c As their conscience is upright, so shall they be able to speake for themselves against their accusers.

^d The poore man that is contented, and yet liveth of his owne travail.

^d Is mercifull, even to the very beast that doth him service.

* Chap. 28. 19.

† Or, defence.

^e Continually imagineth means how to do harme to others.

^f Meaning, their heart within, which is upright and doth good to all.

^g Hee standeth in his owne conceit and condemneth all others in respect of himselfe.

^h Which brideth his affection.

* Chap. 14. 25.

ⁱ Which seek nothing more then to provoke others to anger.

* Chap. 10. 4.

^k That is, words of comfort, or a cheerefull mind, which is declared by his words, rejoyceth a man, as a covetous mind killeth him.

^l That is, more liberal in giving.

^m Although hee get much by unlawfull means, yet will hee not spend it upon himselfe.

10 A righteous man ^d regardeth the life of his beast: but the mercies of the wicked are cruell.

11 * Hee that tilleth his land, shall bee satisfied with bread: but he that followeth the idle, is destitute of [†] understanding.

12 The wicked desireth the ^e net of evils: but the ^f root of the righteous giveth fruit.

13 The evill man is snared by the wickednesse of his lips, but the just shall come out of adversity.

14 A man shall be satiate with good things by the fruit of his mouth, and the recompence of a mans hands shall God give unto him.

15 The way of a foole is ^g right in his owne eyes: but hee that heareth counsell, is wise.

16 A foole in a day shall be knowne by his anger: but hee ^h that covereth shame, is wise.

17 He that speaketh truth, will shew righteousnesse: but a false witness useth deceit.

18 * There is that speaketh words like the prickings of a ⁱ sword: but the tongue of wise men is health.

19 The lip of truth shall be stable for ever: but a lying tongue varieth incontinently.

20 Deceit is in the heart of them that imagine evill: but to the counsellors of peace shall be joy.

21 There shall none iniquity come to the just: but the wicked are full of evill.

22 The lying lips are an abomination to the Lord: but they that deale truly, are his delight.

23 A wise man concealeth knowledge: but the heart of the fooles publisheth foolishnesse.

24 * The hand of the diligent shall beare rule: but the idle shall be under tribute.

25 Heaviness in the heart of man doth bring it downe: but a ^k good word rejoyceth it.

26 The righteous is ^l more excellent then his neighbour: but the way of the wicked will deceive them.

27 The deceitfull man roseth not that hee ^m tooke in hunting: but the riches of the diligent man are precious.

28 Life is in the way of righteousnesse, and in that path-way there is no death.

CHAP. XIII.

A Wife son will obey the instruction of his father: but a scorner will heare no rebuke.

2 A man shall eate good things by the fruit ^a of his mouth: but the soule of the trespassers shall suffer violence.

3 He that keepeth his mouth, keepeth his life: but he that openeth his lips, destruction shall be to him.

4 The sluggard ^b lusteth, but his soule hath nought: but the soule of the diligent shall have plenty.

5 A righteous man hateth lying words: but the wicked causeth slander and shame.

6 Righteousnesse preserveth the upright of [†] life: but wickednesse overthroweth the sinner.

7 There is that maketh himselfe rich, and hath nothing, and that maketh himselfe poore, having great riches.

8 A man will give his riches for the ranfome of his life: but the poore ^c cannot heare the reproch.

9 The light of the righteous rejoyceth: but the candle of the wicked shall be put out.

10 Onely by pride ^d doth man make contention: but with the well advised is wisdom.

11 The ^e riches of vanity shall diminish: but he that gathereth with the ^f hand shall encrease them.

12 The hope that is deferred, is the fainting of the heart: but when the desire commeth, it is as a tree of life.

13 Hee that despiseth ^g the word, hee shall bee destroyed: but he that feareth the commandment, he shall be rewarded.

14 The instruction of the wise man is as the well-spring of life, to turne away from the snares of death.

15 Good understanding maketh acceptable: but the way of the disobedient is hated.

16 Every wise man will worke by knowledge: but a foole will spread abroad folly.

17 * A wicked messenger falleth ^h in to evill: but a faithfull ambassadour is preservation.

18 Poverty and shame is to him that refuseth instruction: but he that regardeth correction, shall be honoured.

19 A desire accomplished delighteth the soule: but it is an abomination to fooles to depart from evill.

20 Hee that walketh with the wise, shall be wise: but a companion of fooles shall be ⁱ afflicted.

21 Affliction followeth sinners: but unto the righteous God will recompence good.

22 The good man shall give inheritance unto his childrens children: and the ^k riches of the sinner is laid up for the just.

23 Much foode is in the field of the ^l poore

^b Hee ever desireth, but taketh no paines to get any thing.

C H A P. XIV.

A Wife woman ^a buildeth her houſe : but the fooliſh deſtroyeth it with her owne hands.

2 * He that walketh in his ^b righteouſneſſe, feareth the Lord : but he that is lewd in his wayes, deſpiſeth him.

3 In the mouth of the fooliſh, is the ^c rod of pride : but the lips of the wiſe preſerve them.

4 Where none ^d oxen are, there the crib is empty : but much increaſe commeth by the ſtrength of the ox.

5 A faithfull witneſſe will not lie : but a falſe record will ſpeake lies.

6 A ſcorner ^e ſeeketh wiſedome, and findeth it not : but knowledge is eaſie to him that will underſtand.

7 Depart from the fooliſh man, when thou perceivelt not in him the lips of knowledge.

8 The wiſedome of the prudent is to underſtand his way : but the fooliſhneſſe of the foole is deceit.

9 The fooliſh maketh a mock ^f of ſin : but among the righteous there is favour.

10 The heart knoweth the ^g bitterneſſe of his ſoule, and the ſtranger ſhall not meddle with his joy.

11 The houſe of the wicked ſhall bee deſtroyed : but the Tabernacle of the righteous ſhall flouriſh.

12 * There is a way that ſeemeth right to a man, but the iſſues thereof are the wayes of death.

13 Even in laughing the heart is ſorrowfull, ^h and the end of that mirth is heavineſſe.

14 The heart that declineth, ⁱ ſhall bee ſatiate with his owne wayes : but a good man ſhall depart from him.

15 The fooliſh will beleeeve every thing : but the prudent will conſider his ſteps.

16 A wiſe man feareth, and departeth from evill : but a foole rageth, and is careleſſe.

17 Hee that is haſty to anger, committeth folly, and a ^j buſie body is hated.

18 The fooliſh doe inherite folly : but the prudent are crowned with knowledge.

19 The evill ſhall bow before the good, and the wicked ^k at the gates of the righteous.

20 The poore is hated even of his own neighbour : but the friends of the rich are many.

21 The ſinner deſpiſeth his neighbour : but hee that hath mercy on the poore, is bleſſed.

22 Doe not they erre that imagine evill ? but to them that thinke on good things, ſhall bee mercy and truth.

23 In all labour there is abundance : but the talke of the lips bringeth onely want.

24 The crowne of the wife is their riches, and the folly of the fooles is fooliſhneſſe.

25 A faithfull witneſſe delivereth ſoules: but a deceiver ſpeaketh lies.

26 In the feare of the Lord is an aſſured ſtrength, and his children ſhall have hope.

27 The feare of the Lord is as a wellſpring of life to avoid the ſnares of death.

28 In the multitude of the ^l people is the honour of a King, and for the want of people commeth the deſtruction of the Prince.

29 He that is ſlow to wrath, is of great wiſedome: but hee that is of an haſty mind exalteth folly.

30 A ſound heart is the life of ^m the fleſh: but envy is the rotting of the bones.

31 * He that oppreſſeth the poore, reprovet him that made him : but hee honoureth him, that hath mercy on the poore.

32 The wicked ſhall be caſt away for his malice: but the righteous hath hope in his death.

33 Wiſedome reſteth in the heart of him that hath underſtanding, and is knowne ⁿ in the mids of fooles.

34 Juſtice exalteth a nation, but ^o ſin is a ſhame to the people.

35 The pleaſure of a King is in a wiſe ſervant : but his wrath ſhall bee toward him that is lewd.

12 A scorner loveth not him that rebuketh him, neither will hee goe unto the wise.

13 ^{*} A joyfull heart maketh a cheerefull countenance: but by the sorrow of the heart the mind is heavy.

14 The heart of him that hath understanding, seeketh knowledge: but the mouth of the foole is fed with foolishnesse.

15 All the dayes of the afflicted are evill: but a good ^f conscience is a continuall feast.

16 ^{*} Better is a little with the feare of the Lord, then great treasure, and trouble therewith.

17 Better is a dinner of greene herbes where love ^h, then a stalled oxe, and hatred therewith.

18 ^{*} An angry man stirreth up strife: but hee that is slow to wrath, appeaseth strife.

19 The way of a slothfull man ⁱ is as an hedge of ^{*} thornes: but the way of the righteous is plaine.

20 ^{*} A wise son rejoyceth the father: but a foolish man despiseth his mother.

21 Foolishnesse ⁱ is joy to him: that is destitute of understanding: but a man of understanding walketh uprightly.

22 Without counsell, thoughts come to nought: but ^f in the multitude of counsellors there is stedfastnesse.

23 A joy commeth to a man by the answer of his mouth: and how good ⁱ is a word ^h in due season?

24 The way of life ⁱ is on high to the prudent, to avoid from hell beneath.

25 The Lord will destroy the house of the proud men: but hee will stablish the borders of the widow.

26 The thoughts of the wicked are abomination to the Lord: but the pure ^h have ^h pleasant words.

27 Hee that is greedy of gaine, troubleth his owne house: but hee that hateth gifts, shall live.

28 The heart of the righteous studieth to answer: but the wicked mans mouth babbleth evill things.

29 The Lord is far off from the wicked: but he heareth the prayer of the righteous.

30 The light of the eyes rejoyceth the heart, and a good name maketh the bones fat.

31 The care that hearkeneth to the correction of life, shall lodge among the wise.

32 Hee that refuseth instruction despiseth his owne soule: but he that obeyeth correction, getteth understanding.

33 The feare of the Lord ⁱ is the instruction of wisdom: and before honour goeth ^k humility.

CHAP. XVI.

The ^a preparations of the heart are in man: but the answer of the tongue is of the Lord.

2 All the wayes of a man are ^b cleane in his owne eyes: but the Lord pondereth the spirits.

3 [†] Commit thy workes unto the Lord, and thy thoughts shall be directed.

9 The heart of man ^{*} purposeth his way, but the Lord doth direct his steps.

10 A divine sentence shall be in the lips of the King: his mouth shall not transgresse in judgement.

11 ^{*} A true weight and ballance are of the Lord: all the weights of the bag are his ^f workes.

12 It is an abomination to Kings to commit wickednesse: for the throne is stablished ^g by justice.

13 Righteous lips are the delight of Kings, and the King loveth him that speaketh right things.

14 The wrath of a King ⁱ is as ^h messengers of death: but a wise man will pacifie it.

15 In the light of the Kings countenance is life: and his favour is as a cloud of the latter raine.

16 How much better is it to get wisdom then gold? and to get understanding, is more to be desired then silver.

17 The path of the righteous is to decline from evill, and he keepeth his soule, that keepeth his way.

18 Pride goeth before destruction, and an high mind before the fall.

19 Better it is to be of humble mind with the lowly, then to divide the spoiles with the proud.

20 He that is wise in his businesse, shall find good: and he that trusteth in the Lord, he is blessed.

21 The wise in heart shall be called prudent: and the sweetnesse of the lips shall encrease doctrine.

22 Understanding is a well-spring of life unto them that have it: and the instruction of fooles is folly.

23 The heart of the wise guideth his mouth wisely, and addeth doctrine to his lips.

10 A reproofe entereth more into him that hath understanding, then an hundred stripes into a foole.

11 A seditious person seeketh onely evill, and a cruell messenger shall be sent against him.

12 It is better for a man to meet a beare robbed of her whelps, then a foole in his folly.

13 Hee that rewardeth evill for good, evill shall not depart from his house.

14 The beginning of strife is as one that openeth the waters: therefore ere the contention be medled with, leave off.

15 He that justifieth the wicked, and he that condemneth the just, even they both are abomination to the Lord.

16 Wherefore is there a price in the hand of the foole to get wisdom, and he hath none heart?

17 A friend loveth at all times: and a brother is borne for adversity.

18 A man destitute of understanding, toucheth the hand, and becommeth surety for his neighbour.

19 He loveth transgression, that loveth strife: and hee that exalteth his gate, seeketh destruction.

20 The froward heart findeth no good: and he that hath a naughty tongue, shall fall into evill.

When thou sittest to eate with a ruler, ^a consider diligently what is before thee;

2 ^b And put the knife to thy throte, if thou bee a man given to the appetite.

3 Be not desirous of his ^c dainty meats: for it is a decciveable meat.

4 Travaile not too much to bee rich: but cease from thy ^d wisdome.

5 Wilt thou cast thine eyes upon it, which is nothing? for riches taketh her to her wings as an eagle, and flieth into the heaven.

6 Eat thou not the bread of him that hath an ^e evill eye, neither desire his dainty meats.

7 For as though hee thought it in his heart, so will hee say unto thee, Eate and drink: but his heart is not with thee.

22 Obey thy father that hath begotten thee, and despise not thy mother when shee is old.

23 Buy ^k the truth, but sell it not: like-wise wisdome, and instruction, and understanding.

24 The father of the righteous shall greatly rejoyce, and hee that begetteth a wife child, shall have joy of him.

25 Thy father and thy mother shall be glad, and she that bare thee shall rejoyce.

3 The heavens in height, and the earth in deepnesse, and the ^e Kings heart can no man search out.

4 Take the ^f drosse from the silver, and there shall proceed a vessell for the finer.

5 Take ^g away the wicked from the King, and his throne shall bee established in righteousnesse.

6 Boast not thy selfe before the King, and stand not in the place of great men,

8 Goe not forth hastily to strife, lest thou know not what to doe in the end thereof, when thy neighbour hath put thee to shame.

9 Debate thy matter with thy neighbour, and discover not thy secret to another,

10 Lest hee that heareth it put thee to shame, and thine infamy do not ^h cease.

11 A word spoken in his place, is like apples of gold, with pictures of silver.

The wicked^a flee when none pursueth: but the righteous are bold as a Lyon.

a Because their owne conscience accuseth them.

^b For the transgression of the land ^b there are many princes thereof: but by a man of understanding and knowledge, a realme likewise endureth long.

^b The state of the common-wealth is oftentimes changed.

³ A poore man if hee oppresse the poore, is like the raging raine that leaveth no food.

⁴ They that forsake the Law, praise the wicked: but they that keepe the Law, set themselves against them.

⁵ Wicked men understand not judgement: but they that seeke the Lord, understand all things.

⁶ * Better is the poore that walketh in his uprightnesse, then hee that perverteth his wayes, though he be rich.

⁷ Hee that keepeth the Law, is a child of understanding: but hee that feedeth the gluttons, shameth his father.

⁸ Hee that increaseth his riches by usury and interest, gathereth ^c them for him that will bee mercifull unto the poore.

⁹ Hee that turneth away his eare from hearing the Law, even his prayer shall bee ^d abominable.

¹⁰ Hee that causeth the righteous to goe astray by an evill way, shall fall into his owne pit, and the upright shall inherit good things.

¹¹ The rich man is wise in his owne conceit: but the poore that hath understanding, can trie ^e him.

¹² * When righteous men rejoyce, there is great glory: but when the wicked come up, the man ^f is tried.

¹³ Hee that hideth his sinnes, shall not prosper: but hee that confesseth, and forsaketh them, shall have mercy.

¹⁴ Blessed is the man that ^g feareth alway: but he that hardeneth his heart, shall fall into evill.

¹⁵ As a roaring Lyon, and an hungry Beare, so is ^h a wicked ruler over the poore people.

¹⁶ A prince destitute of understanding, is also a great oppressour: but he that hateth coverousnesse, shall prolong his dayes.

¹⁷ A man that doth violence against the blood of a person, shall flee unto the grave, and they shall not ⁱ stay him.

¹⁸ Hee that walketh uprightly, shall be saved: but hee that is froward in his wayes, shall once fall.

¹⁹ * He that tilleth his land shall bee satisfied with bread, but he that followeth the idle, shall bee filled with poverty.

²⁰ A faithfull man shall abound in blessings, and * hee that maketh hast to be rich, shall not bee innocent.

²¹ To have respect of persons is not good, for that man will transgresse for a piece of ^k bread.

²² A man with a wicked ^l eye hasteth to riches, and knoweth not that poverty shall come upon him.

^l Meaning, him that is covetous.

²³ Hee that rebuketh a man, shall find more favour at the length, then hee that flattereth with his tongue.

²⁴ He that robbeth his father and mother, and saith, It is no transgression, is the companion of a man that destroyeth.

²⁵ Hee that is of a proud heart, starreth up strife: but he that trusteth in the Lord, shall be ^m fat.

^m Shall have all things in abundance.

²⁶ He that trusteth in his owne heart, is a foole: but hee that walketh in wisdom, shall bee delivered.

⁶ In the transgression of an evill man is his ^b snare: but the righteous doth sing and rejoyce.

⁷ The righteous knoweth the cause of the poore: but the wicked regardeth not knowledge.

ECCLSIASITES.

OR THE PREACHER.

THE ARGUMENT.

Salomon, as a Preacher, and one that desired to instruct all in the way of salvation, describeth the deceivable vanities of this world: that man should not be addicted to anything under the Sunne, but rather inflamed with the desire of the heavenly life: therefore he confuteth their opinions, which set their felicitie either in knowledge, or in pleasures, or in dignity and riches, shewing that mans true felicitie consisteth in that, that he is united with God, and shall enjoy his presence: so that all other things must be rejected, save in as much as they further us to attaine to this heavenly treasure, which is sure and permanent, and cannot be found in any other, save in God alone.

CHAP. I.

2 All things in this world are full of vanitie, and of none endurance. 13 All mans wisdom is but folly and griefe.

a Salomon is here called a Preacher, or one that assemblith the people, because hee teacheth the true knowledge of God, and how men ought to passe their life in this transitorie world.

b Hee condemneth the opinions of all men that set felicity in any thing but in God alone, seeing that in this world all things are as vanitie and nothing. c Salomon doth not condemne mans labour or diligence, but sheweth that there is no full contentation in any thing under the heaven, nor in any creature, forasmuch as all things are transitory.

d One man dieth after another, and the earth remaineth longest, even to the last day, which yet is subject to corruption.

e By the Sunne, winde, and rivers, hee sheweth, that the greatest labour and longest hath an end, and therefore there can bee no felicity in this world.

f The sea which compasseth all the earth, filleth the veines thereof, the which powre out springs and rivers into the sea againe.

g Hee speaketh of times and seasons, and things done in them, which, as they have beene in times past, so come they to passe againe.

He words of the Preacher, the sonne of David, king in Hierusalem.

2 Vanitie of vanities, saith the Preacher: vanitie of vanities, all is vanitie.

3 What remaineth unto man in all his travell, which he suffereth under the Sun?

4 One generation passeth, and another generation succedeth: but the earth remaineth for ever.

5 The Sunne riseth, and the Sunne goeth downe, and draweth to his place, where he riseth.

6 The wind goeth toward the South, and compasseth toward the North: the wind goeth round about, and returneth by his circuits.

7 All the rivers go into the Sea, yet the Sea is not full: for the rivers goe unto the place, whence they returne, and goe.

8 All things are full of labour: man cannot utter it: the cie is not satisfied with seeing, nor the eare filled with hearing.

9 What is it that hath bin? that that shall be: and what is it that hath bin done? that which shall be done: and there is no new thing under the Sunne.

10 Is there any thing, whereof one may say, Behold this, it is new? it hath beene already in the old time that was before us.

11 There is no memory of the former, neither shall there bee a remembrance of the latter that shall bee, with them that shall come after.

neither shall there bee a remembrance of the latter that shall bee, with them that shall come after.

12 I, the Preacher, have beene King over Israel in Jerusalem:

13 And I have given mine heart to search and finde out wisdom by all things that are done under the heaven: (this fore travell hath God given to the sonnes of men, to humble them thereby)

14 I have considered all the works that are done under the Sunne, and behold, all is vanitie and vexation of the spirit.

15 That which is crooked, none can make straight: and that which faileth cannot be numbred.

16 I thought in mine heart, and said, Behold, I am become great, and excell in wisdom all them that have beene before mee in Jerusalem: and mine heart hath seen much wisdom and knowledge.

17 And I gave my heart to know wisdom and knowledge, madnesse and foolishnesse: I knew also that this is a vexation of the spirit.

18 For in the multitude of wisdom is much griefe, and hee that increaseth knowledge, increaseth sorrow.

a man hath attained to the highest, yet is his mind never fully content: therefore in this world is no true felicitie.

CHAP. II.

Pleasures, sumptuous buildings, riches, and possessions are but vanitie. 15 The wise and the foole have both one end touching the bodily death.

I Said in mine heart, Goe to now, I will prove thee with joy: therefore take thou pleasure in pleasant things: and behold this also is vanitie.

2 I said of laughter, Thou art mad: and h Hee proveth that if any could have attained to felicity in this world by labour and study, hee chiefly should have obtained it, because hee had gifts and aides of God therewith above all other.

i Man of nature hath a desire to know, and yet is not able to come to the perfection of knowledge, which is the punishment of sin, to humble man, and to teach him to depend only upon God.

k Man is not able by all his diligence to come things to goe otherwise then they doe: neither can hee number the faults that are committed, much lesse remedy them.

l That is, vaine things which served unto pleasure wherein was no commoditie, but griefe and trouble of conscience.

m Wisdom and knowledge cannot be come by without great paine of body and minde: For when n Salomon maketh this discourse with himselfe, as though he would trie whether there were contentation in ease and pleasures.

and of joy, What is this that thou doest?

3 I sought in my heart to give my selfe to wine, and to leade mine heart in wisdom, and to take hold of folly, till I might see where is that goodnesse of the children of men, which they enjoy under the Sunne, the whole number of the dayes of their life.

4 I have made my great workes: I have built me houses: I have planted me vineyards.

5 I have made me gardens and orchards, and planted in them trees of all fruit.

6 I have made me cisternes of water, to water therewith the woods that grow with trees,

7 I have gotten servants and maides, and had children borne in the house: also I had great possessions of beeves and sheep above all that were before mee in Jerusalem.

8 I have gathered unto me also silver and gold, and the chiefe treasures of Kings and provinces: I have provided mee men-fingers, and women-fingers, and the delights of the sonnes of men, as a woman taken captive, and women taken captives.

9 And I was great, and increased above all that were before mee in Jerusalem: also my wisdom remained with mee.

10 And whatsoever mine eyes desired, I withheld it not from them: I withdrew not mine heart from any joy: for mine heart rejoyced in all my labour, and this was my portion of all my travaile.

11 Then I looked on all my workes that mine hands had wrought, and on the travaile that I had laboured to doe: and behold, all is vanity, and vexation of the spirit: and there is no profit under the Sunne.

12 ¶ And I turned to behold wisdom, and madnesse, and folly: (for who is the man that will come after the King in things, which men now have done)

13 Then I saw that there is profit in wisdom, more then in folly: as the light is more excellent then darknesse.

14 For the wise mans eyes are in his head, but the foole walketh in darknesse: yea I know also that the same condition fallth to them all.

15 Then I thought in mine heart, It befallth unto me, as it befallth to the foole, why therefore doe I then labour to be more wise? And I said in mine heart, that this also is vanity.

16 For there shall be no remembrance of the wise, nor of the foole for ever: for that that now is, in the daies to come shall all be forgotten. And how death the wise man, as doth the foole?

17 Therefore I hated life: for the work that is wrought under the Sunne is grievous unto me: for all is vanity, and vexation of the spirit.

18 I hated also all my labour, wherein I had travelled under the Sunne, which I shall leave to the man that shall be after me.

19 And who knoweth whether hee shall bee wise or foolish? yet shall hee have rule over all my labour, wherein I have travelled, and wherein I have shewed my selfe wise under the Sunne. This is also vanity.

20 Therefore I went about to make mine heart abhor all the labour, wherein I had travelled under the Sunne.

21 For there is a man whose travell is in wisdom, and in knowledge, and in equity: yet to a man that hath not travelled herein, shall he give his portion: this also is vanity, and a great griefe.

22 For what hath man of all his travell and griefe of his heart, wherein he hath travelled under the Sunne?

23 For all his dayes are sorrows, and his travell griefe: his heart also taketh not rest in the night: which also is vanity.

24 There is no profit to man, but that he eat and drinke, and delight his soule with the profit of his labour: I saw also this, that it was of the hand of God.

25 For who could eat, and who could haile to outward things more then I?

26 Surely to a man that is good in his sight, God giveth wisdom, and knowledge, and joy: but to the sinner hee giveth paine, to gather, and to heap, to give to him that is good before God: this is also vanity, and vexation of the spirit.

CHAP. III.

All things have their time. 14 The wisdome of God was perfect, and cause men to fear him. 17 God shall judge both the just and unjust.

To all things there is an appointed time, and a time to every purpose, under the heaven.

2 A time to be borne, and a time to dye: a time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted.

3 A time to slay, and a time to heale: a time to break down, and a time to build.

4 A time to weep, and a time to laugh: a time to mourne, and a time to dance.

5 A time to cast away stones, and a time to gather stones: a time to embrace, and a time to be farre from embracing.

6 A time to seeke, a time to lose:

M 2

a time

I Meaning in this world.

m He wondreth that men forget a wife man being dead, asloone as they doe a foole.

n That I might seeke the true which is in God.

p Among other griefes, this was not the least, to leave that which he had gotten by great travell, to one that had no paine therefor, and whom he knew not whether he were a wise man or a foole.

q When man hath all labours, hee can get no more, then food, and refreshing, yet hee confelleth, that this commeth of Gods blessing, as Chap. 3. 13.

r Meaning, pleasures.

a time to keep, and a time to cast away.

7 A time to rent, and a time to sowe:
a time to keepe silence, and a time to speak.

8 A time to love, and a time to hate:
a time of war, and a time of peace.

9 What profit hath he that worketh, of the thing wherein he travelleth?

10 I have seen the travaile that God hath given to the sonnes of men^b to humble them thereby.

11 Hee hath made every thing beautifull in his time, also he hath set the^c world in their heart, yet cannot man finde out the work that God hath wrought from the beginning even to the end.

12 I know that there is nothing good in them, but to rejoyce, and doe good in his life.

13 And also that every man eateth and drinketh, and seeth the commodity of all his labour, this is the^d gift of God.

14 I know that whatsoever God shall doe, it shall be for ever: to it can no man adde, and from it can none diminish:
for God hath done it, that they should feare before him.

15 What is that that hath been? that is now: and that that shall bee, hath now been: for God^e requireth that, which is past.

16 And moreover I have seene under the Sunne, the place of judgement, where was wickednesse, and the place of justice, where was iniquity.

17 I thought in mine heart, God will judge the just and the wicked: for time is there for every purpose, and for every work.

18 I considered in my heart the state of the children of men that God had^f purged them: yet to see to, they are in themselves as beasts.

19 For the condition of the children of men, and the condition of the beasts are even as one^g condition unto them. As the one dieth, so dieth the other: for they have all one breath, and there is no excellency of man above the beast: for all is vanity.

20 All go to one place, and all are of the dust, and all shall return to the dust.

21 Who^h knoweth whether the spirit of man ascend upward, and the spirit of the beast descend downward to the earth?

22 Therefore I see that there is no thing better then that a man shouldⁱ re-joyce in his affaires, because that is his portion. For who shall bring him to see what shall be after him?

CHAP. IV.

^j The innocents are oppressed. ^k Mens labours are full of abuse and vanity. ⁹ Mens society is necessary. ¹³ A young man poore and wife, is to be preferred to an old King that is a foole.

SO I turned and considered all the oppressions that are wrought under the Sunne, and behold, the cares of the oppressed, and none comforteth them: and loe, the strength is of the hand of them that op-presse them, and none comforteth them.

2 Wherefore I praised the^b dead which now are dead, above the living which are yet alive.

3 And I count him^c better then them both, which hath not yet been: for hee hath not seene the evill workes which are wrought under the Sunne.

4 Also I beheld all travaile, and all perfection of workes, that this is the envy of a man against his neighbour: this also is vanity and vexation of spirit.

5 The foole foldeth his hands, and eat-eth up his own flesh.

6 Better is an handfull with quietnesse, then two handfuls with labour and vexation of spirit.

7 Again I returned, and saw vanity under the sunne.

8 There is one alone, and there is not a second, which hath neither sonne nor brother, yet is there none end of all his tra-vaile, neither can his eye be satisfied with riches: neither doth he^d thinke, For whom doe I travaile, and defraud my soule of pleasure? this also is vanity, and this is an evill travaile.

9 Two are better then one: for they have better wages for their labour.

10 For if they fall, the one will lift up his fellow: but wo unto him that is alone:
for he falleth, and there is not a second to lift him up.

11 Also if two sleep together, then shall they have heat: but to one how should there be heat?

12 And if one overcome him, two shall stand against him: and a three-fold cord is not easily broken.

13 Better is a poor and wife childe, then an old and foolish King, which will no more be admonished.

14 For out of the^e prison he commeth forth to reigne: when as he that is^f born in his kingdome, is made poore.

15 I beheld all the living, which walke under the Sunne, with the second childe, which shall stand up in his place.

16 There is none end of all the people, nor of all that were before them, and they that come after shall not rejoyce in him:
surely this is also vanity and vexation of spirit.

CHAP. V.

1 Not to speake lightly, chiefly in Gods matters. 2 The covetous can never have enough. 3 The labourers sleep is sweet. 4 Man when he dieth, taketh nothing with him. 5 To live joyfully, and with a contented minde, is the gift of God.

He is rash in vowing, or in praying; meaning, that we should use all reverence to Godward.

Be not rash with thy mouth, nor let thine heart be hasty to utter a thing before God: for God is in the heavens, and thou art on the earth: therefore let thy words be few.

He heareth thee for thy many words sake, or of ten repetitions: but considereth thy faith and fervent minde.

2 For as a dreame commeth by the multitude of businesse: so the voice of a foole is in the multitude of words.

3 When thou hast vowed a vow to God, deferre not to pay it: for he delighteth not in fooles: pay therefore that thou hast vowed.

4 It is better that thou shouldest not vow; then that thou shouldest vow and not pay it.

3 * When thou hast vowed a vow to God, deferre not to pay it: for he delighteth not in fooles: pay therefore that thou hast vowed.

He speaketh of vows which are approved by Gods word, and serve to his glory.

4 It is better that thou shouldest not vow; then that thou shouldest vow and not pay it.

5 Suffer not thy mouth to make thy flesh to sinne: neither say before the Angel, that this is ignorance: wherefore shall God be angry by thy voice, and destroy the work of thine hands?

6 For in the multitude of dreames, and vanities, are also many words: but feare thou God.

5 Suffer not thy mouth to make thy flesh to sinne: neither say before the Angel, that this is ignorance: wherefore shall God be angry by thy voice, and destroy the work of thine hands?

7 If in a countrey thou seest the oppression of the poore, and the defrauding of judgement and justice, be not astonished at the matter: for he that is higher then the highest, regardeth, and there be higher then they.

8 And the abundance of the earth is over all: the King also shall say by the field that is tilled.

6 For in the multitude of dreames, and vanities, are also many words: but feare thou God.

9 He that loveth silver shall not be satisfied with silver, and he that loveth riches, shall be without the fruit thereof: this also is vanity.

7 If in a countrey thou seest the oppression of the poore, and the defrauding of judgement and justice, be not astonished at the matter: for he that is higher then the highest, regardeth, and there be higher then they.

10 When goods increase, they are increased that eat them: and what good cometh to the owners thereof, but the beholding thereof with their eyes?

8 And the abundance of the earth is over all: the King also shall say by the field that is tilled.

11 The sleepe of him that travaileth, is sweet, whether he eat little or much: but the satiety of the rich will not suffer him to sleepe.

9 He that loveth silver shall not be satisfied with silver, and he that loveth riches, shall be without the fruit thereof: this also is vanity.

12 There is an evill sicknesse that I have seen under the Sunne: to wit, riches reserved to the owners thereof for their evill.

10 When goods increase, they are increased that eat them: and what good cometh to the owners thereof, but the beholding thereof with their eyes?

13 And these riches perish by evil prayell, and he begetteth a sonne, and in his hand is nothing.

11 The sleepe of him that travaileth, is sweet, whether he eat little or much: but the satiety of the rich will not suffer him to sleepe.

14 As he came forth of his mothers belly, he shall returne naked to goe as he came, and shall beare away nothing of his labour, which he hath caused to passe by his hand.

12 There is an evill sicknesse that I have seen under the Sunne: to wit, riches reserved to the owners thereof for their evill.

15 And this also is an evill sicknesse, that in all points as he came, so shall he goe: and what profit hath hee that he hath travailed for the winde?

16 Also all his daies he eateth in darknesse with much griefe, and in his sorrow and anger.

17 Behold then, what I have seen good, that it is comely to eate, and to drink, and to take pleasure in all his labour, wherein he travaileth under the Sunne, the whole number of the dayes of his life, which God giveth him: for this is his portion.

18 Also to every man to whom God hath given riches and treasures, and giveth him power to eate thereof, and to take his part, and to enjoy his labour: this is the gift of God.

19 Surely he will not much remember the daies of his life, because God answereth to the joy of his heart.

CHAP. VI.

The miserable estate of him to whom God hath given riches, and not the grace to use them.

There is an evill, which I saw under the Sunne, and it is much among men.

2 A man to whom God hath given riches, and treasures and honour, and he wanteth nothing for his soule of all that it desireth: but God giveth him not power to eat thereof, but a strange man shall eat it up: this is vanity, and this is an evill sicknesse.

3 If a man beget an hundred children and live many years, and the dayes of his years be multiplied, and his soule be not satisfied with good things, and he be not buried, I say, that an untimely fruit is better then he.

4 For he commeth into vanity, and goeth into darknesse: and his name shall be covered with darknesse.

5 Also he hath not seene the Sonne, nor knoweth it: therefore this hath more rest then the other.

6 And if he had lived a thousand years twice told, and had seen no good, shall not all goe to one place?

7 All the labour of man is for his mouth: yet the soule is not filled.

8 For what hath the wise man more then the foole? what hath the poore, that knoweth how to walke before the living?

9 The sight of the eye is better then to walke in the lusts: this also is vanity, and vexation of spirit.

10 What is that that hath been? the name thereof is now named: and it is known.

m Meaning, in vaine, and without profit. n In affliction and griefe of minde.

o Reade Chap. 31.

b If he can never have enough.

c As we see oftentimes, that the covetous man either falleth into crimes that deserve death, or is murdered, or drowned or hanged himselfe, or such like.

d Meaning, the unchastity of him, whose life did not therewith or have any good fruit.

e That knoweth to use his goods well in the judgement of men.

f To be content with that which God hath given, is better then to follow the desires that never can be satisfied.

h Meaning, God, who will make him to feele that he is mortall.

knowne that it is man : and hee cannot strive with him that is stronger then hee.

CHAP. VII.

Divers precepts to follow that which is good, and to avoid the contrary.

Surely there bee many things that increase vanitie : and what availeth it a man ?

2 For who knoweth what is good for man in the life, and in the number of the daies of the life of his vanity, seeing he maketh them as a shadow ? For who can shew unto man what shall bee after him under the Sunne ?

3 A good name is better then a good ointment, and the day of death, then the day that one is borne.

4 It is better to goe to the house of mourning, then to goe to the house of feasting, because this is the end of all men : and the living shall lay it to his heart.

5 Anger is better then laughter : for by a sad look the heart is made better.

6 The heart of the wise is in the house of mourning : but the heart of fools is in the house of mirth.

7 Better it is to heare the rebuke of a wife man, then that a man should heare the long of fooles.

8 For like the noise of the thornes under the pot, so is the laughter of the foole : this also is vanitie.

9 Surely, oppression maketh a wife man mad : and the reward destroyeth the heart.

10 The end of a thing is better then the beginning thereof, and the patient in spirit is better then the proud in spirit.

11 Be not thou of an hastie spirit to be angry : for anger resteth in the bosome of fooles.

12 Say not thou, Why is in that the former daies were better then these ? for thou doest not enquire wisely of this thing.

13 Wisdome is good with an inheritance, and excellent to them that see the Sunne.

14 For man shall rest in the shadow of wisdome, and in the shadow of silver : but the excellencie of the knowledge of wisdome giveth life to the possessours thereof.

15 Behold the worke of God : for who can make straight that which he hath made crooked ?

16 In the day of wealth be of good comfort, and in the day of affliction consider : God also hath made this contrary to that, to the intent that man should finde nothing after him.

17 I have seene all things in the daies of my vanitie : there is a just man that perisheth in his justice, and there is a wicked man that continueth long in his malice.

18 Be not thou just over-much, neither make thy selfe over-wise : wherefore shouldest thou be desolate ?

19 Be not thou wicked overmuch, neither bee thou foolish : wherefore shouldest thou perish not in thy time ?

20 It is good that thou lay hold on this : but yet with-draw not thine hand, from that : for hee that feareth God shall come forth of them all.

21 Wisdome shall strengthen the wife man, more then ten mightie princes that are in the citie.

22 Surely there is no man just in the earth, that doth just, and sinneth not.

23 Give not thine heart also to all the words that men speake, lest thou doe heare thy servant cursing thee.

24 For oftentimes also thine heart knoweth that thou likewise hast cursed others.

25 All this have I proved by wisdome : I thought I will bee wise, but it went farre from me.

26 It is farre off, what may it be ? and it is a profound deepnesse, who can finde it ?

27 I have compassed about, both I, and mine heart to know, and to enquire, and to search wisdome, and reason, and to know the wickednesse of follie, and the foolishnesse of madnesse, 28 And I finde more bitter then death the woman whose heart is as snares, and her hands as bands : hee that is good before God, shall bee delivered from her, but the sinner shall bee taken by her.

29 Behold, saith the Preacher, this have I found, seeking one by one to finde the count :

30 And yet my soule seeketh, but I finde it not : I have found one man of a thousand : but a woman among them all have I not found.

31 Onely loe, this have I found, that God hath made man righteous : but they have sought many inventions.

CHAP. VIII.

To obey Princes and Magistrates. The works of God passe mans knowledge.

g Murmure, not against God when he sendeth adversities for mans finnes. Hee answereth to them, that become not wisdome, except riches bee joined therewith, knowing that both are the gifts of God, but that wisdome is farre more excellent, and may bee without riches.

* Chap. 1. 35.

i Consider wherefore God doth send it, and what may comfort thee. k That man should be able to control nothing in his worke.

^e That is, that thou obey the King, and keepe the oath that thou hast made for the same cause.

^d Withdraw not thy selfe lightly from the obedience of thy prince.

c mouth of the King, and to the word of the oath of God.

3 ^d Haste not to goe forth of his fight: stand not in an evill thing: for he will doe whatsoever pleaseth him.

4 Where the word of the King is, there is power, and who shall say unto him, What dost thou?

5 He that keepeth the commandment, shall know none evill thing, and the heart of the wise shall know the time and judgement.

6 For to every purpose there is a time and judgement, because the misery of man is great upon him.

7 For he knoweth not that which shall bee: for who can tell him when it shall bee?

8 Man is not Lord over the spirit to retain the spirit, neither hath hee power in the day of death, nor deliverance in the battell, neither shall wickednesse deliver the possessors thereof.

9 All this have I seen, and have given mine heart to every worke, which is wrought under the Sunne, and I saw a time that man ruleth over man to his own hurt.

10 And likewise I saw the wicked buried, and they returned, and they that came from the holy place, were yet forgotten in the city where they had done right: this also is vanity.

11 Because sentence against an evill worke is not executed speedily, therefore the heart of the children of men is fully set in them to doe evill.

12 Though a sinner doe evill an hundred times, and God prolongeth his dayes, yet I know that it shall be well with them that feare the Lord, and doe reverence before him.

13 But it shall not be well to the wicked, neither shall he prolong his dayes: he shall be like a shadow, because he feareth not before God.

14 There is a vanity, which is done upon the earth, that there be righteous men to whom it commeth according to the worke of the wicked: and there be wicked men to whom it commeth according to the worke of the just: I thought also that this is vanity.

15 And I praised joy: for there is no goodnesse to man under the Sunne, save to eat and to drinke, and to rejoyce: for this is adjoynd to his labour, the dayes of his life that God hath given him under the Sunne.

16 When I applied mine heart to know wisdom, and to behold the businesse that is done on earth, that neither day nor night the eyes of man take sleep;

17 Then I beheld the whole worke of God, that man cannot finde out the work that is wrought under the Sunne: for the which man labourerh to seeke it, and cannot finde it: yea, and though the wise man thinke to know it, he cannot finde it.

C H A P. IX.

ⁱ By no outward thing can man know whom God loveth, or hateth. ¹² No man knoweth his end. ¹⁶ Wisdom excelleth strength.

I Have surely given mine heart to all this, and to declare all this, that the just, and the wise, and their workes are in the hand of God: and no man knoweth either love or hatred of all that is before them.

2 All things come alike to all: and the same condition is to the just and to the wicked, to the good, and to the pure, and to the polluted, and to him that sacrificeth, and to him that sacrificeth not: as is the good, so is the sinner, he that sweareth, as he that feareth an oath.

3 This is evill among all that is done under the Sunne, that there is one condition to all; and also the heart of the sonnes of men is full of evill, and madnesse is in their hearts whiles they live, and after that they goe to the dead;

4 Surely, whosoever is joined to all the living, there is hope: for it is better to a living dog, then to a dead lion.

5 For the living know that they shall die, but the dead know nothing at all: neither have they any more a reward: for their remembrance is forgotten.

6 Also their love, and their hatred, and their envie is now perished, and they have no more portion for ever, in all that is done under the Sunne.

7 Goe, eate thy bread with joy, and drinke thy wine with a cheerefull heart: for God now accepteth thy workes.

8 At all times let thy garments bee white, and let not oile be lacking upon thine head.

9 [†] Rejoice with the wife whom thou hast loved all the daies of the life of thy vanitie, which God hath given thee under the Sunne all the daies of thy vanitie: for this is thy portion in the life, and in thy travell wherein thou labourerh under the Sunne.

10 All that thine hand shall finde to doe, doe it with all thy power: for there is neither worke, nor invention, nor knowledge, nor wisdom in the grave whither thou goest.

11 I returned, and saw under the Sun that the race is not to the swift, nor the battell to the strong, nor yet bread to the wise, nor also riches to men of understanding, neither yet favour to men of know-a Meaning, what things hee ought to chuse or refuse: or man knoweth not by these outward things, that is by prosperitie or adversity, whom God doth favour or hate, for hee fendeth them as well to the wicked as to the godly.

b- In outward things, as riches and povertie, sickness and health, there is no difference betweene the godly and the wicked; but the difference is, that the godly are assured by faith, of Gods favour and assistance.

c Hee noteth the Epicures and carnall men, which made their belly their god, and had no pleasure but in this life, wishing rather to be an object and vile person in this life, then a man of authority, and so to die, which is meant by the dog and lion.

d They flatter themselves to bee in Gods favour, because they have all things in abundance.

e Rejoice, bee merrie, and spare for no cost, thus speak the wicked belly-gods.

[†] Else, regard the life.

* Chap. 5. 18.

^e That is, when time is to obey, and how farre hee should obey.

^f Man of himselfe is miserable, and therefore ought to doe nothing to increase the same, but to worke all things by wisdom and counsell.

^g Man hath no power to save his own life, and therefore must not rashly cast himselfe into danger.

^h As commeth oft times to tyrants, and wicked rulers.

ⁱ That is, others as wicked as they. ^k They that feared God, and worshipped him according as he had appointed.

^l Where justice is delayed, there sin reigneth.

^m Which are punished, as though they were wicked, as Chap. 7. 16.

ⁿ Reade Chap. 3. 21.

^f Thus the worldlings say, to prove that all things are lawfull for them, and attribute that to chance and fortune, which is done by the providence of God. ^g That is, hee doth not foresee what shall come.

knowledge: but time and ^f chance cometh to them all.

12 For neither doth man know ^h his time, but as the fishes, which are taken in an evill net, and as the birds that are caught in the snare: so are the children of men snared in the evill time, when it falleth upon them suddenly.

13 I have also seen this wisdom under the Sun, and it is great unto me.

14 A little city and few men in it, and a great King came against it, and compassed it about, and builded forts against it.

15 And there was found therein a poore and wise man, and he delivered the city by his wisdom: but none remembered this poore man.

16 Then said I, better is wisdom then strength: yet the wisdom of the poore is despised, and his words are not heard.

17 The words of the wise are more heard in quietness, then the cry of him that ruleth among fools.

18 Better is wisdom then weapons of warre: but one sinner destroyeth much good.

CHAP. X.

¹ The difference of foolishness and wisdom. ¹¹ A slanderer is like a serpent that cannot be charmed. ¹⁶ Of foolish Kings and drunken Princes. ¹⁷ And of good Kings and Princes.

Dead flies cause to stinke, and putrifie the ointment of the Apothecarie: so doth a little folly him that is in estimation for wisdom, and for glory.

2 The heart of a ^a wise man is at his right hand: but the heart of a foole is at his left hand.

3 And also when the foole goeth by the way, his heart faileth, and he ^b telleth unto all that he is a foole.

4 If the ^c spirit of him that ruleth, rise up against thee, leave not thy place: for gentleness pacifieth great sins.

5 There is an evill ^d that I have seene under the sun, as an ^e error that proceedeth from the face of him that ruleth.

6 Folly is set in great excellency, and the ^f rich set in the low place.

7 I have seen servants on horses, and princes walking as servants on the ground.

8 ^{*} He that diggeth a pit shall fall into it, and he that breaketh the hedge, a serpent shall bite him.

9 He that removeth stones shall hurt himself thereby, and he that cutteth wood shall be in danger thereby.

10 If the Iron be blunt, and one hath not whet the edge, he must then put to more ^f strength: but the excellency to direct a thing is wisdom.

11 If the serpent bite when he is charmed: no better is a babler.

12 The words of the mouth of a wise man have grace: but the lips of a foole devour himselfe.

13 The beginning of the words of his mouth is foolishness, and the latter end of his mouth is wicked madness.

14 For the foole multiplieth words, saying, Man knoweth not what shall be: and who can tell him, what shall be after him?

15 The labour of the foolish doth weary him: for he knoweth not to goe into the ^h city.

16 Woe to thee, O land, when thy King is a ⁱ childe, and thy princes ^j eat in the morning.

17 Blessed art thou, O land, when thy King is the sonne ^k of nobles, and thy princes eat in time, for strength, and not for drunkenness.

18 By slothfulness the roofof the house goeth to decay, and by the idleness of the hands the house droppeth through.

19 They prepare bread for laughter, and wine comforteth the living, but silver answereth to all.

20 Curse not the King, no not in thy thought, neither curse the rich in thy bed-chamber: for the ^l fowle of the heaven shall carry the voice, that which hath wings, shall declare the matter.

CHAP. XI.

¹ To be libell to the poore. ⁴ Not to doubt of Gods providence. ⁸ All worldly prosperity is but vanity. ⁹ God will judge all.

Cast thy bread upon the ^a waters: for after many dayes thou shalt finde it.

2 Give a portion to seven, and also to eight: for thou knowest not what evill shall be upon the earth.

3 If the ^b clouds bee full, they will powre forth raine upon the earth: and if the ^c tree doth fall toward the South, or toward the North, in the place that the tree falleth, there it shall be.

4 He that observeth the ^d winde, shall not sow, and he that regardeth the clouds, shall not reap.

5 As thou knowest not which is the way of the spirit, nor how the bones ^e grow in the wombe of her that is with childe: so thou knowest not the worke of God that worketh all.

6 In the morning sow thy seed, and in the evening let not thine hand ^f rest: for thou knowest not whether shall prosper, this or ^g that, or whether both shall be alike good.

7 Surely, the light is a pleasant thing: and it is a good thing to the eyes to see the Sunne.

8 Though

^g The ignorance and beastliness of the wicked, is such, that they know not common things, and yet will they dispute high matters. ^h That is, without wisdom and counsel. ⁱ Are given to their lusts and pleasures. ^k Meaning, when he is noble for virtue and wisdom, and with the gifts of God.

^l Those can not worke evil secretly, but it shall be known.

^a That is, be libell to the poore, & though it seem to be as a thing ventred on the sea, yet it shall bring thee profit.

^b As the clouds that are full, powre out raine, so the rich that have abundance, must distribute it liberally. ^c He exhorteth to be libell while we live: for after there is no power. ^d He that searcheth inconveniences, when necessity requireth, shall never do his duty.

^e Be not weary of well doing.

^f That is, which of thy workes are most agreeable to God.

^a So that he doth all things well and justly, whereas the foole doth the contrary.

^b By his doings he bewrayeth himself.

^c If thy superiour bee angry with thee, be thou discreet, and not moved.

^d Meaning, that it is an evill thing when they that are in authority faile and doe not their duty.

^e They that are rich in wisdom and vertue.

^{*} Psal. 7. 16.
 Prov. 26. 27.

^f Without wisdom, whatsoever a man taketh in hand, turneth to his own hurt.

8 Though a man live many yeares, and in them all hee reioice, yet hee shall remember the dayes of ^g darknesse, because they are many, all that commeth ^h vanity.

9 ^h Reioice, O young man, in thy youth, and let thine heart cheere thee in the dayes of thy youth: and walke in the wayes of thine heart, and in the sight of thine eyes: but know, that for all these things, God will bring thee to judgement.

10 Therefore take away ⁱ griefe out of thine heart, and cause evill ^k to depart from thy flesh: for childhood and youth are vanitie.

CHAP. XII.

^l To thinke on God in youth, and not to deferre till age. ^m The soule returneth to God. ⁿ Wisdome is the gift of God, and consisteth in fearing him, and keeping his commandments.

Remember now thy Creator in the dayes of thy youth, whiles the evill dayes come not, nor the yeares approach, wherein thou shalt say, I have no pleasure in them.

2 Whiles the Sunne is not darke, nor the light, nor the moone, nor the starres, nor the ^a cloudes returne after the raine:

3 When the ^b keepers of the house shall tremble, and the ^c strong men shall bow themselves, and the ^d grinders shall cease, because they are few, and they waxe darke that ^e looke out by the windowes:

4 And the ^f doores shall bee shut without, by the base sound of the ^g grinding, and he shall rise up at the voice of the ^h bird: and all the ⁱ daughters of singing shall be abased.

5 Also they shall bee afraid of the ^k high thing, and feare ^l shall bee in the way, and the almond tree shall ^m flourish, and the ⁿ grasshopper shall be a burden, and concupiscence shall be driven away: for man goeth to the house of his age, and the mourners goe about in the street.

6 Whiles the ^o silver corde is not lengthened, nor the golden ^p ewer broken, nor the ^q pitcher broken at the ^r well, nor the ^s wheele broken at the ^t cisterne:

7 And dust returne to the earth as it was, and the ^v spirit returne to God that gave it.

8 Vanity of vanities, saith the Preacher, all ^u vanity.

9 And the more wise the Preacher was, the more hee taught the people knowledge, and caused them to heare, and searched forth, and prepared many parables.

10 The Preacher sought to finde out pleasant words, and an upright writing, even the words of truth.

11 The words of the wise are like goades, and like nailes ^x fastened by the masters of the assemblies, which are given by one ^y pastour.

12 And of other things besides these, my sonne, take thou heede: for there is none end in making many ^z bookes, and much reading is a wearinesse of the flesh.

13 Let us heare the end of all: feare God, and keepe his commandments: for this is the whole ^{aa} duty of man.

14 For God will bring every worke unto judgement, with every secret thing, whether it bee good or evill.

^k To climbe high because of their weakenes. or they sloop downe, as though they were affraide, lest any thing should hit them.

^l They shall tremble as they goe, as though they were affraid.

^m Their heades shall bee as white as the blossomes of an almond tree.

ⁿ They shall bee able to beare nothing.

^o Meaning, the marrow of the backe bone and the sinewes.

^p The little skin that covereth the braine, which is in colour like gold.

^q That is, the veins.

^s Which is the head.

^t That is, the heart, out of the which the head draweth the powers of life.

^u The soule incontinently either goeth to joy or torment, & sleepeth not as the wicked imagine.

^x Which are well applied by the ministers, whom hee calleth masters.

^y That is, by God.

^z These things cannot bee comprehended in books, or learned by study, but God must instruct thine heart that thou maist only know that wisdom is the true felicity, & the way therunto is to feare God.

A N EXCELLENT * SONG WHICH VVAS SALOMONS.

THE ARGUMENT.

IN this Song, Salomon, by most sweet and comfortable allegories and parables, describeth the perfect love of Jesus Christ, the true Salomon and King of peace, and the faithfull soule, or his Church, which hee hath sanctified and appointed to be his spouse, holy, chaste, and without reprehension. So that heere is declared the singular love of the bridegroome toward the bride, and his great and excellent benefis, wherewith hee doth enrich her of his pure bounty and grace without any of her deserving. Also the earnest affection of the Church, which is inflamed with the love of Christ, desiring to bee more and more joyned to him in love, and not to bee forsaken for any spot or blemish that is in her.

C H A P. I.

1 The familiar talke and mysticall communication of the spirituall love betwene Iesus Christ and his Church. 2 The domestical enemies that persecute the Church.

a This is spoken in the person of the Church, or of the faithfull soule inflamed with the desire of Christ whom she loveth.

b The feeling of thy great benefits.

c They that are pure in heart and conversation.

d The faithfull confesse that they cannot come to Christ except they be drawne.

e Meaning, the secret joy that is not knownde to the world.

f The Church confesse her spots and sin, but hath confidence in the favour of Christ.

g Kedar was Ishmaels sonne, of whom came the Arabians that dwelt in tents.

h Which within were all set with precious stones and jewels.

i Consider not the Church by the outward appearance.

k The corruption of nature through sinne and afflictions.

l Mine owne brethren, which should have most favoured mee.

m Shee confesse her owne negligence.

n The spouse feeling her fault, fleeth to her husband onely for succour.

o Whom thou hast called to the dignity of Pastours, and they set forth their owne dreames in stead of thy doctrine.

p Christ speaketh to his Church, bidding them that are ignorant to goe to the pastours to learne.

q For thy spirituall beauty and excellency there was no worldly treasure to bee compared unto thee.

r The Church rejoiceth that shee is admitted to the company of Christ.

s Hee shall bee most deare unto mee.

t Christ accepteth his Church and commendeth her beauty.

u That is, the heart of the faithfull wherein Christ dwelleth by his spirit.

Et him ^a kisse me with the kisses of his mouth: for thy love is better then wine.

2. Because of the ^b favour of thy good ointments, thy name is as an ointment powdered out: therefore the ^c virgins love thee.

3 ^d Draw mee: wee will runne after thee: the King hath brought mee into his ^e chambers: wee will rejoyce and bee glad in thee: wee will remember thy love more then wine: the righteous doe love thee.

4 I am ^f blacke, O daughters of Ierusalem, but comely as the tents of ^g Kedar, and as the ^h curtaines of Salomon.

5 Regard yee mee not because I am ⁱ blacke: for the ^k Sunne hath looked upon mee. The ^l sonnes of my mother were angry against mee: they made mee the keeper of the vines: but I ^m kept not mine owne vine.

6 Shew mee, ⁿ O thou, whom my soule loveth, where thou feedest, where thou liest at noone: for why should I be as shee that turneth aside to the flocks of ^o thy companions?

7 ^p If thou know not, O thou the fairest among women, get thee forth by the steps of the flocke: and feed thy kids by the tents of the Shepherds.

8 I have compared thee, O my love, to the troupe of horses in the ^q charrets of Pharaoh.

9 Thy cheeks are comely with rows of stones, and thy necke with chaines.

10 Wee will make thee borders of gold, with studs of silver.

11 ^r Whiles the King was at his repast, my spicknard gave the smell thereof.

12 My welbeloved is as a bundle of myrrhe unto mee: hee shall lie betwene my ^s breasts.

13 My welbeloved is as a cluster of champhire unto mee in the vines of Engedi.

14 My love, behold, thou art ^t faire: behold, thou art faire: thine eyes are like the doves.

15 My welbeloved, behold, thou art faire and pleasant: also our ^u bed is Greene.

16 The beames of our house are cedars, our rafters are of firre.

C H A P. II.

3 The Church desireth to rest under the shadow of Christ. 4 Shee heareth his voice. 5 Shee is compared to the dove. 6 And the enemies to the foxes.

I Am the rose of the field, and the lillie of the valleies.

2 Like a lillie among the thornes, so is my ^a love among the daughters.

3 ^b Like the apple-tree among the trees of the Forrest, so is my welbeloved among the sonnes of men: under his shadow had I delight, and fate downe: and his fruit was sweet unto my mouth.

4 Hee brought mee into the wine cellar, and love was his banner over mee.

5 Stay mee with flagons, and comfort mee with apples: for I am sicke of love.

6 His left hand is under mine head, and his right hand doth embrace mee.

7 ^c I charge you, O daughters of Ierusalem, by the roes and by the hindes of the field, that ye stirre not up, nor waken my love, untill shee please.

8 ^d It is the voice of my welbeloved: behold, hee commeth leaping by the mountaines, and skipping by the hills.

9 My welbeloved is like a roe, or a young hart: loe, hee ^e standeth behinde our wall, looking forth of the windowes, shewing himselfe through the ^f grates.

10 My welbeloved spake, and said unto mee, Arise, my love, my faire one, and come thy way.

11 For behold, ^g winter is past: the raine is changed, and is gone away.

12 The flowres appeare in the earth: the time of the singing of birdes is come, and the voice of the turtle is heard in our land.

13 The fig tree hath brought forth her young figs: and the vines with their small grapes have cast a favour: arise, my love, my faire one, and come away.

14 My dove, thou art in the ^h holes of the rocke, in the secret places of the staires, shew mee thy sight, let mee heare thy voice: for thy voice is sweet, and thy sight comely.

15 Take us the foxes, the ⁱ little foxes, which destroy the vines, for our vines have small grapes.

16 My welbeloved is mine, and I am his: hee feedeth among the lillies, 17 Untill the day breake, and the shadows flee away: returne my welbeloved, and be like ^k a roe, or a yong hart upon the mountaines of Bether.

a Thus Christ preferreth his Church above all other things.

b The spouse testifieth her great desire toward her husband, but her strength faileth her, and therefore she desireth to be comforted, & feel it.

c Christ chargeth them which have to doe in the Church, as it were by a solemn oath, that they trouble not the quietnes thereof.

d This is spoken of Christ, who tooke upon him our nature, to come to helpe his Church.

e Forasmuch as his divinitie was hid under the cloak of our flesh, so that wee cannot have full knowledge of him in this life.

g That is, sinne and error is driven backe by the coming of Christ, which is here described by the spring time when all things flourish.

h Thou that art ashamed of thy finnes, come and shew thy selfe unto mee.

i Suppress the heretikes whiles they are young: that is, when they beginne to shew their malice, and destroy the vine of the Lord.

k The Church desireth Christ to be most ready to helpe her in all dangers.

CHAP. III.

1 The Church desireth to be joynd inseparably to Christ her husband: 6 Her deliverance out of the wilderness.

a The Church by night, that is, in troubles seeketh to Christ, but is not incontinently heard.

IN my bed by ^a night I sought him that my soule loved: I sought him, but I found him not.

b Shewing, that although wee bee not heard at the first, yet wee must still continue in prayer till we feel comfort.

² I will rise therefore now, and goe about in the city, by the streets and by the open places, and will ^b seeke him that my soule loveth: I sought him, but I found him not.

c Which declarereth that we must seeke unto all, of whom wee hope to have my succour.

³ The ^c watchmen that went about the city found me: to whom I said, Have you seene him whom my soule loveth?

⁴ When I had past a little from them, then I found him whom my soule loved: I tooke hold on him, and left him not, till I had brought him into my mothers house, into the chamber of her that conceived mee.

d Real Chap. 2. 7.

⁵ ^d I charge you, O daughters of Jerusalem, by the roes and by the hinds of the field, that yee stirre not up, nor waken my love untill hee please.

e This is referred to the Church of Israel, which was led by the wilderness forty years.
f By the bed is meant the Temple, which Salomon made.

⁶ Who is hee that commeth up out of the ^e wilderness like pillars of smoake perfumed with myrrhe and incense, and with all the ^f spices of the merchant?

⁷ Behold his ^f bed, which is Salomons: threescore strong men ^g are round about it, of the valiant men of Israel.

⁸ They all handle the sword, and are expert in warre, every one ^h hath his sword upon his thigh for the feares ^h by night.

⁹ King Salomon made himselfe a ⁱ palace of the trees of Lebanon.

¹⁰ He made the pillars thereof of silver, and the Pavement thereof of gold, the hangings thereof of purple, whose mids ^j was paved with the love of the daughters of Jerusalem.

¹¹ Come forth, yee ^k daughters of Zion, and behold the King Salomon with the ^k crowne, wherewith his mother crowned him in the day of his marriage, and in the day of the gladnesse of his heart.

CHAP. IV.

1 The praises of the Church. 7 She is without blemish in his sight. 9 The love of Christ toward her.

a Because Christ delighteth in his Church, hee commendeth all that is in her.

BEhold, thou art ^a faire, my love: be- hold, thou art faire: thine eyes ^a are like the doves: among thy locks ^a thine faire is like the ^b flock of goats, which looke downe from the mountaine of ^c Gilead.

b Chap. 6. 4.
c He hath respect to the multitude of the faithfull which are many in number.

² Thy teeth ^a are like a flock of sheepe in good order, which goe up from the walhing: which every ^b one bring out twins, and none ^c is barren among them.

³ Thy lips are like a thred of scarlet, and thy talke is comely as thy temples are within thy locks as a piece of a Pomegranate.

⁴ Thy neck is as the towre of David, built for defence: a thousand shields hang therein, and all the targets of the strong men.

⁵ Thy two, ^c breasts ^c are as two young roes that are twinnes, feeding among the lilies.

c Wherewith knowledge and zeale, two precious jewels.

⁶ Untill the day breake, and the shadowes flie away, I will go into the mountaine of myrrhe, and to the mountaine of incense.

⁷ Thou art all faire, my love, and there is no spot in thee.

⁸ ^d Come with mee from Lebanon, my spouse, ^d even with mee from Lebanon, and looke from the top of Amanah, from the top of Shenir, and Hermon, from the dens of the Lyons, and from the mountaines of the leopards.

d Christ promisseth his Church, to call his faithfull from all the corners of the world.

⁹ My ^e sister, my spouse, thou hast wounded mine heart: thou hast wounded mine heart with one of thine ^f eyes, and with a chaine of thy neck.

e Christ calleth his Church sister, in respect that hee had taken the flesh of man.

¹⁰ My sister, my spouse, how faire is thy love! how much better is thy love then wine! and the favour of thy ointments then all spices!

f In that hee made his Church beautiful and rich, hee loved his gifts in her.

¹¹ Thy ^g lips, my spouse, drop ^g as hony combs: hony and milke are under thy tongue, and the favour of thy garment ^h is as the favour of Lebanon.

g Because of thy confession and thanksgiving.

¹² My sister my spouse ⁱ is as a garden inclosed, as a spring shut up, and a fountaine sealed up.

¹³ Thy plants ^j are as an orchard of pomegranates with sweet fruits, as camphire, spikenard, ¹⁴ ^k Even spikenard, and saffron, calamus, and cynamon, with all the trees of incense, myrrhe and aloes, with all the chiefe spices.

¹⁵ O fountaine of the gardens, O well of living waters, and the springs of Lebanon, h The Church confesseth that all her glory and beauty cometh of Christ, who is the true fountaine of all grace.

¹⁶ Arise, O ^l North, and come O South, and blow on my garden, that the spices thereof may flow out: let my wellbeloved come to his garden, and eat his pleasant fruit.

i Shee desireth Christ to comfort her, and to powre the graces of his Spirit upon her, which Spirit is meant by the North and South wind.

CHAP. V.

1 Christ calleth his Church to the participation of all his treasures. 2 Shee heareth his voice. 3 Shee confesseth her blemishes. 4 Shee praiseth Christ her husband.

I Am come into my ^a garden, my sister, my spouse: I gathered my myrrhe with my spice: I ate my hony combe with my hony, I dranke my wine with my milke: eate, O friends, drinke, and make you merry, O wellbeloved.

my love, my dove, my undefiled: for mine head is full of dew, and my locks with the drops of the ^c night.

3 I have put off my ^d coat, how shall I put it on? I have washed my feet, how shall I defile them?

4 My welbeloved put in his hand by the hole of the doore, and ^e mine heart was affectioned toward him.

5 I rose up to open to my welbeloved, and mine hands did drop downe myrrhe, and my ^f fingers pure myrrhe upon the handles of the barre.

6 I opened to my welbeloved: but my welbeloved was gone, and past: mine heart was gone when hee did speake: I sought him, but I could not find him: I called him, but he answered mee not.

7 The ^g watchmen that went about the city, found mee, they smote mee, and wounded mee: the watchmen of the wals tooke away my vaile from mee.

8 I charge you, ^h O daughters of Jerusalem, if you find my welbeloved, that you tell him that I am sick of love.

9 ⁱ O the fairest among women, what is thy welbeloved more then another welbeloved? what is thy welbeloved, more then another lover, that thou doest so charge us?

10 My welbeloved is white and ruddy, the chiefeft of ten thousand.

11 His ^j head is as fine gold, his locks curled, and black as a raven.

12 His eyes are like doves upon the rivers of waters, which are washt with milke, and remaine by the full vessels.

13 His cheeks are as a bed of spices, and as sweet flowers, and his lips like lilies dropping downe pure myrrhe.

14 His hands as rings of gold set with the ^k chrysolite, his belly like white ivory covered with saphirs.

15 His legs are as pillars of marble, set upon sockets of fine gold: his countenance as Lebanon, excellent as the cedars.

16 His mouth is as sweet things, and hee is wholly delectable: this is my welbeloved, and this is my lover, O daughters of Jerusalem.

8 But my dove is alone, and my undefiled, shee is the onely daughter of her mother, and shee is deare to her that bare her: the daughters have seene her, and counted her blessed, even the Queenes and the concubines, and they have praised her.

9 ^v Who is shee that looketh forth as the morning, faire as the moone, pure as the sunne, terrible as an army with banners!

10 I went downe to the ^w garden of nuts, to see the fruits of the valley, to see if the vine budded, and if the pomegranates flourished.

11 I ^x knew nothing, my soule set me as the characts of my noble people.

THE ARGUMENT.

Od, according to his promise, Deut. 18. 15. that hee would never leave his Church destitute of a Prophet, hath from time to time accomplished the same: whose office was not onely to declare to the people the things to come, whereof they had a speciall revelation, but also to interpret and declare the Law, and to apply particularly the doctrine contained briefly therein, to the utility and profit of those, to whom they thought it chiefly to appertain, and as the time and state of things required. And principally in the declaration of the Law, they had respect to three things, which were the ground of their doctrine: First, to the doctrine contained briefly in the two tables: secondly, to the promises and threatnings of the Law: and thirdly, to the covenant of grace and reconciliation, grounded upon our Saviour Jesus Christ, who is the end of the Law. Whereunto they neither added nor diminished, but faithfully expounded the sense and meaning thereof. And according as God gave them understanding of things, they applied the promises particularly for the comfort of the Church and the members thereof, and also denounced the menaces against the enemies of the same: not for any care or regard to the enemies, but to assure the Church of their safeguard by the destruction of their enemies. And as touching the doctrine of reconciliation, they have more clearly entreated it then Moses, and set forth more lively Jesus Christ, in whom this covenant of reconciliation was made. In all these things, Isaiah did excell all the Prophets, and was most diligent to set out the same, with most vehement admonitions, reprehensions, and consolations: ever applying the doctrine, as hee saw that the disease of the people required. He declareth also many notable prophecies which he had received of God, as touching the promise of the Messiah, his office and his kingdom. Also of the favour of God toward his Church, the vocation of the Gentiles, and their union with the Jewes, Which are as most principall points contained in this booke, and a gathering of his sermons that he preached: Which after certaine dayes that they had stood upon the Temple doore (for the manner of the Prophets was to set up the summe of their doctrine for certaine dayes, that the people might the better marke it, as Isa. 8. 1. and Hab. 2. 2.) the Priests tooke it downe, and reserved it among their registers: and so by Gods providence, these bookes were preserved as a monument to the Church for ever. As touching his person and time, hee was of the Kings stock (for Amoz his father was brother to Azariah King of Iudah, as the best writers agree) and prophesied more then 64. yeares from the time of Vzziah, unto the raigne of Manasseh, whose father in law hee was (as the Ebrewes write) and of whom he was put to death. And in reading of the Prophets, this one thing among other is to be observed, that they speake of things to come, as though they were now past, because of the certainty thereof, and that they could not but come to passe, because God had ordained them in his secret counsell, and so revealed them to his Prophets.

C H A P. I.

2 Isaiah reproveth the Jewes for their ingratitude and stubbornesse, that neither for benefites nor punishmentes would amend.

11 He sheweth why their sacrifices are rejected, and wherein Gods true service standeth. 24 He prophesieth of the destruction of Ierusalem. 25 And of the restitution thereof.

a That is, a revelation or prophecy, which was one of the two meanes whereby God declared himselfe to his servants in old time, as Numb. 12. 6. and therefore the Prophets were called Seers.

1 Sam. 9. 9. b Isaiah was chiefly sent to Iudah and Ierusalem, but not onely: for in this booke are prophecies concerning other nations also.

c Called also Azariah, 2 King 15. 1. Of these Kings, read 2 King. from Chap. 14. unto Chap. 21. and 2 Chron. from Chap. 25. unto Chap. 33.

d Because men were obstinate & insensible, he calleth to the dumb creatures, which were more prompt to obey Gods word, as Deut. 32. 1.

e Hee declareth his great mercy toward the Jewes, forasmuch as hee chose them above all other nations to be his people and children, as Deut. 10. 15.

f The most brut and dull beasts doe more acknowledge their duty toward their masters, then my people doe toward mee, of whom they have received benefites without compassion. g They were not onely wicked as were their fathers, but utterly corrupt and by their evill example infected others. h That is, him that sanctifieth Israel. i What availeth it to seeke to amend you by punishment, seeing the more I correct you: the more yee rebell? k By naming the chiefe parts of the body, hee signifieth that there was no part of the whole body of the Jewes free from his rods.

Vision ^a of Isaiah the son of Amoz, w^{ch} hee saw ^b concerning Iudah and Ierusalem in the dayes of ^c Vzziah, Iotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, Kings of Iudah.

2 Heare, O ^d heavens, and hearken O earth: for the Lord hath said, I have nourished and brought up ^e children, but they have rebelled against mee.

3 The ^f ox knoweth his owner, and the asse his masters crib: but Israel hath not knowne: my people hath not understood.

4 Ah, sinfull nation, a people laden with iniquity: a ^g seed of the wicked, corrupt children: they have forsaken the Lord: they have provoked the ^h Holy one of Israel to anger: they are gone backward.

5 Wherefore should yee bee ⁱ smitten any more? for yee fall away more and more, the whole ^k head is sick, and the whole heart is heavy.

6 From the ^l sole of the foot unto the head, there is nothing whole therein, but wounds and swelling, and sores full of corruption: they have not beene wrapped, ^m nor bound up, nor molified with oile.

7 Your land is wast: your cities are burnt with fire: strangers devour your land in your presence, and it is desolate like the overthrow ⁿ of strangers.

8 And the daughter of ^o Zion shall remaine like a cottage in a vine-yard, like a lodge in a garden of cucumbers, and like a besieged city.

9 Except the Lord of hostes ^p had reserved unto us, even a small remnant, wee should have beene as ^q Sodome, and should have beene like unto Gomorah.

10 Heare the word of the Lord: O ^r princes of Sodom: hearken unto the Law of our God, O people of Gomorah.

11 What have I to doe with the multitude of your sacrifices, saith the Lord? I am full of the burnt offerings of Rams, and of the fat of fed beasts: and I ^s desire not the blood of bullocks, nor of lambes, nor of goats.

12 When yee come to appeare before mee, who required this of your hands to tread in my courts?

13 Bring no more oblations ^t in vaine: incense is an abomination unto me: I can not suffer your new Moones, nor Sabbathes, nor solemne dayes (in iniquity) nor solemne assemblies.

r Yet that for your vices deserved all to be destroyed, as they of Sodome, saye that God of his mercy reserved a little number, Lament. 3. 23.

s Though God commanded these sacrifices for a time, as aides and exercises of their faith: yet because the people had not faith nor repentance, God detesteth them, as Psal. 50. 13. Jer. 6. 20. Amos 5. 22. Micah 6. 7.

t Without faith and repentance.

^a Your sacrifices offered in the new moons and feasts: hee condemneth hereby hypocrites, which thinke to please God with ceremonies, and they themselves are void of faith and mercie.

^x He sheweth, that where men be given to avarice, deceit, cruelty, and extortion, which is meant by blood, there God will shew his anger, & not accept them, though they seem never so holy, as Chap. 59. 3.

^y By this outward waiting, hee meaneth the Spirit. 11: exhorting the Jewes to repent and amend their lives.

^z This kinde of reasoning by the second Table, the Scriptures use in many places against the hypocrites, who pretend most holiness and religion in word, but when their charity and love toward their brethren should appear, they declare that they have neither faith nor religion.

^a To know if I doe accuse you without a cause.

^b Left sinners should pretend a-ny ignorance Gods pitie, hee onely wisheth them to be pure in heart, and hee will forgive all their sins, were they never so many or great.

^e Given to covetousness and extortion, which he signifieth before by blood, Verse 17.

^f Whatsoever was pure in thee before, is now corrupted, though thou have an outward shew.

^g That is, they maintain the wicked, and the extortioners, and not onely doe not punish them, but are themselves such.

^h When God will shew himselfe mercifull to his Church, hee calleth himselfe, The Holy one of Israel; but when hee hath to doe with his enemies, hee is called Mighty, as against whom no power is able to resist.

ⁱ I will take vengeance of mine adversaries the Jewes, and to satisfy my desire by punishing them. Which thing yet hee doth with a griefe, because of his covenant. ^k Left the faithfull among them should be overcome with this threatening, hee addeth this consolation. ^l It is onely the worke of God to purifie the heart of man, which thing hee doth because of his promise made concerning the salvation of his Church. ^m By justice is meant, Gods faithfull promise, which is the cause of the deliverance of his Church. ⁿ The wicked shall not bee partakers of Gods promise, Psalm 92. 9. ^o The trees and pleasant places, where yee commit idolatry, which was forbidden, Deut. 16. 22.

14 My soul hateth your new Moons, and your appointed feasts: they are a burden unto mee: I am weary to beare them, 15 And when you shall stretch out your hands, I will hide mine eyes from you: and though yee make many prayers, I will not hear: for your hands are full of blood.

16 Wash you, make you cleane: take away the evill of your works from before mine eyes: cease to doe evill.

17 Learne to doe well: seek judgement, relieve the oppressed: judge the fatherlesse, and defend the widow.

18 Come now, and let us reason together, saith the Lord: though your sins were as crimson, they shall bee made white as snow: though they were red like scarlet, they shall be as wooll.

19 If ye consent and obey, ye shall eat the good things of the land.

20 But if ye refuse and be rebellious, yee shall be devoured with the sword: for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it.

21 How is the faithfull city become an harlot? it was full of judgement, and justice lodged therein, but now they are murderers.

22 Thy silver is become dross: thy wine is mixt with water.

23 Thy princes are rebellious and companions of thieves: every one loveth gifts, and followeth after rewards: they judge not the fatherlesse, neither doth the widowes cause come before them.

24 Therefore saith the Lord God of hosts, the Mighty One of Israel, Ah, I will ease mee of mine adversaries, and avenge mee of mine enemies.

25 Then I will turne mine hand upon thee, and burne out thy dross, till it be pure, and take away all thy tinne.

26 And I will restore thy Judges as at the first, and thy counsellors as at the beginning: afterward shalt thou be called a citie of righteousness, and a faithfull city.

27 Zion shall bee redeemed in judgement, and they that returne in her, in justice.

28 And the destruction of the transgressours and of the sinners shall be together, and they that forsake the Lord, shall be consumed.

29 For they shall bee confounded for the oakes, which yee have desired, and ye shall bee ashamed of the gardens, that yee have chosen.

30 For yee shall be as an oake, whose leafe fadeth: and as a garden that hath no water.

31 And the strong shall be as tow, and the maker thereof as a sparke: and they shall both burne together, and none shall quench them.

CHAP. II.

² The Church shall bee restored by Christ, and the Gentiles called. ⁶ The punishment of the rebellious and obstinate.

The word that Isaiah the sonne of Amoz, saw upon Judah and Jerusalem.

2 * It shall be in the last dayes, that the mountaine of the house of the Lord, shall be prepared in the top of the mountains, and shall be exalted above the hills, and all nations shall flow unto it.

3 And many people shall goe, and say, Come, and let us go up to the mountaine of the Lord, and to the house of the God of Jaakob, and he will teach us his wayes, and wee will walke in his paths: for the Law shall goe forth of Zion, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem.

4 And he shall judge among the nations, and rebuke many people: they shall break their swords also into mattocks, and their speares into sithes: nation shall not lift up a sword against nation, neither shall they learne to fight any more.

5 O house of Jaakob, come yee, and let us walke in the light of the Lord.

6 Surely, thou hast forsaken thy people, the house of Jaakob, because they are full of the East manners, and are scorers as the Philistims, and abound with strange children.

7 Their land also was full of silver and gold, and there was none end of their treasures: and their land was full of horses, and their charrets were infinite.

8 Their land also was full of idols: they worshipped the worke of their own hands, which their owne fingers have made.

9 And a man bowed himselfe, and a man humbled himselfe: therefore spare them not.

^h The Lord, which is Christ, shall have all power given him.

ⁱ Hee sheweth the fruit of the peace, which the Gospell should bring: to wit, that men should doe good one to another, whereas before they were enemies.

^k He speaketh not against the use of weapons and lawfull warre, but sheweth how the hearts of the godly shall be affected one toward another: which peace and love doth begin and grow in this life, but shall be perfected when wee are joined with our head Christ Jesus.

CHAP. III.

¹ For the sinne of the people God will take away the wise men and give them foolish princes. 14. The covetousnesse of the governours. 16. The pride of the women.

FOR loe, the Lord God of hostes will take away from Jerusalem and from Judah the ^a stay and the strength: even all the stay of bread, and all the stay of water.

4 And I will appoint ^d children to be their Princes, and babes shall rule over them.

5 The people shall bee ^e oppressed one of another: and every one by his neighbour: the children shall presume against the ancient, and the vile against the honourable.

6 When every one shall ^f take hold of his brother of the house of his father, and say, Thou hast clothing: thou shalt be our prince, and let this fall be under thine hand:

7 In that day he shall ^g sweare, saying, I cannot be an helper: for there is no bread in mine house, nor clothing: therefore make me no prince of the people.

8 Doubtlesse Jerusalem is false, and Judah is false down, because their tongue and workes are against the Lord, to provoke the eyes of his glorie.

9 The ^h triall of their countenance testifieth against them: yea, they declare their sinnes, as Sodome, they hide them not. Woe be unto their soules: for they have rewarded evil unto themselves.

11 Woe be to the wicked, it shall bee evil with him: for the reward of his hands shall bee given him.

12 ^k Children are extortioners of my people, and women have rule over them: O my people, they that leade thee, cause thee to erre, and destroy the way of thy paths.

13 The Lord standeth up to plead, yea, he standeth to judge the people.

14 The Lord shall enter into judgement with the ^l ancients of his people, and the princes thereof: for ye have eaten up the vineyard: the spoile of the poore ^u in your houses.

2 In that day shall the bud of the Lord be beautifull and glorious, and the fruit of the earth shall be excellent and pleasant for them that are escaped of Israel.

3 Then he that shall be left in Zion, and he that shall remaine in Ierusalem, shall be called holy, and every one shall be written among the living in Ierusalem.

4 When the Lord shall wash the filthines of the daughters of Zion, and purge the bood of Ierusalem out of the mids thereof by the spirit of judgement, and by the spirit of burning.

5 And the Lord shall create upon every place of mount Zion, and upon the assemblies thereof, a cloud and smoake by day, and the shining of a flaming fire by night: for upon all the glory shall be a defence.

6 And a covering shall be for a shadow in the day for the heat, and a place of refuge, and a covert for the storme, and for the raine.

CHAP. V.

1 Under the similitude of the vine he describeth the state of the people. 2 Of their quarre. 3 Their drunkenness. 4 Of their captiuitie.

Now will I sing to my beloved a song of my beloved to his vineyard; My beloved had a vineyard in a very fruitfull hill.

2 And hee hedged it, and gathered out the stones of it, and he planted it with the best plants, and he built a towre in the mids thereof, and made a winepresse therein: then hee looked that it should bring forth grapes: but it brought forth wild grapes.

3 Now therefore, O inhabitants of Ierusalem, and men of Iudah, judge, I pray you, betweene me and my vineyard.

4 What could I have done any more to my vineyard that I have not done unto it? why have I looked that it should bring forth grapes, and it bringeth forth wild grapes?

5 And now I will tell you what I will doe to my vineyard: I will take away the hedge thereof, and it shall be eaten up: I will breake the wall thereof, and it shall be troden downe:

6 And I will lay it waste: it shall not be cut, nor digged, but briars and thornes shall grow up: I will also command the clouds that they raine no raine upon it.

7 Surely the vineyard of the Lord of hosts is the house of Israel, and the men of Iudah are his pleasant plant, and hee looked for judgement, but behold oppression: for righteousness, but behold a crying.

8 Woe unto them that joine house to house, and lay field to field, till there be no place, that yee may be placed by your selves in the mids of the earth.

9 This is in mine eares saith the Lord of hosts. Surely many houses shall be desolate, even great and faire without inhabitant.

10 For tenne acres of vines shall yeeld one bath, and the seed of an homer shall yeeld an Ephah.

11 Woe unto them that rise up early to follow drunkenness, and to them that continue untill night, till the wine doe inflame them.

12 And the harpe and viole, timbrel and pipe, and wine are in their feasts: but they regard not the worke of the Lord, neither consider the worke of his hands.

13 Therefore my people is gone into captiuitie, because they had no knowledge, and the glory thereof are men famished, and the multitude thereof is dried up with thirst.

14 Therefore he hath enlarged it self: and hath opened his mouth without measure, and their glory, and their multitude, and their pompe, and he that rejoiceth among them, shall descend into it.

15 And man shall be brought downe, and man shall be humbled, even the eies of the proud shall be humbled.

16 And the Lord of hosts shall be exalted in judgement, and the holy God shall be sanctified in justice.

17 Then shall the lambes feed after their manner, and the strangers shall eate the desolate places of the fat.

18 Woe unto them, that drawe iniquitie with cordes of vanitie, and sinne as with cart-ropes:

19 Which say, Let him make speed: let him hasten his worke, that we may see it:

1 Meaning, that God will not onely punish the women, but their husbands, which have suffered this dissolution, and also the common weale, which have not remedied it.

2 When God shall execute this vengeance, there shall not be one man found to be the head to many women, and they contrary to womanly shamefastness, shall seeke unto men, and offer themselves to any condition. 3 See thou our husband, and let us be called thy wives. 4 For so they thought it to be, without an head and husband. 5 He comforteth the Church in this desolation, which shall spring up like a bud, signifying that Gods graces should be as plentiful toward the faithfull, as though they sprang out of the earth, as Chap. 49. 8. 30 I will take no more care for it: meaning, that hee would take from them his word, and ministers, and all other comforts, & send them contrary plagues. 31 Judgement and righteousness are true fruits of the feare of God, and therefore in the cruell oppressors there is no religion. 32 Of them, that are oppressed. 33 To wit, for the poore to dwell in. 34 I have heard the complaint and cry of the poore. 35 Which containeth about ten portles: so that every acre should but yeelde one portle. 36 Which containeth an hundred portles. 37 An Ephah containeth ten portles, and is in dry things, as much as Bath is in liquors. 38 That spare no paine nor diligence to follow their lusts. 39 Which are never weary of their rioting and excessive pleasures, but use all means to provoke to the same. 40 They regard not the provident care of God over them, nor for what end hee hath created them. 41 That is, shall certainly go, for so the Prophets use to speake, as though the thing which shall come to passe, were done already. 42 Because they would not obey the word of God. 43 Meaning, the grave shall swallow up them that shall die for hunger and thirst, and yet for all this, great destruction it shall never be satiate. 44 God comforteth the poore, lambes of his Church, which had bin strangers in other countries: promising, that they should dwell in those places againe, whereof they had beene deprived by the fat and cruell tyrants. 45 Which use all allurements, occasions, and excuses to harden their conscience in sin. 46 Hee sheweth what are the words of the wicked, when they are menaced with Gods judgements. 47 Pet. 2. 4.

26 And he will lift up a signe ^f unto the nations afarre, and will hiss unto them from the end of the earth: and behold, they shall come hastily with speed.

27 None shall ^g faint nor fall among them: none shall slumber nor sleepe, neither shall the girdle of his loines be loosed, nor ^h the latched of his shooes be broken:

28 Whose arrowes shall be sharpe, and all his bowes bent: his horse hooves shall be thought like flint, and his wheelles like a whirlwind.

29 His roaring shall be like a lion, and hee shall roare like lions whelps: they shall ⁱ roare, and lay hold of the prey: they shall take it away, and none shall deliver it.

30 And in that day they shall roare upon them, as the roaring of the Sea: and if ^k they looke unto the earth, behold darknesse, and sorrow, and the light shall be darkened in their ^l skie.

C H A P. V I.

1 ^m Isaiah sheweth his vocation by the vision of the diuine Majestie. 9 He sheweth the obstinacie of the people. 11 The destruction of the Land. 13 The remnant reserved.

I N the yeare of the death of King Uzziah, ⁿ I saw also the Lord sitting upon

^a God sheweth not himselfe to man in his maiestie, but according as mans capacite is able to comprehend him: that is, by visible signes, as Iohn Baptist saw the holy Ghost in the forme of a dove.

an ^b high throne, and lifted up, and the lower ^c parts thereof filled the Temple.

2 The ^d Seraphims stood upon it: every one had sixe wings: with twaine hee covered his ^e face, and with twaine he covered his ^f feet, and with twaine he did ^g flie.

3 And one cried to another, and said, ^h Holy, holy, holy is the Lord of hostes: the whole ⁱ world is full of his glory.

4 And the lintels of the doore cheekes ^k moved at the voice of him that cried, and the house was filled with smoke.

5 Then I said, ^l Woe is me: for I am undone, because I am a man of polluted lips, and I dwell in the mids of a people of polluted lips: for mine eies have seene the king, and Lord of hostes.

6 Then flew one of the Seraphims unto mee with an hot coale in his hand, which hee had taken from the ^m altar with the tongs:

7 And hee touched my mouth, and said, Lo, this hath touched thy lips, and thine iniquity shall bee taken away, and thy ⁿ sinne shall be purged.

8 Also I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, Whom shall I send? and who shall goe for us? Then I said, Here am I, send me.

9 And he said, Go, and say unto this pople, ^o Ye shall heare indeed, but yee shall not understand: ye shall plainly see, and not perceiue.

10 Make the heart of this people fat, make their eares heauie, and shut their eies, lest they see with their eies, and heare with their eares, and understand with their heart, and convert, and hee heale them.

11 Then said I, Lord, ^p how long? And hee answered, Untill the cities bee wasted without inhabitant, and the houses without man: and the Land be utterly desolate, 12 And the Lord have removed men farre away, and ^q there be a great desolation in the mids of the land.

13 But yet in it shall bee ^r a tenth, and shall returne, and shall bee eaten up as an elme, ^s or as an oke, which have a substance in them, when they cast their leaves: ^t so the holy seed shall bee the substance thereof.

tion, which as they will not learne thereby to obey his will and be saved: hereby he exhorreth the Ministers to doe their duty, and answereth to the wicked murmurers, that through their owne malice their heart is hardened. March. 13. 14. Acts 28. 26. Rom. 11. 8. p. As he was moved with the zeale of Gods glory, so was hee touched with a charitable affection toward the people. q. Meaning, the tenth part: or as some write, it was revealed to Isaiah for the confirmation of his Prophesie, that remie King should come before their captiuitie, as were from Uziah to Zedekiah. r. For the fewnesse they shall seeme to bee euen up: yet they shall after flourish as a tree, which in winter loseth his leaves, and seemeth to bee dead, yet in Summer is fresh and greene.

^a Which are not ashamed of sinne, nor care for honesty, but are growne to desperate impiety.

^b Which are cōtemners of all doctrine and admonition.

^c Which are neuer weary, but shew their strength and bring in glory and drunkennesse.

^d Both they and their posterity, so that nothing shall be left.

^e Hee sheweth, that God had so sore punished this people, that the dumbe creatures, if they had beene so plagued, would have beene more sensible, & therefore his plagues must continue, till they beginne to feele them.

^f Hee will make the Babylonians to come against them at his beck, and to fight under his standard.

^g They shall bee prompt and lusty to execute Gods vengeance.

^h The enimie shall have none impediment.

ⁱ Whereby is declared the cruelty of the enimie.

^k The Iewes shall finde no succour.

^l In the land of Judah.

^b As a Iudge ready to give sentence.

^c Of his garment, or of his throne.

^d They were Angels, so called, because they were of a fiery colour, to signifie that they burnt in the love of God, or were light as fire to execute his will.

^e Signifying, that they were not able to endure the brightness of Gods glory.

^f Whereby was declared, that man was not able to see the brightness of God in them.

^g Which thing declared the prompt obedience of the Angels to execute Gods commandment.

^h This oft repetition signifieth, that the holy Angels cannot easily be themselves in praising God: to teach us, that in all our lives wee should give our selves to the continual praise of God.

ⁱ His glory doth not onely appere in the heauen, but through all the world, and therefore all creatures are bound to praise him.

^k Which thing were to confirme the Prophet, that it was not the voice of man: and by the smoke was signified the blindness that should come upon the Iewes.

^l Hee speaketh this for two causes: the one, because hee that was a mortall creature, and therefore had more need to glorifie God than the Angels: did it not: and the other, because shee more neere than man approacheth to God, shee more doth hee know his owne sinne & corruption.

^m Of the burnt offerings, where the fire neuer went out.

ⁿ This declared, that man cannot render true obedience to God: till hee have purged us.

^o Whereby is declared, that for the malice of man, God will not immediately take away his word, but hee will cause it to bee preached to their condemnation.

CHAP. VII.

1 Jerusalem besieged. 4 Isaiah comforteth the King. 14 Christ is promised.

AND in the daies of * Ahaz the sonne of Jotham, the sonne of Vzziah king of Judah, Rezin the king of † Aram * came up, and Pekah the sonne of Remaliah king of Israel, to Jerusalem to fight against it, but hee could not overcome it.

2 And it was told the house of ^b David, saying, Aram is joined with ^c Ephraim: therefore his heart was ^d mooved, and the heart of his people, as the trees of the forest are moved by the winde.

3 ¶ Then said the Lord unto Isaiah, Goe forth now to meet Ahaz (thou and ^e Shear-jashub thy sonne) at the end of the conduit of the upper poole, in the path of the fullers field,

4 And say unto him, Take heede, and be still: feare not, neither be faint hearted for the two taitles of these smoaking ^f fire-brands, for the furious wrath of Rezin and of Aram, and of Remaliahs son:

5 Because Aram have taken wicked counsell against thee, and Ephraim, and Remaliahs sonne, saying,

6 Let us goe up against Judah, and let us waken them up, and make a breach therein for us, and set a king in the middes thereof, ^g even the sonne of ^h Tabeal.

7 Thus saith the Lord God, It shall not stand, neither shall it be.

8 For the head of Aram ⁱ is Damascus, and the head of Damascus ^j is Rezin: and within five and ^k threescore yeare, Ephraim shall bee destroyed from being a people.

9 And the head of Ephraim ^l is Samaria, and the head of Samaria ^m is Remaliahs sonne. If yee beleeve not, surely yee shall not be established.

10 ¶ And the Lord spake againe unto Ahaz, saying,

11 Aske ⁿ a signe for thee of the Lord thy God: aske it, ^o either in the depth beneath, or in the height above.

12 But Ahaz said, I will not aske, neither will I ^p tempt the Lord.

13 Then hee said, Heare yee now, O house of David, is it a small thing for you to grieve ^q men, that yee will also grieve my God?

14 Therefore the Lord ^r himselfe will give you a signe. Behold, the virgin shall conceive and beare a sonne, and shall call his name ^s Immanuel.

15 ^t Butter and honey shall he eat, till he have knowledge to refuse the evill, and to chuse the good.

16 For afore the ^u childe shall have knowledge to eschew the evill, and to chuse the good, the land that thou abhorrest, shall be forsaken of both her Kings.

17 The Lord shall bring upon thee, and upon thy people, and upon thy fathers house, the daies that have not come from the day that Ephraim departed from Judah, ^v even the King of ^w Ashtur.

18 And in that day, shall the Lord blisse for the ^x flie that is at the uttermost part of the floods of Egypt, and for the Bee which is in the land of Ashtur, 19 And they shall come and shall fight all in the desolate valleys, and in the holes of the rockes, and upon all thorny places, and upon all bushie ^y places.

20 In that day shall the Lord have with a rasour that is hired, ^z even by them beyond the River, by the king of Ashtur, the head and the haire of the ^{aa} feet, and shall consume the beard.

21 And in the same day shall a man ^{ab} nourish a young Cow, and two sheepe.

22 And for the ^{ac} abundance of milke, that they shall give, he shall eat butter: for butter and hony shall every one eat, which is left within the land.

23 And at the same day, every place, wherein shall be a thousand vines, shall be at a thousand ^{ad} pieces of silver: so it shall be for the briers and for the thornes.

24 With arrowes and with ^{ae} bow shall one come thither, because all the land shall be briers and thornes.

25 But on ^{af} all the mountaines, which shall be digged with the mattocke, there shall not come thither the feare of briers and thornes: but they shall bee for the sending out of bullockes, and for the treading of sheepe.

CHAP. VIII.

2 The captivitie of Israel and Judah by the Assyrians. 6 The insideliene of the Iewes. 9 The destruction of the Assyrians. 14 Christ the stone of stumbling to the wicked. 19 The word of God must be inquired at.

MOREOVER, the Lord said unto mee, Take thee a ^{ag} great roll, and write in it ^{ah} with a mans pen, Make speed to the spoile: haste to the prey.

2 Then I tooke unto mee ^{ai} faithfull witnesses to record, Uriah the Priest, and Zechariah the sonne of Jeberechiah.

3 After, I came unto the ^{aj} Prophetesse, which conceived and bare a sonne. Then said the Lord to me, Call his name, ^{ak} Maher-shalal-haz.

4 For before the ^{al} childe shall have knowledge to cry, My father, and my mother, ^{am} hee shall take away the riches of Damascus, and the spoile of Samaria, before the King of Ashtur.

5 ¶ And the Lord spake yet againe unto me, saying, child be able to speake. ^{an} That is, the army of Assyria.

g which was a fountaine at the foot of mount Zion, out of the which ran a small river thorow the city: meaning that they of Iudah distrust their own power, which was small, desired such power and riches, as they saw in Syria and Israel.

h That is, the Assyrians, which dwell beyond Euphrates.

i It shall be ready to drowne them.

k He speaketh this to Messiah, or Christ, in whom the faithfull were comforted, and who would not suffer his Church to be destroyed utterly.

l To wit, yet that are enemies to the Church, as the Assyrians, Egyptians, Syrians, &c.

m To encourage me, that I should not shrink for the infidelitie of this people, and so neglect mine office.

n Consent not ye that are godly to the league and friendship, that this people seeke with strangers and idolaters.

o Meaning, that they should not feare the thing that they feared, which have no hope in God.

p In putting your trust onely in him, in calling upon him in adversity, patiently looking for his helpe, and fearing to doe any thing contrary to his will.

q Hee will defend you which are his elect, and reject all the rest, which is meant of Christ, against whom the Iewes should humble and fall.

r Luke 2.34. Rom. 9.33.

s Though all forsake me, yet ye that are mine, keepe my words sure sealed in your hearts.

t Meaning, them that were willing to heare and obey the word of God whom the world thirged, as though they were monsters and not worthy to live.

u This was a consolation in their troubles, knowing that nothing could come unto them, but by the will of the Lord.

6 Because this people hath refused the waters of Shiloah that runne softly, & rejoyce with Rezin, & the son of Remaliah.

7 Now therefore, behold, the Lord bringeth up upon them the waters of the River mightie and great, even the King of Asshur with all his glorie, and hee shall come up upon all their rivers, and goe over all their banks.

8 And shall breake in unto Iudah, and shall over-flow and passe through, and shall come up to the necke, and the stretching out of his wings shall fill the breadth of thy land, O Immanuel.

9 Gather together on heapes, O yee people, and ye shall be broken in pieces, and hearken all ye of farre countries: gird your selves, and you shall bee broken in pieces: gird your selves and you shall be broken in pieces.

10 Take counsell together, yet it shall be brought to nought: pronounce a decree, yet it shall not stand: for God is with us.

11 For the Lord spake thus to mee in taking of mine hand, and taught me, that I should not walke in the way of this people, saying,

12 Say ye not, A confederacie to all them, to whom this people saith a confederacie, neither feare you their feare, nor be afraid of them.

13 Sanctifie the Lord of hostes, and let him be your feare, and let him be your dread.

14 And he shall be as a Sanctuarie: but as a stumbling stone, and as a rocke to fall upon, to both the houses of Israel, and as a snare, and as a net to the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

15 And many among them shall stumble, and shall fall, and shall be broken, and shall be snared, and shall be taken.

16 Binde up the testimonie: seale up the Law among my disciples.

17 Therefore I will waite upon the Lord that hath hid his face from the house of Iacob, and I will look for him.

18 Behold, I and the children whom the Lord hath given me, are as signes and as wonders in Israel, by the Lord of hostes, which dwelleth in mount Zion.

19 And when they shall say unto you, Enquire at them that have a spirit of divination, and at the sooth-sayers which whisper and murmur, Should not a people enquire at their God? from the living to the dead?

20 To the Law, and to the testimonie, if they speake not according to this word: it is because there is no light in them.

21 Then he that is afflicted and famished, shall goe to and fro in it: and when he shall be hungry, he shall even fret himselfe, and curse his King and his gods, and shall looke upward.

22 And when hee shall looke to the earth, behold trouble, and darknesse, vexation and anguish, and he is driven to darknesse.

CHAP. IX.

1 The vocation of the Gentiles. 6 A prophesie of Christ.

14 The destruction of the ten Tribes for their pride and contempt of God.

Y Et the darknesse shall not be according to the affliction, that it had when at the first hee touched lightly the land of Zebulun and the land of Naphthali, nor afterward when hee was more grievous by the way of the sea beyond Jordan in Galilee of the Gentiles.

2 The people that walked in darknesse, have seene a great light: they that dwelled in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined.

3 Thou hast multiplied the nation, and not increased their joy: they have rejoiced before thee according to the joy in harvest, and as men rejoyce when they divide a spoile.

4 For the yoke of their burthen, and the staffe of their shoulder, and the rodde of their oppressour hast thou broken, as in the day of Midian.

5 Surely every battle of the warriour is with noise, and with tumbling of garments in blood, but this shall bee with burning and devouring of fire.

6 For unto us a childe is borne, and unto us a Sonne is given: and the government is upon his shoulder, and hee shall call his Name Wonderfull, Counsellor, The mightie God, The everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace.

7 The increase of his government and peace shall have none end, he shall sit upon the throne of David, and upon his kingdome to order it, and to stablish it with judgement and with justice, from henceforth, even for ever: the zeale of the Lord of hostes will performe this.

8 The Lord hath sent a word into Iacob, and it hath lighted upon Israel.

9 And all the people shall know, even Ephraim, and the inhabitant of Samaria, that say in the pride and presumption of the heart,

10 The bricke are false, but wee of whom he prophesieth in the next verse. k The curthour of eternity, and by whom the Church and every member thereof shall be preserved for ever, and have immortal life.

l His singular love and care for his elect. m This is another prophesie against them of Samaria, which were mockers, and contempters of Gods promises and menaces. n We were but weak, when the enemy overcame us, but we will make our selves so strong that we will neither care for our enemies, nor feare Gods thirnings.

f Wherewith Israel was punished, first by Tiglath Philser, which was a light scourge, in respect of that which they suffered afterward by Salmanneser, who carried the Israelites away captives.

g Whereas the Iewes and Gentiles dwell together by reason of those 20 cities, which Salomon gave to Hiram.

h Which were captive in Babylon: and the prophet speaketh of that thing which should come to passe 60. years after, as though it were now done.

i Meaning, the comfort of their deliverance.

j This captivite and deliverance were figures of our captivite by sin, & of our deliverance by Christ through the preaching of the Gospel. Math. 4.13.

k Their number was greater when they went into captivite; then when they returned: but their joy was greater at their returne.

l Hagge. 2.10.

m Thou givest them perfect joy, by delivering them, and by destroying the tyrants, which had kept them in cruel bondage, as thou diddest deliver them by Gideon from the Medianites, Judg. 7.22.

n He speaketh of the deliverance of his Church, which he hath delivered miraculously from his enemies, but specially by the coming of Christ.

o The curthour of eternity, and by whom the Church and every member thereof shall be preserved for ever, and have immortal life.

will build it with hewen stones: the wilde figge-trees are cut downe, but wee will change them into Cedars.

11 Nevertheless the Lord will raise up the adversaries of ° Rezin against him, and joine his enemies together.

12 Aram before, and the Philistims behinde, and they shall devoure Israel with open mouth: yet for all this, his wrath is not turned away, but his hand is stretched out still.

13 For the people turneth not unto him that smiteth them, neither doe they seek the Lord of hostes.

14 Therefore will the Lord cut off from Israel head and taile, branch and rush in one day.

15 The ancient and the honourable man, he is the head: and the Prophet that teacheth lies, he is the taile.

16 For the leaders of the people cause them to erre: and they that are led by them, are devoured.

17 Therefore shall the Lord have no pleasure in their young men, neither will hee have compassion of their fatherlesse and of their widowes: for every one is an hypocrite and wicked, and every mouth speaketh follie: yet for all this his wrath is not turned away, but his hand is stretched out still.

18 For wickednesse burneth as a fire: it devoureth the briars and thornes, and will kindle in the thicke places of the forest: and they shall mount up like the lifting up of smoke.

19 By the wrath of the Lord of hostes shall the land be darkened, and the people shall be as the meate of the fire: no man shall spare his brother.

20 And hee shall snatch at the right hand, and be hungrie: and he shall eate on the left hand, and shall not be satisfied: everie one shall eate the flesh of his owne arme.

21 Manasseh, Ephraim: and Ephraim Manasseh, and they both shall be against Judah: yet for all this his wrath is not turned away, but his hand is stretched out still.

CHAP. X.

1 Of wicked law-makers. 5 God will punish his people by the Assyrians, and after destroy them. 21 The remnant of Israel shall be saved.

WOE unto them that decree wicked decrees, and write grievous things,

2 To keepe backe the poore from judgement, and to take away the judgement of the poore of my people, that widowes may be their prey, and that they may spoile the fatherlesse.

3 What will ye doe now in the day of visitation, and of destruction, which shall come from farre? to whom will ye flee for helpe? and where will ye leave your glorie?

4 Without mee everie one shall fall among them that are bound, and they shall fall downe among the slaine: yet for all this his wrath is not turned away, but his hand is stretched out still.

5 O Ashur, the rod of my wrath: and the staffe in their hands is mine indignation.

6 I will send him to a dissembling nation, and I will give him a charge against the people of my wrath to take the spoile, and to take the prey, and to tread them under feet like the mire in the street.

7 But he thinketh not so, neither doth his heart esteeme it so: but he imagineth to destroy & to cut off not a few nations.

8 For he saith, Are not my princes altogether Kings?

9 Is not Calno as Carchemish? Is not Hamath like Arpad? Is not Samaria as Damascus?

10 Like as mine hand hath found the kingdomes of the idoles, seeing their idoles were above Jerusalem, and above Samaria:

11 Shall not I, as I have done to Samaria, and to the idoles thereof, so doe to Jerusalem, and the idoles thereof?

12 But when the Lord hath accomplished all his worke upon mount Zion and Jerusalem, I will visite the fruit of the proud heart of the King Ashur, and his glorious and proud lookes.

13 Because he said, By the power of mine owne hand have I done it, and by my wisdom, because I am wise: therefore I have removed the borders of the people, and have spoiled their treasures, and have pulled downe the inhabitants like a valiant man.

14 And mine hand hath found as a nest the riches of the people, and as one gathereth egges that are left, so have I gathered all the earth: and there was none to move the wing, or to open the mouth, or to whisper.

15 Shall the axe boast it selfe against him that heweth therewith? Or shall the sawe exalt it selfe against him that moveth it? as if the rod should lift up it selfe against him that taketh it up, or the staffe should exalt it selfe, as it were no wood.

16 Therefore shall the Lord God of hostes send among his fat men, leanness, and under his glory he shall kindle a burning, like the burning of fire.

17 And the light of Israel shall be as a fire, and the holy One thereof as a flame, and it shall burne, and devoure b To wit, from Assyria.

c Your riches and authoritie, that they may be safe, & that ye may receive them againe. d Because they have forsaken me, some shall goe in to captivitie, and the rest shall bee slaine.

e God calleth for the Assyrians to see the executioners of his vengeance.

f That is the Assyrians against the Jewes, which are but hypocrites: and in this sixt and seventh verse is declared the difference of the worke of God, and of the wicked in one very thing, and act: for Gods intention is to chastise them for their amendment, and the Assyrians purpose to destroy them to enrich themselves: thus in respect of Gods justice, it is Gods worke, but in respect of their owne malice, it is the worke of the devill.

g Seeing that I have overcome as well one citie as another, so that none could resist, shall Jerusalem be able to escape mine hands?

h When hee hath sufficiently chastised his people, (for he beginneth at his own house) then will he burne the rodde.

i Meaning, of Senecherib.

k Here wee see that no creature is able to doe any thing, but as God appointeth him, and that they are all but his instruments to doe his work, though the intentions bee divers, as verse 6.

l Meaning, that God is a light to comfort his people, and a fire to burn his enemies.

^m That is, the Assyrians.

ⁿ To wit, bodie and soule utterly.
^o When the batel is lost, and the standard taken.

^p This is the end of Gods plagues towards his, to bring them to him, and to forsake all trust in others.

^q This small number, which seemed to be consumed, and yet according to Gods decree is saved, shall be sufficient to fill all the world with righteousness.

^r God will destroy this land as he hath determined, and after save a small portion.

^s As the Egyptians did punish thee.

^t Reads Chap. 9. 4.

^v When the Israelites passed through by the lifting up of Moses rod, and the enemies were drowned, Exod. 14. 28.

^x Because of the promise made to that kingdome, whereby Christs kingdome was prefigured.

^y Hee describeth by what way the Assyrians should come against Jerusalem, to confirm the faithfull, when it should come to passe, that as their plague was come, so should they be delivered.

^z Feare and destruction shall come upon Judah, for the princes and people shall be led away captives.

^m his thornes and his briers in one day :

18 And shall consume the glorie of his forest, and of his fruitfull fields both souleⁿ and flesh : and he shall bee as the^o fainting of a standard-bearer.

19 And the rest of the trees of his forest shall be few, that a childe may tell them.

20 ¶ And at that day shall the remnant of Israel, and such as are escaped of the house of Jaakob, stay no more upon him that smote them, but shall^p stay upon the Lord, the Holy One of Israel in truth.

21 The remnant shall returne, even the remnant of Jaakob unto the mightie God.

22 For though thy people, O Israel, be as the sand of the sea, yet shall the remnant of them returne. The consumption^q decreed shall overflow with righteousness.

23 For the Lord God of hostes shall make the consumption, even ^r determined in the mids of all the land.

24 Therefore thus saith the Lord God of hostes, O my people, that dwellest in Zion, bee not afraid of Asshur : hee shall smite thee with a rod, and shall lift up his staffe against thee after the manner^s of Egypt :

25 But yet a very little time, and the wrath shall be consumed, and mine anger in their destruction.

26 And the Lord of hostes shall raise up a scourge for him, according to the plague of^t Midian in the rocke Oreb : and as his staffe was upon the^v sea, so he will lift it up after the manner of Egypt.

27 And at that day shall his burden be taken away from off thy shoulder, and his yoke from off thy necke : and the yoke shall be destroyed, because of^x the anointing.

28 He is come^y to Aiath : he is passed into Migron : at Mickmash shall he lay up his armour.

29 They have gone over the foord : they lodged in the lodging at Geva : Ramah is afraid : Gibeah of Saul is fled away.

30 Lift up thy voice, O daughter Galilim, cause Laish to heare, O poore Anathoth.

31 Madmenah is removed : the inhabitants of Gebim have gathered themselves together.

32 Yet there is a time that hee will stay at Nob : hee shall lift up his hand toward the mount of the daughter Zion, the hill of Jerusalem.

33 Behold the Lord God of hostes shall cut off the^z bough with feare : and they of high stature shall bee cut off, and the high shall be humbled.

34 And he shall cut away the thicke places of the forest with iron, and Lebanon shall have a mightie fall.

CHAP. XI.

¹ Christ borne of the roote of Ishai. ² His vertues and kingdome. ⁶ The fruits of the Gospell. ¹⁰ The calling of the Gentiles.

BUT there shall come a^a rodde forth of the stocke of Ishai, and a grasse shall grow out of his rootes.

2 And the Spirit of the Lord shall rest upon him : the Spirit of wisdom and understanding, the Spirit of counsell and strength, the spirit of knowledge, and of the feare of the Lord,

3 And shall make him prudent in the feare of the Lord : for he shall not judge after the sight of his eies, neither reprove by the hearing of his eares,

4 But with righteousness shall hee judge the poore, and with equitie shall hee reprove, for the meeke of the earth : and he shall^b smite the earth with the rod of his mouth, and with the breath of his lips shall he slay the wicked.

5 And justice shall bee the girdle of his loines, and faithfulness the girdle of his reines.

6 The^c wolfe shall also dwell with the lambe, and the Leopard shall lie with the kidde, and the calfe, and the lion, and the fat beast together, and the little childe shall leade them.

7 And the Cow and the Beare shall feed : their young ones shall lie together : and the lion shall eate straw like the Bullocke.

8 And the sucking childe shall play upon the hole of the Aspe, and the wained childe shall put his hand upon the cockatrice hole.

9 Then shall none hurt nor destroy in all the mountaine of mine holiness : for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as^d the waters that cover the sea.

10 And in that day the root of Ishai, which shall stand up for a signe unto the^e people, the nations shall seeke unto it, and his^f rest shall be glorious.

11 And in the same day shall the Lord stretch out his hand^g against the second time, to possesse the remnant of his people, (which shall be left) of Asshur, and of Egypt, and of Pathros, and of Ethiopia, and of Flam, and of Shinear, and of Hamath, and of the Isles of the Sea.

12 And he shall set up a signe to the nations, and assemble the dispersed of Israel, and gather the scattered of Judah from the foure corners of the world.

13 The hatred also of Ephraim shall depart,

^a Because the captivity of Babylon was a figure of the spirituall captivity under sin, hee sheweth that our true deliverance must come by Christ : for as David came out of Ishai, a man without dignity : so Christ should come of a poore carpenters house, as out of a dead stock, Chap. 13. 2.

^b All these prophecies can agree to none but only unto Christ, for it is he that toucheth the hearts of the faithful, and mortifieth their concupiscences : and to the wicked he is the sword of death, and to them that shall perish : so that all the world shall be smitten with this rod, which is his word.

^c Men, because of their wicked affections, are named by the names of beasts, wherein the like affections reignes : but Christ by his Spirit shall reforme them, and worke in them such inward charities, that they shall be like lambs, favouring and loving one another, and cast off all their cruel affections, Chap. 13. 25.

^d It shall bee in as great abundance as the waters in the Sea.

^e He prophesieth of the calling of the Gentiles.

^f That is, the Church, which he also calleth his rest. Psal. 132. 14.

^g For God first delivered his people out of Egypt, and now promitteth to deliver them out of their enemies hands, as from the Partians, Persians, Caldeans, and them of Antiochia : among whom they were dispersed : and this is chiefly meant of Christ, who calleth his people being dispersed through all the world.

depart, and the adversaries of Judah shall be cut off: Ephraim shall not envie^b Judah, neither shall Judah vex^b Ephraim:

14 But they shall flee upon the shoulders of the Philistims toward the West: they shall spoile them of the East together: Edom and Moab shall bee the stretching out of their hands, and the children of Ammon in their obedience.

15 The Lord also shall utterly destroy theⁱ tongue of the Egyptian sea, and with his mightie winde shall lift up his hand^k over the river, and shall smite him in his seven streames, and cause men to walke therein with shooes.

16 And there shall bee a path to the remnant of his people, which are left of Ashur, like as it was unto Israel in the day that hee came up out of the land of Egypt.

CHAP. XII.

A thanksgiving of the faithfull, for the mercies of God.

AND thou^a shalt say in that day, O Lord, I will praise thee: though thou wast angrie with me, thy wrath is turned away, and thou comfortest me.

2 Behold, God is my^b salvation: I will trust, and will not feare: for the Lord God is^c my strength and song: he also is become my salvation.

3 Therefore with joy shall ye^c draw waters out of the wells of salvation.

4 And yee shall say in that day, * Praise the Lord: call upon his Name: declare his workes among the people: make mention of them, for his Name is exalted.

5 Sing unto the Lord, for hee hath done excellent things: this is knowie in all the world.

6 Crie out, and shout, O inhabitant of Zion: for great is the holy One of Israel in the mids of thee.

CHAP. XIII.

The Medes and Persians shall destroy Babylon.

THE^a burden of Babel, which Isaiah the sonne of Amoz did see.

2 Lift up a standard upon the high mountaine, lift up the voice unto them: wagge the^b hand, that they may goe into the gates of the nobles.

3 I have commanded them, that I have^c sanctified: and I have called the mightie to my wrath, and them that rejoyce in my^d glorie.

4 The noise of a multitude^e in the mountaines, like a great people: a tumultuous voice of the kingdomes of the nations gathered together: the Lord of hostes numbeth the hoste of the bartell.

5 They come from asfarre Countrey, from the end of the heaven: even the Lord with the^f weapons of his wrath to destroy the whole land.

6 Howle^g you, for the day of the Lord is at hand: it shall come as a destroyer from the Almighty.

7 Therefore shall all hands be weakened, and all mens hearts shall melt.

8 And they shall bee afraid, anguish and sorrow shall take them, and they shall have paine, as a woman that travaileth: every one shall be amazed at his neighbour, and their faces shall be like^h flames of fire.

9 Behold, the day of the Lord cometh cruell, with wrath and fierce anger, to lay the land waste: and he shall destroy the sinners out of it.

10 For theⁱ starres of heaven, and the planets thereof shall not give their light: the Sunne shall be darkened in his going forth, and the Moone shall not cause her light to shine.

11 And I will visite the wickednesse upon the^j world, and their iniquitie upon the wicked, and I will cause the arrogancie of the^k proud to cease, and will cast downe the pride of tyrants.

12 I will make a^l man more precious then fine gold, even a man above the wedge of gold of Ophir.

13 Therefore I will shake the heavens, and the earth shall remove out of her place in the wrath of the Lord of hostes, and in the day of his fierce anger.

14 And it^m shall be as a chased Doe, and as a sheepe that no man taketh up, everie man shall turne to his owne people, and flee each one to his own land.

15 Every one that is found, shall bee stricken through, and whosoever joineth himselfe, shall fall by the sword.

16 * Theirⁿ children also shall be broken in pieces before their eyes: their houses shall be spoiled, and their wives ravished.

17 Behold, I will stirre up the Medes against them, which shall not regard silver, nor be desirous of gold.

18 With bowes also shall they destroy the children, and shall have no compassion upon the fruit of the wombe, and their eyes shall not spare the children.

19 And Babel the glorie of kingdomes, the beautie and pride of the Chaldeans, shall be as the destruction of God^o in Sodome and Gomorah.

20 It shall not be inhabited for ever, neither shall it be dwelled in, from generation to generation: neither shall the Arabian pitch his tents there, neither shall

^a Here hee describeth the content that shall bee in his Church, and their victorie against their enemies.

^b Meaning a corner of the sea, that encreth into the head, and hath the form of a tongue. ^c To wit, Nilus, the great river of Egypt, which encreth into the Sea with severall streams.

^a Hee sheweth, how the Church shall praise God, when they are delivered from their captivitie.

^b Our salvation standeth onely in God, who giveth us an assured confidence, constancie, and occasion to praise him for the time.

^c Exod. 15. 2. Psal. 118. 14. ^d The graces of God shall bee so abundant, that ye may receive them in as great plenty, as waters out of a fountain that is full.

^d You that are of the Church.

^a That is: the great calamitie, which was prophesied to come on Babel, as a most grievous burden which they were not able to beare. In these twelve Chapters following he speaketh of the plagues wherewith God would smite these strange nations, (who they knew) to declare that God chastised the living, as his children and these other as his enemies: and also, that if God spare not these that are ignorant, that they must not thinke strange, if hee punished them, which have knowledge of his Law and keepe it not. ^b To wit, the Medes, and the Persians. ^c That is, prepared and appointed to execute my judgements. ^d Which willingly goe about the worke wherunto I appoint them, but how the wicked doe this, reade Chap. 18. 6.

^e The Armie of Medes and the Persians against Babylon. ^f The Babylonians.

^g The Babylonians anger, and griefe shall bee so much, that their faces shall burne as fire.

^h They that are overcome, shall thinke that all the powers of heaven and earth are against them. Ezekiel 32. 7. Joel 3. 15. Matth. 24. 29.

ⁱ Hee compareth Babylon to the whole world, because they so esteemed themselves by reason of their great Empire.

^j He noteth the principall vice, wherunto they are most given, as are all that abound in wealth. ^k Hee noteth the great slaughter that shall be, seeing the enemies shall neither for gold, or silver, spare a mans life, as verse 17. ^l Meaning, the power of Babylon, with their hired fouldiers.

^m 7. 137. 9. ⁿ This was not accomplished when Cyrus took Babylon: but after the death of Alexander the Great.

^o Gen. 19. 24. Jerem. 50. 40.

^p Who wish to goe from countrey to countrey: to finde pasture for their beasts, but there shall they finde none.

the shepherds make their folds there.

21 But ^p Zim shall lodge there, and their houses shall be full of Ohim: Ostiches shall dwell there, and the Satyrs shall dance there.

22 And Jim shall cry in their palaces, and Dragons in their pleasant palaces: and the time thereof is readie to come, and the daies thereof shall not bee prolonged.

CHAP. XIV.

¹ The returne of the people from captivitie. ⁴ The derision of the King of Babylon. ¹¹ The death of the King. ²⁹ The destruction of the Philistims.

FOR ^a the Lord will have compassion of Jaakob, and will yet chuse Israel, and cause them to rest in their owne land: and the stranger ^b shall joine himselfe unto them, and they shall cleave to the house of Jaakob.

2 And the people shall receive them and bring them to their owne place, and the house of Israel shall possesse them in the land of the Lord, for ^c servants and handmaids: and they shall take them prisoners, whose captives they were, and have rule over their oppressours.

3 ¶ And in that day when the Lord shall give thee rest from thy sorrow, and from thy feare, and from the fore bondage wherein thou diddest serve,

4 Then shalt thou take up this proverbe against the King of Babel, and say, How hath the oppressour ceased? and the gold-thirstie Babel rested?

5 The Lord hath broken the rodde of the wicked, and the scepter of the rulers:

6 Which smote the people in anger with a continuall plague, and ruled the nations in wrath: if any were persecuted, he did ^d not let.

7 The whole world is at ^e rest and is quiet: they sing for joy.

8 Also the firre-trees rejoiced of thee: and the cedars of Lebanon, saying, Since thou art laid down, no hewer came up against us.

9 Hell beneath is moved for thee, to ^f meet thee at thy coming, raising up the dead for thee, even all the princes of the earth, and hath raised from their thrones all the kings of the nations.

10 All they shall crie and say unto thee, Art thou become weake also as we were? art thou become like unto us?

11 Thy pompe is brought downe to the grave, and the sound of thy viols: the worme ^g is spread under thee, and the wormes cover thee.

12 How art thou false from heaven, O ^h Lucifer, sonne of the morning? and cut downe to the ground, which diddest cast lots upon the nations?

13 Yet thou saidest in thine heart, I will ascend into heaven, and exalt my throne above beside the starres of God: I will sit also upon the mount of the Congregation, in the sides of the ⁱ North.

14 I will ascend above the height of the clouds, and I will be like the most high.

15 But thou shalt bee brought downe to the grave, to the sides of the pit.

16 They that see thee, shall ^k looke upon thee, and consider thee, saying, Is this the man that made the earth to tremble, and that did shake the kingdomes?

17 He made the world as a wildernes, and destroyed the cities thereof, and opened not ^l the house of his prisoners.

18 All the Kings of the nations, even they all sleepe in glorie, everie one in his owne house.

19 But thou art ^m cast out of thy grave like an abominable branch: like the raiment of those that are slaine, and thrust thorow with a sword, which goe downe to the stones of the pit, as a carkeise troden under feet.

20 Thou shalt not be joined with them in the grave, because thou hast destroyed thine owne land, and slaine thy people: the seed of the wicked shall not bee renowned for ever.

21 ⁿ Prepare a slaughter for his children, for the iniquitie of their fathers: let them not rise up nor possesse the land, nor fill the face of the world with enemies.

22 ¶ For I will rise up against them (saith the Lord of hostes) and will cut off from Babel the name and the remnant, and the sonne, and the nephew, saith the Lord:

23 And I will make it a possession to the hedge-hog, and pooles of water, and I will sweepe it with the besome of destruction, saith the Lord of hostes.

24 The Lord of hostes hath sworne, saying, Surely, like as I have purposed, so shall it come to passe, and as I have consulted, it shall stand:

25 ^o That I will breake to pieces Asshur in my land, and upon my mountains will I tread him under foot: so that his yoke shall depart from ^p them, and his burthen shall bee taken from off their shoulder.

26 This is the counsell that is consulted upon the whole world, and this is the hand stretched out over all the nations.

27 Because the Lord of hostes hath determined it, and who shall disannull it? and his hand is stretched out, and who shall turne it away?

28 ¶ In the yeare that King Ahaz died, was this ^q burthen.

29 Rejoice

^p Which were either wilde beasts, or fowles, or wicked spirits, whereby Satan deluded man, as by the faeries, goblins, are such like fantasies.

^a Hee sheweth, why God will haste to destroy his enemies; to wit, because hee will deliver his Church. ^b Meaning, that the Gentiles shall be joined with the Church, and worship God.

^c Signifying, that the Jewes should be superiours to the Gentiles, and that they should be brought under the service of Christ, by the preaching of the Apostles, whereby all are brought to the subjection of Christ. 2 Cor. 10. 5.

^d That is, he suffered all violence and injuries to be done.

^e Meaning, that when tyrants reigne, there can bee no rest nor quietnesse, and also how detestable a thing tyrannie is, seeing the insensible creatures have occasion to rejoyce at their destruction.

^f As though they feared, lest thou shouldst trouble the dead, as thou diddest the living, and here he denieth the proud tyrannie of the wicked, which know not that all creatures wish their destruction, that they may rejoyce.

^g In stead of thy costly carpets and coverings.

^h Thou that thoughtest thy selfe most glorious, and as it were placed in the heaven: for the morning starre, that goeth before the sunne, is called Lucifer, to whom Nebuchad-nezzar is compared.

ⁱ Meaning, Jerusalem, whereof the Temple was on the North-side, as Psalm 48. 2. whereby he meant, that tyrants fight against God, when they persecute his Church, and would see themselves in his place. ^k In marvelling at thee.

^m Thou wast not buried in the sepulchre of thy fathers, thy tyranny was so abhorred.

ⁿ Hee calleth to the Medes and Persians, and all those that should execute Gods vengeance.

^o Or, Tyrus.

^p As I have begun to destroy the Assyrians in Samaria, so will I continue and destroy them wholly, when I shall deliver you from Babylon.

^q From the Jews.

^r Rejoice Chap. 13. 1.

^r He willett the Philistines not to rejoice, because the Iewes are diminished in their power, for their strength shall be greater then ever it was.

^s The Israelites which were brought to most extreme miserie.

^t To wit, my people.

^u That is, from the Iewes, or Assyrians: for they were both North, from Palestina.

^x But they shall be all ready, and joine together.

^y Which shall come to enquire of the state of the Church.

^z They shall answer, that the Lord doth defend his Church, and them that joine themselves thereunto.

^a Read Chap.

^b The chiefest city, whereby the whole countrey was peac.

^c The Moabites shall see to their idols for succour, but it shall be too late.

^d Which were cities of Moab.

^e For as in the West parts the people used to let their haire grow long, when they mourned: so in the East parts they cut it off.

^f The Prophet speaketh this in the person of the Moabites, or as one that felt the great judgement of God that should come upon them.

^g Meaning, that it was a city that ever lived in pleasure and never felt sorrow.

^h Hee describeth the miserable disposition and flight of the Moabites.

ⁱ To hide themselves and their goods there.

^k Of them that are false.

^l So that by no means they should escape the hand of God: thus will God punish the enemies of his Church.

29 Rejoice not, (thou whole Palestina) because the rod of him that did beate thee, is broken: for out of the serpents root shall come forth a cockatrice, and the fruit thereof shall bee a fire flying serpent.

30 For the first borne of the poore shall be fed, and the needy shall lie downe in safetie: and I will kill thy root with famine, and it shall slay thy remnant.

31 Howle, O gate; cry, O citie: thou whole land of Palestina art dissolved, for there shall come from the North a smoke, and none shall bee alone at his time appointed.

32 What shall then one answer the messengers of the Gentiles? that the Lord hath stablished Zion, and the poore of his people shall trust in it.

CHAP. XV.

A Prophecie against Moab.

The burden of Moab, Surely Ar of Moab was destroyed, and brought to silence in a night: surely Kir of Moab was destroyed, and brought to silence in a night.

2 Hee shall goe up to the temple, and to Dibon to the high places to weep: for Nebo and for Mededa shall Moab howle: upon all their heads shall bee baldnesse, and every beard shaven.

3 In their streets shall they be girded with sackcloth: on the tops of their houses, and in their streets every one shall howle, and come downe with weeping.

4 And Heshbon shall crie, and Elealeh: their voice shall be heard unto Jahaz: therefore the warriors of Moab shall shout: the soule of every one shall lament in himselfe.

5 Mine heart shall crie for Moab: his fugitives shall flee unto Zoar, as an heifer of three yeare old: for they shall goe up with weeping by the mounting up of Luhith: and by the way of Horonaim they shall raise up a crie of destruction.

6 For the waters of Nimrim shall be dried up: therefore the grasie is withered, the herbes consumed, and there was no greene herbe.

7 Therefore what every man hath left, and their substance shall they beare to the brooke of the willowes.

8 For the cry went round about the borders of Moab: and the howling thereof unto Eglaim, and the striking thereof unto Beer-Elm.

9 Because the waters of Dimon shall be full of blood: for I will bring more upon Dimon, even Lions upon him that escapeth of Moab, and to the remnant of the land.

CHAP. XVI.

The causes wherby the Moabites and Idumeites were destroyed.

Send a lambe to the ruler of the world from the rocke of the wilderness, unto the mountaine of the daughter Zion.

2 For it shall be as a bird that flieth, and a nest forsaken: the daughters of Moab shall be at the foordes of Arnon.

3 Gather a counsell, execute judgement: make thy shadow as the night in the midday: hide them that are chased out: bewray not him that is fled.

4 Let my banished dwell with thee: Moab be thou their covert from the face of the destroyer: for the extortioner shall end: the destroyer shall be consumed, and the oppressour shall cease out of the land.

5 And in mercie shall the throne bee prepared, and he shall sit upon it in steadfastnes, in the Tabernacle of David, judging, and seeking judgement, and hastening justice.

6 Wee have heard of the pride of Moab, (he is very proud) even his pride, and his arrogancie, and his indignation, but his lies shall not be so.

7 Therefore shall Moab howle unto Moab: every one shall howle: for the foundations of Kir-harasheth shall yee mourne, yet they shall be stricken.

8 For the vine-yards of Heshbon are cut downe, and the vine of Shibmah: the lords of the heathen have broken the principall vines thereof: they are come unto Jaazer: they wandred in the wilderness: her goodly branches stretched out themselves, and went over the sea.

9 Therefore will I weepe with the weeping of Jaazer, and of the vine of Shibmah, O Heshbon: and Elealeh, I will make thee drunk with my teares, because upon thy summer fruits, and upon thy harvest a howling is false.

10 And gladnesse is taken away, and joy out of the plentiful field: and in the vine-yards shall be no singing nor shouting for joy: the treader shall not tread wine in the wine-presses: I have caused the rejoicing to cease.

11 Wherefore, my bowels shall sound like an harpe for Moab, and mine inward parts for Ker-harasheth.

12 And when it shall appear that Moab shall be wearie of his high places, then shall hee come to his Temple to pray: but he shall not prevaile.

13 This is the word that the Lord hath spoken against Moab since that time.

14 And now the Lord hath spoken, saying, In three yeares, as the yeares of the Iewes, shall they be destroyed.

a That is, offer a sacrifice: whereby hee denieth their long delay, which would not repeat when the Lord called them, shewing them that it is now too late, seeing the vengeance of God is upon them.

b There is no remedie, but you must flee, to the Assyrians.

c Hee sheweth, what Moab should have done, when Israel their neighbour was in affliction, to whom because they would give no shadow, nor comfort, they are now left comfortlesse.

d The Assyrians shall oppress the Idumeites, but for a while.

e Meaning, that Christ, who is the true David, shall sit upon the throne of David, and shall judge the world in righteousness.

f Their vain confidence, and proud braggies shall deceive them, as Jer. 48. 2.

g For all your mourning, yet the citie shall be destroyed: even unto the foundation.

h That is, the Assyrians & other enemies.

i Meaning, that the countrey of Moab was now destroyed, and all the precious things thereof were carried into the borders, yea into other countries, and over the sea.

k Hee sheweth that their plague was so great, that it would have moved any man to lament with them, as Psal. 141. 5.

l The enemies are come upon thee, and shoute for joy, when they carry thy commodities from thee, as Jerem. 48. 33.

m For very sorrow and compassion.

n They shall use all means to seek helpe of their idols, and all in vaine: for Christ, who is their true god, shall not be able to helpe them.

o Hee appointed a certaine time to punish the enemies.

p Who will observe justly the time for the hire, which he is hired, and serve no longer, but will ever long for it.

an hireling, and the glorie of Moab shall be contemned in all the great multitude, and the remnant shall be very small and feeble.

CHAP. XVII.

A prophesie of the destruction of Damascus and Ephraim. 7 Calamitie moveth to repentance.

THE burden of ^b Damascus. Behold, Damascus is taken away from being a citie, for it shall bee a ruinous heape.

² The cities of ^c Aroer shall bee forsaken: they shall be for the flockes: for they shall lie there, and none shall make them afraid.

³ The munition also shall cease from ^d Ephraim, and the kingdome from Damascus, and the remnant of Aram, shall be as the glorie of the children of Israel, saith the Lord of hostes.

⁴ And in that day the glorie of ^e Jakkob shall be impoverished, and the farnes of his flesh shall be made leane.

⁷ At that day shall a man look to his Maker, and his eyes shall look to the holy One of Israel.

¹⁰ Because thou hast forgotten the God of thy salvation, and hast not remembered the God of thy strength, therefore shalt thou set pleasant plants, and shalt graffe strange vine branches:

¹¹ In the day shalt thou make thy plant to grow, and in the morning shalt thou make thy seed to flourish: but the harvest shall be gone in the day of possession, and there shall be desperate sorrow.

¹⁴ And loe, in the evening there is trouble: but afore the morning it is gone. This is the portion of them that spoile us, and the lot of them that rob us.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 Of the enemies of the Church, 7 And of the vocation of the Gentiles.

OH, the land shadowing with wings, which is beyond the rivers of Ethiopia,

² Sending ambassadours by the sea, even in vessels of reeds upon the waters, saying, Go, ye swift messengers, to a nation that is scattered abroad, and spoiled, unto a terrible people from their beginning, even hitherto; a nation by little and little, even troden under foot, whose land the floods have spoiled.

⁴ For so the Lord said unto me, I will rest, and behold in my Tabernacle, as the heate drying up the raine, and as a cloud of dew in the heat of harvest.

⁶ They shall be left together unto the fowles of the mountaines, and to the beastes of the earth: for the fowle shall summer upon it, and every beast of the earth shall winter upon it.

⁸ Meaning, that God will pisse his Church, and receive that little remnant as an offering unto himselfe.

CHAP. XIX.

1 The destruction of the Egyptians by the Assyrians. 12 Of their conversion to the Lord.

THE burden of Egypt. Behold, the Lord rideth upon a swift cloud, and in the defence of their country, in the multitude of their idoles, and in the valiantnesse of their men, the Lord sheweth that he will come over all their manikions in a swift cloud, and that their idoles shall tremble at his coming, and that mens hearts shall faile.

p He addeth this for the consolation of the faithful, which were in Israel.

q He compareth the enemies, the Assyrians, to tempest, which riseth over night, and in the morning is gone.

a He meaneth that part of Ethiopia, which lieth toward the Sea, which was full of ships, that the fowles (which he compareth to wings) seemed to shadow the Sea. b Which in those countreys were great: in so much as they made ships of them for swiftnesse.

c This may be taken, that they sent other to comfort the Jews, and to provide them help against their enemies, and so the Lord did threaten to take away their strength, that the Jews should not trust therein: or that they did folke the Egyptians, and promised them aide to go against Judah.

d To wit, the Jews, who, because of Gods plagues made all other nations afraid of the like, as God threatened, Deut. 32. 37.

e Meaning, the Assyrians, as cap. 8. 7.

f When the Lord prepared to fight against the Ethiopians.

g I will stay a while from punishing the wicked.

h Which two seasons are most profitable for the riping of fruit: whereby he meaneth that he will seeme to favour them, and give them abundance for a time, but he will suddenly cut them off.

i Not onely men shall contemne them, but the brute beasts.

a Reade Chap. 13. 1.

b Because the Egyptians trusted in the valiantnesse of their men, the Lord sheweth that he will come over all their manikions in a swift cloud, and that their idoles shall tremble at his coming, and that mens hearts shall faile.

shall shall come into Egypt, and the idoles of Egypt shall be moved at his presence, and the heart of Egypt shall melt in the mids of her.

2 And I will set the Egyptians against the Egyptians: so everie one shall fight against his brother, and everie one against his neighbour, citie against citie, and kingdome against kingdome.

3 And the spirit of Egypt shall faile in the mids of her, and I will destroy their counsell, and they shall seek at the idoles, and at the Sorcerers, and at them that have spirits of divination, and at the Sooth-sayers.

4 And I will deliver the Egyptians into the hand of cruell lords, and a mightie King shall rule over them, saith the Lord God of hostes.

5 Then the waters of the sea shall faile, and the rivers shall be dried up and wasted.

6 And the rivers shall goe farre away: the rivers of defence shall be emptied and dried up: the reeds and flags shall be cut downe.

7 The grasse in the river, and at the head of the rivers, and all that groweth by the river shall wither, and bee driven away, and be no more.

8 The fishers also shall mourne, and all they that cast angle into the river, shall lament, and they that spread their net upon the waters, shall be weakened.

9 Moreover, they that worke in flaxe of divers sorts, shall be confounded, and they that weave nets.

10 For their nets shall be broken, and all they that make ponds, shall be heavie in heart.

11 Surely the princes of Zoan are fooles: the counsell of the wise counsellors of Pharaoh, is become foolish: how say yee unto Pharaoh, I am the sonne of the wife? I am the sonne of the ancient kings?

12 Where are now thy wife men, that they may tell thee, or may know what the Lord of hostes hath determined against Egypt?

13 The Princes of Zoan are become fooles: the princes of Noph, are deceived, they have deceived Egypt, even the corners of the tribes thereof.

14 The Lord hath mingled among them the spirit of errours: and they have caused Egypt to erre in every worke thereof, as a drunken man erreth in his vomit.

15 Neither shall there be any worke in Egypt, which the head may doe, nor the the taile, the branch, nor the rush.

16 In that day shall Egypt be like unto women: for it shall be afraid and feare, because of the moving of the hand of the Lord of hostes, which he shaketh over it.

17 And the land of Judah shall bee a fear unto Egypt: every one that maketh mention of it, shall be afraid thereof, because of the counsell of the Lord of hostes, which he hath determined upon it.

18 In that day shall five cities in the land of Egypt speake the language of Canaan, and shall sweare by the Lord of hostes: one shall bee called the citie of destruction.

19 In that day shall the altar of the Lord be in the mids of the Land of Egypt, and a pillar by the border thereof unto the Lord.

20 And it shall be for a signe and for a witnesse unto the Lord of hostes in the land of Egypt: for they shall crie unto the Lord, because of the oppressours, and he shall send them a Saviour and a great man, and shall deliver them.

21 And the Lord shall be knowne of the Egyptians, and the Egyptians shall know the Lord in that day, and doe sacrifice and oblation, and shall vow vowes unto the Lord, and performe them.

22 So the Lord shall smite Egypt, hee shall smite and heale it: for hee shall returne unto the Lord, and he shall bee intreated of them, and shall heale them.

23 In that day shall there bee a path from Egypt to Aschur, and Aschur shall come into Egypt, and Egypt into Aschur: so the Egyptians shall worship with Aschur.

24 In that day shall Israel be the third with Egypt and Aschur, even a blessing in the mids of the land.

25 For the Lord of hostes shall blesse it, saying, Blessed bee my people Egypt and Aschur, the worke of mine hands; and Israel mine inheritance.

CHAP. XX.

^a The three yeares captivitie of Egypt and Ethiopia, described by the three yeares going naked of Isaiah.

IN the yeare that Tartan came to Ashdod, (when Sargon King of Aschur sent him) and had fought against Ashdod, and taken it,

2 At the same time spake the Lord by the hand of Isaiah the sonne of Amoz, saying, Go, and loose the sackcloth from thy loines, and put off thy shooe from thy foot. And he did so, walking naked and bare foot.

3 And the Lord said, like as my servant Isaiah hath walked naked, and barefoote three yeares, as a signe and wonder upon Egypt, and Ethiopia,

4 So shall the King of Aschur take away the captivitie of Egypt, and the cap-

^c As hee caused the Ammonites, Moabites, and Edomites, to kill one another, when they came to destroy the Church of God, 2 Chron. 36. 11. chap. 49. 16. d Meaning, their policie, and wisdom.

^e Hee sheweth, that the sea and Nilus their great river, whereby they thought themselves most sure, should not be able to defend them from his anger, but that hee would send the Assyrians among them, that should keep them under as slaves. f For Nilus ran into the sea by seven streames, as though they were so many rivers.

^g The Hebrew word is mouth, whereby they meane the spring, out of the which the water gusheth as out of a mouth. h The Scriptures use to describe the destruction of a country by taking away of the commodities thereof, as by vines, figs, figs, and such other things, whereby countries are enriched. i Called also Tanis, a famous citie upon Nilus.

^k Hee noteth the flatterers of Pharaoh, who persuaded the King, that he was wise, and noble, and that his house was most ancient, and so hee flattered himselfe, saying, I am wise.

^l Or Memphis, others Alexandria, and now called the great Citie. m The principall upholders thereof are the chiefest cause of their destruction. n For the spirit of wisdom, hee hath made them drunken and giddy with the spirit of error. o Neither the great, nor the small, the strong, nor the weak.

^p Considering, that through their occasion the Jews made not God their defence, but put their trust in them, and were therefore now punished, they shall have left the like light upon them. q Shall make one confession of faith with the people of God: by the speech of Canaan, meaning the language where in God was then served.

^r Shall renounce their superstitions and protest to serve God aright. f Meaning, of six cities, five should serve God, and the sixth remaine in their wickednes: and so of the sixth part there should be but one lost.

^t There shall bee evident signes and tokens, that Gods religion is there: which manner of speech is taken of the Patriarkes, and ancient times, when God had not as yet appointed the place and full manner how he would be worshipped.

^v This declareth that this prophesie should bee accomplished in the time of Christ.

^x By these ceremonies, he comprehendeth the spirituall service under Christ.

^y By these two nations, which were then chiefe enemies of the Church, he sheweth that the Gentiles and the Jews should be joined together in one faith and religion, and should be all one fold under Christ their Shepherd.

^a Who was a captaine of Sancherib, a King. 18. 17. b A citie of the Philistines. c The Hebrewes write that Sancherib was so called.

5 And they shall feare, and bee ashamed of Ethiopia their expectation, and of Egypt their glorie.

6 Then shall the inhabitant of this Ile say in that day, Behold, such is our expectation, whither we fled for helpe to be delivered from the King of Aschur, and how shall we be delivered?

CHAP. XXI.

1 Of the destruction of Babylon by the Persians, and Medes. 11 The ruine of Idumea, 13 And of Arabia.

THE burthen of the desert Sea. As the whirle-windes in the south, use to passe from the wilderness, so shall it come from the terrible land.

2 A grievous vision was shewed unto me, The transgressour against a transgressour, and the destroyer against a destroyer. Goe up Elam, besiege Media: I have caused all the mourning thereof to cease.

3 Therefore are my loines filled with sorrow: sorrowes have taken me, as the sorrowes of a woman that travaileth: I was bowed downe when I heard it, and I was amazed when I saw it.

4 Mine heart failed, fearefulnesse troubled me: the night of my pleasures hath he turned into feare unto me.

5 Prepare thou the Table: watch in the watch-towre: eate, drinke: arise, ye princes, anoint the shield.

6 For thus hath the Lord said unto me, Goe, set a watchman, to tell what he seeth.

7 And hee saw a charet with two horsemen: a charet of an asse, and a charet of a camell: and he hearkened and tooke diligent heed.

8 And he cried, A lion: my lord, I stand continually upon the watch-towre in the day time, and I am set in my watch every night:

9 And behold this mans charet cometh with two horsemen. And he answered and said, Babel is false, it is false, and all the images of her gods hath he broken unto the ground.

10 O my threshing, and the corn of my floore. That which I have heard of the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel, have I shewed unto you,

11 The burthen of Dumah. He calleth unto me out of Seir, Watchman, what was in the night? Watchman, what was in the night?

12 The watchman said, The morning cometh, and also the night. If ye will aske, enquire: returne and come.

13 ¶ The burden against Arabia. In the forest of Arabia shall ye tarie all night, even in the waies of Dedanim.

14 O inhabitants of the Land of Tema, bring forth water to meet the thirstie, and prevent him that fleeth with his bread.

15 For they flee from the drawne swords, even from the drawne sword, and from the bent bow, and from the grievousnesse of warre.

16 For thus hath the Lord said unto me, Yet a yeare according to the yeares of an hireling, and all the glorie of Kedar shall faile.

17 And the residue of the number of the strong archers of the sonnes of Kedar shall bee few: for the Lord God of Israel hath spoken it.

CHAP. XXII.

1 He prophesieth of the destruction of Ierusalem by Nebuchadnezzar. 15 A threatening against Shebna, 20 To whose office Eliakim is preferred.

THE burden of the valley of vision. What aileth thee now that thou art wholly gone up unto the house tops?

2 Thou that art full of noise, a citie full of brute, a joyous citie: thy slain men shall not be slaine with the sword, nor die in battell.

3 All thy princes shall flee together from the bow: they shall be bound: all that shall be found in thee, shall be bound together, which have fled from farre.

4 Therefore said I, Turne away from me: I will weepe bitterly: labour not to comfort me for the destruction of the daughter of my people.

5 For it is a day of trouble and of ruine, and of perplexitie by the Lord God of hostes in the valley of vision, breaking downe the citie: and a crying unto the mountaines.

6 ¶ And Elam bare the quiver in a mans charet with horsemen, and Kir uncovered the shield.

7 And thy chiefe valleyes were full of charrets, and the horsemen set themselves in aray against the gate.

8 And he discovered the covering of Judah: and thou diddest looke in that day to the armour of the house of the forest.

9 And ye have seene the breaches of the citie of David: for they were many,

and

^e In whose side they trusted.
^f Of whom they boasted and gloried.

^g Meaning, Judea, which was compassed about with their enemies, as an Ile with waters.

^a On the sea side betweene Judea and Caldea, was a wilderness, where by hee meant Caldea.

^b That is, the ruine of Babylon by the Medes and Persians.

^c The Assyrians and Caldeans, which had destroyed other nations, shall be overcome of the Medes and Persians, and this hee prophesied an hundred yeares before it came to passe.

^d By Elam, hee meant the Persians.

^e Because they shall finde no succour, they shall mourne no more: or, I have caused them to cease mourning, whom Babylon had afflicted.

^f This the Prophet speaketh in the person of the Babylonians.

^g He prophesieth the death of Belshazzar, as Dan. 5. 33. who in the midst of his pleasures was destroyed.

^h Whiles they are eating and drinking, they shall be commanded to run to their weapons.

ⁱ To wit, in a vision, by the spirit of prophesie.

^k Meaning, charrets of men of warre, and others that carried the baggage.

^l Meaning, Darius which overcame Babylon.

^m The watchman whom Isaiah set up, told him who came toward Babylon, and the Angel declared, that it should be destroyed: all this was done in a vision.

ⁿ Jer. 51. 8.

^o Jer. 14. 8.

^p Meaning, Babylon.

^r Which was a citie of the Ishmaelites, and was so named of Dumah, Gen. 25. 14.

^p A mountaine of the Idumeans.

^q Hee describeth the unquietnes of the people of Dumah, who were night and day in feare of their enemies, and ever ran to and fro to enquire newes.

^r For feare, the Arabians shall flee into the woods, & hee appointeth what way they shall take.

^s Signifying, that for feare they shall not tarie to eate nor drinke.

^t Hee appointeth them respite for one yeare onely, and then they should be destroyed.

^v Reade Chapt. 16. 14.

^x Which was the name of a people of Arabia and by the horrible destruction of all these nations, hee teacheth the Jews that there is no place for refuge, or to escape Gods wrath, but only to remaine in his Church, and to live in his feare.

^a Meaning, Judea, which was compassed about with mountaines, & was called the valley of visions, because of the Prophets, which were alwaies there whom they named Seers.

^b He speaketh to Ierusalem, whose inhabitants were fled up to the house tops, for feare of their enemies.

^c Which was wont to be full of people, and joy. ^d But for hunger. ^e And ledde into captivity.

^f Which have fled from other places to Ierusalem for succour.

^g He sheweth what is the dutie of the godly, who Gods plagues hang over the Church, and specially of the ministers, Jer. 9. 1.

^h That is, the shout of the enemies, whom God had appointed to destroy the citie.

ⁱ He putteth them in minde how God delivered the once from Saneherib, who brought the Persians, and Cyrenians with him, that they might by returning to God, avoid that great plague, which they should suffer by Nebuchadnezzar.

^k The secreet place where the armour was, to wit, in the house of the forest.

10 And yee numbred the houses ^m of Jerusalem, and the houses have ye broken downe to fortifie the wall.

11 And have also made a ditch betweene the two walles, for the ⁿ waters of the old poole, and have not looked unto the maker thereof, neither had respect unto him that formed him of old.

12 And in that day did the Lord God of hostes call unto weeping and mourning, and to baldnesse, and girding with sackcloth.

13 And behold, joy and gladnesse, slaying oxen and killing sheepe, eating flesh, and drinking wine; ^p eating and drinking, for to morrow we shall die.

14 And it was declared in the eares of the Lord of hostes, Surely this iniquitie shall not be purged from you, till ye die, faith the Lord God of hostes.

15 Thus faith the Lord God of hostes, Go, get thee to that ^q treasurer, to Shebna, the steward of the house, and say, 16 What hast thou to doe here? and whom hast thou ^r here? that thou shouldst here hewe thee out a Sepulchre, as he that heweth out his Sepulchre in an high place, or that graveth an habitation ^s for himselfe in a rocke?

17 Behold, the Lord will carrie thee away with a great captivity, and will surely cover thee.

18 He will surely roll and turne thee like a ball in a large countrey: there shalt thou die, and there the charets of thy glorie shall be the ^t shame of thy Lords house.

19 And I will drive thee from thy station, and out of thy dwelling will he destroy thee.

20 And in that day will I ^v call my servant Eliakim the sonne of Hilkiah, 21 And with thy garments will I clothe him, and with thy girdle will I strengthen him, thy power also will I commit into his hand, and he shall be a father of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and of the house of Judah.

22 And the ^w key of the house of David will I lay upon his shoulder: so hee shall open, and no man shall shut: and he shall shut, and no man shall open.

23 And I will fasten him as a ^x naile in a sure place, and he shall be for the throne of glorie to his fathers house.

24 And they shall hang upon him all the glorie of his fathers house, ^y even of the nephewes and posteritie: ^z all small vessels, from the vessels of the cups, even to all the instruments of musicke.

25 In that day, faith the Lord of hostes, shall the ^a naile that is fastened in the sure place, depart and shall be broken, and fall: and the burthen that was upon it, shall be cut off: for the Lord hath spoken it.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 A prophesie against Tyrus. 17 A promise that it shall be restored.

THE ^a burden of Tyrus. Howle, ye ships of ^b Tarshish: for ^c it is destroyed: so that there is no house: none shall come from the land of ^d Chittim: it is ^e revealed unto them.

2 Be still, ye that dwell in the Isles: the Merchants of Zidon, and such as passe over the sea, have ^f replenished thee.

3 The ^g seed of Nilus ^h growing by the abundance of waters, and the harvest of the river was her revenues, and she was a marte of the nations.

4 Be ashamed, thou Zidon: for the ⁱ Sea hath spoken, even the strength of the Sea, saying, I have not ^j travailed, nor brought forth children, neither nourished young men, nor brought up virgins.

5 When the fame commeth to the Egyptians, they shall be ^k sory concerning the rumour of Tyrus.

6 Goe you over to ^l Tarshish: howle, ye that dwell in the Isles.

7 Is not this that your glorious ^m citie? her antiquitie ⁿ is of ancient daies: her own feet shall leade her a farre off to bee a sojourner.

8 Who hath decreed this against Tyrus (that ^o crowneth ^p men) whose merchants are princes? whose chapmen are the nobles of the world?

9 The Lord of hostes hath decreed this, to staine the pride of all glorie, and to bring to contempt all them that bee glorious in the earth.

10 Passe through thy land like a flood to the ^q daughter of Tarshish: there is no more strength.

11 He stretched out his hand upon the sea: he shooke the kingdomes: the Lord hath given a commandement concerning the place of merchandise, to destroy the power thereof.

12 And he said, thou shalt no more rejoice when thou art oppressed: ^r O virgin ^s daughter of Zidon: rise up, goe over unto Chittim: yet there thou shalt have no rest.

13 Behold the land of the Caldeans! this was no people: ^t Ashur founded it by the inhabitants of the wilderness: they set up the towers thereof: they raised the palaces thereof, and he ^u brought it to ruine.

14 Howle yee ships of Tarshish, for your ^v strength is destroyed.

^p In stead of repentance ye were joyfull, and made great cheer, concerning the admonitions of the Prophets, saying, Let us eat and drinke, for our Prophets say, that wee shall die to morrow.

^q Because the Hebrew word doth also signifie one that doth nourish and cherish, there are of the learned that thinke that this wicked man did nourish secret friendship with the Assyrians and Egyptians, to betray the Church, and to provide for himselfe against all dangers: in the meane season, he packed craftily, and got of the best offices into his hand under Hezekiah, ever aspiring to the high-meaning, that he was a stranger and came up of nothing.

^r Whereas hee thought to make his name immortal by his famous sepulchre, he died most miserably among the Assyrians.

CHAP. XXIV.

A prophesie of the curse of God for the sinnes of the people.

13 A remnant reserved shall praise the Lord.

BEhold, the Lord maketh the ^a earth emptie, and he maketh it waste: hee turneth it upside downe, and scattereth abroad the inhabitants thereof.

2 And there shall be like people, like ^b Priest, and like servant, like master, like maide, like mistresse, like buyer, like seller, like lender, like borrower, like giver, like taker to usury.

3 The earth shall be cleane emptied, and utterly spoiled: for the Lord hath spoken this word.

4 The earth lamenteth and fadeth away: the world is feeble and decayed: the proud people of the earth are weakned.

5 The earth ^a also deceiveth, because of the inhabitants thereof: for they transgressed the Lawes: they changed the ordinances, and brake the everlasting covenant.

6 Therefore hath the ^d curse devoured the earth, and the inhabitants thereof are desolate. Wherefore the inhabitants of the land are ^a burned up, and few men are left.

7 The wine faileth, the vine hath no might: all that were of merrie heart doe mourne.

8 The mirth of tabrets ceaseth: the noise of them that reioice, endeth: the joy of the harpe ceaseth.

9 They shall not drinke wine with mirth: strong drinke shall bee bitter to them that drinke it.

10 The citie of ^f vanitie is broken downe: every house is shut up, that no man may come in.

11 There is a crying for wine in the streets: all joy is darkened: the ^a mirth of the world is gone away.

12 In the citie is left desolation, and the gate is smitten with destruction.

13 ¶ Surely thus shall it be in the midst of the earth, among the people, ^h as the shaking of an olive tree, and as the grapes when the vintage is ended.

14 They shall lift up their voice: they shall shout for the magnificence of the Lord: they shall reioice from the ⁱ sea.

15 Wherefore praise yee the Lord in the valleies, even the Name of the Lord God of Israel, in the Isles of the Sea.

16 From the utmost part of the earth we have heard praises, even glory to the ^k just, and I said, ⁱ My leannesse, my leannesse, woe is me: the transgressors have offended: yea, the transgressors have grievously offended.

17 Feare, and the pit, and the snare are upon thee, O inhabitant of the earth.

18 And he that fleeth from the noise of the feare, shall fall into the pit, and he that commeth up out of the pit, shall be taken in the snare: for the ^m windowes from on high are open, and the foundations of the earth doe shake.

19 The earth is utterly broken down: the earth is cleane dissolved: the earth is moved exceedingly.

20 The earth shall reele to and fro like a drunken man, and shall bee removed like a tent, and the iniquitie thereof shall be heavie upon it: so that it shall fall, and rise no more.

21 ¶ And in that day shall the Lord ⁿ visite the hoste above that is on high, even the Kings of the world that are upon the earth.

22 And they shall bee gathered together, as the prisoners in the pit: and they shall be shut up in the prison, and after many daies shall they be ^o visited.

23 ¶ Then the moone shall be abashed, and the sunne ashamed, when the Lord of hostes shall reigne in mount Zion, and in Jerusalem: and glory shall bee before his ancient men.

CHAP. XXV.

A thanksgiving to God, in that hee sheweth himselfe judge of the world, by punishing the wicked and maintaining the godly.

O Lord, thou ^a art my God: I will exalt thee, I will praise thy Name: for thou hast done wonderfull things according to the counsels of old, with a stable truth.

2 For thou hast made of a ^b citie an heape, of a strong citie, a ruine; even the palace ^c of strangers of a citie, it shall never be built.

^c That is, a place whereas all vagabonds may live without danger, and as it were, at ease, as in a palace.

^g Because they did not use Gods benefits aright, their pleasures should faile, and they fall to mourning.

^h He comforteth the faithfull, declaring that in this great desolation the Lord will assemble his Church, which shall praise his Name, as Chap. 10. 22.

ⁱ From the utmost coasts of the world where the Gospell shall be preached, as ver. 16.

^k Meaning, to God, who will publish his Gospell through all the world.

^l I am confounded with care, considering the affliction of the Church, both by forcine enemies, and domesticall. Some read, My secret, that is, it was revealed to the Prophet that the good should be preserved, and the wicked destroyed.

^m Meaning, that Gods wrath and vengeance should be over and under them: so that they should not escape no more the they did at Noahs flood.

ⁿ There is no power so high, or mighty, but God will visite him with his rods.

^o Not with his rods, as ver. 21, but shall be comforted.

^p When God shall restore his Church, the glory thereof shall so shine and his Ministers (which are called, his ancient men) that the Sonne and Moone shall bee duke in comparison whereof.

^a Thus the Prophet giveth thanks to God because he will bring under subjection these nations by his corrections, and make them of his Church, which before were his enemies.

^b Not onely of Hierusalem, but also of these other Cities which have bene thine

3 There-

^d The arrogant and proud which before would not know thee, shall by thy correctives here and glorifie thee.

^e The rage of the wicked is furious, till God breake the force thereof.

^f Meaning, that as the heat is abated by the raine, so shall God bring downe the rage of the wicked.

^g As a cloud sheweth from the heat of the sunne, so shall God affluently reioyce the reioicing of the wicked against the golly.

^h To wit, in Zion, whereby hee meaneth his Church, which should under Christ be assembled of the Jewes and the Gentiles, and is here described under the figure of a costly banquet, as Mat. 22. 2.

ⁱ Meaning, that ignorance and blindness whereby we are kept backe from Christ. He will take away all occasions of sorrow, and fill his with perfect joy, Revel. 7. 17. and 21. 4.

^j By Moab are meant all the enemies of his Church.

^k There were two cities of this name: one in Judah, 1 Chron. 2. 49. and another in the land of Moab, Iren. 48. 2. which seemeth to have been a plentiful place of come, Chap. 10. 34.

^l This song was made in comfort the faithfull, when their captivitie should come, assuring them also of their deliverance, for the which they should sing this song. ^m Gods protection and defence shall be sufficient for us. ⁿ He assureth the godly to returne after the captivity to Jerusalem. ^o Thou hast decreed so, and thy purpose cannot be changed.

3 Therefore shall the ^d mighty people give glory unto thee: the cite of the strong nations shall feare thee.

4 For thou hast been a strength unto the poore, even a strength to the needy in his trouble, a refuge against the tempest, a shadow against the heat: for the blast of the mighty is like a storme against the wall.

5 Thou shalt bring downe the noise of the strangers, as the heat in a drie place: he will bring downe the song of the mighty, as the heat in the shadow of a cloud.

6 And in this ^h mountaine shall the Lord of hostes make unto all people a feast of fat things, even a feast of fined wines, and of fat things full of marrow, of wines fined and purified.

7 And he will destroy in this mountaine the covering that covereth all people, and the vaile that is spread upon all nations.

8 Hee will destroy death for ever: and the Lord God will ^k wipe away the teares from all faces, and the rebuke of his people will he take away out of all the earth: for the Lord hath spoken it.

9 And in that day shall men say, Lo, this is our God: wee have waited for him, and hee will save us. This is the Lord, wee have waited for him: wee will reioyce and bee joifull in his salvation.

10 For in this mountaine shall the hand of the Lord rest, and ^l Moab shall be threshed under him, even as straw is threshed in ^m Madmenah.

11 And hee shall stretch out his hand in the middes of them (as he that swimmeth, stretcheth them out to swimme) and with the strength of his hand shall he bring downe their pride.

12 The defence also of the height of thy walles shall hee bring downe and lay low, and cast them to the ground, even unto the dust.

CHAP. XXVI.

A song of the faithfull, wherein is declared in what consisteth the salvation of the Church, and wherein they ought to trust.

IN that day shall ^a this song be sung in the land of Judah, We have a strong citie: ^b salvation shall God set for walles and bulwarkes.

2 Open yee the gates that the righteous nation, which keepeth the truth, may enter in.

3 By an assured ^d purpose wilt thou preserve perfect peace, because they trusted in thee.

4 Trust in the Lord for ever: for in the Lord God is strength for evermore.

5 For he will bring downe them that dwell on high: the high cite hee will abase: even unto the ground will hee cast it downe, and bring it unto dust.

6 The foot shall tread it downe, even the feet of the ^f poore, and the steppes of the needy.

7 The way of the just is righteousnesse: thou wilt make equall the righteous path of the just.

8 Also we, O Lord, have waited for thee in the way of thy ^g judgements: the desire of our soule is to thy Name, and to the remembrance of thee.

9 With my soule have I desired thee in the night, and with my spirit within mee will I seeke thee in the morning: for seeing thy judgements are in the earth, the inhabitants of the world shall learne ^h righteousness.

10 Let mercie be shewed to the wicked, yet he will not learne righteousness: in the land of uprightness he doe wickedly, and will not behold the majestie of the Lord.

11 O Lord, they will not behold thine high hand: but they shall see it, and bee confounded with ^k the zeale of the people, and the fire of thine ^l enemies shall devoure them.

12 Lord, unto us thou wilt ordaine peace: for thou also hast wrought all our works for us.

13 O Lord our God, other ^m lords beside thee have ruled us, but wee will remember thee onely, and thy Name.

14 The ⁿ dead shall not live, neither shall the dead arise, because thou hast visited and scattered them, and destroyed all their memorie.

15 Thou hast increased ^o the nation, O Lord: thou hast increased the nation: thou art made glorious; thou hast enlarged all the coasts of the earth.

16 Lord, in trouble have they ^p visited thee: they powred out a prayer when thy chastening was upon them.

17 Like as a woman with childe, that draweth neere to the travaile, is in sorrow, and crieth in her paines, so have wee becne in thy ^q sight, O Lord.

18 We have conceived, we have borne in pain, as though we should have brought forth ^r wind: there was no helpe in the earth, neither did the inhabitants of the world fall.

19 ¶ Thy dead men shall live: even with my body shall they rise. Awake, and sing, yee that dwell in dust: for the faithfull in their afflictions, shewing them, that even in death they shall have life, and that they should most certainly rise to glory: the contrary should come to the wicked, as worde 14.

^e There is no power so high that can let God, when he will deliver his.

^f God will set the poore afflicted over the power of the wicked.

^g We have constantly abid in the adversities wherewith thou hast afflicted us.

^h Meaning, that by afflictions men shall learne to feare God.

ⁱ The wicked though God shew the evident signes of his grace, shall never be better.

^k Through envy and indignation against thy people.

^l The fire and vengeance wherewith thou dost destroy thine enemies.

^m The Babylonians, which have not governed according to thy word.

ⁿ Meaning, that the reprobate even in this life shall have the beginning of everlasting death.

^p That is, the faithfull by thy rods were moved to pray unto thee for deliverance.

^q To wit, in extreme sorrow.

^r Our sorrow had none ende, neither did wee enjoy the comfort that we looked for.

^s The wicked, and men without religion, were not destroyed.

^t He comforteth the faithfull in their afflictions, shewing them, that even in death they shall have life, and that they should most certainly rise to glory: the contrary should come to the wicked, as worde 14.

thy

v As herbes dead in winter, flourish againe by the rain in the spring time, so they that lie in the dust, shall rise up to joy when they see the dew of Gods grace.

x Hee exhorteth the faithfull to be patient in their afflictions, and to waite upon Gods worke.

y The earth shall vomit and cast out the innocent blood, which it hath drunke, that it may cry for vengeance against the wicked.

thy dewe is as the dewe of herbes, and the earth shall cast out the dead.

20 Come my people, enter thou into thy chambers, and shut thy doores after thee: hide thy selfe for a very little while, untill the indignation passe over.

21 For loe, the Lord cometh out of his place, to visite the iniquitie of the inhabitants of the earth upon them: and the earth shall disclose her bloud, and shall no more hide her slaine.

may cry for vengeance against the wicked.

CHAPTER XXVII.

A prophesie against the kingdom of Satan. 2 And of the joy of the Church for their deliuerance.

a At the time appointed.

b That is, by his mighty power, and by his word. Hee prophesieth here of the destruction of Satan and his kingdom, under the name of Leviathan, Aslur, and Egypt.

c Meaning of the best wine, which the vineyard, that is, the Church, should bring forth, as most agreeable to the Lord.

d Therefore hee will destroy the Kingdom of Satan, because he loveth his Church for his own mercies sake, and cannot be angry with it, but wiltheth that hee may powre his anger upon the wicked insidels, whom he smothereth by briars & thornes.

e He marvelleth, that Israel will not come by gentleness, except God make them to seele his rods, and so bring them into him.

f Though I afflict and diminish my people for a time, yet shall the root spring againe and bring forth in great abundance.

g Hee sheweth that God punisheth his iniquity, and his enemies in justice.

h That is, thou wilt not destroy the root of thy Church, though the branches thereof seeme to perish by the storme winde of affliction.

i He sheweth that there is no true repentance, nor full reconciliation to God, till the heart bee purged from all idolatry, and the monuments thereof destroyed.

k Notwithstanding his favour that he will shew them after, yet Jerusalem shall be destroyed, and graffe for canell shall grow in it.

In that day, the Lord with his sore and great and mighty sword, shall visite Leviathan, that piercing serpent, even Leviathan, that crooked serpent, and hee shall slay the dragon that is in the Sea.

2 In that day sing of the vineyard of red wine.

3 I the Lord doe keepe it: I will water it every moment, lest any assaile it: I will keepe it night and day.

4 Anger is not in me: who would set the briars and the thornes against mee in battell? I would goe through them, I would burne them together.

5 Or will hee feele my strength, that he may make peace with mee, and bee at one with me?

6 Hereafter, Jaakob shall take root: Israel shall flourish and grow, & the world shall be filled with fruit.

7 Hath hee smitten him as he smote those that smote him? or is he slaine according to the slaughter of them that were slaine by him?

8 In measure in the branches thereof wilt thou contend with it, when hee bloweth with his rough wind in the day of the East wind.

9 By this therefore shall the iniquity of Jaakob bee purged, and this is all the fruit, the taking away of his sinne: when he shall make all the stones of the altars, as chalke stones broken in pieces, that the groves and images may not stand up.

10 Yet the defenced citie shall be desolate, and the habitation shall bee forsaken, and left like a wilderness. There shall the calfe feed, and there shall helie, and consume the branches thereof.

11 When the boughes of it are drie, they shall be broken: the women come, and set them on fire: for it is a people of none understanding: therefore hee that made them, shall not have compassion of them, and hee that formed them, shall

God shall not have neede of mighty armies: for the very women shall doe it to their great shame, have no mercy on them.

12 And in that day shall the Lord threth from the chanel of the river unto the river of Egypt, & yee shall be gathered, one by one, O children of Israel.

13 In that day also shall the great trumpet be blowne, and they shall come, which perished in the land of Aslur: and they that were chased into the land of Egypt, and they shall worship the Lord in the holy Mount at Jerusalem.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

Against the pride and drunkennesse of Israel. 9 The unwardnesse of them that should learne the word of God. 24 God doth all things in time and place.

Woe to the crowne of pride, the drunkards of Ephraim: for his glorious beauty shall bee a fading flowre, which is upon the head of the valley of them that be fat, and are overcome with wine.

2 Behold, the Lord hath a mighty and strong hoste, like a tempest of haile, and a whirlewinde that overthroweth, like a tempest of mighty waters that overflow, which throw to the ground mightily.

3 They shall be troden under foote, even the crowne and the pride of the drunkards of Ephraim.

4 For his glorious beauty shall bee a fading flowre, which is upon the head of the valley of them that be fat, and as the hastie fruit afore summer, which when he that looketh upon it, seeth it, while it is in his hand, he eateth it.

5 In that day shall the Lord of hosts be for a crowne of glory, and for a diademe of beauty unto the residue of his people:

6 And for a Spirit of judgement, to him that sitteth in judgement, and for strength unto them that turne away the battel to the gate.

7 But they have erred because of wine, and are out of the way by strong drinke: the Priest and the Prophet have erred by strong drinke: they are swallowed up with wine: they have gone astray through strong drinke: they faile in vision: they stumble in judgement.

8 For all their tables are full of filthy vomiting: no place is cleane.

9 Whom shall he teach knowledge? and whom shall hee make to understand the things that he heareth? them that are weyned from the milke, and drawne from the breasts.

10 For precept must be upon precept, precept upon precept, line unto line, line unto line, there a little, and there a little.

11 For with a stammering tongue, and with a strange language shall he speak unto this people.

m Hee shall destroy all from Euphrates to Nilus: for some fled toward Egypt, thinking to have escaped.

n In the time of Cyrus, by whom they should bee delivered, but this was chiefly accomplished under Christ.

a Meaning, the proud kingdom of the Israelites, which were drunken with worldly prosperity.

b Because the Israelites for the most part dwelt in most plentiful valleys, hee meaneth hereby the valley of this, that had abundance of worldly prosperity, and were, as it were, crowned therewith as with garlands.

c He cometh to meane the Assyrians, by whom the tenne tribes were caried away.

d Which is not of long continuance, but is soone ripe, and full eaten.

e Signifying, that the faithful which put not their trust in any worldly prosperity, but in God, shall be preserved.

f Hee will give counsell to the governour, and strength to the captain, to drive the enemies in their owne gear. Meaning the hypocrites, which were strong in life and doctrine, which is here meant by drunkennesse and vomiting.

h For their was none that was able to understand any good doctrine: but were foolish, and as unmeet as young babes.

i They must have one thing often told.

k Let one teach what he can, yet they shall no more understand him, when if he spoke in a strange language.

¹ That is, the Prophet whom God should send.
² This is the doctrine, whereupon yee ought to stay and rest.
³ Shew to them that are weary and have need of rest, what is the true rest.
⁴ Because they will not receive the word of God when it is offered, it cometh of their own malice, if after their hearts be so hardened, that they care not for it, as before Chap. 6.9.

⁵ They thought they had shits to avoid Gods judgments, and that they could escape through all other perils.

⁶ Though the Prophets condemned their Idols, and vaine trust of falshood and vanitie, yet the wicked thought in themselves that they would trust in these things.

⁷ That is, Christ by whom all the building must be tried, and uphelden. Phil. 1.18. 22. Mat. 21.42. Act. 4.11. Rom. 9.33. 1 Pet. 2.6.

⁸ He shall be quiet and seeke none other remedies, but bee content with Christ.
⁹ In the restitution of his Church, judgement, and justice shall reign.
¹⁰ Gods corrections and affliction, affliction shall diminish their vaine confidence, which they keepe secret to themselves.

¹¹ Temer and derision shall make you to learn that which exhorations, and gentlenesse could not bring you to.

¹² Your affliction shall bee so sore, that you are not able to endure it.
¹³ When David overcame he Philistines.

¹⁴ Sam. 7.20.
¹⁵ 1 Chron. 14.11.
¹⁶ Where Joshua discomfited five kings of the Amorites, Josh. 10.12.

12 Unto whom¹ he said, ² This is the rest: ³ give rest to him that is weary: and this is the refreshing, but they would not heare.

13 Therefore shall the word of the Lord be unto them precept upon precept, line unto line, line unto line, there a little and there a little, that they may goe, and fall backward, and be broken, and bee snared, and be taken.

14 Wherefore heare the word of the Lord, ye scornfull men that rule this people, which is at Jerusalem.

15 Because yee have said, Wee have made a⁴ covenant with death, and with hell are wee at agreement: though a scourge runne over, and passe through, it shall not come at us: for we have made a⁵ falsehood our refuge, and under vanitie are we hid.

16 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will lay in Zion a stone, a⁶ tried stone, a precious corner stone, a sure foundation. He that beleeveth, ⁷ shall not make haste.

17 Judgement also will I lay to the rule, and ⁸ righteousnesse to the balance, and the ⁹ haile shall sweepe away the vaine confidence, and the waters shall overflow ¹⁰ the secret place.

18 And your covenant with death shall be disanulled, and your agreement with hell shall not stand: when a scourge shall runne over and passe through, then shall ye be troden downe by it.

19 When it passeth over, it shall take you away: for it shall passe through every morning in the day, and in the night, and there shall be onely ¹¹ feare to make you to understand the hearing.

20 For the bed is ¹² streight that it cannot suffice, and the covering narrow that one cannot wrap himselfe.

21 For the Lord shall stand as in mount Perazim: he shall be wroth as in the valley¹³ of Gibeon, that hee may doe his worke, his strange worke, and bring to passe his act, his strange act.

22 Now therefore be no mockers, lest your bonds increase: for I have heard of the Lord of hostes a consumption, even determined upon the whole earth.

23 Harken yee, and heare my voice: hearken yee, and heare my speech.

24 Doth the plow-man plow all the day, to sowe ¹⁴ doth he open, and breake the clods of his ground?

25 When he hath made it¹⁵ plaine, will he not then sow the fitches, and sow cummin, and cast in wheat by measure, and the appointed barley and rye in their place?

26 For his God doth instruct him to have discretion, and doth teach him.

27 For fitches shall not bee threshed with a threshing instrument, neither shall a Cart wheele be turned about upon the cummin: but the fitches are beaten out with a staffe, and cummin with a rod.

28 Bread¹⁶ cometh when it is threshed, he doth not alway thresh it, neither doth the wheele of his cart¹⁷ still make a noise, neither will hee breake it with the teeth thereof.

29 This also cometh from the Lord of hostes, which is wonderfull in counsell, and excellent in works.

CHAP. XXIX.

¹ A prophesie against Jerusalem. ² The vengeance of God on them that follow the traditions of men.

A³ H⁴ altar, altar of the citie that David dwelt in: adde year unto yeare: ⁵ let them kill lambs.

2 But I will bring the altar into distress, and there shall be heavines and sorrow, and it shall be unto me like ⁶ an altar.

3 And I will besiege thee as a circle, and fight against thee on a mount, and will cast up ramparts against thee.

4 So shalt thou be humbled, and shalt speake out of the ⁷ ground, and thy speech shall bee as out of the dust: thy voice also shall bee out of the ground like him that hath a spirit of divination, and thy talking shall whisper out of the dust.

5 Moreover, the multitude of thy ⁸ strangers shall bee like small dust: and the multitude of strong men shall bee as chaffe that passeth away, and it shall be in a moment, ⁹ even suddenly.

6 Thou shalt be visited of the Lord of hostes with thunder, and shaking, and a great noise, a whirlwinde, and a tempest, and a flame of a devouring fire.

7 And the ¹⁰ multitude of all the nations that fight against the altar, shall bee as a dreame, or vision by night: even all they that make the warre against it, and strong holds against it, and lay siege unto it.

8 And it shall bee like as an hungry man dreameth, and behold, ¹¹ he eateth: and when he awaketh, his soule is empty: or like as a thirsty man dreameth, and loe, he is drinking, and when he awaketh, behold he is faint, and his soule longeth: so shall the multitude of all nations bee that fight against mount Zion.

9 Stay your selves, and wonder, they are blinde, and make you blinde: they are drunken, but not with wine: they stagger, but not by strong drinke.

10 For the Lord hath covered you with a spi-

¹ The Hebrew word Ariel, signifieth, the Lion of God, & signifieth the Altar, because the Altar seemeth to devoure the sacrifice that was offered to God, as Ezek. 43.16.

² Your vaine confidence in your sacrifices shall not last long.

³ Your citie shall be full of blood, as an altar whereon they sacrifice. Thy speech shall be no more so little, but abused, and low, as the very charmers which are in low places, and whisper so that their voice can scarce be heard.

⁴ Things hired soldiers in whom thou trustest, shall bee destroyed as dust, or chaffe in a while winde.

⁵ The enemies that I will bring to destroy thee, and that which thou makest thy vaine trust, shall come at unawares even as a dreame in the night. Some read as if this were a comfort to the church for the destruction of their enemies.

⁶ That is, hee thinketh that hee eateth.
⁷ Mese hereon as long as ye list, yet shall ye find nothing but occasion to be astonished: for your Prophets are blinde, and therefore cannot direct you.

a spirit of slumber, and hath shut up your eyes: the Prophets, and your chiefe Seers hath he covered.

11 And the vision of them all is become unto you, as the words of a booke that is sealed up, which they deliver to one that can read, saying, Reade this, I pray thee. Then shall he say, I cannot: for it is sealed.

12 And the booke is given unto him that cannot read, saying, Read this, I pray thee. And he shall say, I cannot read.

13 Therefore the Lord said, Because this people ^k come neere unto mee with their mouth, and honour mee with their lips, but have removed their heart far from mee, and their ^l feare toward mee was taught by the precept of men, 14 Therefore behold, I will againe doe a marvellous worke in this people, even a marvellous worke, and a wonder: for the wisdome of their wise men shall ^m perish, and the understanding of their prudent men shall be hid.

15 Woe unto them that ⁿ seeke deepe to hide their counsell from the Lord: for their workes are in darkenesse, and they say, Who seeth us? and who knoweth us?

16 Your turning of devises shall it not bee esteemed ^o as the potters clay? for shall the worke say of him that made it, He made me not? or the thing formed, say of him that fashioned it, He had none understanding?

17 Is it not yet but a little while, and Lebanon shall be ^p turned into Carmel? and Carmel shall bee counted as a forest?

18 And in that day shall the deafe heare the words of the booke, and the eyes of the blinde shall see out of obscuritie, and out of darkenesse.

19 The meeke in the Lord shall receive joy againe, and the poore men shall reioice in the holy One of Israel.

20 For the cruell man shall cease, and the scornerfull shall be consumed: and all that hastened to iniquity, shall be cut off:

21 Which made a man to sinne in the word, and tooke him in a snare: which reproveth them in the gate, and made the just to fall without cause.

22 Therefore thus saith the Lord unto the house of Jaakob, even hee that redeemed Abraham; Jaakob shall not now be confounded, neither now shall his face be pale.

23 But when he seeth his children, the worke of mine hands, in the mids of him, they shall sanctifie my Name, and sanctifie the holy One of Jaakob, and shall feare the God of Israel.

24 Then they that erred in spirit, shall have understanding, and they that murmured, shall learne doctrine.

CHAP. XXX.

¹ He reproveth the Jewes which in their adversitie used their owne counsels. ² And sought helpe of the Egyptians. ³ Despising the Prophets. ⁴ Therefore hee sheweth what destruction shall come upon them. ⁵ But offereth mercy to the repentant.

WOe to the ^a rebellious children, saith the Lord, that take counsell, but not of me, and ^b cover with a covering, but not by my spirit, that they may lay sinne upon sinne:

2 Which walke forth to goe downe into Egypt (and have not asked at my mouth) to strengthen themselves with the strength of Pharaoh, and trust in the shadow of Egypt.

3 But the strength of Pharaoh shall be your shame, and the trust in the shadow of Egypt your confusion.

4 For his ^c Princes were at Zoan, and his ambassadors came unto Hanes.

5 They shall bee all ashamed of the people that cannot profit them, nor helpe nor doe them good, but shall bee a shame, and also a reproch.

6 ¶ The ^d burden of the beasts of the South, in a land of trouble and anguish, from whence shall come the yong and olde Lion, the Viper, and fiery flying Serpent against them, that shall beare their riches upon the shoulders of the colts, and their treasures upon the bunches of the Camels, to a people that cannot profit.

7 For the Egyptians are vanitie, and they shall helpe in vaine. Therefore have I cried unto ^e her, Their strength ^f is to sit still.

8 Now goe and write ^g it before them in a table, and note it in a booke, that it may be for the ^h last day for ever and ever:

9 That it is a rebellious people, lying children, and children that would not ⁱ heare the Law of the Lord.

10 Which say unto the Seers, See not, and to the Prophets, Prophecie not unto us right things: but speake flattering things unto us: prophecie ^j errors.

11 Depart out of the way: goe aside out of the path, cause the holy One of Israel to cease from us.

12 Therefore thus saith the holy One of Israel, Because you have cast off this word, and trust in ^k violence, and wickednesse, and stay thereupon,

13 Therefore this iniquitie shall be unto you as a breach that falleth, or a swelling in a high wall, whose breaking cometh suddenly in a moment.

14 And the breaking thereof is like the ^r Signifying, that except God give understanding and knowledge, man cannot but erre, and murmur against him.

^a Who contrary to the promise, take not me for their protector, & contrary to my commandement, seeke helpe at strangers. ^b They seeke shifts to cloke their doings, and not godly means.

^c The chiefe of Israel went into Egypt in ambascie to seeke helpe, and abode at these cities.

^d That is, a hevie sentence, or prophecy against the beasts that carried their treasures into Egypt by the wildenes, which was South from Judah: signifying, that if the beasts should not be spared, the men should bee punished much more grievously.

^e To wit, to Jerusalem. ^f And not to come to and fro to seeke helpe. ^g That is, this prophecie. ^h That is, may be a witness against them for all posterity.

ⁱ Hee sheweth what was the cause of their destruction, & bringeth also all miserie to man: to wit, because they would not heare the word of God, but delighted to be flattered & led in error.

^k Threaten us not by the word of God, neither bee so rigorous, nor talke unto us in the name of the Lord, as Jer. 11. 1.

^l Meaning, in their stubbornnes against God, and the admonitions of his Prophets.

ⁱ Meaning, that it is all alike, either to reade, or not to reade, except God open the heart to understand.

^k Because they are hypocrites and not sincere in heart, as Math. 15. 8.

^l That is, their religion was learned by mans doctrine, and not by my word.

^m Meaning, that whereas God is not worshipped according to his word, both magistrates and ministers are but fooles, and without understanding. ⁿ This is spoken of them, which in heart despised Gods word, and mocked at the admonitions, but outwardly bare a good face.

^o For all your craft, saith the Lord, you cannot bee able to escape mine hands, no more then the clay, that is in the potters hands: hath power to deliver it selfe.

^p Shall there not be a change of all things? and Carmel, that is, a plentiful place in respect of what it shall be then, may be taken as a figure, as Chap. 32. 15. and thus he speaketh to comfort the faithfull.

^q They that went about to finde fault with the Prophets words, and would not abide admonitions, but would intangle them, & bring them into danger.

the breaking of a potters pot, which is broken without pitie, and in the breaking thereof is not found^m a heard to take fire out of the hearth, or to take water out of the pit.

15 For thus faith the^a Lord God, the holy One of Israel, In rest and quietnesse shall ye bee saved: in quietnesse and in confidence shall be your strength, but yee would not.

16 For ye have faith, No, but wee will flee away upon^o horses. Therefore shall yee flee. We will ride upon the swiftest. Therefore shal your persecuters be swifter.

17 A thousand as one shall flee at the rebuke of one: at the rebuke of five shall ye flee, till yee be left as a ship mast upon the top of a mountaine, and as a beaken upon an hill.

18 Yet therefore will the Lord waite, that he may have^q mercy upon you, and therefore will he be exalted, that he may have compassion upon you: for the Lord is the God of^r judgement. Blessed are all they that wait for him.

19 Surely a people shall dwel in Zion; and in Jerusalem: thou shalt weepe no more: he wil certainly have mercy upon thee at the voice of thy cry: when he heareth thee, he will answer thee.

20 And when the Lord hath given you the bread of aduersitie, and the water of affliction, thy raine shall be no more kept backe, but thine eies shall see thy^r raine.

21 And thine eares shall heare a word behind thee, saying, This is the way,^s walk ye in it, when thou turnest to the right hand, and when thou turnest to the left.

22 And ye shall^t pollute the covering of the images of silver, and the rich ornament of thine images of gold, and cast them away as a menstruous cloth, and thou shalt say unto it,^v Get thee hence.

23 Then shall hee give raine unto thy seed, when thou shalt sow the ground, and bread of the increase of the earth, and it shall be fat, and as oyle: in that day shall thy cattell be fed in large pastures.

24 The oxen also and the yong asses, that till the ground, shall eate cleane provender, which is winnowed with the shovell and with the fanne.

25 And upon every high^x mountaine, and upon every high hill shall there be rivers, and streames of waters, in the day of the great slaughter, when the towres shall fall.

26 Moreover, the light of the Moone shall be as the light of the^y Sunne, and the light of the Sun shall be seven fold, & like the light of seven daies in the day that the Lord shall bind up the breach of his people, and heale the stroke of their wound.

27 Behold, ^z the Name of the Lord commeth from farre, his face is burning, and the burden thereof is heaue: his lips are full of indignation, and his tongue is as a devouring fire.

28 And his spirit is as a river that overfloweth up to the neck: it devideth a funder, to fanne the nations with the fanne of^a vanitie, and there shall bee a bridle to cause them to erre in the jawes of the people.

29 But there shall be a song unto you as in the^b night, when a solemne feast is kept: and gladnesse of heart, as hee that commeth with a pipe to goe unto the mount of the Lord, to the Mighty one of Israel.

30 And the Lord shall cause his glorious voice to bee heard, and shall declare the lighting downe of his arme with the anger of his countenance, and flame of a devouring fire, with scattering and tempest, and hailestones.

31 For with the voice of the Lord shall Asshur bee destroyed, which smote with the^c rod.

32 And in every place that the staffe shall passe, it shall^d cleave fast, which the Lord shall lay upon him^e with tabrets and harps, and with battels, and lifting up of hands shall he fight against it.

33 For^f Topheth is prepared of old: it is even prepared for the^g King: he hath made it^h deepe and large: the burning thereof is fire and much wood: the breath of the Lord, like a river of brimstone doth kindle it.

CHAP. XXXI.

ⁱ He curseth them that forsake God, and seeke for the helpe of men.

Woe unto them that^j goe downe into Egypt for helpe, and stay upon horses, and trust in charrets, because they are many, and in horsemen, because they are very strong: but they looke not unto the holy One of Israel, nor^k seeke unto the Lord.

2 But he yet is^l wisest: therefore he will bring evill, and not turne backe his word, but he will arise against the house of the wicked, and against the helpe of them that worke vanitie.

3 Now the Egyptians are men, and not God, and their horses flesh, and not spirit: and when the Lord shall stretch out his hand, the^m helper shal fal, & he that is holpen shall fal, and they shal altogether faile.

4 For thus hath the Lord spoken unto me, As the Lion, or Lions whelp roareth upon his prey, against whom if a multitude of shepherds be called, he will not be afraid at their voice, neither wil humble himselfe at their noise: so shall the Lord

^z This threatening is against the Assyrians the chiefe enemies of the people of God.

^a To drive them to nothing: and thus God consumeth the wicked by that meanes whereby he cleareth his.

^b Ye shall rejoice, at the destruction of your enemies. as they that sing for joy of the solemne feast, which began in the evening.

^c Gods plague. d It shall destroy. e With joy and assurance of the victorie.

^f Against Babel: meaning the Assyrians and Babylonians.

^g Here it is taken for hell, where the wicked are tormented; reade 2 King. 23. 10.

^h So that their estate or degree cannot exempt the wicked.

ⁱ By these figurative speeches hee declarerh the condition of the wicked after this life.

^j There were two special causes why the Israelites should not joine amitie with the Egyptians: first, because the Lord had commanded them never to returne thither. Deut. 17. 16. and 28. 68. lest they should forget the benefit of their redemption: and secondly, lest they should be corrupted with the superstition and idolatry of the Egyptians, and so forsake God. Jer. 2. 18.

^k Meaning, that they forsake the Lord, that put their trust in worldly things: for they cannot trust in both.

^l And knoweth their craftie enterprises, and will bring all to naught.

^m Meaning, both the Egyptians and the Israelites.

^m Signifying, that the destruction of the wicked shall be without recovery.

ⁿ Oft times by his Prophets hee put you in remembrance of this, that you should only depend on him.

^o We will trust to escape by our horses.

^p Whereas all the trees are cut down five two or three to make masts.

^q He commendeth the great mercies of God, who with patience waiteth to call sinners to repentance.

^r Not onely in punishing, but in using moderation in the same, as Jer. 10. 24. and Joel. 1.

^s i. iustitiam.

^t God shall direct all thy waies, and appoint thee how to goe either hither or thither.

^u Ye shall cast away your idoles, which you have made of gold and silver, with all that belongeth unto them, as a most filthy thing and polluted.

^v Shewing, that there can be no true repentance, except both in heart and deed we shew our selves enemies to idolatry.

^x By these divers names of speech he sheweth, that the felicity of the Church shall be so great, that none is able sufficiently to expresse it.

^y When the Church shall be reformed, the glory thereof shall passe seven times the brightness of the Sunne: for by the Sunne & Moone, which are two excellent creatures, he sheweth what shall be the glory of the children of God in the kingdom of Christ.

^a He sheweth the Jews, that if they would put their trust in him, hee is so able, that none can resist his power: and so carefull over them, as a bird over her young, which ever flieth about them for their defence: which similitude the scripture useth in divers places, as Denton. 32. 11. Matth. 23. 37. ^f Hee toucheth their conscience, that they might earnestly feel their grievous sins, and so truly repent, for as much as now they are almost drowned and past recoverie. ^g By these fruits your repentance shall be known, as Chap. 2. 18. ^h When your repentance appeareth. ⁱ This was accomplished soone after, when Saneheribs armie was discomfited, and he fled to his castle in Nineveh for succour. ^k To destroy his enemies.

of hostes come down to fight for mount Zion, and for the hill thereof.

5 As birds that flee, so shall the Lord of hostes defend Jerusalem by defending and delivering, by passing thorow and preserving it.

6 O ye children of Israel, turne again, in as much as ye are sunken deepe in rebellion.

7 For in that day every man shall cast out his idoles of silver, and his idoles of gold, which your hands have made you, even a sinne.

8 Then shall Asshur fall by the sword, not of man, neither shall the sword of man devoure him, and he shall flee from the sword, and his young men shall faint.

9 And hee shall goe for feare to his towre, and his princes shall be afraid of the standard, saith the Lord, whose fire is in Zion, and his furnace in Jerusalem.

CHAP. XXXII.

The conditions of good rulers and officers described by the government of Hezekiah, who was the figure of Christ.

^a This prophesie is of Hezekiah, who was a figure of Christ, and therefore it ought chiefly to be referred to him. ^b By judgement and justice, is meant an upright government both in policie and religion. ^c Where men are werie with travelling, for lacke of water. ^d Hee promiseth to give the true light, which is the pure doctrine of Gods word, and understanding and zeale of the same, contrary to the threatnings against the wicked, Chap. 6. 9. and 29. 10. ^e Vice shall no more be called vertue, nor vertue esteemed by power and riches.

BEhold, a King shall reigne in justice, and the princes shall rule in judgement.

2 And that man shall be as an hiding place from the winde, and as a refuge for the tempest: as rivers of waters in a drie place, and as the shadow of a great rocke in a wearie land.

3 The eies of the seeing shall not be shut, and the eares of them that heare, shall hearken.

4 And the heart of the foolish shall understand knowledge, and the tongue of the stutters shall be readie to speake distinctly.

5 A niggard shall no more be called liberall, nor the churle rich.

6 But the niggard will speak of niggardnesse, and his heart will worke iniquitie, and doe wickedly, and speake falsly against the Lord, to make emptie the hungrie soul, and to cause the drink of the thirstie to faile.

7 For the weapons of the churle are wicked: he deviseth wicked counsels to undoe the poore with lying words, and to speake against the poore in judgement.

8 But the liberall man will devise of liberall things: and he will continue his liberalitie.

9 Rise up yee women, that are at ease, heare my voice, ye carelesse daughters: hearken to my words.

10 Ye women that are carelesse, shall be in feare above a yeare in daies: for the vintage shall faile, and the gathering shall come no more.

11 Yee women that are at ease, be astonished: feare, O ye carelesse women: put off the clothes: make bare, and gird sackcloth upon the loines.

12 Men shall lament for the teates, even for the pleasant fields, and for the fruitfull vine.

13 Upon the land of my people shall grow thornes and briers: yea, upon all the houses of joy in the citie of reioicing.

14 Because the palace shall bee forsaken, and the noise of the citie shall bee left: the towre and fortress shall be dennes for ever, and the delight of wilde asses, and a pasture for flocks, 15 Untill the spirit be powred upon us from above, and the wilderness become a fruitfull field, and the plenteous field be counted as a forest.

16 And judgement shall dwell in the desert, and justice shall remaine in the fruitfull field.

17 And the worke of justice shall bee peace, even the worke of justice and quietnesse, and assurance for ever.

18 And my people shall dwell in the Tabernacle of peace, and in sure dwellings, and in safe resting places.

19 When it haileth, it shall fall on the forest, and the citie shall be set in the low place.

20 Blessed are yee that sow upon all waters, and drive thither the feet of the oxe and the asse.

but as a wilderness, where no fruits were. ^m They shall not need to build it in high places for feare of the enemy: for God will defend it, and turne away the formes from hurting of their commodities. ⁿ That is, upon fat ground and well watered, which bringeth forth in abundance: or in places which before were covered with waters, and now made drie for your uses. ^o The fields shall bee so ranke, that they shall find out their cattell to eat up their first crop, which abundance shall bee signes of Gods favour and love towards them.

CHAP. XXXIII.

1 The destruction of them by whom God hath punished his Church.

WOE to thee that spoilest, and wast not spoiled: and doest wickedly, and they did not wickedly against thee: when thou shalt cease to spoile, thou shalt bee spoiled: when thou shalt make an end of doing wickedly, they shall doe wickedly against thee.

2 O Lord, have mercy upon us, we have waited for thee: be thou, which wast their arme in the morning, our helpe also in time of trouble.

3 At the noise of the tumult the people fled: at thine exalting the nations were scattered.

4 And your spoile shall be gathered like the gathering of caterpillers: and hee

^k That is, when the Church shall be restored: thus the Prophets after they have denounced Gods judgments against the wicked, use to comfort the godly, lest they should faint.

^l The field which is now fruitfull, shall bee but as a barren forest in comparison of that it shall bee then, as Chap. 29. 17. which shall be fulfilled in Christs time, for then they that were before, as the barren wilderness, being regenerate, shall be fruitful, and they that had some beginning of godliness, shall bring forth fruits in such abundance, that their former life shall seeme

^a Meaning, the enemies of the Church, as were the Caldeans, and Assyrians: but chiefly of Saneherib, but not only.

^b When thine appointed time shall come, that God shall take away thy power: and that which thou hast wrongfully gotten, shall be given to others, as Amos 5. 11.

^c The Caldeans shall doe like to the Assyrians, as the Assyrians did to Israel: and the Medes and Persians shall doe the same to the Caldeans.

^d Hee declareth hereby what is the 5 The Lord is exalted: for he dwelleth on high: hee hath filled Zion with judgement and justice.

6 And there shall be stabilitie of thy times, strength, salvation, wisdom, and knowledge: for the feare the Lord shall be his treasure.

7 Behold, ¹ their messengers shall crie without, and the ^m Ambassadors of peace shall weepe bitterly.

8 The ⁿ paths are waste: the wayfaring man ceaseth: he hath broken the covenant: he hath contemned the cities: he regardeth no man.

9 The earth mourneth and fainteth: Lebanon is ashamed and hewen downe: ^o Sharon is like a wilderness, and Bashan is shaken, and Carmel.

10 Now will I ^p arise, saith the Lord: now will I be exalted, now will I lift up my selfe.

11 ^q Yee shall conceive chaffe, and bring forth stubble: the fire of your breath shall devoure you.

12 And the people shall be as the burning of lime: and as the thornes cut up, shall they be burnt in the fire.

13 Heare yee that are ^r farre off, what I have done, and yee that are neere, know my power.

14 The ^r sinners in Zion are afraid: a feare is come upon the hypocrites: who among us shall dwell with the devouring fire? who among us shall dwell with the everlasting burnings?

15 Hee that walketh in justice, and speaketh righteous things, refusing gaine of oppression, shaking his hands from taking of gifts, stopping his eares from hearing of blood, and shutting his eyes from seeing evill:

16 Hee shall dwell on ^t high: his defence shall be the munitions of rockes: bread shall be given him, and his waters shall be sure.

17 Thine eyes shall ^u see the King in his glorie: they shall behold the land ^x farre off.

18 Thine heart ^y shall meditate feare, Where is the scribe? Where is the receiver? Where is hee that counted the towres.

19 Thou shalt not see a fierce people, a people of a darke speech, that thou canst not perceive, and of a stammering tongue that thou canst not understand.

20 Looke upon Zion the cite of our solemn feasts: thine eyes shall see Jerusalem a quiet habitation, a Tabernacle that cannot be removed: and the stakes thereof can never be taken away, neither shall any of the cords thereof be broken.

21 For surely there the mightie Lord will be unto us as a place of ^z fouds, and broad rivers, whereby shall passe no ship with oares, neither shall great ship passe thereby.

22 For the Lord ^z is our Judge, the Lord ^z is our law-giver: the Lord ^z is our King, hee will save us.

23 Thy ^a cords are loosed: they could not well strengthen their mast, neither could they spread the saile: then shall the ^b prey be divided for a great spoile: yea, the lame shall take away the prey.

24 And none inhabitant shall say, I am sicke: the people that dwell therein, shall have their iniquitie forgiven.

CHAP. XXXIV.

² He sheweth that God punisheth the wicked for the love that he beareth toward his Church.

Come neare, ye ^a nations and heare, and hearken, ye people: let the earth heare and all that is therein, the world, and all that proceedeth thereof.

2 For the indignation of the Lord ^z is upon all nations, and his wrath upon all their armies: he hath ^b destroyed them, and delivered them to the slaughter.

3 And their slaine shall be cast out, and their stinke shall come out of their bodies, and the mountaines shall be melted with their blood.

4 And all the hoste of heaven shall be ^c dissolved, and the heavens shall be folded like a booke: and all their hostes shall fall as the leafe falleth from the vine, and as it falleth from the figge-tree.

5 For my sword shall be ^d drunken in the heaven: behold, it shall come down upon Edom, even upon the people of ^e my curse to judgement.

6 The sword of the Lord is filled with blood: it is made fat with the fat and with the blood of the ^f lambes and the goates, with the fat of the kidnies of the rammes: for the Lord hath a sacrifice in ^g Bozrah, and a great slaughter in the land of Edom.

7 And the ^h unicorn shall come down with them, and the heifers with the bulles, and their land shall be drunken with blood, and their dust made fat with fatnesse.

8 For ⁱ it is the day of the Lords vengeance, and the yeare of recompence for the judgement of Zion.

9 And the rivers thereof shall be turned into pitch, and the dust thereof into ^j brimstone, and the land thereof shall be burning pitch.

10 It shall not be quenched night nor day: the smoke thereof shall goe up ever-

^a Hee derideth the Assyrians and enemies of the Church, declaring their destruction as they that perish by shipwracke. ^b He comforteth the Church, and sheweth that they shall be enriched with all benefits both of body and soule.

^a He prophesieth of the destruction of the Edomites, and other nations which were enemies to the Church.

^b God hath determined in his counsell, and hath given sentence for their destruction.

^c Hee speaketh thus, in respect of mans judgement, who in great feare and horrible troubles, thinketh that heaven and earth perisheth.

^d I have determined in my secret counsell, and in the heavens, to destroy them till my sword be wearie with shedding of blood.

^t Meaning, that God will be a sure defence to all them that live according to his word.

^u They shall see Hezekiah delivered from his enemies, and restored to honour and glorie. ^x They shall be no more shut in as they were by Saneherib, but goe where it pleaseth them.

^y Before that this liberty cometh, thou shalt thinke that thou art in great danger: for the enemy shall so surely assail you, that one shall cry, Where is the clerk that writeth the names of them that are taxed? 14 There shall ⁿ meet also Zim and Jim, and the Satyre shall cry to his fellow, and the shrich-owle shall rest there, and shall finde for her selfe a quiet dwelling.

15 There ^o shall the owle make her nest, and lay, and hatch, and gather them under her shadow: there shall the vultures also bee gathered, every one with her mate.

16 Seeke in the ^p booke of the Lord, and reade: none of ^q these shall faile, none shall want her mate: for his ^r mouth hath commanded, and his very Spirit hath gathered them.

NOW ^a in the ^b fourteenth yeare of King Hezekiah, Saneherib King of Asshur came up against all the strong cities of Judah, and tooke them.

2 And the King of Asshur sent Rabshakeh from Lachish toward Jerusalem unto King Hezekiah with a great hoste, and he stood by the conduit of the upper poole, in the path of the fullers field.

3 Then came forth unto him Eliakim the sonne of Hilkiah the ^c steward of the house, and Shebna ^d the chancelour, and Joah the sonne of Asaph the recorder.

4 And ^e Rabshakeh said unto them, Tell you Hezekiah, I pray you, Thus saith the great King, the King of Asshur, What confidence is this, wherein thou trustest?

5 I say, ^f surely I have eloquence, but counsell and strength are for the warre: on whom then dost thou trust, that thou rebellest against me?

6 Loe, thou trustest in this broken staffe of reed, on Egypt, whereupon if a man leane, it will goe into his hand, and pearce it: so ^g is Pharaoh King of Egypt, unto all that trust in him.

^a This historie is reheared, because it is a feale and confirmation of the doctrine afore, both for the threatnings and promises, to wit, that God would suffer his Church to be afflicted, but at length would send deliverance. ^b When hee had abolished superstition and idolatry, and restored religion, yet God would exercise his Church, to trie their faith and patience. ^c For he was now restored to his office as Isaiah had prophesied Chap. 22. 20. ^d This declareth, that there were few godly to bee found in the Kinges house when he was driven to send this wicked man in such a weightie matter. ^e Saneheribs chief captain. ^f He speaketh this in the person of Hezekiah, falsely charging him that hee put his trust in wit and eloquence, whereas his onely confidence was in the Lord. ^g Satan laboured to pull the godly king from one vaine confidence to another: to wit, from trust in the Egyptians, whose power was weak and would deceive them, to yeeld himselfe to the Assyrians and so not to hope for any helpe of God.

rooke downe, and said to Judah and to Jerusalem, Yee shall worship before this altar?

8 Now therefore give hostages to my lord the king of Asshur, and I will give thee two thousand horses, if thou be able on thy part to set riders upon them.

9 For how canst thou despise any captaine of the least of my lords servants? and put thy trust on Egypt for charrets and for horsemen?

10 And am I now come up without the Lord to this land to destroy it? The Lord said unto me, ⁱ Goe up against this land, and destroy it.

11 ¶ Then said Eliakim, and Shebna, and Joah unto Rabshakeh, ^k Speake, I pray thee, to thy servants in the Aramites language, (for we understand it) and talk not with us in the Jewes tongue, in the audience of the people that are on the wall.

12 Then said Rabshakeh, Hath my master sent me to thy master and to thee, to speake these words, and not to the men that sit on the wall? that they may eate their owne dounge, and drinke their owne pissle with you?

13 So Rabshakeh stood and cried with a loud voice in the Jewes language, and said, Heare the words of the great king, of the king of Asshur.

14 Thus saith the King, Let not Hezekiah deceive you: for he shall not be able to deliver you.

15 Neither let Hezekiah make you to trust in the Lord, saying, The Lord will surely deliver us: this citie shall not be given over into the hand of the king of Asshur.

16 Harken not to Hezekiah: for thus saith the king of Asshur, Make ^l appointment with me, and come out to me, that every man may eate of his owne vine, and every man of his owne figge-tree, and drinke every man the water of his owne well,

17 Till I come and bring you to a land like your owne land, even a land of wheat and wine, a land of bread and vineyards, 18 Left Hezekiah deceive you, saying, The Lord will deliver us. Hath any of the gods of the nations delivered his land out of the hand of the King of Asshur?

19 Where is the god of ^m Hamath, and of Arpad? where is the god of Sepharvaim? or how have they delivered Samaria out of my hand?

20 Who is he among all the gods of these lands, that hath delivered their countrey out of mine hand, that the Lord should deliver Jerusalem out of mine hand?

21 Then they ⁿ kept silence, and answered him not a word: for the Kings commandement was, saying, Answer him not.

22 Then came Eliakim the sonne of Hilkiah the steward of the house, and Shebna the chancellor, and Joah the sonne of Asaph the recorder, unto Hezekiah with rent clothes, and told him the words of Rabshakeh.

CHAP. XXXVII.

² Hezekiah asketh counsell of Isaiah, who promiset him the victorie. ¹⁰ The blasphemie of Saneherib. ¹⁶ Hezekiahs praier. ³⁶ The Armie of Saneherib is slaine of the Angel. ³⁸ And he himselfe of his owne sonnes.

AND * when the King Hezekiah heard it, he ^a rent his clothes, and put on sack-cloth, and came into the house of the Lord.

2 And he sent Eliakim the steward of the house, and Shebna the chancellor, with the Elders of the Priests, clothed in sack-cloth, unto ^b Isaiah the Prophet, the sonne of Amoz.

3 And they said unto him, Thus saith Hezekiah, This day is a day of tribulation and of rebuke and blasphemie: for the children are come to the ^c birth, and there is no strength to bring forth.

4 If so bee the Lord thy God hath ^d heard the words of Rabshakeh, whom the King of Asshur his master hath sent to raile on the living God, and to reproach him with words which the Lord thy God hath heard, then ^e lift thou up thy praier for the remnant that are left.

5 So the servants of the King Hezekiah came to Isaiah.

6 And Isaiah said unto them, Thus say unto your Master, Thus saith the Lord, Bee not afraid of the words that thou hast heard, wherewith the servants of the king of Asshur hath blasphemed me.

7 Behold, I will send a blast upon him, and he shall heare a ^f noise, and returne to his owne land, and I will cause him to fall by the sword in his owne land.

8 ¶ So Rabshakeh returned, and found the king of Asshur fighting against ^g Libnah: for he had heard that hee was departed from Lachish.

9 He heard also men say to Tirhakah king of Ethiopia, Behold, he is come out to fight against thee: and when he heard it, he sent other messengers to Hezekiah, saying,

10 Thus shall yee speake to Hezekiah king of Judah, saying, Let not thy God ^h deceive thee, in whom thou trustest, saying, Jerusalem shall not be given into the hand of the King of Asshur.

11 Behold, thou hast heard what the kings of Asshur have done to all lands in destroy-ⁿ Not that they did not shew by evident signes, that they did detest his blasphemie; for they had now rent their clothes, but they knew it was in vaine to use long reasoning with this infidel, whose rage they should have so much more provoked.

^a 2 King. 19. 1. In signe of grief and repentance.

^b To have comfort of him by the word of God, that his faith might be confirmed, and so his praier bee more earnest: teaching hereby that in all dangers these two are the onely remedies, to fecke unto God and his Ministers.

^c Wee are in as great sorrow as a woman that travaileth of child, and cannot bee delivered.

^d That is, will declare by effect that he hath heard it: for when God deferreth to punish, it seemeth to the flesh, that he knoweth not the sin, or heareth not the cause.

^e Declaring, that the ministers of- fice doth not only stand in comforting by the word, but also in praying for the people.

^f Of the Egyptians and Ethiopians, that shall come to fight against him.

^g Which was a citie toward Egypt, thinking thereby to have raised the force of his enemies.

^h Thus God would have him to utter a most horrible blasphemie before his destruction: as to call the author of all truth, a deceiver: some gather hereby, that Shebna had disclosed unto Saneherib this answer: thus Isaiah sent to the king.

ⁱ Or, turne backe. ^h Hezekiah this small power, which is not able to resist one of Saneheribs least captaines.

^j Thus the wicked to deceive us, will pretend the Name of the Lord: but we must trie the spirits, whether they bee of God or no. ^k They were afraid, lest by his words he should have stirred the people against the king, and also pretended to grow to some appointment with him.

^l Or, the water of your pit.

^m The Hebrew word signifieth blessing: whereby this wicked captaine would have persuaded the people that their condition should bee better under Saneherib, then under Hezekiah.

ⁿ That is, of Antiochia in Syria, of the which these two other cities also were: whereby we see how evertie towne had his peculiar idole, and how the wicked make God an idole, because they doe not understand that God maketh them his scourge, and punisheth cities for sinne.

destroying them, and shalt thou be delivered?

i Which was a citie of the Medes.
k Called also Charre, a citie in Mesopotamia, whence Abraham came after his fathers death.

12 Have the gods of the nations delivered them, which my fathers have destroyed? asⁱ Gozan, and^k Haran, and Rezech, and the children of Eden which were at Telassar?

13 Where is the King of Hamath, and the King of Arpad, and the King of the citie of Sepharvaim, Hena and Jvah?

14 ¶ So Hezekiah received the letter of the hand of the messengers, and read it, and hee went up into the house of the Lord, and Hezekiah spread it before the Lord.

15 And Hezekiah prayed unto the Lord, saying, l Hee groundeth his praier on Gods promise, who promised to heare the from between the Cherubims, 16 O Lord of hostes, God of Israel, which^l dwellest betweene the Cherubims, thou art very God alone over all the kingdomes of the earth: thou hast made the heaven and the earth.

17 Encline thine eare, O Lord, and heare: open thine eies, O Lord, and see: and heare all the words of Saneherib, who hath sent to blaspheme the living God.

m Meaning, of the ten tribes.

18 Truth it is, O Lord, that the kings of Asshur have destroyed all lands, and in their countreys, 19 And have cast their gods in the fire: for they were no gods, but the worke of mens hands, even wood or stone: therefore they destroyed them.

n Hee declareth for what cause hee praied, that they might be delivered: to wit, that God might be glorified thereby, through all the world.

20 Now therefore, O Lord our God, save thou us out of his hand, thatⁿ all the kingdomes of the earth may know, that thou onely art the Lord.

21 ¶ Then Isaiah the sonne of Amoz sent unto Hezekiah, saying, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Because thou hast praied unto me, concerning Saneherib king of Asshur, o Whom God had chosen to himself as a chaste virgin, and over whom hee had care to preserve her from the lusts of the tyrant, as a father would have over his daughter, 22 This is the word that the Lord hath spoken against him, The^o virgin, the daughter of Zion hath despised thee, and laughed thee to scorne; the daughter of Jerusalem hath shaken her head at thee.

p Declaring hereby, that they that are enemies to Gods Church, fight against him, whose quarell his Church onely maintaineth.

23 Whom hast thou railed on and blasphemed? and against whom hast thou exalted thy voice, and lifted up thine eies on high? even against the^p holy One of Israel.

q He boasteth of his policy, in that that he can finde means to nourish his power, and of that his armie is so great, that it is able to drie up whole rivers, and to destroy the waters, which the Jewes had closed in.

24 By thy servants hast thou railed on the Lord, and said, By the multitude of my charets I am come up to the top of the mountaines, to the sides of Lebanon, and will cut downe the high cedars thereof, and the faire firre-trees thereof, and I will goe up to the heights of his top, and to the forest of his fruitfull places.

25 I have digged^q and drunke the waters, and with the plant of my feet have I dried all the rivers closed in.

r Signifying, that God made not his Church to destroy it, but to preserve it: and therefore hee saith, that hee formed it of old even in his eternall counsell, which cannot be changed.
s Ebr. art thou in hand.

27 Whose inhabitants^r have small power, and are afraid and confounded: they are like the grasse of the field and greene herbe, or grasse on the house tops, or corne blasted^s afore it bee growne.

t Hee sheweth, that the state and power of most flourishing cities, endureth but a moment, in respect of the Church, which shall remaine for ever, because God is the maintainer thereof.

28 But I know thy dwelling, and thy going out, and thy comming in, and thy furie against me.

u Meaning, his counsels and enterprises.

29 Because thou ragest against me, and thy tumult is come up into mine eares, therefore will I put my^u hooke in thy nostrils, and my bridle in thy lips, and will bring thee backe againe the same way thou^v camest.

v Because Saneherib shewed himselfe as a devouring fish and furious beast, he useth these similitudes to teach how he will take him and guide him.

30 And this shall bee a^w signe unto thee, O Hezekiah, Thou shalt eate this yeare such as groweth of it selfe: and the^x second yeare, such things as grow without sowing: and in the third yeare, sow ye and reape, and plant vineyards, and eat the fruit thereof.

x Thou shalt lose thy labour.

31 And the^y remnant that is escaped of the house of Judah, shall againe take root downward, and beare fruit upward.

y God giveth signes after two sorts: some goe before the thing, as the signes that Moyses wrought in Egypt, which were for the confirmation of their faith: and some go after the thing, as the sacrifice, which they were commanded to make three daies after their departure: and these latter, are to keep the remembrance of the which fort this here is.

32 For out of Jerusalem shall goe a remnant, and they that escape out of mount Zion: the zeale of the Lord of hostes shall doe this.

z Hee promiseth, that for two years the ground of it selfe should feed them.

33 Therefore thus saith the Lord, concerning the King of Asshur, He shall not enter into this citie, nor shoot an arrow there, nor come before it with shield, nor cast a mount against it.

a They, whom God hath delivered out of the hands of the Assyrians, shall prosper, and this property belongeth to the Church.

34 By the same way that he came, he shall returne, and not come into this citie, saith the Lord.

35 For I will defend this citie to save it, for mine owne sake, and for my servant^b Davids sake.

b For my promise sake made to David.

36 ¶ Then the Angel of the Lord went out, and smote in the campe of Asshur, an hundreth, fourescore, and five thousand: so when they arose early in the morning, behold, they were all dead corpses.

1 Hezekiah is sicke. 5 He is restored to health by the Lord, and liveth fifteen yeares after. 10 Hee giveth thanks for his benefitt.

ABout that ^a time was Hezekiah sicke unto the death, and the Prophet Isaiahs, sonne of Amoz, came unto him, and said unto him, Thus saith the Lord, Put thine house in an order, for thou shalt die, and not live.

² Then Hezekiah ^b turned his face to the wall, and praied to the Lord, ³ And said, I beseech thee, Lord, remember now, how I have walked before thee in truth, and with a perfect heart, and have done that which is good in thy sight: and Hezekiah wept fore.

⁴ ¶ Then came the word of the Lord to Isaiahs, saying,

⁵ Goe, and say unto Hezekiah, Thus saith the Lord God of David thy Father, I have heard thy prayer, and seene thy teares: behold, I will adde unto thy daies fifteen yeares.

⁶ And I will deliver thee ^c out of the hand of the King of Aschur, and this citie: for I will defend this citie.

⁷ And ^d this signe shalt thou have of the Lord, that the Lord will doe this thing that he hath spoken.

⁹ ^f The writing of Hezekiah King of Judah, when he had beene sicke, and was recovered of his sicknesse.

¹⁰ I said in the ^g cutting off of my daies, I shall goe to the gates of the grave: I am deprived of the residue of my yeares.

¹¹ I said, ^h I shall not see the Lord, even the Lord in the land of the living: I shall see man no more among the inhabitants of the world.

¹³ I reckoned ^l to the morning: but hee brake all my bones, like a lion: from day to night wilt thou make an end of me.

¹⁴ Like a crane, or a swallow, so did I ^m chatter: I did mourne as a dove: mine eies were lift up on high: O Lord, ⁿ it hath oppressed me, comfort me.

¹⁵ What shall I say? ^o for he hath said it to me, and he hath done it, I shall walk weakly all my yeares in the bitternesse of my soule.

¹⁶ O Lord, ^p to them that overlive them, and to all that are in them, the life of my spirit shall be knowne, that thou causest me to ^q sleep, and hast given life to me.

¹⁷ Behold, for ^r felicity I had bitter griefe, but it was thy pleasure to deliver my soule from the pit of corruption: for thou hast cast all my sins ^s behinde thy back.

¹⁸ For ^t the grave cannot confesse thee: death cannot praise thee: they that go down into the pit, cannot hope of thy truth.

¹⁹ But the living, the living, hee shall confesse thee, as I do this day: the father to the ^u children shall declare thy truth.

²⁰ The Lord was ready to save mee: therefore wee will sing my song, all the daies of ^v our life in the house of the Lord.

²¹ Then said Isaiahs, Take a lump of dry figs, and ^w lay it upon the boyle, and he shall recover.

²² Also Hezekiah ^x had said, What is the signe, and I shall go up into the House of the Lord?

Hezekiah is reproved, because he sheweth his treasures unto the Ambassadors of Babylon.

AT ^a the same time, ^a Merodachbaladan, the son of Baladan, King of Babel, sent ^b letters, and a present to Hezekiah: for he had heard that hee had been sick, and was recovered.

² And Hezekiah was ^c glad of them, and shewed them the house of the treasures, the silver, and the gold, and the spices, and the precious oyntment, and all the house of his armour, and all that was found in his treasures: there was nothing in his house, nor in all his kingdom that Hezekiah shewed them not.

³ Then came Isaiahs the Prophet unto King Hezekiah, and said unto him, What said these men? and from whence came they to thee? And Hezekiah said, They are come from a farre countrey unto me, from Babel.

⁴ Then said he, What have ^d they seen in thine house? And Hezekiah answered, All that is in mine house have they seen: there is nothing among my treasures that I have not shewed them.

28 Knowest thou not, or hast thou not heard; that the everlasting God, the Lord hath created the^d ends of the earth? hee neither fainteth, nor is weary: there is no searching of his^e understanding.

29 But hee giveth strength unto him that fainteth, and unto him that hath no strength, he increaseth power.

30^f Even the young men shall faint, and be weary, and the young men shall stumble and fall.

31 But they that waite upon the Lord, shall renew their strength: they shall lift up their wings as the Eagles: they shall runne, and not bee weary, and they shall walke, and not faint.

CHAP. XLI.

2 Gods mercie in chusing his people. 6 Their Idolatrie.
27 Deliverance promised to Zion.

Keepe^a silence before me, O Islands, and let the people^b renew their strength: let them come neere, and let them speake: let us come together into judgement.

2 Who raised up^c justice from the East, and called him to his foot? and gave the nations before him, and subdued the Kings? he gave them as dust to the sword, and as scattered stubble unto his bow.

3 He pursued them, and passed safely by the way that he had not gone with his feet:

4 Who hath wrought and done it? he that calleth the^d generations from the beginning. I the Lord am the^e first, and with the last I am the same.

5 The Isles saw it, and did^f feare, and the ends of the earth were abashed, drew neere, and came.

6 Every man helped his neighbour, and said to his brother, Be strong.

7 So the workemen comforted the founder, and hee that smote with the hammer, him that smote by course, saying, It is ready for the sodring, and he fastned it with nailes, that it should not be moved.

8 ¶ But thou, Israel, art myⁱ servant, and thou Jaakob, whom I have chofen, the seed of Abraham my friend.

9 For I have taken thee from the ends of the earth, and called thee before the chiefe thereof, and said unto thee, Thou art my servant, I have chofen thee, and not cast thee away.

10 Feare thou not, for I am with thee: be not afraid, for I am thy God: I will strengthen thee, and help thee, and will sustaine thee with the^k right hand of my justice.

11 Behold, all they that provoke thee, shall be ashamed and confounded: they shall be as nothing, and they that strive with thee, shall perish.

12 Thou shalt seeke them, and shalt not^l finde them: to wit, the men of strife, for they shall bee as nothing, and the men that warre against thee as a thing of nought.

13 For I the Lord thy God will hold thy right hand, saying unto thee; Feare not, I will helpe thee.

14 Feare not, thou^m worrne, Jaakob, and yee men of Israel: I will helpe thee, faith the Lord, and thy Redeemer the holy One of Israel.

15 Behold, I will make thee a roller, and a new threshing instrument having teeth: thou shalt thresh theⁿ mountaines, and bring them to powder, and shalt make the hills as chaffe.

16 Thou shalt fanne them, and the winde shall carry them away, and the whirlwind shall scatter them: and thou shalt rejoice in the Lord, and shalt glory in the holy One of Israel.

17 When^o the poore and the needy seek water, and there is none (their tongue faileth for thirst: I the Lord will heare them: I the God of Israel will not forsake them.)

18 I will open rivers in the tops of the hills, and fountaines in the mids of the valleys. I will make the wilderness as a poole of water, and the wast^p land as springs of water.

19 I will set in the wilderness the Cedar, the Shittah tree, and the Myrrhe tree, and the Pine tree, and I will set in the wilderness the Firre tree, the Elme, and the Boxe tree together.

20 Therefore let them see and know, and let them consider and understand together that the hand of the Lord hath done this, and the holy One of Israel hath created it.

21 Stand to your cause, faith the Lord: bring forth your strong reasons, faith the King of Jaakob.

22 Let them bring them forth, and let them tell us what shall come: let them shew the former things what they be, that we may consider them, and know the latter end of them: either declare us things for to come.

23 Shew the things that are to come hereafter, that wee may know that yee are gods: yea, doe good or doe evill, that we may declare it, and behold it together.

24 Behold, ye are of no value, and your making is of nought: man hath^r chofen an abomination by them.

25 ¶ I have raised up^s from the North,

^a And therefore power is in his hand, to deliver when his time cometh.
^e Shewing, that men must patiently abide, and not curiously seek out the cause of Gods delay in our afflictions.
^f They that trust in their own vertue, and doe not acknowledge that all cometh of God.

^a God, as though hee pleaded his cause with all nations, requireth silence, that hee may be heard in his right.
^b This is, gather all their power and supports.
^c Who called Abraham (who was the paterne of Gods justice in delivering his Church) from the idolatry of the Caldeans, to goe to and fro at his commandment, and placed him in the land of Canaan.

^d Who hath created man and maintained his succession.
^e Though the world set up never so many gods, yet they diminish nothing of my glory: for I am alone, unchangeable, which have ever beene, and shall bee for ever.
^f Considering mine excellent works among my people.
^g They assembled themselves, and conspired against me to maintain their idolatry.
^h He noteth the obstinacie of the idolaters to maintain their superstition.
ⁱ And therefore oughtest not to pollute thy selfe with the superstition of the Gentiles.

^k That is, by the force of my promise, in the performance whereof I will shew my selfe faithfull and just.

^l Because they shall be destroyed.

^m Thus hee calleth them, because they were contemned of all the world, and that they, considering their owne poore estate, should seek unto him for helpe.
ⁿ I will make thee able to destroy all thine enemies, be they never so mighty: and this chiefly is referred to the kingdom of Christ.

^o That is, they that shall be afflicted in the captivity of Babylon.

^p God will rather change the order of nature, then they should want any thing, that cry to him by true faith in their miseries: declaring to them heereby, that they shall lack nothing by the way, when they returne from Babylon.

^q That is, hath appointed, and determined, that it shall so come to passe.
^r He biddeth the idolaters to prove their religion, and to bring forth their idoles, that they may be tried whether they know all things, and can doe all things, which if they cannot doe, hee concludeth, that they are no gods, but vile idoles.

^s So that a man cannot make an idole, but he must doe that, which God detesteth & abhorreth: for he chuseth his owne devices, and for a keth the Lords.

^t Meaning, the Caldeans.

v That is, Cyrus who shall doe all things in my Name, and by my direction: where- by hee meaneth, that both their captivity, and de- liverance shall be ordered by Gods providence and appointment.
x Both of the Chaldeans and others.
y Meaning, that none of the Gen- tiles gods, can worke any of these things.
z That is, the Is- raelites which re- turne from the captivity.
a To wit, a con- tinuall succession of Prophets and Ministers.
b When I looked whether the i- deles could doe these things, I found that they had neither wil- dome nor power to doe any thing: therefore hee con- cludeth, that all are wicked that trust in such va- nities.

and hee shall come: from the East sunne shall v he call upon my Name, and shall come upon^a princes as upon clay, and as the potter treadeth myre under the foot.

26 Who hath declared from the be- ginning, that we may know? or before time, that we may say, He is righteous? Surely there is none that sheweth: surely there is none that declareth: surely there is none that heareth v your words.

27 I am the first that saith to Zion, Be- hold, behold^z them: and I will give to Jerusalem^a one that shall bring good ri- dings.

28 But when^b I beheld, there was none, and when I inquired of them, there was no counsellor, and when I de- manded of them they answered not a word.

29 Behold, they are all vanitie: their worke is of nothing, their images are winde and confusion.

CHAP. XLII.

1 The obedience and humilitie of Christ. 6 Why hee was sent into the world. 11 The vocation of the Gentiles.

a That is, Christ, who in respect of his manhood is called here, ser- vant. The Pro- phets use to make mention of Christ after they have declared any great promise, be- cause hee is the foundation wher- upon all the pro- mises are made, and ratified.
b For I have com- mitted all my po- wer to him, as to a most faithfull steward. Some read, I will esta- blish him: to wit, in his office, by giving him the fulnesse of my Spirit.
c He onely is ac- ceptable unto me, and they that come unto me by him: for there is no other meane of reconciliation, Math. 12. 18. Ephes. 1. 4.
d Hee shall de- clare himselfe go- vernour over the Gentiles, and call them by his word, and rule them by his Spirit.
e His comming shall not be with pompe and noise, as earthly princes. f Hee will not hurt the weak and feeble, but sup- port and comfort them.
g Meaning, the wicke of a lampe or candle, which is almost out, but he will cherish it and snuffe it, that it may shine brighter.
h Although he fauour the weak, yet will he not spare the wicked, but will judge them according to truth and equity. i Till hee haue let all things in good order. k The Gentiles shall be desirous to receive his doctrine. l Meaning, unto a lawfull and just vocation. m To assist and guide thee. n As him, by whom the promise made to all nations in Abraham: shall bee fulfilled. o I will not suffer my glory to be diminished: which I should doe, if I were not faithfull in performing the same, and the idolaters thereby would extoll their idoles above me.

Behold, a my servant: b I will stay upon him: mine elect, in whom my soule c delighteth: I have put my Spirit upon him: hee shall bring forth d judge- ment to the Gentiles.

2 He shall not e crie, nor lift up, nor cause his voice to be heard in the street.

3 A f bruised reed shall he not break, and the smoking s flaxe shall hee not quench: he shall bring forth judgements in h truth.

4 He shall not faile nor be discoura- ged till hee have i set judgement in the earth: and the k Isles shall waite for his law.

5 Thus saith God the Lord (he that created the heavens and spread them a- broad: he that stretched forth the earth, and the buds thereof: hee that giveth breath unto the people upon it, and spirit to them that walke therein)

6 I the Lord have called thee in l righ- teousnesse, and will m hold thine hand, and I will keepe thee, and give thee for a n co- venant of the people, and for a light of the Gentiles,

7 That thou maist open the eies of the blinde, and bring out the prisoners from the prison: and them that sit in darknesse, out of the prison house.

8 I am the Lord, this is my Name, and my o glorie will I not give to another, neither my praise to graven images.

9 Behold, the former things are p come to passe, and new things doe I de- clare: before they come forth, I tell you of them.

10 Sing unto the Lord a new song, and his praise from the end of the earth: yee that goe downe to the Sea, and all that is therein: the Isles and the inhabitants thereof.

11 Let the wildernesse and the cities thereof lift up their voice, the townes that q Kedar doth inhabit: let the inhabitants of the rocks sing, let them shout from the top of the mountaines.

12 Let them give glory unto the Lord, and declare his praise in the Islands.

13 The Lord shall goe forth as a r gy- ant: hee shall stirre up his courage like a man of warre: he shall shout and crie, and shall prevaile against his enemies.

14 I have a long time holden my peace: I have beene still, and refrained my selfe: now will I cry like a s travel- ling woman: I will destroy and devoure at once.

15 I will make waste mountaines and hils, and drie up all the herbes, and I will make the floods Islands, and I will drie up the pooles.

16 ¶ And I will bring the t blind by a way that they knew not, and leade them by paths that they have not known: I will make darkenesse light before them, and crooked things streight. These things will I doe unto them, and not forsake them.

17 They shall be turned backe: they shall be greatly ashamed that trust in gra- ven images, and say to the molten ima- ges, Yee are our gods.

18 ¶ Heare, yee deafe: and ye blind regard, that ye may see.

19 Who is blinde but my v servant? or deafe as my x messenger, that I sent? who is blind as the y perfect, and blind as the Lords servant?

20 Seeing many things, but thou kee- pest them not? opening the eares, but he heareth not.

21 The Lord is willing for his righ- teousnesse sake that hee may magnifie the Law, and exalt it.

22 But this people is z robbed and spoiled, and shall bee all snared in dungeons, and they shall be hid in prison houses: they shall be for a prey, and none shall deliver: a spoile, and none shall say, a Restore.

23 Who among you shall hearken to this, and take heed, and heare for b after- wards?

24 Who gave Jaakob for a spoile, and Israel to the robbers? Did not the Lord, because p As in time past I have beene true in my promises, so will I be in time to come.

q Meaning, the Arabians, under whom hee com- prehenderh all the people of the East.

r He sheweth the zeale of the Lord, and his power in the conservation of his Church.

s I will hast to execute my ven- geance, which I have so long de- ferred, as a woman that desireth to bee delivered when there is in travell.

t That is, my poore people, which are in per- plexity and care.

v To wit, find which should have most light because of my law.
x The Priest to whom my word is committed, which should not only heare it him- selfe, but cause others to heare it.
y As the Priests and Prophets the should bee light to others.
z Because they will not acknow- ledge this benefi- of the Lord, who is ready to deliver them, he suffereth the to be spoiled of their enemies through their owne faults and incredulitie.
a There shall be none to succour them, or to will the enemy to re- store that which he hath spoiled.
b Meaning Gods wrath.

because we have sinned againſt him ? for they would not walke in his waies , neither be obedient unto his Law.

25 Therefore hee hath powred upon him his fierce wrath , and the ſtrength of battell : and it ſet him on fire round about, and he knew not, and it burned him up, yet he conſidered not.

C H A P. X L I I I.

2 The Lord comforteth his people. He promifeth deliverance to the Iewes. 1 There is no God but one alone.

BUt now thus ſaith the Lord ^a that created thee, O Jaakob : and hee that formed thee, O Iſrael, ^b feare not : for I have redeemed thee : I have called thee by thy name, thou art mine.

2 When thou paſſeſt through the waters, I will be with thee, and through the floods, that they doe not overflow thee. When thou walkeſt thorow the very fire, thou ſhalt not bee burnt, neither ſhall the flame kindle upon thee.

3 For I am the Lord thy God, the holy One of Iſrael, thy Saviour : I gave ^d Egypt for thy ranſome, Ethiopia, and Seba for thee.

4 Becauſe thou waſt precious in my ſight, and thou waſt honourable, and I loved thee, therefore will I give ^e man for thee, and people for thy ſake.

5 Feare not, for I am with thee: I will bring thy ſeed from the ^f Eaſt, and gather thee from the Weſt.

6 I will ſay to the North, Give: and to the South, Keepe not backe : bring my ſonnes from farre, and my daughters from the ends of the earth.

7 Every one ſhall bee called by my Name: for I created him for my glorie, formed him, and made him.

8 I will bring forth the blinde people, and they ſhall have eyes, and the deafe, and they ſhall have eares.

9 Let all the nations be gathered together, and let the people bee aſſembled: who among them can declare this, and ſhew us former things ? let them bring forth ⁱ witneſſes, that they may bee juſtified : but let them ^k heare, and ſay, it is truth.

10 You ^l are my witneſſes, ſaith the Lord, and my ^m ſervant, whom I have choſen: therefore ye ſhall know and believe me, and ye ſhall underſtand that I am: before mee there was no God formed, neither ſhall there be after me.

11 I, even I am the Lord, and beſide me there is no Saviour.

12 I have declared, and I have ſaved, and I have ſhewed, when there was no ſtrange god among you : therefore you are my witneſſes, ſaith the Lord, that I am God.

13 Yea, before the day ⁿ was, I am, and there is none that can deliver out of mine hand: I will doe it, and who ſhall let it?

14 Thus ſaith the Lord your redeemer, the holy One of Iſrael, For your ſake I have ſent to Babel, and ⁿ brought it down: they are all fugitives, and the Caldeans crie in ^o the ſhips.

15 I am the Lord your holy One, the creator of Iſrael, your King.

16 Thus ſaith the Lord which maketh a way in ^p the ſea, and a path in the mightie waters.

17 When he ^q bringeth out the charer and horſe, the armie and the power lie together, and ſhall not riſe, they are extinct, and quenched as towes.

18 Remember yee not the former things, neither regard yee the things of old.

19 Behold, I doe a new thing: now ſhall it come forth: ſhall you not know it? I will even make a way in the ^r deſert, and floods in the wilderneſſe.

20 The wilde beaſts ſhall honour me, the dragons and the oſtriches, becauſe I gave water in the deſert, and floods in the wilderneſſe to give drinke to my people, even to mine elct.

21 This people have I formed for my ſelfe: they ſhall ſhew forth my praiſe.

22 And thou haſt not ^s called upon me, O Jaakob, but thou haſt ^t wearied me, O Iſrael.

23 Thou haſt ^u not brought mee the ſheepe of thy burnt offerings, neither haſt thou honoured me with thy ſacrifice. I have not cauſed thee to ſerve with an offering, nor wearied thee with incenſe.

24 Thou boughteſt me no ſweet favour with money, neither haſt thou made me drunke with the fat of thy ſacrifices, but thou haſt made mee to ^v ſerve with thy finnes, and wearied mee with thine iniquities.

25 ^w Even I am he that putteſh away thine iniquities for mine owne ſake, and will not remember thy finnes.

26 Put me in ^x remembrance: let us be judged together: count thou that thou maieſt be juſtified.

27 Thy ^y firſt father hath ſinned, and thy ^z teachers have tranſgreſſed againſt mee.

28 Therefore I have ^a prophaned the rulers of the Sanctuary, and have made Jaakob a curſe, and Iſrael a reprobach.

C H A P. X L I V.

5 The Lord promifeth comfort, and that he will aſſemble the Church of divers nations. 9 The vanitie of idoles. 15 The beaſtlineſſe of idolaters.

YEt now heare, O Jaakob my servant, and Israel whom I have chosen.

2 Thus saith the Lord that made thee, and formed^a thee from the wombe: he will helpe thee. Feare not, O Jaakob my servant, and thou righteous,^b whom I have chosen.

3 For I will powre water upon the thirſtie, and floods upon the dry ground: I will powre my Spirit upon thy feed, and my bleſſing upon the buds.

4 And they^d shall grow as among the graſſe, and as the willowes by the rivers of waters.

5 One shall ſay, I am the Lords: another^e shall be called by the name of Jaakob: and another shall ſubſcribe with his hand unto the Lord, and name himſelfe by the name of Israel.

6 Thus ſaith the Lord the king of Israel, and his redeemer the Lord of hoſtes, I am the firſt, and I am the laſt, and without me^h there no God.

7 And who is like me, that ſhallⁱ call and ſhall declare it, and ſet^j it in order before me, ſince I appointed the^k ancient people? and what is at hand, and what things are to come? let^k them ſhew unto them.

8 Feare ye not, neither bee afraid: have not I told thee of old, and have declared it? you are even my witneſſes, whether there be a God beſide me, and that there is no God that I know not.

9 All they that make an image, are vanitie, and^m their delectable things ſhall nothing profit: and they are their owne witneſſes,ⁿ that they ſee not nor know: therefore they ſhall be confounded.

10 Who hath made^o a god, or molten an image, that is^p profitable for nothing?

11 Behold, all that are of the^q fellowſhip thereof ſhall be confounded: for the workemen themſelves are men: let them all be gathered together, and ſtand up, yet they ſhall feare and be confounded together.

12 The ſmith^r taketh an instrument, and worketh in the coales, and faſhioneth it with hammers, and worketh it with the ſtrength of his armes: yea, he is an^s hungry, and his ſtrength faileth: he drinketh no water, and is faint.

13 The carpenter ſtretcheth out a line: he faſhioneth it with a red threed, hee planeth it, and he puttrayeth it with the compaſſe, and maketh it after the faſhion of a man, and according to the beautie of a man, that it may remaine in^t an houſe.

14 Hee will hew him downe cedars, and take the pine tree and the oake, and taketh courage among the trees of the foreſt: he planteth a firre-tree, and the raine doth nourish it.

15 And man burneth thereof: for hee will take thereof, and^v warme himſelfe: he alſo kindleth it and baketh bread, yet he maketh a god, and worſhippeth it: he maketh it an idole and boweth unto it.

16 He burneth the halfe thereof even in the fire, and upon the halfe thereof he^x eateth fleſh, he roſteth the roſte and is ſatiſfied: alſo hee warmeth himſelfe, and ſaith, Aha, I am warme, I have bene at the fire.

17 And the reſidue thereof he maketh a god, even his idole: he boweth unto it, and worſhippeth and praieth unto it, and ſaith, Deliver me: for thou art my God.

18 They have not knowne, nor underſtood: y^y for God hath ſhut their eies that they cannot ſee, and their hearts, that they cannot underſtand.

19 And none^z conſidereth in his heart, neither^z there knowledge nor underſtanding to ſay, I have burnt halfe of it, even in the fire, and have baked bread alſo upon the coles thereof: I have roſted fleſh, and eaten it, and ſhall I make the reſidue thereof an abomination? ſhall I bow to the ſtocke of a tree?

20 He feedeth^z of aſhes: a ſeduced heart hath deceived him, that he cannot deliver his ſoule, nor ſay, Is there not a lie in my right hand?

21 Remember theſe (O Jaakob and Israel) for thou art my ſervant: I have formed thee: thou art my ſervant: O Israel forget me not.

22 I have put away thy tranſgreſſions like a cloud, and thy finnes as a miſt: turne unto me, for I have redeemed thee.

23 Reioice, ye heavens: for the Lord hath done it: ſhout ye lower parts of the earth: braſt forth into prailes yee mountains, O foreſt and every tree therein: for the Lord hath redeemed Jaakob and will be glorified in Israel.

24 Thus ſaith the Lord thy redeemer, and he that formed thee from the wombe, I am the Lord that made all things, that ſpread out the heavens alone, and ſtretched out the earth by my ſelfe.

25 I deſtroy the^z tokens of the ſoothſaiers, and make them that conjecture, fooles, and turne the wiſe men backward, and make their knowledge fooliſhneſſe.

4 For Jaakob my servants^f sake, and Israel mine elect, I will even call thee by thy name and name thee, though thou hast not knowne me.

5 I am the Lord, and there is none other : there is no God beside mee : I^g girded thee, though thou hast not knowne me,

6 That they may know from the rising of the Sunne, and from the West, that there is none besides me : I am the Lord, and there is none other.

7 I forme the^h light, and create darknesse : I make peace, and create evill : I the Lord doe all these things.

8 Yee heavens, send the dew from above, and let the clouds drop downe : righteousness : let the earth open, and let salvation and justice grow forth : let it bring them forth together : I the Lord have^k created him.

9^l Woe bee unto him that striveth with his maker, the potsherd with the potshards of the earth : shall the clay say to him that fashioneth it, What makest thou? or thy work,^m It hath none hands?

10 Woe unto him that saith to his father, What hast thou begotten? or to his mother, what hast thou brought forth?

11 Thus saith the Lord, the holy One of Israel, and his maker, Aske meⁿ of things to come concerning my sonnes, and concerning the workes of mine hands : command you me.

12 I have made the earth, and created man upon it : I, whose hands have spread out the heavens, I have even commanded all their^o armie.

13 I have raised^p him up in righteousness, and I will direct all his waies : hee shall build my citie, and hee shall let goe my captives, not for^q price nor reward, saith the Lord of hostes.

14 Thus saith the Lord, The labour of^r Egypt, and the merchandise of Ethiopia, and of the Sabceans, men of stature shall come unto thee, and they shall bee^s thine : they shall follow thee, and shall goe in chaines : they shall fall downe before thee, and make supplication unto thee, saying, Surely God is in thee, and there is none other God besides.

15 Verely, thou, O God, ^thidest thy selfe, O God, the Saviour of Israel.

16 All they shall bee ashamed, and also confounded : they shall goe to confusion together, that are the makers of images.

17 But Israel shall be saved in the Lord, with an everlasting salvation : ye shall not be ashamed nor confounded world without end.

18 For thus saith the Lord (that created heaven, God himselfe, that formed the earth, and made it : he that prepared it, he created it not in vaine : he formed it to be^v inhabited) I am the Lord, and there is none other.

19 I have not spoken in secret, neither^x in a place of darknesse in the earth : I said not in vaine unto the seed of Jaakob, Seeke you mee : I the Lord doe speake righteousness, and declare righteous things.

20 Assemble your selves, and come : draw neare together, ^y ye abject of the Gentiles : they have no knowledge, that set up the wood of their idole, and pray unto a god that cannot save them.

21 Tel yee and bring them, and let them take counsell together, who hath declared this from the beginning? or hath told it of old? Have not I the Lord? and there is none other God beside me, a just God, and a Saviour : there is none beside mee.

22 Looke unto me, and ye shall be saved : all the^z ends of the earth shall bee saved : for I am God, and there is none other.

23 I have sworne by my selfe : the word is gone out of my mouth in^a righteousness, and shall not returne, That every knee^b shall bow unto me, and every ^o That is, the starres.

^p To wit, Cyrus, that I may shew by him the faithfulness of my promise in delivering my people.

^q Meaning, freely and without ranfome, or any grievous condition.

^r These people were tributaries to the Persians, and so King Artahastate gave this money toward the building of the Temple, Ezra 7.21.

^s Whereas before they were thine enemies, they shall now honor thee, and thou shalt rule them ; which was accomplished in the time of Christ.

^t Hereby hee exhorteth the Jewes to patience, though their deliverance bee deferred for a time : shewing, that they should not repent their long patience, but the wicked and idolaters shall bee destroyed.

^v To wit, of a man, but chiefly of his Church.

^x As doe the false gods, which give uncertain answers.

^y All ye idolaters, which, though you seem to have never so much worldly dignities, yet in Gods sight you are vile and abject.

^z Hee collecteth the idolaters to repentance, willing them to looke unto him with the eye of faith.

^a That is, that the thing, which I have promised, shall be faithfully performed.

^b The knowledge of God and the true worshipping shall be through all the world, Rom. 14.11.

^c Phil. 2.10. whereby he signifieth, that we must not onely serve God in heart, but declare the same also by outward profession.

^h I send peace and warre, prosperitie and adversity, as Altos 3.6.

ⁱ He comforteth the Jewes, as if hee would say, Though when yee looke to the heavens and earth for succour, yee see nothing now but signes of Gods wrath, yet will I come them to bring forth most certaine tokens of your deliverance, and of the performance of my promise; which is made by righteousness.

^k I have appointed Cyrus to this use and purpose. Hereby he imbroileth their impietie, which in adversity and trouble murmure against God, and will not take his pleasure : willing that man should march with his like, and not contend against God.

^m That is, it is not perfectly made. ⁿ In stead of murmuring, humble your selves, and aske what you will for the consolation of my children, and you shall be free of it, as yee are of these things which are at your commandment. Some read it with an interrogation, and make it the application of the similitude.

c Meaning, the faithfull shall feeble and confesse this. d All the contemners of God.

24 Surely c he shall say, In the Lord have I righteousnesse and strength: hee shall come unto him, and all that d provoke him, shall be ashamed.

25 The whole seed of Israel shall bee justified and glorie in the Lord.

CHAP. XLVI.

1 The destruction of Babylon, and of their idoles. 3 Hee calleth the lawes to the consideration of his workes.

a These were the chiefe idoles of Babylon.

b Because they were of gold and silver, the Medes and Persians carried them away.

c The beasts that carried the idoles fell downe under their burthen.

d Hee derideth the idoles, which had neither soule nor sense.

BEl is bowed down: a Nebo is false: their idoles were upon the b beasts, and upon the cattel: they which did beare you, were laden with a wearie burthen.

2 c They are bowed downe, and false together: for they could not rid them of the burthen, and their d soule is gone into captivitee.

3 Heare ye me, O house of Jaakob, and all that remaine of the house of Israel, which are e borne of mee from the wombe, and brought up of me from the birth.

e He sheweth the difference betweene the idoles and the true God: for they must bee carried of others, but God himselfe carrieth his, as Deut. 32. 11.

4 Therefore unto old age, I the same, even I will beare you until the hoare haire: I have made you: I will also beare you, and I will carie you, f and I will deliver you.

f Seeing I have begotten you, I will nourish and preserve you for ever.

5 ¶ To whom will ye make me like, or make me equall, or g compare me, that I should be like him?

g The people of God, seeing their owne calamitie, and the flourishing estate of the Babylonians, should be tempted to think that their God was not so mightie as the idoles of their enemies: therefore he describeth the original of all the idoles, to make them to bee abhorred of all men: shewing, that the most that can bee spoken in their commendation, is but to prove them vile, Baruc. 6. 25.

6 They draw gold out of the bagge, and weigh silver in the ballance, and hire a goldsmith to make a god of it, and they bow downe and worship it.

7 They beare it upon the shoulders: they carie him and set him in his place: so doth he stand, and cannot remove from his place. Though one crie unto him, yet can he not answer nor deliver him out of his tribulation.

h Become wife, meaning, that all idolaters are without wit or sense, like mad men.

8 Remember this, and be ashamed: bring it againe h to minde, O you transgressors.

9 Remember the former things of old: for I am God and there i none other God, and there j nothing like me, i That is, Cyrus, which shall come as swift as a bird, and fight against Babylon.

10 Which declare the last thing from the beginning: and from of old, the things that were not done, saying, My counsell shall stand, and I will doe whatsoever I will.

k Him, by whom I have appointed to execute that, which I have determined.

11 I call a k bird from the East, and the man of my k counsell from farre: as I have spoken, so will I bring it to passe: I have purposed it, and I will doe it.

l Which by your incredulitie would let the performance of my promise.

12 Heare me, ye stubborne hearted, that are farre from l justice.

m He sheweth that mans incredulitie cannot abolish the promise of God, Rom. 3. 3.

13 I bring m neere my justice: it shall not be farre off, and my salvation shall not tarie: for I will give salvation in Zion, and my glorie unto Israel.

CHAP. XLVII.

The destruction of Babylon, and the causes wherefore.

Come downe and sit in the dust: O virgin, daughter of Babel, sit on the ground: there is no b throne, O daughter of the Caldeans: for thou shalt no more be called tender and delicate.

a Which hath lived in wealth and wantonnesse, and hath not yet bene overcome by any enemy.

2 Take the mill stones, and c grinde meale: loofe thy lockes: d make bare thy feet: uncover the leg, and passe through the floods.

b Thy government shall be taken from thee.

c Thou shalt bee brought to most vile servitude: for to turne the mill was the office of slaves.

3 Thy filthinesse shall be discovered, and thy shame shall be seene: I will take vengeance, and I will not meet thee as a e man.

d The things wherein thee teth her greatest pride, shall be made vile, even from the head to the foot.

4 f Our Redeemer, the Lord of hosts is his Name, the holy One of Israel.

e I will use no humane nor pitie toward thee.

5 g Sit still, and get thee into darknesse, O daughter of the Caldeans: for thou shalt no more be called, The ladie of kingdoms.

f The Israelites shall confesse, that the Lord doth this for his Churches sake.

6 I was wroth with my people: I have poluted mine inheritance, and given them into thine hand: thou didst shew them no h mercie, but thou diddest lay thy very heavie yoke upon the ancient.

g For very shame, and hide thy selfe.

7 And thou saidest, I shall bee a ladie for ever, so that thou diddest not set thy minde to these things, neither diddest thou remember the latter end thereof.

h They abused Gods judgments, thinking that hee punished the Israelites, because he would utterly cast them off, and therefore in stead of pitying their miserie, thou diddest increase it.

8 Therefore now heare, thou that art given to pleasures, and dwellest carelesse, She saith in her heart, I am, and none else: I shall not sit as a widow, neither shall know the losse of children.

9 But these two things shall come to thee suddenly on one day, the losse of children and widowhood: they shall come upon thee in their i perfection, for the multitude of thy divinations, and for the great abundance of thine inchanters.

i So that thy punishment shall bee so great, as is possible to bee imagined.

10 For thou hast trusted in thy wickednes, thou hast said, None seeth me. Thy k wisdom and thy knowledge, they have caused thee to rebell, and thou hast said in thine heart, I am, and none else.

k Thou diddest thinke that thine own wisdom and policie would have saved thee.

11 Therefore shall evill come upon thee, and thou shalt not know the morning thereof: destruction shall fall upon thee, which thou shalt not bee able to put away: destruction shall come upon thee suddenly, or thou beware.

12 Stand now among thine inchanters, and in the multitude of thy soothsaiers (with whom thou hast l wearied thy selfe from thy youth) if so be thou maiest have profit, or if so be thou maiest have strength.

l Hee derideth their vaine confidence, that put their trust in any thing but in God, condemning also such vaine sciences, which serve to no use, but to delude the people, and to bring them from depending onely on God.

13 Thou art wearied in the multitude of thy counsels: let now the astrologers, the starre-gazers, and prognosticators stand up, and save thee from these things, that shall come upon thee.

14 Behold, they shall be as stubble: the fire shall burne them: they shall not deliver deliver their owne lives from the power of the flame : there shall be no coles ^m to warme at, nor light to sit by.

15 Thus shall they serve thee, with whom thou hast wearied thee, even thy merchants from thy youth : every one shall wanderto his owne ⁿ quarter: none shall save thee.

CHAP XLVIII.

¹ The hypocrite of the Jewes is reproved. ¹¹ The Lord alone will bee worshipped. ²⁰ Of their deliverance out of Babylon.

HEare yee this, O house of Jaakob, which are ^a called by the name of Israel, and are come out of ^b the waters of Judah : which sweare by the Name of the Lord, and make mention of the God of Israel, but not in truth, nor in righteousness.

2 For they are called of the holy citie, and stay themselves ^c upon the God of Israel, whose Name ^d is the Lord of hostes.

3 I have declared the former things of old, and they went out of my mouth, and I shewed ^d them : I did them suddenly, and they came to passe.

4 Because I knew that ^e thou art obstinate, and thy necke ^f is an iron sinew, and thy brow braffe,

5 Therefore I have declared it to thee of old : before it came to passe, I shewed ^f it thee, lest thou shouldest say, Mine idole hath done them, and my carved image, and my molten image hath commanded them.

6 Thou hast heard, behold all this, and will not ye ^g declare it? I have shewed thee new things, even now, and hid things which thou knewest not.

7 They are created now, and not of old, and even before this thou heardest them not, lest thou shouldest say, Behold, I ^h knew them.

8 Yet thou heardest them not, neither diddest know them, neither yet was thine eare opened of old : for I knew that thou wouldest grievously transgresse : therefore have I called thee a transgressor from the ⁱ wombe.

9 For my Names sake will I deferre my wrath, and for my praise will I refraine it from thee, ^k that I cut thee not off.

10 Behold, I have fined thee, but ^l not as silver : I have ^m chosen thee in the furnace of affliction.

11 For mine owne sake, for mine own sake will I doe it : for how should my Name ⁿ be polluted? ^o Surely, I will not give my glorie unto another.

12 Heare me, O Jaakob and Israel, my called, ^p I am, I am the first, and I am the last.

13 Surely mine hand hath laid the foundation of the earth, and my right hand hath spanned the heavens : when I call them, ^q they stand up together.

14 All you assemble your selves, and heare : which among them hath declared these things? the Lord hath ^r loved him : he will doe his will in Babel, and his arme shall be against the Caldeans.

15 I, even I have spoken it, and I have called him : I have brought him, and his way shall prosper.

16 Come neere unto me : heare yee this : I have not spoken it in secret from the ^s beginning : from the time that the thing was, I was there, and now the Lord God and his spirit hath ^t sent me.

17 Thus saith the Lord thy redeemer, the holy One of Israel, I am the Lord thy God, which teach thee ^u to profit, and leade thee by the way that thou shouldest goe.

18 Oh that thou haddest hearkened to my commandements ! then had thy prosperitie beene as the flood, and thy righteousness as the waves of the sea.

19 Thy seed also had been as the sand, and the fruit of thy bodie like the gravell thereof : his ^x name should not have been cut off nor destroyed before me.

20 ^y Goe yee out of Babel : flee yee from the Caldeans, with a voice of joy : tell and declare this : shew it forth to the end of the earth : say yee, The Lord hath redeemed his servant Jaakob.

21 And they ^z were not thirstie : hee led them through the wilderness : he caused the waters to flow out of the rocke for them : for he clave the rocke, and the waters gushed out.

22 There is no ^a peace, saith the Lord, unto the wicked.

CHAP. XLIX.

¹ The Lord exhorteth all nations to beleeve his promises. ⁶ Christ is the salvation of all that beleeve, and will deliver them from the tyrannie of their enemies.

HEare ye me, O Isles, and hearken, ye people from farre. The Lord hath called ^a me from ^b the wombe, and made mention of my name from my mothers bellie.

2 And he hath made my mouth like a sharpe ^c sword : under the shadow of his hand hath he ^d hid me, and made me a chosen shaft, and hid me in his quiver.

3 And said unto me, thou art my servant ^e Israel, for I will bee glorious in thee.

4 And I said, I have ^f laboured in tion and defence : this chiefly is meant of Christ, and may ^g be applied to the ministers of his word. ^h By Israel is meant Christ, and all the bodie of the faithfull, as the members and their head. ⁱ Thus Christ in his members complaineth that his labour and preaching take none effect, yet he is content that his doings are approved of God.

vaine :

^m They shall utterly perish, and no part of them remaine.

ⁿ They shall see every one to that place which hee thought by his speculation to be most sure : but that shall deceive the.

^a Hee detesteth their hypocrite, which vaunted themselves to be Israelites, & were not so in deed. ^b Meaning, the fountain and rocke.

^c They make a shew as though they would have none other God.

^d He sheweth, that they could not accuse him in any thing, for as much as he had performed whatsoever he had promised. ^e I have done for thee, more then I promised, that thy stubbornnesse and impudency might have beene overcome.

^f How thou shouldest be delivered out of Babylon.

^g Will ye not acknowledge this my hand, and declare it unto others?

^h Shewing, that mine arrogancie is the cause why God doth not declare all things at once, lest they should attribute this knowledge to their owne wisdom.

ⁱ From the time that I brought thee out of Egypt : for that deliverance was at the birth of the Church.

^k As it was my free mercie that I did chuse thee, so it is my free mercie that must save thee.

^l For I had respect to thy weaknesse and infirmities : for in silver there is some purities, but in us there is nothing but dross. ^m I tooke thee out of the furnace where thou shouldest have beene consumed.

ⁿ God joineh the salvation of his, with his own honour, so that they cannot perish, but his glorie should be diminished, as Deut. 32. 27. ^o Reade Chap. 42. 3. ^p Reade Chap. 41. 4.

^q To obey mee, and to doe whatsoever I command them.

^r Meaning, Cyrus, whom he had chosen to destroy Babylon.

^s Since the time that I declared my selfe to your fathers.

^t Thus the Prophet speaketh for himselfe, and to assure them of these things.

^u What things shall doe thee good.

^x That is, the prosperous estate of Israel.

^y After that hee had forewarned them of their captivity, and of the cause thereof, hee sheweth them the great joy that shall come of their deliverance.

^z He sheweth, that it shall be as easie to deliver them as hee did their fathers out of Egypt.

^a Thus he speaketh that the wicked hypocrites should not abuse Gods promise, in whom was neither faith nor repentance, as Chap. 57. 21.

^a This is spoken in the person of Christ, to assure the faithfull, that these promises should come to passe, for they were all made in him, and in him should be performed.

^b This is meant of the time that Christ should be manifested to the world, as Psal. 7. ^c By the sword and shaft, he signifieth the vertue and efficacie of Christs doctrine. ^d God hath taken me to his protection.

vaine : I have spent my strength in vaine and for nothing : but my judgement is with the Lord, and my worke with my God.

5 And now saith the Lord, that formed me from the womb to be his servant, that I may bring Jaakob againe to him (though Israel be not gathered, yet shall I be glorious in the eyes of the Lord : and my God shall be my strength.)

6 And he said, it is a small thing that thou shouldest be my servant to raise up the tribes of Jaakob, and to restore the desolations of Israel : I will also give ^h thee for a light of the Gentiles, that thou maist bee my salvation unto the end of the world.

7 Thus saith the Lord the redeemer of Israel, and his holy One, to him that is despised in foule, to a nation that is abhorred, to a ⁱ servant of rulers, Kings shall see, and ^k arise, and princes shall worship, because of the Lord, that is faithfull : and the holy One of Israel which hath chosen thee.

8 Thus saith the Lord, ^l in an acceptable time have I heard thee, and in a day of salvation have I helped thee : and I will preserve thee, and will ^m give thee for a covenant of the people, that thou maist raise up the ⁿ earth, and obtaine the inheritance of the desolate heritages :

9 That thou maist say to the ^o prisoners, Goeforth : and to them that are in darknesse, Shew your selves : they shall feed in the waies, and their ^p pastures shall bee in all the tops of the hilles.

10 They shall not be hungrie, neither shall they be thirstie, neither shall the heat smite them, nor the sunne : for hee that hath compassion ^q on them, shall lead them : even to the springs of waters shall he drive them.

11 And I will make all my mountains, as a way, and my paths shall be exalted.

12 Behold, these shall come from farre : and loe, these from the North and from the West, and these from the land of ^r Sinim.

13 Rejoice, O ^s heavens, and be joyfull, O earth : braff forth into praise, O mountaines : for God hath comforted his people, and will have mercie on his afflicted.

14 But Zion said, The Lord ^t hath forsaken me, and my Lord hath forgotten me.

15 Can a woman forget her child, and not have compassion on the sonne of her wombe ? though they should forget, yet will I not forget thee.

16 Behold, I have graven thee upon the palme of ^v mine hands : thy ^x walles are ever in my sight.

17 Thy builders make ^y haste : thy destroyers and they that made thee waste, are departed from thee.

18 Lift up thine eies round about and behold : all these gather themselves together and come to thee : as I live, saith the Lord, thou shalt surely ^z put them all upon thee as a garment, and girde thy selfe with them like a bride.

19 For thy desolations, and thy waste places, and thy land destroyed, shall surely be now narrow for them that shall dwell in it, and they that did devoure thee, shall be farre away.

20 The children of thy barrenesse shall say againe in thine eares, The place is strait for me : give place to me that I may dwell.

21 Then shalt thou say in thine heart, Who hath begotten me these, seeing I am barren, and desolate, a captive and a wanderer to and fro ? and who hath nourished them ? behold, I was left alone : whence are these ?

22 Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will lift up mine hand to the ^a Gentiles, and set up my standart to the people : and they shall bring thy sonnes in their armes : and thy daughters shall bee carried upon their shoulders.

23 And Kings ^b shall be thy nursing fathers, and Queenes shall be thy nurses : they shall worship thee with their faces toward the earth, and lick up the ^c dust of thy feet : and thou shalt know that I am the Lord : for they shall not be ashamed that wait for mee.

24 Shall the prey be ^d taken from the mightie ? or the just captivitie delivered ?

25 But thus saith the Lord, ^e Even the captivitie of the mightie shall bee taken away, and the prey of the tyrant shall be delivered : for I will contend with him that contendeth with thee, and I will save thy children.

26 And will feed them that spoile thee, with ^f their own flesh, and they shall bee drunken with their owne blood, as with sweet wine : and all flesh shall know that I the Lord am thy Saviour and thy redeemer, the mightie one of Jaakob.

k Hereby he sheweth that repentance must be joynt with faith, and how we cannot call upon God aright, except the fruits of our faith appeare.
l Although you are not soone reconciled one to another and judge me by your selves, yet I am most easie to be reconciled, yea, I offer my mercies to you.
m If these small things have their effect, as daily experience sheweth, much more shall I have made and confirmed, bring to passe the things which I have spoken for your deliverance.

HO, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and yee that have no silver, come, buy and eate: come, I say, buy wine and milke without silver and without money.

2 Wherefore doe ye lay out silver and not for bread? and your labour without being satisfied? hearken diligently unto me, and eate that which is good, and let your soule delight in fatnesse.

3 Encline your eares and come unto me: heare, and your soule shall live, and I will make an everlasting Covenant with you, even the sure mercies of David.

4 Behold, I gave him for a witnesse to the people, for a prince and a master unto the people.

5 Behold, thou shalt call a nation that thou knowest not, and a nation that knew not thee, shall runne unto thee, because of the Lord thy God, and the holy one of Israel: for he hath glorified thee.

6 Seeke yee the Lord while hee may be found: call ye upon him while he is neare.

7 Let the wicked forsake his waies, and the unrighteous his owne imaginations, and returne unto the Lord, and hee will have mercy upon him: and to our God, for he is very ready to forgive.

8 For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your waies my waies, saith the Lord.

9 For as the heavens are higher then the earth, so are my waies higher then your waies, and my thoughts above your thoughts.

10 Surely as the raine commeth down, and the snow from heaven, and returneth not thither but watereth the earth, and maketh it to bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower, and bread unto him that eareth:

1 An exhortation to judgement and justice. 10 Against shepheards that devoure their flock.

THUS saith the Lord, Keep judgement and do justice: for my salvation is at hand to come, and my righteousness to be revealed:

2 Blessed is the man that doth this, and the son of man which layeth hold on it: he that keepeth the Sabbath and polluteth it not, and keepeth his hand from doing any evill.

3 And let not the son of the stranger, which is joyned to the Lord, speak and say, The Lord hath surely separated me from his people: neither let the Eunuch say, Behold, I am a dry tree.

4 For thus saith the Lord unto the Eunuchs, that keepe my Sabbaths, and chuse the thing that pleaseth me, and take hold of my covenant;

5 Even unto them will I give in mine House, and within my walls, a place and a name better then of the sons, and of the daughters: I will give them an everlasting name, that shall not be put out.

6 Also the strangers that cleave unto the Lord, to serve him, and to love the Name of the Lord, and to be his servants: every one that keepeth the Sabbath, and polluteth it not, and imbraceth my covenant,

7 Them will I bring also to mine holy Mountaine, and make them joyfull in mine House of prayer: their burnt offerings and their sacrifices shall be accepted upon mine altar: for mine house shall be called an house of prayer for all people.

8 The Lord God saith, which gathereth the scattered of Israel, yet will I gather to them those that are to be gathered to them.

a God sheweth what he requireth of them after that he hath delivered them: to wit, the workes of charity whereby true faith is declared.
b Which I will declare toward you, and powre into your hearts by my Spirit.
c Under the Sabbath hee comprehendeth the whole service of God and true religion.
d Let none think himselfe unworthy to receive the graces of the Lord: for the Lord will take away all impediments, and will forsake none which will keep his true religion, and believe in him.

e Meanings, in his Church.
f They shall be called after my people, and be of the same religion: yea, under Christ the dignity of the faithful shall be greater then the Jews were at that time.

g Hereby he meaneth the spiritual service of God, to whom the faithful offer continually thanksgiving, yea themselves, and all that they have as a lively and acceptable sacrifice.

h Not onely for the Jews, but for all others, Mat. 24. 13.
i Meaning, the enemies of the Church, as the Babylonians, Assyrians, &c. thus he speaketh to scare the hypocrites, and to assure the faithful, that when this cometh, they may know it was told them before.

k He sheweth that have enough: and these shepherds cannot understand: for they all look to their own way, every one for his advantage, and for his own purpose.

12 Come, I will bring wine, and we will fill our selves with strong drink, and to morrow shall be as this day, and much more abundant.

¹ We are well yet, and to morrow shall be better: therefore let us not fear the plagues before they come: thus the wicked contemned the admonitions and exhortations, which were made them in the Name of God.

CHAP. LVII.

¹ God taketh away the good, that he should not see the horrible plagues to come. ³ Of the wicked idolaters, ⁹ And their vain confidence.

The righteous perisheth, and no man considereth it in heart: and mercifull men are taken away, and no man understandeth that the righteous is taken away from the evill to come.

^a From the plague that is at hand, and also because God will punish the wicked.

2 Peace shall come: they shall rest in their beds, every one that walketh before him.

3 But you^c witches children, come hither, the seed of the adulterer and of the whore.

^b The souls of the righteous shall be in joy, and their body shall rest in the grave unto the time of the resurrection, because they walked before the Lord.

4 On whom have yee jested? upon whom have you gaped and thrust out your tongue? are not ye rebellious children, and a false seed?

^c Hee threatmeth the wicked hypocrites, who under the pretence of the name of Gods people, derided Gods Word and his promises: boasting openly that they were the children of Abraham, but because they were not faithful and obedient, as Abraham was, hee calleth them bastards, and the children of fornicators which forsook God and did to wicked men for succor.

5 Inflamed with idols under every greene tree? and sacrificing the^d children in the valleys under the tops of the rocks?

6 Thy portion is in the smooth stones of the river: they, they are thy lot: even to them hast thou powred a drink-offering: thou hast offered a sacrifice. Should I delight in these?

^d As Abraham was, hee calleth them bastards, and the children of fornicators which forsook God and did to wicked men for succor.

7 Thou hast made thy^e bed upon a very high mountaine: thou wentest up thither, even thither wentest thou to offer sacrifice.

^e Meaning, every place was polluted with their idolatry: or every faire stone that they found, they made an idol of it.

8 Behind the^h doores also and posts hast thou set up thy remembrance: for thou hast discovered thy selfe to another then me, and wentest up, and didst enlarge thy bed, and make a covenant between thee and them, and lovedst their bed in every place where thou sawest it.

^f In the sacrifices which you offering before these idols, thought you did serve God.

9 Thou wentest^k to the Kings with oyle, and didst increase thine oyntments, and send thy messengers far off, and didst humble thy selfe unto hell.

^g To wit, the altars in an open place like an impudent harlot, that careth not for the sight of her husband.

10 Thou weariedst thy self in thy manifold journeys, yet saidst thou not, There is no hope: thou^m hast found life by thine hand, therefore thou wast not grieved.

^h Instead of setting up the word of God in the open places on the posts and doores to have it in remembrance, Deu. 6. 9. & 27. 1. thou hast set up signes and markes of thine idolatry in every place.

11 And whom didst thou reverence or feare, seeing thou hastⁿ lied unto me, and ⁱ That is, didst increase thine idolatry more & more. ^k Thou didst seek the favour of the Assyrians by gifts and presents, to help thee against the Egyptians: and when they failed, thou soughtest to the Babylonians and more and more didst torment thy selfe. ^l Although thou sawest all thy labours to be in vaine, yet wouldst thou never acknowledge thy fault, and leave off. ^m He derideth their unprofitable diligence which thought to have made all sure; and yet were deceived. ⁿ Broken promise with me.

hast not remembred me, neither set thy minde thereon? is it not because I hold my peace: and that of long^o time? therefore thou fearest not me.

^o Meaning, that the wicked abuse Gods lenitie, and grow to further wickednesse.

12 I will declare thy^p righteousness and thy workes, and they shall not profit thee.

^p That is, thy naughtinesse, idolatries, and impieties, which the wicked call Gods service: thus hee derideth their obstinacie.

13 When thou criest, let them that thou hast gathered together, deliver thee: but the winde shall^q take them all away: vanitie shall pull them away: but he that trusteth in mee, shall inherit the land, and shall possesse mine holy mountaine.

^q Meaning, as the Assyrians and others, whose helpe they looked for.

14 And hee shall say, Cast up, cast up: prepare the way: take up the stumbling blockes out of the way of my people.

^r God shall say to Darius and Cyrus.

15 For thus saith hee that is high and excellent, he that inhabiteth the eternity, whose Name is the holy One, I dwell in the high and holy place: with him also that is of a contrite and humble spirit, to revive the spirit of the humble, and to give life to them that are of a contrite heart.

16 For I will not contend for ever, neither will I be alwaies wroth, for the spirit should faile before me: and I have made the breach.

^f I will not use my power against fraile man whose life is but a blast.

17 For his wicked^t covetousnesse I am angry with him, and have smitten him: I hidde me, and was angry, yet hee went away, and turned after the way of his owne heart.

^t That is, for the vices and faults of the people, which is meant here by covetousnesse.

18 I have seene his waies, and will^v heale him: I will leade him also, and restore comfort unto him, and to those that lament him.

^u Though they were obdurate, yet I did not withdraw my mercy from them.

19 I create the^x fruit of the lips, to be peace: peace unto them that are^y farre off, and to them that are neere, saith the Lord: for I will heale him.

^x That is, I frame the speech and words of my messengers which shall bring peace.

20 But the wicked^z are like the raging sea, that can^z not rest, whose waters cast up mire and dirt.

^y As well to him that is in captivity, as to him that remaineth at home.

21 There is no peace, saith my God, to the wicked.

^z Their evill conscience doth ever torment them, and therefore they can never have rest, read Cha. 48. 23.

¹ The office of Gods Ministers. ³ The workes of the hypocrites. ⁶ The feast of the faithfull. ¹³ Of the true Sabbath.

Crie^a aloud, spare not: lift up thy voice like a trumpet, and shew my people their transgression; and to the house of Jaakob their sinnes.

^a The Lord thus speaketh to the Prophet, willing him to use all diligence and severity to rebuke the hypocrites.

2 Yet they^b seeke me daily, and will know my waies, even as a nation that did righteously, and had not forsaken the statutes of their God: they aske of me the ordinances of justice: they will draw neere unto God, saying,

^b They will seeme to worship mee, and have outward holinesse.

3 Wherefore have wee fasted, and thou seest it not? we have punished our selves

^c He setteth forth the malice and disdain of the hypocrites, which grudge against God, if their workes bee not accepted.

C H A P. L I X.

2 The wicked perish through their owne iniquities. 12 The confession of finnes. 16 God alone will preserve his Church, though all men faile.

BEhold, * the Lords hand is not shortened, that it cannot save: neither is his eare heauie, that it cannot heare.

2 But * your iniquities hath separated betweene you and your God, and your sins have hid his face from you, that hee will not heare.

3 For your hands are defiled with * blood, and your fingers with iniquity: your lips have spoken lies, and your tongue hath murmured iniquitie.

4 No man calleth for iustice: no man ^b contendeth for truth, they trust in vanitie, and speake vaine things: they conceive mischief, and * bring forth iniquitie.

5 They hatch cockatrice ^d egges, and weave the spiders * web: hee that careth of their egges, dieth, and that which is trod upon, breaketh out into a serpent.

6 Their webs shall bee no garment, neither shall they cover themselves with their labours: for their works are workes of iniquitie, and the worke of crueltie is in their hands.

7 Their feet runne to euill, and they make haste to shed innocent blood: their thoughts are wicked thoughts: desolation and destruction is in their pathes.

8 The way of peace they know not, and there is none equitie in their goings: they have made them crooked paths: whoeuer goeth therein, shall not know peace.

9 Therefore is ^f judgement far from us, neither doth ^g iustice come neere unto us, wee waite for light, but loe it is darkenesse: for brightnesse, but we walke in darkenesse.

10 Wee grope for the wall like the ^h blind, and we grope as one without eyes: we stumble at the noone day as in the twilight: we are in solitary places, as dead men.

11 Wee roare all like ⁱ beares, and mourne like doves: we looke for equitie, but there is none: for health, but it is farre from us.

12 For our trespasses are many before thee, and our ^k finnes testifie against us: for our trespasses are with us, and wee know our iniquities.

13 In trespassing and lying against the Lord, and we have departed away from our God, and have spoken of cruelty and rebellion, conceiving and uttering out of the heart false ^l matters.

14 Therefore ^m judgement is turned backward, and iustice standeth farre off: for truth is fallen in the street, and equitie cannot enter.

selves, and thou regardest it not. Behold, in the day of your fast you will seeke ^d your will, and require all your debts.

4 Behold, yee fast to strife and debate, and to smite with the fist of wickednesse: yee shall not fast as ye doe to day, to make your voice to be * heard above.

5 Is it such a fast that I have chosen, that a man should afflict his soule for a day, and to bow downe his head, as a bulrush, and to lie downe in sackcloth and ashes? wilt thou call this a fasting, or an acceptable day to the Lord?

6 Is not this the fasting, that I have chosen, to loose the bands of wickednesse, to take off the heauie burdens, and to let the oppressed goe free, and that ye break every ^e yoke?

7 Is it not to deale thy bread to the hungrie, and that thou bring the poore that wander, unto thine house? when thou seeest the naked, that thou cover him, and hide not thy selfe from ^f thine one flesh?

8 Then shall thy ^g light breake forth as the morning, and thine health shall grow speedily: thy ^h righteousness shall goe before thee, and the glory of the Lord shall embrace thee.

9 Then shalt thou call, and the Lord shall answere: thou shalt cry, and he shall say, Here I am: if thou take away from the mids of thee the yoke, the putting forth of the ⁱ finger, and wicked speaking:

10 If thou ^j powre out thy soule to the hungrie, and refresh the troubled soule: then shall thy light spring out in the ^k darkenesse, and thy darkenesse shall be as the noone day.

11 And the Lord shall guide thee continually, and satisfie thy soule in drought, and make fat thy bones: and thou shalt be like a watered garden, and like a spring of water, whose waters faile not.

12 And they shall bee of thee, that shall build the old ^l waste places: thou shalt raise up the foundations for many generations, and thou shalt be called the repairer of the breach, and the restorer of the pathes to dwell in.

13 If thou ^m turne away thy foot from the Sabbath, from doing thy will on mine Holy day, and call the Sabbath a delight, to consecrate it, as glorious to the Lord, and shalt honour him, nor doing thine owne waies, nor seeking thine own will, nor speaking a vaine word, 14 Then shalt thou delight in the Lord, and I will cause thee to mount upon the high places of the earth, and feed thee with the heritage of Jaakob thy father: for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it.

^d Thus hee convinceth the hypocrites by the second table, and by their due tie toward their neighbour, that they have neither faith nor religion.

^e So long as you use contention and oppression, your fasting and prayer shall not be heard.

^f That you leave off all your extortions.

^g For in him thou seeest thy selfe as in a glasse.

^h That is, the prosperous estate wherewith God will blesse thee.

ⁱ The testimony of thy goodnesse shall appear before God and man.

^k Whereby is meant all manner of injury.

^l That is, have compassion on their miseries.

^m Thine aduersitie shall be turned into prosperitie.

ⁿ Signifying, that of the Jewes should come such as should build againe the ruines of Jerusalem and Judea: but chiefly this is meant of the spirituall Jerusalem, whose builders were the Apostles.

^o If thou refrain thy selfe from thy wicked workes.

ⁿThe wicked will destroy him.

15 Yea, truth faileth, and he that refraineth from evill, maketh himselfe ^a a prey: and when the Lord saw it, it displeased him, that there was no judgement.

16 And when he saw that there was no man, he wondred that none would offer himselfe. ^o Therefore his arme did ^p save it, and his righteousnesse it selfe did sustaine it.

17 For he put on righteousnesse, as an habergion, and an ^q helmet of salvation upon his head, and he put on the garments of vengeance for clothing, and was elad with zeale as a cloake.

18 As to make recompence, as to requite the furie of the adversaires with a recompence to his enemies: hee will fully repay the ^r Islands.

19 So shall they feare the Name of the Lord from the West, and his glory from the rising of the Sun: for the enemy shall ^s come like a flood: but the Spirit of the Lord shall chase him away.

20 And the Redeemer shall come unto Zion, and unto ^t them that turne from iniquity in Jaakob, saith the Lord.

21 And I will make this my covenant with them, saith the Lord, My spirit that is upon thee, and my words, which I have put in thy mouth, ^v shall not depart out of thy mouth, nor out of the mouth of thy seed, nor out of the mouth of the seed of thy seed, saith the Lord, from henceforth even for ever.

CHAP. LX.

³ The Gentiles shall come to the knowledge of the Gospell.
⁸ They shall come to the Church in abundance. ¹⁶ They shall have abundance, though they suffer for a time.

Arise, O Jerusalem: be bright, for thy ^a light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee.

2 For behold, darknesse shall cover the ^b earth, and grosse darknesse the people: but the Lord shall arise upon thee, and his glory shall be seen upon thee.

3 And the Gentiles shall walke in ^c thy light, and Kings at the brightnesse of thy rising up.

4 Lift up thine eyes round about, and behold: all ^d these are gathered, and come to thee, thy sons shall come from far, and thy daughters shall be nourished at ^e thy side.

5 Then thou shalt see and shine: thine heart shall be astonished ^f and enlarged, because the multitude of the sea shall be converted unto thee, and the riches of the Gentiles shall come unto thee.

6 The ^g multitude of camels shall cover thee: and the dromedaries of Midian and of Ephah: all they of Sheba shall come: they shall bring gold and incense, and shew forth the praises of the Lord.

7 All the sheep of ^h Kedar shall be gathered unto thee: the rams of Nebaioth shall serve thee: they shall come to be accepted upon mine ⁱ altar: and I will beautifie the house of my glory.

8 Who are these ^j that flee like a cloud, and as the doves to their windows?

9 Surely the Isles shall waite for mee, and the ships ^k of Tarshish, as at the beginning, that they may bring thy sonnes from far, and their silver, and their gold with them, unto the name of the Lord thy God, and to the Holy one of Israel, because he hath glorified thee.

10 And the sons of strangers shall build up the walls, and their ^l Kings shall minister unto thee: for in my wrath I smote thee, but in my mercy I had compassion on thee.

11 Therefore thy gates shall be open continually: neither day nor night shall they bee shut, that men may bring unto thee the riches of the Gentiles, and that their Kings may be brought.

12 For the nation and the ^m kingdom, that will not serve thee, shall perish: and those nations shall be utterly destroyed.

13 The ⁿ glory of Lebanon shall come unto thee, the firre tree, the elme and the boxe tree together, to beautifie the place of my Sanctuary: for I will glorifie the place of my ^o feet.

14 The sons also of them that afflicted thee, shall come and bow unto thee: and all they that despised thee, shall ^p fall down at the soles of thy feet: and they shall call thee, The citie of the Lord, Zion of the holy one of Israel.

15 Whereas thou hast beene forsaken and hated, so that no man went ^q by thee, I will make thee an eternall glory, and a joy from generation to generation.

16 Thou shalt also suck the milke of the Gentiles, and shalt suck the ^r breasts of kings: and thou shalt know, that I the Lord am thy Saviour, and thy Redeemer, the mighty one of Jaakob.

17 For brasse will I bring gold, and for iron will I bring silver, and for wood brasse, and for stones iron. I will also make thy Government ^s peace, and thine exactours righteousnesse.

18 Violence shall no more be heard of in thy land, neither desolation, nor destruction within thy borders: but thou shalt ^t call Salvation, thy wals, and Praise, thy gates.

19 Thou shalt have no more sun to shine by day, neither shall the brightnes of the ^u moon shine unto thee: for the Lord shall be thine everlasting light, and thy God, thy glory.

20 Thy

^g That is the Arabians, that have great abundance of cattell.

^h Because the altar was a figure of Christ, Heb. 13. 10. He sheweth that nothing can bee acceptable to him, which is not offered to him by this altar, who was both the offering and the altar is selfe.

ⁱ Shewing what great number shall come to the Church, and with what great diligence and zeale.

^k The Gentiles that are now enemies, shall become friends and sisters forth of the Church.

^l Meaning, Cyrus and his successors, but chiefly this is accomplished in them that serve Christ, being converted by his Gospel.

^m He sheweth that God hath given al power and authority here in earth for the use of his Church, and that they which will not serve and profit the same, shall be destroyed.

ⁿ There is nothing so excellent which shall not serve the necessity of the Church.

^o Signifying, that Gods Majestie is not included in the Temple, which is but the place for his feet, that we may learne to rise up to the heavens.

^p To worship their head Christ, by obeying his doctrine.

^q Both high and low shall be ready to help & succour thee.

^r Thy governours shall love thee and seeke thy wealth and prosperie.

^s Meaning, not a temporall felicity, but a spirituall, which is fulfilled in Christs kingdom.

^t Signifying, that all worldly means shall cease, & that Christ shall be all in all, as Reve. 21. 22. and 22. 3.

^o Meaning, to doe justice, and to remedy the things that were so farre out of order.

^p That is, his Church, or his arme did helpe it selfe, and did not seeke ayde of any other.

^q Signifying, that God hath al means at hand to deliver his Church, and to punish their enemies.

^r To wit, your enemies which dwell in divers places, and beyond the sea.

^s He sheweth that there shall be great affliction in the Church, but God will ever deliver his.

^t Whereby he declarerh that that true deliverance from sin and Satan belongeth to none but to the children of God; whom he sustainerh.

^u Because the doctrines made profitable by the verue of the Spirit, he joyntly yone with the others, and promitteth to give them both to his Church for ever.

^a The time of thy prosperity and felicity: whereas speaking of Babylon, he commanded her to goe down, chap. 47. 1.

^b Signifying, that all men are in darkness, till God give them the light of his spirit, and that this light shineth to none but to those that are in his Church.

^c Meaning, that Iudaea should be as the morning star, and that the Gentiles should receive light of her.

^d An infinite number from all countries, as Chap. 49. 18.

^e For joy: as the heart is drawn in for sorrow.

^f Meaning, that every one shall honour the Lord with that where-with hee is able. Signifying, that it is no true serving of God, except we offer our selves to serve his glory, and all that we have.

20 Thy sunne shall never goe downe, neither shall thy moone bee hid: for the Lord shall be thine everlasting light, and the daies of thy sorrow shall be ended.

21 Thy people also shall be all righteous: they shall possesse the land for ever, the ^vgraffe of my planting shall bee the work of mine hands, that I may bee glorified.

22 A litle one shall become as a ^athousand, and a small one as a strong nation: I the Lord will hasten it in due time.

CHAP. LXI.

¹ He propheseth that Christ shall be annointed, and sent to preach. ¹⁰ The joy of the faithfull.

THe ^aspirit of the Lord God ^{is} upon me, therefore hath the Lord annointed me: hee hath sent me to preach good tidings unto the poore, to binde up the ^bbroken hearted, to preach liberty to the ^ccaptives, and to them that are bound, the opening of the prison,

2 To preach the ^dacceptable yeare of the Lord, and the day of ^evengeance of our God, to comfort all that mourne,

3 To appoint unto them that mourne in Zion, and to give unto them beauty for ^fashes, the oyle of joy for mourning, the garment of gladnesse for the spirit of heavinesse, that they might be called ^gtrees of righteousness, the planting of the Lord, that he might be glorified.

4 And they shall build the old waste places, and raise up the former desolations, and they shall repaire the cities that were desolate and waste through many ^hgenerations.

5 And the stranger shall ⁱstand and feede your sheepe, and the sonnes of the strangers shall bee your plow-men, and dressers of your vines.

6 But ye shall be named ^kthe Priests of the Lord, and men shall say unto you, The ministers of our God: Ye shall eat the ^lriches of the Gentiles, and shall bee exalted with their glory.

7 For your thame ^myou shall receive double, and for confusion ⁿthey shall rejoyce in ^otheir portion: for in their land they shall possesse the ^pdouble: everlasting joy shall be unto them.

8 For I the Lord love judgement, and hate robbery for burnt offering, and I will direct their worke in truth, and will make an everlasting covenant with them.

9 And ^qtheir seed shall bee knowne among the Gentiles, and their buds among the people. All that see them, shall know them, that they are the seed which the Lord hath blessed.

10 ^rI will greatly rejoyce in the Lord, and my soule shall be joyfull in my God: for he hath clothed me with the garments of salvation, and covered mee with the robe of righteousness: hee hath decked me like a bridegrome, and as a bride tieth her selfe with her jewels.

11 For as the earth bringeth forth her bud, and as the garden causeth to grow that which is sown in it: so the Lord God will cause righteousness to grow, and praise before all the heathen.

CHAP. LXII.

¹ The great desire that the Prophets have had for Christs coming. ⁶ The diligence of the pastors to preach.

For Zions sake I will not ^ahold my tongue, and for Jerusalems sake I will not rest, untill the righteousness thereof breake forth as the ^blight, and salvation thereof as a burning lampe.

2 And the Gentiles shall see thy righteousness, and all Kings thy glory: and thou shalt bee called by ^ca new name, which the mouth of the Lord shall name.

3 Thou shalt also be a ^dcrowne of glory in the hand of the Lord, and a royal diademne in the hand of thy God.

4 It shall no more bee said unto thee, ^eForfaken; neither shall it be said any more to thy land, Desolate, but thou shalt bee called ^fHephzi-bah, and thy land ^gBeulah: for the Lord delighteth in thee, and thy land shall have an ^hhusband.

5 For as a yong man marieth a virgin, so shall thy sonnes ⁱmarrie thee: and as a bridegrome is glad of the bride, so shall thy God rejoyce over thee.

6 I have set ^jwatchmen upon thy walles, O Jerusalem, which all the day and all the night continually shall not cease: ^kye that are mindfull of the Lord, keepe not silence.

7 And give him no rest, till he repaire, and untill he set up Jerusalem the ^lpraise of the world.

8 The Lord hath sworne by his right hand, and by his strong arme, Surely I will no more give thy corne to bee meat for thine enemies, and surely the sonnes of the strangers shall not drinke thy wine, for the which thou hast laboured.

9 But they that have gathered it, shall cate it, and praise the Lord, and the gatherers thereof shall drinke it in the courts of my sanctuary.

10 ^mGoe through, goe through the gates: prepare you the way for the people: cast up, cast up the way, and gather out the stones, and set up a standard for the people.

11 Behold, the Lord hath proclaimed unto the ends of the world: ⁿtell the daughter Zion, Behold thy Saviour cometh: behold, his wages ^ois with him, and ^phis worke ^qis before him.

ⁿ Hee shall have all power to bring his purpose to passe, as Chap. 40. 10.

12 And

^u The children of the Church.

^x Meaning, that the church should bee miraculously multiplied.

^{* Luke 4. 18.}

^a This appertaineth to all the Prophets and ministers of God, but chiefly to Christ, of whose abundant graces every one receiveth according as it pleaseth him to distribute.

^b To them that are lively touched with the feeling of their sins.

ⁿ That is the Jewes.

^o To wit, of the Gentiles.

^p Whereas the Gentiles had dominion over the Jewes in times past, now they shall have double authoritie over them, and possesse twice so much.

^q I will not receive their offering, which are extortioners, deceivers, or that deprive me of my glory.

^r That is, of thy Church.

^s Hee sheweth what shall be the affection, when they seele this their deliverance.

^a The Prophet saith, that he will never cease to declare unto the people, the good tidings of their deliverance.

^b Till they have full deliverance: and this the Prophet speaketh to encourage all other Ministers to the setting forth of Gods mercies towards his Church.

^c Thou shalt have a more excellent fame then thou hast had hitherto.

^d He shall esteem thee as deare and precious, as a king doth his crowne.

^e Thou shalt no more be contented as a woman forsaken of her husband.

^f Or, my delight is in her.

^g Or, married. That it may be replenished with children.

^h Forasmuch as they confesse one faith and religion with thee, they are in the same bond of marriage with thee, and they are called the children of the Church, inasmuch as Christ maketh her plentiful to bring forth children unto him.

ⁱ Prophets, Pastors, and Ministers.

^j Hee exhorteth the Ministers never to cease to call upon God by prayer for the deliverance of his Church, and to teach others to doe the same.

^k For the restoration whereof all the world shall praise him.

1 God shall destroy his enemies for his Churches sake.
7 Gods benefits towards his Church.

WHo is this that cometh a from Edom, with red garments from Bozrah? hee is glorious in his apparell, and walketh in his great strength. b I speake in righteousnesse, and am mighty to save.

2 c Wherefore is thine apparell red, and thy garments like him that treadeth in the winepresse?

3 I have troden the winepresse alone, and of all people there was none with me: for I will tread them in mine anger, and tread them under foot in my wrath, and their blood shall be sprinkled upon my garments, and I will staine all my raiment.

4 For the day of vengeance is in mine heart, and the d yeare of my redeemed is come.

5 And I looked, and there was none to helpe, and I wondred that there was none to uphold: therefore mine owne e arme helped me, and my wrath it selfe sustained me.

6 Therefore I will tread downe the people in my wrath, and make them f drunken in mine indignation, and will bring down their strength to the earth.

7 I will g remember the mercies of the Lord, and the praises of the Lord according unto all that the Lord hath given us, and for the great goodnesse toward the house of Israel, which he hath given them according to his tender love, and according to his great mercies.

8 For hee said, Surely they are my h people, children that will not lie: so he was their Saviour.

9 In all their troubles hee was i troubled, and the Angel k of his presence saved them: in his love and in his mercy he redeemed them, and he bare them, and caried them alwaies continually.

10 But they rebelled and vexed his holy spirit: therefore was hee turned to be their enemy, and hee fought against them.

11 Then he l remembered the old time of Moses and his people, saying, Where is he that brought them up out of the Sea, with the m shepheard of his sheepe? Where is he that put his holy spirit within n him?

12 Hee led them by the right hand of Moses: with his owne glorious arme, deviding the water before them, to make himselfe an everlasting Name.

13 He led them through the deepe, as an o horse in the wilderness, that they should not stumble.

14 As the beast goeth downe into the valley, the Spirit of the Lord gave them rest: so diddest thou leade thy people, to make thy selfe a glorious Name.

15 p Looke downe from heaven, and behold from the dwelling place of thine holinesse, and of thy glory. Where is thy q zeale and thy strength, the multitude of thy mercies, and of thy compassions? they are restrained from me.

16 Doubtlesse thou art our Father: though r Abraham be ignorant of us, and Israel know us not, yet thou, O Lord, art our Father, and our redeemer: thy Name is for ever.

17 O Lord, why hast t thou made us to erre from thy waies, and hardened our heart from thy feare? Returne for thy v servants sake, and for the tribes of thine inheritance.

18 The people of thine holinesse have possessed it, but a litle * while: for our adversaries have troden downe thy Sanctuary.

19 We have beene as they over whom thou never barest rule, and upon whom thy Name was not called.

^x That is, in respect of the promise, which is perpetual: albeit they had now possessed the land of Canaan, a thousand and foure hundred yeares: and thus they lament, to move God rather to remember his Covenant, then to punish their sinnes.

C H A P. LXIV.

1 The Prophet prayeth for the sinnes of the people. 6 Mans righteousnesse is like a filthy cloth.

OH, that thou wouldest a breake the heavens, and come downe, and that the mountaines might melt at thy presence!

2 As the melting fire burned, as the fire caused b the waters to boile, (that thou mightest declare thy Name to thy adversaries) the people did tremble at thy presence.

3 When thou diddest terrible things, which wee looked not for, thou camest downe, and the mountaines melted at thy presence.

4 For since the beginning of the world, they have not c heard, nor understood with the eare, neither hath the eye seene another God beside thee, which doth so to him that waiteth for him.

5 Thou didst meet him, d that rejoiced in thee, and did justly: they remembered thee in thy e waies: behold, thou art angry, for we have sinned: yet in f them is continuance, and we g shall be saved.

^o Peaceably, and gently, as an horse is led to his pasture.

^p Having declared Gods benefits shewed to their forefathers, hee turneth himselfe to God by prayer, desiring him to continue the same graces toward them.

^q Thy great affection which thou barest towards us.

^r Meaning, from the whole body of the Church.

^s Though Abraham would refuse us to be his children, yet thou wilt not refuse to be our Father.

^t By taking away thy holy Spirit from us, by whom we were governed, and so for our ingratitude didst deliver us up to our owne concupiscence, & didst punish sin by sinne according to thy just judgement.

^u Meaning, for thy Covenant sake made to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob his servants.

^x That is, in respect of the promise, which is perpetual: albeit they had now possessed the land of Canaan, a thousand and foure hundred yeares: and thus they lament, to move God rather to remember his Covenant, then to punish their sinnes.

^y That is, in respect of the promise, which is perpetual: albeit they had now possessed the land of Canaan, a thousand and foure hundred yeares: and thus they lament, to move God rather to remember his Covenant, then to punish their sinnes.

^z That is, in respect of the promise, which is perpetual: albeit they had now possessed the land of Canaan, a thousand and foure hundred yeares: and thus they lament, to move God rather to remember his Covenant, then to punish their sinnes.

^a The Prophet continueth his prayer, desiring God to declare his love towards his Church, by miracles & mighty power, as hee did in mount Sinai.

^b Meaning, the raine, hail, fire, thunder, and lightnings.

^c S. Paul useth the same kind of admiration.

^d Thou shewedst favour toward our fathers when they trusted in thee, & walked after thy commandments.

^e They considered thy great mercies.

^f That is, in thy mercies, which he calleth, the waies of the Lord.

^g Thou wilt have pitie upon us.

^h We are justly punished and brought into captivity, because we have provoked thee to anger, and though we would excuse our selves, yet our righteoufnesse and best vertues are before thee as vile clouts, or, (as some read) like y^e memstruous clothes of a woman.

ⁱ Albeit, O Lord by thy just judgement thou maifest utterly destroy us, as the potter may his pot, yet we appeale to thy mercies, whereby it hath pleased thee to adopt us to be thy children.

^k For so the flesh judgeth, when God doth not immediately lend succour.

^l Which were dedicated to thy service, and to call upon thy name.

^m Wherein wee rejoiced and worshipped thee.

ⁿ That is, at the contempt of thine own glory, though our sins have deserved this, yet thou wilt not suffer thy glory thus to be diminished.

6 But we have all been as an unclean thing, and all our ^h righteoufnesse is as filthy clouts, and we all do fade like a leafe, and our iniquities like the winde have taken us away.

7 And there is none that calleth upon thy Name, neither that stirreth up himselfe to take hold of thee: for thou hast hid thy face from us, and hast consumed us because of our iniquities.

8 But now, O Lord, thou art our Father: we are the ⁱ clay, and thou art our potter, and we all are the worke of thine hands.

9 Be not angry, O Lord, ^k above measure, neither remember iniquity for ever: loe, we beseech thee, behold, we are all thy people.

10 ^l Thine holy Cities lye waste: Zion is a wilderness, and Jerusalem a desert.

11 The house of our Sanctuary and of our glory, ^m where our fathers praised thee, is burnt up with fire, and all our pleasant things are wasted.

12 Wilt thou hold thy selfe still ⁿ at these things, O Lord? wilt thou hold thy peace and afflict us above measure?

C H A P. LXV.

¹ The vocation of the Gentiles, and the rejection of the Iewes. ¹³ The joy of the elect, and the punishment of the wicked.

I Have been sought of them that ^a asked not: I was found of them that sought me not: I said, Behold me, behold me, unto a nation that called not upon my Name.

2 I have spread ^b out mine hands all the day unto a rebellious people, which walked in a way that was not good, ^c even after their own ^c imaginations.

3 A people that provoked me ever unto my face: that sacrificeth in ^d gardens, and burneth incense upon ^e bricks.

4 Which remaine among the ^f graves, and lodge in the deserts, which eate ^g Swines flesh, and the broth of things polluted ^h are in their vessels.

5 Which say, ⁱ Stand apart, come not neare to me: for I am holier then thou: these are a smoke in my wrath, and a fire that ^j burneth all the day.

6 Behold, it is ^k written before me: I will not keep silence, but will render it and recompense it into their bosome.

7 Your iniquities, and the iniquities of your fathers, ^l shall be ^l together (saith the Lord) which have burnt incense upon the mountaines, and blasphemed me upon the hills: therefore will I measure their old worke into their bosome.

8 Thus saith the Lord, As the wine is found in the cluster, and one saith, Destroy it not, for a ^m blessing is in it, so will I doe for my servants sakes, that I may not destroy them whole.

9 But I will bring a seed out of Jaakob, and out of Judah, that shall inherit my mountaine: and mine Elect shall inherit it, and my servants shall dwell there.

10 And ⁿ Sharon shall be a sheepfold, and the valley of Achor shall be a resting place for the cattell of my people, that have sought me.

11 But ye are they that have forsaken the Lord, and forgotten mine holy mountaine, and have prepared a table for the ^o multitude, and furnish the drinke offerings unto the number.

12 Therefore will I ^p number you to the sword, and all you shall bow down to the slaughter, because I called, and yee did not answer: I ^q spake, and yee heard not, but did evill in my sight, and did chuse that thing which I would not.

13 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, behold, my servants shall ^r eate, and ye shall bee hungrie: behold, my servants shall drinke, and ye shall be thirstie: behold, my servants shall rejoyce, and yee shall be ahamed.

14 Behold, my servants shall sing for joy of heart, and ye shall cry for sorrow of heart, and shall howle for vexation of minde.

15 And ye shall leave your name as a curse unto my ^s chosen: for the Lord God shall slay you, and call his servants by ^t another name.

16 He that shall blesse in the ^v earth, shall blesse himselfe in the true God, and he that sweareth in the earth, shall swear by the true God: for the former ^u troubles are forgotten, and shall surely hide themselves from mine eyes.

17 For loe, I will create ^v new heavens and a new earth: and the former shall not be remembered nor come into minde.

18 But bee you glad and rejoyce for ever in the things that I shall create: for behold, I will create Jerusalem, as a rejoycing, and her people, as a joy.

19 And I will rejoyce in Jerusalem, and joy in my people, and the voice of weeping shall bee no more heard in her, nor the voice of crying.

20 There shall bee no more there a childe of years, nor an old man that hath ^z not filled his daies: for he that shall be an hundred years old shall die as a yong man: but the sinner being ^a an hundred years old shall be accursed.

^m That is, it is profitable: meaning, that God will not destroy the faithfull branches of his vineyard, when he destroyeth the rotten stocks, that is, the hypocrites.

ⁿ Which was a plentiful place in Judea to feede sheepe, as Achor was for cattell.

^o By the multitude and number, he meaneth their innumerable Idols, of whom they thought they could never have enough.

^p Seeing you cannot number your gods, I will number you with the sword.

^q By my Prophets, whom yee would not obey.

^r By these words, eate and drinke, hee meaneth the blessed life of the faithfull, which have alwaies consolation, and full contentment of all things in their God, though sometimes they lacke these corporall things.

^s Meaning, that he would call the Gentiles, who should abhorre even the very name of the Jewes, for their infidelities sake.

^t Then by the name of the Jewes.

^u By blessing, and by swearing, is meant the praising of God for his benefits, and the true worshiping of him, which shall not be only in Judea, but thorow all the world.

^v I will no more suffer my Church to be desolate as in times past.

^w I will so alter & change the state of my Church, that it shall seeme to dwell in a new world.

^z Meaning, in this wonderful restoration of the Church, there should bee no weaknes of youth, nor infirmities of age, but all should be fresh, and flourishing, and this is accomplished in the heavenly Jerusalem, when all sins shall cease, and the reares shall be wiped away.

^a Whereby hee sheweth that the infidels and unpertinent sinners have no part of this benediction.

^a Meaning, the Gentiles, which knew not God, should seeke after him when he had moved their heart, with his holy spirit, Rom. 10. 20.

^b He sheweth the cause of the rejection of the Jewes, because they would not obey him for any admonition of his Prophets, by who hee called them continually, and stretched out his hands to draw them.

^c He sheweth that to delight in our own fantasies, is y^e declining from God, and the beginning of all superstition and idolatry.

^d Which were dedicate to Idols.

^e Meaning, their altars, which hee thus nameth by contempt.

^f To consult with spirits, and to conjure devils, which was forbidden, Deut. 18. 11.

^g Which was contrary to Gods commandment, Lev. 11. 7. Deut. 14. 8.

^h He sheweth that hypocrisie is ever joynd with pride and contempt of others.

ⁱ Their punishment shall never have end. ^k So that the remembrance thereof cannot be forgotten. ^l Shall be both punished together: and this declareth how the children are punished for their fathers faults, to wit, when the same faults or like are found in them.

^b He propoſeth to the faithfull the bleſſings which are contained in the Law, and ſo under temporal things comprehendeth the ſpiritual promiſes.

^c Reade Chap. 11.6.

21 And they ſhall ^b build houſes and inhabite them, and they ſhall plant vineyards, and eat the fruit of them.

22 They ſhall not build, and another inhabite: they ſhall not plant, and another eat: for as the daies of the tree are the daies of my people, and mine ele^c ſhall enjoy in old age the worke of their hands.

23 They ſhall not labour in vaine, nor bring forth in feare: for they are the ſeed of the bleſſed of the Lord, and their buds with them.

24 Yea, before they call, I will answer, and whiles they ſpeake, I will heare.

25 The ^c wolfe and the lambe ſhall feed together, and the lion ſhall eat ſtraw like the bullocke: and to the ſerpent duſt ſhall be his meate. They ſhall no more hurt nor deſtroy in all mine holy mountaine, ſaith the Lord.

CHAP LXXVI.

¹ God dwelleth not in Temples made with hands. ³ Hee deſpiſeth ſacrifices done without mercie and faith. ⁵ God comforteth them that are troubled for his ſake. ¹⁹ The vocation of the Gentiles. ²³ The perpetuall Sabbath.

²⁴ The puniſhment of the wicked is everlaſting.

THUS ſaith the Lord. * The ^a heaven is my throne, and the earth is my foot-ſtoole: where is that houſe that ye will build unto mee? and where is that place of my reſt?

2 For all theſe things hath mine hand made, ^b and all theſe things have bene, ſaith the Lord: and to him will I looke, even to him that is poore, and of a ^c contrite ſpirit, and trembleth at my words.

3 He that killeth a bullocke, ^d is as if he ſlew a man: he that ſacrificeth a ſheepe, as if he cut off a dogges necke: hee that offereth an oblation, as if hee offered ſwines blood: hee that remembreth in-cenſe, as if hee bleſſed an idole: yea, they have choſen their owne waies; and their ſoule delighteth in their abominations.

4 Therefore will I ^e chuſe out their deluſions, and I will bring their feare upon them: becauſe I called, and none would answer: I ſpake, and they would not heare: but they did evill in my ſight, and choſe the things which I would not.

5 Heare the word of the Lord, all ye that tremble at his ^f word, Your brethren that hated you, and caſt you out for my Names ſake, ſaid, Let the Lord be glorified: but he ſhall appeare to your joy, and they ſhall be aſhamed.

6 ^g A voice ſoundeth from the citie, even a voice from the Temple, the voice of the Lord, that recompeneſeth his enemies fully.

^h He encourageth the faithfull by promiſing to deſtroy their enemies, which pretended to be as brethren, but were hypocrites, and hated them that feared God. ⁱ The enemies ſhall ſhortly heare a more terrible voice, even fire and ſlaughter, ſeeing they would not heare the gentle voice of the Prophets, which called them to repentance.

7 Before ^h ſhe travelled, ſhe brought forth, and before her paine came, ſhe was delivered of a man childe.

8 Who hath heard ſuch a thing? who hath ſeene ſuch things? ſhall the earth be brought forth in one ⁱ day? or ſhall a nation bee borne at once? for aſſoone as Zion travelled, ſhee brought forth her children.

9 Shall I ^k cauſe to travel, and not bring forth? ſhall I cauſe to bring forth, and ſhall be barren, ſaith thy God?

10 Rejoyce ye with Jeruſalem, and be glad with her, all ye that love her: rejoyce for joy with her, all ye that mourne for her.

11 That ye may ſucke, ^l and be ſatiſfied with the breſts of her conſolation: that ye may milke out, and be delighted with the brightneſſe of her glorie.

12 For thus ſaith the Lord, Behold, I will extend ^m peace over her like a flood, and the glorie of the ⁿ Gentiles like a flowing ſtreame: then ſhall ye ſucke, ye ſhall be ^o borne upon her ſides, and bee joyfull upon her knees.

13 As one whom his mother comforteth, ſo will I comfort you, and ye ſhall be comforted in Jeruſalem.

14 And when ye ſee this, your hearts ſhall rejoyce, and your ^p bones ſhall flouriſh like an herbe: and the hand of the Lord ſhall be knowne among his ſervants, and his indignation againſt his enemies.

15 For behold, the Lord will come with fire, and his charrets like a whirlewinde, that he may ^q recompeneſe his anger with wrath, and his indignation with the flame of fire.

16 For the Lord will judge with fire, and with his ſword all fleſh, and the ſlaine of the Lord ſhall be many.

17 They that ſanctifie ^r themſelves, and purifie themſelves in the gardens behinde one ^s tree in the mids, eating ^t ſwines fleſh, and ſuch abomination, even the mouſe, ſhall be conſumed together, ſaith the Lord.

18 For I will ^u viſit their workes, and their imaginations: for it ſhall come that I will gather all nations, and tongues, and they ſhall come and ſee my glorie.

19 And I will ſet a ^v ſigne among them, and will ſend thoſe that ^w eſcape of them, unto the nations of ^x Tarſhiſh, ^y Pul, and ^z Lud, and to them that draw the ^a bow, to ^b Tubal, and ^c Javan, Iſles aſarre off, that have not heard my fame, neither have ſeene my glorie, and ^d they ſhall declare my glorie among the Gentiles.

^h Meaning, that the reſtauration of the Church, ſhould be ſo ſudden, and contrary to all mens opinions: as when a woman is delivered before ſhee looke for it, and that without pain in travel.

ⁱ This ſhall paſſe the capacite of man, to ſee ſuch a multitude, that ſhall come up at once: meaning, under the preaching of the Goſpel, whereof they that came up out of Babylon were a figure.

^k Declaring hereby, that as by his power and providence, woman travelleth and is delivered: ſo hath he power to bring forth his Church at his appointed time.

^l That yee may rejoyce for all the benefits that God beſtoweth upon his Church.

^m I will give her felicitie and proſperitie in great abundance.

ⁿ Reade Chap. 60.16.

^o Ye ſhall be cheeriſhed as her dearly beloved children.

^p Yee ſhall have new ſtrength and new beautie.

^q This vengeance God began to execute at the deſtruction of Babylon, and hath ever continued it againſt the enemies of his Church and will doe till the laſt day, which ſhall be the accompliſhment thereof.

^r Meaning, the hypocrites.

^s Whereby are meant them that did maliciously tranſgreſſe the Law, by eating beaſts forbidden, even to the mouſe, which nature abhorreth.

^t The Gentiles ſhall be partakers of that glorie, which before I ſhewed to the Jewes.

^u I will marke theſe that I chuſe, that they periſh not with the reſt of the infidels; whereby he alludeth to the marking of the poſts of his people, who hee preferred, Exod. 12.7.

^x I will ſcatter the reſt of the Jewes, which eſcape deſtruction, into divers nations. ^y That is, Cilicia. ^z Meaning, Africa. ^a To wit, Lydia, or Aſia minor. ^b Signifying, the Parthians. ^c Italy. ^d Grecia. ^e Meaning, the Apoſtles, diſciples; and others, which hee did firſt chuſe of the Jewes to preach unto the Gentiles.

f That is, the Gentiles, which by faith shall be made the children of Abraham, as you are.

g Whereby hee meaneth that no necessary means shall want, when God shall call the Gentiles to the knowledge of the Gospel.

h To wit, of the Gentiles, as he did Luke, Timothy and Titus first, & others after to preach his word.

i Hereby he signifies the kingdom of Christ, wherein his Church shall be renewed, and whereas before there were appointed seasons to sacrifice, in this there shall be one continuall Sabbath, so that all times and seasons shall be meet.

20 And they shall bring all your ^f brethren for an offering unto the Lord out of all nations, upon ^g horses, and in charets, and in horse litters, and upon mules, and swift beasts, to Jerusalem mine holy mountaine, saith the Lord, as the children of Israel offer in a clean vessell in the house of the Lord.

21 And I will take of them for ^h Priests, and for Levites, saith the Lord.

22 For as the new ⁱ heavens, and the new earth which I will make, shall remain before me, saith the Lord, so shall your seed and your name continue.

23 And from moneth to moneth, and from Sabbath to Sabbath shall all flesh come to worship before mee, saith the Lord.

24 And they shall goe forth, and looke upon the ^k carkeises of the men that have transgressed against me: for their ^l worme shall not die, neither shall their fire be quenched, and they shall be an abhorring ^m unto all flesh.

ence, which shall ever gnaw them, and I never suffer them to be at rest, Marke 9. 44. This is the just recompence for the wicked, which, contemning God and his word, shall be by Gods just judgement abhorred of all his creatures.

k As, e hath declared the felicity that shall be within the Church for the comfort of the godly, so doth he shew what horrible calamities shall come to the wicked, that are out of the Church.

l Meaning, a continuall torment of conscience.

IEREMIAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

He Prophet Jeremiah borne in the citie of Anathoth in the countrey of Benjamin, was the sonne of Hilkiah, whom some thinke to be he that found out the booke of the Law, and gave it to Iosiah. This Prophet had excellent gifts of God, and most evident revelations of prophesie, so that by the commandment of the Lord he began very young to prophesie, that is, in the thirteenth yeare of Iosiah, and continued 18. yeares under the said King, and three moneths under Iehoahaz, and under Iehojakim eleven yeares, and three moneths under Iehojachin, and under Zedekiah eleven yeares, unto the time that they were caried away into Babylon. So that this time amounteth to above fourtie yeares, besides the time that he prophesied after the captivitie. In this booke he declareth with teares and lamentation, the destruction of Jerusalem, and the captivitie of the people for their idolatrie, covetousnesse, subtiltie, crueltie, excessse, rebellion, and contempt of Gods word; and for the consolation of the Church, revealeth the just time of their deliverance. And here chiefly are to be considered three things. First, the rebellion of the wicked, which waxe more stubborne and obstinate, when the Prophet doe admonish them most plainly of their destruction. Next, how the Prophets & ministers of God, ought not to be discouraged in their vocation, though they be persecuted and rigorously handled of the wicked for Gods cause. And thirdly, though God shew his just judgement against the wicked, yet will he ever shew himself a preserver of his Church, and when all meanes seeme to mans judgement to be abolished, then will he declare himselfe victorious in preserving his.

CHAP. I.

1 In what time Jeremiah prophesied. 6 He acknowledgeth his imperfection, and is strengthened of the Lord. 11 The Lord sheweth him the destruction of Jerusalem. 17 He commandeth him to preach his word without feare.

He ^a words of Jeremiah the sonne of ^b Hilkiah one of the Priests that were at ^c Anathoth in the land of Benjamin.

2 To whom ^d the word of the Lord came in the daies of Iosiah the sonne of Amon King of Judah, in the thirteenth yeare of his reigne:

3 And also in the daies of Iehojakim the ^e sonne of Iosiah King of Judah unto the end of the eleventh yeare of Zedekiah the sonne of Iosiah King of Judah, even unto the carying away of Jerusalem captiue, in the fifth ^f moneth.

4 Then the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

5 Before I ^g formed thee in the womb, I knew thee, and before thou camest out of the wombe I sanctified thee, and ordained thee to be a Prophet unto the ^h nations.

6 Then said I, ⁱ Oh, Lord God, bee Meaning, the nephew of Iosiah: for Jehoiachin was his father, who reigned but three moneths; & therefore is not mentioned, so more is Iosiah that reigned no longer.

f Of the eleventh yeare of Zedekiah, who was also called Mattaniah, and at this time the Jewes were caried away into Babylon by Nebuchadnezzar.

g The Scripture useth this manner of speech, to declare that God hath appointed his ministers to their offices before they were borne, as Isa. 49. 1. Gal. 1. 15. h For Jeremiah did not onely prophesie against the Jewes, but also against the Egyptians, Babylonians, Moabites, and other nations. i Considering, the great judgements of God, which according to his threatnings should come upon the world, he was moved with a certaine compassion on the one side to pitty them that should thus perish, and on the other side by the infirmities of mans nature, knowing how hard a thing it was to enterprise such a charge, as Isa. 6. 11. Exod. 3. 11. and 4. 1.

a That is, the sermons and prophesies.

b Which is thought to be he that found the booke of the law under King Iosiah, 2 King. 22. 8.

c This was a citie about three miles distant from Jerusalem, and belonged to the Priests, the sonnes of Aaron, Iosiah. 21. 18.

d This is spoken to confirme his vocation and office, for as much as he did not presume of himselfe to preach and prophesie, but was called therunto by God.

hold, I cannot speake, for I am a childe.

7 But the Lord said unto me, Say not, I am a childe: for thou shalt goe to all that I shall send thee, and whatsoever I command thee, shalt thou speake.

8 Be not afraid of their faces: for I am with thee to deliver thee, saith the Lord.

9 Then the Lord stretched out his hand, and ^k touched my mouth, and the Lord said unto me, Behold, I have put my word in thy mouth.

10 Behold, this day have I set thee over the nations, and over the kingdomes, to plucke up, and to root out, and to destroy and throw downe, to build and to plant.

11 After this, the word of the Lord came unto mee, saying, Jeremiah what seest thou? And I said, I see a rod of an ^m almond tree.

12 Then the Lord said unto me, Thou hast seene aright: for I will hasten my word to performe it.

13 Again, the word of the Lord came unto me the second time, saying, What seest thou? And I said, I see a seething ⁿ pot looke out of the North.

14 Then said the Lord unto me, out of the ^o North shall a plague bee spread upon all the inhabitants of the land.

15 For loe, I will call all the families of the kingdomes of the North, saith the Lord, and they shall come, and everie one shall set his throne in the entring in of the gates of Jerusalem, and on the walles thereof round about, and in all the cities of Judah.

16 And I will declare unto them my ^p judgements touching all the wickednes of them that have forsaken me, and have burnt incense unto other gods, and worshipped the workes of their own hands.

17 Thou therefore trusse up thy loines, and arise and speake unto them all that I command thee: be not afraid of their faces, lest I ^q destroy thee before them.

18 For I, behold, I this day have made thee a defended citie, and an ^r iron pillar and wals of brasse against the whole land, against the Kings of Judah, and against the princes thereof, against the priests thereof, and against the people of the land.

19 For they shall fight against thee, but they shall not prevaile against thee: for I am with thee to deliver thee, saith the Lord.

20 And the Lord said unto me, that they are utterly unmeet to serve God, and his Church, which are afraid, and doe not resist wickednesse, whatsoever danger depend thereon, Isa. 50. 7. Ezek. 3. 8.

8 Against the Priests and false Prophets. 12 The Temples are destroyed because they forsake God.

Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

2 Goe, and crie in the eares of Jerusalem, saying, Thus saith the Lord, I remember thee with the ^a kindnesse of thy youth, and the love of thy marriage, when thou wentest after me to the wilderness, ^b in a land that was not sowne.

3 Israel was as a thing ^b hallowed unto the Lord, and his first fruits: all they ^d that ate it, shall offend: evill shall come upon them, saith the Lord.

4 Heare yee the word of the Lord, O house of Jaakob, and all the families of the house of Israel.

5 Thus saith the Lord, What iniquitie have your fathers found in me, that they are gone ^e farre from me, and have walked after vanitie, and are become ^f vain?

6 For they said not, Where is the Lord that brought us up out of the land of Egypt? that led us thorow the wilderness, thorow a desert, and wasteland, thorow a drie land, and ^g by the shadow of death, by a land that no man passed thorow, and where no man dwelt?

7 And I brought you into a plentifull countrey, to eat the fruit thereof, and the commodities of the same: but when ye entred, ye defiled ^h my land, and made mine heritage an abomination.

8 The Priests said not, ⁱ Where is the Lord? and they that should minister the ^k Law, knew me not: the ⁱ Pastors also offended against me, and the Prophets prophesied in ^m Baal, and went after ^{things} that did not profit.

9 Wherefore I will yet ⁿ plead with you, saith the Lord, and I will pleade with your childrens children.

10 For go ye to the Isles of ^o Chittim, and behold, and send unto ^p Kedar, and take diligent heed, and see whether there be such things.

11 Hath ^{any} nation changed their gods, which yet are no gods? but my people have changed their ^q glorie, for that which doth not ^r profit.

12 O ye ^r heavens, be astonied at this: bee afraid and utterly confounded, saith the Lord.

13 For my people have committed two evils: they have forsaken mee, the fountaine ^s of living waters, to dig them pits, even broken pits that can hold no water.

14 Improving the Jewss, that they were lesse diligent to serve the true God, then were idolaters to honour their vanities. ^r Meaning, the idols, which were their destruction, Psal. 106. 36. ^s He sheweth, that the insensible creatures abhorre this vile ingratitude, and as it were tremble for feare of Gods great judgements against the same. ^t Signifying, that when men forsake Gods word, which is the fountaine of life, they reject God himselfe, and so fall to their owne inventions, and vaine confidence, and procure themselves destruction, Jonah 2. 8. Zech. 10. 2.

a According to that grace and favour, which I shewed thee from the beginning, when I did first chuse thee to be my people, and married thee to my selfe, Ezek. 16. 3.

b When I had delivered thee out of Egypt.

c Chosen above all other to serve the Lord only, and the first that offered to the Lord of all other nations.

d Whosoever did challenge this people, or else did annoy them, was punished.

e That is, false to most vile idolatrie.

f Altogether given to vanitie. ^g &c are become blind and insensible as the idols that they serve.

g Where for lack of all things necessary for life, ye could look for nothing, everie houre but present death.

m That is, spake vaine things, and brought the people from the true worship of God to serve idols: for by Baal, which was the chiefe idol of the Moabites, are meant all idols.

n Signifying, that he would not as he might, straight way condemn them, but sheweth them by evident examples, their great ingratitude, that they might bee ashamed, and repent.

o Meaning, the Grecians and Italians.

p Unto Arabia.

q That is, God which is their glorie, and who maketh them glorious above all other people, reproving the Jewss, that they were lesse diligent to serve the true God, then were idolaters to honour their vanities.

r Meaning, the idols, which were their destruction, Psal. 106. 36.

s He sheweth, that the insensible creatures abhorre this vile ingratitude, and as it were tremble for feare of Gods great judgements against the same.

t Signifying, that when men forsake Gods word, which is the fountaine of life, they reject God himselfe, and so fall to their owne inventions, and vaine confidence, and procure themselves destruction, Jonah 2. 8. Zech. 10. 2.

14 Is Israel a^v servant, or is he borne in the house? why then is he spoiled?

15 The^x lions roared upon him, and yelled, and they have made his land wast: his cities are burnt^y without an inhabitant.

16 Also the children of^z Noph and Tahapanes have^a broken thine head.

17 Hast thou not procured this unto thy selfe, because thou hast forsaken the Lord thy God, when he^b led thee by the way?

18 And what hast thou now to doe in the way of^c Egypt? to drinke the water of Nilus? or what makest thou in the way of Asshur? to drinke the water of the^d River?

19 Thine own wickednesse shall^e correct thee, and thy turnings backe shall reprove thee: know therefore and behold, that it is an evill thing, and bitter, that thou hast forsaken the Lord thy God, and that my feare^f is not in thee, faith the Lord God of hostes.

21 Yet I had planted thee a noble vine, whose^g plants were all naturall: how then art thou turned unto mee into the plants of a strange vine?

22 Though thou wash thee with^h nitre, and take thee much sope, yet thine iniquitie is marked before me, faith the Lord God:

23 How canst thou say, I am not polluted, neither have Iⁱ followed Baalim? behold thy waies in the valley, and know what thou hast done: thou art like a swift^j dromedarie, that runneth by his waies:

25 Keepe thou thy feet fromⁿ barrennesse, and thy throat from thirst: but thou saidest desperately, No, for I have loved strangers, and them will I follow.

26 As the^o thiefe is ashamed, when he is found, so is the house of Israel ashamed, they, their kings, their princes, and their priests, and their prophets,

27 Saying to a tree, Thou art my father, and to a stone, Thou hast begotten me: for they have turned their backe unto me, and not their face: but in the time of their trouble they will say, Arise, and helpe us.

28 But where are thy gods that thou hast made thee? let them arise, if they can helpe thee in the time of thy trouble: for according^p to the number of thy cities, are thy gods, O Judah.

29 Wherefore will yee^q plead with me: ye all have rebelled against me, faith the Lord.

30 I have smitten your children in vaine, they received no correction: your^r owne sword hath devoured your Prophets like a destroying lion.

31 O generation, take heed to the word of the Lord: have I beene^s as^t a wildernesse unto Israel? or a land of darknesse? Wherefore faith my people then, We are lords, we will come no more unto thee?

32 Can a maid forget her ornament, or a bride her attire? yet my people have forgotten me, daies without number.

33 Why doest thou prepare the way, to^u seeke amitie? even therefore will I teach^v thee, that thy waies are wickednesse.

34 Also in thy^w wings is found the blood of the foules of the poore innocents: I have not found it in holes, but upon all these^x places.

35 Yet thou saiest, Because I am guiltlesse, surely his wrath shall turne from me: behold, I will enter with thee into judgement, because thou saiest, I have not sinned.

36 Why runnest thou about so much to change thy waies? for thou shalt bee confounded of Egypt, as thou art confounded of Asshur.

37 For thou shalt goe forth from thence, and thine hands upon^y a thine head, because the Lord hath rejected thy confidence, and thou shalt not prosper thereby.

CHAP. III.

God calleth his people unto repentance. 14 He promisseth the restitution of his Church. 20 He reproveth Iudah and Israel, comparing them to a woman disobedient to her husband.

They^a say, If a man put away his wife, and she goe from him, and become another mans, shall hee returne againe unto her? shall not this land^b bee polluted? but thou hast plaid the harlot with many^c lovers: yet^d turne againe to me, faith the Lord.

2 Lift up thine eyes unto the high places, and behold, where thou hast not plaid the harlot: thou hast sit^e waiting for them

v Have I ordered them like servants, and not like dearly beloved children? Exod. 4. 22. therefore it is their fault onely, if the enemy spoile them.

j Meaning, that hypocrites denie that they worship the idoles: but that they honour God in them, and therefore they call their doings Gods service.

k He compareth the idolaters to these beasts, because they never cease running to and fro: for both valleys and hilles are full of their idolatrie.

l He compareth the idolaters to a wilde asse: for she can never be tamed, nor yet wearied: for as shee turneth, shee can take her winde at every occasion.

m That is, when she is with foale: and therefore the hunters wait their time: so though thou canst not be turned backe now from thine idolatrie, yet when thine iniquitie shall be at the full, God will meet with thee.

n Hereby he warneth them, that they should not goe into strange countries to seeke helpe: for they should but spend their labour and hurt themselves, which is heere meant by the bare foot and thirst. Isa. 57. 10.

o As a thiefe will not acknowledge his fault, till hee bee taken with the deed, and ready to be punished, so they will not confesse their idolatrie, till the plagues due to the same light upon them.

o Meaning, that idolaters spoile God of his honour: and where as he hath taught to call him the father of all flesh, they attribute this title to their idoles.

p Thou thoughtest that thy gods of blockes and stones could have holpen thee, because they were many in number, and present in every place: but now let mee see, whether either the multitude, or their presence can deliver thee from my plague, Chap. 11. 13.

q As though I did you injurie in punishing you, seeing that your faults are so evident.

r That is, you have killed your Prophets, that exhorted you to repentance, as Zechariah, Isaiah, &c.

s Have I not given them abundance of all things?

them in the wayes; as the Arabian in the wilderness: and thou hast polluted the land with thy whoredomes, and with thy malice.

3 Therefore the showres have beene restrained, and the latter raine came not, and thou hadst a whoredome forehead: thou wouldest not be ashamed.

4 Didst thou not still cry unto mee, Thou art my father, and the guide of my youth?

5 Will hee keepe his anger for ever? will hee reserve it to the end? thus hast thou spoken, but thou dost evill, even more and more.

6 The Lord said also unto mee, in the dayes of Josiah the King, Hast thou seene what this rebell Israel hath done? for she hath gone up upon every high mountain, and under every greene tree, and there played the harlot.

7 And I said, when shee had done all this, Turn thou unto me: but she returned not, as her rebellious sister Judah saw.

8 When I saw, how that by all occasions rebellious Israel had played the harlot, I cast her away, and gave her a bill of divorcement: yet her rebellious sister Judah was not afraid, but shee went also, and played the harlot.

9 So that for the lightnesse of her whoredome, shee hath even defiled the land: for shee hath committed fornication with stones and stocks.

10 Nevertheless for all this, her rebellious sister Judah hath not returned unto mee with her whole heart, but fainedly, saith the Lord.

11 And the Lord said unto mee, The rebellious Israel hath justified her selfe more then the rebellious Judah.

12 Goe and cry these words toward the North, and say, Thou disobedient Israel, returne, saith the Lord, and I will not let my wrath fall upon you: for I am mercifull, saith the Lord, and I will not alway keepe mine anger.

13 But know thine iniquity: for thou hast rebelled against the Lord thy God, and hast scattered thy wayes to the strange gods under every greene tree, but yee would not obey my voice, saith the Lord.

14 O yee disobedient children, turne againe, saith the Lord, for I am your Lord, and I will take you one of a city, and two of a tribe, and will bring you to Zion.

15 And I will give you pastours according to mine heart, which shall feed you with knowledge and understanding.

16 Moreover, when yee be increased and multiplied in the land, in those dayes, saith the Lord, they shall say no more,

The Arke of the covenant of the Lord: for it shall come no more to mind, neither shall they remember it, neither shall they visit it, for that shall bee no more done.

17 At that time they shall call Jerusalem, The throne of the Lord, and all the nations shall be gathered unto it, even to the Name of the Lord in Jerusalem: and thenceforth they shall follow no more the hardnesse of their wicked heart.

18 In those dayes the house of Judah shall walke with the house of Israel, and they shall come together out of the land of the North, into the land that I have given for an inheritance unto your fathers.

19 But I said, How did I take thee for children, and give thee a pleasant land, even the glorious heritage of the armies of the heathen, and said, Thou shalt call mee, saying, My father, and shalt not turne from mee?

20 But as a woman rebelleth against her husband: so have yee rebelled against mee, O house of Israel, saith the Lord.

21 A voyce was heard upon the high places, weeping and supplications of the children of Israel: for they have perverted their way, and forgotten the Lord their God.

22 O yee disobedient children, returne, and I will heale your rebellions. Behold, wee come unto thee, for thou art the Lord our God, 23 Truly, the hope of the hills is but vaine, nor the multitude of mountaines: but in the Lord our God is the health of Israel.

24 For confusion hath devoured our fathers labour from our youth, their sheepe and their bullocks, their sons and their daughters.

25 Wee lie downe in our confusion, and our shame covereth us: for wee have sinned against the Lord our God, wee and our fathers from our youth, even unto this day, and have not obeyed the voice of the Lord our God.

CHAP. IV.

1 True repentance. 4 Hee exhorteth to the circumcision of the heart. 6 The destruction of Judah is prophesied, for the malice of their hearts. 19 The Prophet lamenteth it.

O Israel, if thou returne, returne unto me, saith the Lord: and if thou put away thine abominations out of my sight, then shalt thou not remove.

2 And thou shalt sweare, The Lord liveth, in truth, in judgement, and in righteousness; and the nations shall be blessed in him, and shall glory in him.

3 For thus saith the Lord to the men glory, and profit others; and here by swearing, hee meaneth the true religion of God.

g This is to bee understood of the coming of Christ: for then they shall not seek the Lord by ceremonies, and all figures shall cease.

r Meaning the Church, where the Lord will bee present to the worlds end. Mat. 28. 20.

r where they are now in captivity.

The Hebrew word signifieth, a friend or companion, and heere may be taken for a husband, as it is used also, Hosea 3. 1. v Signifying that God whom they had forsaken, would bring their enemies upon them, who should lead them captive, and make them to cry and lament. x This is spoken in the person of Israel to the shame of Judah, which stayed so long to turne unto God.

y For their idollatry, Gods vengeance hath light upon them and theirs.

z They justify not themselves, or by that they would follow their fathers, but condemn their wicked doings, as desiring forgiveness of the same. Psal. 106. 6. 10. 34. 5.

of Judah, and to Jerusalem:

4 Breake up your fallow ground, and sow not among the thornes: be circumcised to the Lord, and take away the fore-skinnes of your hearts, yee men of Judah, and inhabitants of Jerusalem, lest my wrath come forth like fire, and burne, that none can quench it, because of the wickednesse of your owne inventions.

5 Declare in Judah, and shew forth in Jerusalem, and say, Blow the trumpet in the land, cry and gather together, and say, Assemble your selves, and let us goe into strong cities.

6 Set up the standard in Zion: prepare to flee, and stay not: for I will bring a plague from the North, and a great destruction.

7 The lyon is come up from his den, and the destroyer of the Gentiles is departed, and gone forth of his place to lay thy land waste, and thy cities shall bee destroyed without an inhabitant.

8 Wherefore gird you with sackcloth:
lament and howle, for the fierce wrath of the Lord is not turned back from us.

9 And in that day, saith the Lord, the heart of the King shall perish, and the heart of the Princes and the Priests shall bee astonished, and the Prophets shall wonder.

10 Then said I, Ah, Lord God, surely thou hast deceived this people, and Jerusalem, saying, Yee shall have peace, and the sword pearceth unto the heart.

11 At that time shall it be said to this people, and to Jerusalem, A dry wind in the high places of the wilderness commeth toward the daughter of my people, but neither to fanne nor to cleanse.

12 A mighty wind shall come unto mee from those places, and now will I also give sentence upon them.

13 Behold, hee shall come up as the clouds, and his charrets shall be as a tempest: his horses are lighter then eagles:
Woe unto us, for wee are destroyed.

14 O Jerusalem, wash thine heart from wickednesse, that thou mayest be saved:
how long shall thy wicked thoughts re-maine within thee?

15 For a voice declareth from Dan, and publisheth affliction from mount Eph-raim.

16 Make yee mention of the heathen, and publish in Jerusalem, Behold, the scouts come from a farre countrey, and crie out against the cities of Judah.

17 They have compassed her about as the watchmen of the field, because it hath provoked mee unto wrath, saith the Lord.

18 Thy wayes and thine inventions have procured thee these things, such is thy wickednesse: therefore it shall bee bitter, therefore it shall pierce unto thine heart.

19 My belly, my belly, I am pained even at the very heart: mine heart is troubled within mee: I cannot bee still: for my soul hath heard the sound of the trumpet, and the alarme of the battell.

20 Destruction upon destruction is cried, for the whole land is wasted: suddenly are my tents destroyed, and my curtaines in a moment.

21 How long shall I see the standard, and heare the sound of the trumpet?

22 For my people is foolish, they have not knowne mee; they are foolish children, and have none understanding: they are wise to doe evill, but to doe well they have no knowledge.

23 I have looked upon the earth, and loe, it was without forme and void: and to the heavens, and they had no light.

24 I beheld the mountaines: and loe, they trembled, and all the hills shooke.

25 I beheld, and loe, there was no man, and all the birds of the heaven were departed.

26 I beheld, and loe, the fruitfull place was a wilderness, and all the cities thereof were broken downe at the presence of the Lord, and by his fierce wrath.

27 For thus hath the Lord said, The whole land shall be desolate: yet will I not make a full end.

28 Therefore shall the earth mourne, and the heavens above shall be darkened, because I have pronounced it: I have thought it, and will not repent, neither will I turne back from it.

29 The whole city shall flee, for the noise of the horsemen and bowmen: they shall goe into thickets, and climb up upon the rocks: every city shall be forsaken, and not a man dwell therein.

30 And when thou shalt be destroyed, what wilt thou do? Though thou clovest thy self with scarlet, though thou deckest thee with ornaments of gold, though thou paintest thy face with colours, yet shalt thou trimme thy selfe in vaine: for thy lovers will abhorre thee, and seeke thy life.

31 For I have heard a noise as of a woman travelling, or as one labouring of her first child, even the voice of the daughter Zion that sigheth and stretcheth out her hands: woe is mee now: for my soule fainteth because of the murthurers.

CHAP. V. ROM 81

1 In Judah no righteous man is found, neither hearing the prophets nor the rulers. 15 Wherefore Judah is destroyed of the Caldeans.

q He sheweth that the true ministers are lively touched with the calamities of the Church,
so that all the parts of their body feel the griefe of their heart, albeit with zeale to Gods glory, they pronounce his judgements against the people.
r Meaning, the cities, which were so easily cast downe
as a tent.

s Their wisdoms and policy tend to their owne destruction, and pulled them from God.

t By these manner of speeches, hee sheweth the horrible destruction that should come upon the land, and also condemneth
the obduracy of the people, who repent not at the fear of these terrible tidings, feeling that the inferrible creatures are moved therewith, as if the order of nature should bee changed, Isa. 13.
10. and 24. 23.
Ezek. 32. 7. Joel
2. 31. and 3. 15.
v But for his mercies sake, hee will reserve himselfe a residue to bee his Church, and to praise him in earth, Isa. 2. 2.

w Neither thy coronation nor rich gifts shall deliver thee.

y As the Prophets were moved to pity the destruction of their people, so they declared it to the people to move them to repentance, Jer.
22. 4. chap. 9. 1.

Runne

RUn to and fro by the streets of Jerusalem, and behold now, and know, and inquire in the open places thereof, if yee can find a man, or if there bee any that executeth judgement, and seeketh the truth, and I will spare^a it.

2 For though they say, The^b Lord liveth, yet doe they sweare falsly.

3 O Lord, are not thine eyes upon the^c truth? thou hast^d stricken them, but they have not sorrowed; thou hast consumed them, but they have refused to receive correction: they have made their faces harder then a stone, and have refused to returne.

4 Therefore I said, Surely they are poore, they are foolish, for they know not the way of the Lord, nor the judgement of their God.

5 I will get mee unto the^e great men, and will speake unto them: for they have knowne the way of the Lord, and the judgement of their God: but these have altogether broken the yoke, and burst the bonds.

6 Wherefore^f a lyon out of the forest shall slay them, and a wolfe of the wilderneffe shall destroy them: a leopard shall watch over their cities: every one that goeth out thence, shall be torne in pieces, because their trespasses are many,
and their rebellions are inceased.

7 How should I spare thee for this?
thy children have forsaken mee, and sworn by them that are no gods: though I fed them to the full, yet they committed adultery, and assembled themselves by companies in the harlots houses.

8 They rose up in the morning like fed horses: for every man^g neyed after his neighbours wife.

9 Shall I not visit for these things, saith the Lord? Shall not my soule bee a-vengeed on such a nation as this?

10^h Climbe up upon their wals, and destroy them, but make not a full end:
take away their battlements, for they are not the Lords.

11 For the house of Israel, and the house of Judah have grievously trespassed against mee, saith the Lord.

12 They have^k denied the Lord, and said, It is not he, neither shall the plague come upon us, neither shall wee see sword nor famine.

13 And the Prophets shall be as^l wind, and the word is not^m in them: thus shall it come unto them.

14 Wherefore thus saith the Lord God of hostes, Because yee speake such words, behold, I will put my words into thy mouth, like a fire, & this people shall be as wood, and it shall devour them.

15 Lo, I will bring a nation upon you from farre, O house of Israel, saith the Lord, which is a mighty nation, and an ancient nation, a nation whose language thou knowest not, neither understandest what they say.

16 Whose quiver is anⁿ open sepulchre: they are all very strong.

17 And they shall eat thine harvest and thy bread: they shall devoure thy sons and thy daughters: they shall eat up thy sheepe and thy bullocks; they shall eat thy vines and thy fig-trees: they shall destroy with the sword thy fenced cities, wherein thou didst trust.

18 Neverthelesse, at those dayes, saith the Lord, I will not make a full end of^o you.

19 And when^p yee shall say, Wherefore doth the Lord our God doe these things unto us? then shalt^q thou answer them, Like as yee have forsaken mee and served strange gods in your land, so shall yee serve strangers in a land, that is not yours.

20 Declare this in the house of Jaakob, and publish it in Judah, saying,

21 Heare now this, O foolish people, and^r without understanding, which have^s eyes and see not, which have eares and heare not.

22 Feare yee not mee, saith the Lord?
or will yee not be afraid at my presence, which have placed the sand for the^t bounds of the sea by the perpetuall decree that it cannot passe it, and though the waves thereof rage, yet can they not pre-vaile, though they roare, yet can they not passe over it.

23 But this people hath an unfaithfull and rebellious heart: they are departed and gone.

24 For they say not in their heart, Let us now feare the Lord our God, that giveth raine both early and late in due season: hee reserveth unto us the appointed weekes of the harvest.

25 Yet your^u iniquities have turned away these things, and your sins have hindred good things from you.

26 For among my people are found wicked persons, that lay waite as hee that setteth snares: they have made a pit to catch men.

27 As a cage is full of birds, so are their houses full of deceit: thereby they are become great, and waxen rich.

28 They are waxen fat and shirring:
they doe overpasse the deeds of the wicked: they execute no judgement, no not the judgement of the fatherlesse: yet they prosper, though they execute no judgement for the poore,

C H A P. VI.

^z The coming of the Assyrians and Caldeans. 16. He exhorteth the Jewes to repentance.

O Yee children of^a Benjamin, prepare to flee out of the mids of Jerusalem, and blow the trumpet in^b Tekoa: set up a standard upon^c Beth-haccerem: for a plague appeareth out of the North, and great destruction.

2 I have compared the daughter of Zion to^d a beautifull and dainty woman.

3 The Pastours with their^e flocks shall come unto her: they shall pitch their tents round about by her, and every one shall feed in his place.

4^f Prepare war against her: arise, and let us goe toward the South: woe unto us: for the day declineth, and the shadowes of the evening are stretched out.

5 Arise, and let us goe up by night, and destroy her palaces.

6 For thus hath the Lord of hostes said, Hew downe wood, and cast a mount against Jerusalem: this city must be visited: all oppression is in the mids of it.

7 As the fountaine casteth out her waters, so shee casteth out her malice: ^g cruelty and spoile is continually heard in her, before mee with sorrow and strokes.

8 Bee thou instructed, O^h Jerusalem, lest my soule depart from thee, lest I make thee desolate as a land that none inhabiteth.

9 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, They shall gather as a vine, the residue of Israel: turneⁱ back thine hand as the grape gatherer into the basket.

10 Unto whom shall I speake, and admonish that they may heare? behold, their eares are^k uncircumcised, and they cannot hearken: behold, the word of the Lord is unto them as a reproach: they have no delight in it.

11 Therefore I am full of the wrath of the Lord: I am weary with holding it: I will powre it out upon the^l children in the street, and likewise upon the assembly of the young men: for the husband shall even bee taken with the wife, and the aged with him that is full of dayes.

12 And their houses with their lands, and wives also shall be turned unto strangers: for I will stretch out mine hand upon the inhabitants of the land, saith the Lord.

13 For from the least of them, even unto the greatest of them, every one is given unto covetousnesse, and from the Prophet even unto the Priest, they all deale falsly.

14 They have healed also the hurt of the daughter of my people with sweet words, saying, Peace, peace, when there is no peace.

15 Were they ashamed when they had committed abomination? nay, they were not ashamed, no, neither could they have any shame: therefore they shall fall among theⁿ flaine: when I shall visite them, they shall be cast downe, saith the Lord.

16 Thus saith the Lord, Stand in the wayes and behold, and aske for the^o old way, which is the good way, and walke therein, and yee shall find rest for your soules: but they said, Wee will not walke therein.

17 Also I set^p watchmen over you, which said, Take heed to the sound of the trumpet: but they said, Wee will not take heed.

18 Heare therefore yee^q Gentiles, and thou Congregation know, what is among them.

19 Heare, O earth, behold, I will cause a plague to come upon this people, even the fruit of their owne imaginations: because they have not taken heed unto my words, nor to my Law, but cast it off.

20 To what purpose bringest thou mee^r incense from Sheba, and sweet calamus from a farre countrey? Your burnt offerings are not pleasant, nor your sacrifices sweet unto mee.

21 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will lay stumbling blocks before this people, and the fathers and the sons together shall fall upon them: the neighbour and his friend shall perish.

22 Thus saith the Lord, Behold, a people commeth from the^s North countrey, and a great nation shall arise from the sides of the earth.

23 With bow and shield shall they be weaponed: they are cruell and will have no compassion: their voice roareth like the sea, and they ride upon horses, well appointed, like men of warre against thee, O daughter Zion.

24 We have heard their fame, and our hands wax^t feeble: sorrow is come upon us, as the sorrow of a woman in travail.

25 Goe not forth into the field, nor walke by the way: for the sword of the enemy, and feare is on every side.

26 O daughter of my people, gird thee

^d I have intreated her gently, and given her abundance of all things.

^e She shall bee destroyed, that the sheep may be fed in her.

^f He speaketh this in the person of the Babylonians, which complained that the time faileth them before they have brought their enterprises to passe.

^g He sheweth the cause why it should be destroyed, and how it commeth of themselves.

^h Wee warneth them to amend by his corrections, and to turne to him by repentance.

ⁱ He exhorteth the Babylonians to be diligent to search out all and to leave none.

^k They delight to heare vain things, and to shut up their eares to true doctrine.

^l As the Lord had given him his word to bee as a fire of his indignation to burne the wicked, Chap. 5. 14. so he kindleth it now, when hee seeth that all remedies are past. None shall bee spared.

ⁿ When the people began to feare Gods judgements, the false Prophets comforted them by flattering, shewing that God would send peace and not warre.

thee with sackcloth, and wallow thy selfe in the ashes: make lamentation, and bitter mourning as for thine onely son: for the destroyer shall suddenly come upon us.

27 I have set ^v thee for a defence and fortresse among my people, that thou mayest know and try their wayes.

28 They are all rebellious traytours, walking craftily: they are brasse, and yron, they all are destroyers.

29 The ^x bellowes are burnt: the lead is consumed in the fire: the founder melteth in vaine: for the wicked are not taken away.

30 They shall call them reprobate silver, because the Lord hath rejected them.

CHAP. VII.

² Jeremiah is commanded to shew unto the people the word of God, which trusteth in the outward service of the Temple. 13. The evils that shall come to the Jewes, for the despising of their Prophets. 21 Sacrifices doth not the Lord chiefly require of the Jewes, but that they should obey his word.

The words that came to Jeremiah from the Lord, saying,

2 Stand in the gate of the Lords house, and cry this word there, and say, Heare the word of the Lord, all yee of Judah that enter in at these gates to worship the Lord.

3 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel, ^{*} Amend your wayes and your workes, and I will let you dwell in this place.

4 Trust not in ^a lying words, saying, The Temple of the Lord, the Temple of the Lord: this is the Temple of the Lord.

5 For if you amend and redresse your wayes and your workes: if you execute judgement betweene a man and his neighbour,

6 And oppresse not the stranger, the fatherlesse and the widow, and shed no innocent blood in this place, neither walke after other gods to your destruction,

7 Then ^b will I let you dwell in this place, in the land that I gave your fathers, for ever and ever.

8 Behold, you trust in lying words, that cannot profit.

9 Will you steale, murther, and commit adultery, and sweare falsely, and burne incense unto Baal, and walke after other gods whom yee know not?

10 And come and stand before mee in this House, whereupon my Name is called, and say, Wee are delivered, though wee have done all these abominations?

11 Is this House become ^c a denne of theeves, whereupon my Name is called before your eyes? Behold, even I see it, saith the Lord.

12 But goe yee now into my place which was in Shilo, ^d where I set my Name at the beginning, and behold what I did to it for the wickednesse of my people Israel.

13 Therefore now because yee have done all these workes, saith the Lord, (and I ^e rose up early, and spake unto you: but when I spake, yee would not heare mee, neither when I called, would ^f yee answere.)

14 Therefore will I doe unto this House, whereupon my Name is called, wherein also yee trust, even unto the place that I gave to you, and to your fathers, as I have done unto Shilo.

15 And I will cast ^g you out of my sight, as I have cast out all your brethren, even the whole seed of Ephraim.

16 Therefore thou shalt not ^h pray for this people, neither lift up cry or prayer for them, neither intreat mee, for I will not heare thee.

17 Seest thou not what they doe in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem?

18 The children gather wood, and the fathers kindle the fire, and the women knead the dough to make cakes to ⁱ the Queene of heaven, and to powre out drinke-offerings unto other gods, that they may provoke mee unto anger.

19 Doe they provoke mee to anger, saith the Lord, and not themselves to the confusion of their owne faces?

20 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, mine anger and my wrath shall bee powred upon this place, upon man and upon beast, and upon the tree of the field, and upon the fruit of the ground, and it shall burne and not bee quenched.

21 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel, put your burnt offerings unto your sacrifices, and eat the flesh.

22 For ^k I spake not unto your fathers, nor commanded them, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt, concerning burnt offerings and sacrifices.

23 But this thing commanded I them, saying, Obey my voice, and I will be your God, and yee shall bee my people: and walke yee in all the wayes which I have commanded you, that it may be well unto you,

24 But they would not obey, nor incline their eare, but went after the counsels and the stubbornnesse of their wicked heart, and went backward and not forward.

25 Since the day that your fathers came up out of the land of Egypt, unto ^d Because they depended to much on the Temple, which was for his promise, that hee would be present, and defend them where the Arke was, hee sendeth them to Gods judgements against Shilo, where the Arke had remained about 300. yeares, and after was taken: the Priests slaine, and the people miserably discomfited, 1 Sam. 4. 11. Chap. 26. 6.

^e That is, I never ceased to warne you, as Isa. 65. 2. Prov. 1. 28. f He sheweth what is the onely remedy to redresse our faults: to suffer God to lead us into the way, and to obey his calling. Isa. 66. 4. g I will send you into captivity as I have done Ephraim, that is, the ten tribes. h To assure them that God had determined with himselfe to punish their wickednes, hee sheweth that the prayer of the godly can nothing avail them, whilst they remaine in their obduracy against God, and will not use the means that hee useth to call them to repentance, chap. 11. 14. and 14. 11.

ⁱ That is, they sacrifice to the sun, moon and starres, which they called the Queene of heaven, Chap. 44. 17. 2 King. 17. 5.

^k Shewing, that it was not his chief purpose and intent, that they should offer sacrifices: but they should regard wherefore they were ordained: to wit, to be joynted to the Word, as scales and confirmations of remission of finnes in Christ: for without the Word they were vaine and unprofitable.

^v Meaning, Jeremiah, whom God had appointed to try out the godly from the wicked, as a foundry doth the pure mettall from the dross.

^x All the pain and labour that hath beene taken with them, is lost.

^{*} Chap. 26. 13.

^a Believe not the false Prophets, which say, that for the Temples sake, and the sacrifices there, the Lord will preserve you, and to nourish you in your sin, and vaine confidence.

^b God sheweth on what condition he made his promise to this temple: that they should bee an holy people unto him, as hee would bee a faithfull God to them.

^c As theeves hid in holes and dens thinke themselves safe, so when you are in my Temple, you thinke to bee covered with the holines thereof, and that I cannot see your wickednesse, Mat. 21. 13.

1 this day, I have even sent unto you all my servants the Prophets, ^m rising up early every day, and sending them.

26 Yet would they not heare mee, nor encline their care, but hardned their neck and did worse then their fathers.

n Whereby hee sheweth, that the Faltours ought not to leave their flocks in their obstinacy: for the Lord will use the meanes of his servants to make the wicked more faulty, and to prove his.

27 Therefore shalt thou speak all these words unto them, but they ⁿ will not hear thee: thou shalt also cry unto them, but they will not answer thee.

28 But thou shalt say unto them, This is a nation that heareth not the voice of the Lord their God, nor receiveth discipline: truth is perished, and is cleane gone out of their mouth.

o In sign of mourning, as Job 1.20. Micah. 1. 16.

29 Cut off thine ^o haire, O Jerusalem, and cast it away, and take up a complaint on the high places: for the Lord hath rejected and forsaken the generation of his ^p wrath.

p Against whom hee had just occasion to powre out his wrath.

30 For the children of Judah have done evill in my sight, saith the Lord: they have set their abominations in the House, whereupon my Name is called, to polute it.

q Of Topheth, read 2 King. 23. 10.
r But commanded the contrary, as Levit. 18. 21. and 20. 3. Deut. 18. 10.

31 And they have built the high place of ^q Topheth, which is in the valley of Ben-hinnom to burne their sons and their daughters in the fire, which I ^r commanded them not, neither came it in my heart.

32 Therefore behold, the dayes come, saith the Lord, that it shall no more bee called Topheth, nor the valley of Ben-hinnom, but the valley of slaughter, for they shall bury in Topheth till there bee no place.

33 And the carkeises of this people shall be meat for the fowles of the heaven, and for the beasts of the earth, and none shall fray them away.

* Ezek. 26. 13.

34 * Then will I cause to cease from the cities of Judah, and from the streets of Jerusalem the voice of mirth, and the voice of gladnesse, the voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride: for the land shall bee desolate.

CHAP. VIII.

¹ The destruction of the Iewes. ⁴ The Lord moveth the people to amendment. ¹⁰ He reprehendeth the hying doctrine, and the covetousnesse of the Prophets and Priests.

AT that time, saith the Lord, they shall bring out the bones of the kings of Judah, and the bones of their Princes, and the bones of the Priests, and the bones of the Prophets, and the bones of the inhabitants of Jerusalem out of their a graves.

2 And they shall spread them before the sun and the moone, and all the host of heaven, whom they have loved, and whom they have served, and whom they have followed, and whom they have fought, and whom they have worshipped: they shall not bee gathered nor be buried, but shall be as dounge upon the earth.

3 And death shall bee desired ^b rather then life of all the residue that remaineth of this wicked family, which remaine in all the places where I have scattered them, saith the Lord of hostes.

b Because of the afflictions that they shall feele through Gods judgements.

4 Thou shalt say unto them also, Thus saith the Lord, Shall they ^c fall, and not arise? shall hee turne away and not turne againe?

c Is there no hope that they will returne.

5 Wherefore is this people of Jerusalem turned back by a perpetuall rebellion? they gave themselves to deceit, and would not returne.

6 I hearkened and heard, but none spake aright: no man repented him of his wickednesse, saying, What have I done? every ^d one turned to their race, as the horse rusheth into the battell.

d They are full of hypocrisie and every one followeth his owne fantasie without any consideration.

7 Even the Storke in the aire knoweth her appointed times, and the Turtle, and the Crane, and the Swallow observe the time of their comming, but my people knoweth not the ^e judgement of the Lord.

e Hee accuseth them, in that that they are more ignorant of Gods judgements, then these birds are of their appointed seasons to discern the cold and heat, as Isa. 1. 3.

8 How doe yee say, We are wise, and the Law ^f of the Lord is with us? Lo, certainly in vaine made heit, the pen of the scribes is in vaine.

9 The ^g wise men are ashamed: they are afraid and taken: loe, they have rejected the word of the Lord, and what wisdom is in them?

f The Law doth not profit you, neither needed is to have beene written, for ought that you have learned by it.

10 Therefore will I give their wives unto others, and their fields to them that shall possesse them: * for every one from the least even unto the greatest is given to covetousnesse, and from the Prophet even unto the Priest, every one dealeth falsely.

g They that seem wise may be ashamed of their ignorance: for all wisdom consisteth in Gods word. * Isa. 56. 11. Chap. 5. 31. and 6. 13.

12 Were they ashamed when they had committed abomination? nay, they were not ashamed, neither could they have any shame: therefore shall they fall among the flaine: when I shall visit them, they shall be cast downe, saith the Lord.

13 I will surely consume them, saith the Lord: there shall be no grapes on the vine, nor figs on the figtree, and the leafe shall fade, and the things that I have given them, shall depart from them.

i Hee speaketh in the person of the people, who when the enemy cometh will runne about to hide themselves, and acknowledge that it is Gods hand.

14 Why doe we stay? ^j assemble yourselves, and let us enter into the strong cities, and let us be quiet there: for the Lord our God hath put us to silence, and given us water with ^k gall to drinke, because we have sinned against the Lord.

k That is, hath brought us into extreme affliction, and thus they shall not attribute this plague to fortune, but to Gods just judgements. Chap. 15. and 23. 1.

17 For behold, I will ^m send serpents and cockatrices among you, which will not be charmed, and they shall sting you, saith the Lord.

18 I would have ^a comforted my selfe against sorrow, but mine heart is heavy in mee.

^o Thus the Lord speaketh.

^o The people wonder that they have to long time looked for succour in vain.

^o The Prophet speaketh this.

^r Meaning that no mans helpe, or meanes could save them: for in Gilead was precious balme. Chap. 46. 11. or else deriding the vaine confidence of the people, who looked for helpe at their Priests, who should have been the Physicians of such sores, and dwell at Gilead. Job. 6. 1.

19 Behold, the voice of the cry of the daughter of my people for feare of them of a far country, Is not the Lord in Zion? is not her King in her? Why ^o have they provoked mee to anger with their graven images, and with the vanities of a strange god?

20 The ^p harvest is past, the summer is ended, and wee are not holpen.

21 I am ^q sore vexed for the hurt of the daughter of my people: I am heavy, and astonishment hath taken mee.

22 Is there no balme ^r at Gilead: Is there no Physician there? Why then is not the health of the daughter of my people recovered?

C H A P. IX.

^s The complaint of the Prophet for the malice of the people.

24 In the knowledge of God ought wee onely to rejoyce.

26 The uncircumcision of the heart.

OH, that mine head were full of ^a water, and mine eyes a fountaine of teares, that I might weepe day and night for the slaine of the daughter of my people.

^s The Prophet sheweth the great compunction that he had toward this people, seeing that hee could never sufficiently lament the destruction that hee saw to have come upon them. Which is a speciall note to discern the true paines from the hirelings. Read Chap. 4. 19.

^b Hee sheweth that this were more quietnesse and greater safety for him to dwell among the wilde beasts, then among this wicked people, save that God hath enjoined him this charge.

^c Utterly turned from God.

^d To bely and slander their neighbours.

^e Meaning, that all were corrupt, and none could find an honest man.

2 Oh, that I had in the wilderness a cottage of way faring men, that I might leave my people, and goe from them: for they be all ^c adulterers, and an assembly of rebels.

3 And they bend their tongues like their bows for ^d lies: but they have no courage for the truth upon the earth: for they proceed from evill to worse, and they have not knowne mee, saith the Lord.

4 Let every one take heed of his neighbour, and trust you not in any ^e brother: for every brother will use deceit, and every friend will deale deceitfully.

^f They have so practised deceit, that they cannot forbear it.

5 And every one will deceive his friend, and will not speake the truth: for they ^f have taught their tongues to speake lies, and take great paines to doe wickedly.

6 Thine habitation is in the midst of deceivers: ^g because of their deceit they refuse to know mee, saith the Lord.

^g They had rather forsake God, then leave their wicked trade.

7 Therefore thus saith the Lord of hostes, Behold, I will ^h melt them, and try them: for what should I ^{else} doe for the daughter of my people?

^h With the fire of affliction.

8 Their tongue ⁱ is as an arrow shot out, and speaketh deceit: one speaketh peaceably to his neighbour with his mouth, but in his heart hee layeth wait for him.

ⁱ Psal. 23. 3. and 120. 4.

9 Shall I not visite them for these things, saith the Lord? or shall not my soule be avenged on such a nation as this?

10 Upon the ⁱ mountaines will I take up a weeping and a lamentation, and upon the faire places of the wilderness a mourning, because they are burnt up, so that none can passe thorow them, neither can men heare the voice of the flock: both the fowle of the aire, and the beast are fled away and gone.

ⁱ Signifying, that all the places about Jerusalem should be destroyed.

11 And I will make Jerusalem an heape, and a den of dragons: and I will make the cities of Judah wast without an inhabitant.

12 Who is ^k wife to understand this? and to whom the mouth of the Lord hath spoken, even hee shall declare it. Why doth the land perish, and is burnt up like a wilderness, that none passeth thorow?

^k Meaning that they are all without sense and understanding, and that God hath taken his spirit from them.

13 And the Lord saith, Because they have forsaken my Law, which I set before them, and have not obeyed my voice, neither walked thereafter,

14 But have walked after the stubbornnesse of their owne heart, and after Baalims, which ^l their fathers taught them, ^l Hee sheweth that the children cannot excuse themselves by their fathers: for both father and child, if they be wicked, shall perish.

15 Therefore thus saith the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel, Behold, I will feed this people with wormewood, and give them waters of gall ^m to drinke:

^m Read Chap. 3. 14.

16 I will scatter them also among the heathen, whom neither they nor their fathers have knowne, and I will send a sword after them, till I have consumed them.

17 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Take heed, and call for the ⁿ mourning women, that they may come, and send for skilfull women, that they may come.

ⁿ Seeing you cannot lament your owne sins, call for those foolish women, whom of a superstition you have to lament for the dead, that they by their fained tears may provoke you to some sorrow.

18 And let them make haile, and let them take up a lamentation for us, that our eyes may cast out teares, and our eyelids gush out of water.

19 For a lamentable noise is heard out of Zion, How are wee destroyed, and utterly confounded, for wee have forsaken the land, and our dwellings ^o have cast us out.

^o As though they were worthy of punishment, Leviticus 11. 28. and 20. 21.

20 There-

^p He denieth the superstition of the women which made an art of mourning, and taught to weep with fained teares. ^q Signifying, that there is no means to deliver the wicked from Gods judgement, but when they thinke to bee most sure and most farr off, then are they soonest taken.

^r For as much as none can save himselfe by his owne labour, or any worldly means he sheweth that it is in vaine to put our trust therein, but that wee trust in the Lord, and rejoyce in him, who onely can deliver us, 1 Cor. 1. 31. 2 Cor. 10. 17. ^s These three points are necessary to know a right: his mercy, wherein consisteth our salvation: his judgement, which he executeth continually against the wicked: and his justice, whereby hee defendeth and maintaineth the faithfull. ^t Meaning, both Jewes and Gentiles, as in the next verse hee sheweth the cause, Read Chap. 4. 4.

^a God forbiddeeth his people to give credite, or feare the constellations and conjunctions of stars & planets, which have no power of themselves, but are governed by him, and their secret motions, and influences are not knowne to man, and therefore there can be no certaine judgement thereof. Deut. 18. 9. ^b Meaning, not onely in the observation of the stars, but their Lawes and ceremonies whereby they constitute their idolatry, which is forbidden. Deut. 12. 30. ^c The Prophets use thus plainly and simply to set forth the vileness of the idolaters, that men might learne to bee ashamed of that whereunto their corrupt nature is most subject. Read Isa. 44. 16. ^d He teacheth the people to lift up their eyes to God who hath all power, and therefore ought onely to bee feared, and herein hee sheweth them not onely the evill that they ought to eschew, but the good which they ought to follow. Rayel 15. 4.

20 Therefore heare the word of the Lord, O yee women, and let your eares regard the words of his mouth, and teach your daughters to mourne, and every one her neighbour to lament.

21 For death is come up into our windows, and is entred into our palaces, to destroy the children without, and the young men in the streets.

22 Speake, Thus saith the Lord, The carkeises of men shall lie, even as the doung upon the field, and as the handfull after the mower, and none shall gather them.

23 Thus saith the Lord, Let not the wife man glory in his wisedome, nor the strong man glory in his strength, neither the rich man glory in his riches.

24 But let him that glorieth, glory in this that he understandeth, and knoweth mee: for I am the Lord, which shew mercy, judgement, and righteousness in the earth: for in these things I delight, saith the Lord.

25 Behold, the dayes come, saith the Lord, that I will visite all them, which are circumcised with the uncircumcised:

26 Egypt, and Judah, and Edom, and the children of Ammon, and Moab, and all the utmost corners of them that dwell in the wilderness: for all these nations are uncircumcised, and all the house of Israel are uncircumcised in the heart.

¹ The constellation of the stars are not to be feared. ² The weakness of idols. ³ Of the power of God. ⁴ Their Pastours are become brutish beasts.

Heare yee the word of the Lord that hee speaketh unto you, O house of Israel.

2 Thus saith the Lord, Learne not the way of the heathen, and bee not afraid for the signes of heaven, though the heathen be afraid of such.

3 For the customes of the people are vaine: for one cutteth a tree out of the forrest (which is the worke of the hands of the carpenter) with the axe.

4 And another decketh it with silver, and with gold: they fasten it with nailes, and hammers, that it fall not.

5 The idols stand up as the palme tree, but speake not, they are borne because they cannot goe: feare them not, for they cannot doe evill, neither can they doe good.

6 There is none like unto thee, O Lord: thou art great, and thy Name is great in power.

^e Because the people thought that to have images, was a means to serve God, and in bringing them to the knowledge of him, hee sheweth that nothing more displeaseth God, nor bringeth man into greater error and ignorance of God: and therefore hee calleth them, the doctrine of vanity, the worke of error, and Hab. 2. 18. calleth them the teachers of lies, contrary to that wicked opinion, that they are the bookes of the living people. ^f Whereas they found the best gold: shewing that they thought nothing too deere for their idols: some read Ophir as 1 King. 9. 26. ^g This declareth, that all that hath bene in this chapter spoken of idols, was to arme the Jewes when they should be in Caldea among the idolaters, and how with one sentence hee instructeth them both how to protect their owne religion against the idolaters, and how to answer them to their shame, which should excite them to idolatry, and therefore hee writeth this sentence in the Caldeans tongue for a memoriall, where all the rest of his writing is Hebrew. ^h The more that man thinketh to do any thing well by his owne wisdom, and not a God, instructeth him, the more doth hee prove himselfe to be a vile beast. ⁱ By these words Portion and Rod, hee significeth their inheritance: meaning, that God should be insufficient for them, and that their felicity consisteth in him alone, and therefore they ought to renounce all other helps and succours of idols, &c. Deut. 32. 9. psal. 10. 15. ^k The Prophet willett the Jewes to prepare themselves to this captivity, shewing that it was now at hand, that they should feele the things whereof hee had told them. ^l It is my just plague, and therefore I will take it patiently, whereby hee teacheth the people how to behave themselves toward God. In Hee sheweth how Jerusalem shall lament.

7 Who would not feare thee, O King of nations? for to thee appertaineth the dominion: for among all the wise men of the Gentiles, and in all their Kingdomes there is none like thee.

8 But altogether they dore, and are foolish: for the stock is a doctrine of vanity.

9 Silver plates are brought from Tarshish, and gold from Uphaz, for the worke of the workman, and the hands of the founder: the blue filke, and the purple is their clothing: all these things are made by cunning men.

10 But the Lord is the God of truth: hee is the living God, and an everlasting King: at his anger the earth shall tremble, and the nations cannot abide his wrath.

11 (Thus shall you say unto them, The gods that have not made the heavens and the earth, shall perish from the earth, and from under these heavens.)

12 Hee hath made the earth by his power, and established the world by his wisedome, and hath stretched out the heaven by his discretion.

13 Hee giveth by his voyce the multitude of waters in the heaven, and hee causeth the clouds to ascend from the ends of the earth, hee turneth lightnings to raine, and bringeth forth the wind out of his treasures.

14 Every man is a beast by his owne knowledge: every founder is confounded by the graven image: for his melting is but falsehood, and there is no breath therein.

15 They are vanity, and the worke of error: in the time of their visitation they shall perish.

16 The portion of Jaakob is not like them: for hee is the maker of all things, and Israel is the rod of his inheritance: the Lord of hosts is his Name.

17 Gather up thy wares out of the land, O thou that dwellest in the strong place.

18 For thus saith the Lord, Behold, at this time I will throw as with a sling the inhabitants of the land, and will trouble them, and they shall find it so.

19 Wo is mee for my destruction, and my grievous plague: but I thought, Yet it is my sorrow, and I will beare it.

20 My tabernacle is destroyed, and all my toards are broken: my children are gone from mee, and are not: there is none to spread out my tent any more, and to set up my curtaines:

things whereof hee had told them. ^l It is my just plague, and therefore I will take it patiently, whereby hee teacheth the people how to behave themselves toward God. In Hee sheweth how Jerusalem shall lament.

22 Behold the noise of the brute is come, and a great commotion out of the North Countrey to make the Cities of Judah desolate, and a den of dragons.

23 O Lord, I know that the way of man is not in himselfe, neither is it in man to walk and to direct his steps.

CHAP. XI.

3 A curse of them that obey not the word of Gods Covenant. 10 The people of Judah, following the steps of their fathers, worship strange gods. 15 The Lord forbiddeth Ieremiah to pray for them.

The word that came to Ieremiah from the Lord, saying,

2 Hear ye the words of this Covenant, and speak unto the men of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem,

3 And say thou unto them, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Cursed be the man that obeyeth not the words of this Covenant,

4 Which I commanded unto your fathers, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt, from the iron furnace, saying, Obey my voice, and do according to all these things which I commanded you: so shall ye be my people, and I will be your God.

5 That I may confirme the Oath that I have sworne unto your fathers, to give them a Land which floweth with milke and honey, as appeareth this day. Then answered I, and said, So bee it, O Lord.

6 Then the Lord said unto me, Cry all these words in the Cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, saying, Heare ye the words of this Covenant, and do them.

7 For I have protested unto your fathers, when I brought them up out of the land of Egypt unto this day, rising early, and protesting, saying, Obey my voice.

8 Nevertheless they would not obey, nor incline their eares: but every one walked in the stubbornesse of his wicked heart: therefore I will bring upon them all the words of this Covenant, which I commanded them to doe, but they did it not.

9 And the Lord said unto mee, A conspiracy is found among the men of Judah, and among the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

10 They are turned backe to the iniquities of their forefathers, which refused to heare my words: and they went after other gods to serve them: thus the house of Israel, and the house of Judah have broken my Covenant, which I made with their fathers.

11 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will bring a plague upon them, which they shall not be able to escape, and though they cry unto me, I will not hear them.

12 Then shall the Cities of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, go, and cry unto the gods unto whom they offer incense, but they shall not be able to helpe them in time of their trouble.

13 For according to the number of thy Cities were thy gods, O Judah, and according to the number of the streets of Jerusalem have ye set up Altars of confusion, even altars to burn incense unto Baal.

14 Therefore thou shalt not pray for this people, neither lift up a cry, or prayer for them: for when they cry unto me in their trouble, I will not hear them.

15 What should my beloved tarry in mine house, seeing they have committed abomination with many? and the holy flesh goeth away from thee: yet when thou dost evil, thou rejoicest.

16 The Lord called thy name, A green Olive tree, faire, and of goodly fruit: but with noise and great tumult he hath set fire upon it, and the branches of it are broken.

17 For the Lord of hosts that planted thee, hath pronounced a plague against thee, for the wickednes of the house of Israel, and of the house of Judah, which they have done against themselves to provoke me to anger in offering incense unto Baal.

18 And the Lord hath taught me, and I know it, even then thou shewedst mee their practises.

19 But I was like a lambe, or a bullocke, that is brought to the slaughter, and I knew not that they had devised thus against me, saying, Let us destroy the tree with the fruit thereof, and cut him out of the land of the living, that his name may be no more in memory.

20 But O Lord of hosts, that judgest righteously, and triest the reines and the heart, let me see thy vengeance on them: for unto thee have I opened my cause.

1 The Prophet marvelleth at the prosperity of the wicked, although he confesseth God to be righteous. 7 The Laves are forsaken of the Lord. 10 He speaketh against Pastours and Preachers that seduce the people. 14 The Lord threatneth destruction unto the nations that troubled Iudab.

O Lord, if I dispute with thee, thou art ^a righteous: yet let me talke with thee of thy judgements: wherefore doth the way of the wicked ^b prosper? why are all they in wealth that rebelliously transgresse?

2 Thou hast planted them, and they have taken root: they grow, and bring forth fruit: thou art neare in their mouth, and far from their ^c reins.

3 But thou LORD, knowest mee: thou hast seen me, and tried mine heart toward thee: pull them out like sheep for the slaughter, and ^d prepare them for the day of slaughter.

4 How long shall the land mourne, and the herbs of every field wither, for the wickednesse of them that dwell therein? the beasts are consumed, and the birds, because they said, ^e He will not see our last end.

5 If thou hast runne with ^f footmen, and they have wearied thee, then how canst thou match thy selfe with horses? and if thou thoughtest thy selfe safe in a peaceable land, what wilt thou do in the swelling of Jordan?

6 For even thy brethren, and the house of thy father, even they have dealt unfaithfully with thee, and they have cried out altogether upon thee: but believe them not, though they speak fair to thee.

7 I have forsaken ^g mine house: I have left mine heritage: I have given the dearly beloved of my soule into the hands of her enemies.

8 Mine heritage is unto me, as a lion in the Forrest: it cryeth out against mee, therefore have I hated it.

9 Shall mine heritage be unto me, as a bird of divers colours? are not the feet of the messengers, them of Jerusalem, which should trouble the Prophet worse then his own countrymen did.

10 God willett the Prophet to denounce his judgements against Jerusalem, notwithstanding that they shall both by threataiges and flatteries labour to put him to silence.

birds about her, saying, Come, assemble all the beasts of the field, come to eat her?

10 Many Pastours have destroyed my vineyard, and trodden my portion under foot: of my pleasant portion they have made a desolate wilderness.

11 They have laid it waste, and it, being waste, mourneth unto me: and the whole land lyeth waste, because no man setteth his mind on ^h it.

12 The destroyers are come upon all the high places in the wilderness: for the sword of the Lord shall devoure from the one end of the land, even to the other end of the land: no flesh shall have peace.

13 ⁱ They have sown wheat, and reaped thorns, they were ^j sick, and had no profit: and they were ashamed of ^k your fruits, because of the fierce wrath of the Lord.

14 Thus saith the Lord against all mine evill ^l neighbours, that touch the inheritance, which I have caused my people Israel to inherit, Behold, I will pluck them out of their land, and pluck out the house of Judah from among them.

15 And after that I have plucked them out, I ^m will returne, and have compassion on them, and will bring again every man to his heritage, and every man to his land.

16 And if they will learne the ⁿ wayes of my people, to sweare by my Name, (^o The Lord liveth, as they taught my people to sweare by Baal) then shall they be built ^p in the midst of my people.

17 But if they will not obey, then will I utterly pluck up, and destroy that Nation, saith the Lord.

CHAP. XIII.

The destruction of the Laves is prophesied. 1. Why Israel was reserved to be the people of God, and why they were forsaken. 2. His exhorteth them to repentance.

Thus saith the LORD unto me, Go, and buy thee a linnen girdle, and put it upon thy loines, and put it not in water.

2 So I bought the girdle according to the commandement of the Lord, and put it upon my loines.

3 And the word of the Lord came unto me the second time, saying,

4 Take the girdle that thou hast bought, which is upon thy loines, and arise, go toward ^q Perath, and hide it there in the cleft of the rock.

5 So I went, and hid it by Perath, as the Lord had commanded me.

6 And after many dayes the Lord said unto me, Arise, go toward Perath, and take the girdle from thence, which I commanded thee to hide there.

7 Then went I to Perath, and digged, and took the girdle from the place where I had hid it, and behold, the girdle was corrupt, o For in stead of amendment, you grow worse and worse, as Gods plagues testified. p Meaning, the wicked enemies of his Church which blasphemed his name, and whom hee would punish after that he hath delivered his people.

t They shall be of the number of the faithful, and have a place in my Church.

u Because this River Perath, or Euphrates was faine from Jerusalem, it is evident, that this was a vision, whereby was signified that the Jews should passe over Euphrates to be captives in Babylon, and there, for length of time, should seem to be forgotten, although they were joyed to the Lord before, as a girdle about a man.

a The prophet confesseth God to be just in all his doing, although man be not able to give a reason of all his acts.

b This question hath bene alway a great temptation to the godly, to see the wicked enemies of God in prosperity, and his deare children in adversity, as Job 21. 7. Psal. 37. 1. & 73. 3. Hab. 1. 3. c They professe God in mouth, but deny him in heart, which is here meant by the reines, Ila. 29. 13. Math. 15. 8.

d The Hebrew word is, Sanctifie them, meaning, that God would be sanctified in the destruction of the wicked, to whom God for a while giveth prosperity, that afterward they should the more feeble his heave judgement, when they lacke their riches, which were a signe of his mercy. e Abusing Gods lenity and his promises, they flattered themselves as though God would ever be mercifull, and not utterly destroy them: therefore they hardened themselves in sin, till at length the beasts and insensible creatures felt the punishment of their stubborn rebellion against God.

f Some think that God reproveh Jeremiah, in that that hee would reason with him, saying, that if he were not able to match with men, that he were faine unable to dispute with God.

g Others by the footmen, meane them of Anathoth: and by the messengers, them of Jerusalem, which should trouble the Prophet worse then his own countrymen did.

corrupt, and was profitable for nothing.

8 Then the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

9 Thus saith the Lord, After this manner will I destroy the pride of Judah, and the great pride of Jerusalem.

10 This wicked people have refused to heare my word, and walke after the stubborneſſe of their owne heart, and walke after other gods to ſerve them, and to worſhip them: therefore they ſhall be as this girdle, which is profitable for nothing.

11 For as the girdle cleaveth to the loines of a man, ſo have I tied to me the whole houſe of Iſrael, and the whole houſe of Judah, ſaith the Lord, that they may be my people: that they might have a name and praiſe, and glory, but they would not heare.

12 Therefore thou ſhalt ſay unto them this word, Thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael, Every ^b bottell ſhall bee filled with wine, and they ſhall ſay unto thee, Doe we not know that every bottell ſhall be filled with wine?

13 Then ſhalt thou ſay unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord, Behold, I will fill all the inhabitants of this land, even the Kings that ſit upon the throne of David, and the Priests, and the Prophets, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem with drunkenneſſe.

14 And I ^c will daſh them one againſt another, even the fathers and the ſonnes together, ſaith the Lord: I will not ſpare, I will not pittie, nor have compaſſion, but deſtroy them.

15 Heare and give eare, be not proud: for the Lord hath ſpoken it.

16 Give glory to the Lord your God before he bring ^d darkneſſe, and or ever your feet ſtumble in the darke mountaines, and whiles you looke for ^e light, he turne it into the ſhadow of death, and make it as darkneſſe.

17 But if ye will not heare this, my ſoule ſhall ^f weepe in ſecret for your pride, and mine eye ſhall weepe and drop down teares, becauſe the Lords flocke is caried away captive.

18 Say unto the ^g King, and to the Queene, Humble your ſelves, ſit downe, for the crowne of your glory ſhall come downe from your heads.

19 The cities of ^h the ſouth ſhall bee ſhut up, and no man ſhall open them: all Judah ſhall be caried away captive: it ſhall be wholly caried away captive.

20 Lift up your eyes, and behold them that come from the North: where is the ⁱ flocke that was given thee, even thy beautifull flocke?

21 What wilt thou ſay, when he ſhall viſit thee? (for thou haſt ^k taught them to bee captaines and as chiefe over thee) ſhall not ſorrow take thee as a woman in travell?

22 And if thou ſay in thine heart, Wherefore come theſe things upon me? For the multitude of thine iniquities are thy ſkirts ^l diſcovered, and thy heeles made bare.

23 Can the blacke-Moore change his ſkin? or the Leopard his ſpots? then may yee alſo doe good, that are accuſtomed to doe evil.

24 Therefore will I ſcatter them, as the ſtubble that is taken away with the South winde.

25 This is thy portion, and the part of thy meaſures from me, ſaith the Lord, becauſe thou haſt forgotten me and truſted in lies.

26 Therefore I have alſo diſcovered thy ſkirts upon thy face, ^m that thy ſhame may appeare.

27 I have ſcene thine adulteries, and thy ⁿ neyings, the filthines of thy whore-dome on the hills in ^o the fields, and thine abominations: Woe unto thee, O Jeruſalem: wilt thou not bee made cleane? when ſhall it once be?

2 Judah hath mourned, and the gates thereof are deſolate, they have beene ^b brought to heavineſſe unto the ground, and the crie of Jeruſalem goeth up.

3 And their nobles have ſent their inferiours to the water, who came to the welles and found no water: they returned with their veſſels empty: they were aſhamed and confounded, and ^c covered their heads.

4 For the ground was deſtroied, becauſe there was no raine in the earth: the plowmen were aſhamed, and covered their heads.

^f He ſheweth the onely way to remedy Gods by repentance.

8 O the hope of Israel, the Saviour thereof in the time of trouble, why art thou as a ^g stranger in the land, as one that passeth by to tarry for a night?

^g That taketh no cure for us.

9 Why art thou as a man astonished, and as ^h a strong man that cannot helpe? yet thou, O Lord, art in the mids of us, and thy name is called upon us: forsake us not.

^h As one that hath strength to helpe, and yet is afraid to put to his hand.

10 Thus saith the Lord unto this people, Thus have they delighted to wander: they have not refrained their feet, therefore the Lord hath no delight in them: but he will now remember their iniquitie, and visit their sinnes.

11 Then said the Lord unto mee, ⁱ Thou shalt not pray to doe this people good.

ⁱ Read Chap. 7. 16. and 11. 14.

12 When they fast, I will not heare their crie, and when they offer burnt offering, and an oblation, I will not accept them: but I will consume them by the sword, and by the famine, and by the pestilence.

13 Then answered I, Ah Lord God, Behold, the ^k Prophets say unto them, Ye shal not see the sword, neither shall famine come upon you, but I will give you assured peace in this place.

^k He pitieth the people, and accuseth the false Prophets which deceived them: but the Lord answered, that both the Prophets which deceived and the people which suffered themselves to be seduced shall perish. Chap. 23. 15. and 27. 8. 9. and 29. 8. * Chap. 23. 21. and 27. 10. 15. and 29. 9.

14 Then the Lord said unto me, The Prophets prophetic lies in my Name, ^{*} I have not sent them, neither did I command them, neither spake I unto them, but they prophetic unto you a false vision, and divination, and vanitie, and deceitfulness of their owne heart.

15 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Concerning the Prophets that prophetic in my Name, whom I have not sent, yet they say, Sword and famine shall not be in this land, by sword and famine shall those Prophets be consumed.

16 And the people to whom these Prophets doe prophetic, shall be cast out in the streets of Jerusalem, because of the famine, and the sword, and there shall be none to bury them, both they and their wives, and their sonnes, and their daughters: for I will poure their wickedness upon them.

^l The false Prophets promised peace & assurance, but Jeremiah calleth to teares and repentance for their affliction, which is at hand, as Chap. 9. 1. Lament. 1. 16. and 2. 18.

17 Therefore thou shalt say this word unto them, Let mine eyes drop downe ¹ teares night and day without ceasing: for the virgine daughter of my people is destroyed with a great destruction, and with a foregrievous plague.

^m Both high and low shall bee led captives into Babylon. ⁿ Though the Prophet knew that God had cast off the multitude which were hypocrites, and bastard children, yet hee was assured that for his promise sake, he would have still a Church, for the which he saith.

18 For if I goe into the field, behold the flaine with the sword: and if I enter into the citie, behold them that are sicke for hunger also: moreover, the Prophet also and the Priest goe a wandring ^m into a land that they know not.

19 Hast thou utterly rejected ⁿ Judah, or hath thy soule abhorred Zion? why hast thou smitten us, that we cannot bee healed? We looked for peace, and there is no good, and for the time of health, and behold trouble.

20 We ^o acknowledge, O Lord, our wickednesse, and the iniquitie of our fathers: for we have sinned against thee.

^o Hee teacheth the Church a forme of prayer to humble themselves to God by true repentance, which is the onely means to avoid this famine, which was the beginning of Gods plague.

21 Doe not abhorre ^m us: for thy Names sake cast not downe the throne of thy glory: remember and breake not thy covenant with us.

22 Are there any among the ^p vanities of the Gentiles, that can give raine? or can the heavens give showres? is it not thou, O Lord our God? therefore wee will waite upon thee: for thou hast made all these things.

^p Meaning, their idoles, read Chap. 10. 15.

CHAP. XV.

¹ The Lord would heare no prayer for the Iewes. ³ But threatneth to destroy them with foure plagues.

Then said the Lord unto me, ^a Though Moses and Samuel stood before mee, yet mine affection could not bee toward this people: cast them out of my sight, and let them depart.

^a Meaning, that if there were any man living moved with so great zeale toward the people, as were these two, yet that hee would not grant this request, forasmuch as hee had determined the contrarie. Eze. 14. 14. * Zach. 11. 9.

2 And if they say unto thee, Whether shall wee depart? then tell them, Thus saith the Lord, ^{*} Such as are appointed to death, unto death: and such as are for the sword, to the sword: and such as are for the famine, to the famine: and such as are for the captivitie, to the captivitie.

3 And I will appoint over them foure kindes, saith the Lord, the sword to slay, and the ^b dogges to teare in pieces, and the fowles of the heauen, and the beasts of the earth to devoure, and to destroy.

^b The dogs, birds and beasts should devoure them that were slaine.

4 I will ^c scatter them also in all kingdoms of the earth, ^d because of Manasseh the sonne of Hezekiah King of Judah, for that which he did in Jerusalem.

^c The word signifieth to runne too and fro for feare and unquietnes of conscience, as did Kaine.

5 Who shall then have pittie upon thee, O Jerusalem? or who shall bee sorry for thee? or who shall goe to pray for thy peace?

^d Note that the people was punished for the Kings sinne only, but for their own sinne also, because they consented to his wickednesse. 2 Kings 24. 4.

6 Thou hast forsaken mee, saith the Lord, and gone backward: therefore will I stretch out mine hand against thee, and destroy thee: for I am ^e weary with repenting.

^e That is, I will not call back my plagues, or spare thee any more.

7 And I will scatter them with the fanne ^f in the gates of the earth: I have wasted, and destroyed my people, yet they would not returne from their waies.

^f Meaning, the cities.

8 Their widowes are ^g increased by me above the sand of the Sea: I have brought upon them, and against the ^h assembly of the young men, a destroyer at noone day: I have caused him to fall upon

^g Because I had slaine their husbands.

^h Or, mother.

† Or, furiously.

h She that had many, lost all her children.

i Shee was destroyed in the midst of her prosperitie.

k These are the Prophets words, complaining of the obstinacie of the people, and that he was referred to so wicked a time: wherein also he sheweth, what is the condition of Gods ministers, to wit, to have all the world against them, though they give none occasion.

l Which is an occasion of contention and hatred.

m In this perplexitie, the Lord comforted mee, and said that my last dayes should be quiet: and by the enemy, hee meant heere Nebuzar-dan, the captain of Nebuchad-nezzar, who gave Jeremiah the choice, either to remaine in his countrey, or to goe whither he would, or by the enemy, hee meant the Jews which should afterward know Jeremiahs fidelitie, and therefore favour him.

n As for the people, though they seemed strong as iron, yet should they not be able to resist the hard iron of Babylon, but should be led captives.

o He speaketh not this for desire of revengeance, but wishing that God would deliver his Church of them whom he knew to bee hardened and incorrigible.

p I received them with great joy, as he that is afflicted eateth meat.

q I had nothing to doe with the wicked contemners of thy word, but lamented bitterly for thy plagues: shewing what the faithfull should doe when they see tokens of Gods anger.

r And hath not afflicted mee according to thy promise? where in appeareth, that in the Saints of God is imperfection of faith.

s If thou forget these carnall considerations, and faithfully execute thy charge.

t That is, seeke to win the good from the bad.

u To wit, as my mouth hath pronounced, Chap. i. 18. and as here followeth verse 20.

x Conforme not thy felle to their wickednesse, but let them follow thy godly example.

y I will arme thee with an invincible strength and confidence, so that all the powers of the world shall not overcome thee.

upon them, and the citie, suddenly, and † speedily.

9 She that hath borne ^h seven hath been made weake: her heart hath failed: the sunne hath failed ⁱ her, whiles it was day, she hath been confounded, and ashamed, and the residue of them wil I deliver unto the sword before their enemies, faith the Lord.

10 ¶ ^k Woe is me, my mother, that thou hast borne me, a contentious man, and a man that striveth with the whole earth: I have neither ^l lent on usurie, nor men have lent unto me on usurie: yet everie one doth curse me.

11 The Lord said, ^m Surely thy remnant shall have wealth: surely I will cause thine enemy to intreat thee in the time of trouble, and in the time of affliction.

12 Shall the ⁿ iron breake the iron, and the brasse that cometh from the North?

13 Thy substance and thy treasures wil I give to be spoiled without † gaine, and that for all thy finnes, even in all thy borders.

14 And I will make thee to goe with thine enemies, into a land that thou knowest not: for a fire is kindled in mine anger, which shall burne you.

15 O Lord, thou knowest, remember me, and visit me, and revenge me of my ^o persecutors: take me not away in the continuance of thine anger: know that for thy sake I have suffered rebuke.

16 Thy words were found ^p by me, and I did ^q eate them, and thy word was unto me the joy and rejoycing of mine heart: for thy Name is called upon me, O Lord God of hostes.

17 I sate not in the assemblie of the mockers, neither did I rejoyce, but sate alone ^r because of thy plague: for thou hast filled me with indignation.

18 Why is mine heavinesse continuall? and my plague desperate and cannot be healed? why art thou unto ^s me as a liar, and as waters that faile?

19 Therefore thus faith the Lord, If thou ^t returne, then will I bring thee againe, and thou shalt stand before mee: and If thou take away the ^u precious from the vile, thou shalt be ^v according to my word: let them returne ^x unto thee, but returne not thou unto them.

20 And I will make thee unto this people a strong brasen wall, and they shall fight against thee, but they shall not ^y prevaile against thee: for I am with thee to save thee and to deliver thee, faith the Lord.

21 And I will deliver thee out of the hand of the wicked, and I will redeeme thee out of the hand of the tyrants.

C H A P. XVI.

2 The Lord forbidding Jeremiah to marrie, sheweth him what should bee the afflictions upon Iudah 13 The captivitie of Babylon. 15 Their deliverance. 19 The calling of the Gentiles.

THe word of the Lord came also unto me, saying,

2 Thou shalt not take ^a thee a wife, nor have sonnes nor daughters in this place.

a Meaning, that the affliction should be so horrible in Jerusalem, that wife and children should but increase his sorrow.

3 For thus faith the Lord, concerning the sonnes, and concerning the daughters, that are borne in this place, and concerning their mothers that beare them, and concerning their fathers that beget them in this land,

4 They shall die of deathis and diseases: they shall not be lamented, neither shall they be buried, but they shall bee as doun upon the earth, and they shall be consumed by the sword, and by famine, and their carkeises shall be meate for the fowles of the heaven, and for the beasts of the earth.

5 For thus faith the Lord, ^b enter not into the house of mourning, neither goe to lament, nor be moved for them: for I have taken my peace from this people, faith the Lord; even mercie and compassion.

b Signifying, that the affliction should bee so great, that one should not have leisure to comfort another.

6 Both the great and the small shall die in this land: they shall not be buried, neither shall men lament for them, ^c nor cut themselves, nor make themselves bald for them.

c That is, should not rent their clothes in signe of mourning.

7 They shall not stretch out ^d the hands for them in the mourning to comfort them for the dead, neither shall they give them the ^e cup of consolation to drinke for their father or for their mother.

d For in these great extremities, all consolation and comfort shall bee in vaine.

8 Thou shalt not also goe into the house of feasting, to sit with them to eate and to drinke.

9 For thus faith the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel, Behold, I will cause to cease out of this place in your eies, even in your daies the voice of mirth, and the voice of gladnesse, the voice of the bridegroom, and the voice of the bride.

10 And when thou shalt shew this people all these words, and they shall say unto thee, ^f Wherefore hath the Lord pronounced all this great plague against us? or what is ^g our iniquitie? and what is our sinne that wee have committed against the Lord our God?

f Chap. 5. 19. g Because the wicked are alwaies rebellious, and dissemble their own finnes, and murmure against Gods judgments, as though he had no just cause to punish them, he sheweth him what to answer.

11 Then shalt thou say unto them, Because your fathers have forsaken me, faith the Lord, and have walked after other gods, and have served them, and worshipped them, and have forsaken me, and have not kept my Law.)

* Chap. 7. 29.

12 (* And ye have done worke then your fathers : for behold, you walke everie one after the stubbornesse of his wicked heart, and will not heare me.

13 Therefore will I drive you out of this land, into a land that ye know not, neither you, nor your fathers, and there shall ye serve other Gods day and night : for I will shew you no grace.

* Chap. 23. 7.

14 * Behold therefore, saith the Lord, the daies come that it shall no more bee said, The Lord liveth, which brought up the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt,

15 But, the Lord liveth, that brought up the children of Israel ^f from the land of the North, and from all the lands where he had scattered them, and I will bring them again into the land that I gave unto their fathers.

^f Signifying, the benefit of their deliverance out of Babylon should be so great, that it should abolish the remembrance of their deliverance from Egypt : but he hath here chiefly respect to the spirituall deliverance under Christ.

^g By the fishers and hunters are meant the Babylonians and Caldeans : who should destroy them in such sort, that if they escaped the one the other should take them.

16 Behold, saith the Lord, I will send out many ^g fishers, and they shall fish them, and after, will I send out many hunters, and they shall hunt them from every mountain, and from every hill, and out of the caves of the rocks.

17 For mine eyes ^{are} upon all their waies : they are not hid from my face, neither is their iniquitie hid from mine eyes.

18 And first I will recompense their iniquitie and their sinne double, because they have defiled my land, and have filled mine inheritance with their ^h filthie carions, and their abominations.

^h That is their sons and daughters, which they offered to Molech, ⁱ Hee wondereth at the great mercie of God in this deliverance, which shall not onely extend to the Jews but also to the Gentiles.

^k Our fathers were most vile idolaters : therefore, it commeth onely of Gods mercie, that hee performeth his promise, and hath not utterly cast us off.

^l They shall once againe feeble my power and mercie for their deliverance, that they may learne to worship me.

19 O Lord, thou art my ⁱ force, and my strength, and my refuge, in the day of affliction : the Gentiles shall come unto thee from the ends of the world, and shall say, Surely our fathers have ^k inherited lies, and vanitie, wherein there was no profit.

20 Shall a man make gods unto himselfe, and they are no gods ?

21 Behold, therefore I will this once ^l teach them : I will shew them mine hand and my power, and they shall know that my Name is the Lord.

CHAP. XVII.

¹ The forwardnesse of the Jewes. ² Cursed be those that put their confidence in man. ³ Mans heart is wicked. ⁴ God is the searcher of the heart. ⁵ The living waters are forsaken. ⁶ The right keeping of the Sabbath commanded.

^a The temerance of their contempt of God cannot passe, albeit for a time, he deferre the punishment : for it shall bee manifested to men and Angels. ^b In stead of the Law of God, they have writen idolatrie and all abominations in their heart. ^c Your finnes appeare in all the altars that you have erected to idoles.

The sinne of Judah is ^a written with a pen of iron, and with the point of a diamond, and graven upon the ^b table of their heart, and upon the hornes of your ^c altars.

2 ^d They remember their altars as their children, with their groves by the greene trees upon the high hilles.

3 ^e O my mountaine in the field, I will give thy substance, and all thy treasures to bee spoiled, for the sinne of thy high places throughout all thy borders.

^d Some reade so that their children remember their sinnes, that is, follow their fathers wickednesse. ^e Zion that was my mountaine, shall now bee left as a waste field.

4 And thou shalt rest, ^f and in thee shall be a rest from thine heritage that I gave thee, and I will cause thee to serve thine enemies in the land, which thou knowest not : for yee have kindled a fire in mine anger, which shall burne for ever.

^f Because thou wouldst not give the land rest at such times, daies and yeates as I appointed, thou shalt hereafter be carried away, and it shall rest for lack of labourers.

5 ¶ Thus saith the Lord, ^g Cursed be the man that trusteth in man, and maketh flesh his arme, and withdraweth his heart from the Lord.

^g The Jews were given to worldly policies, and thought to make themselves strong by the friendship of the Egyptians, Isa. 31. 3. and strangers, and in the meane season did not depend on God, and therefore hee denounceth Gods plagues against the, shewing that they preferre corruptible man to God which is immortal, Isa. 2. 22.

6 For he shall be like the heath in the wilderneffe, and shall nor see when ^{any} good commeth, but shall inhabite the parched places in the wilderneffe, in a salt land and not inhabited.

^h Read Psal. 1. 3. Because the wicked have ever some excuse to defend their doings, he sheweth that their owne lewd imaginations deceive them, and bring them to these inconveniences : but God will examine their deede by the malice of their hearts, 1 Sam. 16. 7. 1 Chron. 28. 9. Psal. 7. 10. Chap. 11. 30. and 20. 12. Revel. 2. 23.

7 Blessed be the man that trusteth in the Lord, and whose hope the Lord is.

8 ^h For he shall be as a tree that is planted by the water, which spreadeth out her rootes by the river, and shall not feeble when the heat commeth, but her lease shall be greene, and shall not care for the yeare of dought, neither shall cease from yeelding fruit.

9 The ⁱ heart is deceitfull, and wicked above all things, who can know it ?

10 I the Lord search the heart, and trie the reines, even to give everie man according to his waies, and according to the fruit of his workes.

ⁱ As the Partrich by calling, gathereth others which forsake her, when they see that shee is not their dam : so the covetous man is forsaken of his riches, because he commeth by them falsly.

11 ^k As the Partrich gathereth the yong which shee hath not brought forth : so he that getteth riches and not by right, shall leave them in the mids of his daies, and at his end shall be a foole.

^k As the Partrich by calling, gathereth others which forsake her, when they see that shee is not their dam : so the covetous man is forsaken of his riches, because he commeth by them falsly.

12 As a glorious throne ^l exalted from the beginning, so is the place of our Sanctuary.

^l Shewing, that the godly ought to glorie in nothing, but in God : who doth exalt him, and hath left a signe of his favour in his Temple.

13 O Lord, the hope of Israel, all that forsake thee, shall be confounded : they that depart from thee, shall bee written ^m in the earth, because they have forsaken the Lord, the fountaine of living waters.

^m Their names shall not bee registered in the book of life.

14 Heale me, O Lord, and I shall be whole : ⁿ save me, and I shall be saved : for thou art my praise.

ⁿ Hee desireth God to preserve him, that hee fall not into temptation, considering the great contempt of Gods Word, and the multitude that fall from God.

15 Behold, ^o they say unto me, where is the word of the Lord ? let it come now.

^o The wicked say that my prophesie shall not come to passe, because thou deferre the time of the vengeance. ^p I am assured of my vocation, and therefore know that the thing which worldly affection.

^g However the wicked deale rigorously with mee, yet let mee finde comfort in this.

^h Reke Chap. 11. 30.

ⁱ Whereas thy doctrine may bee well understood both of high and low.

^j By timing the Sabbath day, hee comprehendeth the thing, that is thereby signified: for if they transgressed in the ceremony, they must needs be culpable of the rest, reade Exod. 30. 8. and by the breaking of this commandment, hee maketh them transgressors of the whole Law, forasmuch as the first and second table are contained herein.

^k Chap. 23. 4.

17 Be not terrible unto mee: thou art mine hope in the day of adversity.

18 Let them be confounded that persecute me, but let not me be confounded: let them be afraid, but let not me bee afraid: bring upon them the day of adversity, and destroy them with double destruction.

19 Thus hath the Lord said unto me, Goe, and stand in the gate of the children of the people, whereby the Kings of Judah come in, and by the which they goe out, and in all the gates of Jerusalem,

20 And say unto them, Hear the word of the Lord, ye Kings of Judah, and all Judah, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, that enter in by these gates.

21 Thus saith the Lord, Take heed to your soules, and beare no burthen in the Sabbath day, nor bring it in by the gates of Jerusalem.

22 Neither carrie forth burthens out of your houses in the Sabbath day: neither doe ye any worke, but sanctifie the Sabbath, as I commanded your fathers.

23 But they obeyed not, neither inclined their eares, but made their neckes stiffe, and would not heare, nor receive correction.

24 Nevertheless, if ye will heare me, saith the Lord, and beare no burthen through the gates of the citie, in the Sabbath day, but sanctifie the Sabbath day, so that ye doe no worke therein,

25 Then shall the kings and the Princes enter in at the gates of this citie, and shall sit upon the throne of David, and shall ride upon charets, and upon horses, both they and their princes, the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem: and this City shall remain for ever.

26 And they shall come from the Cities of Judah, and from about Jerusalem, and from the land of Benjamin, and from the plaine, and from the mountaines, and from the South, which shall bring burnt offerings, and sacrifices, and meat offerings, and incense, and shall bring sacrifice of praise into the house of the Lord.

27 But if ye will not heare me to sanctifie the Sabbath day, and not to beare a burthen, nor to goe through the gates of Jerusalem in the Sabbath day, then will I kindle a fire in the gates thereof, and it shall devour the Palaces of Jerusalem, and it shall not be quenched.

CHAP. XVIII.

^a God sheweth by the example of a potter, that it is in his power to destroy the despisers of his word. 18 The conspiracie of the Jews against Jeremiah. 19 His prayer against his adversaries.

THe word which came to Jeremiah from the Lord, saying,

2 Arise, and goe downe into the potters house, and there shall I shew thee my words.

3 Then I went downe to the potters house, and behold, he wrought a work on the wheels.

4 And the vessell that he made of clay, was broken in the hand of the potter, so he returned, and made it another vessell, as seemed good to the potter to make it.

5 Then the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

6 O house of Israel, cannot I doe with you as this potter, saith the Lord? behold, as the clay is in the potters hand, so are you in mine hand, O house of Israel.

7 I will speake suddenly against a Nation or against a Kingdome to plucke it up, and to roote it out, and to destroy it.

8 But if the Nation, against whom I have pronounced, turn from their wickednesse, I will repent of the plague that I thought to bring upon them.

9 And I will speake suddenly concerning a Nation, and concerning a Kingdome to build it, and to plant it.

10 But if it doe evill in my sight, and heare not my voice, I will repent of the good that I thought to do for them,

11 Speake thou now therefore unto the men of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, saying, Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I prepare a plague for you, and purpose a thing against you: returne you therefore every one from his evill way, and make your wayes and your works good.

12 But they said desperately, Surely we will walke after our own imaginations, and do every man after the stubborneesse of his wicked heart.

13 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Ask now among the heathen, who hath heard such things? the virgin of Israel hath done very filthily.

14 Will a man forsake the fflow of Lebanon, which cometh from the rocke of the field? or shall the cold fflowing waters, that come from another place, be forsaken?

15 Because my people have forgotten mee, and have burnt incense to vanitie, and their Prophets have caused them to stumble in their wayes from the ancient wayes, to walke in the pathes and way that is not troden,

^a As the potter hath power over the clay to make what pot he will, or to breake them, when he hath made them; so have I power over you, to doe with you as seemeth good to mee, Isa. 45. 9. Rom. 9. 20. 21.
^b When the Scripture attributeth repentance unto God, it is not that he doth contrary to that which hee hath ordained in his secret counsell: but when hee threatneth, it is a calling to repentance, and when hee giveth man grace to repent, the threatening (which ever containeth a condition in it) taketh no place, and this the Scripture calleth repentance in God, because it so appeareth to mans judgement.

^c As men that had no remorse, but were altogether bent to rebellion, and to their owne selfe will.

^d As no man hath, that refresheth fflowing waters, which he hath at home, to goe and seeke waters abroad to quench his thirst: so they ought not to seeke for help and succour at strangers, and leave God which was present with them.
^e That is, the way of truth, which God had taught by his law, read, Chap. 6. 16

16 To

16 To make their land desolate, and a perpetuall derision, so that every one that passeth thereby shall be astonished, and wagge his head.

17 I will scatter them with an East wind before the enemy: I will shew them the backe and^f not the face in the day of their destruction.

^f I will shew mine anger, and not my favour toward them.

18 Then said they, Come, and let us imagine some devise against Jeremiah: for the Law^g shall not perish from the Priest, nor counsell from the wise, nor the word from the Prophet: come, and let us smite him with the^h tongue, and let us not give heed to any of his words.

^g This argument the wicked have ever used against the servants of God, The Church cannot erre: wee are the Church, and therefore who-soever speaketh against us, they ought to die.

^h Kings 22. 24. chap. 7. 4. and 20. 2. Mal. 2. 4. and thus the false Church perfecteth the true Church, which standeth not in outward pompe, and in multitude, but is knowne by the graces of the holy Ghost.

ⁱ Let us slander him, and accuse him: for we shall be believed. ^j Seeing the obstinate malice of the adversaries, which grew daily more and more: the Prophet being moved with Gods Spirit, without any carnall affection, prayeth for their destruction, because hee knew that it should tend to Gods glory, and profit of his Church.

19 Hearken unto me, O L O R D, and heare the voice of them that contend with me.

20 Shall evill be recompensed for good? for they have digged a pit for my soule: remember that I stood before thee, to speake good for them, and to turne away thy wrath from them.

21 Therefore, ⁱ deliver up their children to famine, and let them drop away by the force of the sword, and let their wives be robbed of their children, and be widowes: and let their husbands be put to death, and let their yong men be slaine by the sword in the battell.

22 Let the cry be heard from their houses, when thou shalt bring an hoste suddenly upon them: for they have digged a pit to take me, and hid snares for my feet.

23 Yet Lord, thou knowest all their counsell against me tendeth to death: forgive not their iniquity, neither put out their sinne from thy sight, but let them be overthrowne before thee: deale thus with them in the time of thine anger.

CHAP. XIX.

He prophesieth the destruction of Ierusalem for the contempt and despising of the word of God.

Thus saith the Lord, Goe and buy an earthen bottle of a porter, and take of the ancients of the people, and of the ancients of the Priests, ^k Or gate of the sun.

2 And goe forth into the valley of Ben-hinnom, which is by the entry of the East gate: and thou shalt preach there the words that I shall tell thee, ^k By the Kings, here and in other places, are meant counsellors and governors of the people: which he called the Ancients, yet.

3 And shalt say, Heare ye the word of the Lord, O Kings of Iudah, and inhabitants of Ierusalem, Thus saith the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel, Behold, I will bring a plague upon this place, the which, who-soever heareth, his eares shall tingle.

^l Because they have forsaken me, and prophaned this place, and have burnt incense in it unto other gods, whom neither they, nor their fathers have knowne,

4 Because they have forsaken me, and prophaned this place, and have burnt incense in it unto other gods, whom neither they, nor their fathers have knowne, nor the Kings of Iudah (they have filled this place also with the blood of innocents;

5 And they have built the high places of Baal, to burn their sons with fire for burnt offerings unto Baal, which I commanded not, nor spake it, neither came it into my mind.)

^c Whereby is declared, that whatsoever is not commanded by Gods word touching his service is against his word.

6 Therefore behold, the dayes come, saith the Lord, that this place shall no more be called^d Topheth, nor the valley of Benhinnom, but the valley of slaughter.

^d Read Chap. 7. 31. and 2. Kings 23. 10. 16. 30. 33.

7 And I will bring the counsell of Iudah and Ierusalem to nought in this place, and I will cause them to fall by the sword before their enemies, and by the hand of them that seeke their lives: and their carkeises will I give to be meat for the fowles of the heaven, and to the beasts of the field.

8 * And I will make this City desolate, and an hissing: so that every one that passeth thereby, shall be astonished and hisse because of the plagues thereof.

^e Chap. 18. 16. 49. 13. & 50. 13.

^f Deut. 28. 23. Lament. 4. 10.

9 * And I will feed them with the flesh of their sonnes, and with the flesh of their daughters, and every one shall eat the flesh of his friend in the siege and straightnesse, wherewith their enemies that seeketh their lives, shall hold them strait.

10 Then shalt thou break the bottle in the sight of the men that go with thee,

11 And shalt say unto them, thus saith the Lord of hostes, Even so will I breake this people and this City, as one breaketh a^e porters vessell, that cannot bee made whole againe, and they shall bury them in Topheth, till there be no place to bury,

^e This visible signe was to confirm the assurance of this plague, which the Lord threatned by his Prophets.

12 Thus will I doe unto this place, saith the Lord, and to the inhabitants thereof, and I will make this city like Topheth.

13 For the houses of Ierusalem, and the houses of the Kings of Iudah shall be defiled as the place of Topheth, because of all the^f houses upon whose^g roofes they have burnt incense unto all the hoste of heaven, and have powred out drink-offerings unto other gods.

^f Hee noteth the great rage of the idolaters, which left no place free from their abominations, in so much as they polluted their owne houses therewith, as wee see yet among the Papists.

14 Then came Jeremiah from Topheth, where the Lord had sent him to prophesie, and he stood in the court of the Lords house, and said to all the people,

15 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel, Behold, I will bring upon this City, and upon all her townes, all the plagues that I have pronounced against it, because they have hardened their necks, and would not hear my words.

CHAP. XX.

2 Jeremiah is smitten and cast into prison for preaching of the word of God. 3 He prophesieth the captivity of Babylon. 4 He complaineth that he is a mocking stock for the word of God: 5 He is compelled by the Spirit to preach the Word.

When.

When Pashur, son of Immer, the Priest, which was appointed governor in the House of the Lord, heard that Jeremiah prophesied these things,

2 Then Pashur smote Jeremiah the Prophet, and put him in the ^a stocks that were in the high gate of Benjamin, which was by the House of the Lord.

3 And on the morning, Pashur brought Jeremiah out of the stocks. Then said Jeremiah unto him, The Lord hath not called thy name Pashur, but ^z Magor-missabib.

4 For thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will make thee to bee a terrour to thy selfe, and to all thy friends, and they shall fall by the sword of their enemies, and thine eyes shall behold it, and I will give all Judah into the hand of the King of Babel, and hee shall cary them captive into Babel, and shall slay them with the sword.

5 Moreover, I will deliver all the substance of this city, and all the labours thereof, and all the precious things thereof, and all the treasures of the kings of Judah will I give into the hands of their enemies, which shall spoile them, and take them away, and cary them to Babel.

6 And thou Pashur, and all that dwell in thine house, shall goe into captivity, and thou shalt come to Babel, and there thou shalt die, and shalt be buried there, thou and all thy ^b friends, to whom thou hast prophesied lies.

7 O Lord, thou hast deceived mee, and I am ^c deceived: thou art stronger then I, and hast ^d prevailed: I am in derision daily: every one mocketh mee.

8 For since I spake, I cried out of wrong, and proclaimed ^e desolation: therefore the word of the Lord was made a reproach unto mee, and in derision daily.

9 Then I said, I will not make mention of him, nor speake any more in his Name. But his word was in mine heart as a burning fire shut up in my bones, and I was weary with forbearing, and I could not stay.

10 For I had heard the railing of many, and feare on every side. ^f Declare, said they, and wee will declare it: all my familiars watched for my halting, saying, It may be that he is deceived: so we shall prevaille against him, and we shall execute our vengeance upon him.

11 ^g But the Lord is with mee like a mighty gyant: therefore my persecutors shall bee overthrowne, and shall not prevaille, and shall bee greatly confounded: for they have done unwisely, and their everlasting shame shall never bee forgotten.

12 ^{*} But, O Lord of hostes, that triest the righteous, and seest the reines and the heart, let mee see thy vengeance on them: for unto thee have I opened my cause.

13 Sing unto the Lord, praise yee the Lord: for hee hath delivered the soule of the poore from the hand of the wicked.

14 ^h Curfed be the day wherein I was borne: and let not the day wherein my mother bare mee, bee blessed.

15 Curfed be the man, that shewed my father, saying, A man childe is borne unto thee, and comforted him.

16 And let that man be as the ⁱ cities, which the Lord hath overturned and repented not: and let him heare the cry in the morning, and the shouting at none tide,

CHAP. XXI.

Hee prophesieth that Zedekiah shall bee taken, and the city burned.

THe word which came unto Jeremiah from the Lord, when king Zedekiah sent unto him Pashur, the son of Malchiah, and Zephaniah the son of Maasejah the Priest, saying,

2 ^{*} Inquire, I pray thee, of the Lord for us, (for Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel maketh war against us) if so bee that the Lord will deal with us according to all his wondrous workes, that hee may returne up from us.

3 Then said Jeremiah, Thus shall you say to Zedekiah,

4 Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Behold, I will ^b turne back the weapons of war that are in your hands, wherewith ye fight against the king of Babel, and against the Caldeans, which besiege you without the walles, and I will assemble them into the mids of this city.

5 And I my selfe will fight against you with an out-stretched hand, and with a mighty arme even in anger and in wrath, and in great indignation.

6 And I will limate the inhabitants of this city both man and beast: they shall die of a great pestilence.

7 And after this, saith the Lord, I will deliver Zedekiah the king of Judah, and his servants, and the people, and such as are left in this city from the pestilence, from the sword, and from the famine, into the hand of Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel, and into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of those that

CHAP. XXII.

^a Hee exhorteth the King to judgement and righteousness. ^g Why Jerusalem is brought into captivity. ⁱ The death of Shallum the son of Josiah is prophesied.

Thus said the Lord, Goe downe to the house of the king of Judah, and speake there this thing,

2 And say, Hear the word of the Lord, O King of Judah, that fittest upon the throne of David, thou and thy servants, and thy people that enter in by these gates.

3 Thus saith the Lord, * Execute yee judgement and * righteousness, and deliver the oppressed from the hand of the oppressour, and vexe not the stranger, the fatherlesse, nor the widow: doe no violence, nor shed innocent blood in this place.

4 For if yee doe this thing, then shall the Kings sitting upon the throne of David enter in by the gates of this House, and * ride upon the charrets, and upon horses, both he and his servants and his people.

5 But if ye will not heare these words,

I^b swear by my selfe, saith the Lord, that this House shall be wast.

6 For thus hath the Lord spoken unto the Kings house of Judah, Thou art^c Gilead unto mee, and the head of Lebanon: yet surely I will make thee a wilderness, and as cities not inhabited,

7 And I will^d prepare destroyers against thee, every one with his weapons, and they shall cut downe thy chiefe^e cedar trees, and cast them in the fire.

8 And many nations shall passe by this city, and they shall say every man to his neighbour, Wherefore hath the Lord done thus unto this great city?

9 Then shall they answer, Because they have forsaken the covenant of the Lord their God, and worshipped other gods, and served them.

10 Weepe not for the dead, and bee not moved for them, but weepe for him^s that goeth out: for hee shall returne no more: nor see his native countrey.

11 For thus saith the Lord, As touching^h Shallum the son of Josiah King of Judah, which reigned for Josiah his father, which went out of this place, he shall not returne thither.

12 But he shall die in the place whither they have led him captive, and shall see this land no more.

13 ¶ Woe unto him that buildeth his house byⁱ unrighteousnesse, and his chambers without equity: he useth his neighbour without wages, and giveth him not for his worke.

14 Hee saith, I will build mee, a wide house, and large chambers: so hee will make himselfe large windowes, and sieving with cedar, and paint them with vermilion.

15 Shalt thou reign, because thou clovest thy selfe in cedar? did not thy^k father care and drinke and prosper, when he executed judgement and justice?

16 When he judged the cause of the afflicted and the poore, he prospered: was not this because hee knew mee, saith the Lord?

17 But thine eyes and thine heart are but onely for thy covetousnesse, and for to shed innocent blood, and for oppression, and for destruction, even to doe this.

18 Therefore thus saith the Lord against Jehoiakim, the son of Josiah king of Judah, They shall not lament him, saying, Ah, my brother, or ah, my sister: neither shall they mourne for him, saying, Ah lord, or ah, his glory.

19 He shall be buried as an asse^m is buried, even drawne and cast forth without the gates of Jerusalem.

24 As I live, saith the Lord, though Coniah the son of Jehojakim King of Judah, were the signet of my right hand, yet would I pluck thee thence.

25 And I will give thee into the hand of them that seeke thy life, and into the hand of them, whose face thou fearest, even into the hand of Nebuchad-rezzar king of Babel, and into the hand of the Caldeans.

26 And I will cause them to cary thee away, and thy mother that bare thee into another countrey, where yee were not borne, and there shall yee die.

28 Is not this man Coniah as a despised and broken idol? or as a vessell, wherein is no pleasure? wherefore are they caried away, hee and his seed, and cast out into a land that they know not?

29 O earth, earth, earth, heare the word of the Lord.

It sheweth, that all posterity shall bee witnesses of this just plague, as though it were registered for perpetual memory.

30 Thus saith the Lord, Write this man destitute of children, a man that shall not prosper in his dayes: for there shall be no man of his seed that shall prosper and sit upon the throne of David, or beare rule any more in Judah.

CHAP. XXIII.
Against false Pastours: A prophesie of the great Pastour Iesus Christ.

¶ WOe be unto the pastours that destroy and scatter the sheep of my pasture, saith the Lord.

Meaning, the princes, governors, and false prophets, as Ezek. 34. 2.

For the which I have special care and have prepared good pastures for them.

Whole charge is to see the flock, but they care the fruit thereof, Ezek. 34. 3.

Thus the Prophets ever use to mixe the promises with the threatnings, lest the godly should be too much beaten downe. & therefore hee sheweth how God will gather his Church after this dispersion.

2 Therefore thus saith the Lord God of Israel unto the pastours that feed my people, Yee have scattered my flock, and thrust them out, and have not visited them: behold, I will visit you for the wickednes of your workes, saith the Lord.

3 And I will gather the remnant of my sheep out of all countries, whither I had driven them, and will bring them againe to their folds, and they shall grow and increase.

4 And I will set up shepherds over them, which shall feed them, and they shall dread no more, nor be afraid, neither shall any of them bee lacking, saith the Lord.

5 Behold, the dayes come, saith the Lord, that I will raise unto David a righteous branch, and a King shall reigne, and prosper, and shall execute judgement and justice in the earth.

This prophesie is of the restitution of the Church in the time of Iesus Christ, who is the true branch, read Isa. 11. 1. and 45. 8. Chap. 33. 15. Dan. 9. 24. * Deut. 33. 28. * Chap. 33. 10.

6 In his dayes Judah shall be saved, and Israel shall dwell safely, and this is the name whereby they shall call him, * The Lord our righteousness.

7 Therefore behold, the dayes come, saith the Lord, that they shall no more say, The Lord liveth, which brought up the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt, Read Chap. 16. 14.

8 But, the Lord liveth, which brought up and led the seed of the house of Israel out of the North countrey, and from all countries where I had scattered them, and they shall dwell in their owne land.

9 Mine heart breaketh within mee, because of the Prophets: all my bones shake: I am like a drunken man (and like a man whom wine hath overcome) for the presence of the Lord, and for his holy words.

Meaning, the false prophets, which deceive the people, wherein appeareth his great love toward his nation, read Chap. 14. 13. * Ebr. passed over, or troubled.

10 For the land is full of adulterers, and because of paths the land mourneth, the pleasant places of the wilderness are dried up, and their course is evill, and their force is not right.

They run headlong to wickednesse and seeke vaine helpe. * Or, are hypocrites.

11 For both the Prophet and the Priest doe wickedly: and their wickednes have I found in mine House, saith the Lord.

My Temple is full of their idolatry and superstitions.

12 Wherefore their way shall be unto them as slippery wayes in the darknesse: they shall be driven forth, and fall therein: for I will bring a plague upon them, even the yeare of their visitation, saith the Lord.

13 And I have scene foolishnesse in the Prophets of Samaria, that prophesied in Baal, and caused my people Israel to erre,

14 I have scene also in the Prophets of Jerusalem filthinesse: they commit adultery, and walke in lies: they strengthen also the hands of the wicked, that none can returne from his wickednesse: they are all unto mee as Sodom, and the inhabitants thereof as Gomorah.

They which should have profited by my rods against Samaria, are become worse then they.

15 Therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts concerning the Prophets, Behold, I will feed them with wormewood: and make them drinke the water of gall: for from the Prophets of Jerusalem is wickednesse gone forth into all the land.

I thought, so the world they seeme holy fathers, yet I detest them, as I do these abominable scelerates.

16 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Heare not the words of the Prophets that prophesie unto you, and teach you vanity: they speak the vision of their own heart, own heart, No evil shall come upon you.

18 For ^p who hath stood in the counsell of the Lord, that hee hath perceived and heard his word? Who hath marked his word, and heard it?

19 Behold, the Tempest of the Lord goeth forth in his wrath, and a violent whirlewind shall fall downe upon the head of the wicked.

20 The anger of the Lord shall not returne untill he have executed, and till hee have performed the thoughts of his heart:
in the latter dayes yee ^q shall understand it plainly.

21 *I have not sent these Prophets, saith the Lord, yet they ran: I have not spoken to them, and yet they prophesied.

22 But if they had stood in my counsell, and ^r had declared my words to my people, then they should have turned them from their evil way, and from the wickednesse of their inventions.

23 Am I a God ^s at hand, saith the Lord, and not a God ^t afarre off?

24 Can any hide himselfe in secret places, that I shall not see him, saith the Lord? Doe not I fill heaven and earth, saith the Lord?

25 I have heard what the Prophets said, that prophesie lies in my Name, saying, I have dreamed, I have dreamed.

26 How long? [†] Doe the Prophets delight to prophesie lies, even prophecying the deceit of their owne heart?

27 Thinke they to cause ^v my people to forget my Name by their dreames, which they tell every man to his neighbour, as their forefathers have forgotten my Name for Baal?

28 The Prophet that hath a dreame, let him ^x tell a dreame, and hee that hath my word, let him speake my word faithfully: ^y what is the chaffe to the wheate,
saith the Lord?

29 Is not my word even like a fire, saith the Lord? and like an hammer, that breaketh the stone?

30 Therefore behold, I ^y will come against the Prophets, saith the Lord, that ^z steale my word every one from his neighbour.

31 Behold, I ^z will come against the Prophets, saith the Lord, which have sweet tongues, and say, ^a hee saith.

32 Behold, I ^a will come against them that prophesie false dreames, saith the Lord, and doe tell them, and cause my people to erre by their lies, and by their flatteries, and I sent them not, nor commanded them: therefore they bring no profit unto this people, saith the Lord.

33 And when this people, or the Prophet, or a Priest shall aske thee, saying, What is the ^b burden of the Lord?
thou shalt then say unto them, what burden? I will even forsake you, saith the Lord.

34 And the Prophet, or the Priest, or the people that shall say, the ^c burden of the Lord, I will even visit such one, and his house.

35 Thus shall yee say every one to his neighbour, and every one to his brother, What hath the Lord answered? and what hath the Lord spoken?

36 And the burden of the Lord shall yee mention no more: for every mans ^d word shall bee his burthen: for yee have perverted the words of the liuing God, the Lord of hostes our God.

37 Thus shalt thou say to the Prophet, What hath the Lord answered thee?
and what hath the Lord spoken?

38 And if you say, The burthen of the Lord, Then thus saith the Lord, Because ye say this word, The burden of the Lord, and I have sent unto you, saying, Yee shall not say, The burden of the Lord,

39 Therefore behold, I, even I, will utterly [†] forget you, and I will forsake you, and the citie that I gave you and your fathers, and cast you out of my presence.

40 And will bring ^{*} an everlasting reproch upon you, and a perpetuall shame, which shall never be forgotten.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 The vision of the baskets of figs. 5 Signifieth that part of the people should bee brought againe from captivitie, 8 And that Zedekiah, and the rest of the people should be caried away.

THE Lord shewed me, and behold, two ^a baskets of figs were set before the Temple of the Lord, after that Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel had caried away captive Jeconiah the sonne of Jeho-jakim King of Judah, and the princes of Judah, with the workemen, and the cunning men of Jerusalem, and had brought them to Babel.

2 One basket ^b had very good figges, even like the figges that are first ripe: and the other basket ^c had very naughty figges, which could not be eaten, they were so evill.

3 Then said the Lord unto me, What seest thou, Jeremiah? And I said, Figs:
the good figs very good, and the naughty very naughty, which cannot bee eaten, they are so evill.

4 Againe, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

5 Thus saith the Lord, the God of Israel, Like these good figs, so will I know them

b The Prophets called their threatnings, Gods burden, which the sinners were not able to sustaine:
therefore the wicked in deriding
the word, would aske of the Prophets, what was the burden, as though they would say, You else, but to lay burdens on our shoulders: and thus they rejected

the word of God,
as a grievous burden.

c Because this word was brought to contempt and derision, hee will ther manner of speech, and will cause this word burden to cease,

temne; shall come

them that are carried away captive of Judah to be good, whom I have sent out of this^b place, into the land of the Caldeans.

6 For I will set mine eyes upon them for good, and I will bring them again to this land, and I will build them, and not destroy them, and I will plant them, and not root them out.

7 And I will give them^c an heart to know mee, that I am the Lord, and they shall bee my^{*} people, and I will bee their God: for they shall returne unto mee with their whole heart.

8^{*} And as the naughty figs which cannot bee eaten, they are so evill (surely thus saith the Lord) so will I give Zedekiah the King of Judah, and his princes, and the residue of Jerusalem that remaine in this land, and them that dwell^d in the land of Egypt:

9 I will even give them for a terrible plague to all the kingdomes of the earth, and for a reproch, and for a proverbe, for a common talke, and for a curse, in all places where I shall cast them.

10 And I will send the sword, the famine, and the pestilence among them, till they bee consumed out of the land, that I gave unto them, and to their fathers.

CHAP. XXV.

¹ Hee prophesieth that they shall be in captivity seventy yeares, 12 And that after the seventy yeares the Babylonians should bee destroyed. 15 The destruction of all nations is prophesied

The word that came to Jeremiah concerning all the people of Judah, in the^a fourth yeare of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah king of Judah, that was in the first yeare of Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel:

2 The which Jeremiah the Prophet spake unto all the people of Judah, and to all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, saying,

3 From the thirteenth yeare of Josiah, the son of Amon king of Judah, even unto^b this day (that is the three and twentieth yeare) the word of the Lord hath come unto mee, and I have spoken unto you, rising early, and speaking, but yee would not heare.

4 And the Lord hath sent unto you all his servants the Prophets, rising early, and sending them, but yee would not heare, nor incline your eares to obey.

5 They^d said, Turne againe now every one from his evill way, and from the wickednesse of your inventions, and yee shall dwell in the land that the Lord hath given unto you, and to your fathers for ever and ever.

6 And goe not after other gods to serve them and to worship them, and provoke mee not to anger with the workes of your hands, and I will not punish you.

7 Nevertheless yee would not heare mee, saith the Lord, but have provoked mee to anger with the workes of your hands to your owne hurt.

8 Therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts: Because yee have not heard my words,

9 Behold, I will send and take to mee all the^e families of the North, saith the Lord, and Nebuchad-nezzar the king of Babel, my^f servant, and will bring them against this land, and against the inhabitants thereof, and against all the nations round about, and will destroy them, and make them an astonishment, and an hissing, and a continuall desolation.

10 Moreover, I will take from them the voice of mirth, and the voice of gladnesse, the voice of the bridegrome, and the voice of the bride, the noise of the millstones, and the light of the candle.

11 And this whole land shall bee desolate, and an astonishment, and these Nations shall serve the king of Babel seventy yeares.

12 And when the¹ seventy yeares are accomplished, I will visite^{*} the king of Babel, and that Nation, saith the Lord, for their iniquities, even the land of the Caldeans, and will make it a perpetuall desolation.

13 And I will bring upon that land all my words which I have pronounced against it, even all that is written in this booke, which Jeremiah hath prophesied against all Nations.

14 For many nations, and great kings shall even¹ serve themselves of them: thus will I recompence them according to their deeds, and according to the workes of their owne hands.

15 For thus hath the Lord God of Israel spoken unto mee, Take the cup of wine of this^m mine indignation at thine hand, and cause all the Nations to whom I send thee, to drinke it.

16 And they shall drinke, and be moved, and bee mad, because of the sword that I will send among them.

17 Then tooke I the cup at the Lords hand, and made all people to drinke, unto whom the Lord had sent mee:

18 Even Jerusalem, and the cities of Judah, and the Kings thereof, and the Princes thereof, to make them desolate, an astonishment, an hissing, and a curse, as appeareth this day:

CHAP. XXVI.

² Jeremiah moveth the people to repentance. 7 He is taken of the false Prophets and Priests, and brought to judgement.

23 Vrijah the Prophet is killed of Iehojakim, contrary to the will of God.

IN the beginning of the reigne of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah King of Judah, came this word from the Lord, saying,

2 Thus saith the Lord, Stand in the ^a court of the Lords house, and speake unto all the cities of Judah, which come to worship in the Lords House, all the words that I command thee to speake unto them: keepe not ^b a word back,

3 If so bee they will hearken, and turne every man from his evill way, that I may ^c repent mee of the plague, which I have determined to bring upon them, because of the wickednesse of their workes.

4 And thou shalt say unto them, Thus saith the Lord, If yee will not heare mee to walke in my Lawes, which I have set before you,

5 And to heare the words of my servants the Prophets, whom I sent unto you, both rising up early, and sending them, and will not obey them.

6 Then will I make this House like ^d Shiloh, and will make this city ^e a curse to all the nations of the earth.

7 So the Priests, and the Prophets, and all the people heard Jeremiah speaking these words in the House of the Lord.

8 Now when Jeremiah had made an end of speaking all that the Lord had commanded him to speake unto all the people, then the Priests and the Prophets, and all the people tooke him, and said, Thou shalt die the death.

9 Why hast thou prophesied in the Name of the Lord, saying, This ^f House

^f house shall bee like Shiloh, and this city shall bee desolate without an inhabitant? and all the people were gathered against Jeremiah in the house of the Lord.

10 And when the Princes of Judah heard of these things, they came up from the Kings house into the House of the Lord, and sate downe in the entry of the new gate of the Lords House.

11 Then spake the Priests and the Prophets unto the Princes, and to all the people, saying, [†] This man is worthy to die: for he hath prophesied against this city, as yee have heard with your eares.

12 Then spake Jeremiah unto all the Princes, and to all the people, saying, The Lord hath ^h sent mee to prophesie against this house, and against this city all the things that yee have heard.

13 Therefore now amend your wayes, and your workes, and heare the voice of the Lord your God, that the Lord may repent him of the plague that he hath pronounced against you.

14 As for mee, behold, I am in your hands: doe with mee as yee think good and right.

15 But know yee for certaine, that if yee put mee to death, yee shall surely bring innocent blood upon your selves, and upon this city, and upon the inhabitants thereof: for of a truth the Lord hath sent mee unto you, to speake all these words in your eares.

16 Then said the Princes and all the people unto the Priests, and to the Prophets, This man is not worthy to die: for hee hath spoken unto us in the Name of the Lord our God.

17 ¶ Then rose up certaine of the Elders of the land, and spake to all the assembly of the people, saying,

18 Micah the Morashite ^{*} prophesied in the dayes of Hezekiah King of Judah, and spake to all the people of Judah, saying, Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Zion shall be plowed like a field, and Jerusalem shall bee an heap, and the mountaine of the ⁱ house shall be as the high places of the Forrest.

19 Did Hezekiah King of Judah, and all Judah put him to death? did hee not feare the Lord, and prayed before the Lord, and the Lord repented him of the ^k plague, that hee had pronounced against them? Thus might we procure great evill against our soules.

20 And there was also a man that prophesied in the Name of the Lord, one Vrijah the son of Shemajah, of Kiriathjarem, who prophesied against this city, and against this land, according to all the words of Jeremiah.

21 Now when Jehojakim the King with all his men of power, and all the Princes heard his words, the King sought to slay him. But when Vrijah heard it, hee was afraid, and fled, and went into Egypt.

22 Then Jehojakim the King ^l sent men into Egypt, even Elnathan the son of Achbor, and certaine with him into Egypt.

11 But the nation that put their necks under the yoke of the king of Babel, and serve him, those will I let remaine still in their owne land, saith the Lord, and they shall occupy it, and dwell therein.

12 ¶ I spake also to Zedekiah king of Judah according to all these words, saying, Put your necks under the yoke of the king of Babel, and serve him and his people, that yee may live.

13 Why will yee die, thou, and thy people by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence, as the Lord hath spoken against the nation, that will not serve the king of Babel?

14 Therefore heare not the words of the prophets, that speake unto you, saying, Yee shall not serve the king of Babel: for they prophesie a lie unto you.

15 For I have not * sent them, saith the Lord, yet they prophesie a lie in my Name, that I might cast you out, and that ye might perish, both you, and the prophets that prophesie unto you.

16 ¶ Also I spake to the Priests and to all this people, saying, Thus saith the Lord, Heare not the words of the prophets that prophesie unto you, saying, Behold, * the vessels of the house of the Lord shall now shortly bee ^f brought againe from Babel, for they prophesie a lie unto you.

Babel tooke not, when hee caried * away captive Jeconiah the son of Jehojakim king of Judah from Jerusalem to Babel, with all the nobles of Judah and Jerusalem.

21 For thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel, concerning the vessels that remaine in the House of the Lord, and in the house of the king of Judah, and at Jerusalem, 22 They shall bee brought to Babel, and there they shall be untill the day that I visit ^h them, saith the Lord: then will I bring them up, and restore them unto this place.

ⁱ The false prophesie of Hananiah. 10 Jeremiah reproveth Hananiah, and prophesieth.

ANd that same yeare in the beginning of the ^a reigne of Zedekiah king of Judah, in the ^b fourth yeare, and in the fifth moneth, Hananiah the son of Azur the Prophet, which was of ^c Gibeon, spake to mee in the house of the Lord, in the presence of the Priests, and of all the people, and said,

2 Thus speaketh the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, saying, I have broken the yoke of the king of Babel.

3 † Within two yeares space I will bring into this place all the vessels of the Lords House, that Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel tooke away from this place, and carried them into Babel.

4 And I will bring againe to this place Jeconiah the son of Jehojakim king of Judah, with all them that were carried away captive of Judah, and went into Babel, saith the Lord: for I will breake the yoke of the king of Babel.

12 ¶ Then the word of the Lord came unto Jeremiah the Prophet, (after that Hananiah the Prophet had broken the yoke from the neck of the Prophet Jeremiah) saying, 13 Goe, and tell Hananiah, saying, Thus saith the Lord, Thou hast broken the yokes of wood, but thou shalt make for them yokes of Iron.

14 For thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, I have put a yoke of iron upon the necke of all these nations, that they may serve Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel: for they shall serve him, and I have given him the beasts of the field also.

15 Then said the Prophet Jeremiah unto the Prophet Hananiah, Heare now Hananiah, the Lord hath not sent thee, but thou makest this people to trust in a lie.

CHAP. XXIX.

Jeremiah writeth unto them that were in captivitie in Babylon. 10 Hee propheseth their returne after seventy yeares. 16 Hee propheseth the destruction of the King and of the people that remaine in Ierusalem. 21 Hee threatneth the prophets that seduce the people. 32 The death of Shemaiah is prophesied.

Now these are the words of the book that Jeremiah the Prophet sent from Ierusalem unto the residue of the Elders, which were carried away captives, and to the Priests, and to the Prophets, and to all the people whom Nebuchad-nezzar had carried away captive from Ierusalem to Babel,

2 (After that Ieconiah the king, and the Queen, and the eunuches, the Princes of Iudah, and of Ierusalem, and the workmen, and cunning men were departed from Ierusalem)

3 By the hand of Elafah the sonne of Shaphan, and Gemariah the sonne of Hilkiah, (whom Zedekiah king of Iudah sent unto Babel to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel) saying,

4 Thus, hath the Lord of hosts the God of Israel spoken unto all that are carried away captives, whom I have caused to be carried away captives from Ierusalem unto Babel,

5 Build you houses to dwel in, and plant you gardens, and eat the fruits of them.

6 Take you wives, and beget sons and daughters, and take wives for your sons, and give your daughters to husbands, that they may beare sons and daughters, that ye may be increased there, and not diminished.

7 And seek the prosperity of the cite, whether I have caused you to be carried away captives, and pray unto the Lord for it: for in the peace thereof shall yee have peace.

8 ¶ For thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Let not your prophets and your soothsayers that be among you, deceive you, neither give care to your dreames, which you dreame.

9 For they prophesie you a lie in my Name, I have not sent them, saith the Lord.

10 But thus saith the Lord, that after seventie yeares be accomplished at Babel, I will visite you and performe my good promise toward you, and cause you to returne to this place.

11 For I know the thoughts, that I have thought towards you, saith the Lord, even the thoughts of peace, and not of trouble, to give you an end, and your hope.

12 Then shall you cry unto me, and ye shall goe and pray unto me, and I will heare you.

13 And ye shall seek me, and finde me, because ye shall seek me with all your heart.

14 And I will be found of you, saith the Lord, and I will turne away your captivitie, and I will gather you from all the nations, and from all the places, whither I have cast you, saith the Lord, and will bring you againe unto the place, whence I caused you to be carried away captive.

15 ¶ Because ye have said, The Lord hath raised us up Prophets in Babel:

16 Therefore thus saith the Lord, of the King that sitteth upon the throne of David, and of all the people that dwell in this cite, your brethren that are not gone forth with you into captivitie:

17 Even thus saith the Lord of hosts, Behold, I will send upon them the sword, the famine, and the pestilence, and will make them like vile figs, that cannot be eaten, they are for naught.

19 Because they have not heard my words, saith the Lord, which I sent unto them by my servants the Prophets, ¹ rising up early, and sending them, but ye would not heare, saith the Lord.

20 ¶ Heare ye therefore the word of the Lord all ye of the captivitie, whom I have sent from Jerusalem to Babel.

21 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, of Ahab the son of Kolajah, and of Zedekiah the sonne of Maasejah, which prophesie lies unto you in my Name, Behold, I will deliver them into the hand of Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel, & he shall slay them before your eyes.

22 And all they of the captivitie of Judah, that are in Babel, shall take up this curse against them, and say, The Lord make thee like Zedekiah, and like Ahab, whom the King of Babel burnt ^a in the fire.

23 Because they have committed ^a villanie in Israel, and have committed adultery with their neighbours wives, and have spoken lying words in my Name, which I have not commanded them, even I know it, and testifie it, saith the Lord.

24 ¶ Thou shalt also speak to Shemajah the Nehelamite, saying,

25 Thus speaketh the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, saying, Because thou hast sent letters in thy name unto all the people, that are at Jerusalem, and to Zephaniah the sonne of Maasejah the Priest, and to all the Priests, saying,

26 The Lord hath made the Priest for ^a Jehojada the Priest, that ye should bee officers in the House of the Lord, for every man that raveth and maketh himselfe a Prophet, to put him in prison and in the stocks.

27 Now therefore, why hast not thou reproved Jeremiah of Anathoth, which prophesieth unto you?

28 For, for this cause he sent unto us in Babel, saying, This captivitie is long, build houses to dwell in, and plant gardens, and eate the fruits of them.

29 And Zephaniah the Priest read this letter in the eares of Jeremiah the Prophet.

30 Then came the word of the Lord unto Jeremiah, saying,

31 Send to all them of the captivitie, saying, Thus saith the Lord of Shemajah the Nehelamite, Because that Shemajah hath prophesied unto you, and Hest him

CHAPTER XXX.

^a The returne of the people from Babylon, ^b He manaceth the enemies, ^c And comforteth the Church.

THe word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord, saying,

2 Thus speaketh the Lord God of Israel, saying, Write thee all the words that I have spoken unto thee, in a ^a book.

3 For loe, the dayes come, saith the Lord, that I will bring againe the captivitie of my people Israel and Judah, saith the Lord: for I will restore them unto the land, that I gave to their fathers, and they shall possesse it.

4 Again, these are the words that the Lord spake concerning Israel, and concerning Judah.

5 For thus saith the Lord, We have heard a ^b terrible voice, of feare, and not of peace.

6 Demand now, and behold, if man travell with child: wherefore doe I behold every man with his hands on his loines as a woman in travell, and all faces are turned into a palenesse?

7 Alas, for this ^c day is great: none hath been like it: it is even the time of Jaakobs trouble, yet shall he be delivered from it.

8 For in that ^d day, saith the Lord of hosts, I will breake ^e his yoke from off thy neck, and breake thy bonds, and strangers shall no more serve themselves ^f of him.

9 But they shall serve the Lord their God, and ^g David their King, whom I will raise up unto them.

10 Therefore feare not, O my servant Jaakob, saith the Lord, neither bee afraid, O Israel: for loe, I will deliver thee from a farre countrie, and thy seed from the land of their captivitie, and Jaakob shall turne againe, and shall be in rest and prosperitie, and none shall make him afraid.

11 For I am with thee, saith the Lord, to save thee: though I utterly destroy all the nations where I have scattered thee, yet will I not utterly destroy thee, but I will correct thee by judgement, and not utterly cut thee off.

12 For thus saith the Lord, Thy bruising is incurable, and thy wound is dolorous.

CHAP. XXXII.

1 Jeremiah is cast into prison, because he prophesied that the city should be taken of the King of Babylon. 7 He sheweth that the people should come againe to their owne possession. 38 The people of God are his servants, and hee is their Lord.

THE word that came unto Jeremiah from the Lord, in the tenth yeare of Zedekiah king of Judah, which was the eighteenth yeare of Nebuchad-nezzar.

2 For then the King of Babels hoste besieged Jerusalem: and Jeremiah the Prophet was shut up in the court of the prison, which was in the King of Judahs house.

3 For Zedekiah king of Judah had shut him up, saying, Wherefore doest thou prophesie, and say, Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will give this city into the hands of the king of Babel, and hee shall take it?

4 And Zedekiah the king of Judah shall not escape out of the hand of the Caldeans, but shall surely be delivered into the hands of the king of Babel, and shall speak with him mouth to mouth, and his eyes shall behold his face.

5 And he shall lead Zedekiah to Babel, and there shall he be, untill I visite him, saith the Lord, though ye fight with the Caldeans, ye shall not prosper.

6 ¶ And Jeremiah said, The word of the Lord came unto, saying,

7 Behold, Hanameel, the son of Shalum thine uncle, shall come unto thee, and say, Buy unto thee my field, that is in Anathoth: for the title by kinred appertaineth unto thee to buy it.

8 So Hanameel mine uncles sonne came to mee in the court of the prison, according to the word of the Lord, and said unto mee, Buy my field, I pray thee, that is in Anathoth, which is in the countrey of Benjamin: for the right of the possession is thine, and the purchase belongeth unto thee: buy it for thee. Then I knew that this was the word of the Lord.

9 And I bought the field of Hanameel, mine uncles sonne, that was in Anathoth, and weighed him the silver, even seven shekels, and tenne pieces of silver.

10 And I wrote it in the booke, and signed it, and tooke witnesses, and weighed him the silver in the balances.

11 So I tooke the booke of the possession, being sealed according to the Law, and custome, with the booke that was open,

12 And I gave the booke of the possession unto Baruch the son of Neriah, the son of Maaseiah, in the sight of Hanameel mine uncles son, and in the presence of the witnesses, written in the booke of the possession, before all the Jewes that sate in the court of the prison.

13 And I charged Baruch before them, saying,

14 Thus saith the Lord of hostes the God of Israel, Take the writings, even this booke of the possession, both that is sealed, and this booke that is open, and put them in an earthen vessell, that they may continue a long time.

15 For the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel saith thus, Houses, and fields, and vineyards shall be possessed againe in this land.

16 ¶ Now when I had delivered the booke of the possession unto Baruch, the son of Neriah, I prayed unto the Lord, saying,

17 Ah Lord God, behold, thou hast made the heaven and the earth by thy great power, and by thy stretched out arme, and there is nothing hard unto thee.

18 * Thou shewest mercy unto thousands, and recompenseth the iniquity of the fathers into the bosome of their children after them: O God the great and mighty, whose Name is The Lord of hostes,

19 Great in counsell, and mighty in worke, (for thine eyes are open upon all the wayes of the sons of men, to give to every one according to his wayes, and according to the fruit of his workes)

20 Which hast set signes and wonders in the land of Egypt unto this day, and in Israel, and among all men, and hast made thee a Name, as appeareth this day, 21 And hast brought thy people Israel out of the land of Egypt with signes, and with wonders, and with a strong hand, and with a stretched out arme, and with great terrour.

22 And hast given them this land, which thou diddest sweare to their fathers to give them, even a land, that floweth with milke and honey.

23 And they came in and possessed it, but they obeyed not thy voice, neither walked in thy Law: all that thou commandest them to doe, they have not done:

25 And thou hast said unto mee, O Lord God, Buy unto thee the field for silver, and take witnesses: for the city shall be given into the hand of the Caldeans.

26 ¶ Then came the word of the Lord, unto Jeremiah, saying,

27 Behold, I am the LORD GOD of all^m flesh: is there any thing too hard for mee?

28 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will give this city into the hand of the Caldeans, and into the hand of Nebuchad-rezzar king of Babel, and he shall take it.

30 For the children of Israel, and the children of Judah have surely done evil before mee from theirⁿ youth: for the children of Israel have surely provoked me to anger with the workes of their hands, saith the Lord.

31 Therefore this city hath beene unto mee as a^p Provocation of mine anger, and of my wrath, from the day that they built it, even unto this day, that I should remove it out of my sight,

32 Because of all the evill of the children of Israel, and of the children of Judah, which they have done to provoke mee to anger, even they, their Kings, their Princes, their Priests, and their Prophets, and the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

33 And they have turned unto mee the back, and not the face: though I taught them, rising^o up early, and instructing them, yet they were not obedient to receive doctrine, 34 But they set their abominations in the house (whereupon my Name was called) to defile it.

35 And they built the high^p places of Baal, which are in the valley of^q Ben-hinnom, to cause their sons and their daughters to^r passe thorow the fire unto Molech, which I commanded them not, neither came it into my mind, that they should doe such abomination, to cause Judah to sin.

37 * Behold, I will gather them out of all countries wherein I have scattered them in mine anger, and in my wrath, and in great indignation, and I will bring them againe unto this place, and I will cause them to dwell safely.

38 And they shall bee^{*} my people, and I will bee their God.

39 And I will give them^{*} one heart, and one way, that they may feare mee forever, for the wealth of them, and of their children after them.

40 And I will make an^v everlasting covenant with them, that I will never turne away from them to doe them good, but I will put my feare in their hearts, that they shall not depart from mee.

41 Yea, I will delight in them to doe them good, and I will plant them in this land assuredly, with my whole heart, and with all my soule.

42 For thus saith the Lord, Like as I have brought all this great plague upon this people, so will I bring upon them all the good that I have promised them.

43 And the fields shall bee possessed in this land, whereof yee say, It is desolate without man or beast, and shall bee given into the hand of the Caldeans.

44 Men shall buy^x fields for silver, and make writings and seale them, and take witnesses in the land of Benjamin, and round about Jerusalem, and in the cities of Judah, and in the cities of the mountaines, and in the cities of the plaine, and in the cities of the South: for I will cause their captivity to returne, saith the Lord.

12 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Again in this place, which is desolate, without man, and without beast, and in all the cities thereof there shall be dwelling for shepherds to rest their flocks.

13 In the cities of the mountaines, in the cities in the plaine, and in the cities of the South, and in the land of Benjamin, and about Jerusalem, and in the cities of Judah shall the sheepe passe againe, under the hand of him that telleth them, saith the Lord.

14 Behold, the daies come, saith the Lord, that I will perform that good thing, which I have promised unto the house of Israel, and unto the house of Judah,

15 In those daies, and at that time, will

I cause the branch of righteousness to grow up unto David, and he shall execute judgement and righteousness in the land.

16 In those daies shall Judah be saved, and Jerusalem shall dwell safely, and hee that shall call her, is the Lord our righteousness.

17 For thus saith the Lord, David shall never want a man to sit upon the throne of the house of Israel.

18 Neither shall the Priests and Levites want a man before me to offer burnt offerings, and to offer meate offerings, and to doe sacrifice continually.

19 ¶ And the word of the Lord came unto Jeremiah, saying,

20 Thus saith the Lord, If you can breake my covenant of the day, and my covenant of the night, that there should not be day and night in their season,

21 Then may my covenant be broken with David my servant, that he should not have a sonne to reigne upon his throne, and with the Levites and Priests, my ministers.

22 As the armie of heaven cannot be numbred, neither the sand of the sea measured: so will I multiply the seed of David my servant, and the Levites, that minister unto me.

23 ¶ Moreover, the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah, saying,

24 Considerest thou not, what this people have spoken, saying, The two families, which the Lord hath chosen, hee hath even cast them off: thus they have despised my people, that they should be no more a nation before them.

25 Thus saith the Lord, If my covenant be not with day and night, and if I have not appointed the order of heaven and earth, 26 Then will I cast away the seed of Jaakob, and David my servant, and not take of his seed to be rulers over the seed of Abraham, Izhak, and Jaakob: for I will cause their captivitie to returne, and have compassion on them.

CHAP. XXXIV.

2 He threatneth that the citie, and the King Zedekiah shall be given into the hands of the King of Babylon.

The word which came unto Jeremiah from the Lord (when Nebuchadrezzar king of Babel, and all his hostes, and all the kingdomes of the earth, that were under the power of his hand, and all people fought against Jerusalem, and against all the cities thereof) saying,

2 Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Goe, and speake to Zedekiah king of Judah,

1 That is, I will send the Messiah, which shall come, of the house of David, of whom this prophesie is meant, as testifie all the Jewes, and that which is written in Chapt.

2.5. m To wit, Christ that shall call his Church.

n That is, Christ is our Lord God, our righteousness, sanctification, and redemption, 1 Cor. 1.30.

o This is chiefly meant of the spiritual sacrifice of thanksgiving which is left to the Church in the time of Christ, who was the everlastig Priest, and the everlasting sacrifice, figured by the sacrifices of the Law, p. Reade Chapt. 31.35.

q Meaning, the Caldeans & other infidels, which thought God had utterly cast off Judah and Israel or Benjamin, because he did correct them for a time for their amendment.

2 Who commonly of Jeremiah was called Nebuchadrezzar, and of others Nebuchad-nassar.

c Reade Chapt. 31.24. d The Jews think to overcome the Caldeans but they seeke their owne destruction.

e He sheweth, that Gods favour is cause of all prosperitie, as his anger is of all adversitie. f In the time of his threatnings, God remembereth his, and comforteth them.

g Declaring, that there is no deliverance nor joy, but whereas wee seeke remission of sinnes.

h Whereby hee sheweth, that the Church wherein is remission of sinnes, is Gods honour and glorie, so that whoe so ever is enemie to it, labourerth to dishonour God.

i Which was a song appointed for the Levites to praise God by, 1 Chron. 16.8. Psal. 105.1. 136.4. Psal. 106.1. and 107.1. and 118.1. and 136.1.

k Meaning, that all the countrey of Judah shall be inhabited againe.

dah, and tell him, Thus saith the Lord, Behold, * I will give this citie into the hand of the King of Babel, and he shall burne it with fire,

3 And thou shalt not escape out of his hand, but shalt surely be taken, and delivered into his hand, and thine eyes shall behold the face of the King of Babel, and he shall speak with thee mouth to mouth, and thou shalt goe to Babel.

4 Yet heare the word of the Lord, O Zedekiah, King of Judah: thus saith the Lord of thee, Thou shalt not die by the sword;

b Not of any violent death.

5 But thou shalt die in peace, and according to the burning of thy fathers the former Kings which were before thee: so shall they burne odours for thee, and they shall lament thee, saying, Oh lord: for I have pronounced the word, saith the Lord.

c The Jews shall lament for thee their lord and King.

6 Then Jeremiah the Prophet spake all these words unto Zedekiah King of Judah in Jerusalem.

7 (When the king of Babels hoste fought against Jerusalem, and against all the cities of Judah, that were left even against Lachish, and against Azekah: for these strong cities remained of the cities of Judah)

8 This is the word that came unto Jeremiah from the Lord, after that the king Zedekiah had made a covenant with all the people, which were at Jerusalem, a to proclaime libertie unto them, d When the enemy was at hand, and they saw themselves in danger, they would seeme Holy, and to begin some kind of reformation: but soone after they entered their hypocrisie.

9 That everie man should let his servant goe free, and everie man his handmaid, which was an Ebrew or an Ebrewesse, and that none should serve himsele of them, to wit, of a Jew his brother.

e According to the law, Exod. 21. 21 Deut. 15. 12.

10 Now when all the Princes, and all the people which had agreed to the covenant, heard that everie one should let his servant goe free, and everie one his handmaid, and that none should serve themselves of them any more, they obeyed and let them goe.

f They returned.

11 But afterward they + repented and caused the servants and the handmaids, whom they had let goe free, to returne, and held them in subjection as servants and handmaids.

12 Therefore the word of the Lord came unto Jeremiah from the Lord, saying, g Or bondage.

13 Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, I made a covenant with your fathers, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of + servants, saying, h Deut. 15. 12.

14 At the terme of seven years let ye goe everie man his brother an Ebrew, which hath beene sold unto thee: and when he hath served thee six years, thou shalt let him goe free from thee: but your fathers obeyed me not, neither inclined their eares.

15 And ye were now turned, and had done right in my sight in proclaimeing libertie every man to his neighbour, and yee had made a covenant before mee in the house, whereupon my Name is called.

i Meaning, in the Temple, to declare that it was a most solemne and strait covenant, made in the Name of the Lord.

16 But ye repented, and poluted my Name: for ye have caused everie man his servant, and everie man his hand-maid, whom ye had set at libertie at their pleasure, to returne, and hold them in subjection, to be unto you as servants and as handmaids.

17 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Yee have not obeyed me, in proclaimeing freedome everie man to his brother, and everie man to his neighbour: behold, I proclaime a libertie for you, saith the Lord, to the sword, to the pestilence, and to the famine, and I will make you a terrour to all the kingdomes of the earth.

j That is, I give the sword libertie to destroy you.

18 And I will give those men that have broken my covenant, and have not kept the words of the covenant which they had made before me, when they h cut the calfe in twaine, and passed betweene the parts thereof.

h As touching this manner of a solemne covenant which the ancient used by passing betweene the two parts of a beast, to signifie that the transgressors of the same covenant should be so divided in pieces, see Gen. 15. 10.

19 The princes of Judah, and the princes of Jerusalem, the Eunuches, and the Priests, and all the people of the land, which passed betweene the parts of the calfe, 20 I will even give them into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of them that seeke their life, and their dead bodies shall be for meate unto the fowles of the heaven, and to the beasts of the earth.

21 And Zedekiah King of Judah, and his Princes will I give into the hands of their enemies, and into the hand of them that seeke their life, and into the hand of the king of Babels hoste, which are gone up from you.

i To fight against the Egyptians, as Chap. 37. 11.

22 Behold, I will command, saith the Lord, and cause them to returne to this citie, and they shall fight against it, and take it, and burne it with fire, and I will make the cities of Judah desolate without an inhabitant.

XXXV.
The prophecie of the obedience of the Rechabims, and thereby confounding the pride of the Jews.

The word which came unto Jeremiah from the Lord, in the days of Jehojakim the sonne of Josiah, King of Judah, saying, k For the disposition and order of these propheties, read Chap. 30. 1.

^b They came of Hobab Mo'es father in law, who was no Israelite, but after joynd with them in the service of God.

2 Goe unto the house of the^b Rechabites, and speake unto them, and bring them into the house of the Lord, into one of the chambers, and give them wine to drinke.

3 Then tooke I Jaazaniah, the sonne of Jeremiah the sonne of Habazziniah, and his brethren, and all his sonnes, and the whole house of the Rechabites,

4 And I brought them into the House of the Lord, into the chamber of the sons of Hanan, the sonne of Igdaliah a^c man of God, which was by the chamber of the Princes, which was above the chamber of Maafajah the sonne of Shallum, the keeper of the^d treasure.

5 And I set before the sonnes of the house of the Rechabites pots full of wine, and cups, and^d said unto them, Drinke wine.

6 But they said, Wee will drinke no wine: for^e Jonadab the son of Rechab our father commanded us, saying, 'Yee shall drinke no wine, neither you nor your sonnes for ever.

7 Neither shall you build house, nor sow seed, nor plant vineyard, nor have any, but all your dayes you shall dwell in tents, that ye may live a long time in the land where ye be strangers.

8 Thus have we obeyed the voice of Jonadab the sonne of Rechab our father, in all that he hath charged us, and we drink no wine all our daies, neither we, our wives, our sons, nor our daughters.

9 Neither build we houses for us to dwell in, neither have we vineyard, nor field, nor seed,

10 But we have remained in tents, and have obeyed, and done according to^s all that Jonabab our father commanded us.

11 But when Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel came up into the land, wee said, Come, and let us goe to Jerusalem, from the hofte of the Caldeans, and from the hofte of Aram: so we^h dwell at Jerusalem.

12 Then came the word of the Lord unto Jeremiah, saying,

13 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel, Goe, and tell the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, Will ye not receive doctrine to obey my words, saith the Lord?
